NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Young Lady—Father, this is scandalous! The idea of a man in your standing coming home in this condition! Old Gentleman—Couldn't (hic) help it, m'dear. Met zee young feller I wouldn't let you marry, an' (hic) had some drinks wiz him, and he's such a good feller I said he (hic) could marry you right off, m'dear. "Mercy! Where is he?" "Dunno, m'dear. P'liceman took 'im off (hic) in wheelbarrow."

A good colored man once said in a classmeeting: "Bredren, when I was a boy I took a hatchet and went into de woods. When I found a tree dat was straight, big and solid I didn't touch dat tree, but when I found one leaning a little and hollow inside, I soon had him down. So when the debbil goes after Christians, he don't touch dem dat stand straight and true, but dem dat lean a little and are hollow inside."

The following cheerful intelligence is conveyed by a late Paris despatch: Sara Bernhardt's new coffin was shipped to England to day, where she goes to play an engagement of several weeks. The new coffin she had was seized some time ago, with other personal effects, by relentless creditors. The new coffin is daintily lined with blue silk, and at the head has a soft little pillow trimmed with Valenciennes laces. It is Sarah's grim humor, sometimes, to sleep in her coffin.

Mr. A. M. Stenhouse, the British Columbia legislator who abandoned politics to join the Mormon colony in Alberta, insists that his associates will practice polygamy if they like, and that the Dominion cannot prevent their doing so. Mr. Stenhouse is evidently not familiar with the state of our laws though, as an ex-stateman, he should be. The Dominion is very particular on the marriage question. Pagan Indians alone escape prosecution for polygomy.—Mail.

The Duke of Portland is the luckiest man in England. When he was born the chances against his ever holding his present title were very great. But he became a peer early in life and his income is sufficient to keep a whole multitude of wolves from the door. His racing stable consists of only sixteen horses, but has won the Derby two years in succession, and this season he will probably carry of the leading three and four-year old events. He is as fortunate in love as in other ways, and is madly devoted to six feet of handsome English girlhood.—Ex.

The lawsuit against Judge Hilton to bring him to account for his course in administering the Stewart estate, says an exchange, is one of the most remarkable, in the amount involved and the time and labor attending its prosecution, on record. The testimony taken in it covered 16,000 folio pages of paper, and it was printed at a cost of $24,000, though only twenty-four copies were struck from the press. Judge Hilton compromises, without calling for a decision, by paying the plaintiffs the sum of $6,000,000, it is said, yet still has the comfortable sum comprised in the balance remaining of $30,000,000 as his own fortune.

Says the Pall Mall Gazette: A Chinaman in Canton was in the habit of stealing his master's money and swallowing it. At last he died of his bad habit, and when the surgeons examined him thirty-two tencent pieces were found in his interior, and two of them had lodged so awkwardly as to cause his death. "Such," piously remarks the Chinese commentator, "are the wages of unhallowed greed." If money-swallowing is a habit of Ah Sin we can understand why, when he dies abroad, his relatives are so anxious to have his material envelope sent home to them. A dead Chinaman may be as good as a gold mine to his sorrowing kinsmen.

A new and noticeable figure among the numerous dignitaries and officials in the suite of the Shah of Persia is a young boy of 12, whom the Shah has covered with dignities and titles, and who is an object of envy and fear to most of his majesty's ministers. His name is Goolamali Khan. He is the director of the Corps of Royal Pages, and one of his titles is Azizus-Sultan, "Favorite of the Monarch." Neither minister, vizier, nor royal prince has ever been allowed to sit at the Shah's table, but Goolamali Khan is an exception to this law of the Persian. He is constantly by his master's side, and has more servants to wait upon him than any two of the royal ministers. The explanation of this extraordinary treatment is to be found in the Persian monarch's conviction that his life is inseparably and mysteriously bound up with that of Goolamali Khan and that wise men have foretold that the Shah's death will be preceded only a few days by that of his young favorite; that the health and prosperity of the latter will mean the health and prosperity of the former; and that generally whatever befalls this little one will also happen to his royal protector. This belief has resulted in the boy's leading a life of ease and luxury unknown to the most fortunate courtiers in Teheran. He was seated on the knees of two magnificent grandees on the Shah's entry into St Petersburg.—Ex.

ILL-FAT'D JOHNSTOWN

A Great Fire Now Sweeping the Remainder of Johnstown Out of Existence.

Chinese Highbinders Murder a Fellow Countryman for a Small Unpaid Debt.

Sir Charles Tupper, Bart., Makes a Telling Speech on Imperial Federation.

POOR JOHNSTOWN.

JOHNSTOWN, June 24.—At 1 o'clock this afternoon the upper end of the first ward caught fire from a large pile of debris that was burning. The flames enveloped 25 or more houses, and in a few moments got beyond control. Four Philadelphia fire engines were put to work, but could do nothing to stay the spread of the fire, which now threatens to sweep away the entire upper end of the town. A high wind is blowing. The militia have been ordered from camp to assist the citizens and firemen. The value of property in this district is at least $30,000.

3 P.M.—The wind is high and the fire is spreading rapidly toward Kerneville. It has gotten beyond the control of the fire department and now covers five acres.

MCDOW'S TRIAL.

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 24.—Dr. L. B. McDow's trial for the murder of Editor Dawson began this morning in the criminal court. The room was crowded with a dense throng of white and black people. The jury is composed of 7 negroes and 5 whites. The impression prevails that McDow will get off. About 40 witnesses are to be examined.

