June 7.—It has been shown he 27th of March, 1902, the nt made a contract with the company to buy 12,000 rifles h, to be delivered before Jan- 1904. The contractor was er cent. of the price, as the supposed to proceed, and re- at percentage on the whole July, 1904. The first delivery was not made for more than ter this last payment, or for and five months after the ment. Yet the contract ex- provided that no payment made in advance except for be delivered within a year.

this Ross rifle contract busi- settled by Parliament in the good deal more must be found the business end of it. What inspection is it which accepts have to be sent back almost ely for repairs? How is it contractor was paid $15,000 replacing sights originally ac- s satisfactory? ly there is some analogy be- e Ross contract and the sub- eal. These facts ought out with great difficulty, o the feverish desire of the min- riends to exclude evidence in to these gratuitous stock hold- would require large profits and ub-target machines to make all ck pay dividends to the bene- Whether the Ross rifle con- s any resemblance to the sub- eal remains to be seen.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, as the chief speaker at a great political demonstration in favor of the late Liberal government of Ontario, announced to the country that the administration at Toronto was the right arm and that of Quebec the left arm of his own government, he stated an evident fact. It has been shown since that though neither the right arm nor the left offended Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the right arm so offended the people of Ontario that they cut it off and cast it from them. Recent charges made by Liberals against the parent government of Quebec, and still more recent exposures of Mr. Parent's successors show that the Quebec administration is also an offence to decent people. On the one hand, or rather on one arm, we have the discovery that a school book swindle has in 10 years taken a cool million dollars out of the people of that province in the extra price of readers alone. On the other comes the confession of one of the parties that a deal was negotiated whereby 500,000 acres of crown land was to be sold by the government for $1 an acre, of which 70 cents or $350,000 was to go to the treasury and 30 cents or $150,0000 to the "Caisse Electorale" or campaign fund.

The trunk of the Laurier administration, as the last twp sessions have shown is perhaps a little worse than either of the arms has ever been. It is clear that the work begun in Ontario at the last provincial election needs to be extended.

This school book extortion, which has been imposed upon the people of Ontario and indirectly upon those of several other provinces through the same ring, was an exaction from which no escape was possible. The government prescribed the books and they could be obtained in no other way than from the favorite publishers. In every case the price paid was double what it ought to be, and in some cases it was 160 per cent. over a fair price. The Whitney government easily learned what a fair price was by asking for tenders. The consequence is that the following reductions are made:

	Old price	New price
First Book, part I....	10	05
First Book, part II....	15	07
Second Book	20	09
Third Book	30	13
Fourth Book	40	15
The whole set	$1.15	$0.49

We may assume that the present contractor is getting sufficient profit, and so it appears that the old ring must have had on the readers alone at least an average profit of 130 to 140 per cent. more than an honest margin. A hard fight was made year after year while the Liberal government was in power to break up this monopoly and give the people a chance to get school books at less than two or three times the right price. But the contractors were entrenched within the government fortifications. The govenment machine at Toronto, which was a branch of the government machine at Ottawa, maintained the monopolists who in turn assisted to maintain the government. Both went out together. Many similar political and financials combinations will go out in a procession when the Laurier government departs.

BUYS HERD OF BUFFALO

Canadian Government Has Secured 500 —to Be Kept in National Park in Northern Alberta.

Edmonton, June 7.—Quite a consignment of American bison which Canada has scooped from the United States, made the journey in forty hours. They left Calgary at 3:20 p. m., Friday and the run was made by easy stages to Edmonton. The train with its cargo passed through here en route to Lamont Saturday morning. On the way from Calgary the herd was depleted by the death of two cows, leaving a total of 198. The buffalo are taking the journey sensibly. One old bull, however, in a fit of wildness nearly demolished his section of a car. At Strathcona they were turned over to Howard Douglas who took possession for the Canadian government. To that point the consignment was billed to the order of Michael Pablo, the original owner, since there was a great deal of ill feeling in Montana over the sale of the herd to Canada, and at Missoula the crowd threatened to turn the animals loose.

Pablo started the herd in 1883 with forty head and later bought three hundred from "Buffalo" Jones of Kansas. If he had not sold he would have had a herd of 1,500. He had all but twelve. Canada's purchase is 500 and of these 300 are to be shipped in September as this is the calving season. The cost is in the neighborhood of $130,000.

