NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Friend—"Do you live happy with your husband?" Muscular female—"Of course I do. I'd like to see him try not to live happy with me."

French engineers are utilizing the poppy to strengthen railroad embankments. The roots of the plants form a network that cannot be exterminated without great difficulty, and are therefore admirable for the purpose named.

The Edmonton Bulletin says: The amount of bear skins traded in this district during the past winter is enormous, and the selling price much higher than usual, as high as $22 all around being paid for some lots. Bears will surely be scarce next year.

The assessment rate at Westminster has been fixed at one cent on the $, with a reduction of 25 per cent. for prompt payment. This is a very low rate, and shows that Westminster is in a healthy condition financially. Last year the rate was one and one-third per cent. —Winnipeg Commercial.

An Italian engineer has experimented with sugar as a means of preventing the incrustation of boilers, with satisfactory results. A boiler which used to be incrusted in six weeks had two kilogrammes of sugar introduced every week for four months, and then a film of incrustation was found which could be easily washed off.

A English court has been called upon to decide how long an impulse can last. A well-known lady was charged with shooting game without a license She pleaded on defence that she acted under impulse, having been asked to take a gun by one of the gentlemen at a shooting party; but her impulse continued for two hours. So she was fined £2.

Electricity is now employed in India to prevent snakes from entering dwellings. Before all doors and around the house two wires are laid, insolated from each other and connected with an induction apparatus. When the snake attempts to enter the house or go under it, he completes the circuit as he crawls over the wires; and, if the shock he gets does not kill him, it is likely to effectually frighten him away from the premises.

Mr. Gladstone's estimate of Dante, expressed after a paper read by the Bishop of Ripon at the Duke of Westminster's house, contained this: "I wish to bear testimony with the bishop, as far as language can, to the degree of magnitude and the importance of his works, which can hardly be possible to exaggerate upon. Dante had a place absolutely alone in the whole compass of what is called literature, and I do not think that there is any writer who can compete with Dante in what I call educated power. In my opinion, the study of Dante is a very serious matter, entailing a serious responibility. Every thinking person who gives himself to that study cannot, during the study, but feel profoundly its effects, for many are the lessons which the poems of Dante convey to humanity."

One of our English cotemporaries has the following item of interest respecting a projected postal tube under the English Channel, to be operated presumably by the pneumatic method of propulsion, though on this point "deponent saith not," viz.: "Whatever objection may be urged against the construction of a channel tunnel, it is not easy to discover grounds for opposing the development of a recently revived scheme. It is proposed (not for the first time, however) to lay down a postal tube between Dover and Calais. The idea is to suspend two tubes of about a yard each in diameter by means of steel cables across the channel, forty yards above the level of the sea. The steel cables will be fixed to pillars at distances of about 800 yards, and in each tube a little railway will run with cars capable of carrying 450 pounds in weight. No parcel of greater weight than this will be taken, and the cost is estimated at the modest figure of £1,000,000."

It is said that every man is interesting to every woman, because there is no knowing whether or not in the changes and chances of this mortal life he may not become a suitor for her hand. No amount of decrepitude or youthfulness seems to stand in the way of matrimonial alliances, and there is a faint percentage of hope, or at any rate interesting conjecture, in regard to every man a woman meets. A cotemporary writer quotes the percentages of possibility in detail. It appears that between 20 and 25 years, 52 per cent. of women at large marry; between 30 and 35, only 15 out of every 100; and between 40 and 45, only 2½ per cent. An aged philanthorpist in England is anxious to give $15,000 toward a plan for improving the expectation of marriage on the part of the less hopefully placed of those who pine in single wretchedness. He proposes a well organized and respectably conducted association to help in getting people married. The Pall Mall Budget is responsible for the publication of his scheme in detail.

CANADIAN COMPETITI'N

San Francisco Business Men Say Reciprocity With Canada Would be Disastrous.

The Celebrated Electric Sugar Refining Co. is Dissolved by Order of Court.

Seven Hundred Democratic Laborers in New York are Replaced by Republicans.

RECIPROCITY DISASTROUS.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—At this morning's session of the U. S. senate committee, investigating U. S. relations with Canada, a number of fish and lumber merchants were heard. They agreed that reciprocity would be disastrous to U. S. canneries and mills.

SERIOUS FIRE.

TUCSON, Arizona, May 10.—About two o'clock this morning fire was discovered in rear of the Arlington Hotel, at Lordsburg, N. M., which destroyed all the buildings on the north side of the town. The fire spread with great rapidity and had it not been for Clason Bros.' building the entire town would have been destroyed. The loss is about $50,000.

OARSMEN AND ATHLETES

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—Among the passengers by the steamer Walla Walla, which sailed this morning for Victoria and the Sound ports, were Hamm and Peterson, the oarsmen, who are to take part in the regatta at Tacoma and Seattle. Matsada Sorakichi, the Japanese wrestler, and James H. Faulkner, the San Francisco wrestler, who are bound for Seattle, were also on board.

PASSENGER LIST.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—Passengers per Walla Walla for Victoria: Miss Horton, H. V. Deming, Mrs. Sherwood, Mrs. Barnard, Miss Eagan, Mrs. Laidlaw, Miss Alexander, Miss J. Alexander, Miss H. Alexander, T. Woodward and wife, and Mrs. Tollis.

SMALL FIRES.

SAN FRACISCO, May 10.—A fire at one o'clock this morning destroyed two tanneries, a saloon and several small dwellings in south San Francisco.

FORGER SENTENCED.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Henry Hardie, the forger recently extradited from Canada, was sentenced this morning to 7 years and 6 months imprisonment.

A degree was issued this morning by the supreme court dissolving the Electric Sugar Co.

SUGAR COMPANY DISSOLVED.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Justice Barret, of the Supreme court, to-day gave judgment dissolving the Electric Sugar Refining Co., Alexander Cameron, representing the corporation, consenting thereto. R. Burnham Moffat was appointed receiver and directed to furnish bonds in $10,000.

