THE FISHERIES

Arrangements Said to have been Arrived at in Atlantic and Behring's Sea Questions.

John Mannix Embezzles Over Two Thousand Dollars of Archbishop Purcell's Estate.

Bids for Behring's Sea Sealers will be Opened To-morrow. Large Offers Expected.

The Alaska Fisheries.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 21.—Bids will be opened at the treasury department to-morrow for a twenty years' privilege of catching seals in Alaska. Only one bid has been received, but many more are expected to-morrow morning. The company that has the present lease pays the government about $317,000 yearly, and are limited to one hundred thousand seals per year. The new contract reduces the number to sixty thousand per year, but it is thought that the bids will range in the neighborhood of half a million each.

Bishop O'Connor Dying.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 21.—Bishop O'Connor, of the Western Diocese of Pennsylvania, is dying at the Mercy hospital here of consumption. His constant attendant is Sister Catherine, better known to the social world as Miss Kate Drexel.

Crazed by Losses.

DULUTH, Minn., Feb. 21.—John Hang, an old and wealthy resident, committed suicide this morning by swallowing a large quantity of carbolic acid. He was crazed by heavy losses in a mining deal in Nova Scotia. He leaves a widow and son, and estate worth $20,000.

A Sorrowful Wedding Night.

BRAINERD, Minn., Feb. 21.—Last night was set for the marriage of Miss Lillie Dean, daughter of a northside merchant, to J. Bellmer. The latter was train clerk on the Northern Pacific and both young people were well esteemed. A goodly party of friends assembled to witness the ceremony, and after an evening spent in the usual felicitous manner with the guests and friends, the twain said good night and retired to the bridal chamber. In less than half an hour the remaining guests were horrified to see the bride coming down stairs in her night attire crying that her husband was dead. Rushing up stairs the excited guests found the bridegroom lying on the bed, unconscious of their efforts to rouse him. The dead man was from Flesherton, Ontario.

Should be Lynched.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Hing Lee, a Chinaman, who keeps a laundry, is locked up at Maxwell Street station on the charge of inducing young girls to enter his building and there assaulting them. Annie Barnestein, a pretty Bohemian orphan, aged 15, was found in a room with him. She was taken to the station where she admitted having been criminally intimate with him, and gave the names of other young girls who visited Lee also. It is thought this will develop into another Milwaukee affair, as it is believed that the Chinese all over the city are at the same thing.

Blood-Thirsty Negroes.

RALEIGH, N.C., Feb. 21.—The negro incendiaries at Rocky Mount have sent a notice to prominent citizens there informing them that if the Rocky Mount light infantry are ordered out the negroes will kill them all if they have to shoot them from ambush. Other threats of a like character have been made.

Standard Time.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 21.—The bankers of this city to-day adopted standard time, to begin at noon to-morrow.

A Serious Charge.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 21.—In the United States Court to-day during the progress of the Driggs counterfeit case, C. W. Baker, one of the leading attorneys of the state, charged Chief Dillon, of the United States secret service, with knowingly prosecuting innocent parties with lascivious conduct with one of the defendants.

Another Embezzler.

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 21.—The probate court to-day decided that John B. Mannix, assignee of the late Archbishop Purcell, is an embezzler to the extent of $227,997 and that his bondsmen must pay it.

Bridges Swept Away.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, Feb. 21.—There have been no trains to-day on the Ohio & Southern Railway on account of a big washout near Jackson. Two bridges are gone.

A Distinguished Visitor.

NEWPORT, R. I., Feb. 21.—Rear-Admiral Zeil of the late Maritime Conference, paid an official visit to the torpedo and naval training stations to-day. A salute of 13 guns was fired in honor of the distinguished visitor.

The Chicagos Win.

JACKSONVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 21.—The Chicago's defeated the Philadelphia's today in the first game of the Florida series. Following is the score: Chicago 8; Philadelphia 3.

Railway Sold.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 21.—The Ohio, Indiana & Western Railroad was sold to-day by order of court to Samuel Spencer, a stockholder, for $3,000,000, subject to liabilities. The sale confirms the lease to the "Big Four" syndicate.

Loss of Memory.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—In the jury bribery case O'Donnell, the defendent, was on the stand nearly all day. Nothing new was brought out except the remarkable loss of memory of the witness.

The Sawtelle Murder.

DOVER, N.H., Feb. 21.—The coroner's jury in the Sawtelle case finished its work to-night. The verdict will not be given for ten days. Some doubts are now being cast on the theory that the murder was committed in New Hampshire, as pistol shots in East Rochester are not unusual. It is thought, however, the jury will declare that the murder was committed in this state. It is a question now whether Isaacs will be tried at the present term, as the grand jury has been discharged. Isaacs still maintains a stolid silence.

A Terrible Crime.

FLEMING, S. D., Feb. 21.—Yesterday morning Mrs. James Layton was found dead. It was supposed to be a case of suicide. Developments to-day show the woman was criminally assaulted and murdered.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Another Syndicate.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 21.—An English syndicate is here trying to purchase the Woodworthy Machinery Works, of this city, which are the largest in the United States.

A Poor Arrangement if True.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—It is reported that an understanding has been reached by Secretary Blaine and Sir Julian Pauncefote, concerning the fisheries question. The results reached are that American fishermen are to have the same rights in Canadian waters as Canadians enjoy in American waters. To secure this concession Blaine is reported to have agreed to the admission of British sealers in Behring Sea on the same terms that American sealers are permitted there. The Secretary, however, extends the privilege merely as an offset, and not as a resignation of the mare clausum policy, which he has at all times so positively maintained.

The Dual Language.

OTTAWA, Feb. 20.—The dual language debate was resumed this afternoon. Mr. Mitchell spoke in support of Sir J. S. D. Thompson's amendment, as did Sir John Macdonald. The Premier made a passionate appeal to the House for support. He urged that the question should be dropped, so that no danger of race or creed trouble might be resumed, if only for the credit of the country. The other speakers were Messrs. Edgar, Barron, Dewdney, Richards and Langlier.

Died From Exposure.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 20.—A young girl, Rose Pabriquin, belonging to Lorndale, died under peculiar circumstances on Monday night. She was the victim of consumption and arose in the night, it is supposed, in a fit of somnambulism, wandered into the garden, lay down and died from exposure.

The "Mail's" Opinion.

TORONTO, Feb. 20.—The Mail says that if the people of the Territories are deprived of the right of dealing with dualism as they see fit, the people of Manitoba must also be deprived of that right; in other words, it will be necessary for the Government to disallow the Manitoba statutes abolishing the French language and separate schools, and to begin another long struggle with that province. Is Parliament prepared for such a conflict?

The Haldimand Election.

TORONTO, Feb. 20.—Dr. Montague (Conservative) is elected for Haldimand by over a hundred majority over Mr. Colter (Liberal).

The Eccentric Sarah.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The Mail and Express' Paris cable announcement of the intended production of a passion play in this city in Easter week has scandalized the religious party in Paris, and there is a considerable outcry against it. It is unlikely that the censor of plays will forbid it. Sara Barnhardt seems to have set her heart on it and is in a great state of mind over the indignation her purpose has aroused. She asks what greater harm there can be in presenting a passion play in Paris than in presenting one in Oberammergas. She contends that she belongs to the same glorious Jewish race as the Virgin Mary herself and in addition to this she has been baptized and has taken the communion in a Roman Catholic convent. The general opinion in religious circles and the apparent sentiment of the Government are a sufficient indication of the temper in which this audacious scheme of Barnhardt's is received, and the whole affair will probably amount to nothing more than another exhibition of this peculiar woman's eccentric nature and hunger for notoriety and novelty. Anything further would be generally regarded with disfavor and looked upon as sacrilege.

A Terrible Snowstorm.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 20.—The storm in the Sierras continued unabated all night and at 10:30 a. m. is besieging the entire road from Cisco to Truckee. The plows are hard at work, in fact doing their utmost, but the appearances are that the snow is gaining on them. The train that left here for the east on the night of the 17th was held at Cisco till 7:30 this morning, when it started again. No one seems to know where it is at this hour. The train leaving here on the 18th instant is held at Cisco and the one due to leave here last night remains here.

A frightful accident occurred one mile east of the Capehorn mills, near Colfax, last night at 9 o'clock. An engine rigged up as a plow and pushed by four other engines at a high rate of speed, struck a broken rail and went over the enbankment followed by two others, piling upon each other in a promiscuous mass, entirely clear of the track, killing the brakeman, Williams, and injuring one engineer and two firemen, one of the latter seriously.

THE S.A. AGAIN.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN—Sir: In looking over your valuable paper of yesterday's edition I see that a certain Presbyterian of this city came to the conclusion the piece I put in Tuesday's edition would justify the Army in expelling me from their meetings and sending me to the jail, and putting me down as "An agent of the Evil One." In my opinion, when a man is down such language as that would sink him lower.