PASSENGER LIST.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—The str. Walla Walla sailed for Victoria this morning with the following passengers: J. Hall, M. H. Cowan, J. McLean and wife, A. Rivers, E. J. Maybee, C. McKurty, Miss M. B. Estee, Miss E. Robinson, Miss E. Clarke, Mrs S. M. Webster, Miss P. Macomber, C. E. Redfern and wife, Rev. J. Miller and wife, Miss C. McLeod.

HIGHBINDER'S WORK.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—Tom Ah Poy, one of the three highbinders who butchered Tong Hoy to death with hatchets on the street late last night, was captured early this morning. One of the murderers is still at large. Hoy owed Poy a small sum of money, and, with the two others to aid him, murdered Hoy for refusing to repay him.

MURDERED.

OMAHA, June 24.—John Plummer, a prominent farmer, was murdered last night while returning from the meeting of the farmer's alliance, of which he was a prominent member. Geo. Plummer, his brother, has been arrested on suspicion, as bad blood has existed between them for some time.

CLAXTON FAILS.

MONTREAL, June 24.—T. J. Claxton & Sons, manufacturers and importers, have assigned. Liabilities $200,000.

OTTAWA NOTES.

OTTAWA, June 22.—Ex-President Cleveland and a fishing party will visit Kingston shortly.

The Mail publishes a letter from grand Chaplain Potter of the Orange lodge of the metropolitan province, England, protesting against the Jesuits' Estates bill and endorsing a resolution passed by the metropolitan grand lodge on the subject. The resolution sympathizes with the Canadian Orangemen.

A Kingston dispatch says: A battery was summoned from the city at one o'clock this morning to the Kingston penitentiary to quell a threatened revolt. Sir John S. D. Thompson has left for the scene. At the department of justice here officials say the troops were only called out as a precautionary measure, because the penitentiary is in darkness. In a few days the gas will be superseded by electric light.

IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

LONDON, June 22.—Sir Charles Tupper made an important speech at the annual dinner of the Imperial Federation League to-night. He congratulated the league on the progress of the movement in Canada, though himself unable to join some of the federationists in believing the empire must fall to pieces unless a great radical change in the constitution was effected. The movement had not set the heather on fire in Canada, because, perhaps, no colony needs less stimulus to loyalty to the empire; also because the French Canadian population desired nothing better than their existing liberties. Still, if the movement should take a practical turn let the British government and the opposition unite, and summon an imperial conference in London to consider the whole question, especially on the basis of self-interest to each part of the empire. He believed such a convention would have a practical outcome, and would lead to the adoption of a fiscal policy, which would add strength and unity to the empire. The speaker was much cheered. Lord Herschel thought a conference would be, perhaps, premature. Mr. Rankin, M. P., urged the Dominion government to take the initiative with the other colonies.

THE CHURCHES.

Summaries of Some of the City Sermons Spoken Yesterday.

HOLY TRINITY.

The services at Holy Trinity church last night were conducted by the rector, Venerable Archdeacon Woods, who took for his text Jeremiah 36 chap., 23 verse. "And it came to pass that when Jehudi had read three or four leaves, he cut it with the penknife and cast it into the fire that was on the hearth, until all the roll was consumed in the fire that was on the hearth." Josiah, the sixteenth king of Judah was the last of whom it is recorded he did right in the sight of the Lord. Think of it friends, it is given us to read today of a king who many hundred years ago did right in the sight of the Lord. It is recorded in the great book to be opened on the judgment day what our past lives have been. When that book is opened what will be found to have been the lives of kings, princes, bishops, priests, deacons and laymen? Day by day we are adding to our record in that book. And yet Josiah with all his willingness to do right in the sight of the Lord was ignorant of the word of God. Ignorance of the law is not accepted as an excuse. We have no reason to plead ignorance—take the book and read the words. But if the words do not please us we are not obliged to listen to them, and like Jehoiakim we can cut them out and cast them into the fire. That was an easy way to get rid of it, an easy way to rid themselves of an unpleasant truth. But the words still remain, and we know we have to-day the thrice written words of warning and we cannot plead ignorance. Although we know that God's word will be disregarded, rejected and despised, yet do we know that that Word will be found true at the last; true when it declares that those who forget God will be turned away. We will find then that it is all true. Men boast of an open bible and seldom read it—seldom open it, and if open it is always at the same page. Friends, try to live more closely to God. You must have a new nature. We can be good, and He heralds the sacrement of His body and blood as a means of salvation. We dare not take a knife and cut that truth out of the book. "The fool hath said in his heart, there is no God;" but who is the greatest fool, he who says there is no God or he who says there is a God and despises Him? The principle that pursues to-day is that men do what they please and leave undone what they please. Truth is made known and grace is given that men may live well and faithfully in the blessed hope of heaven. When the time comes for you to lay down the burden of life, may you my friends be able to say: "I have fought the good fight, I have kept the faith."

METHODIST CHURCH.