THE RAILWAY COMMISSION.

NEW YORK, May 10.—The first witness called this morning by the senate committee, and Canadian Railways was President Chas. S. Smith, of the chamber of commerce. He alluded to railroad enterprises in India and the Black Sea ports, and feared that under the present conditions it would not be long before America lost her export trade. He even advocated the carrying of occasional shipments by railroads at less than cost of carrying if necessary. He thought there was small hope of successful competition with the English steamship lines unless American lines receive a subsidy.

J. H. Herrick, chairman of the inter-state commerce commission, differed from the last witness. He thought the inter-state law a good one, but the penalties are not severe enough. There was a tendency to discriminate against the seaboard ports in favor of foreign ports. We should not restrict Canadian roads; we need them as a regulator, but they should be under the same control as ours.

SAD ACCIDENT.

LIVERMORE, Cal., May 10.—News reached here this morning of a sad accident that occurred about 6 miles north of here on Wednesday evening, by which the twelve year old daughter of C. M. Morton lost her life. She had taken a six months calf to water and was returning to stake it out when it ran away. The girl became entangled in the rope and was dragged to death before assistance could reach her.

THE TAMMANY RING.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Seven hundred laborers employed by the department of public works were discharged to-day by the new commissioner. They were all county Democrats and it is proposed to fill their places with Tammany men.

THE SCORE.

NEW YORK, May 10. — Walking match score: Herty 443; Cartwright 437; Hughes 418; Noremac 425; Golden 402; Hegelman 425 Smith 404; Sullivan 308; Adams 395; Johnson 343.

FREAKS OF THE WEATHER.

NEW YORK, May 10.—To-day is the warmest tenth of May in 18 years. All records fail to show on any previous tenth, within the period named, the temperature reached by 5 degrees by noon as it did to-day. The weather officers are puzzled as to the peculiar metorological condition that prevails. Storms according to their calculations, should be raging when clear skies prevail. In places where it was warm to an uncomfortable degree yesterday, it is snowing to-day, at points within only a few hundred miles of each other this mornining the temperature varied from below freezing to summer heat. At 8 o'clock this morning nearly two inches of snow had fallen in the streets at Denver, Colorado. In Wyoming snow fell nearly all night, 200 miles northwest of Denver the temperature was 76°.

COLORED RIGHTS.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The following decision was issued to-day by the inter-state committee in the case of William P. Heard, a colored passenger, vs the Georgia R. R. Company: It is a lawful duty that a carrier, like the defendant, owes to the travelling public, in carrying out its rule of furnishing separate cars to white and colored passengers on its line engaged in inter-state travel, to make them equal in comforts, accommodations and equipment without any discrimination, and to afford equal protection of the law alike to all such passengers without regard to race, color or sex against undue prejudice and disadvantage from disorderly conduct on the part of other passengers or persons. On the facts in this proceeding it is held that the defendant violated the law in each of the foregoing respects as against the petitioner.

A TERRIBLE BUNGLE.

ZARK, Mo., May 10.—The "Bald Knob Boys" were executed at 7.45 a. m. The ropes broke and the three men fell to the ground struggling. The execution was horribly bungled, but the cheery men were carried to the scaffold again and at 10.10 they were finally strangled. Dave Walker died in 15 minutes, Matthews in 13 and Bill Walker in 14.

GAMBLERS QUARREL.

PORTLAND, Or. May 10.—Emil Weber, a gambler, was shot and instantly killed by Sandy Olds, another gambler, at 1.30 this afternoon. Bad blood existed between the parties for some time.

WHEAT.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—Wheat quiet; buyer '89, 136⅜; seller, 126⅜.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Wheat steady; May, 84⅜; June, 85; June, 84¾; July, 86¼.

CHICAGO, May 10.—Wheat steady; May, 86; June, 84½; July, 80½.

GETTING THERE.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—The score of the leaders in the six days go-as-you-please race, at one o'clock this afternoon, was as follows: Albert, 92 miles; Howarth, 88; Hart, 83; Moore, 78; Guerrero, 77; Taylor, 75; Vint, 70; Campana, 65.

OTTAWA NOTES.

OTTAWA, May 9.—The marine department has issued a new chart of the Fraser river showing the ship channel according to the latest surveys. It is the intention of the department to issue a chart yearly, because of the ever changing nature of the channel.

It is understood that the government intends putting off indefinitely the passage of an order in council declaring the Weldon Extradition Act in force owing to the doubt regarding a certain clause in the act, which it is claimed by legal authorities could be so construed as to render the measure retroactive. An official of prominence in the department of justice, speaking in reference to a question as to whether the Weldon Extradition Act is retroactive, said that the matter was one purely for the courts to decide. Generally speaking, Canadian acts are retroactive, but it may be possible to quote precedents showing that previous legislation in Canada on extradition was retroactive. In such an event the matter would lie with the judge to decide whether according to his opinion the act is retroactive. It is understood that an order in council bringing the act into force will be passed in August.

Late Despatches.

THE BLOOD MONEY.

MONTREAL, May 5.—Judge Dugas stated on Saturday that the question of the reward for the capture of Morrison was to be discussed yesterday. The government have no intention of withholding or diminishing the reward owing to the fact that they have already paid over $3,000 for the expedition, etc. The only difficulty seems to be how to distribute it, whether between McMahon and Leroyer or between all participants in the expedition.

DUMONT AT BATOCHE.

OTTAWA, May 5.—The mounted police department has received a detailed report from one of its officers of the half-breed meeting recently held at Batoche on the call of Gabriel Dumont. About one hundred Metis were present. The report says the tone of Dumont's address was anything but hostile to the government. After recounting to his audience some of his experiences and ideas of eastern Canada, he touched on the late rebellion, but in a mild manner. His strongest expression was that although in their ignorance they had rebelled and taken up arms, and were also aware that they could not hope successfully to contend against the government, yet they had proven that they were not afraid to defend their families and homes. He urged his hearers to form a committee to draw up a petition to the government praying for such of their rights as they deemed proper. The results of the meeting have been favorably commented on in the Prince Albert district, as it was expected that a vigorous attack would be made on the administration.