Now this Presbyterian puts me down pretty low and tries to raise the Army in the eyes of the people of this city. It makes me wonder if this same Presbyterian has got any connection with the editor of the Presbyterian Witness, of Halifax, N.S., who, having been asked his opinion of the Salvation Army and its methods, says: "We have occasionally read their War Cry, which is not an edifying paper. On the contrary, it is a foolish, and in the main a ridiculous production. We have seen their hymns, mostly very poor. We have attended two of their very special and much advertised meetings and they were quite unworthy of sensible people. We have seen their performances in the streets on the Lord's day, and these we regard as deplorable exhibitions."

T. RONEY.

A Valuable Opinion.

Dr. Campbell, Manager of the Revelstoke Smelting Works, while in Winnipeg the other day, received a telegram stating that a very rich vein of silver had been struck in the Fish Creek mine, north of the Glacier House, and about twelve miles from the C. P. R. The Doctor says that four new companies with the needed capital will begin developing work on their claims in the spring. American miners are flocking into the lower Kootenay district, where they have been attracted by the big finds made during the past year and a half. Dr. Campbell says that the mining prospects of British Columbia never looked brighter. He thinks that this province will come quickly to the front as one of the greatest mining centres in the world.

The editorial and business offices of THE COLUMBIAN will remain in the Bank of British Columbia building, Room I, pending the completion of the new offices in the Powell Block. *tc

A SOCIALIST VICTORY.

The Socialists Sweep Germany and will have a Majority in the Rheistag.

An Attempt to have the Pope Act Umpire in the British Portuguese Dispute Fails.

Joseph Biggar Leaves Thirty Thousand Pounds for Free Education in Ireland.

Great Socialist Victory.

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—The total socialist vote in Berlin was 115,000, an increase of 20,000 since the last election. The socialists are returned from Magdeburg, Elberfeld, Munich, Konigsberg, Chemnitz, Lubic, Bremen and Brunswick. The cartel parties have lost 15 seats, according to returns so far received. The socialists have doubled their vote and power throughout Germany. Herr Singer defeated not only Engen and Richter, but General Von Moltke against whom he was also nominated.

Joyful Socialists.

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—The socialist procession, celebrating their victory last night, came into collision with the police, and one of the latter was dragged from his horse and terribly beaten. His legs were also broken, and when he was carried to a policeman's shelter the mob madly wrecked the building.

Election Returns.

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—Up to 5:45 o'clock this morning election results had been received from 85 districts with the following results: Elected, 5 Conservatives, 2 Government party candidates, 1 national Liberal, 18 centre Catholics, 2 Freissinnige candidates, 14 Socialists, 2 Poles and 2 Alsatians. Second ballots are necessary to 4 Conservatives, 3 Government party, 17 national Liberals, 10 centre Catholics, 10 Liberals, 18 Freissinnige, 24 Socialists, 2 Guelphs and 1 Alsatian.

A Pardon.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Mr. Blowitz, Paris correspondent of the Times telegraphs that pardon will certainly be granted the Duke of Orleans.

Ordered to Crete.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The Times, reports that a Russian fleet has been ordered to Crete.

Biggar's Bequest.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—It is reported that £30,000 of the large estate left by the late Jos. Biggar have been bequeathed for a fund to be devoted to free education in Ireland.

She Failed.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The rumor is current in Rome that secret negotiations were made to induce Portugal to select the Pope as umpire in her dispute with England, but they failed.

The Infamous Libeller.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—William S. Cane, Liberal-Union member of parliament for Barron-in-Furness, has written a letter to his electors concerning the Times' forgeries and that paper's continued attacks on Parnell. He says he cannot find language strong enough to express his horror of the conspiracy, or his opinion of the Times' conduct in lending itself to infamous libels on the flimsiest evidence.

Minister Lincoln's Condition.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The condition of Abraham Lincoln has again changed for the worse and there is great anxiety about him.

A Ready Martyr.

PARIS, Feb. 21.—Louise Michel, the noted Intransigeante, has announced her intention of going out to New Caledonia, to nurse the lepers of whom there are three thousand in the penal colony.

Rescued Sailors.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The arrival to-day at Fort Talbot, Wales, of the steamer Bayfisher is announced. The Bayfisher landed there Captain Putnam and 8 of the rescued crew of the British ship Sovereign, from Cardiff for Monte Video. The Sovereign had been run into by the steamer Highgate on Tuesday while off Lundy Island. When picked up by the Bayfisher, Capt. Putnam and companions had been adrift in an open boat for thirty hours, and were much exhausted. Altogether 12 of the Sovereign's crew were safely landed, but the fate of a number of them is in doubt.

The Wild West Show.

ROME, Feb. 20.—Col. Cody has opened his Wild West show in this city. The attendance has been immense and thousands have been excluded from want of space. The members of the Diplomatic Corps and many other notabilities were present at the opening.

Imperial Parliament.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—In spite of the undoubted disposition of members of all parties to settle down to a consideration of the immense volume of important business confronting them, there is a general feeling that Parliament will be unable to proceed with this much desired legislation until the report of the Parnell Commission shall have been finally disposed of. The newspapers are devoting columns of space to this question, and the Radicals, who daily demand that Parliament shall either exonerate or expel the Irish members accused by the Times, are gaining an immense number of adherents to their contention. In the circumstances it seems hardly possible that the Government can successfully pursue the policy of silence which the Ministry has manifestly adopted. Justice to the Government as well as to the accused men demands that the matter shall be settled as far as the standing of the indicted members in the House is concerned, and it is the opinion of many leading members, Conservative as well as Liberal, that the Government is losing ground by the delay.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

The Kootenay Railway Bill. The Dual Language. The Dominion Election Act.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

THE WEST KOOTENAY RAILROAD.

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—Mr. Mara's bill—"An Act to incorporate the West Kootenay Railway Company," has received its second reading. It provides as follows:

That Joshua Davies, Thomas Brigham Hall and Charles Wilson, all of the City of Victoria, British Columbia; Daniel C. Corbin, of New York City; A. A. Newberry and Albert Allen, of Spokane Falls, Washington, in the United States, together with such persons as become shareholders in the company hereby incorporated, are hereby constituted a body corporate, by the name of "The West Kootenay Railway Company," hereinafter called "The Company."

That the Company may lay out, construct and operate a line of railway from a point on the boundary line between Canada and the United States, on Kettle River, in the Province of British Columbia, connecting with the railway system of the United States, thence by way of Rock Creek and Osooyoos Lake to the Fraser River near its mouth, or to the most convenient harbor on the seaboard of British Columbia, and also a branch line to the south end of Okanagon Lake.

That the head office of the company shall, until the completion of the said railway, be in the City of Victoria, [thereafter the company may change its head office to the town of Nelson, and notice of such change will be published in the Canada Gazette and in the British Columbia Gazette.]

[That the company may construct, maintain and work telegraph and telephone lines throughout and along the whole line of the railway and its branches, or any part thereof, and may undertake the transmission of messages for the public by any such line or lines of telegraph or telephone and collect tolls for so doing, or may lease such lines of telegraph or telephone, or any portion thereof, and they may use any improvement hereafter invented (subject to the rights of the patentee), and any other means of communication deemed expedient by the company at any time hereafter.]

[That the company may carry on business as a general forwarding, express and agency company, and in connection with all matters incidental to such forwarding and express business may store, receive, control and manage all property and effects committed to them for transmission, or required to be transmitted between any two of the places from which they undertake contracts of transportation; and may insure such property, and recover in their own name such insurance, and take all lawful means for the protection, safe-keeping, management and disposition thereof, as if such property belonged to them; and in respect of all such property and effects the company may take all manner of suits and proceedings for the protection thereof and for reparation of any damage or injury thereto, or for indemnity for the destruction thereof, in their own name as such company, subject to the legal obligation to account to the owners or consignees thereof, and subject also to all such defenses as would be available against the real owners or consignees thereof.]

THE BRANDON & SOUTH WESTERN.

Mr. Scarth's Railway bill is an Act to incorporate the Brandon & South Western Railway Company, with head office at Winnipeg. It asks that the company may lay out, construct and operate a railway, commencing at a point within township one, ranges twenty-three or twenty-four west of the principal meridian in Manitoba, thence running northeasterly to a point on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway at or near Brandon. The capital stock is to be $500,000. The bill has received its second reading.

THE DUAL LANGUAGE.

