NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Intemperance has spread to such an extent among boys and girls in Austria that the Vienna school board is again moving to have a law enacted prohibiting the sale of intoxicants to children under fifteen years of age.

Why is a negro's skull harder and thicker than a white man's? Herodotus explained it by attributing it to the early exposure of African children to the heat of the sun; and Professor Virchow, after his trip up the Nile, sides with the Greek historian.

Clerical Man—"Can I get a job to raise a little religious enthusiasm in your church?" Deacon—"Who are you?" "I am a boy preacher." "What is your age?" "Sixty-five." "You won't do. We don't employ any boy preachers under seventy this year.—Texas Siftings.

Isaac Pitman, the inventor of the system of shorthand writing that bears his name, is a good example of vigorous and industrious old age. He is past 76 years of age and works daily from 6 in the morning to 6 in the evening. He used to work from 6 in the morning until 10 at night, but now he says that he is getting too old to work all day.

In a conversation touching the qualifications of a man who was recently appointed resident minister and consul-general to one of the petty European courts, a Washingtonian who knew him well said: "I don't wish to cast any reflection on what he knows, but if he only knew what he does not know he would be one of the wisest men in the world."

A bombshell has been thrown into the scientific world through the discovery of Mr. Brereton Baker, of Dulwich College, about oxygen. That gas, which is known as the great agent of combustion, loses its character when dried. It becomes inert. Even charcoal will not burn in it when heated to redness, nor phosphorous become luminous. As yet there is no explanation.

A distinguished lawyer of Brooklyn said: "Not long ago I was talking with Mr. Blaine about Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll, whom we both very greatly admire for his wonderful talents. I made the remark that it was my belief that Colonel Ingersoll would ultimately renounce his agnosticism. Mr. Blaine said: 'I think so, too, and I shouldn't be surprised to see him some day in the pulpit.'"

Many a child goes astray simply because home lacks sunshine. A child needs smiles as much as flowers need sunshine. If home is the place where faces are sour and words harsh and fault finding is ever going on, children spend as many hours as possible elsewhere. Let every father and mother then try to be happy; let them look happy; let them talk to their children, especially the little ones, in such a way as to make them happy.—Ex.

A call has been issued to Spiritualists throughout the world to attend a universal conference of believers at Paris in September. The fundamental principles of belief which shall entitle delegates to representation in that unique body are: First, the immortality of the soul; second, the communion with those who have passed away into spirit land; third, our responsibility for all thoughts and deeds, and fourth, the fact that we have a spiritual as well as a physical body.

The senior officer of the British navy, both as regards rank and age, is Admiral Sir Provo Wallis, who was a lieutenant on board the Shannon when she captured the American frigate Chesapeake, June 1, 1813. Both the captain and the first lieutenant having been placed hors de combat early in the engagement, he assumed the command and won the victory in that memorable action. Born in 1791, he is now 98 years of age, and although bedridden has retained all his mental faculties. He holds the rank of admiral of the fleet, which is equivalent to that of a field marshal in the army.

It is proposed in Montreal, says an exchange, that each alderman wear a badge in order that he may be distinguished from the ordinary ratepayer, and that he may receive from policemen, firemen, and the public generally the deference due to the municipal rank. The idea is novel and not at all bad. In olden times an alderman was distinguished from common mortals by his massive proportions. But lately the electors have been voting in municipal contests regardless altogether of the size and weight of the candidates. The result now-a-days is that one may pass an alderman on the street without knowing it. If a tag be attached to each city father this sort of thing will not occur again. It is not proposed that there be a number on the badge. The intention is to have a plain label informing the public that the wearer is an alderman.

Job printing of all kinds neatly done at the COLUMBIAN office. Prices will be found as low as at any other office in the province.—Adv

STRIKING LABORERS

Are Run Out of Camp at Johnstown by Soldiers at the Point of the Bayonet.

The Odors of Decaying Flesh at the Scene of the Disaster are Becoming Terrible.

Liberal Subscriptions for Johnstown and Seattle Continue to be Received.

AT THE BAYONET'S POINT.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 13.—At 10:30 o'clock a gang of about a hundred men were put at work on the wreck near the general office of the Cambria Iron Co. This morning a large company of laborers from Greensburg refused to go to work at $1.50 per day, claiming they had been promised fifty cents per day extra. On hearing this, Gen. Hastings ordered a company of militia to the camp of the strikers, who again refused to go to work, whereupon the soldiers were ordered to charge upon them, running them out of the camp at the point of the bayonet. The day is growing very warm and the odors from decaying flesh are becoming terrible.

APPOINTMENES.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The president to-day made the following appointments: Mark D. Flower, of Minnesota, supervising inspector of steam vessels at St. Paul; third lieutenants in the revenue service, E. P. Berholf, R. O. Crisp, F. G. Dodge, L. L. Robinson and P. H. Brerton.

CONVICTED OF FELONY.

NEW YORK, June 13.—Frank Templeton, convicted of felony in accusing Inspector Byrnes and District Attorney Fellows, of being in conspiracy to defraud the city treasury, was sentenced to-day to states prison for 3 years and 9 months

FOR ALASKA BOUND.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—The str. Bertha which arrived from Kodiak, on Monday, leaves for Alaska on Monday with the surveying party, which will establish a new boundary line of territory. On the return of the Bertha she will load for the Karluk Canning Co.'s canneries at Kodiak. Several fish commissioners were expected to leave on the Bertha for Alaska in the interests of the government, but they have not yet arrived.