A STRANGE SALE.

MONTREAL, May 8.—A strange sale took place this morning in the office of the high sheriff of the district. It will be remembered that some months ago after Mr. J. J. Curran, Q.C., had with great ability defended Jack Kehoe, charged with the murder of Thomas Donnelly, and although the prisoner was convicted and sentenced to be hanged his energetic counsel secceeded in staying the judgment of the court and Jack was sent to Kingston, and finally brought back to St. Vincent de Paul to serve out a life sentence. The murderers father refused to pay the lawyers who had saved the life of his only son, and consequently an action was taken. A brick house and some other property belonging to the defendant Kehoe therefore fell under the hammer at the place indicated above for $3,525. Strange to relate, the property was purchased by Margaret Donnelly, widow of the poor man whom Jack Kehoe had so cruelly murdered. Messrs. Curran and Grenier are entitled to $700 for Jack's defense. Half of the total sum goes to the old man and the remaining $1,000 or thereabouts will go to the widow, as per agreement with the government, Jack's share in the property having been forfeited to the crown through his civil death.

TRADE AND EMIGRATION.

LONDON, May 8.—The board of trade returns show that British exports to the Dominion increased $7.60 during April and £18,335 during the four months of 1889. The imports from Canada decreased to £79,037 during April, but increased to £58,296 during the four months of this year. There are large decreases in flour and fish and increases in cheese and sawn wood.

THE SOLDIERS FIRED.

BERLIN, May 10.—Three miners were killed and several wounded today in a conflict with the soldiers at Bracker, Westphalia. The strikers had gathersd in a large body and refused to disperse when ordered and the soldiers thereupon fired.

FALLING OFF.

LONDON, May 10.—In the Parnell commission to-day the attendance was small and no interest was manifested. Now that Parnell has finished his testimony, the proceedings are unimportant.

GERMANS KILLED.

LONDON, May 10.—A despatch from Zanzibar to the Times states an officer and two seamen belonging to the German cruiser Schmalbe, were killed at Boyomayo on the east coast of Africa.

DESPERATE FIGHT.

LONDON, May 10. — Intelligence comes via Zanzibar of a desperate encounter at Boyomayo between Lieutenant Wissman and the natives. The lieutenant landed with 200 sailors and 700 Soudanese and attacked the Rushire camp. The natives repelled the attack with great fierceness and fought bravely after their manner, but were repulsed and put to flight after eight of their number had been killed. Lieutenant Wissman's forces fared badly in the conflict. Forty of the Soudanese were killed and an officer of the Schwalbe and several of the lieutenant's staff were wounded.

PROPERLY TREATED.

LONDON, May 10.—Messrs O'Brien and Edward Harrington, the temporarily released prisoners, attract general attention in the Parnell commission, and their testimony is awaited with interest. In intervals of the proceedings they are treated with more than civility by the judges, who chat with them in familiar manner and have made them their guests at luncheon.

JUBILEE HANDICAP.

LONDON, May 10.—The jubilee handicap at the Kempton races to-day was won by Amphion, Screech Gwl second, The Rejected third.

COUNT TOLSTOI'S FUNERAL.

ST. PETERSBUG, May 10.—The funeral of Count Tolstoi, late minister of the interior, took place to-day. The czar was present at the funeral. The czar has donated an item of 200,000 roubles to the Countess Tolstoi, and in addition, a yearly pension of 6,000 roubles.

A GREAT SCHEME.

PARIS, May 10.—A proposition submitted by La Liberte has caused some comment here to-day. That journal urges President Carnot to mark the centennial year of the revolution by repealing the exile laws and proclaiming general amnesty. An act of this sort, says La Liberte, would prove the power of France and would show that she does not fear her enemies. It would also tend to destroy Boulangism.

FOR STOCKHOLM.

LONDON, May 10.—Hon. W. W. Thomas, United States minister to Norway and Sweden, arrived at Liverpool yesterday and will go direct to Stockholm.

CORRESPONDENCE.

A Fisherman Speaks.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—In your issue of the 8th inst., I noticed an article regarding the new fishing regulations upon the Fraser river. It is true, as you say, that there is considerable excitement among the fishermen, and when the means of making an honest living is taken away from a great number of men there is good excuse for excitement, and perhaps more. The fishermen as a body are deprived by the new regulations from obtaining licenses, and men who have fished on the Fraser river ranging from 5 to 19 years and have in that time succeeded in buying boats and nets of their own, are thrown over. The canneries have gobbled up all the licenses except 100. Of these, the Indians get 37, says the writer. The Indians are allowed to fish for their own use without license all the year round. It is known that there were not more than 10 Indians at most licensed last year. The freezers, and others having 3 or 4 licenses apiece, get the balance. The fact is that cannerymen have obtained control of every license issued. Who are entitled to license if not the men who do the fishing? The cannerymen don't fish. The new fishing regulations are monstrous, and will do the city of New Westminster more injury than many people dream of. They were passed to benefit Victoria at the expense of New Westminster, and any one who knows anything about the Fraser river is aware that the talk about fishing it out is nonsense. Due notice should have been given the fishermen before allowing them to go to the expense of buying boats and nets of their own preparatory for this year's fishing.

Yours respectfully,
FISHERMAN.

Westminster, May 10th.

Gone to Jail.

William Jackson, sentenced to two years in the penitentiary for larceny, was yesterday taken to New Westminster jail in care of Constable Stewart. The prisoner was quite cheerful and seemed anxious to get to his destination. Probably finding his crocodile tears had no effect on an unsympathetic public he decided to brazen it out. Sympathy is wasted on gentry like this and yet there are numberless instances of persons, principally women, making small heroes out of criminals who make a pretence of penitence in the dock. Tears are cheap.—Courier.