Quite a concourse of people were at the depot to witness the unique sight of a train load of buffalos. The train was to arrive in Lamont about 10 o'clock this morning and the work of unloading will be proceeded with at once. A fence passage has been constructed from the track to the park, a distance of about a mile and a half, and the buffalo will be taken through this. Howard Douglas, superintendent of the National, is in charge of the herd.

HARRY ORCHARD WELL KNOWN IN NELSON

Whole Early Career of Criminal Traced From His Boyhood in Ontario to His Graduation as Professional Murderer and Anarchist

Boise, June 7.—Harry Orchard takes the stand this morning for his third day of examination as principal witness against William D. Haywood, the secretary-treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners, charged with the murder of Frand Steunenberg, former governor. The cross-examination commenced yesterday afternoon will probably take up the entire day and may be carried over till tomorrow. The state will then agai take Orchard in hand and the redirect examination will bring out more of the details of the terrible story. When turned over to the defence he appeared to rally; he acted as though relieved from the strain and having once told in public of the murder of Steunenberg seemed to welcome the change. His answers to Richardson's questions were delivered without hesitation. He is quick-witted and self-possessed and appears not to feel the atmosphere of abhorrence with which he is surrounded. The cross-examination is developing into a battle of wits between Richardson and Orchard.

According to those who know the facts of his early life, Orchard is not a naturalized citizen of the United States. His parents, of course, were Canadians, the father of English and the mother of Irish descent. Orchard himself had but little education. He attended a country school in Canada but passed through only a few of the lower grades. He is the second child of seven and all his brothers and sisters are living. When still a boy he worked for the neighbors and was over 20 years old when he went to Saginaw, Mich.,

In the course of Orchard's examination Richardson asked questions to prove that Orchard began a career of dissipation early in life. The man himself says that it was only after several years of hard work that he began to drink and gamble. At that time he was building up a good business in the making of cheese, but it is now 12 years since the turning point. The woman who is said to be at the bottom of it all is the wife of the man with whom he boarded while working at a cheese factory in Northumberland county, Canada. Infatuated, he ran away with the woman, changed his name and afterwards, ashamed to return to his wife and child, drifted into the life of crime that gradually led to taking up killing as a trade, by which he could earn easy money and avoid hard manual labor.

Orchard is a man without nerves so far as the closest observer can discover. At times while relating the most frightful of crimes of which he accuses himself his voice changes and lowers, but during the eight hours he has been on the stand under fire of continual questioning the man's manners has altered little and, except for the first flurry of nervousness when he walked into the court room and faced the crowd of curious faces after 16 months of close incarceration, he has shown no sign that he realized he was making his record as the greatest criminal of the century. That the cross-examination of Orchard will be severe in the extreme was evinced by the first half-hour. Counsel for the defense say that they will be able to tear down completely the story he has told in direct examination. They have called about 150 witnesses and the majority of these are here, they say, to disprove what Orchard has told. The direct examination of Orchard was not sparing in mentioning names and addresses. Counsel for Haywood say they will be able to prove by the testimony of these persons that what Orchard has stated is untrue. It is even asserted that they can produce persons who will say that they, themselves, committed the murders of which Orchard accuses himself. Haywood shows little concern. He even laughs outright when asked what he thinks of the testimony. He asserts postively that the connection of his name with the murderers is a falsification, and made at the suggestion of detectives and enemies of the federation. It is not known yet if Haywood will go on the stand. His counsel say they do not know that this will be necessary.

Seattle, June 7.—A despatch from Walla Walla says: "Harry Orchard has done many wrongs, but I hope that he has repented, now that he understands their magnitude, and that he will be given a chance to lead a good, true and honest life after the present ordeal has passed." This is the statement offered by Mrs. Frank Steunenberg, who is attending the annual camp meeting and conferences of the Seventh Day Adventists at College Place. She seems to be above hatred of the man who killed her husband. As to Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, she expressed no opinion, saying that she had not thought of their connection with the case. She is leading a secluded life, spending most of her time reading the Bible and other religious works. She said yesterday: "The trial of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone is the commencement of a national struggle between the United States government and organized labor and will eventually lead to rebellion. When the Coeur d'Alene trouble arose Mr. Steunenberg was greatly worried, and one evening after he had made his final stand he told me he thought it would cost him his life."

Denver, June 7.—Following the testimony of Harry Orchard in the Haywood trial, interviews here with several persons referred to, are printed today. Supreme Justice Gabbert, who, Orchard says, was the intended victim of a bomb, says that Orchard's testimony fits in with the incidents connected with the killing of Whally.

Mrs. James H. Peabody, wife of the former governor, recalls distinctly the night when two men followed her carriage.

