SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

Evidence has been collected which tends strongly to show that the frequency and severity of thunder-storms vary in a period corresponding with that of the sun's rotation.

A "rain of ink" lately fell over quite a wide area near the Cape of Good Hope. The blackness of the water is supposed to have been due to volcanic or metoric dust—probably to the latter.

A case of deafness as a result of gazing for a few seconds at a powerful electric arc has been reported to the French Academy of Sciences. The symptoms disappeared after about an hour and a half, but returned on a repetition of the experiment.

TYPHOID VS. PHTHISIS.—A French biologist is seeking a bacillus that will kill that of consumption; or a disease that can be inoculated without risk to the patient and will give protection against consumption. He is confident of ultimate success, although his experiments with typhoid bacilli have seemed to hasten the progress of the disease he wished to check.

Support in the work of improving and cheapening the food of the people is asked by the Swiss Society for the Promotion of Public Good. An extension of the use of milk and cheese is urged by the Society as an important advance; while Dr. Woltering, of Munser, recommends a greater use as an article of diet of the inexpensive and extremely nutritive gluten.

A FIELD FOR INVESTIGATORS.—It was stated thirty years ago that an ordinary battery would impart to a perfect electric motor only one horse power of energy from a consumption of two pounds of zinc per hour, while a good steam engine would give an equal power from two pounds per hour of the much cheaper coal. Prof. Ayrton now asserts, however, that zinc-batteries may yet be made an important and economical source of mechanical energy; and that they may furnish a solution of the problem of converting the energy of coal into electric energy without the wasteful steam engine. Before this can be accomplished it will be necessary to find a process of unburning the oxidized zinc at a cost comparable with the cost of an equal weight of coal, so that the metal may be used over and over.

A MODERN FORT.—One of the new underground forts of Belgium, according to Col. Hennebert, of the Belgian army, measures about 160 feet in length by 100 to 130 feet in breadth, and extends forty feet below the surface of the ground, with a maximum height above the surface of not more than ten to fifteen feet. It is built of concrete, has the external appearance of an elliptical cap placed on the ground, and is scarcely visible at a little distance. It is provided with three armored towers in the centre, each with two heavy guns; and has also four small forts, which can be pulled in or run out at pleasure, each armed with two rapid-firing guns. There are three armored look-outs, from two of which electric lights can be flashed upon the enemy. The interior of the fort is a hugh armored well, with heavily-armored sections in which are kept provisions and ammunition, and the machinery—which includes apparatus for electric lighting, for working the turrets and sending them ammunition, and for ventillation. Entrance is effected by an armored and strongly-closed gallery. Orders are given and reports made by telephone or telegraph. The fort's garrison consists of thirty or forty mechanics and specialists only.

FACTS ABOUT CLIMATE.—Climate, says Dana, while depending largely on the latitude, is modified by the atmospheric and oceanic movements and distributing of land and water. The land takes up heat rapidly in summer, and, in the north, becomes frozen and snow-clad in winter. Land-winds may, consequently, be intensely hot or intensely cold; and hence lands have a tendency to produce extremes of climate. The waters of the oceans remain unfrozen even far toward the pole, unless crowded with lands, their perpetual movements tending to produce a uniformity of temperature over the globe; and hence winds from the oceans or any large body of water are moderating, and never very cold. They produce what is called an insular climate. Absence of land from high latitudes is equivalent to an absence of the source of extreme cold; and from tropical latitudes, that of extreme heat; and the sinking of all lands would disminish greatly both extremes. But sinking high-latitude lands also disminishes the extreme of heat, since the lands became very much heated in summer; and this heat is diffused by the winds. The mean temperature of the Northern hemisphere is stated by Dove at 60 degrees F., and of the Southern at 56 degrees F., while the extremes for the globe, taking the annual means, are 80 degrees F., and zero. If there were no land, the mean temperature would probably be but little above what it is now, or not far from 60 degrees for the whole globe.

THE WHALERS ESCAPE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—The steam whaler Thrasher came into port from the Artic sea this afternoon with the joyful tidings that all of the 13 Iceland whalers, which were caught on Sept. 23, were saved. Capt. Weeks received the news from the whaling str. Lucretea for though the Thrasher and the Jessie A. Freeman were relief steamers sent north, neither of them got near to the endangered vessels on account of the ice. The Thrasher and Jessie A. Freeman returned south in the latter part of September and among the whalers the 13 imprisoned vessels were considered as good as lost. On Oct. 2nd, 9 days after the ice closed on the barques, the long delayed gale that was to prove their salvation sprang up from the northwest. The days were, however, unmarked by any incident, the ice closing in gradually about them and new ice forming in the open water in which they had taken refuge. The 500 men, in fact, were reconciled to a winter season in the Artic, until the gale continued to blow with increasing violence throughout the night of the 2nd and on the morning of the 3rd the ice-field showed signs of breaking towards the south. The whaling captains were all alert for a chance to get towards open water to the south, and taking advantage of every opening, all but the Eliza and Reindeer, got out on the 3rd October. The latter succeeded in getting out on the following day. The catch of the Arctic fleet is placed ot 154 whales.

WILL DEMAND RESTITUTION.

WASHINGTON, Nov 3.—Commodore Harmony, acting secretary of the navy, states that when the Boston reaches Hayti a demand will probably be made upon that government for restoration of the American steamer Haytian Republic, which was seized by them as a blockade runner.

SUBMITTED TO THE SUPREME COURT.

OTTAWA, Nov. 3.—The railway committee of the private council to-day submitted the case in the Manitoba railway dispute to the supreme court and asked the judges to decide whether the Manitoba legislature had power to grant a charter to the Northern Pacific Co. to cross the tracks of the Canadian Pacific.

SHIPPING NOTE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—Arrived, str. Columbia, Portland, Oregon.

ICE BLOCKADE BROKEN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—Following the arrival of the three whalers of the Arctic fleet last night the whaling str. J. H. Freeman, bark John P. West, and 2 others, came into port this morning. It is expected the whole fleet will be in in a few days. Two more whalers arrived this afternoon and it is now believed that all will be in before the night is over. Everyone of the incoming vessels shows the effects of being forced through the ice and some of them are badly damaged.