From the secretary of the Board of Trade, Lethbridge, N.W.T., the following communication has been received: "At a meeting of the Board of Lethbridge the following resolution was passed: Moved by J. D. Higinbotham, seconded by C. C. McCaul, 'That whereas it appears from reports in the public press that a petition purporting to be from the ratepayers of Lethbridge against the proposal to abolish the dual language system has been presented to Parliament, this Board of Trade emphatically protests against such petition being accepted as the views of the ratepayers or inhabitants of Lethbridge, because no such public meeting as alleged in said petition was ever held in Lethbridge, and the said petition was secretly prepared and forwarded, and the ratepayers of Lethbridge never had an opportunity of voting thereon, and that a copy of this resolution be telegraphed to Mr. Dalton McCarthy and a copy forwarded by mail to the public press.'"

THE ELECTIONS ACT.

Mr. Charlton's bill—"An Act further to amend 'The Dominion Elections Act,' Chapter eight of the Revised Statutes," provides that:

Every candidate in the interest of the Government who, either by himself or by his agent, at any time during an election, promises that the Government will make, will be likely to make, or will be solicited by him to make, any grant of money or any railway, road, bridge, harbor, pier, public building, or other public work, to be expended within the bounds of, or for the benefit of, the constituency for which he is a candidate, such promise being calculated to influence the result of the election in his favor, shall be guilty of a corrupt practice within the meaning of this act.

Any grant of money, unless for necessary repairs or demanded by urgent public necessity, made by the Government of Canada for any railway or public work or building within any constituency where an election is to be held within ten months from the date of the making of such grant, and calculated to influence the result of such election in the interest of the candidate favorable to the Government, is a corrupt practice within the meaning of the said Act.

Any promise of a grant of money, made by any Cabinet Minister or any official in the employ of the Government for any railway or public work or building within any constituency where an election is to be held within ten months from the time of the making of such promise, and calculated to influence the result of such election in the interest of the candidate favorable to the Government, is a corrupt practice within the meaning of the said Act.

Any indirect or inferred promise, made by any Department of the Government, sending engineers to make a survey for a railway or public work of any kind, not under contract and for which a grant of public money has not previously been made, within any constituency where an election is to be held within ten months,—the impression being thereby created that such railway or public work is to be proceeded with, and the result of the election being thereby influenced in the interest of the candidate favorable to the Government,—is a corrupt practice within the meaning of the said Act.

OTTAWA NEWS.

A Vote on the Dual Language Question Will be Taken To-Night.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

OTTAWA, Feb. 21.—Col. Amyot is addressing the House on the Dual Language question. He is speaking in English and is making a strong defence on behalf of the continuation of the French language in the North-West Territories as an official language.

The House is giving him close attention.

It is decided that before the House closes to-night a vote will be taken on the question.

At 4:05 Col. Amyot finished, and Mr. Charlton rose to speak. The galleries are filled with spectators.

THE COLUMBIAN job department is now in running order, and prepared to turn out first-class work of every description. *

THE CHLORINATION WORKS.

THE destruction by fire, a few days ago, of the Cariboo chlorination works, established by the Government last year, and in working order but a few months, is not only a local but a provincial loss and calamity. The very first tests that were made in the reduction of ores by the chlorination process at the new works showed most gratifying results and established beyond a doubt that the Provincial authorities had acted wisely in promoting the scheme. The chlorination works, furnishing as they did a sure means of profitably reducing otherwise refractory ores, promised to give a powerful impetus to the mining industries of the famed and rich Cariboo district and to inaugurate a new era in quartz mining in the Province generally. It is not to be wondered at, therefore, that the greatest regret should be felt and expressed, in Cariboo and vicinity especially, on account of the unfortunate accident of last week whereby the works were totally destroyed, and that the hope should be almost general that the Government should see its way clear to re-establishing such a valuable and promising auxiliary to the development of the vast mining wealth of the country. It has been estimated that the cost of rebuilding and placing the chlorination works in running order again will exceed $15,000. We believe the general desire throughout the Province will be that the Government should make a sufficient appropriation for the re-establishment of these important, almost indispensible, works at the earliest possible date.

THE NEWSPAPER MAELSTROM.

THE Star newspaper, of New York, observes an exchange, is in the hands of a receiver, whose report shows obligations aggregating $791,000, with less than $20,000 assets. The astonishing fact appears that Mr. Collis P. Huntington is the principal creditor, he having invested in the concern since 1885 the large sum of $700,000, without the slightest chance of ever getting a cent of it back again. One of the hardest headed financiers and shrewdest business men in the United States he essayed to become a successful newspaper proprietor. He who could span the continent with ribs of iron, float loans amounting to hundreds of millions, and, if necessary, build and operate railroads to the mountains of the moon, signally and lamentably failed to run a newspaper. It may be said that it was open to him to employ a competent agent to do that which he could not accomplish for himself. Well, he tried hard to do that very thing. He secured the services of William Dorsheimer as editor and manager. That gentleman resigned the office of United States District Attorney to accept the position. An able lawyer, a keen politician and a popular man, it was thought at the time that he was just the very person to fill the bill. The paper seemed to increase in circulation, its advertising columns presented to the eyes of persons not experts, a healthy appearance, new fast presses were secured, and it never tired vaunting of its success, with what truth its balance-sheet now shows. It went behind at the rate of $200,000 a year. With $700,000 Mr. Huntington could have endowed a university; given New York a second Astor library, and even carried out his pet idea of killing the African slave trade, but the one thing he could not do was to found a successful newspaper; no, not even though his reporters raked the gutters of New York, as they did, for sensations with which to fill its columns. What hard-headed Huntington failed to do, no other millionaire is likely to occomplish, in New York or elsewhere. And yet it must be said, from even a cursory observation, that such are just the kind of men the world over who appear to have something of the same fascination for "running a newspaper" that the proverbial and misguided moth has for the candle.

MORMONISM CRUSHED IN ITS LAIR

OUR despatches a few days ago gave a brief account of the signal victory won by the so-called Gentiles over the Mormon element in the late civic elections of Salt Lake City, the very fastness of the leprous horde that have long constituted the most shameful blot on the fair "land of liberty." The full significance of the defeat then sustained by the organized polygamists in the States will be realized from a perusal of the following remarks on the important event by the St. Paul Pioneer Press:

For the first time, the non-Mormon element is in political control in Salt Lake City. The municipal election which was held on Monday was acknowledged on both sides to be the test by which Mormonism as a political institution must stand or fall. Ever since the Edmunds law was passed, there has been a steady progress of events toward the end that has now been reached. That law was the mildest in its terms ever brought to bear upon a community of lawbreakers. It was executed for years in a spirit of the greatest clemency. But the opportunities that it held out to the Mormon community were never improved. Sooner than give up their peculiar institution, they trusted to be able to retain political control by their authority over the consciences of the members of their association. Gradually the open polygamists were disfranchised. It has not, however, been easy to prove the fact of polygamy since the punishment of it was assured, and no device was left untried to retain upon the registry rolls a sufficient number of the faithful to hold command of the political institutions of the city and territory. There are many members of the Mormon body who refuse from choice to marry more than one wife, but these, of course, are in sympathy with their fellows, and were the great reliance of the church at the polls. The so-called Gentiles, on the other hand, have been aroused and encouraged of late as they never were before. They saw a possibility, by a rigid execution of the law, of breaking the Mormon political machine; and this apparently impossible feat they have now performed.

The main agency in this work was the registration law. Under the Utah Act, the scrutiny which this permits is exceedingly severe. The intention of the law is to secure the disfranchisement of all polygamists, and that has apparently been done. But the fight made at the polls was a desperate one notwithstanding; though the non-Mormon element won the day by a considerable majority, and is now in political power in Salt Lake City. The significance of this change is greater than appears upon the surface. It means the beginning of the end of Mormon political power. It means the certain suppression of polygamy, and the beginning of a new era for the territory that has so long suffered disgrace as the seat of Mormon teaching and practice. Hitherto, everything that was done had to be accomplished by the application of an external power. All the machinery of local government was in Mormon hands; and the measure of local autonomy permitted by our territorial system is so large that a complete reform by the action of federal power alone was almost an impossibility. There will be a new regime now, and polygamy will have to deal not only with the law of the nation and its execution under federal authorities, but with the administration of local laws and ordinances in Gentile hands. It admits of no doubt that the victory in Salt Lake City foreshadows the elevation to power of the non-Mormon element in the territory at large. When that day arrives, the hours of polygamy are numbered.

We are making progress. For generations the Mormon "problem" remained without a solution. Even after the Edmunds Act had been passed, it did not seem that we were much nearer to the end so long sought in vain. But now that the law has been made more rigorous and its execution in good faith is seen to be practicable, there is no escape for the guilty body that has so long defied the national authority. The decision of the supreme court in the Idaho test oath case and the Salt Lake City election are two telling blows falling together. It is now settled that disfranchisement for the crime of polygamy can and will be accomplished; and this presages the extinction of the vile doctrine that held a great government at bay. It is not to be denied that the measures by which this end is reached are distasteful to many of our people and foreign to the liberal principles on which our system of government is founded. It is a distinct misfortune that we should have had to strain a point, or establish a precedent that might be made dangerous. But the necessity could not be denied. Unless we chose to permit the laws of the nation, supported by the unanimous opinion of decent people everywhere, to be nullified openly, we had to make them respected by any means at command. Mormonism as a political power is in the last stages of dissolution. We neither know nor care what may be its future as a system of belief; but we can now rest assured that the practice of polygamy will soon be as rare and as speedily punished in Utah as the crime of bigamy is in the states of the Union.