STOCKTON'S NATURAL GAS SUPPLY.

STOCKTON, Cal., June 12.—The gasometer at the Haas gas well in this city was completed yesterday, and connection made so that the flow of the gas well was turned in a receiver, which has a capacity of twenty-two thousand feet. It was filled in 6 hours showing the flow from the well was between 8000 and 9000 cubic feet per day. Connections are being made now so customers can be supplied with light and fuel as soon as possible. A practical test made by filling the gasometer shows that the flow has not been over estimated and that the well can supply enough gas for the city's use for some time. The insane asylum directors at their regular meeting at this city decided to advertise for bids to bore for dry gas on the asylum grounds. They intend boring 12 wells and the bid calls for a depth that will go through the rock, that experts claim overlies dry gas. This action is taken in view of the $40,000 appropriated by the last legislature for this purpose. The progress of this well will be watched here and on this coast with much interest.

THE JURY DISAGREES.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—The jury in the case of Henry F. Price, a young attorney, who forged Judge Coffey's name to an order for $350, disagreed and was discharged. Price was taken back to jail.

TO COMPETE FOR THE AMERICA CUP.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—It is reported Joseph McDonough, an Oakland a capitalist, intends to build a yacht to compete with the English yacht Valkyrie, for the America cup. Mr. McDonough states that he has consulted boat builders and if the plans suit him, he will probably enter the yacht. He would like the race to come off on this side of the continent.

AN ATTORNEY ARRESTED FOR FORGERY.

OAKLAND, Cala., June 12.—A warrant has been issued for G. W. Silver, an Alameda attorney, charging him with having forged the names of B. McKinne and Stanton L. Carter, to affidavits stating they were present in the court when Silver was admitted to practice. Proceedings are pending before Judge Ellsworth to have Silver adjudged guilty of contempt of court in practicing law without a license. One affidavit was acknowledged before Notary I. B. Harris and the other before Notary Haulon, of San Francisco.

ARRESTED FOR OPIUM SMUGGLING.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—Arthur Finnington, who was arrested last night for drunkenness, and in whose possession was found a satchel containing over $300 worth of opium, was turned over to the federal authorities to day. He was identified as the fireman on the steamer Walla Walla and is waiting a hearing before the U. S. circuit court commissioner. He tells a fishy story about how he came in possession of the drug.

PRACTICAL SYMPATHY.

TULARE, Cal., June 12.—Tulare telegraphed $238.55, to Governor Beaver, Harrisburg, for the Johnstown sufferers, making a total of $778.55.

S. F. SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR JOHNSTOWN AND SEATTLE.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—The executive committee of the Pennsylvania relief fund reports subscriptions still coming, but rather slowly; so far $40,000 has been sent to Johnstown and $10,000 to Seattle sufferers and there is still $15,000 on hand.

DIFFICULTY IN SECURING SITES.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—Supt. J. B. Wright, of the Sacramento division of the Southern Pacific Co., and one of the commissioners of Ukiah insane asylum, in an interview said no site for the asylum was yet obtained. The legislature appropriated $300,000 and land owners have raised the price of their property. The commissioners of the Southern California Asylum are having the same difficulty. A site can be had at Ukiah for $35,000, but in San Bernardino County $100,000 is required. Governor Waterman's Warm Springs property, near San Bernardino City was looked at and is being favorably considered.

STATES PRISON DIDN'T CURE HIM.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—W. Reynolds, who was employed as a planer by Chase & Young, wood turners, corner Beale and Mission streets, is missing since Saturday and it is suspected of being another case of safe robbery. Saturday, when a member of the firm opened the safe, $265, with which the workmen were to be paid, was missing. A jeweller who trusted Reynolds for $100 now mourns his loss. Detectives say Reynolds is an ex-convict named Reno and think he has gone north.

OTTAWA NOTES.

OTTAWA, June 12.—Mr. Chisholm, M. P., leaves Monday for Banff en route home.

At the Anti-Jesuit convention at Toronto to-day the organization committee presented a report. It recom*mended the adoption of the following* scheme: The formation of a provincial association to be known as the Equal Rights Association, branches to be formed in townships, villages, towns, cities or other municipalities, each branch to have a chairman, secretary, treasurer, executive committee and send delegates to the district council, of which the headquarters are to be at the country town or other equally convenient place. These district councils in turn will send delegates to the provincial council or governing body, which will meet annually or at such other times as shall be deemed expedient by the executive committee. This committee shall be elected by the provincial council and be composed of thirty members. The formation of a Dominion association on similar lines is suggested. The discussion of the report was deferred until after the adoption of the various resolutions. It was decided to petition for the disallowance of the act.

He Shot at Flies But Killed Himself.

Last evening shortly before 7 o'clock James Malcolm, son of John Malcolm, accidentally shot and killed himself in his father's house on Nicol street. It appears that the deceased had been on a spree since Saturday afternoon. Returning home early Sunday morning he quarrelled with his younger brother and snapped a rifle at him, but fortunately the weapon was not loaded. Retiring to bed he continued his spree until about six oclock in the evening, when having obtained possession of an old-fashioned Colts army revolver he commenced firing. Being asked what he was trying do, he said he was shooting flies. The other members of the family, fearing for their lives, left the house. Some few minutes after the firing ceased, a brother, looking into the room, saw James lying on the bed dead. Deceased was about twenty-three years of age, and had been married five years, but separated from his wife some two years ago, since when he has been very despondent and ac*cidentally ended his life during a spree* as above stated.—Nanaimo Free Press.