The Victoria Times has got the "big head," and got it bad. We almost knew that it would end in that. No journal can go on in the way the Times has been going lately, and not come to some bad end. The Times has been fooling of late with such double-back-actioned brain-tanglers as "erotic literature," "idealism vs. realism," "Henry Georgism," "theosophy, or esoteric Buddhism," and even "cigarettes" and "lager beer." And on the top of all this it essays the other day the role of Wiggins, in some observations on the Westminster and Seattle Railway. "Senator Canfield's railway, as it is called, seems to be a foregone conclusion," says Times. So far our cotemporary is all right, only it might have been persuaded of that fact long ago. The Times continues: "A syndicate of eastern capitalists have interested themselves in the project, and if the work of construction is pushed, as there is every reason to think it will be, another year will witness the connection of New Westminster with Seattle." So long as the Times sticks to patent facts it gets along nicely, but directly it breaks loose into a mad whirl of conjecture, and shapes its imaginings after its own desires, all becomes flighty, impracticable, and incoherent. "By this arrangement, which brings the C.P. and the N. P. together," says the Times, "the rational conclusion to draw is that there will be a grand terminal city opposite the Straits of Fuca, and that the four cities, Tacoma, Seattle, New Westminster and Vancouver, now terminal points, will be relegated to way stations." This is what the Times would like to see, of course. As it says later on, "Victoria, however, can contemplate these changes with perfect equanimity. What happens on the mainland, bordering the Sound, is of no particular consequence to her." Referring to its "big guess" above, the Times says: "Our reasons for so thinking are that the nearest common point on the Sound for seagoing craft necessarily implies that there will be the terminal city of the transcontinental railway lines. * * * Vancouver, the terminal point of the C. P. R., there is on opposite the straits of Fuca, touch at Victoria. The terminal point opposite the straits of Fuca, however, and a detour is required to reach Victoria. This kind of talk is not pleasant," &c. We agree with our cotemporary that it is a little too incoherent to be pleasant reading, and the last clause would stand re-writing. The Times, we are glad to notice, has a lucid interval towards the conclusion, winding up as follows: "But let us not anticipate too much. We should very much dislike to fall within the category of false prophets. It is sufficient to know that this Canfield railway portends radical changes, and that we must patiently await results." The Times might have expressed itself in fewer words, with much greater clearness. Its labored article simply amounts to this: "The Canfield railway is going to be built, after all" (certainly very stale news), "and when it is completed—something is going to happen!" You bet it is; and if the befuddled Times man will take a spin up to the hub, about two years from now, over the Victoria, Saanich and Westminster Railway, we pledge ourselves to his friends that he won't get lost. We shall also be happy to drive him around the premier city of British Columbia, and show him what has happened.

In the comparative scarcity of, and the mad rush for, land in the United States, "Poor Lo" will soon be utterly crowded to the wall. The relatively small Indian Territory which the "pale faces" years ago set apart as a national reserve for the orignial lords of the soil is now earnestly coveted by hungry boomers and land seekers. With the opening of Oklahoma to settlement (which by the way has not turned out to be such a paradise as it was at first represented) the wedge has been entered that will very soon rend the red man's alloted heritage assunder and distribute it among his constitutional and remorseless exterminators. Already the "Cherokee strip," as the Indian land adjacent to Oklahoma is known, is rapidly being occupied along its borders by squatters who were unsuccesful in securing claims in the territory just thrown open. The presssure for the opening of the Cherokee strip, for the purchase of which from the Indians negotiations are on foot, will speedily become intense. The spirit of the squatters is thus described in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat: "They have abandoned their old homes with the fixed resolution to make new ones, and they will not return simply because they have failed in this one peculiar attempt. It is easy for them to convice themselves that by the act of removal they have become entitled to homesteads—if not in Oklahoma, then in some other place where lands can be open to settlement by similar means. Strictly speaking, the government is not to blame for their bad luck; but the fact remains that they went there upon its invitation, and that it cannot afford to disregard the condition in which they have thereby been placed. The argument of moral obligation holds, whatever may be said of the legal feature of the case. There is still an abundance of unoccupied land in the Indian Territory which can be obtained for the use of home-seekers just as the Oklahoma tract was obtained; and these people will insist with a decided show of reason and justice that such action shall be taken." As showing still further the trend of public sentiment in the States on expropriating these Indian lands for settlements—a step which is plainly inevitable — the following remarks from the Graphic are of interest, revealing also, as they do, something of the desperateness of the race and land problems in the United States: "The ordinary mind fails to comprehend why the United States army should be employed to keep white settlers from getting 160-acre homes and to protect Indians in retaining a thousand ones apiece. The policy is certain to be unpopular, whatever its right in sentiment and equity. It is therefore important that the negotiations for these lands should be rapidly pressed to a conclusion. But there is a more important consideration involved in this situation, which should be immediately placed before the public and become the subject of legislation. This is, the rapidly narrowing the area of public lands. Immigration and the natural growth of population have developed this country more rapidly than any nation in the world's history was ever developed. The public lands are being occupied by settlers at a rate that will take up the last acre within a quarter of a century. What are we going to do then? This is the question of the hour, and in restricted immigration, extension of national boundaries, or the gradual removal of the black race to Hayti or San Domingo—possibly in all three directions—the answer will be found."