At the Methodist church last evening the Rev. J. H. White (pastor) commented upon the "Liquor License By-Law," lately passed by the civic board, taking as his text Esther 1st chap. and part of 8th verse. "And the drinking was according to the law," and spoke substantially as follows: So far as I know this is the first recorded attempt to regulate the liquor traffic by-law. I think that I may lay it down as an indisputable truth, that even laws are necessary for the well being of society and must be enforced; moral suasion is not enough. I would not like to live where moral suasion is the only deterrent to crime. We must have law and penalties for law breakers. Laws are framed to protect people's rights; not to oppress or single out any man, or business, so long as the man or his business does not interfere with the rights and welfare of others; if so, the law steps in and restrains him. Laws are made affecting banks, insurance companies, merchants and professional men, and they deal and practice under the law made and provided, and must conform to the law before and after entering or practising their business or profession. At Nanaimo, the Hamilton Powder Company must erect their factory two or three miles outside the city; glue factories, slaughter houses, etc., because of the danger to health and inconvenience to the public, are likewise forced to operate at the extreme limits of cities and in every town, as the area and population increases, restrictions are made. Things that were allowed in days gone by cannot be permitted now; business es are regulated, chimneys raised and wooden buildings forbidden, for the safety and well being of the community. These regulations and restrictions are received as being the correct thing; but when an attempt is made to restrict the liquor traffic, special notice is taken, and many who claim not to drink much themselves, and who freely admit that drinking to excess is bad, put forth the plea that tenderness be used toward the men engaged in the business. If a factory were started that in its process of manufacture threw out germs of disease, and death resulted to many, your tenderness would not last long. In twenty-four hours you would close it up without any compromise, and a $400 license fee would not make any difference. The reason that the liquor traffic has so much of this kind of sympathy is that there are so many who take a little drop themselves for the good of their health. It is 81 years since the first temperance society started, with a pledge, not of total abstinence, but with permission to drink at dinner; but the temperance movement has advanced, and I hope to live to see prohibition. If the same advancement is made in the future as in the past it is sure to come. There was a time when Geo. Stephenson, having completed his locomotive, proposed to run at 12 miles an hour. He was scoffed at, and it is said, at a hearing before a parliamentary committee the question was asked "what would happen if a cow got upon the track?" Geo Stephenson said "It would be awkward for the coo," and I want to tell you that this temperance movement is going ahead and that anything that stands in the way will have a hard time of it. Yet we are a long way behind the times in this city. We have to be fighting and calling hard names over a liquor by-law that allows forty licenses to hotels and saloons, several of which are mere shacks. I tell you that the temperance societies, assisted by moral suasion and the gospel, as well as the temperance literature now introduced into our schools, are hastening the time when their influence will be felt and they will wield a force that will wipe the horrid traffic out. It is only 16 years ago that the women of Hillsford, Ohio, started the movement that has closed hundreds of bars and thereby permitted thousands of men and women to be put on their way to heaven. In these days it does not take long to get up an excitement. It is less than a year since the Quebec legislature passed a law at variance with the principle of equal rights, and a wave of enthusiastic opposition has spread throughout the Dominion and gains headway daily. The influence of rapid railway transit, newspapers, postal communication and the telegraphs all tend to quicken great movements, and it does not take long for the nation to make up its mind and move for the right. I have no faith in license laws whatever as lessening the drinking habit. (Here the rev. gentleman produced a printed copy of the by-law.) This by-law is four feet long, and if it was 40 feet it would not materially restrict the traffic. No real good will ever be done until the traffic is prohibited and trading in liquor made a criminal offence. The hue and cry is that this by-law is a radical measure. In going through it, I do not call it radical at all. In Toronto they would not have it on their statute book. But I suppose, this being a new country, we must go slow and take the best we can get. If I had been in the council I would have voted for this measure as being the highest that can be reached just now. In the meantime the community at large owes a debt of gratitude to his worship the mayor and the aldermen who had the well being of the city at heart and stood by the measure and would not be brow-beaten, and if you oppose those who opposed the measure they can not be elected again. You are responsible if you have a vote, and it is easy to put in a council next year that will pass a better by-law if you wish. The better class of hotel keepers like the by law, and will cheerfully accept it. Then what is all the trouble and commotion about? A few men, just because they are engaged in a straight saloon business, get up and endeavor to split the council. The real object was not to get the extra license fee remitted, but to give a six months' hoist to the whole measure, in the hope that the new council might repeal the by-law, or that its restrictions would be forgotten. The rev. gentleman took up the various clauses, commenting favorably on the revenue, until he reached the one affecting druggists. He said that, if sold at all, that was the proper place, amongst the arsenic, strychnine, and other poisons, and with a qualified dispenser. Now here is the best clause of all, the Sunday closing. It has been a standing disgrace to the city to have the bars open night and day, and now many a man who has worked hard all the week may possibly be saved by the removal of this temptation, and although, it may be hard to prove an infraction yet I do hope the citizens will see that this clause is enforced. It is a good measure, when no better can be got, and we will see that it is obeyed. It is no pleasure to talk of this matter, but I think it was a good thing to discuss it to-night; the men who would let the liquor business go practically unrestricted are not fit to sit in the council and represent you. See that they don't represent you again. Not only pray, but do all you can otherwise. The reverend gentleman concluded with an earnest appeal to those given to drinking or sinning in any way to change their life for the better.

Maple Ridge Notes.