Canada can learn a valuable lesson, it goes almost without saying, from the terrible and protracted struggle which the Great Republic has had in ridding herself of the coils of the foul monster that, in less formidable shape, was once admitted to her bosom, and the lesson can be very appropriately emphasized at this time when the reptile is endeavoring to worm its slimy coils into the borders of our own fair Dominion. Senator MacDonald's anti-Mormon bill, a synopsis of which we published the other day, may well receive the hearty support of every loyal Canadian.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The will of Mr. Talbot, the late "father of the British House of Commons" bequeathes £2,000,000 to his eldest unmarried daughter, £1,000,000 to his invalid daughter, Olive, £800,000 to his third daughter, Mrs. Fletcher, and £1,000,000 to Andrew Fletcher, aged nine.

North-west petitions in favor of the McCarthy Bill for the abolishment of the French as an official language in Manitoba and the Northwest have been presented in the House. One from Calgary contains 171 signatures, that from Dunmore 72, Cochrane 30, Gleichen 21, Morley and Shoot River 50, and other places 22; total 367.

There has been quite an excitement among eastern coffee dealers lately, says an exchange, over a spurious coffee bean that has been shoved upon the market. It is composed of nothing but flour, water and some sort of coloring matter, but it is of the exact size, shape, color and general appearance of the genuine article, and it requires an expert to distinguish between the one and the other.

There are now thirty-nine crematories in various parts of the world. Italy has twenty-three, America has ten, while England, Germany, France, Switzerland, Denmark, and Sweden have one each. In Italy there were two cremations in 1876; the number rose to fifteen in 1877, and in 1888 the number was 226. Since 1876, 1,177 cremations have taken place in Italy, while the combined numbers from all other countries brings the total only to 1,269.—Ex.

Governor Brackett, of Massachusetts, has just published statistics which show that under local option law which now prevails in that state, by which prohibition prevails in all towns that do not vote for license, last year 288 towns and cities voted against and only 63 in favor of license, and he predicts that as a result of the next election over four-fifths of the towns and small cities will refuse to license after May 1. No prohibition law, he thinks, could be enforced in Boston and the other large cities.

Archbishop Fabre, of Montreal, has issued a timely circular to the clergy of his diocese on the temperance question. His grace declares the number of saloons in Montreal to be altogether out of proportion to the needs of the inhabitants and he directs his clergy to call upon the members of their congregations to unite their efforts in order to bring about a decrease in the number. Happily the temperance question is one upon which good citizens of all creeds can unite. The Archbishop's utterances on this subject are in accord with the opinions expressed by the most influential of the Protestant clergymen and will certainly have great weight with those whose immediate responsibility it is to deal with the licensing question.—Ex.

The Pittsburg Dispatch tells the following short ghost story. A party encamped near Jeannetta, Texas, witnessed a phantom lynching the other night. Two men dreamed of seeing men strung up by a mob, and awaking related their experience. As they discussed it, some one, observing that the ground was very damp, put out his hand and rubbed it lightly over the short, coarse prairie grass, remarking as he did so that it was the heaviest fall of dew he had ever seen. But as he raised his hand, to the horror of the party, the light of the fire showed it to be dripping with what looked most sickeningly like blood. On investigation this bloody dew was found thick and viscid all under the tree beneath which they sat. They broke camp and departed in haste. On looking back they saw three ghostly corpses dangling from the tree under which they had been camping. Returning the next day they discovered no trace of the spectres, but on talking with an old hunter learned that three men had been hanged on the tree for cattle stealing away back in the fifties.

The Bishop of Lincoln possesses the martyr spirit. He courts rather than shuns persecution for his alleged excessive ritualistic practices. One may differ from him in opinion, and even doubt his prudence but it is impossible not to admire his courage. Undismayed by the approach of his trial now proceeding at Lambeth palace, his lordship preached on a recent Sabbath at an elaborate service in St. Agnes Church, Kennington Park. The ritual observed included all the disputed "points," and one or two more—such as incense, orientation at the "Glorias," and kneeling in the middle of the Creed. Decorations upon a somewhat extensive scale had been undertaken, six enormous fir-trees occupying the arches of the three bays of the nave. An orchestra filled the roodloft, to which a richly-gilded screen has lately been added, surmounted by the usual symbols. Schubert's and Gounod's well-known Masses formed the music. The service was opened and concluded with ceremonial processions, in which the bishop and clergy were accompanied by a retinue of acolytes, thurifers, crucifers and banner-bearers. Dr. King delivered a simple expository address based upon the Gospel for the day.—Ex.

A Labor Experiment.

The Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners propose soon to establish a sash and door factory in Victoria on the profit sharing scheme. They hope to receive assistance in the shape of tax exemption from the city, and the result of the experiment will be watched with keenest interest by all who are observing the various phases assumed by the labor question, and are studying its effect on the future of the nation.—Colonist.

The Northern Extension.

Says the St. Paul Pioneer Press of a recent date: Henry C. Davis, of the Northern Pacific Railway, returned yesterday from the Pacific coast. Speaking of the Northern Pacific's announced new line north from Seattle to the International boundary, Mr. Davis says the surveyors are already in the field and that the line will run north from Seattle across the Skagit river to Bellingham Bay; thence north to some point on the Canadian Pacific, probably New Westminster or Vancouver and possibly both. The talk of extending the line to Ship Harbor is simply in the interest of real estate boomers. The road will run through a fine country, rich in timber and mineral resources. Notwithstanding all the talk of construction work in the country north of Seattle, Mr. Davis says the only work under way there is upon the Fairhaven & Southern, known as the Bennett road. This runs from Fairhaven, on Bellingham Bay, to the Skagit river, and is graded north to New Westminster, in British Columbia. The construction work is being actively carried on south of the Skagit. About thirty miles have been ironed, and the rails for an additional hundred miles is now en route via Cape Horn.

JOURNALISM IN GERMANY.

Some of the Things Which Make It Humorous for Outsiders.

An amusing side of journalism in Germany comes to light when a newspaper is confiscated by the Government for political reasons, says the New York Sun. That is, it is amusing to people who have seen the way the thing is done—the owners or publishers of the confiscated paper don't look at the funny side of it. The first copy of every newspaper must be sent to the "Staats Anwalt," or public prosecutor, who is the censor of the press. Herr Staats Anwalt, with the press laws before him, carefully reads the paper while he sips his mug of beer. His eye suddenly lights on a passage which criticises adversely an action or remark of the Emperor. He reads it through, and rereads it, and begins to get mad.

"Donnerwetter noch ein mal," he says. "That must be stopped."

He hurriedly draws a blue-pencil line around the paragraph and steps up to his telephone. He asks central to connect him with the chief of police. When this functionary is at the other end of the 'phone, Mr. Staats Anwalt orders him to send a squad of police to the printer of the paper, forbid its further publication, and seize all the copies thereof he can lay his hands on. The chief answers "Jawohl," and repeats the order to his assistant. The assistant turns to his "sub" and transmits it to him, who in turn tells his "sub" what is wanted, and finally, after a long delay, several policemen start for the officer of the paper in a hired fiacre. In Germany, when the police are engaged in any special work, they do not ride in ordinary street-cars, nor do they walk, but they must hire a fiacre or a coach. This adds secrecy and dignity to the affair. When the policemen enter the publication office they intimidate the frightened foreman into handing over all the copies he has in the place. These are taken down-stairs and thrown into the fiacre. If there are very many of them, another fiacre is called. The printers must take the objectionable matter from the forms, and the police make "pi" of it.

Usually these officers bear a warrant for the arrest of the editor. The German editor has been there before, however, and on the editorial page of most papers, right under the terms to subscribers, he keeps a name, say "Johann Schmidt, responsible editor." And when there is any arresting to be done the police must wreak their vengeance on Herr Schmidt, who in most cases is some petty writer on the paper. When he is in jail for writing something which he didn't write the paper pays him a good salary and looks after his family. The liberal newspapers and socialistic publications always keep a couple of responsible editors on tap, and when number one is in the lockup the name of number two takes his place in the paper until, through some trouble with the police, number three begins his inning. This functionary is called a sitz redakteur, or seat editor. The seat refers to his sojourn in a dungeon. The penalty of the law increases with each offense, and after the unfortunate editor has sat several times a new one is appointed, who starts in with the mildest punishment for the first offense.

