QUEST TONIGHT

roner's Jury Will Examine Causes of Wreck

JURED DOING WELL

angements For Funerals of Four Victims of Railway Disaster--- Unknown Identified.

Jury was empanelled this morning the district coroner, Dr. E. C. Ar-, to examine into the cause of deaths of W. B. Townsend, M. D. innon. W. B. Smith and J. M. thwaite, who were killed in the k of the Great Northern passenger at Beaver Canyon, a few miles h of the international boundary Saturday afternoon last at 5 ck.

e jury is composed of H. C. Selous, man, W. W. Beer, E. F. Gigot, F. bbs, J. A. Gilker and J. A. Kirrick. They met at the court house this morning and proceeded with coroner to the undertaking parlors e Standard Furniture Company to the bodies. H. E. Douglas, dis- agent for the Great Northern way Company, was present also. fter reviewing the bodies the jury released until 9:30 this evening n the members of the train crew he time of the disaster, except the er and cook, who are still in the tenay Lake general hospital, will present to give evidence.

ntil such evidence is recorded no es of the wreck can be given. The ivers who were near enough to see ctly what happened are still pros- ed by the shock, with few excepns.

r. Wilson reports this morning that s. W. B. Pool is progressing very orably and is in no danger. The ter,C. Summers, is also doing well, is suffering from a number of very nful cuts and bruises. As far as own at present he has suffered no ernal injuries.

Arrangements for the burial three of e dead have already been made. H. R. Townsend, son of W. B. Townd, arrived from Rossland last night arrange for the funeral of his fa- r, which will take place tomorrow ernoon from St. Saviour's church to e Anglican cemetery. As announced ewhere, the Sons of England will end in a body the funeral of the first and master of the lodge in British lumbia.

A. W. Goodenough and C. Webster rived from Kaslo today to look after e bodies of M. D. McKinnon and W Smith on behalf of the order of Eas. M. D. McKinnon's body will be ken to Kaslo tonight. The deceased as well known and respected in Kas , where he will be mourned by many. W. B. Smith, in compliance with his t en expressed wish, will be taken to pokane and buried beside the body of s brother, whom he lately reburied ere. It is a pathetic circumstance at when he was buying a lot in the pokane cemetery, "Phoebe," as he as familiarly known, remarked to s friends: "The other space is for , and I don't think it will have loong wait for me."

The bodies of McKinnon and Smith ere recovered from the wreck yesterday morning and brought to the city st night.

The fourth body was identified this orning by Findley McLeod, of mir, as that of I. M. Cornthwaite, a eteran prospector of Kootenay, who as been working placer claims on Salon river and its tributaries since 902.

The disaster is the worst in the his ry of British Columbia railroads. Whatever its cause, subsiding of track, broken wheel flange, it happened at bout the most dangerous place on he Spokane Falls and Northern line, ast where the track overhangs a orge in the Beaver canyon, where a ar leaving the track must inevitably o down the steep declivity.

E. J. Flynn, who was on his way rom Spokane to Nelson to accept the osition of filer in the Yale-Columbia ompany's sawmills, had a very narow escape. He had just stepped from he buffet car to the car ahead, and as still on its rear platform when he crash came. As soon as possible e made his way to the wrecked car. The first person he found was Mrs. Pool, who was pinioned head downward between two seats in the wrecked car. As he approached her she spoke quite calmly, and asked him irst to assist her child, who was caught between the roof of the overturned car and one of the chandeliers. He had to cut away the bell rope and make a pulley to extricate the boy, and then by breaking away some of the furniture he was able to release Mrs. Pool.

The next he found was W. B. Townsend, whom he tried to release, but gave up his efforts when he saw that he was already dead.

By this time other passengers and members of the train crew were on the scene and working as hard as the nature of the ground and the position of the shattered car permitted to get the injured out of danger. At first it was feared that the car, with its imprisoned and crippled occupants, would take fire from the overturned kitchen stove, but that danger was soon removed, and all the injured were taken up to the track to await the arrival of the relief train from Northport.