For a few days prior to the 12th inst. the day appointed bylaw for the licensing commissioners to meet, preparations were being made for the vending at Port Hammond of intoxicating liquors in the old establishment formerly known as the Westcott House. This house after the collapse of the Hammond boom was deserted, but has been for the past few months used as a bachelor's hall. The proprietor with a tenacity worthy of a better cause, has for the last five or six years at nearly every sitting of the licensing court applied for a liquor license, but on every occasion has been refused. Finally the house, it is alleged, changed hands, and the former proprietor managed to be appointed a member of the licensing board. That bound as now constituted stands 3 for and 2 against the introduction of the liquor license evil into the municipality. The anxiety of the majority of the board to grant the license was patent from their swaggering mien in and out of court. They little dreamed that as a licensing board it is imperative that they act in accordance with the law of the province. "But man, proud man, dressed in a little brief authority plays such fantastic tricks before high heaven as make the angels weep." Fully aware that moral suasion could be of no avail with the board, and that it was a foregone conclusion that a license was to be granted, the anti-license party applied for and obtained through their solicitor, L. P. Eckstein, a writ of prohibition from the supreme court restraining the licensing commissioners from further action in R. W. McIntosh's application. Since it is in the public interest that the intention of the majority of the licensing commissioners was frustrated, the party of moral reform is to be congratulated on the success attending their action. There is a good hotel at Port Hammond, under the management of Mr. J. W. Sinclair, and there is no lack of accomodation for the travelling public. The establishment of a saloon where no hotel accomodation is at present needed, more than can be supplied, would be the country's loss and at most only an individual's gain.—COM.

The dastardly murder of Dr. Cronin, in Chicago recently, has been pretty well fixed upon emissaries of the secret Irish organization known as the Clan-na-Gael. This nefarious society is one of the wheels within the great circle of Irish agitation in America and at home, but the chariot of Irish freedam would make far better progress without such false aids. Dr. Cronin himself was an enthusiastic worker along honorable lines for the great ends which nearly all Irishmen profess to have in view, and his taking away will be a loss to the Irish cause, while the diabolical manner and motive of it cannot fail to be a serious set-back, unless all true Irishmen hasten to disavow the slightest connection or sympathy with the villainous perpetrators, and do their utmost to bring them to speedy justice. Dr. Cronin, it appears, knew something of the dark doings of the Clan-na-Gael, and that heathenish society, fitter for the dark ages and semi-savagery than the nineteenth century and free, enlightened America, determined to add another foul blot to its black record, in the "removal" of an innocent man, on the theory, presumably, that "dead men tell no tales." Never was a falser proposition, however, for ever since Cain slew his brother Abel the blood of murdered innocence has cried from the ground, and will continue to do so. The sooner the Irish cause is purged from such abominations as its Clan-na-Gaels, its fenianism, and its O'Donovan Rossas, the better for the cause.

The COLUMBIAN, says the World of Saturday, has come to the conclusion that it is better for a man to marry than to remain single. We venture to say that this will be news to our readers, but then the World will never lack for assertions, based on wrong conclusions if need be, so long as its powerful imagination remains in its present well oiled condition. We plead guilty to having discussed the delicate question in a non-committal way, last week, for the edification and entertainment of our readers, both from the standpoint of the maid and the bachelor, when we quoted various opinions and declarations and mentioned a few facts relating to the subject, but we cannot fairly be said to have come to or expressed any conclusion in the matter. With considerable more reason, our readers will agree, after reading the following from the World, can we charge our amiable cotemporary with coming to a contrary conclusion from that which it so gratuitously attributes to us. Says the World, oracle-wise, on the interesting subject in question: "To marry or not to marry is a question which will be settled by every bachelor according to his inclinations and, it may be added, his opportunities. It is probably true that the man who secures a good wife is better off than his single brother, but when we see—even in a young country like our own—girls brought up to think of nothing but how to fix a ribbon, or strum the pianoforte, instead of learning how to make a bed, or cook a chop, it is no wonder that there are varying opinions on the marriage lottery question. Probably the bachelor is not always the miserable individual he is popularly pictured, and girls should remember that there are worse fates reserved for some men than having to sew on their buttons—for example, a shrewish tongue." Our esteemed cotemporary speaks in the foregoing with all the confidence born of experience, and we respectfully defer to its superior knowledge on the subject under discussion. Mum is the word.

The Medical Age says that the most frequent fault of the brain worker is excessive application to work. The most intense and fatiguing of toils is pursued almost uninterruptedly, food is neglected, and the claims of exercise and sleep are but imperfectly admitted. Two hours' exercise in the open air, daily, is probably a minimum, and might prudently be exceeded. The brain worker must live sparingly rather than luxuriantly, he must prefer the lighter classes of food to the heavier, and he must be very prudent in the use of alcohol. Tobacco and tea are apt to be favorites with him, and their immoderate use may require to be guarded against. It is a nice question whether he needs more or less sleep than other men. Many men of genius are light sleepers, probably in some cases a misfortune, but there seems some ground for the notion that more than a moderate indulgence in sleep is unfavorable to successful mental effort. A commenter upon this subject says that mental effort causes waste of tissue elements quite as much as bodily exertion, and this demands a full supply of food. What with dyspepsia and absence of appetite, the results of deficient exercise, and the influence of preconceived ideas as to the use or disuse of special articles of food, the brain worker is very apt to receive too little nutriment to make up for the waste. Especially is this the case when he, unconsciously, perhaps, replaces food by the use of tobacco, tea, alcohol, or opium. Some advise to go supperless to bed. This, most medical authorities of the day think is a wrong notion. It is a fruitful source of insomnia and neurasthenia. The brain becomes exhausted by its evening work, and demands rest and refreshment of its wasted tissues, not by indigestible salads and "fried abominations," but by some nutritious, easily digested and assimilated articles. A bowl of stale bread and milk, of rice, or some other farinaceous food, with milk or hot soup, would be more to the purpose. Any of these would insure a sound night's sleep, from which the man would awaken refreshed.

