NOTES AND COMMENTS.

S. L. Loomis, who predicted the result of the United States census of 1880 within 18,000 of the actual figures, estimates that the census of 1890 will show the population to be 67,250,000. That is an increase of more than 30 per cent. in ten years.

Miss de Vay is the only lady parachutist in the world. She is an Englishwoman, and performs with "Professor" Higgins. She recently descended at Liverpool from a height of two miles. She always straps herself to the ring of the parachute by a small belt, thus gaining the confidence necessary for a successful descent.

Says an exchange: The mode of manufacturing India ink has long been, and is still, a profound secret. All inducements hitherto held out by Europeans and Americans to the Chinese, who are the sole manufacturers, to reveal the nature of their operations have completely failed. All that we do know about India ink is, that it is prepared in some way or other from burnt camphor.

Miss Jennie Slack, aged sixteen years, residing in the blue-grass region of Iowa, near Villisca, has this season planted and cultivated thirty-five acres of corn, besides milking six cows night and morning and helping in other work about the farm and household. The corn is said to be in good condition, and the young lady who raised it has done so for her invalid father, who was unable to pay a hired man or to do it himself.

It is related of a clergyman, the happy father of a charming daughter, that, while preparing his Sunday discourse, he was suddenly called away from his desk, leaving unfinished this sentence: "I never see a young man of splendid physique and the promise of a glorious manhood almost realized but my heart is filled with rapture and delight." His daughter, hapening to enter the study, read the words. Sitting down, she wrote underneath, "My sentiments, papa, exactly."

To the estimable parrots who hold that passionate love is extinct in this country, we commend the daily papers and washing out their eyes occasionally. On a cursory glance, one jilted lover this month took strychnine, one Paris green, one hanged himself, two killed their successful rivals and one killed the newly-wedded breaker of his heart and injured her husband, and then shot himself. All this is not nice, but women can addle men's brains just as effectively as in the age of chivalry. —Ex.

A German savant has attempted to explain the comparative immunity of the beech tree from lightning by the hairiness of its leaves. He supports his suggestion by the results of experiments with oak leaves and beech leaves respectively, when placed on the conductor of an electrical machine. These hairs, he argues, prevent the occurrence of strong electrical concentration in the tree during a storm, in that, forming as they do a vast number of points, they discharge in a large measure the electricity which collects.

Mrs. Forsyth, the widowed daughter of a United States Consul and a beauty of Samoa, is an American, who at the age of thirty-six owns and manages tracts of 150,000 acres of fertile land. She employs hundreds of natives, builds and runs steamers, raises vast quantities of cotton, and with a partner controls one of the most extensive businesses in the South Sea Islands. She was of great assistance to the U.S. consul in the negotiations for securing the use of the harbor of Pago-Pago as a coaling station, and recently offered to our government twenty acres of her own property on the island of Malulu for another station. The American Consul at Sydney says that she is better informed on the trade and commerce of the South Sea Islands than any other American south of the equator.—Ex.

An exchange has the following real good thing of its kind: A certain pretentious shopper, after teasing the shopman of a millinery establishment beyond the forbearance limit, pompously ordered a reel of cotton to be sent to her house. It was agreed that she should be made an example of, and a warning to her kind. She was surprised, and her neighbors interested. Soon after she arrived home, a common dray, drawn by four horses, proceeded slowly to the door. On the dray, with bare arms, were a number of stalwart laborers. They were holding on vigorously to some object which she could not see. It was a most puzzling affair. The neighbors stared. After a deal of whip cracking and other impressive ceremonies the cart was backed against the kerb. There reposing calmly, end up, in the centre of the cart floor, was the identical reel of thread she had ordered. After a mortal struggle it was up-ended on the purchaser's doorstep. The fact that the purchaser came out a little later and kicked her property into the gutter detracted nothing from it.

At the great summer carnival at Hamilton, Ont., the Canadian amateur regatta was the big attraction for Tuesday.

TERRIBLE EVIDENCE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Joseph Pota, 13 years old, who lived in a rear tenement on Seventh avenue, which was burned Monday, and at which fire ten lives were lost, made affadavit in the coroner's office this afternoon. He states he knows Snyder and his colored cook, that on Monday morning, a little before five o'clock, he was washing himself in his room on the top floor of the rear tenement, when he chanced to look out of the window and saw a man with a white apron on in the kitchen of Snyder's restaurant. The man, he says, took some burning pieces of wood and scattered them about the floor of the kitchen and threw something over them in the form of a dish pan. The man then seized a broom and ran out into the street. In a moment a dense black smoke began to roll out of the window and then the flames burst forth furiously. The boy further states he ran down stairs and out into the yard crying fire. Detective Hays, who was the first to reach the fire, says he found Snyder on the sidewalk with a broom in his hand. The boy was sent to the house of detention as a witness.

STABBED TO THE HEART.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—Andreas Angaard, a coast seaman, about 28 years of age, and a native of Norway, was stabbed and instantly killed early this morning in front of a disreputable house. The murderer, who is unknown, fled.

A NEW TRIAL REFUSED.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The motion for a new trial for Giblin, one of the 5 condemned murderers who are to be hanged on Friday next, was denied by Judge Barrett.

HARRISON SHAKES HANDS.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 21.—The president and party passed through this place at 9:25 a. m. About 200 people assembled at the depot. The president came out on the rear platform and shook hands with all.

GOING TO INVESTIGATE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Among the passengers of the steamer Teutonic, which sailed for Europe this morning, were C. P. Huntington and wife. To a reporter Col. Huntington said that he was not aware of his daughter's engagement to Prince Hatzfeldt.

TRIAL IN PROGRESS.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 21.—At Purvis the trial of Bud Renaud, who managed the Sullivan-Kilrain fight, is in progress to-day.

THE CHARLESTON'S TRIAL TRIP.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—The cruiser Charleston steamed out of the golden gate about 8 o'clock this morning, presumably on her trial trip. The steamer passed easily over the bar, and proceeded southward at a pretty high rate of speed. She has the naval inspecting board on her and is bound for Santa-Barbara channel, where the trial will be made.

THE WEATHER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—Fair weather, followed by light rains in the western portion, are predicted until 8 a. m. Thursday, for Oregon and Washington territory.