The coroner's jury in the case of John E. Perrin, the gambler who was shot and killed by Geo. Lewis, another gambler, on Wednesday night, returned a verdict to-day charging Lewis with murder.

PLEASING ASSURANCE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—It is reported that Lord Sackville has been assured by Lord Salisbury that his indiscretion will not cause him to be dealt with severely by his home government.

SERIOUS RUNAWAY.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—A four-horse team, attached to a truck, ran away last night injuring a dozen or more people before stopped. John Whalen, a saloonkeeper, 50 years of age, was knocked down and tramped upon and received injuries which will probably cause his death.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Mrs. Cynthia Leonard, of the equal rights party for mayor of this city, has obtained an order from Judge Barrett, of the supreme court, compelling the inspectors to appear on Monday and show cause why a peremptory mandamus should not be issued compelling them to receive her vote on Tuesday. She claims the constitution of the United States makes no distinction between sex in the matter of voting and that the New York state constitution seeks unjustly to violate this provision by limiting the rights to male voters.

A GREAT INVENTOR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Dr. Harris, of Washington, is the inventor of a new system of machine telegraphy by which messages are printed at the farther end, the sending instrument being similar to the typewriter. It is claimed the machine is able to send 200 words a minute and it will revolutionize telegraphy.

THE CHINESE INTERPRETER.

OTTAWA, Nov. 3.—Before taking action with regard to the removal of the Chinese interpreter from Victoria the department will see what effect the Chinese exclusion bill in the United States will have on Chinese immigration into Canada It appears from recent returns to the department that a large majority of Chinese entering Canada of late have landed at Vancouver. The necessity of keeping interpreters at either port depends on the trade of the future, but, no doubt, owing to the large Chinese trade done at Victoria an interpreter of some kind will have to be kept at that place.

GREAT FIRE.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Nov. 3.—The disastrous fire last night burned Moorman's immense tobacco warehouse and a large portion of the block besides. The loss is supposed to be great.

FIVE KILLED.

READING, Pa., Nov. 3.—The boiler of a traction engine, used for threshing on the farm of Jonas Spayde, exploded this morning and 5 persons were instantly killed and three fatally injured. The explosion was heard for miles around. The cause is not definitely known.

YELLOW JACK.

LIVE OAK, Fla., Nov. 2.—There were four new cases of yellow fever up to noon to-day.

SHOT BY HIS WIFE.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Detective Jake Lowenstein, a well-known officer, was fatally shot early this morning by his wife. The deed was the result of quarrels which the couple had been having for some time.

A GOOD IDEA.

OTTAWA, Nov. 3.—Tupper, minister of marine, having heard of the expedition of the United States steamer Thetis, which has for its object the relief of the whaling vessels frozen in the ice in the Arctic, has, it is said, under consideration the question of sending a Canadian vessel to assist in the work.

THE KEELY MOTOR A FRAUD.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 3.—W. B. Levan, an expert appointed by the court to examine the Keely Motor to determine whether or not it is a fraud, has reported that the generator shown him by Keely was a stationery structure, dependent upon the manipulation of an operator, and could by no possibility be made self-operating.

A NOBLE PROJECT.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 3.—Geo. H. Vanderbilt has purchased 1,000 acres of land here and is negotiating for more, for the purpose of founding a great industrial school where poor white children may be taught how to make a living.

FIRE AT DONALD.

Special to the Columbian.

DONALD, Nov. 3.—A fire broke out at 1.30 this morning in the Valley House kitchen and spread to Ferland's store. Both buildings are a total loss. Ferland's stock was saved but badly damaged in removal. Reported loss, $7,000.

LATE DESPATCHES.

AN AUTOCRAT.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—King Milan's high-handed action in having his creature the Metropolitan Theodosius, whom he arbitrarily created a while ago, now as arbitrarily decree his divorce is the most important thing politically which has happened south of Vienna since Battenberg's forcible abdication. While continental opinion is still unheard, no hard and fast views have peen adopted here, but it would surprise no one in England if the thing led to a grave disturbance in the delicately balanced Balkan situation.

RUSSIAN PRISONS.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Correspondence between Secretary Tallack, of the Howard Association, and Mr. Solomons, secretary of the Russian prisons administration, apropos of Mr. Geo. Kennan's Century articles upon the Siberian exile system, has been made public. Mr. Solomons expresses astonishment at the statements in regerd to Russian prisons and prisoners made by Mr. Kennan. But he says he has long ceased to pay any attention to opinions expressed in foreign periodical publications. He has satisfied himself that Russia cannot expect fair treatement from them, for he has found that in them gross ignorance goes hand in hand with blind hatred of Russia.

COUNT KALNOKY TO M. DE GIERS.

VIENNA, Oct. 28.—The Fremdenblatt, in announcing that Count Kalnoky congratulated M. De Giers upon the occasion of his jubilee, publishes a long and highly eulogistic article on the Russian foreign minister, expressing the wish that he may long hold his arduous post, and continue his efforts for the preservation of peace between Russia and the rest of Europe.

PRO TEM. APPOINTMENT.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Hon. Michael Henry Herbert has been appointed Charge d' Affaires at Washington. Lord Sackville is coming to England immediately on official leave of absence. It is understood that the government will allow the Sackville incident to rest until after the presidental election in America.

FAVORABLE TO PARNELL.

LONDON, No.2—The evidence given by the police reporters yesterday before the Parnell Commission was decidedly favorable to the Parnellites. Sir Charles Russell cross-examined them thoroughly and his line of questions brought out responses that indicate that the League saved the people from famine and despair, and that the outrages committed in Ireland were due solely to the extremists who were opposed to lawful agitation in any shape. The opinion is now expressed that the inquiry will not consume as long a time as it was at first thought, the very nature of the testimony given thus far, and the apparent weakness of the Times' case, seeming to indicate an easy and swift victory to Mr. Parnell and his associates.

STANLEY HEARD FROM.