The train then came slowly into Nelson, that the inevitable jarring and jolting might be felt as little as possible by the injured. Those whose hurts were least serious were brought down in cabs from the mountain station. It was 1 o'clock before the train drew into the union station, which was crowded with friends of the dead an.. injured.

Dr. Arthur, coroner, and Dr. Wilson, surgeon to the railway company, were first admitted to the cars. Dr. Rose and Dr. F. Lundy, of Portage la Prairie, were also present.

It is learned that M. D. McKinnon's father and mother are living in Glasgow, Scotland. They will be informed of his death, but interment will probably take place at Kaslo.

I. M. Cornthwaite has been for some years a resident of Spokane, where his wife still lives, and it is probable that his body will be sent there for burial.

THE FATHER OF MUSIC

Canada's Veteran Organist and Tutor Includes Nelson in His British Columbia Tour.

Dr. F. H. Torrington, the noted organist of the Metropolitan church in Toronto, and who has been called the father of music in Canada, arrived in the city on Saturday night, and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. Parker, of Hall street. Dr. and Mrs. Torrington have been making a tour of the western provinces and conducting musical examinations for the pupils of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, of which the doctor is managing director.

Seen by a representative of The Canadian last evening, he expressed himself as being delighted with the entire west, but more particularly with British Columbia, and because of the scenic and climatic attractions he has prolonged his visit far beyond the original time limit set for the trip.

"One of the most interesting features of the trip," said Dr. Torrington, "is the privilege of meeting in the most out of the way and unexpected places the pupils who have at one time and another passed through my hands. I have had telephone messages, both short and long distance, and have been pleased to personally meet former pupils, all of whom are giving a most excellent account of themselves."

"Are you seeking to increase the attendance at the conservatory, doctor?" asked the newspaper man.

"No, that is not our object. We believe in assisting in every way the development of talent in its own locality. We are not canvassing for our own business. We want to see Canada develop her musical talent at home as much as possible."

Then the doctor drifted into reminiscences, and told in a most interesting way how he came to enter the musical profession at the early age of 9 years. A ticket for a violin raffle had come into the possession of his mother, and she by good chance won the instrument. She brought it to the sleeping room of the youngster, who "sat on the side of the bed in exceedingly brief costume," and made his initial experiment with the resined bow. That was the beginning of his career, which has been a phenomenally successful one. He spent several years in Boston, but could not be induced to live permanently outside of Canada, and so returned to Toronto to take up his old and loved work.

Most pathetic was his recital of the tragic death of his mother, and from pathos to wit, humor and keen observation the doctor ran the conversational gamut to the intense interest of his auditors.

Dr. and Mrs. Torrington are both fond of Isaac Walton's hobby, and with their family will spend several days on Kootenay lake.

It is the city's loss that there is no organ in Nelson upon which the doctor might favor the citizens with a public recital.

No Place Like Home.

The Vancouver News-Advertiser says: Hon. R. F. Green, chief commissioner of lands and works for British Columbia, was among the passengers from the capital on Thursday morning. He was accompanied by Mrs. Green and Master Robbie Green. They will remain in the city for a few days before leaving for the interior.

FRIDAY NIGHT'S ATTRACTION.

Olivia Dahl and Gina Smith at Sherman's Opera House.

Under all ordinary circumstances, such an artiste as Olivia Dahl could only be heard in the world's great centres of population and of art. A peculiar combination of circumstances, however, gives the rare treat of her music to the small interior communities of this province, and it is sincerely to be hoped that the opportunity will be appreciated at its worth. Miss Dahl had lost heavily in the San Francisco horror. She had recently come under the professional management of C. H. Gibbons, who last season brought Gerrardy, the world's greatest 'cellist, to the coast, and who is himself a loyal British Columbian. She could not afford, in consequence of her Californian experience, to enjoy the usual summer lay-off of the professional singers. She wanted to see something of British Columbia while in this country. And so it came about that the present little tour was proposed, in connection with which the people of Nelson and their regatta day visitors will enjoy a concert by Miss Dahl and her associate artiste, Gina Smith, a brilliant pianiste and daughter of the famous Frau Anna Strom-Smith, on the evening of Friday, the 27th instant. It is to be hoped that Miss Dahl will be greeted by a crowded house, for there are few greater singers in the world today, and the critics are agreed that she will be the next notable musical sensation, or "discovery," as the impresarios term it, in America's art circles.