FATAL EXPLOSION.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 21.—A large gasoline still in A. D. Miller & Son's oil refinery, corner of Preble avenue and Adams street, Alleghany city, exploded this morning. The entire refinery was destroyed by the fire which followed. Perry Howk and an employee sleeping beside the still, were fatally burned. Terence Miller and two other men are yet missing. Miller was night engineer. The engine room was enveloped in flames within a minute after the explosion, shutting off every possible escape. Five valuable horses were burned to death. The establishment contained four large stills, 30,000 barrels of crude and 1500 barrels of refined oil. It was a brick building, 200x300 feet. The residence of D. Osborne was burned and other adjoining property was damaged. Loss $23,500; partially insured.

THE GREAT MORTGAGE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The directors of the Northern Pacific R. R. Co. to-day unanimously approved of Henry Villard's scheme to place a consolidated mortgage of $160,000,000 on the entire system, and a special meeting of preferred stockholders has been called for October 17th to take formal action on the matter. Chairman Harris, of the board of directors, said $20,000,000 of the new bonds will be used in providing additional equipment and terminals at Tacoma, Superior and elsewhere. The balance of $140,000,000 will be exchanged for bonds now on the Northern Pacific system of branch lines and other obligations.

FATALLY SHOT.

PITTSBURG, PA., Aug. 21.—At 2:15 o'clock this afternoorn, the well-known contractor John S. Natcher, was shot twice by a painter named Wm. E. Lee. The shooting occurred in Natcher's office on 2nd avenue. A dispute over business matters was the cause. After the shooting Lee walked quietly away passing through a crowd of spectators and at this hour (2:45) is not arrested. Natches's most serious wound is in the back, the bullet passing through his right lung. The other ball passed through his left hand. The wounds are probably fatal. The lower part of the victims body is paralyzed. He was removed to the Homo Opathic hospital. Natcher is quite wealthy.

A GREAT FAILURE.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 21.—The Wauregan cotton goods mills, E. P. Taft, treasurer, to-day decided to suspend payment, and allow notes to go protest. The failure is connected with the disaster that overcame the Lewis Brothers, though it is claimed not to be directly resulting from that failure, Wauregan being creditors to Lewis Bros. only for $10,000 but the mills were reported to be in with Manville & Seater to the extent of a million and the creditors have been coming down on them. No statement can be got yet, but the liabilities are heavy. The Wauregan Co. has two mills at present in operation, one at Wauregan, near Plainfield, Conn., capitalized at $608,000 with 140 looms, employing 1000 hands; the other is the Nottingham mills, this city,, capitalized at $300,000 with 3200 spindles, 556 looms and employing 600 hands. Treasurer Taft is also secretary and treasurer of the Ponemah mills, in Connecticut, which have a capital of $500,000. Bradstreet thinks that Taft's connection with this last mill may place it in danger.

DECLARED BANKRUPT.

DEDHAM, Mass., Aug. 21.—To-day Lawyer Dickinson filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in behalf of Edward Steese and Amasa Clark, of the firm Brown, Steese & Clark, wool dealers, in the insolvency courts here. Counsel for G. P. Brown withdraws all objections to his client entering into insolveney, and he was then declared insolvent. Judge White issued a warrant for the seizure of the property of the parties named.

CONTINUED FAILURES.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 21.—Wauregan Co's liabilities are placed at $1,000,000 and assets according to the company's figuring at $2,000,000. The failure is directly due to that of Lewis Bros. Nottingham mills will also suspend. The Thornton worsted mills went under to-day. Their trouble was caused by the failure of Brown, Steese & Clark.

A MURDERER CAUGHT.

MOOSEJAW, N. W. T., Aug. 20.—On receipt of a telegram from inspector Jarvis, of Wood Mountain, Tuesday night, Sergeant Col. Brooks, with a posse, started Monday morning on the Wood Mountain trail. When about 12 miles out they arrested a man, answering to the description given, riding a horse. No resistance was made. He said he was not the party wanted, and gave the name of Geo. A. Sandford. The sheriff arrived from Montana this morning and identified the prisoner as Albert Brazier, the murderer of Harry Brown in Custer county, Montana, on July 31st, 1889. He also identified the horse ridden by the prisoner. The murder was committed on a ranch in Montana. Brown the murdered man, was cook on the ranch and had bought a bottle of bitters and was drinking it himself. Brazier wanted it divided up among the men; Brown replied that he had paid for it and would have as much as he liked of it. A quarrel ensued, Brown calling Brazier some hard names, whereupon Brazier drew a revolver and fired at Brown missing him. Brown then begged for his life, but Brazier fired again killing him instantly. The prisoner, who is nicknamed Brick, is 5 feet 7 inches high, and weighs 130 pounds. He is 21 or 22 years of age, red hair and complexion and a light moustache. The horse is branded 76 on the left shoulder and on the left thigh.

OTTAWA NOTES.

OTTAWA, Aug. 20.—Natural gas has been struck in large quantities at Brockville.

The rails have been shipped from here for the projected Regina & Long Lake Railway.

The proposal to abolish the French language and separate schools in Manitoba is creating excitement in the province of Quebec. It is now forming the subject of communications between Lieut.-Governor Schultz and the Dominion government.

Mr. Holmes, a prominent gentleman from Alabama, who is here, says that he is an old friend of Mrs. Maybrick, who is now under sentence of death at Liverpool for poisoning her husband. He thinks that she is the victim of hereditary monomania, as her mother, the Countess, narrowly escaped arrest owing to suspicious circumstances connected with the death of her first husband in Alabama many years ago. Poisoning was suspected at the time.

Great opposition is displayed to the movement to increase the import duty on American flour.

Mr. Eberts for Lillooet.

It is well understood now that Mr. D. M. Eberts, barrister, of this city, will be a candidate for the vacant seat in the district of Lillooet. Although generally a government supporter, yet Mr. Eberts is possessed of the qualities that might recommend him as a proper person for the position of attorney-general, and if elected for that district the government will, no doubt, in the event of Mr. Davie's defeat, which many of his supporters admit is a foregoing conclusion, call upon Mr. Eberts to fill the position of attorney-general. It may be said that Mr. Eberts lacks legislative experience, but that is no good reason why he should not, as compared with Mr. Davie, fill that responsible position in the cabinet in a satisfactory manner, as Mr. Davie has shown to the house and country that he is thoroughly unfitted to frame laws or understand legislative procedure.—Times.

From the North.