Jacob Wolf, through whom Orchard said he communicated with Pettibone, vehemently denied the truth of the story.

MaxMalich says that Orchard told him he would kill Governor Steunenberg because the latter had prevented him from becoming a millionaire. Orchard reasoned, according to Malich, that Steunenberg's request for troops during the Coeur d'Alene strike compelled him to leave the district and dispose of his interests in the Hercules mine. The purchasers subsequently became millionaires.

Very few criminal trials of recent years have absorbed the attention of the public to the extent of the one now in progress in Boise, Idaho. This interest is not local to the United States, although the crimes committed have all taken place in that country. During the past few days interest in the case has been forced upon the Canadian people from the fact that the principal actor in the bloody drama was born in the Dominion of Canada. This information came as a great revelation, the opinion having prevailed that Orchard was only one of a class of lawless Western desperadoes. It now develops that he was born in the law-abiding province of Ontario, and lived there until he was 22 or 23 years of age. Shortly after that he appeared in Nelson, and for a time kept a restaurant in this place.

Of Orchard's life in the East The Canadian was able to secure considerable authentic information today. J. A. Kelley, the well-known nurseryman, of Fairview, knew the man well at Brighton, Ont., in 1895. He was then known as Albert E. Horsley, and he conducted a cheese factory about a mile and a half from the town. He was regarded as an average citizen. His family was well known in Brighton, particularly Mrs. Fraser. It was understood that Horsley was fairly successful in business, and the first thing to dispel this impression was the announcement that the cheese factory had been burned to the ground. When Horsley applied for his insurance the suspicion gained ground that the factory had been burned down for the insurance. However this never went any farther than a vague suspicion, but when a few months afterwards, in the early spring of 1896, Albert E. Horsley suddenly ran away from Brighton, leaving his wife and children, the opinion was freely expressed that the cheese factory had been destroyed to get the insurance. A few days after his departure, a Mrs. Alonzo Simpson suddently left Brigthon She was well connected, had an affectionate husband and a little girl 6 years old. Diligent search revealed the fact that Horsley and Mrs. Simpson met in Detroit. They remained there a short time, and fear of detection led the guilty couple to make a hasty departure for the West. The relatives of both families were persistent in their search, but could learn nothing of the whereabouts of the elopers. Mrs. Simpson's father was well off, and his daughter's disgrace bore heavily upon him. The husband, who had been greatly attached to his wife, was anxious to take the erring wife back on account of his little girl, and he kept up the search.

During the late summer or early autumn of 1896, Albert E. Horsley and Mrs. Hattie Simpson reached Nelson. They appeared here under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Little. Whether or not he made any money out of the fire he certainly had very little when he reached Nelson. The probabilities are that the couple had dissipated all their money in Detroit. They started a restaurant in a little building on Baker street, about the place where the Silver Grill now stands. It was not very elaborately fitted up, but the reports of those who dined there at that time are to the effect that the meals were well cooked, and Mrs. Little was particularly tidy in her care of the place. Horsley, or Little, the name he was known by here, did not make a very good impression on his visitors. He was generally sullen, but occasionally he would become extremely communicative. On these occasions he would converse about his old home in Brighton. He was anxious to be known as a great traveller, and would tell about his exploits in Detroit. Then he would all at once close up and remain as silent as an oyster. He seemed to brood a great deal, and it was suspected that his domestic relations were not as pleasant as they might be.

Mrs. Little, on the other hand, was always in a communicatave frame of mind. She spoke freely to patrons of the restaurant, many of whom suspected that there was a skeleton in the closet.

Among those who boarded at the restaurant at that time was W. A. Thurman, the well-known tobacconist. He sometimes sat for a while over his meal and conversed with Little. His description of him tallies exactly with that given in the papers. When Mr. Thurman was shown a photograph today of Mrs. Little, taken while she was living in Brighton, Ont., with her husband, he recognized the likeness at once.

But the restaurant business was not a great success, and Mr. and Mrs. Little determined to move. Just about this time there was an opening at Pilot Bay for a boarding house keeper. The foreman of the sawmill up there was in Nelson and he heard of the Little family. He hired them to go up and take charge of the boarding house, and Mr. Thurman was in the restaurant the night the arrangement was made. Then the Little family moved to Pilot Bay. This was in March, 1897, and the books kept by the West Kootenay Butcher company show that meat was shipped from the 11th of that month until the 31st to a man named Little. Then the orders suddenly ceased, and it is presumed that Little left for Spokane. All these dates coincide exactly with the departure of Alfred E. Horsley and Mrs. Hattie Simpson from Brighton and their subsequent residence in Detroit. Orchard in his evidence seems to have made a slip of a month or two, or it may have been a mistake of the Associated Press reporters.