IMPROVING WITH DEPTH.

New Strike is Made on St. Eugene at Moyie.

And now comes the good news that a big body of ore has been struck in the 2,000-foot level of the St. Eugene. This new strike is in about 500 feet from the 200-foot shaft level. In drifting from this level a full face of ore was encountered. This is another proof that the St. Eugene is becoming better with depth.

So well is the company pleased with the property that several important improvements, it is said, are being planned. One is the enlarging of the concentrator and the adding of a lot of new machinery. Another is the sinking of the shaft to a considerably greater depth. This will mean the employment of a hundred or more additional men. The Leader says Moyie seems destined to yet outrival Rossland or Phoenix as a mining camp.

ANOTHER EMPTY NEST

The Secret is Out Respecting the Pendray and Sons Land Deal.

(Special to The Daily Canadian.)

Victoria, July 23.—The royal commission to inquire into the charges preferred by the Vancouver World against the lands and works department opened this morning in the parliament buildings, Hon. F. Peters, K. C., presiding. The preliminary witnesses examined were Percy Brown, real estate agent, who was acting for Pendray and Sons in the purchase of the lots, and F. H. Harrison, proprietor of the Driard hotel; James Murray, real estate agent, and Hon. R. F. Green, chief commissioner of lands and works.

Mr. Green denied that any information respecting Pendray and Sons' tender had been given out by his department.

The most important testimony was given by Murray, who said he had acted as agent for the Sehl estate, and knew about what Pendray would tender, and that the sum would be about $2,000. With this information he interested James Anderson in the matter, and the latter in turn interested Harrison, who put in a bid of $2,160. Murray denied having been given any private information from the lands and works department.

Percy Brown is still on the stand.

Chambers.

Two orders were made by his honor Judge Forin at a chamber session of the county court this morning.

In Fernau vs. the Canadian Metal Company, A. M. Johnson was granted an order for instructions for delivery of claim.

In Genelle vs. Genelle, a joint application of S. S. Taylor and G. S. McCarter for discovery of documents was granted.

OTTAWA LETTER

Triumphant Year For Leader of Opposition

LONG LIST OF SCANDALS

Persistently Prosecuted Enquiry Into Expenditure of Public Moneys--- Majority Tactics.

Ottawa, July 17.—On Friday, July 13, the governor-general appeared in the senate chamber and prorogued parliament with the usual ceremony. Thursday was the day set for the closing but the government measure for the repeal of the act providing pensions for retired ministers did not reach the senate in time to allow the three readings to be taken with the usual interval. It was only by a suspension of the rules that parliament was able to close before Saturday. When the house opened Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated that all the government bills were ready. Yet the house had been in session for four months before this pension repeal bill was submitted.

It has been a triumphant year for the leader of the opposition. Mr. Borden has had behind him a loyal and united party, and the party has had a resolute, resourceful, dignified and honorable leader. Mr. Borden rose to every occasion which called for the qualities of leadership. Several times he caused changes in the government program, and the legislation of this year is improved in many details through his vigilance, clear judgment and splendid business qualities.

But this session will be remembered for other things more than for any legislation accomplished. It was a year of exposure. More scandals have been brought to light during this session than in any other since the union of the provinces. From early in March until July opposition members have steadily and persistently prosecuted enquiry into theh expenditure of public money, the management of the public domain, and into charges of plunder and graft in public business. No session of Canadian parliamentary history has seen more faithful work done in committees of investigation. The enquiries have been pressed in the face of many difficulties. Documents have been delayed or withheld. Witnesses have refused to answer questions, and have been supported in their refusals by ministers and government majorities. Investigation into several transactions has been burked, sometimes indirectly and two or thre times by a direct vote of the house, where a party majority refused to allow the enquiry. Nevertheless the record is long and ghastly.

The Disgraceful Record.