The steamer Barbara Boscowitz, Capt. Williams, arrived from the northern coast on Sunday morning, the round trip having been made in twelve days. The weather was fair on the trip, but nothing of moment transpired. In Johnson's straits the str. Sardonyx was passed bound north. Nothing was seen of the str. Princess Louise, which is now due. The canneries had all closed down for the season excepting Spencer's cannery, at Alert Bay, which was still fishing and canning, having so far a pack of 5,000 cases. As to the pack of the various canneries the figures are not exactly known, and until something definite is given an average of 9,000 cases is considered near the mark. The largest pack is by the British American Co., the manager, Mr. Gus. Holmes, having put up 12,000 cases. About 100 passengers, mostly Chinese and Indian canners, came down. For freight the steamer brought down 2,000 cases from McDowell's cannery at Alert Bay, 750 cases of the B. A. P. Co. brand, 1,000 cases empty tins, which will be forwarded to the Fraser river canneries, and a quantity of box lumber.—Times.

GREAT CONSPIRACY.

A Great Socialist Conspiracy Unearthed in Austria and Many Arrests Being Made.

O'Connor and Condell, Irish Members of Parliament, Released From Prison To-Day.

The Mayors and Officials of France will Present Carnot With a Souvenir.

GREAT CONSPIRACY DISCOVERED.

VIENNA, Aug. 21.—The government police are making arrests in every direction of socialists, and have obtained definite information of a great conspiracy with ramifications all over the empire. Two Russian students, a French teacher and two of his sisters were arrested here yesterday, and other arrests will follow shortly.

PARLIAMENTARY MATTERS.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Mr. Parnell will go to Scotland during the recess of parliament instead of to the continent as he first intended. Mr. Kenny, member for Tyrone, has given notice of a question in the house as to the condition of Derry jail, where Mr. Conybeare contracted a skin disease, and which he will show is in a condition dangerous to the health of prisoners and officials.

MEMBERS RELEASED.

DUBLIN, Aug. 21.—Jno. O'Connor and A. J. Condell, members of parliament for Tipperary, were to-day released from prison. They will at once resume their seats in the house.

THE MAYBRICK CASE.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Henry Mathews, home secretary, is holding a conference with Mr. Addison, government attorney for Liverpool district, who conducted the prosecution of Mrs. Maybrick.

THE STRIKE ENLARGING.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The strike of the employees of the London dock yards is spreading rapidly. The men employed at the commercial dock, 1,000 in number, joined the strikers this morning. Thirty thousand strikers marched in procession to-day. Socialists are endeavoring to lead the movement, and a number of red flags were displayed in the parade. The paraders were orderly and the city is quiet.

SOUVENIR TO CARNOT.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—The mayors and other prominent officials here organized a subscription to present to M. Carnot a handsome souvenir.

THE SIMPLON TUNNEL.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—A German company has been formed with a capital of thirty million francs to complete the Simplon tunnel. Italy will furnish fifteen francs to hold one end of the tunnel.

STRIKING LABORERS.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Ten thousand striking dock laborers paraded the streets of London to-day, marching from their homes in the East end under the leadership of Socialist agitators Burns and Champion. They carried no banners but bare poles decorated with strings of red herrings and crusts of stale bread, which were far more eloquent of the distress and suffering they wished the well-to-do of London to note. The demonstration passed off without the slightest disturbance, although early in the day a rumor that the police would interfere with the procession, caused many angry utterances of defiance and threats of violence. The police, however, did not interfere, the strikers at the conclusion of their parade peacefully disbanding and going home.

THE GERMAN STRIKES.

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—The news from Rhenish Westphalia indicates that the labor troubles in that region will be soon revived and that the mine owners and their employees are drifting into another struggle for the mastery, which promises to be a battle to the death. Both sides are now thoroughly organized and the coming strike is certain to be general and prolonged. The miners held an enormous meeting at Dortfeld yesterday and completed the work of organization by forming the Rhenish Westphalian miners union to counteract the union of the mine owners of the province. The list of grievances has already been formulated and a peremptory demand has been made for their redress. What very materially embitters the situation is the very general impression on the part of the men that their employers have shamefully repudiated the agreements they made with the men when they went back to work after the last strike.

Truly Economical.

The use of asbestos packing in the city fire department for heating purposes is a novelty and success. Formerly, water in the fire engine boilers was kept warm by the use of thirty-five gas jets. Now but seven small jets are used, leading into a pan filled with asbestos packing, which throws of more heat than the thirty-five gas jets formerly did. And the beauty of the thing is that the asbestos does not burn; but simply throws off a powerful heat aided by the seven gas jets. Twenty-five cents worth of asbestos will last for a month. The novelty, which was discovered by the boys of the Deluge engine house, will save the ratepayers considerable in the monthly gas bill.—Times.

Roycroft's Debts.

The yacht Ada, the pride and joy of the late superintendent of provincial police, has been drawn upon the ways at the James Bay bridge, and will be disposed of at auction by the sheriff. Whatever is realized from the sale will go towards satisfying the demands of Mr. Roycroft's numerous creditors. The latest example of misplaced confidence in reference to the operations of the late superintendent of provincial police, is stated to be his misappropriation of several thousand dollars sent him by provincial officer John Kirkup, formerly of this city, which Mr. Kirkup whished to have invested for him in real estate. The money, over $3,000 in all, is said to have represented the savings of years.—Colonist.

Wednesday Evening, August 21, 1889.

Thomas Jefferson, the drafter of the declaration of independence and third president of the United States, is credited with declaring, one hundred years ago or thereabouts, that he would rather live in a country with newspapers and without a government than in a country with a government, but without newspapers. Napoleon, whose sagacity and keen-sightedness is generally admitted to have been of a superior order, said that four hostile newspapers were more to be dreaded than 100,000 bayonets. The brilliant Sheridan is quoted as breaking out in this vein: "Give me but the liberty of the press, I will give to the minister a venal house of peers, I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons, I will give him the full sway of the patronage of office, I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence, I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him to purchase submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed; I will attack the mighty fabric he has reared with that mightier engine; I will shake down from its height corruption and bury it amid the ruins it was meant to shelter." These tributes to the power of the press, as a contemporary well remarks, were uttered a hundred years ago, before the press had attained anything like its present position or dimensions. The development of the modern newspaper, with special correspondents in all parts of the world, with news reporters in every settlement, and couriers on every road, was scarcely dreamed of by Jefferson or Napoleon or Sheridan. They could not anticipate the achievements of modern science which have rendered this development possible. Without doubt, the power of the press, especially of the independent press, is a factor that has to be reckoned with in "these last days."