ZANZIBAR, Nov. 2.—Couriers who have arrived here from Sabore bring direct news from the Stanley expedition, a portion of which, according to the couriers, was met at the end of November, 1887, by the Arab traders at a point west of the Albert Nyanza and south-east of Sanga. The detachment of the expedition which was seen consisted of 30 men, whose leader stated that Stanley was two days ahead. Many men of the expedition, it was stated, had disappeared or were dead, and 40 had been drowned in attempting to cross the great river flowing from the east to the west. One white man had died. Stanley had fought with the tribes who had refused to furnish him with provisions. He and the majority of his expedition had been attacked with fever and compelled to halt. When the couriers left the expedition Stanley was well. He had decided to strike a course to the northward in order to avoid the swamps and then proceed eastward to Wadelai, at which place he hoped to arrive about the middle of January. The couriers, who are Arabs, estimate the strength of the expedition after the losses mentioned at 250 men, and express their belief that they will be able to reach Wadelai.

TENNYSON ILL.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Tennyson is seriously ill from a rheumatic attack. Yesterday he had a critical relapse.

GIGANTIC FORGERY.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—A decision has just been rendered by which the bank of England loses £70,000 through cash-bills with forged indorsements.

DISLOYAL OPPOSITION.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 3.—The opposition party is using every effort to defeat the government's plan for the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of King Christian's accession to the throne.

KILLED ONE MAN.

ANOTHER RUPTURE.

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—The report is confirmed that Schloezer, Prussian minister at the vatican, has been recalled.

FOULLY MURDERED.

CANTON, Nov. 3.—James Bell, Ben Russell, and Geo. W. Griffin, negroes, were killed in Van Zandt county on Wednesday night. Russell was accused of a misdemeanor, and W. L. Hayes, S. Stanford, Claud Stanford and Will Jones attempted to arrest him. The negroes were ordered to throw up their hands, but before they could comply they were shot down. Friends of the dead men assert that they were killed as a result of a political quarrel.

HARCOURT REPROVED.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Capt. O'Shea has written a letter in reply to one written by Harcourt, which states that he will not imitate Harcourt in discussing evidence given under oath.

SWEPT BY THE SEA.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 3.—The bark Sarah Seidgway, from Tacoma, W. T. has arrived with a loss of deck load and several sails.

RESTLESSNESS, MORBID ANXIETY, and a fretful disposition, are usually met with in the dyspeptic. These mental indications show how close is the connection between brain and stomach. Their most prolific cause, dyspepsia, is a complaint for which Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Blood Purifier is used with unvarying success. It also remedies Biliousness, Constipation and Impurity of the Blood.

The increase last year in Great Britain's consumption of spirits and beer over the previous year is attributed by the commissioners to the "jubilee rejoicings" of 1887. The consumption per head of the population shows a decrease in British and colonial spirits and coffee and an increase in foreign wines, beers, tea and cocoa.

Saturday Evening, Nov. 3, 1888.

The great Parnell commission has closed its second week, which has been occupied with the hearing of evidence produced by the Times. The court was asked on Tuesday, at the opening session this week, to enforce the order permitting the Times to inspect the bank books of the National League. As Sir Charles Russell, for the Parnellites, intimated that his clients would raise no objection to the production of the books, no special action of the court was necessary, and the evidence was proceeded with. The most important evidence produced this week was that of Captain O'Shea. Seven letters, declared by the Parnellites to be forgeries, were submitted to the witness, who said on oath that the signatures were those of Mr. Parnell. This statement quite nonplussed the counsel for the Parnellites for the time. Cross-examination of the witness by Sir Charles Russell elicited from the voluble O'Shea that he had been cautioned to maintain the utmost reticence, with regard to certain transactions growing out of the Kilmainham tragedy, by Sir William Harcourt, prompted by no less a person than Mr. Gladstone himself. Naturally this piece of information caused a sensation in the court room. As a result, both Gladstone and Harcourt will be examined before the commission next week, which will add still more to the interest of the inquiry. Sir Wm. Harcourt declares that he will take steps to contradict O'Shea's statements in material particulars, and says that some of the assertions of that witness were mere fictions. Other circumstances besides are not wanting to throw discredit upon O'Shea's whole testimony. An ex-Parnellite, home ruler, and nationalist, he cannot now be said to be a credit or an acquisition to any party. Like all perverts, he has no good feeling for his former confreres, and has besides personal ill-will to Parnell himself. In view of all the circumstances, we believe, as we have before stated, that O'Shea's evidence, with regard to the genuineness of the letters produced by the Times will be discredited and falsified. By a despatch in another column it will be seen that the evidence given by the police reporters the other day before the commission was decidedly favorable to the Parnellites. The despatch states: "The opinion is now expressed that the inquiry will not continue as long as it was at first thought. The very nature of the testimony given thus far and the apparent weakness of the Times' case seems to indicate an early and easy victory for Parnell and his associates." This sanguine forecast may have to be modified before the commission rises finally; but we are still of the same opinion as we have frequently expressed, that Parnell and his associates will be triumphantly acquitted of the horrible charges of conspiracy with cutthroats and murderers. We sincerely hope so at any rate.