Among the deals and scandals exposed or partially revealed during the past session are the following:

The Saskatchewan Valley land deal.
The Atlantic Trading Company contract and the group of scandals connected with it.
The Bronson and Ray concession and ex-Speaker Belcourt's connection with it.
The Gelinas exposure and the consequent refund.
The scandal of the ice-breaker "Montcalm's" silver plate, with the overcharges and the refunds consequent on exposure.
The thin red line election frauds.
The fake homestead scandals.
The scandals of the Arctic steamship expedition.
The scandals of the St. Joseph, Disraeli and Grand Valley wharves.
The Leopold, alias Lazarus, labor bureau scandals.
The Arundel Printing Company contract exposures.
Thes teamer Kestral accounts.
The Merwin scandals.
The Georgian Bay survey supply swindles, and the attempted fur coat bribery connetced with them.
The Magnetewan lighthouse.
The deal of the grazing leases.
The timber lease scandal.
The Moncton land purchase deal and rake-off.
The Philip Wagner outrage.
The Laurier tower collapse.
The steel files deal.
The Prince Albert election frauds by Dominion officials.

The above constitutes a list of maladministrations surpassing any similar period in the history of Canadian governments.

Dunsmuir Will Case.

London, July 23.—Before the judicial committee of the privy council, the Dunsmuir case was unexpectedly concluded on Friday without the respondents being called upon, and judgment was reserved, but the legal authorities regard the dismissal of the appeal as certain.

In reserving judgment Lord Mc Naughton intimated that he was unwilling to reconsider evidence which had been the subject of concurrent judgments in two Canadian courts, as the appelants had not established that the domicile had been changed from British Columbia to California. It was unnecessary to go into the Californian law.

THEY ARE UP IN ARMS.

Revolutionists and Troops Preparing for a Clash.

St. Petersburg, July 23.—The government's coup d'etat is already having the effect of uniting all the discordant elements of the opposition. It is already clear that resistance will be made.

Members of parliament who fled to Viborg, Finland, apparently intend to defy their sovereign. General fears are expressed by the Liberals here that the military forces will surround and capture the members at Viborg on the ground that they constitute an illegal and revolutionary assembly. Although there was much rioting continued in the outskirts all through the night, it is practically quiet this morning, but ominous forebodings of a coming storm are apparent on every hand. During the night over a thousand arrests of workmen, agitators and revolutionary suspects were made.

Railways leading out of the city have been placed under martial law. There are now more than 60,000 troops massed in the city.

RUSSELL SAGE DEAD.

Wealthiest Man on the Street Rounds Out Life.

New York, July 23.—Russell Sage, the aged financier, died at his home on Long Island yesterday. The immediate cause of death was heart failure. He would have celebrated his 90th birthday on August 4th. He is thought to have left everything to his wife's control. His fortune is estimated at from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Federation Means Business.

Washington, July 23.—The executive committee of the American Federation of Labor today made good its threat to enter into politics by issuing a circular exhorting all its friends and members to work for theelection to congress of men known to be favorable to the cause of labor.

Not All Subdued Yet.

Manila, July 23.—A detachment of constabulary encountered a band of 600 Putajanes on the island of Leyte on Sunday morning. Twelve privates and a civilian scout were killed.

FRIUT MEN'S GRIEVANCE

Perishable Produce Waits from Saturday to Tuesday for Shipment to the East.

The agitation of the fruit growers has not by any means subsided. The arrangement of time of the steamers at the end of the week was particularly unfortunate. The steamer Moyie arrived in Nelson Saturday afternoon at 3:30, having passed the fruit ranches much too early to pick up the fruits of Saturday's picking. There was no call made anywhere on Sunday, and the fruit that arrives today cannot go east until tomorrow morning. Consequently all fruit picked after the Moyie passed on Saturday has had to wait on the wharves at the ranches or in Nelson until Tuesday morning.

Some of it has spoiled, and some of it has been sold at a sacrifice locally; very little could be kept for shipment east as desired.

F. J. Sammons shipped out fresh fruit on Saturday morning, and received a wire this afternoon from J. E. Annable to the effect that it arrived in Winnipeg in excellent condition. Yesterday morning a big supply of fresh flowers was sent, and tomorrow morning more flowers, packed in moss, and the selected trout, enclosed in a block of ice, will be forwarded.