Recently old Vesuvius, it is stated, has been more active than usual. Numerous convulsions in the interior have resulted in the rending and then the collapse of the last new cone at the mountain. We are so used, the Naples correspondent of the London Daily News says, to these changes at the extreme summit that it is no new thing to see from Naples that the point of the active crater has fallen in, and the top of the mountain has been reduced to the flatter shape which is its normal form. On this occasion a stream of lava issued from the east side of the cone, and was thus invisible from Naples. It ran about one-third of the distance down the entire mountain. Signor Scarfoglio, of the Corriere di Napolio, who repaired to Vesuvius on May 4, to see the changes wrought by the late eruption, writes: "The mountain presented a most magnificent spectacle. A man who had been on the cone on May 3 said that he felt the vibration of the mountain so much that he became sick, and he declares that the motion was accompanied by subterranean thunder. The lava and ashes which fell in obstructed the mouth of the crater, causing it to split at the base of the latest cone on the eastern side. This new opening is about sixty feet wide and at least 1,500 feet long, and descends in a straight line, like a colossal ravine. Its depths are hidden by the sulphurous smoke which ascends from it. The lava has run along this ravine for about a mile, dividing into two streams, one of which has already stopped, while the other is flowing slowly on, a small column of smoke indicating its course. It rolls in the black bed of the old lava, toward San Giuseppe; but this village is still three miles away from the fiery stream, and is in no danger. All shocks of earthquake and explosive sounds have already ceased; around the broken crater the lava is split into larger or smaller crevices, some almost too wide to leap over. Smoke issues from the crater in great abundance, but no more heated matter is being cast up, and the opening is closed by debris. Who knows where the liquid lava within Vesuvius will find a new outlet? One thing is certain. The mountain is much weakened at the part where the eruption took place, and the side above Resina is the safest." It would seem from this report, says the Daily News correspondent, that, even should the liquid lava within Vesuvius rush upward with such force as it did in 1872, the region toward and around Pompeii would be in most danger, while the thickly inhabited coast at Torre del Greco, Resina, and Portici would be safe. No one can tell whether this last overflow of lava will be the conclusion of the phase of gentle activity of the last few months, or whether it will be the commencement of a still more energetic period.

OLD-STYLE FISHING.

M. Quad Yearns for the Jolly Days of Boyhood.

The Glorious Time Preceding the Introduction of Patent Rods, Reels and Hooks —When "Goin' a-Fishing" Meant More Than It Does To-day.

If I were a boy again I'd go a-fishing, writes M. Quad in the Detroit Free Press. When a man goes a-fishing it's all solid business and no romance. He makes his calculations days ahead, figures on just how many minutes he can spare, and every nibble is reckoned at so much money. He is always out of pocket, and always comes home mad, not to try it again for a whole year. With a boy it is adventure and romance. He has nothing to lose and every thing to gain. He has all the time there is, and if he doesn't catch all the fish in Roaring river it is not his fault.

I can remember all about it. In those 'way-back days a real fish-hook was personal property, something to carry to school tied up in a rag and oxhibited only to the large boys—boys old enough to appreciate it. At home it was hidden away under the bureau, and its presence was kept a sacred secret. Most any sort of a string would do for a fish-line, and the old hunter who once gave me two bullets for sinkers is remembered with deepest gratitude to this day. When hook and line and sinkers were wound upon a maple chip and tucked away to wait for the fishing season, it was a red-letter day. I would have taken a dozen of the worst lickings a boy could receive rather than give up the treasure, and, had a stranger come along and offered to trade me a horse for the outfit, I should have promptly refused his offer.

When we went to fish in a creek, which was as much as two feet deep in spots, and which a boy could hardly jump across in places, it was a mighty river to me, beside which the discoveries of Hendrick Hudson and De Soto were bantam chickens. There were whales in there, and our only fear was that one of them would nab our angle-worm and break the hook. There were sharks which might seize us if we waded over a riffle ankle deep, and we had heard of the devil-fish which lurks under the flood-wood waiting for a barefooted boy to come along with his dinner. True, we never encountered any of these monsters of the deep, and that was the reason why we got safely back home, and why mother heaved a great sigh of satisfaction and said:

"So you are home! Well, I never, never expected to see you again!"

A boy's way of fishing is the best way ever invented. They may bring out their fancy rods, reels, flies and patent hooks, but the boy who sticks to the home-made fish-pole, the old-fashioned hook and the twine fish line rubbed down with beeswax isn't going to be left very far behind.

The first we used to pull out—yum! Nowadays those you don't catch are the largest. A quarter of a century ago things were different. Of course, we had some big bites—awful bites—regular old monsters, but we didn't lie about the size of the biters. We never put one down at over a hundred pounds, though we could have doubled the weight and found ready believers. In those days nobody ever fished without spitting on his bait. If he wanted to catch an awful big fish he spit twice. There were times when spitting on the bait didn't bring a bite, but no boy ever got discouraged over that. He hadn't given just the right pucker to his mouth, or his hook didn't hang right, or the sky was too bright or too cloudy.