As is not uncommon, the telegraphic reports the other day, to the effect that Lord Sackville West, British minister at Washington, had been recalled, and Sir Charles Tupper appointed in his place, turned out to be premature and not altogether correct. The ambitious news gatherers probably got hold of a rumor in the first instance and sent it along in lieu of something better. But that is nothing but a repetition on a large scale of what occurs daily in smaller circles. The real facts of the case appear now to be that Lord Salisbury, the head of the imperial government, delayed action in the matter so long that the American government felt compelled to inform the British minister that he wasn't wanted at Washington any longer. This action of Cleveland and his cabinet, in which but scant courtesy appears on the surface, but the pressing motive of which was doubtless political exigency, has ruffled the mane of the British lion not a little, and the English press is voicing the momentary irritation and discontent aroused in the Old Country, in expressions as varied as numerous. Some of the papers censure Lord Salisbury freely for not decently recalling the British minister, and thus saving him the indignity of being given his papers by the American government; some vent their ill-feeling on the unfortunate ambassador himself, and "rub it into him" again on account of his late indiscretion. A good many agree in berating what they call the "insolence" and "scurvey treatment" of the American government in acting so curtly in the matter, and insist that it is due to the self-respect of England that "she expedient be discovered to show the United States our sense of their conduct." Retaliation in kind, to wit, the dismissal of U. S. Minister Phelps by the British government, is urged by some, but it is not likely that anything of the sort will be done. The Pall Mall Gazette consoles itself with the reflection "that the folly of President Cleveland eclipses Lork Sackville's indiscretion." "We owe Mr. Cleveland thanks," adds that paper, "for showing that the silliest man in Washington was not born in England." The London News justifies President Cleveland's action generally, but regrets Secretary Bayard's lack of courtesy in making the government's intimation to Lord Sackville. The Post takes a philosophical and not unwarranted view of the matter. It says: "Hundreds of letters similar to the one written by Lord Sackville might have been written by the American minister in England, and no one would have taken the slightest notice of them. Political necessity compelled the American authorities to take notice of Lord Sackville's letter." This last clause touches at the root of the whole matter. Political trickery drew out the unfortunate and offending letter, and political necessity compels the attaching of an exaggerated importance to the rather trifling affair, and the suspension, for the time being, of the rules of national courtesy. Political necessity has been playing the very mischief during the last few months in the neighboring republic. Political necessity is the grim sorcerer that presides over the antics, and officiates as general stage manager, in the great spectacular show which our American cousins give every fourth year, at their own expense and discomfort, but to the edification and entertainment of the outside world (provided, of course, that the aforesaid sorcerer doesn't, just in a malicious sort of fun, dance some of his puppets onto the corns of the audience who occupy the front seats. Political necessity pulled the wires when the Republican senate cantankerously "sat down" on the carefully drafted report of the international fishery commission a few months ago. The same ogre guided President Cleveland's hand when he indited his famous retaliation message. Political necessity compelled Republicans and Democrats to vie with each other in seeing which could treat the unfortunate Mongolian the meanest; but "John" has now discovered among his dust and century laden hieroglyphics a tolerable combination which will make a very good translation for the "Melican man's" "r-e-t-a-l-i-a-t-i-o-n," and, according to latest accounts, he intends to make a practical application of the theory against those who may be said to have first taught him the meaning of the word. Political necessity, as we have already hinted, kicked up the muss which is just now setting England and America by the ears. When will both performers and audience have a rest? The curtain will probably be rung down after Tuesday next, Nov. 6th, for a short intermission and refreshments.

Too Ugly to Live.

Julia Beck, of Kansas City, Mo., good looking, bright, admired by many and well-to-do, thought she was too homely to live and committed suicide recently by taking three-quarters of a pound of chloroform. She was 27 years old, and ever since she was 17 she imagined herself so ugly as to cause comments whenever she appeared in public. She rejected several offers saying that she could not disgrace any man. Recently she had begun to try to improve her imagined ill looks in many ways, and about a week ago she had her teeth pulled out, though they were sound and white and not very irregular, in order to improve her mouth. Many of her friends had tried to disabuse her of the strange idea, but each effort in that direction made her insanely angry. In a letter she left for her mother she said she was tired of her homely face and had lost all interest in her new teeth.

Mr. Henry Harding, of Toronto, writes: "My little daughter, 7 years of age, has been a terrible sufferer this winter from rheumatism, being for weeks confined to her bed, with limbs drawn up, which could not be straightened, and suffering great pain in every joint of limbs, arms and shoulders. The best of physicians could not help her, and we were advised to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which we did, and the benefit was at once apparent; after using two bottles the pain left, her limbs assumed their natural shape, and in two weeks she was as well as ever. It has not returned.

A minister was questioning his Sunday school about the story of Entychus, the young man who, while listening to the preaching of the Apostle Paul fell asleep, and falling down was taking up dead. "What," said the preacher, "do you learn from this solemn event?" Then the reply from a little girl came paompt: "Please, sir, ministers should learn not to preach too long sermons."

Mrs. Godolphin—"Now, what would be your terms, Mr. Jones, for giving me a course of say a dozen lessons in painting?" Jones—"Well, frankly, Mrs. Godolphin, I'm afraid it's too late in life for you to begin to start a career of art—that is, if you wish to take it up seriously." Mrs. G.—"Oh, but I don't. I only want to learn enough to be able to teach."—Judy.

A Sluggish Liver

Causes the Stomach and Bowels to become disordered, and the whole system to suffer from debility. In all such cases Ayer's Pills give prompt relief.

After much suffering from Liver and Stomach troubles, I have finally been cured by taking Ayer's Cathartic Pills. I always find them prompt and thorough in their action, and their occasional use keeps me in a perfectly healthy condition.—Ralph Weeman, Annapolis, Md.

Twenty-five years ago I suffered from a torpid liver, which was restored to healthy action by taking Ayer's Pills. Since that time I have never been without them. They regulate the bowels, assist digestion, and increase the appetite, more surely than any other medicine.—Paul Churchill, Haverhill, Mass.

INVIGORATED.

I know of no remedy equal to Ayer's Pills for Stomach and Liver disorders. I suffered from a Torpid Liver, and Dyspepsia, for eighteen months. My skin was yellow, and my tongue coated. I had no appetite, suffered from Headache, was pale and emaciated. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, taken in moderate doses, restored me to perfect health.—Waldo Miles, Oberlin, Ohio.

Ayer's Pills are a superior family medicine. They strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency resulting from Liver Complaint. I have used these Pills in my family, for years, and they never fail to give entire satisfaction.—Otto Montgomery, Oshkosh, Wis. ††

GONE FOR GOOD.

DISAPPEARANCE OF NEW YORK'S NOTORIOUS FAST RESIDENT.

Harry Hill's Famous Elephant Is Dead—How the Place Was Managed—It Didn't Pay To Antagonise the Police.

(Copyright 1888.)

Not all the monuments of a big city are built of bronze and marble. Harry Hill's was built of brutality and mud, but it was none the less a metropolitan monument in its time.

When I first began to see life in New York, a visit to Harry Hill's was part of the programme of existence, to see the elephant in all his glory. And to see the elephant was then a sort of duty every New Yorker and every visitor to New Yorker owed himself. One had perforce to seek him in his stall at Houston and Crosby streets.