The real editor usually gets wind of the intended visit of the police and secretes several copies of the publication. When they arrive, and he has read their letter of authority, he hands over the rest of the papers, which join their companions in the fiacre. The officers read to him the warrant for his arrest. When they finish the editor says:

"Well, meine Herren, I am only a salaried writer here. There stands the responsible editor."

The police scowl at the speaker and march off the responsible editor. It frequently happens that the newspaper has already been sent out and distributed throughout the city, in which case the police must travel around and get hold of all the copies they can. They visit every reading room and cafe in the city, and cut the obnoxious paragraph out from the paper on the files. In Vienna there are seven hundred cafes, and one can imagine what a job it is to visit each one and look for the unfortunate newspaper.

While the police are going the rounds of the city the editor is preparing a second edition omitting the article which provoked the wrath of the Staats Anwalt. In the center of the space this omission naturally creates the word "Confiscated" is usually inserted. A Berlin paper, from which a speech had been taken out, read in the second edition:

"The speaker mounted the platform, and began in a clear voice,

"Confiscated—"

In Russia publications are confiscated with greater regularity than they are issued. At the frontier towns the foreign newspaper mail is regularly opened and read. When the officials come across something which they think would lower Russia in the estimation of the reader, to say nothing of political utterances, they have a very effective method of doing away with it. A roller, made for the purpose, is dipped in printers' ink and carefully rubbed over the paragraph, after which the paper is wrapped up and sent on to its address. Many a Russian reader of German and American publications has received his paper bearing the black mark. If the officials note that some one person is repeatedly receiving such forbidden articles, they report the fact to St. Petersburg, and the person stands an unenviable show for Siberia.

The Obstinate Pride of Maine's Once Famous Lumber King.

Colonel John Goddard was a king among Penobscot lumbermen in his day. An accident that occurred at his home, and related by the Dexter (Me.) Gazette, indicates his unyielding nature and obstinate pride.

One day a little son of his while playing in the yard climbed into a wagon. Tiring of this amusement, the child endeavored to again reach the ground, but did not dare to clamber down.

The mother, hearing cries for help, rushed out to the rescue at the same time that Goddard came around the corner of the stable.

"Hold on, there!" he cried to his wife.

Then turning to the sobbing child he shouted: "What's the matter, youngster?"

"Can't get down!"

"Crawl down!"

"Can't."

"Climb down, I tell you!"

"Daresn't climb down."

Goddard reached for the horsewhip vouchsafing only these words to the appeal of his wife:

"If that young one has any of John Goddard's blood in him he'll get down out of that himself."

The child, nerved to desperation by several cuts from the whip, frantically attempted to scramble down from his perch, and, catching his foot in the wheel, fell to the earth with a broken leg

But Goddard did not flinch.

Foundation of Character.

Moral beauty can not co-exist with radical defects of principle. The character that is unable to resist temptation, or unwilling to stick faithfully to duty is no more truly beautiful, whatever be its generous impulses or amiable traits, than a figure which can not support its own weight. Parts of it may be admirable; but, as a whole, as a unity, it can not be rightly called a beautiful character, for it lacks the foundation

YOUR FRIEND.

Though 'tis true 'tis "filthy lucre,"
Though 'tis true that as an end
'Tis almighty mean to "go for,"
Your own dollar is your friend.

Are you young and are you eager
All the powers that be to bend
To your philanthropic fancies,
Your own dollar is your friend.

Would you see the thrones of tyrants
Topple o'er, oh! would you rend
The grim fetters of the bondsman,
Your own dollar is your friend.

Would you lift up those who've fallen
By the wayside, would you lend
A free hand to struggling virtue,
Your own dollar is your friend.

When you're old and good for nothing,
And all woefully you wend
Your sad way to the dark valley,
Your own dollar is your friend.

Or to smooth the grewsome pathway
To the grave, or to defend
You from fate's fierce slings and arrows,
Your own dollar is your friend.

Oh, my brothers, upon one thing
You can certainly depend—
Whatsoever else proves faithless,
Your own dollar is your friend.

And the best of all about it
Is, whatever way you spend
Your own dollar, in the long run
'Tis some other fellow's friend.

ROUGH ON FLUKE.

A Cruel Shock and Fond Hopes Sadly Blighted.

Mr Endicott Fluke had been spending a convivial evening with a few choice spirits, and was returning to his lodgings in that serene state of mind in which a self-appreciative man is not unapt to be when conscious that he has just been shining with more than wonted brilliancy.

He was passing one of the fashionable theaters, from which a crowd had just emerged, when his pleasant meditations were disturbed by the sight of a richly-dressed young lady seemingly alone and in great distress

As Mr. Fluke drew nearer and saw how extremely beautiful she was, and that she was wringing her hands and weeping bitterly, every fiber of his sensitive heart was touched. Errant knight never hastened with more alacrity to succor distressed damsel than Mr. Fluke did to inquire the cause of the lady's grief

"What can I do to serve you?" he asked, in his blandest tone, and with his most perfect bow—a bow on which he had bestowed months of practice before a full-length mirror bought expressly for the purpose

It was some moments before the lady's sobs would suffer her to speak.

"Oh, sir! what shall I do?" she managed to say at last.

"If you will only tell me your trouble," replied Mr. Fluke, in a voice of tenderest sympathy, "rest assured I shall do all in my power to assist you."

"Joh—Joh—John—" she began, but a fresh paroxysm of sobs choked her utterance.

"Pray compose yourself," said Mr. Fluke, soothingly, "and confide to me the cause of your distress. You may trust me implicitly," he added, laying his hand upon his heart by way of emphasis.

"A young man of my acquaintance, sir—I was going to mention his name, but I won't—asked me to the theater with him. He went out between the acts, and drank too much, and got arrested, and here I am, left alone. I've only been a little while in the city, and don't know the way home, for I didn't notice the streets as we came, trusting every thing to John. Oh! I'll never speak to the wretch again!" And there was an indignant flash in her eyes which made them look brighter than ever, Mr. Fluke thought.

"But you surely can tell the street and number of your residence," he said.

"Oh, yes; but it's a long way off, and I've no change for car-fare, even if I knew which line to take." And again she muttered something not very complimentary to John.

She was beginning to cry again when Mr. Fluke hastened to assure her that there wasn't the slightest reason for uneasiness.

"Give me your address," he said, "and I shall leave you safely at your door."

"How can I ever repay you, sir?" she exclaimed, in a grateful outburst.

"The pleasure of having served you," replied Mr. Fluke, with a bow that would have dazzled even himself had the looking-glass been there, "will be the amplest of rewards."

The lady told him her address. It was, as she had said, in a remote street, but might be reached, with the exception of a little distance, by one of the city railways. But a street car, in Mr. Fluke's opinion, was far beneath the dignity of the occasion. He called a carriage and handed the lady in. His manner was so gentle and civil that she could not hesitate, and when Mr. Fluke had taken his place at her side, after giving the driver the direction, she heaved a sigh of relief, which proved to Mr. Fluke how fully he was trusted.

Mr. Fluke, as the reader may have surmised, was a very susceptible man. He had a way of falling in love at first sight that had brought him no end of trouble. It had nearly always turned out that the object of his hasty admiration was under pre-engagement, or some other obstacle interfered. But he had a persevering heart. If it found its aspirations foiled in one quarter, it lost no time in turning to another. Here was a fresh opportunity, thrown in his way by a lucky chance, and Mr. Fluke determined to accept the omen.

As they rode along Mr. Fluke drew his companion into conversation. There was an artless simplicity in her words which quite captivated him in spite of a few slips in grammar which would have grated harshly on his fastidious ear had they come from lips less pretty.

At every gas-light they passed he stole another glance at the pleasing face and figure at his side, and at every glance the prettier they looked. Poor Fluke!—he was very far gone indeed before half a mile was passed.

"Oh! I begin to know where I am now," the lady said at last, after a look out of the window. "Please set me down here."

"But I must insist on seeing you quite home," he replied.

"That'll never do," she answered. "What if Mrs. Tresham found it out?"

Some old duenna of an aunt, no doubt, thought Mr. Fluke, Or may be they wanted to marry her to that beastly "John." But no; that should never be Mr. Fluke was quite resolved on that.

"At least I may call and see you some time," he said, in his most persuasive manner.

"Oh! that'll never do, neither," she answered, still more decidedly.

"Confound that John! It must be there the trouble lies," reflected Mr Fluke. "But there's hope yet, for hasn't she vowed she'll never speak to the dog again?"

"At any rate you'll trust me with your name," he pleaded.

"Oh, yes. It's Elfina Cawley."

Mr. Fluke would have still insisted on setting her down at her own door, but Elfina was inflexible.