Inebriety or alcoholism is recognized by the medical faculty as a disease, and as such is amenable to a scientific course of treatment. In a recent lecture at Toronto, Dr. Elliott is reported as laying down the following: For the cure of inebriety four conditions must be observed. The first condition of cure and reformation is abstinence. The patient is being poisoned, and the poisoning must be stopped. Were it an arsenic instead of an alcohol, no one would dispute this. So long as the drinking of intoxicants is indulged in, so long will the bodily, mental, and moral mischief be intensified and made permanent. Abstinence must be absolute, and on no plea of fashion, of physic, or of religion ought the smallest quantity of an intoxicant be put to the lips of the alcoholic slave. Alcohol is a material chemical narcotic poison, and a mere sip has, even in the most solemn circumstances, been known to relight in the fiercest intensity the drink crave which for a long period of years had been dormant and unfelt. The second condition of cure is to ascertain the predisposing and exciting causes of inebriety, and to endeavor to remove these causes, which may lie in some remote or deep-seated physical ailment. The third condition of cure is to restore the physical and mental tone. This can be done by appropriate medical treatment, by fresh air and exercise, by nourishing and digestible food given to reconstruct healthy bodily tissue and brain cell, aided by intellectual, educational, and religious influences. Nowhere can these conditions of cure be so effectually carried out as in an asylum where the unfortunate victim of drink is placed in quarantine, treated with suitable remedies until the alcohol is removed from his system, then surrounded by Christian and elevating influences, fed with a nourishing and suitable diet, and supplied with skillful medical treatment. His brain and nervous system will then be gradually restored to its normal condition, and, after a period of from six to twelve months in most cases, he will be so far recovered as to be able to return to his usual avocation and successfully resist his craving for drink. The fourth condition of cure is employment. Idleness is the foster-mother of drunkenness, industry the bulwark of temperance. Let the mind of the penitent inebriate be kept occupied by regular work, and the task of reformation will be shorn of half its difficulty.

THE SENSITIVE "FREAK."

A sensitive "freak" in a museum stood,
Where the hours were short and the salary good;
He was tattooed red, white and blue,
Was the "Bearded Lady," too,
Likewise the skeleton tall and thin,
And he boasted a most elastic skin;
He had grown his feet to abnormal size,
And whitened his hair Albino wise,
But he said in language plain and bold
That when he was abandoned the day'd be cold!
That he was unhappy exhibiting there,
For down in his breast lurked a poignant care;
He suffered deeply and oft because
He wanted to be far more than he was;
His sensitive nature could not brook
That the public at any one else should look.
He wanted to be the "Leopard Boy,"
And the "Phantom Lady," cold and coy,
The wonderful "Glass-devouring Star,"
And the fair "Circassian" from Mullingar!

He hated the sinuous "Human Snakes,"
Whose pictures sold like the hottest cakes,
Though it was said that he practiced lots
Twisting himself into awful knots.
He punched the "What Is It" in the head,
And cut the "Capillary Sisters" dead;
Traced the "Midget" under the ban,
And wouldn't shake feet with the "Armless Man;"
Kicked the "Cannibal" out of his road,
And said to the "Glass-Blower:" "You be blowed!"

Greater each day his importance grew,
Till his head at length began swelling, too;
Then others were noticed he screamed and cried
Till his head exploded, and so he died;
And they said, as they washed off his gay tattoo,
And hung up his beard where the wind blew through,
That it was amazing he should be dead,
Simply because he had lost his head;
That 'twas a warning, his awful fate,
To people who think themselves so great.

—Edward E. Kidder, in Dramatic News.

THE LITTLE NEWS-MAN.

The Pathetic Story of His Mother's Tombstone.

It was no wonder the men stopped their work and stared. It was no wonder that one or two of them laughed for a moment. It looked so strange and somehow out of place. None of us had ever seen or heard anything like it before.

It was in the yard of the largest marble works in the city of Chicago. Ever so many fine monuments, delicately carved and finished, stood there complete to show how well work could be done; and then there was work in all stages of finish, some pieces of marble just begun to be chiseled; little and great, simple and elegant. Then there were broken pieces of marble lying there apparently useless, and some otherwise, but broken in process of chiseling.

Not one of all these escaped the quick eye of the little street vagrant (as any of us would have called him) who had entered the yard a few momemts before with such a business air, and walked from one to the other and scanned them closely. We had paid little attention to him, for we thought it for want of something worse to do, probably, he had just wandered in. It was a first question that startled us. The chisels died away from the faces of all as they listened to him and watched him. He stepped nearer to the one that he took to be boss among us, and said:

"I say, mister, how much does this cost?" He pointed to a plain marble slab that looked simple enough in the midst of so many finer ones. I can't tell you how his question sounded, for you can't hear his voice. It had in it something which brought tears instead of smiles.

The boss named the price, a disappointment crept over the face of the ragged little newsboy, and with a forced smile that was wider than tears he looked up with:

"Why, that's more than I thought; I ain't got to pay that."

He went on through the smaller ones inquiring the price of each, and each time making his disappointment that all were too costly for his small means. Finally he stopped in front of a broken shaft of marble; one of the remains of an accident in the yard the day before. He took off his ragged hat, and gazing at the broken stone for a few moments he stammered out, through tears:

"I say, mister, that looks like her some day. How much may I have it for?"

He was asked if he would want it lettered, and when it was explained to him what that meant, and that it would cost something to have it done, he said:

"No; I can't afford that, but p'raps I can manage that myself," and again that sad, tired smile.

"You see," he went on, "mother and I were all there were left of us, leastways as far as we knew, for we haven't heard from her for ever so long. We kept house together. I earned what I could, and mother she worked as long as she was able. She wasn't very old, but she was always crying; only when she cheered up to make her little son happy—that's what she told me; but she couldn't cheer up for long. She grew sicker and sicker, and—well—I did all I could for her; but—she died last week"— The little fellow was sobbing now as he leaned on the broken shaft that reminded him of his mother.

His tears were not the only ones, I can tell you. We nodded to the boss, and he named a price so small that the manly little fellow looked up with amazement that at first he had found something within his means. He quickly closed the bargain and counted out the nickles and pennies for his prize. He walked about for a few moments among the stones spelling out, as best he could, the inscriptions, asked several questions about how it was done, and how long it took; then hastily went out like a man of business, saying:

"I'll be after it to-morrow."