British Columbia Exhibit.

The following circular letter in connection with the forthcoming exhibition to be held in Toronto, and for which entries of specimens are requested, has been forwarded by his worship Mayor Oppenheimer, through his secretary, W. Seitz, to a large number of gentlemen in every district of the province.

DEAR SIR,—I beg to request that you will without delay send some specimens from your mine or claim, together with a description of its location, a statement of assays (if any) and other interesting details as to width and depth of vein and other particulars. This will enable the executive committee to form a thoroughly representative collection of our minerals, in time to exhibit the same before they are sent to Toronto, and further, it will enable me to commence the foundation of a mineralogical museum at Vancouver. Specimens should be about the weight of ten pounds, but should not exceed fifteen pounds, except in extraordinary occurences, when a larger display is desirable. If properly packed and addressed "B. C. Exhibit, City Hall, Vancouver, B. C.," all transportation companies will conveyy the exhibit gratis as per arrangement.

Sapperton School Report.

Sapperton school district was formed about one year ago, the first annual meeting being held on the 18th of June, 1888, in the office of the Brunnette Saw Mill Co., and trustees then first elected.

Mr. H. V. Edmonds having kindly donated a lot for the school house, the government had the building erected and the school was opened on the 13th of August. Miss E. Bell was engaged as teacher and has given entire satisfaction to the board. Only one complaint was entered by parents, and that being investigated by the board was found to have originated in a misunderstanding of the rules of the school by the parties making the complaint.

Sapperton having been incorporated with the City of New Westminster, the school board on the 11th of May 1889, asked to be relieved of the charge of the school and that it should be placed under the control of the school board of said city, and on the 25th of May the secretary was notified by the superintendent of education that the above mentioned change had been made.

The average attendance at the Sapperton school the first month was 13.72 and the last month (April), 18.45.

Our secretary will hand over to the city board all the books and documents in his possession belonging to the Sapperton school.

Trustees, { GEORGE MACKENZIE, W. T. L. HOUSE, J. B. KENNEDY, Sec-Treas.

The great Anti-Jesuits Estates' convention at Toronto opened on Tuesday There was a large attendance of delegates from all over Ontario. Strong resolutions were passed, condemning the Jesuits Estates' act and calling for its disallowance. A tremendous public meeting was held in the evening. John Charlton, M. P., Col. O'Brien, M. P., and Dr. Davidson were the principal speakers. The meeting was most enthusiastic.

PITIFUL SCENES

At Armagh, Ireland, Owing to the Railway Collision Yesterday. 74 Victims.

A Vienna Despatch States that Russia is Making Prepartions for War.

Gladstone in Danger.—A Bomb Thrown at His Carriage in a Cornish Town.

THE ARMAGH COLLISION.

DUBLIN, June 13.—The number of victims by the railroad collision near Armagh yesterday, now aggregates 74. The latest addition to the list of dead is a boy named Cleland, whose parents and two brothers were killed in the accident. Cleland died to-day from the injuries received. A number of others injured are in a critical condition. The scenes around the infirmary at Armagh to-day were pitiful in the extreme. Crowds of anxious relatives and friends were inquiring for missing children.

THE SEAMEN'S STRIKE.

GLASGOW, June 13.—The strike of seamen on the Clyde continues unabated. The strikers to-day seized and burned a van en route to the Anchor Line Company's sheds, containing provisions for imported laborers at work. Strikers to the number of 6,000 are congregated around the harbor.

THE STRIKERS SOLID.

LIVERPOOL, June 13.—The agents of the steamship lines are experiencing great trouble in obtaining hands for vessels. The striking seamen present a solid front at all ports, and show no signs of yielding. The only break in their ranks reported occurred at Queentown. At that port the Anchor Line steamship City of Rome, succeeded in inducing seven firemen to ship on that vessel to-day, completing her complement of hands and she proceeded on her way to New York. Fourteen sailers are also waiting at Queenstown to join the crew of the City of New York of the Inman Line when she reaches that port.

THE AMERICAN ENGINEERS.

LONDON, June 13.—Lord Brassey will hold a reception in honor of the American engineers on Saturday night.

RELEASED FROM CONFINEMENT.

VIENNA, June 13.—Premier Garashanin, of Servia, against whom the violence of the riot was mainly directed during the recent disorders in Belgrade, has been released from confinement. He was taken in custody really to save his life, as the rioters had destroyed his house and thirsted for his blood.

THE CAB STRIKE.

PARIS, June 13.—The strike of cab drivers throughout the city is complete. Not a public carriage of any kind is to be had for love or money. It causes great inconvenience, especially to the multitude of visitors now in the city. Parisians resort to the omni*bus lines, the train way and river* steamers, but they are over crowded and cannot accomodate more than a third of the traffic. There is a great outcry.

PREPARING FOR WAR.

VIENNA, June 13.—It is understood here that Russia is at this moment making extensive preparations for war at an early date. It is reported immense quantities of fodder are being stored all along the Western Railway system which can mean nothing but military activity. Four millions of pairs of boots have been ordered to be delivered within 2 months from date. A large increase in the Russian artillery is contemplated. General Gourko's proposition to erect a new series of fortifications in Poland has been adopted; these will cost from twenty to thirty million roubles in the construction of the works, and will begin immediately in the Warsaw district.