The Haytian troubles, remarks an exchange, appear to have reached that stage when interference by the powers is warranted. According to latest despatches the fight in the colored republic is no longer a war; it is a series of massacres. No respect is paid to the practices of modern warfare, but barbarism pure and simple is resorted to on both sides. Under the Berlin arrangement prisoners are required to be treated humanely. They are not to be fed on the best of the land, certainly, but they must not be dragged before the multitude and executed in the terrible fashion adopted by Legitime and Hippolyte. Their life, indeed, after they have laid down their arms is secure. The Haytian massacres are suggestive of but two incidents in the history of North America, in which civilized nations were concerned, says the same writer. Both occurred in Florida at the time that France and Spain were fighting for the ascendancy. The Huguenots established themselves on the coast and the Spaniards under Manendez undertook to dispossess them. The fighting was severe. After it was over and Manendez had won, he learned of the presence of shipwrecked Frenchmen to the south of him. He immediately proceeded to the spot and promised the Frenchmen a safe conduct, and for a specified price, a ship to take them home. But after he had disarmed them he marched them to a spot from which there was no escape and ordered a massacre "for the love of God" of all who were not Catholics. His instructions were neatly and promptly executed. A second party in the name of religion was similarly treated. Retribution followed a few years afterwards when DeGourges, a Huguenot gentleman of considerable courage, organized privately an expedition to Florida, and, with the aid of the Indians, defeated the Spaniards and hanged every Spaniard who had not fallen in battle.

Dr. Brown-Sequard's already famous rejuvenator is being put to a thorough and scientific test by many leading medicos in the larger cities of the United States, and soon the waiting world, which is ever anxious to welcome some magic remedy that shall mitigate or remove the thousand and one ills that flesh is heir to, will have voluminous and experimental testimony on this latest "elixir of life." So far as the experiments have progressed, it is difficult to say just what place in the materia medica will be assigned to the elixir, whether as a rejuvenator, as at first claimed, as a mere tonic, or whether its greatest virtue is exercised through the imagination. These various views of the subject already have their supporters. Dr. Hammond of Washington, states that the claims which were at first made on behalf of the elixir, or more correctly the reports that were circulated, were unauthorized and sensational. The doctor asserted that the new remedy was believed to be in the nature of a tonic, which it was thought would be beneficial, especially to old people, but denounced what he called the foolish story that it was something that was going to prolong life indefinitely or restore old people to youth. Neither he nor Dr. Brown-Scquard had ever called it the elixir of life. The observations of Dr. John A. Benson, of Chicago, went to show that the person treated noticed the good effect only when he or she knew what had been done. His opinion was however, that in most cases the fluid had the effect of a stimulant, and that for the time being it might strengthen, but doubted that the effect would be lasting. "One or two things have struck me as being very extraordinary," continued the doctor, "supposing that the elixir has the properties claimed for it. One of my cases was that of an old gentleman who was very infirm. Instead of filling the syringe with the fluid I put milk and water into it and injected that into the old man's system. Now, believe me when I say that the old gentleman told me an hour later that he felt much better and for a day or two he insisted that he had never felt so well in his life. I did not tell the old gentleman what I had done, and since that time he has thought himself a great deal stronger than he has been for years. I have not the least doubt that he feels better, but it was imagination that accomplished it all and not the milk and water injected into his system." As is not at all remarkable, considering the nature of the compound, one fatality is reported from its use, by blood poisoning. Dr. Henry, of a place called Bank Lick, in Kentucky, prepared some of the fluid and injected the liquid into a decrepit old negro. The manifestations from the patient which followed showed that there was something wrong with the elixir, as the negro died in terrible agony. It was supposed, very naturally, that blood poisoning was the cause of death. The negroes in the village became so incensed at the doctor that he was compelled to leave the country immediately after the disastrous experiment. Eventually he could not be found, and it was supposed that friends of the deceased had reduced him to "elixir" pulp. Great care, we should imagine, would be necessary in the preparation and administering of the elixir mixture to prevent blood poisoning, and if it ever comes into general use it will not be safe to accept treatment at the hands of any Tom, Dick and Harry practitioner, without first trying a dose on the domestic animals.

THE WOODEN INDIAN.

How He Is Carved Out of Pine in Defiance of Nature.

Maker of Cigar Signs Tells the Secrets of His Trade—Splendor, Rather Than Fidelity to Nature, His Object—A Neglected Art.

"There, Pop, I've got all done but the top. What color shall I paint that?" The spectacled wood-carver looked up from the bit of cardboard that he was lettering and said, in answer to his son's interruption; "Paint the head red, Jimmy." Jimmy, a lad of thirteen, with symptoms of incipient painter's colic, was devoting his best energies and the last fifteen minutes before dinner to the decoration of a wooden squaw in colors whose brilliancy and variety would have shamed the splendors of the first rainbow. The little shop was a sort of tawdry statuary hall, resplendent with the gorgeous presence of half a dozen cigar-store Indians in various states of incompleteness. A tall squaw, having a scornful face as yet unadorned with eyes, occupied a conspicuous place in the room; her drapery, consisting of a yellow blanket and a red buffalo robe, skillfully arranged so as to display a swelling bosom and a pair of monstrous calves. "A special order," said the wood-carver to a New York Star reporter, "the man would have that buffalo robe red because he thought it would attract attention."

"Our business might be called artistic,' he continued, "but there hain't much money into it. Years ago, when I was a young apprentice I had the honor of making two fine ship figureheads. They represented parties standin' full length, with scrolls in their hands. I don't know who the parties was and I don't know the names of the ships, but I was proud of the job. That sort of business, though, dropped off fifteen years ago. The American people is economical to the detriment of art, and our business isn't appreciated as it ought to be. I do little or nothing now but make and repair Indians and letter cards with sentiments such as them."

The carver spoke with the air of a man whose art had been prostituted to the sordid demands of trade. He set no store by the Indians turned in whole tribes, and fashioned with small regard for the truth of nature. "They don't look like Indians, you know," he said, with amiable frankness. "No Indian ever had features like that big fellow there, and I reckon there never was a squaw who dressed like that one with the red buffalo robe. If we made 'em like real Indians they'd be too ugly to sell. We have no models, but just keep on making them as they've been made for the last fifty years. The idea is to make them look pretty and to work in as many colors as possible. Sometimes we get seven or eight different tints, besides gilding. What are they made of? White pine. It works easy. We hack 'em out with saw and hatchet, rough 'em up with big tools and polish 'em off with finer implements. Jimmy, show the gentleman the logs in the cellar."