In these degenerate days a man will sit on a wharf or a log and bob and jaw, and bob some more and growl, and haul up his line and blast every body's eyes, because he hasn't caught a pickerel eighty-five feet long. The old-fashioned boy would tramp three miles up and down the stream, and never a word of complaint over the absent nibbles. If he got a dozen horned-dace, as long as a man's finger, it was a triumph to last for three months. Just think of a patent bobber—a self-acting one, at that—and compare it with the cork we used to steal from the molasses jug! And what are these patent sinkers compared to a couple of eight-penny nails or an old door-key which sunk our hooks! They are doing their best to reduce it to a business, and to destroy all the romance and anticipation, and I for one don't like it a bit. In the way-back time a fishing excursion was set down for a month ahead, and it depended on how well we got along with the potatoes and corn. We got our outfit ready a fortnight ahead of time. We hunted out the best spots for fish-worms, planned every detail over and over again, and dreamed of creeks and fish and fish-hooks right along every night. The day seemed never-ending, but when we could say "To-morrow!" we dug bait enough to catch every thing in Lake Erie, gave our poles and lines a last looking over and went to bed an hour earlier so as to hurry the night along. Hurry? It was the longest night of the year! We went over the ground a dozen times, planned every thing anew, and got up a score of times to see if the weather was likely to change and bring a bad day. We tumbled and tossed, napped and talked, and when the old clock down-stairs struck the hour of four we slid out of bed and out of the house to find the morning purple staring us in the face. The fish were waiting for us, and we couldn't keep our pace down to a walk, and we likewise baited our hooks as we ran.

Fishing! Well, the boy of to-day doesn't realize the meaning of the term! He may catch his score of bass or his dozen of pickerel, but he never feels the tingle along the nerves which came to the old-fashioned boy as he felt a six-inch shiner take the hook and turned with a pale face to whisper:

"Every body look out, for I've got one this time, sure!"

Equilibrium of the Sexes.

In Europe there is a greater excess of women in the north than in the states of middle Europe and the east, in some of which the women are in the minority. Through Europe as a whole, the number of women is very definitely in excess of that of the men, and the excess appears to be increasing. It was very great after the Napoleonic wars; then the numbers gradually tended toward equality, and nearly reached it (1847 to 1850, 1,000 to 1,000); then they diverged again, and stood in 1870, 1,037 to 1,000. The phases of increased difference are generally observable after wars, and, latterly, appear to be the result partly of the enormous emigration which has taken place to other quarters of the earth. In America, as a whole, and in Australia and Africa, on the other hand, whither this emigration with its preponderance of males is tending, the men are in excess, and the excess is increasing with the constant arrival of new parties of emigrants. Nevertheless, a near approach to equality prevails over the earth as a whole, and this whether we regard the white, black or red races, or their mixtures.

An Artistic Watch-Dial.

The changes which the flight of time brings upon humanity afford an inexhaustible subject for the poet and the artist. As a notable specimen of emblematic work of a very appropriate and felicitous kind, a watch-dial now in process of construction at Waltham, Mass., is described by the American Jeweler. It contains, instead of the usual numerals, twelve small but distinct silhouette figures, beginning with a woman with a very young child in her arms. At one o'clock the lady and her little baby are clearly depicted, the infant being in long clothes. At two o'clock the same figures appear, but the child is a little larger. At three o'clock mamma is still there, but the infant is in short clothes. At four o'clock he again appears, and so on up to eight o'clock, when he goes to school for the first time. At nine o'clock he may be seen with his college gown and mortar board and the pleased smile of the now elderly but happy mother. At ten o'clock the death-bed scene is presented, where he parts with his beloved mother. At eleven o'clock he is a middle-aged man, over whom the snows of many winters have passed. At twelve o'clock he makes his final appearance as an old and decrepit specimen of humanity

It Makes You Hungry

"I have used Paine's Celery Compound and it has had a salutary effect. It invigorated the system and I feel like a new man. It improves the appetite and facilitates digestion." J. T. COPELAND, Primus, S. C.

Spring medicine means more now-a-days than it did ten years ago. The winter of 1888-89 has left the nerves all jagged out. The nerves must be strengthened, the blood purified, liver and bowels regulated. Paine's Celery Compound—the Spring medicine of to-day—does all this, as nothing else can. Prescribed by Physicians, Recommended by Druggists, Endorsed by Ministers, Guaranteed by the Manufacturers to be

The Best Spring Medicine.

"In the spring of 1887 I was all run down. I would get up in the morning with so tired a feeling, and was so weak that I could hardly get around. I bought a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, and before I had taken it a week I felt very much better. I can cheefully recommend it to all who need a building up and strengthening medicine." Mrs. B. A. Dow, Burlington, Vt.

Paine's Celery Compound

is a unique tonic and appetizer. Pleasant to the taste, quick in its action, and without any injurious effect, it gives that rugged health which makes everything taste good. It cures dyspepsia and kindred disorders. Physicians prescribe it. $1.00. Six for $5.00. Druggists.

WOODS, TURNER & GAMBLE

—AND—

ALBERT J. HILL & COMPANY

OF NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C.

The advantages and prospects of this Plot for a future thriving Town are many.

The Land in the vicinity is good.

There are inexhaustible IRON ORE DEPOSITS, of a superior quality, immediately adjacent, as well as vast strata of the finest BUILDING SAND and POTTERY CLAY.

On the Townsite are a number of valuable MINERAL SPRINGS.

Communication by land and water is unequalled, by reason of the location of the Townsite on the Fraser River and the Southern Railway, while the natural elevation and lay of the land can not be excelled as a situation for a fine town.

The ground is open and clear of heavy timber.

The site has been selected as one of the most important stations on the Southern Railway, and with the completion of the road, in the near future, must, with all its other advantages, spring into prominence at once.

Those who apply early will have the pick of the Lots.

A clear title given with every purchase.