About this time something else happened. It has been mentioned that the family of Mrs. Hattie Simpson was in good circumstances. Her elopement with Horsley was more than a seven days' wonder. She had been well educated and seemed much attached to her child. No one could understand why a woman enjoying the society of a loving husband and an attractive child could become infatuated with a man like Horsley, who certainly was beneath her station in life. Her father and husband had a theory that it was done in a moment of weakness, and that she would relent. They determined to leave no stone unturned to restore her to her senses. They had communicated with the authorities in the West and at last got track of the erring couple in Nelson. Several years previous to this Dr. Arthur taught school in Brighton, and the relatives immediately communicated with the doctor. On receipt of the communication the doctor began an investigation as to the whereabouts of Mrs. Simpson. But a confusion arose as to names. She was known as Mrs. Little in Nelson, and before the doctor identified Mrs. Little with Mrs. Simpson, both Little and his alleged wife had departed from Nelson. Then an effort was made to communicate with Pilot Bay, but they had both left there and no one knew their destination. It is quite evident that Mrs. Simpson had some communication with her relatives in Brighton, Ont., for during the month of April, 1897, she quietly returned to her husband, and her trespasses were forgotten, at least by those most interested. It is supposed she made up her mind while at Pilot Bay to return home and live down her erring life, which had been short but eventful.

What effect the separation had on Horsley can only be guessed at. He appears to have drifted to Spokane, and immediately took up the profession of killing for profit. His mind may have been unhinged by the separation from the woman for whom he had abandoned wife and family. He was of a melancholic disposition, and many believe that he was never sane. That his wife in Brighton, Ont., did not mourn over his departure is best evidenced by the fact that she never maue any effort to discover his whereabouts, and seemed perfectly satisfied without him.

The photograph already referred to came into the possession of The Canadian under rather peculiar circumstances. It is supposed she always retained it as a remembrance of her once happy home. It contains a group of five—Alonzo Simpson the husband, his two brothers, and the wife and child. Her picture is that of a woman of rather good disposition, but weak character.

STRIKES AT AINSWORTH.

Two Important Discoveries in Oldest Camp in Kootenay.

A. D. Wheeler came down from Ainsworth yesterday and is in the city today. He is convinced that this summer's developments in Kootenay's oldest camp will be even better than last year's, and that the wealth even now in sight warrants a belief in the permanent prosperity of the camp.

Within the last few days two important strikes have been made. One is in the Spokane, which is being operated by George Barnhart, the other in the Maestro, worked by Grant Brothers & King. Both are at depth, and both indicate large ore bodies. The ore is said to be high-grade.

Work on the Krao is proceeding rapidly and with results entirely satisfactory. The owners are now in the camp perfecting plans for the summer's work.

Mr. Wheeler is now arranging for work on one of his own old properties, the Gallagher.

Good results are also reported from practically every property in the camp on which any work is being done at all.

CASTRO IS NOT BASHFUL

Annual Message of Venezuela's President—Relations Harmonious—Others Entirely to Blame.

Caracas, Venezuela, June 1, vial Curaco, June 7.—President Castro, whose strength is returning gradually, attended congress today and read his message to that body. Referring to the foreign relations of the republic of Venezuela, the president said: "I am well pleased to inform you that our political relations with friendly countries are increasingly cordial. The labors of this government are seconded by a spirit of harmony and courtesy. This government's intercourse with the diplomatic representatives here is therefore perfectly cordial. Within a short period the claims of Great Britain, Germany and Italy, which were given preference at The Hague, will be fully paid. As soon as these are settled, the appropriation to meet them will be employed to pay the remaining claims against Venezuela. I regret to inform you that diplomatic relations with Colombia have not been renewed. The correspondence on this subject will prove that the failure to execute the stipulations of the renewal is not attributable to Venezuela."

Erie Protests.

Nelson, June 6th, 1907.

To the Editor, The Daily Canadian.

A protest as given below, has been signed by 37 residents of Erie and neighborhood and forwarded to the manager of the Spokane Falls & Northern Railway Co. Yours truly,

M. G. IRWIN.

"We, the undersigned, strongly protest against the proposed change of time in the passenger service between Nelson and Spokane, as it will cause great inconvenience to travel between Nelson and local stations and also loss of business."