Jimmy promptly led the way to the underground lumber room, where lay half a dozen great pine logs from sixteen to twenty-four feet in length. Against the wall leaned a rudely-hacked piece of timber that looked like a damaged gate-post. Jimmy averred that in time this would be a splendid squaw, with a painted skirt and a headdress of plumes. He pointed out where each leg would be, which way the face would turn and how the arms would appear. The figure, limbs, pedestal and all were carved from the single log in one piece. It did not seem to contain the promise and potency of the cleverly carved figures in the shop above, but Jimmy had faith that he and his father would yet evolve from the unsightly log a comely squaw of conventional pattern.

"It takes from six to sixteen days to make one of these figures," said the master of the shop, taking up the thread of his discourse. "The simpler ones can be whittled out in three days and painted in three more. The big, complicated figures, with tomahawks and wampum necklaces and beaded bows, take a week or more, and the painting requires nearly as long. That squaw, you see, isn't the right color for a squaw. That's only the groundwork. We've got to paint her copper color to-morrow. Then we've got to put in her eyes. They may be blue, gray or brown. After that comes the fine work on the feather headdress. Nobody cares much what they look like, so they're showy, and paint's the thing that makes 'em sell. What do they cost? From $15 to $60. A good Indian, well taken care of, will last thirty years. Once a year he ought to be sent back for repairs. Taste in Indians does not change much, and my customers trust to me to do the thing right. Yes, we deal in second-hand Indians," he continued, glancing up at the faded splendors of a squaw, over whose arm the wood-carver's street coat was hung for want of a better clothes-rack.

"When a man moves to a new place he sometimes gets a fresh Indian. We take the old one off his hands and sell it to some small dealer. We used to make negroes from '48 to about '60, but later they got unpopular. Then the girl of the period and the Grecian bend had a go; but mostly the trade runs steady on Indians. Going! Well, you may say that business is dull, though it might be worse; but on the whole, the public doesn't appreciate our art as it once did."

Extravagant Luxuries of All Kinds Designed for the Nursery.

You can't have a fashionable christening at home without a baptismal bowl, says the New York World. If you don't mind playing jackdaw the family rector will take great pleasure in loaning one of the altar basins, or if not too ultra to strain a point the caterer can be levied on for a large wine-cup, a small punch-bowl or an ice-tub of quaint design in which to christianize the new heir. But economy of no object and Mammon subjective the bowl is considered a part of the trousseau and so provided for. Not unlike a punch-bowl in design and requiring an equal amount of workmanship to perfect its beauty, almost any sum between $10 and $1,200 may be invested. For the former price you can get a Derby plate of globular or bell shape, with a fluted edge and a rose pattern worked about the circumference. Quadruple plate, in satin or ground finish, artistically stamped, sells for $15 and $20, and are warranted to endure in beauty and service through two generations. The sterling silver are $75 sans decoration, and every inch of repousse work adds $50 to the cost. A bowl, gold lined, with winged cherubs and dimpled dumpling-faced angels floating about in swirls of mist and cloud, was used at a Madison avenue christening last Monday and has since been sent to a bank vault for safety, labeled heirloom.

During the ceremony in question the bowl was filled with water, which reflected the pink tint of the loose rose petals sprinkled in the bottom of the lovely vessel. One of the favors sent to Mr. Baby was a $75 cradle, festooned with garlands of field flowers and filled in with a bed of pink roses and a pillow of white buds. The record of the event was entered in a silver-bound book of rice paper, all the guests appending their names as witnesses of the ceremony. High tea followed, served with the music of mandolins, harp and guitar, and after the cloth was removed, slumber songs and nursery ditties were rendered by professional talent. The assortment of baby sets, bread-and-milk services, toilet articles and odd mugs, trays, spoons, rattles, button-hooks and beautifully-bound brushes would equip an asylum of babies. One gift consisted of a silver case containing a dozen tiny handkerchiefs of sheer cambric, and another favor was a ring and bells of filigree silver, mounted on ivory.

At the swell confectionery shops baby bonbons are offered for sale. You surrender $1.25 in exchange for an oblique-angled box covered with tinted satin paper, containing one layer of fruit-flavored creams sprinkled over with crystallized rose leaves. The cover is bound about with a yard or so of satin ribbon, and the wrapping paper is tied with gold cord. If you don't care to attend the regeneration of this favor, a visiting card and a district messenger will suffice to excuse you.

RAISING THE WIND

How a Shrewd Yankee Got a Dead Man's Note Cashed.

For several years past the public has heard of and known a rather eccentric lawyer by the name of Ezra Andrews, who has been oscillating between the professions of lawyer and pedagogue, says the Pittsfield (Mass.) Advertiser. At the time of this incident Ezra was an inhabitant of the town of Burnham, a practising lawyer. Finding himself out of business, and being a little short of lucre, he perambulated among the business men to get a bill to collect. R. Gilmore, one of the principal merchants of the town, held a note against an old man whose home was in the town of Canaan, which was outlawed.

He offered Lawyer Audrews a half-interest in the debt if he would make a trip over to Canaan and by hook or crook get the note renewed, which was accepted; and, as teams cost money, our hero concluded to go afoot, so he wended his way one pleasant June morning to his delinquent debtor's home, a distance of five miles. Imagine the chagrin depicted on the barrister's countenance when he learned the fact that the old gentleman had been dead two years, and had died a pauper on the town farm. He sought the friendly offices of a stone wall, and the cooling influence of a shady tree, where he seated himself to think and get the bearings here, urged on by "necessity, the mother of invention." Here he studied the situation.

Shortly, starting up from his reverie, he borrowed a pen and ink and went to the cemetery, which was not far distant. Here he traced out the last resting-place of the victim who had escaped his insolence by passing in his earthly checks and was quietly sleeping his last sleep. This arm of the law seated himself before the marble slab and copied the name in full on to two notes previously prepared and made into two documents, one in favor of Gillmore, the other running to Ezra Andrews or bearer, not forgetting to add legal costs, mileage, etc., half-dollar being added, lawyer-like, for the etc. Under the name he printed a cross, and in small letters, almost unintelligible, he wrote, "by Ezra Andrews." Then casting a furtive glance back at the weird spot, he took the home stretch for Burnham.