It is reported here that the Empress of Germany and Queen of Italy are going to meet at Kissingen this summer.

THE G. O. M. IN DANGER.

LONDON, June 13.—While Gladstone was passing through the town of Wadebridge, Cornwall, to-day, a missile, believed to be a live cartridge, was thrown at his carriage. The missile did no harm. The police are investigating the matter.

LORD CECIL DROWNED.

PIRTON, June 13.—Lord A. P. Cecil, the Evangelist, was drowned yesterday, in the bay of Quinte, near Adolphustown, about six miles east of here. The body has not been recovered.

THE SAMOAN CONFERENCE.

BERLIN, June 13.—The American delegates to the Samoan conference have received the instructions which they expected from Washington regarding the protocol drawn up by the conference. The government at Washington disagrees in several points of the protocol. Objection is made that England and Germany have not gone far enough in their concessions of the rights of America. The delegates will hold another meeting to-day at which the United States' answer will be received. The English and German de*legates will then consider what course* they will pursue. The continuance of the conference depends upon the attitude of England and Germany.

The Victoria Times of a recent date quotes the following paragraph from an exchange: "The Manhattan Single tax Club, of New York City, has purchased seventeen hundred acres of land in the town of Forestburgh, Sullivan county, and will erect club houses, etc." The Times then makes a suggestion on the strength of the above, which strikes us as a good one, to wit, that the disciples of Henry George and the single tax should pool their issues, obtain a grant of land somewhere and put their theories into practice. Assuming "that the consummation of the single tax doctrine will be long delayed, that in fact it will never be accepted until there has been a practical demonstration of it except by such persons as have everything to gain and nothing to lose by its introduction," the Times makes the suggestion as above. There is no reason why this could not be done, our cotemporary says, and thinks that two generations would demonstrate the practicability, or the reverse, of the single tax system. "If there are insuperable objections to forming a colony of this description on this continent, suggests the Times further, "why not the Georgites club together and buy the Sandwich Islands, and set up in business for themselves?" "Let a hundred thousand single tax advocates club together and purchase the Sandwich Islands," the Times concludes. Seriously, we believe the general idea of our cotemporary's suggestion is a good one.

In considering the "earth closet" suggestion of our correspondent, "Taurus," the other day, we stated that the only conclusion we could reach, from a careful perusal of our correspondent's letter, was that his "argument practically amounted to the advocacy of a system of earth closets and wells as a substitute in this city for sewerage and water works," and we added that we held ourselves subject to correction if this was not a fair brief statement of our correspondent's contention. In a communication to-day "Taurus" says we did misconstrue his meaning, to quote from the letter, "in fancying that I advocated a system of wells as opposed to water works." We do not see why our correspondent should trouble himself about what he imagines we "fancied." We never said what he thinks we fancied, and our correspondent has not seen fit to contradict what we termed a "fair brief statement" of his argument, viz., that it "practically amounted to the advocacy of a system of earth closets and wells," &c. However, we have now the benefit of our correspondent's explanation, which, taken with his original letter, we are willing to admit, makes his meaning plainer. We have to thank our correspondent, though, before taking leave of him, for so kindly undertaking to correct us in a certain matter. "Mr. Editor," he says, "I would call your attention to a very egregious error when you style this system (earth closets) a 'make-shift,' when it is the one adopted by a city like Sheffield, England, with most satisfactory results" It is almost a pity that our correspondent cannot cite more instances of cities of importance adopting the earth closet system. To mention those that have adopted other systems would take more space than we can spare. We do not recollect, and our correspondent does not state, how long since Sheffield adopted the system in question. It is to be hoped, however, for the credit of the earth closet system, that it has quite recently been adopted, for Sheffield has had the unenviable reputation of having the highest mortality rate among the largest cities of England, notoriously and authoritatively owing to its bad drainage. We hope this is not the "most satisfactory results" hinted at by our correspondent. An undertaker might view a high mortality rate with a sort of subdued satisfaction, from whatever cause, but it is not a recommendation for a city.