A correspondent writes the Victoria Times censuring the parties who have given the junction at the Mission the name of "New Seattle, B. C." He characterizes it as a confusion of names, a delusion and a deception. We agree with the Times correspondent that it is at least objectionable.

Gas is one of those things that, if we have it, we have to have to have it, don't you see. A part of last evening the gas on the street and elsewhere was decidedly weary. This sort of thing happens occasionally, and we are sure that the obliging gas men will remedy it if they can.

Attention is directed to the great auction sale of blooded and graded stock fixed to come off at Ontario farm, Langley Prairie, on 28th June, full particulars of which will appear in next WEEKLY COLUMBIAN. The Messrs. Innes are favorably known as being good judges of horses and cattle, and the sale in question will give an opportunity seldom offered of acquiring good stock. 160 acres of the best prairie land in the province will be offered for sale by auction at the same time and place. Mr. T. J. Trapp will conduct the sale. td*

Closing Examination.

The closing examination of the central public school take place as follows:

Wednesday, 26th,—Miss Homer's division, 9:30 to 10:30; Miss Davidson's division, 10:30 to 12; Miss Rogers, 1:30 to 3.

Thursday, 27th:—Miss Dockrill's division, 9:30 to 10:30; Mr. Coatham's division, 10:45 to 12; Mr. Dockrill's division, 1:30 to 3.

Parents and all others interested in education are invited to be present, and it is only fair to the teachers that a large number should attend and see for themselves the work that has been accomplished during the past term.

Banff Coal.

Mr. W. Fream, F.G.S., associate of the surveyors' institution, in an article contributed to the Canadian Gazette, has the following: We spent a day at Banff, and visited the anthracite coal mine, which at no distant day will form one of the staple industries of the country. The company is now shipping over 100 tons a day of excellent anthracite coal to San Francisco via Port Moody. Gentlemen in Vancouver who have been using the coal speak in the highest terms of its qualities. I do not think it extravagant to venture the prediction that at no remote period the output from these mines will reach 1,000 tons a day. The proprietors of the mine now find it impossible to fill the constantly increasing demand in San Francisco for their coal.

Very Unfair.

The Guardian of the 22nd inst. contains a paragraph, headed "The Old Game," accusing the Hon. John Robson of making improvements on Surrey roads on a more extensive scale than usual this year in order to gain votes at the next provincial election. These improvements were absolutely necessary and the government was bound to make them and would have done the same were the elections three years hence. The only difference the government has made this year is in the date of the commencement of work, which is nearly two months earlier than usual. THE COLUMBIAN has always urged that road-making should be done early in the season, and the Surrey council particularly requested the government in the same strain, and on this request action was taken as desired. Under the circumstances the insinuations of the Guardian are very unfair, and show a lack of willingness to impartially interpret the government's action in this instance.

Good Scores.

The Rifle match at Brownsville on Saturday resulted in a victory for Vancouver, though the odds were considerably in favor of that club as every man used a Martin while many of the Westminster men used old sniders. Following are the scores:

The Cricket Match.

The final ending of the Cricket match on Saturday afternoon was a surprise to everyone. When Westminster went in for the first innings and the stumps fell one after another and the best batters on the team were sent back without scoring, it certainly looked as if the royal city was going to be most terribly beaten, but Rev P. Woods, Coulthard and Dockrill finally made a stand and saved the day. Dockrill made a pretty score of 33 runs. When the last man was put out the score stood 99 runs against Vancouvers 153 runs. The visitors then went in for their second innings, but went completely to peices before the bowling of Rev. P. Woods and Miles. Rev. Mr. Clinton and Nelson were absent and did not turn up till the side was out for a total of 19 runs. Westminster had to make 74 runs in 40 minutes to win the match, and went in determined to do their best. Every man batted freely, and when time was called only 18 runs were required, and four wickets to the good remained. Another 15 minutes would have given the victory to Westminster. Following is the score:

VICTORIA NEWS.

Sad Case of Suicide in a Brothel.—Rev. Mr. Starr Speaks on the Sensational Suicide and is Applauded by his Congregation.—Mr. J. S. Clute is Elected Grand Master.

Special to the COLUMBIAN.

VICTORIA, June 24.—Edna Farnsworth, a member of the demimonde in this city, committed suicide at 4 o'clock Sunday morning by blowing her brains out with a pistol. The girl was only 19 years of age, and was one of the best looking of her class in the city. She was tall, of a good figure and golden haired. She lived at 14 Broughton street with her sister, who is known as Della Wentworth. According to the stories current yesterday, Edna was rather intimate with a well known English blood, who has been flying high around the city for some months. He told Edna he was going to see the prize fight on Sunday morning, between Tom Cleary and Clem Austin. She begged him not to go as he would be arrested. He, however, insisted on going. At this she reproached him with not caring for her any more. He admitted the soft impeachment using some very unkind remarks. The girl, who seemed very despondent over the affair, said if he went he would never see her again. He and some others in the house then went out into the garden with the intention of getting a hack. When they departed, the unfortunate girl sent a bullet from a 32 calibre revolver crashing into her brain. She only lived a few minutes. An inquest will be held this morning at 10:30.