As he passed the office of a well-known speculator, he entered and accosted him with the common assurance of the legal profession that he was short and had a note to sell that he would stand a shave on. The latter part of the sentence was distinctly understood by Libby, who asked to see the document, which was shown him. He remarked that he did not know the party signing the note; but, after Ezra explained that the old gentleman owned and had a sure title to his real estate and owned the personal property he had around him, and did not owe one dollar in the world, the note was discounted at fifty cents on the dollar. Later on, when Libby heard the facts, Andrews was called up, and said his statement was correct. The little spet, two by six was the dead man's real estate; his winding sheet and coffin his personal property; death had discharged all his debts.

THE HUMAN EYE.

Circumstances Under Which It Can Render Life a Burden.

Every body has heard of the magnetic power of the human eye, says the Chicago Journal. It is said to have done, and to still do, wonders to tame wild beasts on four and on two legs, to dominate, by sheer will-power, every thing that crawls, walks or flies. There must be a great deal in it, for there is one place at least where I've often made the observation personally that there is a certain fascination in the steady stare of the human eye, varying in degrees in different persons. That place is the street-car. Every reader must have noticed the same thing. Often one man, possessed of an unusually fascinating eye, will stare everybody, male and female, out of countenance, and that, too, without meaning it. The other day, in a North-side cable car, the hour being five in the afternoon and the car being pretty well crowded, there was such a man standing in the center of the car aisle hanging on to a strap. His glance would roll negligently rather than intently over the persons surrounding him, seated and standing. He was no "masher," either. He was plainly dressed, and the cast of his features and the intellectual and serious expression on them bespoke a man not given to dallying with the little sportive archer. His look, as it swayed up and down, flitting here and there, was that of a man who likes to study faces—that was all. But every body was inconvenienced by it. One lady, a stout person of fifty summers at least, became even so abashed by his steadfast gaze that she took refuge in her handkerchief, and squeezed that tightly against her face. A young girl grew so nervous that she dropped her sachet and picked it up again in great confusion, and one man, who seemed to be a reporter, to judge from the large number of evening papers in his overcoat pockets and from the array of sharpened pencils in his breast, finally buried his nose in one of those papers. There was something weirdly powerful in this man's gaze. He might make a fortune as a mesmerist. Perhaps he is one.

BETTER THAN CANAAN.

The Claim Made by an Old Lady for the State of Nebraska.

A great many people in Nebraska, as well as elsewhere in our country, eat corn meal mush with milk very frequently for supper. It is a matter of universal complaint that few cooks get quite enough salt in the mush to suit the palates of those who are fastidious in mush-eating. There is an old story of a farmer's family whose members each determined that the supper mush should be salt enough for once, and one day each salted it in turn without saying any thing to the others. Seven big handfuls of salt went into that kettle of mush and nobody could eat it, of course.

A certain farmer's family in Nebraska had long been troubled by the freshness of the mush. Whether the mother or one of the girls made it, it was always too fresh. The grandmother, who lived with them, and was not as amiable as some people's grandmothers, scolded a good deal about this lack.

One day, while the farmer was digging a shallow well in the pasture behind the barn to furnish more water for his cattle, he was surprised to come upon a stream of very salt and very warm water. The moment an opening was made for it, up it gushed in a sparkling little fountain. He ran to the house in great excitement, and called "the folks" to come and see. All were amazed of course.

His old mother stood with arms akimbo for a little while and watched the spurting waters, then she bent over, thrust her fingers into the fountain and tasted the salt water. Her face glowed with delight.

"I'm thankful to live to see this day," she said. "Nebrasky beats the land o' Canaan. It flow with milk and honey there, it's true, but nobody can't live on such victuals as that. But here's the salt water all heated for our mush, and yonder the corn is a-growing to make it with. The good Lord be praised, we've done with fresh water for the mush cooking. Yes, Nebrasky beats the land o' Canaan."

And she started at once for the house to fetch a tin pail to get some of the welcome water, while tears of pleasure rolled down her withered old cheeks.

The Pope's Favorite Game.

The Pope has a weakness for chess. He is a very fine player, and in the amateur ranks is said to have few superiors in the knowledge of gambits and openings. There is one priest in Rome who has the especial honor of being the Pope's adversary over the board. This priest—Father Giella—has played chess with Leo Pecci for thirty-two years past. When Cardinal Pecci was raised to the Papal throne Father Giella, who was then in Florence, got an invitation to proceed to Rome and take up his quarters in the Vatican. Giella is hot-tempered, and has been known to look very black indeed at the Vicar of Christ across his chessboard. The Pope takes Giella's temper good-naturedly, and often improves the occasion by a little homily on the virtues of resignation and meekness.

It Made Mother Strong

"My mother has been using PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND for nervous prostration, accompanied by melancholia, etc., and it has done her a world of good. It is the only medicine that strengthens the nerves.' G. H. BEERS, Orbisonia, Pa.

"I am in my 64th year. Have been afflicted in several ways—could not sleep, had no appetite no courage, low spirits. I commenced using Paine's Celery Compound, and felt relief from the third day after using it. I now have a good appetite and can sleep well. My spirits and courage are almost like those of a young man.' S. C. KINKAID, D. D., Gonzales, La.

Paine's Celery Compound

Strengthens and builds up the old, and cures their infirmities. Rheumatism, indigestion and nervousness yield quickly to the curative power of Paine's Celery Compound.

A Perfect Tonic and Invigorator, It GIVES NEW LIFE.

"I am now 69 years old and have tried several remedies, but none had any effect until I used Paine's Celery Compound. I feel entirely different for the short time I have used it. I can walk nearly straight, sleep sound and well, and feel as though there was new life and energy coming into my whole system." H. MYLIUS, Cleveland, Tenn.

Paine's Celery Compound is of unequaled value to women. It strengthens the nerves, regulates the kidneys, and has wonderful power in curing the painful diseases with which women so often silently suffer.

Some more cases will come up on Friday, before the district court, for violation of the fisheries regulations. The inspector is determined that the law in respect to fishing will be strictly enforced.

The fruit receipts, per steamer and rail, are steadily on the increase, and the quantity received up to date has been something enormous. The quantity of fruit for export this year, from all parts of the district, is much greater than ever before.

The Hyacks racing team was out for practice last night in full force and went through the whole programme in good style. From the work being done by the team it is quite evident the Hyack racers have the stuff in them to win a leading place in the coming tournament.

The str. Rainbow will make no further trips to Vancouver, but will make three regular weekly trips between Westminster and Victoria, the increasing trade on the Fraser necessitating this change. The Rainbow left for Victoria this morning with 20 passengers and 25 tons of farm produce.