Mrs. W. S. Cone, Kaslo, was in the city today and registered at the Hume.

NAILED TO MAST

Liberal Party Adheres to Home Rule

ARE NOT DISAPPOINTED

Marquess of Ripon's Speech to Eighty Club—Announcement Was Loudly Applauded.

London, June 7.—"The foremost Liberal principle of the government in the administration of Irish affairs is that they should be conducted in accordance with Irish ideas," said the Marquis of Ripon, Lord Privy Seal and Liberal leader in the House of Lords, speaking last night before the Eighty Club at the Hotel Cecil. He referred to the withdrawal of Mr. Birrell's Irish Council Bill and declared it was quite natural that the Nationalists should have rejected the measure when they honestly believed it would have been an obstacle to their ultimate goal, Home Rule.

The speaker was greatly applauded when he announced that he was a "wholly unrepentant Home Ruler," and that the rejection of the bill would make no difference in the policy of the Liberals toward Ireland. His party hoped that it might some day in the future be able to effect a permanent settlement of the difficulties in Ireland in consonance with the wishes of a majority of the people of that island.

SECESSION ONLY TALK.

New Ontario's Efforts to Secure More Financial Aid.

Winnipeg, June 7.—That the people of New Ontario intend to use the secession movement as a lever to make the Toronto legislators open up is the opinion of Ald. L. M. Tennent of Port Arthur, who came to the city last night from Fort Francis.

"What they want," declared Ald. Tennent, "is larger money grants, the removal of the judiciary from Kenora to some more suitable town, such as Fort William or Port Arthur, and a little more attention in legislative matters generally.

"The secession scheme," he continued, "has cropped up at an opportune moment, but they don't want to seccede, but they do want the government to awake to the fact that New Ontario is due a little more consideration.

"As far as I could gather their great kick is having to travel up to Kenora for the trivial matter of registering a deed. To reach Kenora from Fort Francis you must travel up to Winnipeg and east again to Kenora.

"At Fort Francis," continued the speaker, "the coming convention on Friday, when the whole scheme will be licked into shape, is the talk of the town.

"As a matter of fact several have the new province already mapped out. They do not want to take in Cobalt or the Nipissing district, halfway between Fort William, and North Bay has been mapped out as the eastern boundary for the province of New Ontario.

"The people are really in earnest," concluded Ald. Tennent, "and if the Queen's park legislators don't sit up and pay attention, you will shortly see the map of the Dominion slightly altered."

NOT MANSLAUGHTER.

Lady Whose Auto Killed Pedestrian Escapes Committal.

Royston, Eng., June 7.—The case of Miss Elsie Fox, an American, charged with manslaughter, was heard at the petty session yesterday. On May 1st Miss Fox was motoring down to the Newmarket races and her car struck and killed a laborer. The magistrate decided that there was not sufficient evidence to send the case to trial. Miss Fox was defended by Lord Robert Cecil.

No Connection.

Montreal, June 7.—Mr. Higgins, of the St. Lawrence Hall, dismissed John John Lloyd, a witness in the Emmerson libel suit, upon his return from Fredericton. Lloyd was connected with the Hall for 36 years, and had been night clerk for a long time, and was one of the late Henry Hogan's most trusted employees.

Higgins, who was seen this evening, admitted that he had dispensed with Lloyd's services, but denied that the Fredericton trip had anything to do with it.

THE TOUR IN EUROPE.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. Brodeur, Mr. Fielding, and—for anything that is known to the contrary—Mr. Hyman, are at present engaged in a tour of the continent of Europe.

No one will grudge Sir Wilfrid and his associates the diversion of a summer trip, after their strenuous labors. Sir Wilfrid especially has earned any pleasures that such indulgence can afford him. The last session at Ottawa was decidedly nerve-wracking to ministers generally, and not least to the premier who saw his cabinet depleted by the loss, under most ungenerous circumstances, of Messrs. Hyman and Emmerson. Neither, to be sure, was a man of very great weight in council, nor of any value to the party in debate, but the departments of public works, and of railways and canals, are the two chief spending departments of the government, and either would make a very serious addition to the burden of another minister.

Since the session, too, Sir Wilfrid has had an anxious time. It is well known that he would gladly have escaped attendance at the Imperial Conference, that, in the preliminary correspondence, he had done all he could to narrow the scope of its work, and make it as nearly innocuous as possible.