"It'll never, never do!" she reiterated

Mr. Fluke had nothing for it but to let her go. First, however, he placed a card containing his address in her hand, with a warm injunction if she ever required his service that she should not hesitate to let him know.

Mr. Fluke resumed his place, and was driven to his own door in a deep reverie. He was about stepping out when he saw something in the bottom of the carriage which glittered in the light of a neighboring lamp Picking it up he found it was a gold watch handsomely studded with diamonds Doubtless it was the same he had noticed in Elfina's belt while entering the carriage.

"Aha!" he thought, "I shall have a good excuse for a call on her to-morrow in spite of her persistent 'It'll never do!'"

Mr. Fluke, after many wakeful hours, fell into an uneasy sleep, from which a loud knocking awoke him.

"Come in!" he growled.

Two not pleasant-looking men entered.

"Is your name Fluke?" one of them asked.

"It is."

"Endicott Fluke?"

"Yes; why do you ask?"

"'Cause we've got business with you.'

"Hello! Spiles," cried the other taking from a table the watch which Mr. Fluke had found, and examining it closely, "here's the stolen goods!"

"Stolen goods!" ejaculated Mr. Fluke, utterly dumfounded.

"Just so," Mr. Spiles replied. "In course you don't deny takin' this 'ere from the young 'oman last night. But 'twas rather queer of you to give her your card. P'r'aps, though, you thought the bold game was the best and she'd think the watch was lost afore you met her."

Mr. Fluke tried to explain, but his confusion was so great that Mr. Spiles told him he was only making matters worse, and kindly admonished that the least said was soonest mended.

Seeing no help for it, Mr. Fluke dressed and accompanied his captors.

Before the police justice he was confronted by a respectable-looking lady and the fair Elfina, the latter as pretty as ever in spite of the absence of her last night's finery.

"Miss Tresham," said the justice, "will you please make your complaint?"

The lady's statement was, in brief, that her lately-hired maid-servant, Elfina Cawley, had taken it into her giddy head to go to the theater as a fine lady in company with her beau, John Cope, and to carry out the plan had taken the liberty of borrowing her mistress' finest clothes and ornaments, even to her watch. Finding the latter missing on reaching home, she had become frightened and confessed all. The natural conclusion was that the watch had been stolen by the civil gentleman who had so good an opportunity

Poor Mr. Fluke, at the cost of being well laughed at, had to call in friends to vouch for his respectability, whereupon the magistrate accepted his explanations and let him go.—N. Y Ledger.

SHAKESPEARE'S FAIRIES.

The Fairy School Had but One Chief, the Bard of Avon.

There is one part of the "Merry Wives" which especially seems to favor the belief that the piece was originally a court diversion. The scene with the false fairies has the sportive character, and the touch of ballet, which such courtly pastime preferred. It is curious to compare the false fairies of the "Merry Wives" with the true fairies of the "Midsummer-Night's Dream," that most fairy piece of writing in the world. Probably the serious and poetic sprites are the earlier.

The quarto of the Dream is dated 1600, but the comedy is mentioned two years before in the Palladis Tamia (1598). So, to Shakespeare's fancy, his Welsh fairy, and the rest of his masquerading citizens, may have been an English rendering, almost an intentional travesty, of those Athenian fays, more sweet of voice than the Nereides, who departed, the wedding over,

"Following darkness like a dream."

The Windsor sprites began by being prosaic enough, and the very slang of the stage comes in when they cry:

"Go, get us properties,
And tricking for our fairies;"

or,

* * * "wherein fat Falstaff
Hath a great scene."

But when once the fairy queen of these mimic imps appears, the poet can not help himself, but must make her poetical, nay, must show his old sympathies with the fantastic folk and knowledge of their world.

"Fairies, black, gray, green and white,
You moonshine revelers, and shades of night,
You orphan-heirs of fixed destiny,
Attend your office, and your quality.
Crier Hobgoblin, make the fairy o-yes."

Orphan-heirs of fixed destiny, these are indeed the fairies, the shadows of the ancient dead, of the old classic gods, unredeemed, who dwell in their own allotted half-world of reflected light and double shadow, the court of Queen Proserpina.

"Pinch them, arms, legs, backs, shoulders, sides and shins." This is their little part in the moral government of things, the every-day or every-night duty, so peasant belief held, of

"We fairies that do run
By the triple Hecate's team,
From the presence of the sun,
Following darkness like a dream."

The dread Hecate became in the middle ages the sovereign of mere moonlit mischief.

But the pure poetry of old loyalty reasserts itself in this courtly command:

"Search Windsor Castle, elves, within and out;
Strew good luck, ouphes, on every sacred room;
That it may stand till the perpetual doom,
In state as wholesome, as in state 'tis fit,
Worthy the owner, and the owner it.
* * * * * * *
And Honi soit qui mal y pense, write,
In emerald tufts, flowers purple, blue and white."

Then the poetry vanishes with the fays, who brought it, as only to Shakespeare they could bring it, for he, too, like Corneille, had his lutin, his brownie, who never deserted him when he sang of the border of the two worlds, and the realms between night and light, between ghosts and men.

The Ettrick Shepherd, in a burst of confidence, once assured Sir Walter Scott, "Awm the chief of a far higher schule than yours, the Mountain and Fairy schule."

But the good Shepherd overestimated himself. The Fairy school hath but one chief—Shakespeare—and Herrick is his ancient.—Andrew Lang, in Harper's Magazine.

A few days ago at the end of the Naples wharf a forty-foot pile of about one foot diameter was loosely tied with one hundred feet of cable. The hands suddenly noticed the cable running from the coil, and before any one could secure it both pile and cable were moving rapidly to sea. A devil-fish had got entangled in the cable. Boats were at once secured and started in pursuit, and after a two-mile race they captured the line and log, the monster having become loosened, which fact accounts for them being able to overtake it. When we consider that this species of ray attains a weight of 3,000 to 5,000 pounds, with strength to correspond, this is not astonishing. Some months ago the passengers of the steamer Fearless harpooned one of these fish near San Carlos bay, and, after towing the steamer for some time, the engine being reversed and pulling against him, they were compelled to cut the line to prevent being carried on the Sannibel bar.—Fort Meyers Press.

—A mistake of one word cost a merchant of West Bay City the price of fifty bushels of potatoes. He told his clerk to write to a Grayling man for twenty-five or thirty bushels, and the clerk wrote for barrels.

NOTICE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT APPLICATION will be made at the next session of the Legislative Assembly of British Columbia for an Act to incorporate a Company, to be called "The British Columbia Mills, Timber and Trading Company," for the purpose of acquiring the shares in the capital, and the business, property and privileges, and also of assuming the liabilities of the Royal City Planing Mills Company, Limited, and the Hastings Saw Mill Company, Limited, respectively, and to provide for the said Companies being merged therein and extinguished; and

To operate and carry on the business of the aforesaid Mills;

To acquire by purchase or otherwise, build and operate, equip and maintain, mills, factories and machine shops of any description, steam vessels and other vessels of any description, railways, tramways, canals and ferries, and to dispose of the same, or any interest therein, by sale or otherwise;

To acquire, by purchase or otherwise, and construct roads, dams, bridges, aqueducts, flumes, etc., and to dispose of the same, or any interest therein, by sale or otherwise;

To acquire, by purchase or otherwise, leases of timber and other lands and timber privileges, and to dispose of the same, or any interest therein, by sale or otherwise;

To acquire, by purchase or otherwise, and hold lands, and dispose of the same, or any interest therein, by sale or otherwise;

To acquire, by purchase or otherwise, gold, silver and other ores and minerals, logs, timber, lumber and merchandise of any description, bills of lading, bills of exchange, promissory notes, and securities for money, and to dispose of the same;

To exercise and carry on the business of mill-owners (saw, grist or other mills), timber and lumber merchants, manufactures, wharfingers, and carriers, and to conduct and carry on a shipping, towing and general trading business;

To undertake agencies and conduct financial business of any kind other than that of banking or insurance;

To perform all such acts, matters and things as the Company may deem incidental or otherwise conducive to the attainment of any of the above objects, or to the conversion or disposition of any security or property held by the Company.

The ground this morning was covered thickly with a white frost, and during the night the mercury dropped some 12 degrees below freezing point. The weather, however, continues bright and beautiful, and the days are sunny and warm.

It was reported to the police this afternoon that two suspicious looking characters were begging from house to house in the eastern portion of the city. Chief Pearce went on their track and gave them notice to leave the city or be arrested as vagrants.

There will be a special meeting of Trinity Church Club this evening at 8 o'clock, at the club rooms. The object of the meeting is to meet the bishop and discuss matters in connection with obtaining larger club rooms. The presence of every member is urgently requested.