To Wm. Scafe, jr., belongs the honor of having shot what is probably the largest eagle ever "bagged" in these parts. The bird measures 7 feet 6 inches from tip to tip of the outstretched wings, and has talons that would do credit to a full-grown bear. It was shot at Long Lake early yesterday morning.—Colonist.

The salmon run was again light last night and even the few boats that were fishing failed to average 100 fish each. The most of the canneries are shut down at present for the purpose of catching up with work and to prepare new material for the cohoe run. Several of the cannerymen are satisfied with their pack and will not re-open this year.

After the lacrosse match on Saturday, in which the Montreal team badly defeated the Ottawas, four goals to one, the feeling ran very high, and it was feared there would be trouble if the men met. A meeting took place in the Occidental restaurant late at night, and words ensued. A quarrel followed, and those outside were startled by pistol reports. The affair is hushed up, nothing being known in police circles about it.

The contract for the market building to be erected on Westminster avenue having been awarded to H. S. Keefer, work will be commenced without delay. It is understood that J. G. Macdonald, at one time of Winnipeg, is connected with Mr. Keefer in this contract and will look after the work. The figure for which the contractor has agreed to build the market, exclusive of weigh scales and other fixtures, is $15, 564.—World.

News was received at Victoria last evening of the capture of two more Victoria sealing schooners in Behring Sea, the Pathfinder and the Minnie; the former is owned by Carne & Muncie, and the latter by Capt. Jacobson. The news was brought by Capt. Alger, of the schooner Annie J. Alger, who left his craft at Neah Bay and came up by canoe. The Ariel and the Theresa, Capt. Alger says, were also boarded by the officers of the Rush, and although they had skins on board were allowed to go. They are both American boats. The Pathfinder at the time of the seizure had 860 skins, and the Minnie 800.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

The Athletic Exhibition.

The athletic exhibition to-night at the drill shed, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, will be the first affair of the kind given in Westminster in several years, and should attract a large audience. The programme consists of horizontal bar performances, Indian club and dumb bell exhibitions, fencing bouts and many other attractive features. Mr. Graham, the instructor, has taken great pains to make his pupils as expert and perfect as possible, and his efforts have been well rewarded. The exhibition should be well patronized.

Accidentally Killed.

A sad accident occurred at the junction this afternoon whereby a well known "Old Timer" lost his life. The victim of the accident was John O'Donnell, a well known cattle man, and formerly one of the best known figures in Cariboo. He was climbing into a cattle car when the locomotive shunted on to the train, and the force of the collision threw O'Donnell from his footing to the track. He was instantly run over and killed. Only one person saw the accident, a cattle man named Wilson. No blame is attached to anyone. Mr. Ferris is at the junction holding an inquest.

The Toronto Fair.

Mr. Seitz, secretary of the British Columbia exhibit to the Toronto industrial fair, was in the city yesterday stirring up intending exhibitors, and canvassing others who would be likely to send goods to the show. He reports fruit exhibits already received are very fine indeed, and exhibits from all parts of the district are being received every day. The exhibits of British Columbia wood promise to be very fine, and will be one of the most interesting features in connection with the provincial court. The cannerymen have promised to send samples of canned salmon, but only a few of them have come to the scratch so far. Mr. Seitz is anxious that this branch of the display should be very complete, and the canners are urged to send in their exhibits with the least possible delay. The last car will be packed on the 28th inst. which fact intending exhibitors should bear in mind and govern themselves accordingly.

A Vancouver Tid Bit.

A gentleman in connection with the fisheries department, who visited Vancouver on Monday, informs us that the Inlet is swarming with hump back salmon, which annually visit these waters for the purpose of depositing their spawn in the little creeks that empty into the gulf. Our informant also says that the Indians and others are making good wages catching the humpbacks and supplying the same to the Vancouverites, who, poor creatures, evidently don't know that even a hungry Siwash considers them unfit for food. There is no law prohibiting the sale of humpbacks, and, of course, there is no law to prevent Vancouverites eating them, but if the terminal people must have fish and are not financially able to purchase an eatable article, the people of Westminster are willing to send the first relief in the shape of a car load of dainty sockeyes. It is really too bad that Vancouverites are so reduced as to be forced to eat a fish that is generally considered unfit for food.

The Old Story.

About 11;30 o'clock this morning a stray horse and cow, who had apparently struck up a sort of tramp friendship, meandered down Columbia street and stopped opposite the Bank of British Columbia. The attractive interior of the building, so plainly visible through the polished plate glass windows, induced the animals to take a closer look, and for this purpose they stepped onto the sidewalk. The heaps of green bank notes had a powerful effect on the cow, and it stuck its nose against the window and tried to breathe in their fragrance through the glass. The horse, however, could find no satisfaction in such an empty feast, and moved down to Woods, Turner & Gamble's window, where, to all appearances, it gave the quartz specimens and insurance notices a critical inspection. After satisfying their curiosity to the fullest extent, the animals directed their course up town, presumably to inspect the street improvements and report to their fellows the destruction of so much valuable pasturage now being wrought by these same improvements. And the burning question of the day still is "when, oh when, will we have a pound?"

The "Dominion Illustrated" Wimbledon Number.

Our enterprising and truly national pictorial weekly has issued a special Wimbledon number, to honor the victories of the Canadian team. It came out on Saturday, 17th inst., and contains the following illustrations, from photographs and drawings sent from Wimbledon direct by the special artist of the Dominion Illustrated, viz.: A full-page engraving of the Canadian Kolapore team; a full page view of the Wimbledon camp; sketches of the Canadian camp, Col. Bacon's tent, Adjutant Hood's tent, afternoon tea, writing home, Lady Wantage's reception tent, and the old windmill; a full-page view of the firing stages during the contest; four photographs in the Canadian camp, and four other Wimbledon views, including High street. On the cover is the portrait of the commandant, Lieut.-Col. Bacon. Altogether a very interesting number for all active members of the volunteer force in Canada, more especially as this is the last meeting at Wimbledon. The Dominion Illustrated always shows great interest in everything connected with the militia and should be well patronised. For sale at all news dealers, or send ten cents to the publishers, 73 St. James street, Montreal.

Coal to Newcastle.

The admiralty authorities have sent a cargo of coal from Newcastle, around Cape Horn, to Victoria, B. C., for the fleet, although coal can be had almost for the asking on Vancouver Island. It is very apparent that "my lords" are not acquainted with the resources of this country. During the war of 1812 the admiralty sent lumber to Canada for the construction of gunboats to be used on the lakes, and, with a delicate regard for the convenience and comfort of the crew, caused fresh water tanks to be built in these lake vessels. So that after all the naval lords are sustaining their reputation for overdoing the thing.—Mail.