He came toward the middle of the day when the morning papers were all sold. He had a little four-wheeled cart which he wheeled us to load the stone in; and never a purchaser had left that yard with a sweeter, more satisfaction than our little hero. He took the streets toward the cemetery—we know, for we watched him—and a more curious and interested set of men you never saw than were our workmen to know what would become of our little news-man as we saw now to calling him; for he didn't seem like a boy to us.

We half expected he would turn up some day to learn more about the lettering or something, but he never came, and our curiosity, we thought, was likely never to be satisfied.

One Monday morning as we gathered at our work, one of the men, who, we had noticed, seemed particularly sober started us with:

"I say, boys, wouldn't you like to know what became of our little news-man?"

"Yes, yes; what do you know of him?" came from several at once; and work was forgotten for a time as we listened to the story of our little hero to the end.

"Well," said the workman, "I will own I have thought of the little fellow every day since he was here; and somehow couldn't get rid of the thought that I should like to know what had become of him. How to find out I couldn't tell, for not one of us had asked where he lived or his name or knew of any one who could tell us. Yesterday I thought of a plan; and so in the afternoon I went for the cemetery I thought it likely I should find his stone to. I was lucky, for at the first question the man in charge seemed to know whom I meant, and asked if I would know the stone if I saw it. I told him I would, and he started with me toward the corner of the cemetery that I was afraid was the Potter's Field. I asked him if he was taking me to the paupers' burying-ground, for I could not somehow bear to think that our little news-man's mother had had no better place to be laid away in. He answered:

"'No; but if it hadn't been for one of your good churches down there in the city, she would have fared no better than all other paupers. You know the big mission church down on the avenue? Well, they couldn't think of burying their Sunday-school scholars in the Potter's Field, if they were "only paupers," many of them; and so several years ago they bought a big lot up here just for them, and there's where I'm taking you. There it is,' he said, as we stopped in front of a big lot, nicely fixed up—and sure enough there was our monument, at the head of one of the larger graves. I knew it at once, just as it was when it left our yard, I was going to say, until I got a little nearer to it, and saw what the little chap had done. O, boys! I can't describe to you the lettering on that stone; you will have to go out and see it for yourselves. I will confess, that something blurred my eyes so I couldn't read it at first. The little man had tried to keep the lines straight, and evidently thought that capitals would make it look better and bigger, for nearly every letter was a capital. I copied it, and here it is, but you want to see it on the stone to appreciate it:

"'MY MOTHER
SHEE DIDE LAST WEAK.
SHEE WAS ALL I HAD. SHEE
SED SHEAD Boo WAITIN FUR—'

And here, boys, the lettering stopped. After awhile I went back to the man in charge, and asked him what further he knew of the little fellow who brought the stone.

"Not much," he said, "not much. Didn't you notice a fresh little grave near the one with the stone? Well, he lies there. He had been coming here every afternoon for some time, working away at that stone, and one day I missed him, and then for several days. Then the man came out from that church that had buried the mother and ordered the grave dug by her side. I asked if it was for the little chap. He said it was. He had sold his papers all out one day and was hurrying along the street out this way. He didn't notice the runaway team just above the crossing, and—well—he was run over, and didn't live but a day or two. He had in his hand when he was picked up an old file, sharpened down to a point, that he did all the lettering on that stone with. They said he seemed to be thinking only of that until he died, for he kept saying: 'I didn't get it done, but she'll know I meant to finish it, won't she? I'll tell her so, for she'll be waiting for me,' and, boys, he died with those words on his lips."

We were still for awhile; none of us wanted to say any thing.

"And now, boys, what shall we do?" said the man who had told us the story.

"Do; why here is what I want to do," said one of the youngest men, who had only himself to look after: "Get the best stone in the yard, and here's a V to begin it."

We all threw in, and if we didn't get him the best stone, we got him a good one. Under his name—we got it from the superintendent of the school, and put it on because of the father, who might some day come back—we put: "He loved his mother;" and I'll warrant you will find no better lettering in that cemetery than you will find on that stone.

The superintendent of the Sunday-school us to let him know when we put up stone, and we did, and a regular delegation of them went out with us, he and some of the teachers, all of the little news-man's class, and a good many of the other scholars, and the good man who built the church got into the city the night before and came out with them. He had heard something of the story from the teacher, but you ought to have seen him when he looked at those stones; the tears ran down his cheeks and he didn't try to stop them either.

He made a little speech, and after we had set the stone told the scholars how the little fellow had loved and worked for his mother, and how he had denied himself to put up this little stone to her memory. He told them that the little fellow loved the Saviour, too, and tried to live to please Him.

"Children," he said, "I would rather be that brave, loving, Christian little newsboy, and lie there with that on my tomb-stone, than be King of the world and not love and respect my mother."

And all I have to say is, I believe many a great, rich one dies without leaving half as much to the world as the little news-man did.—The Advance.

SOME PATENT TRICKS.

How Innocent Inventors Are Bled by Professional Tricksters.

When an inventor receives a patent, his name is immortalized in the Official Gazette, and he immediately becomes an object of attack from a hoarde of hungry aspirants for money, among whom are ex-clerks, patent brokers and pretended legal lights of varying degrees. The patentee, says the Scientific American, is deluged with circulars and letters from this class of gentry. Some write to inform him confidentially that his patent is good for nothing; but on receipt of a certain fee they will set it right and make it sound as a silver dollar. Others pleasantly inform the new-fledged inventor that they have read his patent with great pleasure, consider it to be a very valuable invention. If properly introduced, much money can be soon realized. The State of Iowa, they say, is worth $50,000; Ohio, $45,000; Pennsylvania, $65,000, and so on. All that is necessary is to print some circulars and do a little blowing, which the broker generously offers to do on receipt from the inventor of ten to fifty dollars cash in advance. Another writes to say he has an actual offer of $10,000 for the patent for Canada, provided the patent is at once taken, which he will procure on receipt of the necessary money. It is almost needless to suggest these schemes are designed to fleece the inventor. The so-called patent-sellers rarely effects a bone fide sale. They depend upon the advance fees obtained as above for a livelihood. Some of them have thus grown rich and prosperous.