The coroner's inquest into the cause of the death of Edna Farnsworth was held this morning at the city hall. The jury visited the house, 14 Broughton st., where the tragedy occurred and viewed the body of the deceased. The body was lying on a bed with a bullet wound in the right temple. The mat on the floor was thickly coated with blood. The girl's neck and the side of her head were also matted with congealed blood. Dr. Milne was the first witness called and testified to being called to see her about half past four Sunday morning. Found her lying on the floor, feet towards the window; bullet wound in right temple, about 2 inches back from the eyebrow; was still breathing, but died in 20 minutes; found pistol on floor (pistol produced), 32 calibre, double action, Smith & Wesson; one chamber discharged. Dr. J. S. Helmcken gave similar evidence, and said he had attended the girl before and considered her of an excitable disposition, and liable to commit suicide on mere provocation. John Croft was next called and said: He was in the house on Sunday morning; deceased and myself were talking together in the dining room, a hackman came to me and asked if I wanted him; went out through the back entrance; this was nearly 4 o'clock in the morning; on the sidewalk heard what I supposed to be a shot fired; the hackman also heard it and both of us ran to the front door of the house; we were met by one of the girls who said "My God, Edna has shot herself." Found her lying on her back on the floor, still breathing; then ran for Dr. Milne; the hackman and he then went back to the house and Dr. Milne soon came; Dr. Helmcken came soon afterwards; believe hackman and I were the only men in the house; when heard the shot was about the corner of Broughton and Broad streets; was talking to her about 10 minutes before I left the house; she appeared to be in good *humor; know no cause for her commit*ting the deed. There was no trouble at all between us; did not think the girl thought sufficient of me to commit the deed because I left the house.

Thos. Hatton, the hackman, gave substantially the same evidence. Della Wentworth testified that they were all at lunch when Edna went out; heard the shot. One of the girls went and found Edna lying on the floor with a wound in her head; fainted when she came to know Edna was dead. Two other inmates of the house were examined but nothing new was elicited. Officer Thomas testified to going to the house and finding the woman shot.

The verdict returned was that the deceased came to her death by her own hand by shooting herself with a pistol.

An extraordinary scene occurred in Rev. Mr. Starr's church last evening. The rev gentleman is preaching a series of local sermons. During the course of his remarks he referred to the suicide of a young woman on Sunday morning. He said he supposed the press would publish the particulars of the tragic affair. If they published the name of the girl, they should also publish the names of the young men connected with the affair. Newspapers should not, because of any high connections these men might have, suppress their identity. At this the congregation applauded the minister by clapping their hands, etc. This set your correspondent wondering, if the names were injudiciously used by the newspapers before the case came into the courts, and libel suits followed, and owing to the newspapers not being able to produce evidence sufficient to convince the jury, a verdict was given for plaintiff, how much of the damages and costs would these applauders pay.

Vice-Admiral Grant sailed on the Mexico for 'Frisco yesterday.

The Dunsmuir and Crocker party left for Comox, via Nanaimo, by special train yesterday. At Nanaimo they embarked on the Princess Louise. It is said that the tour is for the consideration of extending the Island Railway to the Union mines. They return Tuesday evening.

The Masonic grand lodge adjourned this afternoon. Mr. J. S. Clute is elected grand master for the ensuing year.

Sale of the Treadwell.

The Alaska Milling and Mining Company, which owns a controlling interest in the Treadwell mine, has, we understand, been sold in London. The price is said to have been $16 a share and also a sum in cash to repay in part the cost of improvements. Mr. D. O. Mills, of New York, who holds about a one-third interest in the property, will retain his interest in the company. As the company has 100,000 shares the basis of selling prices is something over $1,600,000.—Engineering and Mining Journal.

An Imperial Garrison.

The report circulated some time ago that a company of Royal engineers would leave the Old Country for Esquimalt, is to a certain extent confirmed by instructions, which it is understood have been received to make the barracks built for C Battery ready for occupation. The first detachment, it is said, will number about 70, which will be augmented from time to time, till the garrison is eventually as large as the one at Halifax. The engineers on their arrival will be employed raising fortifications.—Times.

PERSONAL.

W. H. Ladner M. P. P., and Miss Ladner were in the city to-day.

Mrs. Stephens of Victoria, who has been a guest of Mrs. McKenzie for the past ten days, left by the str. Rithet this afternoon for home.

Wm. Fisher, of Victoria, father of Mr. I. B. Fisher of the Bank of British Columbia, who has been staying at the Queens for a few days, left by the noon train to-day for Yale.

New Quartz Ledge.

Mr. A. Shaw, ticket agent of the E. & N. depot, who lately returned from a prospecting trip to the source of Englishman's river and thence across the divide to the head waters of the Nanaimo river, brought back some specimens of quartz that will in all probability assay out richly. The ledges are situated about 10 miles from the Nanaimo Lake in a densely wooded and very rough district. The ledges were discovered on the bank of a small stream leading into the South Fork of Englishmen's river and were well defined and about 36 inches wide. Mr. Shaw travelled in company with three Indians, and after leaving the Comox road near James Knight's farm struck across the country for the South Fork of Englishmen's river which he followed to its headwaters and then continued on one of the small tributaries of the river until within about 10 miles of the Nanaimo Lakes where he located his claims. Mr. Shaw informed us that he had tramped and prospected through the Cascades and other portions of British Columbia but never had he experienced such rough country as during his recent ramble. The quartz glitters with mineral and looks remarkably good but what it contains will only be revealed by an assay. Dr. Bredemeyer of Vancouver has received a sample. Mr. Shaw will also assay some himself.—Courier.

It is understood at Ottawa that preliminary and unofficial correspondence *started some time ago, will shortly re*sult in the re-opening of negotiations for the settlement of the Atlantic fishery question.