But there were Mr. Deakin, Sir Joseph Ward, Sir Robert Bond, Dr. Jameson and Mr. Reid to be reckoned with, five men who take Imperial questions seriously. Not all the confidential understandings between Sir Wilfrid and the British cabinet could prevent the intrusion of important questions by the serious colonial statesmen.

Sir Wilfrid's one purpose to which he clung with a tenacity he has never shown in worthier causes, was to prevent any change in relations between the Mother Country and the colonies, the assumption of any new responsibilities by self-governing colonies, the adoption of any recommendation, or even the recording of any opinion in favor of such changes.

He succeeded with the aid of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and General Botha, but the earnestness and persistence of the British colonial representatives must have been very disquieting.

Therefore Sir Wilfrid is wise in taking rest and relaxation on the continent. Sir Wilfrid's health is a matter of interest and importance to Canada. So long as Liberal rule must be endured Sir Wilfrid is by long odds the safest incumbent of the position of prime minister. He has a soothing and sobering influence upon his colleagues—with a few exceptions. And Mr. Fielding been given a free hand as the tariff a few years ago, while he was still a belligerent and enthusiastic free trader, the consequences might have been disastrous to the commerce and industry of the country.

But eleven years of his rule has convinced Canadians that Sir Wilfrid's premiership is no menace to the material welfare of the country. No Conservative successor could have been any more consistent defender of the National Policy of Sir John Macdonald, on its purely material side, than Sir Wilfrid.

Sir Wilfrid has shown a sustained judgment and common sense in spite of his early rhetoric, and his fellow-countrymen can well afford to lose the services of the silver tongue in exchange for the sobered judgment and the apparent development of a sense of responsibility.

But the fiscal policy was only one side of Sir John Macdonald's National Policy. It aimed at, first, in time, the development of Canadian commerce and industry, and the creation of a strong, united dominion. But its more remote, but not less important, purpose was the maintenance of British connection, not merely the survival of the loose tie formed by common allegiance to the British Crown, by an Imperial court of appeal, and by British control of our foreign relations, but far more intimate relations, the gradual assumption by Canada of her share of the burden of Empire, closer and more intimate communication between the peoples of Britain and Canada, and the maintenance in the coming, and parallel development, of British civilization, British ideals and British standards of public duty.

To that side of the National Policy Sir Wilfrid is a stranger. He will not speak against it except when strong provocation breaks momentarily his usually strong self-control, as when in the debate of a few years ago he referred to Lord Dundonald as a foreigner.

But he never counsels, in the Canadian parliament or at Imperial conferences, to oppose a passive resistance to any movement in that direction.

The first part of the National Policy is achieved. There is no longer a tariff issue between Canadian parties, and it is the Conservative contention that has triumphed.

Henceforward Canadian Conservatives must devote their efforts to the realization of their larger and worthier ideal, of the winning of a position of equality in the councils of the Empire. It is Sir John Macdonald's counsel and legacy to his party and his country, and there is no worthier object of Canadian aspiration.

The fight may be long. The way is barred at present by a blind and unsympathetic home government. While that barrier remains the triumph of Canadian Liberals is of little consequence. The cause will not be promoted, but while Sir Wilfrid Laurier is at the helm there is little danger of innovation or disturbance.

Conservatives therefore have every reason to wish the premier "bon voyage," to hope that he may return refreshed and to join his own partisans in crying "Vive Laurier."

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The city of San Francisco is winning notoriety of the least desirable kind. The disclosures of municipal corruption are a little more unsavory than those of New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, because her "bosses" were lower intellectually and morally. But in such comparisons the difference is, after all, only one of degree. San Francisco has now another claim to notice. The ignorant and intolerant rudeness of one class of its people towards Japanese residents is violating the terms of a treaty entered into by the United State, and so endangering the friendly relations of the two nations. The possibility of war is remote. But Orientals are masters of the art of boycotting. The loss of Japanese trade would be a serious matter to the Pacific states, and most of all, to the city of San Francisco.

The biography of Harry Orchard, alias Little, alias Horsley, if it could be written, would put the ordinary dime novel or penny dreadful to shame. No element of romance is wanting, and hardly any sphere of crime has been unexplored by him. The one defect is that although he has shown cool nerve, and apparently utter indifference to bloodshed, his career shows no instance of the display of either physical courage or loyalty to confederates in crime. Love or pride of country was not to be expected from one of his kind. He is a little less contemptible, however, from the fact that it hurt him to name his sisters in the criminal court.

JAPANESE PERSIST.

San Francisco Outrages Denounced—Want Treaty Fulfilled.