There was a good parade of the Rifles and Artillery last night at the Drill Shed. The men are making rapid progress under the instruction of Master Gunner Cornish, and when inspection day comes both corps will show themselves to be the smartest and best drilled in the Province.

The annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association will be held at the rooms on Wednesday evening, March 19th, at 8 o'clock, at which the reports of the president, treasurer, general secretary and all the working committees will be read, and the usual business transacted.

The action of the Government in providing for the immediate reconstruction of the damaged bridge has had an excellent effect with the North Arm and Lulu Island people, who realize that the Government was not directly to blame, and that it is both willing and anxious to set the matter right again with the least possible delay.

The Vancouver - Victoria football match takes place to-morrow afternoon at Hastings. In the evening the visiting team will be given a grand banquet by the Vancouver club. Special trains will run during the afternoon from Vancouver to Hastings. A large number of Westminster people will go over to see the match. Vancouver will win.

The Colonist of yesterday says: The proceedings for fraud against Dr. J. P. Guthrie, now celebrated all over the Northern Pacific coast as a foolish and careless young prodigal, were not pushed yesterday, his father once more promising to settle and thus save his son. The gay young doctor went east as soon as he knew that he was clear of the entanglement of his last escapade.

Two men, named Edward and James Alexander, were drowned while skating at Victoria on Wednesday night. The bodies were found by means of drags at the bottom of the pond in 8 feet of water with their skates still on their feet and close to each other. A few minutes after being exposed to the air the clothes on the dead men were frozen stiff and the bodies remained in this condition till after the inquest. The jury returned a verdict of "drowned by breaking through the ice while skating."

Mr. R. P. Rithet and Capt. Irving, of Victoria, directors of the Vancouver Water Works Company, and J. W. McFarland, secretary, held a conference in the City Hall this morning with Alds. Browning, Garden, Fox, Costello and A. St. George Hamersley, City Solicitor, regarding the purchase of the water works. The value, utility and capacity of the system were discussed in a general way but no definite conclusion was arrived at. The directors stated that they had not come prepared to give figures. The civic committee agreed to submit an offer by letter at an early date and the meeting adjourned. — Thursday's World.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Thos. E. Kitchen, reeve of Chilliwhack is in the city.

W. H. Redmond, of Victoria, is in the city on a business visit.

Mr. Alex. Ewen has gone over to Victoria on a business visit.

Mr. Thos. McNeeley, of Ladners, is registered at the Colonial.

Mr. Thos. E. Ladner has returned from a visit to San Francisco.

Mr. J. W. Sexsmith, Reeve of Richmond, was in the city to-day and gave us a call.

Mr. Duncan McRae, inspector of timber limits, arrived back to-day from a week's cruise round the shores of Harrison Lake.

Mrs. McDonald, of Ottawa, who has been the guest of Mrs. A. F. Cotton for several months, left for her home to-day. Mrs. McDonald came to British Columbia in search of health and she returns home very much benefitted by her visit.

POLICE COURT.

At the police court this morning Chas. McKim was charged with being a vagrant within the limits of the city. He pleaded not guilty, and said he had been in the city waiting for wages which were due him. He was given till noon to leave the city, and he left.

Uniformed Knights.

Westminster is to have the champion Uniformed Rank of Knights of Pythias in this province. At a meeting of the K. of P. on Tuesday night 40 members were present as candidates for the Uniform Rank, and the following officers were elected: Captain, J. Harling; 1st Lieut., T. Ackerman; 2nd Lieut., D. Chisholm; treasurer, N. Nelson; recorder, T. Tidy. The warrant for instituting is expected in about six weeks, and the uniforms will arrive about the same time. Forty members is a splendid start, and the best that has ever been made by the Uniform Rank in this province.

The District Conference.

The first District Conference of the Young Men's Christian Associations of British Columbia will be held in this city on March 22nd, 23rd and 24th. There will be delegates present from Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo and also from other places in the district where no association exists. The object of the conference is the discussion of matters in connection with the advancement of the Association, and the best means of spreading its influence beyond the actual limits in which it appears as an operative body. The meeting is expected to be very interesting, and it is hoped much good will come out of it.

A Trades and Labor Council.

It is understood that the executive of the "Nine Hours League" will meet to-night to take into consideration the advisability of forming a Trades and Labor Council, into which the League will be merged. The object for which the League was organized has been accomplished, and it is thought the objects sought to be attained both by mechanics and laborers will be more easily accomplished through a Trades and Labor Council, for the reason that the latter can adopt a wider platform and take in all questions of moment relating to trades and labor. A council of this kind would also have a stronger backing and fuller recognition, as it would speak always for the united mechanics and laborers of the city.

The Bar Protested.

A well attended meeting of the members of the legal profession in this city was held yesterday at the offices of Armstrong & Eckstein, when it was resolved to protest against the change suggested by the Vancouver bar relative to defences to actions upon foreign judgments. The proposed change would place great difficulty in the way of any eastern creditor recovering from his debtor who might choose to come to this Province to reside. Telegrams, followed by a formal protest of the bar of this city, were sent yesterday to the Attorney-General and Mr. Cunningham, and to-day the former gentleman sent the following telegraphic reply: "No such law is being introduced," by which it is plain the Government are not in accord with the suggested change.

No Trace of the Burglars.

The burglars who robbed Mr. Lord's store of $250 worth of watches and jewelry, yesterday morning, have gone and left no trace behind. The police have thoroughly searched the city and every nook where they might possibly hide themselves, but without success. It is now thought that the burglars either crossed the river and made their way to the American side or went to Vancouver, where they may now be in hiding. The Vancouver and Victoria police have been notified of the robbery and the class of goods stolen, so it will be difficult if not impossible for the men to dispose of the articles in either city. Their only chance would be on the United States side of the line, and it is probable they will make their way to the Sound with the least possible delay.

The Sapperton School.

When the Sapperton school house was built some 18 months ago it was only intended to accomadate about 20 pupils. At present from 40 to 45 scholars attend the school daily, the average attendance since the first of the year being 37 daily. The building, it is easy to see, is far too small for the number of pupils in attendance; the children are huddled together far more closely than should be the case, and consequently on a cold day the room cannot be otherwise than stuffy and unhealthy, and it is impossible to ventilate thorougly without endangering the lives of the children. The school population at Sapperton is increasing very rapidly, and there is a number of children anxious to attend but for whom there is no room. The school should either be enlarged or a large new one built, and an addition to the play ground, which is very small, is also necessary.

THE NORTH ARM BRIDGES.

The Damaged Structure to be Rebuilt Without Delay by the Old Contractors.

The break in the North Arm bridge, caused by the ice in December last, is to be repaired immediately by the San Francisco Bridge Co., the original contractors. That the work will be made complete and thoroughly substantial this time is guaranteed by the fact that Mr. Balfour, superintendent of Canadian Pacific Railway bridges, will oversee the re-construction. Mr. Balfour has the reputation of being one of the best bridge builders on the continent, and his position on the C. P. R. bears this out. On being requested to superintend the job Mr. Balfour accepted it only on the condition that he should have supreme control of the work, etc., from beginning to end. This was readily agreed to, and the work will be commenced under his direction as soon as the weather will permit.

PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

Thursday's Proceedings.

Mr. Speaker took the chair 2 p. m.

Prayers by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Cridge.

Col. Baker asked permission to withdraw the petition of the Kootenay Railway Companies on the ground that as the railways were for the benefit of Canada the question of chartering them was one of Dominion rights.

Hon. Mr. Beaven said that he opposed the withdrawal of these bills and he failed to understand how the insertion of a clause in an act that if a railway was for the general benefit of Canada the Dominion Government should have full authority over the same as to granting a charter. He could not see the justice of such an assumption on the part of the Dominion Government. He doubted if that government had any right to interfere in the present case or the chartering of railways to be operated in this province.

Col. Baker read several extracts from the North America Act relating to the point in question and said that under that act the Dominion Government had power to veto any railway bill on which it deemed such action advisable.

Hon. John Robson agreed in general principles in this matter with Hon. Mr. Beaven, but what was wanted at the present time was the particular point on which the member for Kootenay wished the petition withdrawn.

Col. Baker said that as those railways would extend beyond the limits of this province and connect with foreign railways they were certainly for the general benefit of Canada. The railways would also go beyond the jurisdiction of the authority of the legislature of this province. The charters granted under such circumstances would be of little value to the promoters of the railways.

Mr. Orr said that the legislature ought to see that their just rights were jealously maintained in this as well as all other matters. He thought that no railway should be allowed to be constructed in the province by the authority of the Dominion Government without the consent of the Provincial Legislature of British Columbia.

Mr. Speaker said the bills at present were contrary to the British North America Act.