These pretended sellers try to make it appear they are reliable by giving respectable references, and cite names of patentees for whom they purport to have sold patents. One mode of procuring these references is as follows: They write the patentee they have a customer who will buy a county right in Minnesota for $500, and pay by deeding 25 acres of land in Arkansas, really worth $1,000, but the parties are so anxious to obtain the patent right they are willing to let the land go and take the right, in settlement, provided $50 cash is paid and a mortgage is given for $500. This done, the patent broker closes the transaction, receives the $50 cash, which is the full value of the land, also receives a mortgage for $500, together with the patent deed. At the same time the broker is careful to obtain a written certificate from the inventor stating: "I take pleasure in saying that X. Y. Z. & Co. have sold a patent right for me, at my price, and on terms satisfactory, and I recommend them," etc. In this way references are secured which make quite an impressive show on circulars, while the inventor is so ashamed of having been so easily duped, he keeps mum.

One of the latest tricks is the following: The patentee receives a letter from A. & B. asking for how much he will sell his patent for such and such a State. He replies, giving a price, say $5,000. The patentee soon after receives another letter from X. Y. Z., saying that A. & B. write they have corresponded with you, and now say they have decided to purchase the patent on the terms named, provided the title and claims are found to be correct. To ascertain this they require that X. Y. Z. shall examine and report upon the patent, otherwise A. & B. will not purchase; that if the patentee wishes to complete the sale, he must remit fifty dollars to pay for the examination, which is a work independent of the sale, and must be independently paid. The inventor sends the money; a report is made adverse to the patentee; no purchase is made; none was ever intended. Such are a few of the adroit schemes now in vogue for swindling "innocent" inventors.

More Forcible Than Polite.

When Dr. John McLean was president of Princeton College the students were required to attend a Bible class under his instruction. One of the students once relieved the tedium of the hour by bringing in with him a small dog which he kept concealed under his desk. When the exercises had well begun he pinched the dog's tail, and the dog yelped. The good president looked about, took in the situation, but said nothing. Shortly after the tail was again pinched, and again the dog yelped. Thereupon Dr. McLean looked around once more, and then slowly said: "If that other pup would only let that pup alone, then that pup would behave itself."

Surprising Corroboration.

Amy—"I like Charley; his kisses are so nice!" Bello (with enthusiasm)—"Aren't they!"

Direct Canadian emigration from Liverpool last week decreased 41 per cent. compared with 1888. This week again shows a decrease, though the number of continental immigrants, chiefly Scandinavians and Germans, still show an increase of 30 per cent. over last year.

Mr. Walkem, C.E., is running a line, a side track, into the MacLaren-Ross Mills from "N" trestle, which is about 3 miles east of this city. The spur will be about half a mile in length, and construction will commence as soon as Mr. Walkem completes the survey and lays out the work.

The medical board of the province, which has been sitting at Victoria, concluded its business last evening. Richmond Debentures.

By an advertisement elsewhere it will be seen that $15,000 worth of Richmond municipality debentures, bearing 6 per cent. interest, are offered for sale. The security offered by the corporation in question is excellent, and the debentures should be snapped up like hot cakes.

New Logging Camp.

Mr. W. H. Higgins has started a new logging camp on Deep Cove, North Arm of Burrard Inlet, and has over 40 men at work getting out logs. He proposes to cut some 8,000,000 ft. of logs during the year if everything works favorably. The timber is easy of access to the water's edge, and is of exceptionally fine quality. Mr. Higgins will probably start a camp in another locality in a short time.

Second Coolachan Run.

W. H. Vianen wore a smile on his face to-day as broad as a large basket of chips, the cause of this unexpected cheerfulness being a second run of coolachans, which have made their appearance in even greater numbers than they did a month ago. The Indians as well as Vianen, had their nets out almost as soon as it was discovered the coolachans were to hand, and some very heavy hauls were made. Mr. Vianen thinks the first run was not the regular one, and that the great run is just about to commence.

Our Boys.

Capt. Pittendrigh addressed the police magistrate this morning, complaining of the disgraceful conduct of a large number of boys on the Crescent last night while the rifles were at skirmishing drill. He stated that they acted in a most disorderly and blackguard manner, and that the language used by them was so vile as to force ladies, who had strolled in that direction, to return home. He asked that on future occasions a constable be told off for special duty, and that an example be made of a few of the worst. Mr. Atkinson promised that the matter should be attended to, and that if any of these lads were brought before him charged with such conduct, they would have good reason to regret their misbehaviour. The conduct of the boys last night was certainly disgraceful, and their language, which was enough to make one shudder, coming as it did from such young lips.

From the Interior.

Mr. J. Hemans, the well known rancher of Cache creek, arrived in the city last night with a consignment of cattle for Victoria. Mr. Hemans reports that in all his experience the cattle never wintered better than they did last winter and they are in as prime condition now as they usually are in June. The prospects for the cattle trade are a little better than in former years, but the supply will be fully equal to the demand. The grass on the hills is looking splendid and a good hay crop will be a certainty if the rain does not hold off too long. Very few new settlers are going into the Cache creek district this spring, but the Chilcoten country is attracting quite a number. Chilcoten would soon be well settled but for the fact that the up country people still dread the Indians of that tribe. The grass lands of Chilcoten are considered the finest in the province and some day it will become the ranching centre. Mr. Hemans will bring down a train load of cattle every two weeks during the season.

Unsavory Rose.