Tokio, June 7.—The Hochiriw, which is supporting Count Okuma in his position on the American question, this morning says: "The San Francisco outrages are worse than the murder of missionaries in China which resulted in the occupation of Kiaochow. Who would blame an appeal to the last measure if impotency to protect treaty rights is proved? We hope, however, that Ambassador Aoki will be strong enough to make the Washington government quickly take measures to mete out justice to the Japanese."

KEEPS RIGHT ON STEPPING.

The Right Sort of Spirit for a Fast Progressing World.

The weight of the human body has a certain relation to height and width, and the expert designer of clothes can get the correct measurements. The variations from the average or normal man are accounted for by occupation and environment. The athlete is heavier than the office man of his same height and width. This accounts for the division into types of the Semi-ready physique system. The sturdy coal miner in Fernie and Lethbridge has a better developed shoulder than the equally hardy resident of Winnipeg.

"Semi-ready" tailoring is not the entire distance to knowing how. It's only a stepping stone, and its makers keep right on stepping.

CRESTON FLOURISHING

Agriculture and Lumbering Contribute to Wealth of Kootenay Valley Town.

(Special to The Daily Canadian.)

Creston, June 7.—Creston is certainly prosperous just now. Between fruit raising, the sawmills and logging camps quite a sum of money is in circulation. As an instance of our prosperity both the hotels here have had to enlarge their premises by nearly one-half, the old accommodations being utterly inadequate.

Burns & Co. have lately taken control of theh local butcher trade.

The water in the valley is fairly high now, but the old-timers are not looking for extra high water this year.

Cretson has a baseball team that thinks it can lick Nelson any day.

The weather here is splendid for the ranchers, enough moisture and not too much. Strawberries are already ripe, one rancher from the other side of the valley brought in a box on Monday and regular shipments will be made in a week. The quality and the quantity are certainly assured this year. Some of our largest strawberry growers are figuring on the Dublin Exposition. The large fruit trees are loaded with fruit and will have to be severely culled if the welfare of the growing tree is considered.

Deacon Jones gets a farewell banquet on Wednesday night. He goes to Burnaby. We broke him in and are sending the Burnaby people a good fellow.

Land is rising in value here every day. Each sale sees an advance of price on the one before. There is reason, of course, for this, as we have more good land in advantageous locations for a quick market than any other district in British Columbia. One hundred dollars an acre won't buy some land here unimproved but with water on it.

PECULIAR FORMATIONS

Deposits of Cobalt District Compared With British Columbia's by Old Mining Man.

Colbalt, June 7.—The various formations of rock in the regions of Cobalt is still occupying the attention of mining experts who are endeavoring to make an estimate of the mineral depth of the camp. Undoubtedly the permanency of the camp depends wholly upon the depth to which mineral veins run, and as the process of development continues the stronger becomes the general impression that a number of tests should be made for the purpose of finding out how far the real vein matter runs into the bowels of the earth. If such tests were made, and it was learned that silver was found, say, at a depth of 500 feet, then the permanency of the camp would be assured. Of course, the surface showings as far as they go are very fine indications, but they do not appear to be sufficient to satisfy the practical miner.

In conversation with a practical miner today, who has made a study of rock formations where mineral is found, having lived and worked among the mines of British Columbia, Colorado, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, a correspondent learned that the rock formations around Cobalt camp were proving to be about the hardest to figure on to form a correct estimate of the extent of the veins. He expressed himself as having been greatly deceived by indications which appeared most favorable. He had also known other experts who had been deceived in the same way. He has seen claims wheich wre thrown out by them as being practicallw orthless, which were afterwards found to contain great mineral wealth. Again, he has known others which were passed upon as being good properties, which proved to be losing propositions. In other mineral sections which he had visited, such deceptions were not common. Generally where good indications were located, the mineral was afterwards found, even at a great depth. In British Columbia, he said there were larger surface showings with iron and copper cappings as a rule. In the Slocan district of British Columbia, for silver and lead you would get quartz veins carrying galena and lead ore right on the surface, and on this showing the miner would locate his mineral. In Nova Scotia and Newfoundland there were practically the same formations or rock as in British Columbia, also with surface showings. In Colorado he said they went more on the carbonate ore, which carried good values of silver and lead, with some gold. On the different showings good results were mostly obtained. In Cobalt camp, however, it was diferent. The bloom is the chief indication to go by in locating the silver, and it sometimes proved good only in certain parts. There are places, he contended, where striking the bloom it paid to investigate, while in other places it did't pay. He pointed out an illustration of this regarding the big find on the Temiskaming and Hudson Bay property a few months ago. There the vein was located about 250 away from the bloom.