NEW ALDERMEN.

Elected to Fill the Vacancies at the Civic Board.

The election to-day, to elect two aldermen to fill the vacancies at the civic board, was a very quiet affair, and lacked enthusiasm from the opening to the closing of the polls. As will be seen by the figures below, the vote was very small indeed, when it is considered the voters' list comprises over 700 names. There was no attempt at organization by parties, as it was thoroughly understood that all three of the candidates were in complete accord with the present progressive policy of the city. Following is the result of the voting:

W. H. Keary 105
B. W. Shiles 94
J. W. Harvey 55

Messrs. Keary and Shiles were declared duly elected.

City Council.

An adjourned meeting of the city council was held yesterday afternoon, when a report from the waterworks engineers was presented and adopted. This report was quite voluminous and set out fully the plans of the main pipe and distribution system. Three schemes were submitted—one on the principle of direct pressure from the Coquitlam, another proposing to make use of a reservoir on top of the hill, and the third proposing direct pressure for the higher levels and supply from a reservoir for the lower levels. By resolution of council these plans were ordered to be submitted to Mr. J. T. Fanning, who is regarded as the highest authority in America on hydraulic engineering, the council making it a necessary condition that any scheme adopted must contain provision for a full supply of water on the highest levels with sufficient pressure for fire purposes.

The council then went into consideration of the Southern Railway proposals, and the following report of the committee was adopted:

To the Mayor and Council of the City of New Westminster.

GENTLEMEN:—The committee to whom was referred the communication of the president of the Southern Railway Co. beg leave to report as follows:

Your committee met the engineers of the Southern Railway Co. and examined with them the route by which the railway proposes to pass through the city. This route commences at the point where the proposed free railway and traffic bridge touches the north bank of the Fraser, within the old city limits; thence along Front street, crossing custom house square to the intersection of Richard street; thence along Richard street to the intersection of Royal avenue and Edinburgh street, where the free railway and traffic bridge to Lulu Island is to be located.

Having considered the matter with representatives of the Railway Co., your committee is of opinion that the only basis upon which an arrangement can be reached satisfactory to the said company is to grant the following:

A bonus of $150,000; the pleasure grounds, except sufficient for the widening of Columbia street to the width of 99 feet from lot 16 in block 7 to the north-eastern boundary of the city, provided that in the event of excavations being made so as to endanger Columbia street, the Southern Railway undertakes to construct a retaining wall for the protection of said street to the satisfaction of the city engineer; a lease of 10 water lots for a period of 99 years at a rental of $1 per year; any rights the city may have in the lands between Webster's wharf and the Royal City Planing Mills Co.'s property; the right of way through all streets and other property controlled by the city along the route as hereinbefore described; a grant of 400 acres of land on that part of Lulu Island, within the city limits, said grant to be conditional upon the company's undertaking to construct and maintain a railway and free traffic bridge across the North Arm of the Fraser river from some point at or near the intersection of Royal avenue, Richard st. and Edinburgh st. to the said lands, to dyke the whole of the lands on Lulu Island lying within the city limits, to construct a wagon road across said lands to connect with the municipality of Richmond, to construct a canal through said lands and through a portion of Richmond municipality sufficient for the efficient drainage of said lands, and to perform all other conditions mentioned in Vic. 52, Cap. 21, Statutes of British Columbia, the company further agreeing to permit the Victoria, Saanich & New Westminster Railway, or any other railway seeking an entrance to the city access to and running powers over said bridge on fair and reasonable terms; grant of Lytton square; exemption from taxation of all property belonging to the company within the city limits for a period of twenty-five years; and that a by-law in conformity with the above be submitted to the ratepayers as early as possible all of which is respectfully submitted.

Notice was given of a by-law to grant a bonus to the railway company on the above basis.

Council adjourned till Monday next at 8 p. m.

From Maple Ridge.

A meeting of the farmers of Maple Ridge was held in the town hall on Saturday evening, 17th inst., and although the weather was very unfavorable, the district was fairly represented. By the unanimous vote of the meeting Mr. Harris was elected chairman. In the course of his remarks Mr. Harris said that he regretted exceedingly that, owing to the inclemency of the weather, many of the leading dairymen were unable to be present. The object of the meeting was to lay before the farmers a proposition to form a joint stock company for the purpose of manufacturing cheese and butter, also for the purpose of manufacturing preserved fruit. Mr. Harris emphasized the fact that numerous advantages would accrue from the farmers receiving ready money for their produce, referring briefly to the beneficial effects that followed the inception of cheese factories in Ontario. Considerable discussion followed the remarks of Mr. Harris. Mr. Ferguson pointed out that a large quantity of canned fruit was annually shipped into this district from foreign markets, a state of affairs that should no longer exist, as Maple Ridge is pre-eminently adapted for fruit culture and a great deal of fruit is wasted every season for want of proper facilities for canning. The opinion of nearly all present was that a creamery would be preferable to a cheese factory. It was then moved by Mr. J. W. Sinclair, seconded by Mr. Laity, and carried that a joint stock company be organized, the capital stock to be $5,000, divided into shares of $10 each. A committee was then appointed to wait upon the farmers in the neighborhood, discuss the matter with them, and solicit their co-operation in the proposed movement. On motion of Mr. Hampton, seconded by Mr. Laity, it was resolved to adjourn the meeting until the 31st inst., to afford the committee time to gain the required informrtion.—COM.

Another Escape.

Last fall, a man calling himself Holt, arrived at Kodiak on a sloop named the Alaska. She had cruised around Kodiak Island all winter selling beer and whisky to the natives and some of the white men, too. This spring, our deputy collector of customs concluded to seize the sloop, so taking two men with him he boarded the vessel and informed Capt. Holt that the sloop was seized. He then took an axe and broke open the hatch and took out two shot guns and four or five gallons of whisky. Removing the sails of the sloop, the deputy collector told Mr. Holt that he would allow him to remain on his vessel with his crew. The deputy collector then took the sails and stowed them away in the Alaska commercial company's warehouse. A few mornings later he woke up to find that the sloop had departed, some of the crew having succeeded in making an entrance into the warehouse and carrying off the sails, so that all our deputy collector has now is the shot guns, and last, but not least, the whisky.—Alaskan.