The terrible Pennsylvania floods disaster is one of those events that cannot be forgotten or lightly dismissed from the mind, and with Seattle's recent all but extinction by fire (which, however, constitutes an ordinary casualty by comparison), continues to absorb a large share of public notice and comment. Our despatches a few days ago stated that the coroner's jury investigating the Johnstown disaster—which was rendered the most terrible in all the category of horrors by the floods by the bursting of a large reservoir above the town—threw the whole blame upon a certain sporting association—the South Fork Fishing and Hunting Club—for criminal negligence in failing to keep the reservoir dam in proper repair. Referring to the disaster an American cotemporary thinks the occurrence should lead to the establishment of a system of inspection of the storage reservoirs which are so common in the older states of the union. Most of these are described as artificial, the usual method of making them being by the construction of a heavy dam of earthwork or masonry across a narrow valley. The flow of the stream through a valley blocked in this manner is checked, and the waters spread over many acres and not unusually over many miles. These reservoirs were in many cases used as feeders for canals which have long since been abandoned. Their value as an aid to commerce has departed, and they are permitted to lie without attention or are sold to organizations of sportsmen who maintain them for the sake of the hunting and fishing which their waters afford and pay little attention to their condition. Of course many such reservoirs are still used as feeders for canals or for manufacturing purposes, but it is to be feared that the supervision exercised over even these is not by any means what it should be. The reservoir whose bursting caused the Johnstown disaster was a typical one. It was originally used as a canal feeder, but its use for this purpose had long since been discontinued and it had passed into the possession of an association of sportsmen. A single dam of earthwork and masonry held back a body of water which covered many square miles. It was perfectly understood that, if the dam should break, this vast body of water would sweep down the valley of the Conemaugh, carrying destruction to a dozen towns and villages. That wall alone stood between a rich and populous valley and destruction. More than this, it was known that the dam was in an unsafe condition. Over and over again it had been reported that it was about to burst, and the people of the valley had become so accustomed to such reports that they no longer heeded them. At last the dam actually did burst. The people were warned of their danger in time to have reached places of safety, but there had been so many previous alarms that they did not heed this one, and they perished by thousands. The carelessness with which this reservoir, with its frail dam, was regarded by the people whose lives it threatened is not more remarkable than the indifference of those who owned it. For years it had been understood that the dam was unsafe, and that it was liable to burst at any time of unusually high water. Yet the dam went unrepaired, and the thousands who worked and played under it worked and played on, utterly regardless of danger, until destruction came in one wild burst, and workers and players together were swept into eternity. It is the obvious duty of the governments of the states in which such reservoirs exist to see either that they are destroyed in such a manner as not to endanger life or property, or that they are maintained in a safe condition. The dams should be frequently inspected and should be kept in such a state of repair as to render a disaster impossible. The Johnstown disaster was a terrible one, but it will not have been without its use if the lesson which it teaches is heeded.

EDISON'S COURTSHIP.

How the Wizard of Menlo Park Wooed His First Wife.

An old telegraph operator, who was stationed at Menlo Park when Edison first came there, entertained a New York Tribune reporter the other day with some stories about the wizard. He is an oddity, doing nothing in the common way and setting at naught all the conventionalities. The first Mrs. Edison was an operator in the Newark factory where Edison was making the machines to fill his first order for the stock indicator which brought him into notice and formed the basis of his fortune. She was a tall, fine-looking girl—one of a dozen sitting at a bench winding magnets. One day as Edison was walking down the line, that girl spoke up and bade him good morning without raising her eyes from her work.

"Good morning," said the inventor. "How did you know it was I?"

"Oh, I can always tell when you're near," was the reply.

"See here," said the man of inventions. "I've noticed you a good deal of late. Suppose you and I get married?"

"I'm ready."

"When shall it be?"

"Three weeks from to-night.

"All right!" and the inventor went on his rounds while his intended bride merrily wound away upon her bobbin of wire.

On the wedding day the first consignment of stock indicators came back from the purchaser, inoperative. When Mr. Batchelor, who has always been Edison's right hand man, when down to the shop after supper he found the inventor there in his dirtiest shop clothes tinkering away at the machines. Didn't he remember that it was his wedding night? No, he'd forgotten all about it. Batchelor dragged the lagging groom to the nearest clothing store, got him into a new suit, then to a barber shop, and finally put him on a car and shipped him off to the house of the bride. Then he went back to the shop to work, supposing that was the last of Edison for that night. In an hour or two, however, Edison rushed in again, threw his coat down on a greasy lathe, hung his waistcoat on the gas pipe, kicked his shoes under the bench, seized a file and went at the defective stock indicator as if there were no such thing as marriage and giving in marriage, and there he stayed with his faithful lieutenant till the morning sun looked in on two weary toilers and an electrical stock indicator that worked like a charm.

When wealth came to them, Mrs. Edison No. 1 betrayed a tendency to branch out in the social world, but it had no effect on the inventor's habits. One of the largest entertainments Newark ever saw was given at her house. All the leading men of the Edison works were there, but he was nowhere to be seen. His subordinates grew a little uneasy. A committee of them went over to his laboratory about midnight and there was the inventor, tipped back in a rickety old chair, in his shirt sleeves, his shoeless feet high up on the workbench, singing away into his phonograph at the top of his voice, happy as a clam at high tide.

The present Mrs. Edison sticks to her husband like a shadow. She is always at his elbow in working hours, with book and pencil, taking down his ideas and experiments. She is, in fact, a helpmate in every way worthy of his abilites.

COLLIE'S RECEPTION.

The Latest Fad of One of New York's Ultra-Fashionable Women.

One of Gotham's social headlights, says the Mail and Express, gave a reception a few evenings since in honor of the birthday of her pet collie, Robert Bruce, who deported himself with such aristocratic bearing that he quite won the hearts of the fifty guests. He assisted his mistress in receiving with the ease and elegance of one whose social status was well defined.

The dame made a courtesy,
The dog made a bow;
The dame said "your servant;"
The dog said "bow wow."

Taking the numerous packages handed him by the guests he tore the papers off and placed the contents carefully on a table prepared for their reception. These gifts consisted of collars, blankets, pillows, chains, ribbons, and several boxes daintily bed contained bonbons, of which Bruce is particularly fond. Nearly every person present had a canine attachment of some sort. There were blue skyes, with the most approved bangs and the handsomest collars, Yorkshire terriers of which you could not tell head from tail, educated terriers, audacious-looking pugs, with their noses high in air, as if it was a condescension on their part to mingle with the masses; benevolent-looking Newfoundlands, who acted as a great many people do at afternoon teas, as if it was the proper thing to be there, but an awful bore. French poodles, whose white coats harmonized with the latest fad in furniture, walked around on their hind legs carrying baskets of cut flowers, from which each lady was expected to help herself.