Harry Hill's elephant was fed chiefly of whiskey and champagne, and more or less tenderly groomed by young women of free manners and unconventional views of life. It would astonish the public today to know of the unlikely votaries who came to pay their tribute to this queer metropolitan idol. But it was a different New York, after all. So different indeed, that the elephant hunters who penetrated the Houston street jungle a quarter of a century ago, would scarcely recognise it in this year of grace.

Harry Hill's was, in fact, a survival in New York of the wild London of the days of Pierce Egan's "Tom" and "Jerry"! A current fashion condemned its existence. It was, probably, as vile and wicked a place as there was in town, but it was allowed to be a sort of feature of the city like Trinity church in its way, or the Stock Exchange. And to complete one's social education the diploma of a visit to Harry Hill's was as necessary as is a dress suit to a Patriarchs' ball.

Mamma might chide young Sappy, fresh from college, for drinking in water by the quart at noon, after having been brought home at daylight in a hack, so badly mixed up with little Pappy, young Snappy, and a couple of others that the hackman had to untangle them like eels in a tub before the butler could pick his young master out. But when Sappy replied between groans, "Fact was, mam, a lot of us fellows went to Harry Hill's to see a set-to between Plug-Ugly Pete and McSorley's Bull," mamma had nothing more to say. Had not Old Sappy been to Harry Hill's in his day, too, and between ourselves also come home in a hack when the sky was gray?

"What men can see in those awful places," Mrs. Sappy would sigh, "one cannot really imagine, dear."

And Mrs. Pappy, whose own son and heir would be in the hands of a doctor, would agree with her that the fancies of the ruder sex were quite past finding out. But to seriously rebuke their scions for conforming to a practice which time had made almost honorable would not enter the mind of either of these worthy mothers of the Bacchi.

Harry Hill's formed a sort of centre for a lawless district, and a headquarters for the most lawless men and women in New York. All the vileness of the city settled in the slum of which it was the chief landmark, as water settles or stagnates in a horse pond. The history of the district is red with blood and black with brutal crime. Every other house in it had witnessed its murder. The streets were as thickly beset with bandits as the Forest of Bondy. Within its walls, however, actual lawlessness at the public expense had no place. The one virtue—if virtue it can be called—that ever attached to the den lay in the fact that the proprietor ruled it with a rod of iron, and resented any infraction of its rules as mercilessly as a judge upon the bench.

"Them's my laws," he would say, nodding at the numerous house rules emblazoned on the walls, "and them that comes here is governed by them."

They were by no means unwise rules, either. One forbade indecent conversation, and another forbade political discussion. One prohibited unseemly personal demeanor, and another warned the company that dishonesty on detection would be promptly punished. It used to be said of Harry Hill that he allowed no one to rob a guest but himself, and the remark was strictly true.

There was as much policy as intrinsic merit in this. The establishment having become a sort of show place, it attracted the stranger from his hotel, as well as the rounder from his club and cafe. The proprietor clearly understood the necessity of protecting his guests while they were beneath his roof. He fleeced you but he did it civilly. He sold you bad liquor and worse wine for the price of the best; but he did not allow anyone else to infringe upon his prerogative; and New York never had a police force to equal the ruffians in the pay of this cool headed speculator on the vicious weaknesses of the town.

One squad of them would be drawn up against the wall near the entrance, each man with his hand upon the blackjack in his pocket. Another would rally at the farther end of the hall. At the first signal from their master there would be a rush of feet, blows, imprecations, howls of anguish and wrath, and a dull thumping down the stairs. Then all was over. If the thing that had been shot out on the sidewalk did not come to itself and crawl away, the police might remove it, or the ambulance.

So well was this policy understood by even the most desperate scoundrels who frequented the bar-room and the dance-house that you might have carried your fortune and thrown it on the table, secure that it would not be touched. Once the door had closed behind you, however, and you were again on the street, it was another matter; and if the kennels and sewers of Houston street had tongues, they might tell strange stories of dark and desperate crimes committed under the shadows of these walls.

In the days when Harry Hill flourished most luxuriantly New York was full of such dives as his, conducted, however, on a less rigid basis. They reached their glory in the war time, when the town was populous with dissolute and loose-living men, with abundant money to waste. After the war they declined again; and what with the interference of the police and the negligence of the public which had commenced to outgrow its brutal social stage, they disappeared one by one.

It was a case of the extinction of the unfittest. While his rivals passed away and were forgotten, Hill's grew and flourished like a sturdy weed upon the city's dungheap. From the single dancing-hall over a bar-room, in which guise I first knew it, it expanded into quite a spacious establishment, occupying several houses on a street corner. Originally given over to the dance, and to the dance of such a character as the dancers of the slums are addicted to, it eventually secured a theatrical attachment. On a little stage in one corner of the dancing hall more or less vulgar performances were given with variations of a pugilistic character, to defray the expenses of which it was the custom of the fistic heroes to circulate the hat among the audience. Drink was sold throughout the place, being served at tables by women, and in the intervals of the stage performance a portion of the floor was given over to any of the audience that wished to shake its heels.

As I look back on this dingy hall, thick with smoke, with its knots and clusters of evil-visaged men and tawdry women, with its clatter of glasses and the turmoil of a lively drinking place, I have a curious reminiscence of several players who would not thank me for mentioning their names in this connection, and who made their debut on its squalid stage. There is a star of quite considerable magnitude now traveling on the road who came out of a tenement-house to play at Harry Hill's, and another, who, I believe, began life as a sweeper in the dirty bar down-stairs, and graduated into a serio-comic singer, and eventually, an actor—save the mark!

How well I remember one Christmas Eve, when this poor wretch, in almost squalid rags, came on the stage to do his turn, and did it so cleverly and merrily in spite of all his misery, that he so touched the hearts of a gang of rollicking collegians who had possession of the gallery reserved for genteeler guests, that they showered handfulls of silver on him until he gathered together more money than he ever owned in his life before. I believe this terminated as an engagement at Harry Hill's, for when next I heard of him he was giving his performances in a variety house on the Bowery with a name taken from the New York Ledger, and a wood cut from the Police Gazette Job Print, representing him as a cross between the Apollo Belvidere and Buffalo Bill.