Hon. Mr. Beaven said it was monstrous to put the construction on the law that was being put upon it by his opponents. He cited the St. Catharines, Ont., case and stated that it was a well known fact that the premier of Ontario who had given a ruling on a question very similar to this, knew more about constitutional law than the premier of Canada himself. It was absurd to say that everything not mentioned in the act belonged to the Dominion of Canada. We ought to stand up and defend our rights and not let the right to charter railways in our own province be taken out of our hands.

Hon. John Robson said that subsection three of the act did not touch on the point at all in reference to the charter sought. It certainly would be a great abuse if the Dominion Government did have the power to sweep away all rights of the Provincial Legislature to regulate Provincial railways. But the case was altogether different. The railways now asking charter would be part of a foreign system and they had no right to insist on chartering those railways. Leave granted to withdraw.

The petitions of the Vancouver Water Works, Okanagon and Kootenay Railway Co., G. de Wolf and W. Crickmay, E. Otcott re lease of Yale Creek and Hills bar for mining purposes, were read and received.

Mr. Orr presented a petition from a number of inhabitants of the City of Vancouver asking incorporation as the "British Columbia Jockey Club." Mr. Speaker informed Mr. Orr that as this was the last day for receiving such petitions this one would be read at once. Received.

Mr. Martin presented the report of the committee on standing orders and private bills and stated the rules had been complied with in the bills of the Nelson and Kootenay Lake Railway Co., National Electric Tramway Co., the Fraser River Gold Gravel Syndicate Co., the Nanaimo Telephone Co., and the Pacific Coast Fire Insurance Co. Report received and directed to be printed in the votes and proceedings.

Mr. Orr asked leave to introduce a bill to amalgamate the Vancouver Street Railway Co. and the Vancouver Electric Lighting and Motor Co. Bill read a first time and second reading set for Monday next.

Col. Baker asked leave to introduce a bill to incorporate the Nelson and Kootenay Lake Railway Co. Bill read a first time and referred to the committee on Railways.

Mr. Cunningham asked to leave to introduce a bill to incorporate the Fraser River Gold Gravels Syndicate Co. Bill read a first time and referred to the committee on standing orders and private bills.

Mr. Duck asked leave to introduce a bill regarding the National Electric Tramway Co. Bill read a first time and referred to the committee on standing orders and private bills.

Mr. Anderson asked leave to introduce a bill to amend the "Broad Tires Act." Allowed to stand.

Mr. Semlin asked leave to introduce a bill re the Ashcroft and Cariboo Railway, but the bill was withheld until the report of the private bills and standing orders committee is printed.

Mr. Ladner moved, seconded by Mr. Semlin, the following resolution: That the House resolve itself into committee of the whole to consider the following resolution:

That it is desirable that township or district municipalities should be empowered to increase the sum payable for a retail license under sub-section 1 of section 168 of the Municipal Act, 1889, to two hundred dollars per annum.

House went into the committee of the whole on the resolution, Mr. Duck in the chair. Committee rose and reported resolution. Adopted.

Mr. Beaven moved, seconded by Mr. Semlin, the following resolution:

That a respectful address be presented to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor requesting him to cause to be sent down to the House copies of all orders-in-council, reports, papers, and documents relating to the application to the Government, or any of its members, by "The Victoria, Saanich and New Westminster Railway Company," for aid in the construction of the said railway.

Mr. Thomson moved, seconded by Mr. Croft, the following resolution: That the House resolve itself into a Committee of the whole to consider the following resolution:

That it is desirable to grant municipalities the privilege of increasing retail liquor licenses to four hundred dollars a year.

House went into committee on the resolution, Mr. Cunningham in the chair. Report adopted.

The Municipal Act amendments were next taken up and occupied the time of the House for an hour or two. The discussion was lively and the Speaker took strong exception to the manner in which the amendments had been introduced and recommending their withdrawal and introduction in proper order; also to several members for their remissness in not addressing the chair when speaking. The matter under discussion was advanced a stage.

NOTICES OF MOTION.

By Mr. Duck—To move that an order of the House be granted for a return of all lands in the E. & N. Railway belt, sold or disposed of by the Provincial Government as agents for the Government of Canada, during the construction of the E. & N. Railway, also all lands sold or disposed of in the said railway belt by the E. & N. Railway Company, together with the names of all persons to whom such land was conveyed and the number of acres to each such person.

By Mr. Croft—That a humble address be presented to His Honor, the Lieut.-Governor, requesting him to represent to the Dominion Government the great benefit that would accrue to this Province if salmon of the Eastern Provinces were introduced into the rivers of British Columbia, and to ask the Dominion Government to cause salmon fry from the Eastern Provinces to be deposited in the Cowichan, Nanaimo, Sooke and Courtenay rivers during the present year.

QUESTIONS.

Mr. Duck to ask the Hon. Attorney-General—"Has the Government taken any action in accordance with the opinion of the House as expressed by a resolution in committee of the whole on March 22nd and adopted by the House April 19th, 1888, viz:

"That in the opinion of this committee the Government should take into consideration the advisability of issuing a commission under the Public Inquiries Act, 1872, to enquire into the allegations contained in the petition of F. B. McNamee & Co., in so far as they affect John Nicholson's claims for compensation and the other creditors in British Columbia of that firm, who assisted them in carrying on the work of constructing the Graving Dock at Esquimalt, by furnishing them with labor, material, cash and supplies."

2. If so, what was the result of such action?

3. If not, is it the intention of the Government to do so?

4. If not, why not?

5. Have Messrs. McNamee & Co. or anyone in their behalf applied to the Government since January 14th, 1888, for a petition re claims for compensation on account of work performed on the Esquimalt Graving Dock, etc.

6. If so, was such petition granted?

7. If not, upon what grounds was it refused?

House adjourned at 5:55 p.m. until 2 p.m. next Monday.

BRITISH COLUMBIA MINES.

Annual Report of the Minister of Mines. A Good Showing.

Wednesday afternoon Hon. Mr. Robson laid on the table of the House the annual report of the Minister of Mines for the year ending 31st December, 1889. It shows that since 1858 to the present time the estimated total yield of gold and silver amounted to $52,236,753, the gold product of 1889 having been $588,923, of which $490,769 were known to have been exported by the banks, leaving some $98,154 as having been carried away in private hands. The year's estimated yield of silver was $47,873. The number of miners employed was 1,929, their average yearly earnings having reached $330. The exporters of the gold referred to were the Bank of British Columbia $254,816, Garesche, Green & Co. $188,580 and the Bank of British North America $47,373. The yield in the Cariboo district reached $217,892, of which $78,542 are credited to the division of Barkerville, $41,150 to Lightning Creek, $37,000 to Quesnellemouth, and $61,000 to Keithley Creek. Cassiar is down for $54,910, Kootenay (western division) gold $12,700, silver $47,873, eastern division do gold $36,200; Lillooet, gold $60,364; Yale, Osoyoos division, $10,500 gold, Similkameen division $35,800; total for Yale $46,300. The reports of the various commissioners deal at greater length with the respective sections, all of them intimating how greatly and profitably it is possible to extend operations. Among the necessary conditions being the reduction of the duty on mining machinery and the providence of improved transportation facilities. The inspector of coal mines announces that during the year the following mines have been operated, their respective outputs having been; Nanaimo Colliery, 223,870 tons 13 cwts.; Wellington, 273,383 tons 14 cwts.; East Wellington, 51,372 tons; Union Colliery, 31,204 tons. The total output of the year was 579,830 tons, 12 cwts, the coal on hand January 1st, 1889, having been 10,922¾ tons. The exports of these collieries was 443,675 tons; home consumption 124,574¼ tons and on hand 1st January, 1890, a little over 22,504 tons. The statement shows the output and export of coal from 1887 to 1889:

	Output. Tons.	Export. Tons.
1887	418,360	534,839
1888	489,000	365,714
1889	579,830	443,675

The following statement shows the various sources with quantities of their supply of coal to the State of California from 1887:

Jesse James's Slayer.

Bob Ford, who won a reputation several years ago by his ridding the country of one of the most daring outlaws of modern times, was in the city on Monday and went over to Vancouver yesterday morning in pursuit of an embezzler from Kansas. Ford is a deputy sheriff of the Grasshopper State and his life was recently endangered by a friend of Jesse James, the desperado whom he killed. Ford is a square built man of about 35 years old, grey eyes, of nervous temperment and pleasing manner. Nothing but his quick penetrating glance would ever lead a person to suppose that he was capable of taking a human life. In reply to a question from an acquaintance as to his standing with the dead train robbers' friends, he said that the climate occasionally became very tropical and that he had experienced several narrow escapes from death at the hands of James' old comrades.—Wednesday's Colonist.

Cardinal Newman, the famed English ecclesiastic, who took such an active part in bringing about an equitable and amicable adjustment of the recent great dockers' strike in London, is just 89 years old. He is one of the grand old men of the century.