The collars of these petted darlings were of every conceivable shape and material, from the massive gold band with its diamond setting, to the russet leather belt with its ornamental spikeheads. Not less expensive were the blankets which covered them, many being made of beaver, sealskin, plush and richly embroidered velvet. When the refreshments were passed, there burst upon the ear a perfect pandemonium of sounds. The entertainment was unique and highly enjoyable, and as each canine dropped his card at the feet of the hostess, and made his adieux, it was with the tacit understanding that he had had a jolly good time, and hoped that her example might be soon followed by others.

Science of the Brain.

Paul Broca's discovery that the brain is a congeries of organs, each having its special function, is being confirmed by later researches. Prof. Mathias Duval has had the opportunity of determining—by the post-mortem examination of eleven persons who, during life, had been accidentally deprived of the faculties of speech or the memory of words or certain letters of the alphabet—that the faculties of speech and memory of words reside in the second and third convolutions of the brain. In each case examined there had been injury or disease of these convolutions, destroying their functions. Comparing Gambetta's brain with that of the late Dr. Bertillon, an eminent statesman, Duval and Chudzinsky found that in the brain of the former the third or "Broca's convolution"—as the speech-center is now called—is extremely developed, while in Bertillon's it is reduced to its most simple expression. Gambetta was active and loquacious; Bertillon reticent and retiring—the oratorical qualities of the two men were diametrically opposite, and this result is now seen to be due to the physical conformations of their respective brains.

Gambetta and the Bootblack.

A Russian Count who lives in Paris has contributed an article to the Deutsche Revue, in which this anecdote of Gambetta is related: One day the Count took a walk with Gambetta, when the latter accidentally noticed his boots. He called on a street porter and put his foot on his stool and the porter cleaned it. But when Gambetta offered to pay him for it the porter refused to accept it, but kissed the handle of his brush and said it should henceforth be a valuable relic, for it had had the honor of polishing the boots of le heros de France. Gambetta appeared to be deeply moved by this homage. He shook the man's hand and invited him to a neighboring tavern, where the three drank a bottle of wine together. Then Gambetta gave the porter a pipe and bade him good-bye.

Sleeping in a Grave.

The strange habit of an aged Albany woman of using the rural cemetery for a dormitory on special occasions has, according to the Albany Journal, come to light. The woman in question is a widow named Briggs, whose husband died about eight years ago and was buried in the cemetery. For some time she has been in the habit of making two-day pilgrimages to her husband's grave. She always carries with her a sufficient quantity of food to last through her vigil, and blankets to serve as a covering during the night. She claims that she spends the night in converse with her departed spouse.

ALBERT J. HILL & COMPANY

OF NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C.

The advantages and prospects of this Plot for a future thriving Town are many.

The Land in the vicinity is good.

There are inexhaustible IRON ORE DEPOSITS, of a superior quality, immediately adjacent, as well as vast strata of the finest BUILDING SAND and POTTERY CLAY.

On the Townsite are a number of valuable MINERAL SPRINGS.

Communication by land and water is unequalled, by reason of the location of the Townsite on the Fraser River and the Southern Railway, while the natural elevation and lay of the land can not be excelled as a situation for a fine town.

The ground is open and clear of heavy timber.

The site has been selected as one of the most important stations on the Southern Railway, and with the completion of the road, in the near future, must, with all its other advantages, spring into prominence at once.

Those who apply early will have the pick of the Lots.

A clear title given with every purchase.

The inquest in the case of the railway accident at Junction Cut, near Hamilton, on the 28th April last, is concluded. It is the opinion of the jury that the accident was caused by the breaking of the flange of a wheel of the engine truck.

An inquest into the cause of death of Chan Ah Ceung was held at the provincial jail yesterday at 11 o'clock by Dr. William Jackson, coroner. The jury found that the Chinaman came to his death by strangulation by his own hand, and completely exonerated the jail officers from any blame.—Colonist.

Mr. Joseph Davis has on exhibition in Lyal's window a splendid photographic view of the city of Westminster. It was taken from the other side of the river, and is the best view ever obtained of the city. Comparing it with pictures taken only a year ago the change is marvellous, especially in the upper portion of the city. The picture is well worth the trouble of inspection.

George Freen, who recently arrived at Nanaimo from Vancouver, went bathing with a companion in Fish-hook Lake, Cedar district, on Sunday afternoon, and while wading into the lake he stepped off a ledge into deep water and was drowned. The young man, who was aged about 23 years, was unable to swim, and although his companion reached him a stick, he sank in a few minutes. The body was recovered on Monday morning and brought to Nanaimo, where it was interred after an inquest was held.

Assault Case.

The celebrated assault case of Pittendrigh vs. McCartney, came before the police magistrate this morning. It was expected the evidence would bring out some interesting information, and possibly a little scandal to delight the hearts of gossips, but all who thought such would be the case were disapointed. Mr. McCartney pleaded guilty to common assault and was fined $5, which amount was paid forthwith and the celebrated case finally disposed of.

Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

Last night at the Y.M.C.A. rooms an adjourned meeting of the board of directors was held, and the usual business transacted. The reports showed very encouraging progress in the work. After the meeting adjourned, the regular monthly meeting of the association was held and the same improvement in the affairs of the association was noticeable. Nine new members were elected. After the usual business, addresses were given by the president, Mr. D. S. Curtis, and by Messrs. Brown, Brydone-Jack, Crandell and Mathers. A vote of thanks was tendered the ladies central committee for their kindness in fitting up the members parlor. The meeting then adjourned with singing and prayer. At the next meeting of the association the subject of a new building will be discussed.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

Bush Fires.

The atmosphere was so thickly impregnated with smoke this morning that the Pitt mountains were invisible as were also the flats at the mouth of the river and the gulf. The area of land being cleared throughout the district this year is much greater than ever before, and it is principally from these clearing fires that the smoke comes. There are some small bush fires up the river, but none of importance, and it is not expected, with the care that is being taken, that there will be any serious forest fires in the district this summer.

An Artesian Well.

As our readers are aware the Oyster Harbor Coal Company are sinking bores on their property in the vicinity of Oyster Harbor. On Friday in the bore near Chemainus Bay, at a depth of 390 feet a stream of water was struck which forced itself with considerable power through the top of the rods thirty feet above the ground. It is mineral water with a strong smell of sulphur. The water was struck on Friday and on Sunday was running with apparently undimished force. Mayor Bate brought up a bottle full of the water yesterday and will have it analyzed.—Free Press.

The Lacrosse Club.

A well attended meeting of the lacrosse club was held last night, Mr. J. H. Harvey in the chair. Some 22 gentlemen were present and formally enrolled as members of the club. The annual membership fee was fixed at $2. A committee was appointed to prepare a constitution and by-laws to govern the club and report at the next meeting. A committee was also appointed to canvas for members, either honorary or active. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, 19th inst. The club has now got a good start, and it should receive the hearty support of all our citizens when the canvas for membership is made.

Sad Drowning Accident.

A sad drowning accident occurred at Chilliwhack on Sunday last which is deeply regretted by the whole community. A little girl named Eliza Gibson, daughter of Mr. Gibson, a well known and highly respected farmer, was playing with a number of children on the edge of Hope slough when she accidentally slipped off a log into the water and was drowned. Her playmates made unavailing efforts to rescue her, and an alarm was given, but help was useless when it arrived. At almost the same spot 12 years ago, on the day Eliza was born, her brother was drowned under similar circumstances. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson feel keenly their loss, in which they have the warmest sympathy of the whole settlement of Chilliwack.

Sir Leonard Tilley.

Sir. Leonard Tilley arrived in the city this morning from Victoria and was taken in hand by Mr. W. Norman Bole, M.P.P., and shown the sights of the city, with which he expressed himself as highly pleased. A visit was also paid to the Royal City Mills, and here Sir Leonard was fairly astonished at the wonerful size of the timber being cut up. After a pleasant drive Sir Leonard lunched with Mr. Bole and afterwards left by the 1 o'clock train for Ottawa. Before the departure of the train a number of citizens, one of whom was Mr. J. C. Armstrong, met Sir Leonard at the depot and had a quiet chat with him. He promised that on his next trip to the coast he would remain over several days at Westminster, so delighted was he with the beauty of our surroundings.

Crushed to Death.

At Johnston's Landing this morning, about 9 o'clock, while waiting for the arrival of the str. Gladys, Mrs. Terrisey of Port Haney and her four year old child took up their position on the shore close to the water's edge. As the steamer neared the landing place, the captain, it is stated, seeing the danger they stood in, warned them back, but they either did not hear or paid no heed to the warning. The result was that when the steamer's bow ran on the bank the child was knocked down and crushed into the sand and killed, while the poor woman was also so badly crushed that she may not recover. The body of the child was brought to this city for interment and Mrs. Terrisey was removed to St. Mary's hospital, where she is now under the care of Dr. Fagan. One of her legs is broken in two places, above and below the knee, and she is otherwise very seriously injured. It is probable an inquest will be held on the body of the child.

Seriously Stabbed.

Shortly after noon to-day Mr. Herbert Kirkland, manager of Deas Island cannery, was seriously stabbed by a Chinaman. The man was in the employ of the cannery and was under contract to work for a certain length of time, which period has not yet expired. This afternoon he packed up his dunnage and placed it in a canoe, intending to leave. Mr. Kirkland ordered him back and stepped up to the canoe to remove the baggage. At this moment the Chinaman stepped quickly forward and drawing a dirk plunged it into Mr. Kirkland's breast. The victim of this murderous assault fell to the ground, bleeding profusely, and the Chinaman realizing that he would suffer for his villainous act, threw himself in the river and attempted to commit suicide by drowning. He was quickly pulled out, however, and placed in custody. Mr. Kirkland was placed in a canoe and brought to this city for surgical assistance. Dr. Cooper was summoned and attended professionally to the wound. The doctor says the wound is serious, but not dangerous. It is about an inch long by two inches deep, and runs diagonally across the lower part of the right breast one inch below the stomach. Had the knife stuck an inch lower the result would have been fatal.

The Vancouver Fire.