There are other men who have achieved less consideration in the same line, who also began life as he did, but I never heard that any of the female stars at Harry Hill's attained fame. What a fat and greasy lot of vulgar harridons they were, with voices that poured out of throats of brass, and complexions from which the paint cracked like whitewash from an old wall! "It gives one a bad taste in one's mouth to look at them," said one of the sight-seers, one night, and he summed the fact up well.

Harry Hill made a great deal of money and saved it. He waxed portly and ran to jewelry. He wore a big masonic emblem in his shirt front and so many diamond rings upon his fingers that he did not require the assistance of brass knuckles when arguing with an obstreperous customer. Within twenty years after he came to this country, a penniless English stable-boy, he had become a comparatively rich man.

In the barbaric society in which he cut such a figure, he was a man of the foremost importance. No prize-fight was complete without the presence of Harry Hill. Indeed, on many an occasion, when the police intervened to prevent some widely advertised encounter between champions of the ring, the lawn on Harry Hill's country place on Long Island provided them with a battle-ground.

The immunity that he enjoyed from police interference lasted until a couple of years ago. Then he made the mistake his life. He quarreled with the police. According to his own story he refused to pay the tribute which he alleged, and which most intelligent people believe that the police exact from all whose business or trade bring them at all within the surveillance and favor of the force and in contact with the law, and they marked him for ruin. Probably he would have been protected until now but for this. It was a reform year, and the police had been receiving some hard knocks from the press. So Harry Hill's doom was written.

As no establishment like his can be run without a gross and constant violation of the Excise laws, it was an easy matter for the police to find excuses for annoying him when it no longer paid them to leave him alone. His bar-tenders were arrested again and again. His waiter-girls were arrested again and again. He was arrested himself. Then a renewal of his license was refused him. He endeavored to run his establishment on a temperance basis, but milk and soda water have no charms for such customers as his, and viciousness unbaptized by fire has no savor. Finally, he was completely frozen out and vanished from the scenes of his protracted and prosperous uselessness.

Now the building which he occupied is being torn down. The site which witnessed his long career of successful defiance of the law is to be occupied by large business buildings, and the last relic of the days of Houston street's era of brigandage will vanish forever.

It is not without interest to note that during the thirty-five years that Harry Hill ran his curious and thoroughly criminal establishment he had no less a person for landlord than that world-famed moral showman and temperance advocate, the great and only Phineas T. Barnum.

ALFRED TRUMBULL.

TYPEWRITING A STEPPING STONE.

A Romance of New York Business Life.

I knew a typewriter once who married a millionaire. She was the most extraordinary creature I ever met. Her age might have been anywhere from 18 to 23 years, and her nationality was as inscrutable a mystery as the Inter State Commerce bill. She was queer, baffling, inert and sinuous, and was apt to excuse herself at short intervals and retire to a corner, where she would giggle for a time with tumultous but genteel enthusiasm into the northeast corner of her small pocket handkerchief, and then return to her work with a visage of solemnity and woe. Her fits of mysterious hilarity always attacked her when I was dictating something of a touching or pathetic nature, and it wore more or less upon my emotions; hence I introduced her to a millionaire carpet manufacturer who was laid up with the gout at his house and desired to dictate his letters in the morning. He used to sit and stare at his mysterious typewriter by the hour with a look of absolute wonder on his face, while she absented herself at short intervals for the purpose of buying him small presents. Sometimes she would give him a large red apple for breakfast decorated with an American flag, while she occasionally varied it with highly colored and utterly unpalatable sticks of candy. He would munch the apple and make vigorous onslaughts on the candy subject to her approval. One day he married her, and I haven't the faintest doubt in the world that he did so for the purpose of solving her mysterious personality.

BLAKELY HALL.

THE MINISTER'S HARD TIME.

First Dame—"How do you like your new minister?"

Second Dame—"Well, he never shirks his pastoral duties, I can say that for him. He attended sixteen funerals and seventeen private christenings last week."

"He did?"

"Yes, and he was present at all the mite societies, church sociables, class meetings, etc., besides being at six evening parties given by members of the congregation. His wife told me he had not been in his own home half an hour a day except at meal time, and the evening entertainments and bedside visiting had kept him up so late that he only got about four hours sleep."

"How noble! He must be a treasure of a minister."

"Yes, in that respect we can't complain, but most of us are much dissatisfied with him, and I think we shall make a change soon."

"Why, what's the matter?"

"Oh, he preaches such poor sermons."—Living Church.

His sister, seeing it, waltzed around the room, reaching the candy as she passed, and hastily ate it.

When her brother had finished buttoning his shoes and reached for it, lo! it was gone.

"You have my candy, miss; give it to me," he cried.

"Brother," she answered, "if you ever eat that candy you will have to be the whale and I'll have to be Jonah."—P.

A Creaking Hinge

Is dry and turns hard, until oil is applied, after which it moves easily. When the joints, or hinges, of the body are stiffened and inflamed by Rheumatism, they cannot be moved without causing the most excruciating pains. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by its action on the blood, relieves this condition, and restores the joints to good working order.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has effected, in our city, many most remarkable cures, in cases which baffled the efforts of the most experienced physicians. Were it necessary, I could give the names of many individuals who have been cured by taking this medicine. In my case it has worked wonders, relieving me of after being troubled with it for years. In this, and all other diseases arising from impure blood, there is no remedy with which I am acquainted, that affords such relief as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.—R. H. Lawrence, M. D., Baltimore, Md.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured me of Gout and Rheumatism, when nothing else would. It has eradicated every trace of disease from my system.—R. H. Short, Manager Hotel Belmont, Lowell, Mass.

I was, during many months, a sufferer from chronic Rheumatism. The disease afflicted me grievously, in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took several bottles of this preparation, and was speedily restored to health.—J. Fream, Independence, Va. ††

Public Notice

THE ATTENTION OF THE PUBLIC is hereby directed to the "Provincial Health (small-pox) By-Laws, 1888," issued by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, under authority of the "Health Ordinance, 1869."