Yesterday afternoon an Indian woman, who had been in town making purchases, met with an accident by which she and her child nearly lost their lives. The woman had bought about $25 worth of provisions, and had loaded them into her canoe at the slip opposite Mounce Bros.' store, when a man named Wm. Rose came up and asked to be allowed to go home with her. She refused him any such privilege and got into the canoe leaving the little boy on the wharf till she could bring the craft a little nearer the slip. Rose picked up the child, put him in the canoe and stepped in himself. The canoe was several feet from the slip and Rose was forced to make a spring in order to get aboard. The force of the jump was sufficiently great to upset the canoe, and he with the woman, child and provisions were capsized into the water. The woman after a hard struggle managed to reach the shore, but the child would have been drowned but for Mr. Jas. Mounce, who saw the accident and went to the rescue and succeeded in saving the little chap. The provisions and a number of utensils in the boat were lost. Rose was arrested and this morning appeared before the police magistrate, who fined him in all $35 or in default 2 months in gaol with hard labor. He was unable to pay and consequently will have to work his sentence out in the chain gang.

The Bond Arranged.

The bond to be given by C. M. Sheafe & Co. to the city of New Westminster, as a guarantee that the railway between this city and Whatcom will be operated and maintained forever, has been satisfactorily arranged, and agreed to by Mr. I. B. Fisher of the Bank of British Columbia. The Southern Railway Company and the Bellingham Bay Railway and Navigation Co. have been agreed on as sureties for the $500,000 bond, which is to be given on the completion of the road, and is to be perpetual. The half million dollars will cover the operation and maintenance of 48 miles of road, which when built and equipped will cost $1,500,000. The bond of the companies was taken in preference to that of an individual, on the ground that an individual may die or become insolvent, rendering the bond worthless, while sound corporations are on the whole more substantial surety. The change in the personnel of the bond has given general satisfaction to all concerned.

Mr. King and Mr. Dickinson left this afternoon for Seattle, and the former gentleman hopes to be back next week for the purpose of settling up all outstanding liabilities. He may be required to go as far east as St. Paul before re-visiting Westminster. Arrangements have been made with the syndicate, which proposes purchasing the bonds, that if the report of Messrs. Hewitt and Lombard is accepted the money will be obtainable immediately.

William Power, a Darlington Ont., retired farmer, aged 60, accidently shot himsels yesterday.

The Exposition Fund.

The above fund in THE COLUMBIAN will be found to foot up now the fairly respectable sum of $1,162.85. A perusal of the terms over the subscription list will show that the money so contributed was designed to be "applied to preparing exhibition grounds and buildings in the city, for increasing the amount offered in prizes, and for furthering the exhibition in other ways." Considerable money will of course be raised in other ways for the same purposes but the "fund" will come in handy as well, and we are reminded that it is getting about time to collect the "spondulux." We would make the following suggestion to this end, namely, that subscribers should pay their subscriptions into the Bank of Montreal to the order of Thos. Cunningham, of this city, who, besides being vice-president of the Agricultural Association, is chairman of the park committee and a member of the city council, and therefore in a position to make a judicious apportionment of the fund to the various purposes for which it was subscribed. To give sufficient time for subscribers to the fund to approve or disapprove of the above suggestion, we would also suggest that two weeks be allowed to elapse before paying any subscriptions.

Found Dead.

Dr. A. E. Sanders was found dead in his bed at the Delmonico Hotel this morning. The deceased was a resident of this city for the past three months, and appeared to be in easy circumstances. For a short time he resided at Harrison Hot Springs. He arrived in Victoria with his wife and child about three months ago, but the latter returned to Moscow, Idaho Territory, about three weeks ago. The deceased was last seen alive on Tuesday night, when he returned to the hotel and immediately went to his room. The chambermaid opened his room door this morning and noticed that he was still in bed. Her suspicions were aroused when she again entered the room, and saw that the deceased was lying in the same position, and becoming alarmed, Mr. Escalet was called. The doctor was dead, and appeared to have passed away without a struggle. The cause of death was morphine poisoning. Supt. Sheppard took charge of the remains, and sent a telegram to Mrs. Sanders. It is likely that the body will be kept until the arrival of his wife. Dr. Sanders made many friends in British Columbia, and his death will be deplored by those who knew him best.—Times, May 8.

C., $5,000; wharf and shed at Victoria, $2,000; Indian industrial school at Kamloops and on Kuper Island, $7,000; Indian pupils at Metlakahtla, $3,250; principal at Metlakahtla; $800; matron, $400; cook, $250; instructor of trades, $600; wages of two servants, $400; additional for rations of employes, $720; additional grant to C. Money for the Southern.

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer of Tuesday last says:—In a talk with Mr. Eugene Canfield, president of the Bellingham Bay Railway and Navigation Company yesterday, it was learned that the gentlemen sent out by the eastern syndicate have made their report, which strongly endorses the country and the management of the road. The report has been seen by Mr. Canfield. In this report the $3,350,000 necessary to complete the road from Seattle to New Westminster is recommended to be advanced to the company. It is expected that the money will be ready within a very short time, and then work will be commenced all along the line. The portion of the line between Seattle and Whatcom is ninty-eight miles in length, and from Whatcom to the British Columbia line is 21½ miles, or a total of 119½ miles. At $21,500 per mile the 119½ miles would cost $2,987,500. The 21½ miles from the British Columbia line to New Westminster at $20,000 per mile would cost $550,000. This added to the cost of the 119½ miles makes a total of $3,537,500. These were the estimates made by President Eugene Canfield. The representatives of the eastern syndicate cut this down to $3,350,000, or took off $187,500 from his estimate. The experts of the syndicate carefully examined the timber and resources along the line of the road and discovered that Mr. Canfield's estimates fell far beneath their own. Mr. Canfield states that his estimates were purposely made small in order that he might not be accused of exaggeration. On one portion of the road from a certain point to another point Mr. Canfield estimated that there were 1,800,000,000 feet of timber. The experts of the syndicate looked over the tract in question and reported that there were 4,240,000,000 feet in it.