Three years ago to-day Vancouver was swept by fire from end to end, and only a few houses left standing out of the several hundred which comprised that thriving city. Several thousand people were rendered homeless and in many cases destitute. Help arrived from all quarters and soon Vancouver was on its legs again, and since then the march of progress has proceeded without a check. In all the schemes which have been advanced to aid the city in the way of building roads and streets, making park improvements, erecting public buildings, bonusing industries etc., not a single ratepayer has put an obstacle in the road, and the result is that the city's prosperity has suffered no set-back. Want of patriotism has never yet been displayed by the Vancouverites, and probably never will. To-day Westminster voted almost unanimously in favor of improvements, which will be the means of greatly enhancing the value of property if they are allowed to be carried out immediately, and not subjected to vexatious hindrances which may have a killing effect on the growth of the city and discourage those who are prepared to make valuable improvements if all goes well. Westminster has enterprising neighbors, and if the royal city is to hold her own with the best of them, their progress must be allowed to advance unchecked.

Sumas Notes.

Crops in this locality are exceedingly good. No high water, no mosquitos, and nothing to mar the happiness and prosperity of our community.

Sumas settlement comprises 20,000 acres of land, held by purchase and pre-emption, which cannot be surpassed for richness of soil. 16,000 out of 20,000 is prairie, ready for the plow, if it were reclaimed from the overflow caused by the June freshets of the Fraser river. The valley is nearly surrounded by mountains. The distance to the dyke on the front along the Fraser river is only a mile and three-quarters. Only extreme high water damages the crops. The owners of the land offer to pay $100,000 to any company that will successfully dyke the land.

A tremendous fire has been burning in the Cascade mountains for the last ten days. It is thought by some that a volcano has broken out.

The apple crop will be small this season. Plums, prunes, and small fruits, promise an abundant crop.

Chadsey Bros. have lost a number of sheep, which were killed by a cougar. An Indian who went on the mountain to hunt the cougar found him devouring a sheep that he had packed up the mountain. The cougar attacked the Indian as soon as he discharged his gun, and had it not been for his dogs would have made hash of him.

One day last week five bears put in an appearance near Wm. Chadsey's residence. Before the Nimrods could collect the bears had taken leg bail for security.

A sad accident happened at Chilliwack on the 9th inst, a 11 year old daughter of Mr. B. Gibson lost her life by drowning.—COM.

Hanlan's Opinion of Searle.

Hanlan, who arrived at San Francisco from Australia on Saturday, is an enthusiastic admirer of Searle, the Australian sculler. "Searle is one of the most wonderful athletes Australia has produced," remarked Hanlan. "He far out-classes such men as Beach and Kemp, and no one will deny that both are great oarsmen. Searle has the advantage of a most powerful constitution, and is a phenomenal stayer. He is also a spurter of the most extraordinary kind. He starts away on a race at forty-five strokes to the minute, and will keep it up a couple of minutes, and then slow down to thirty-six, and still keep flying. After a while he runs up the stroke again to forty-five, and keeps alternating that way right through the race. The man that beats him is certainly entitled to the championship of the world. I know of no one who can beat him unless it is O'Connor. O'Connor has speed enough to keep even with Searle for a mile. I am certain of that, but it remains to be seen whether he can go the distance."

CORRESPONDENCE.

"Taurus" Explains his Position.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—DEAR SIR,—When I wrote my last letter, I did not presume I should have to follow it by another; but, through my negligence in not giving it a heading, I find that you, in an editorial, have misconstrued my meaning, in fancying that I advocated a system of wells as opposed to water works. I certainly said that I thought if the cesspools were cleaned and a system of earth closets introduced, the water in the wells might be safely drunk by those unable to avail themselves of the advantage of water works; but I did not for a moment advocate the entire use of wells. On the contrary, I am fully cognizant of the boon conferred by the former system. My object was to place before the public the advantages of the "dry earth" system as opposed to the soil sewerage by water works, viz.: the dry earth system could be inaugurated at once. The danger of polluting the river to the detrement of the salmon industry, and discomfort to those below us who use the water for drinking purposes, would be avoided. Thirdly, the entire absence of danger from typhoid or any zymotic descase being distributed from leakage or bad trapping of the flushing system; and, lastly, a source of revenue from the incenerated product of this system for agricultural purposes. Mr. Editor, I would call your attention to a very egregious error when you style this system a "make-shift," when it is the one adopted by a city like Sheffield, England, with most satisfactory results, and advocated by many of the leading sanitary authorities. I am without books of reference or I would go more into detail. I write my letter at this time as I presume a system of sewerage will naturally follow that of water. Because other large cities are expending large sums of money on sewerage—following in the wake of others—it does not follow that we should do likewise, when the innovation of a dry earth closet system would meet all requirements of health, comfort and economy, so much needed in this city at the present time. Thanking you for your space I am,

Yours truly, TAURUS.

STREETS AND WATER.

The Debenture By-Laws Carried by a Very Large Majority at the Polls To-Day.

Once More the People of the Royal City Uphold the Banner of Progress.

The city presented no unusual appearance to-day, although matters of the utmost importance to the future of the place were to be decided at the polls. "The debenture by-laws must carry," was the general expression, and citizen after citizen went up and voted in their favor. Even the ladies, bless their pretty faces, turned out in full force and voted solid for the by-laws, showing a spirit of pluck and progress which many of our citizens might well endeavor to emulate. There was an organized attempt to defeat the by-laws, but this movement was so weak that it can scarcely be said to have amounted to anything. The voting proceeded very quietly and the majority of votes cast were in before 2 o'clock. Everyone was cheerful and confident, and when the result was announced no surprise was exhibited, although a right royal cheer was given in honor of the occasion. Following is how the vote stood:

STREET AND PARK IMPROVEMENT BY-LAW

For	262
Against	40
Majority for by-law	222

WATER WORKS BY-LAW.