Having been appointed Provincial Health Officer for Districts lying south of Fraser River, I hereby give notice that the provisions of said By-Laws will be strictly enforced, and all persons are required to govern themselves accordingly.

R. I. BENTLEY, M. B.,
Provincial Health Officer.

New West., Oct. 6, 1888. doc6m1

BY-LAWS ISSUED BY HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR-IN COUNCIL,

HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT-Governor of British Columbia, by and with the advice of the Executive Council of British Columbia, acting under and by virtue of the provisions of the "Health Ordinance, 1869," enacts as follows:—

1. Whenever small-pox is present in any locality without the boundaries of any Municipality, the Provincial Health Officer nearest to such locality shall at once cause the patient to be removed to an isolated hospital, tent or other suitable place, or cause such person to be otherwise sufficiently isolated, and shall see that he is properly cared for, and shall take proper measures for the disinfection, or, if necessary, the destruction of all clothing which may have been exposed to the contagion, and for the disinfection and purification of every conveyance, rail-car, steamboat, railway, vessel, carriage, or other vehicle which may have been exposed to the contagion.

2. Such Health Officer shall have, in his discretion, full power to place in another building or tent all persons who may have been exposed to the contagion, and shall cause them to be supplied with all necessaries until the period of incubation of the disease shall have elapsed, and no such person shall go, or be permitted to go, abroad, until he or she has given satisfactory proof or successful vaccination within the preceding seven years, or shall have obtained a medical certificate of insusceptibility to the vaccine disease, nor until the clothing or effects worn or carried by or with him or her have been properly disinfected, if the same have been exposed to contagion.

3. To assist the Health Officer, he shall have full power to employ persons to be nurses, sanitary policemen, and otherwise to aid in the prevention of the spread of the disease, and may himself give and enforce such reasonable directions for the same purpose as to him may seem expedient, and the nearest Government Agent shall see that all articles and necessaries required by the Health Officer are furnished.

4. It shall be the duty of every medical practitioner who shall attend upon, or give medical or surgical advice, to or about any person suffering from small-pox, to give notice forthwith after he shall have commenced so to attend or give such advice, to the nearest Provincial Health Officer. When a householder knows that a person within the house occupied by him is taken sick of small-pox, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the nearest Provincial Health Officer.

5. The Provincial Health Officer before mentioned is and includes any person appointed Health Officer under the "Health Ordinance, 1869," by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

6. The foregoing provisions shall have no effect within the limits of any Municipality, save as hereinafter mentioned.

7. In case the Council of any Municipality, whenever small-pox is present, or likely to occur therein, shall fail to make or carry out proper provisions to prevent the invasion or spread of small-pox within the Municipality, and complaint thereof shall be made to the Lieutenant-Governor by the Council of any adjacent Municipality, it shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, acting upon such complaint or in his discretion upon other information, to order that these regulations shall, until otherwise ordered, apply to and be in force within the Municipality in which such neglect occurs, and thereupon any Provincial Health Officer shall have, within and in respect of such Municipality all the authority with which he is clothed in respect of localities without Municipalities, and in such case all disbursements and expenses paid by the Province, in the carrying out within such Municipality of the foregoing regulations, shall be paid by such Municipality.

8. These regulations may be cited as the "Provincial Health (small-pox) By-Laws, 1888."

Dated at Victoria, this 3rd day of October, 1888.

By Command,

JNO. ROBSON,
Provincial Secretary.

A fine constitution may be ruined by simple neglect. Many bodily ills result from habitual constipation. There is no medicine equal to Ayer's Pills for restoring the system to natural and healthy action.

The boats brought in a few salmon last night but not sufficient to pay working expenses. Salmon are reported to be numerous in Cowichan Bay and are being caught there with a seine net.

The body of Mr. Haggman's little son was recovered yesterday afternoon. It was found in three feet of water close to the river bank. The body was brought to Westminster and interred this afternoon.

White gloves to-day should have been presented to Police Magistrate Atkinson, but as this old and generous custom is not in vogue in Westminster the formality was dispensed with, greatly to Mr. Atkinson's regret.

The Webb vs. Reidt case concluded last night shortly after 6 o'clock, much to the disappointment of the large audience present. Reidt was fined $5 and bound over to keep the peace for 6 months. Mr. A. H. McBride, warden of the penitentiary, informs us that he has the only pheasants on the mainland. He imported a brace last spring but they arrived too late to breed and it will be next summer before a brood will be hatched out. Mr. McBride intends stocking the penitentiary ravine with pheasants some of which will undoubtedly find their way into the neighboring woods. Mr. McBride is strongly in favor of a game protection society.

The letter read at the city council on Monday night from Dr. De Wolfe Smith, health officer, recommending that Dr. D. McLean's clothes be burned and his family quarantined for 14 days, was written about the time the small-pox broke out at Walworths and after the doctor had made a visit to that family. Why the council did not receive the letter sooner was not explained. The necessity of Dr. Smith's recommendation being put in force has gone by.

Can't Kill Westminster.

The Blaine Journal says: We heard it stated last week that the C.P.R. Co. had set out to kill Westminster. We do not exactly believe the statement, but we do believe that the task, if undertaken, will be found impossible to accomplish. The moment that understanding becomes patent that moment the Northern Pacific will build a line into British Columbia and tap Westminster with all its natural advantages. No, it cannot be done. Westminster will grow, Blaine will grow, Vancouver will grow, Whatcom will grow, and no narrow policy will kill them, but liberality will build up the whole country at once.

Getting Their Deeds.

Of the twenty-eight original claimants for lands (as squatters) on the property at Granville, transferred by the government to the C.P.R., twenty-three claims were admitted or pronounced good by the arbitration. To many of these twenty-three deeds for the property in question have already been issued, but in respect to those whose claims were decided by Chancellor Boyd, the legal transfer of the property has from various causes been delayed until the present time. The last of the deeds, transferring the lots to their owners, were executed to-day, and this vexed question—in so far as these twenty-three are concerned—has now been settled forever.—Times.