This same practical mining man, however, does not by any means retain a pessimistic view of the future of Cobalt. On the other hand, he believes in the permanency of the camp, and holds strongly to the view that silver is to be found in Coleman township at a very great depth. He favors very much the theory advanced regarding the presence of flucan, which he believes is one of the strongest and best indications that the fissure in which it is found extends into the bowels of the earth. So far as his experience went, he has always found that the presence of a flucan proved a sure sign, and where a shaft was sunk protruding through the intervening layer of Keewatin rock, the fissure was found to contain mineral when the Huronian rock was again met with. "Whenever," he said, "you find an open fissure, no matter what it is filled with, it always pays to investigate." He guarded, however, against what he termed a dry fissure, which, he said, only contained hard rock. In that kind of a fissure nothing of value was ever found. He hoped to see some of the companies making tests by sinking to at least a depth of 500 feet, as it would serve to allay any anxieties regarding the permanency of the camp.

Tenders Wanted for the Purchase of a Mineral Claim.

Tenders addressed to the undersigned, at his office, in the Court House, in the City of Nelson, will be received up to the hour of five o'clock, in the afternoon, of Friday, June 28th, 1907, for the purchase of the "Tamarac Mineral Claim," Lot 3802, Group 1, Kootenay district, which is declared to be forfeited to the Crown, at the tax sale, held in the city of Nelson, on the 6th day of November, 1906, for delinquent taxes up till June 30th, 1905, and costs.

The upset price upon the said mineral claim, which includes the amount of delinquent taxes and costs at the time of forfeiture, with interest, taxes which have since accrued, costs of advertising, and fee for Crown Grant ($25.00) is $120.90, which is the least amount that will be considered as a tender.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque for the full amount of the tender, payable to the order of the Deputy Commissioner of Lands and Works, at Victoria, B. C., at par

Dated at Nelson, B. C., this 29th day of May, 1907.

NELSON BOAT CLUB.

Crews Leave in Three Weeks for N. P. A. O. Regatta at Seattle.

In about three weeks crews representing the Nelson Boat Club will leave for Seattle to compete in the annual regatta of the N. P. A. A. O., to be held on the waters of Lake Washington on July 4th and 5th.

Among the oarsmen who will go to uphold the honor of Nelson are T. D. Desbrisay, A. Pool, F. Nott, A. Bishop, A. Ferguson. The crews are not yet fully decided.

A feature of the regatta will be the return to the racing shell of Del. Desbrisay. In 1903 at the regatta held on Vancouver harbor he easily defeated E. O. Goss, of Portland, the present holder of the senior single sculling championship. Since then he has not competed.

The expenses of the trip will be heavy and it is likely that an appeal for financial assistance will be made to some of the leading citizens.

It will be remembered that of the four original members of the North Pacific Association, Victoria, Vancouver, Nelson and Portland, Nelson is the only club whose home is retained as one meeting place. It is a tribute to the excellence of Nelson's boating facilities, and as such has a substantial value to this city. The Boat Club executive will probably meet with a generous response to their appeal for funds.

CHINESE REBELLION.

Began Near Amoy With False Arrest and Imprisonment.

Amoy, China, June 7.—The centre of the present Chinese uprising is at Juan, fifty miles southwest of Amoy. The officials there arrested the leaders of an organization known as the White Fans, charging them falsely with being pirates. The prisoners escaped, collected their followers, killed the prefect and other officials and held the local magistrate as a hostage. Emboldened by this success, 30,000 rebels gathered and threatened Chao Chow Fu. Troops were hurried to Canton and Fu Chow and engaged the rebels yesterday between Swatow and Amoy with the result that 600 of the latter were killed. The government loss is not known. The rebels withdrew but were not dispersed and are rapidly recruiting their forces.

The correspondent here of the Associated Press is in a position to confirm the statement that the outbreak is not anti-foreign, but anti-dynastic. The White Fans are a revolutionary organization and are strong in Southern Fokien. The movement has been growing steadily for eighteen months. The leader is Soon Wen. Wen was educated in Japan. The rebels are well organized and well fed, but are badly armed. The local troops refuse to attack them.

The United States gunboat Helena is here. The outcome is uncertain, but Amoy is in no danger. On the other hand, Chang Chow, of which Amoy is a part, is in imminent danger of being attacked by the rebels, and people are fleeing from there to Amoy.