Floods in Washington Territory.

Did you know that Blaine was an island last week? Well, it was, for when the Nooksack was on its tear it raised so high at the upper crossing that it ran over its banks into Sumas Lake and thence into the Fraser river. The water raised up to the doorstep of Mr. Moultray's house and washed away a hundred bushels of apples from his orchard, which the floating sawlogs and other driftwood knocked off for the hungry waves. Many potatoes and other things were also damaged along the river up there. The water was not so high down the stream farther, which would indicate that the water was obstructed at some point below. At Ferndale it was only bank high. —Blaine W. T. Journal.

The Montreal C. P. R. Depot.

The immense granite pile of buildings erected midway between the Windsor and St. James' street west on Windsor street, Montreal, for the C. P. R. station is fast nearing completion, and one cannot but admire the wonderful energy which will in so short a time bring that city into possession of perhaps the best equipped, and certainly the most solidly constructed, depot in North America. The main building is completely roofed in, most of the plastering being done, and the carpenters are now busily engaged putting in the inside furnishings and bringing the interior of the passenger terminus of the C. P. system as near perfection as the most skilled mechanics can possibly devise.

Moody's Meetings.

To-morrow morning at 9:30 o'clock Mr. Dwight L. Moody, the noted revivalist, will hold his first service in Westminster. Other services will be held at 2:30, 4, and 7 p.m. The service at 2:20 o'clock is for men only. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday meetings will be held at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. If the meetings are largely attended and much interest is manifested in them Mr. Moody may be induced to extend his stay till the end of the week. The clergymen of the Presbyterian, Methodist, Reformed Episcopal and Baptist churches will assist Mr. Moody, and the choirs of these churches have united to form a grand choir and will, without doubt, furnish music that will be highly appreciated by the audiences.

Firmin-Jack.

Herring's opera house was comfortably filled last night with a very enthusiastic audience, the occasion being the first appearance of the Firmin-Jack dramatic company in Westminster. The flattering notices given this company by the eastern press were proved not to be overdrawn, and, in fact, the whole entertainment was much superior to anything that Westminster has been favored with for some time. Both Annie Firmin (Mrs. Jack) and Mr. Jack are gifted actors, and well worthy of patronage, and Mrs. Jack's musical ability is far above the average. Their rendition of Lady Teazle and Sir Peter Teazle, in Sheridan's "School for Scandal" was capital, and took the house by storm. As "Falstaff" Mr. Jack gives a performance that would be hard to improve on. Mr. F. B. Lyttle's Scotch recitation was very fine, and Master Arthur Firmin-Jack's singing was greatly appreciated. The company appear again at the opera house to-night.

Mud Bay Dyke.

A meeting of Surrey and Delta farmers interested in the Mud Bay dyking scheme, was held last night at the residence of Mr. A. J. Hill, C.E., to discuss ways and means for bringing about the construction of this much desired dyke. The proposed dyke, which is to run from Blackie's Spit to Oliver Slough, will reclaim 30,000 acres of the finest muck lands on the coast, and, being of such importance, should be a Dominion work. After considerable discussion it was resolved that the owners of all property which will be improved by the dyke should agree to an assessment of $2 per acre on their lands, which would amount to about $30,000. The dyke would reclaim to the Dominion Government fully $30,000 worth of land, and as the cost of the work will be in the neighborhood of $70,000 there will be only $10,000 more to make up. It is proposed that the Dominion and Provincial Governments contribute an equal share of the cost of the work not covered by the above figures. The dyke could be made much more comprehensive in character and sufficient land might be reclaimed to pay for the entire work. The agreement will be submitted to the Dominion Government for their approval, and it is most desirable that the very strongest pressure should be brought to bear to have an appropriation made at the next sitting of the house for the construction of this important work.

Rev. J. McLaurin, Canadian Baptist Missionary to India, writes: "During our stay in Canada, we have used Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil with very great satisfaction. We are now returning to India, and would like very much to take some with us, for our own use and to give to the diseased heathen."

The Star and Planet.

Mr. Geo. Henderson, of Nicola, reports satisfactory progress at the Star and Planet mines, taking out the ore, which is rapidly increasing in richness. new stamp mill is working nicely, and in connection with two concentrators they are reducing 50 tons of rock and 10 tons of concentrates per week, all of which is shipped to San Francisco. The mine is one of the best paying in the province, considering the capital invested.

Pacific Coast Fish.

Mr. John Leckie, the well-known importer of fishing nets in this city, has just returned from a seven weeks' visit to the Pacific coast. He and Mr. John Knox, the extensive manufacturer of thread at Kilbirnie, Scotland, visited all the salmon canneries on the Fraser river, where they report the catch to have been a comparative failure. This, however, is a circumstance that is looked for every five or six years. As the catch on the Skeena and other northern rivers was large, the shortage on the whole will not be so marked. On the Columbia the catch of salmon has been fully up to the average. An active demand keeps prices high. The fishermen engaged in the sealing industry are anxious to find employment, with their craft, in taking halibut and cod, the catching of seals lasting only four months in the year. The supply of cod, halibut and sturgeon is abundant, and if a market can be found in the east these men will make the experiment. Freights, however must be low if it is to be successful, and this is regarded as the only serious obstacle. This fishery is just in its infancy. Some persons from Sandusky, Ohio, have entered the field and will salt and smoke the sturgeon, using the eggs for caviare. Mr. Leckie and his companion found the lumber industry of our Pacific coast in a very active condition, the mills being busily engaged in shipping to Australian and South American ports.—Journal of Commerce.

This month has been noted for its heavy rains and winds from S.E. to S.W. and N.W. and continual fluctuations of the barometer. On the 23rd a curious movement in the barometer occurred between here and Port Moody (6 miles to the north of us). At 9 a.m. the barometer reading here was 29.46 and at Port Moody the same; but at noon the reading here was 29.44 and at Port Moody 29.99.

White frost (on the ground) occurred on the 26th. But dahlias are still in bloom and other flowers. A large and brilliant meteor was observed here on the 26th and several others have been reported from different places.

The river suddenly rose 4 feet on the night of the 26th.