Mr. Sammons is greatly pleased that the shipments, direct from Nelson, of flowers and preserved fruit has been so successful, as he fears that the later shipments of fresh fruit, under the condition created by the changed policy of the C. P. R. company, will be very diappointing, if not an absolute failure.

Many besides the fruit growers, who are directly interested, feel that it is a great pity, even if an absolute necessity, that the generous accommodation hitherto extended to the fruit growers, and which has contributed more than any other single circumstance to their prosperity and the great influx of settlers, with its consequent enhancement of the values of land, should be withdrawn at so critical a moment, when its continuance for another week might have enabled the district to score a splendid triumph over all competitors.

A GRAND FORKS FIRE.

Serious Conflagration in the Hub of the Boundary Country Last Night.

(Special to The Daily Canadian.)

Grand Forks, July 23.—The largest fire ever occurring in Grand Forks happened at 1 o'clock this morning. The big furniture store of J. W. Jones, worth $30,000, the old printing office owned by F. H. McCarter, valued at $500, and three small dwellings belonging to Ed Knapp, valued at $500, were totally destroyed by the conflagration.

It is reported that Jones' furniture stock was covered by some $15,000 insurance, principally in board companies. Mr. Jones is at present in the Similkameen district. Various reports are current as to the cause of the fire. The fire brigade did good work and checked the fire, otherwise it would have consumed the Yale hotel and other buildings further up Riverside avenue.

Hold Secret Conference.

Viborg, Finland, July 23.—During the night a committee of seven members of the Russian parliament, which was dissolved yesterday, prepared a manifesto to the country, but up to 10 o'clock this morning its contents had been kept secret.

ROUND THE BOUNDARY

Work Rushed on All Railway Extensions—An Assault and Fine—Magnates Visit Mines.

(Special to The Daily Canadian.)

Grand Forks, July 23.—Contractor Tierney is crowding the work of grading on the Kettle Valley line railway with all possible despatch. Nearly 500 men are now engaged on the works among the various camps. The big cut by Miller's ranch will be finished the first week in August. Most of the work from Grand Forks to a point some two miles this side of Bannock City is simply earth work, but for a distance of over two miles at Bannock City there is considerable heavy rock work. This heavy work will be done by Boyd & Co., of Vancouver, who are expected to arrive today with twelve carloads of outfits.

Contractor Charles McAllister, who has the contract for grading through the Volcanic townsite, has received instructions from the Kettle Valley line solicitor to continue his work through this land. R. A. Brown, the owner, has delayed the work, owing to a settlement not yet being arrived at, and the matter will now have to be arbitrated on, the present work being authorized under an order of the court. One good feature about the work on the Kettle Valley line is that the laborers all appear to be satisfied with their work and wages, and almost no sickness whatever exists in the various camps.

It is reported today that Chief Engineer Kennedy, of the Great Northern, has stated that the work of grading on his railway to the Pathfinder mine will be started immediately.

On Saturday evening Provincial Constable Dinsmore arrived in town from Lequime's camp, up the North Fork, and had in charge a Chinese cook named Lee, who was charged with attempting to use a long knife on a workman at the camp named Alex Cree.. It appears that Cree got into an altercation with the Chinaman over some fish. The charge was heard in the police court this morning, when the Chinaman was fined $50 and costs, or, as an alternative, a term in the Nelson gaol.

A party composed of P. A. O. Farrell, M. Ryan of New York and Mr. Rhodes of San Francisco arrived here by special car a few days ago, and at once proceeded to the McKinley mine in Franklin camp. A strange coincidence about this trip is the fact that the Pullman car used on this occasion wast he identical car in which the body of the late President McKinley was taken to Washington after his assassination.

Big Strike at Index.

Reliable information has been brought to this office of an important strike in the Index mine, on the south fork of Kaslo creek, which is the property of Mr. J. W. Hanna, Captain Campbell and others of Kaslo.

The vein, which is over two feet in width, has been proved to a depth of over 200 feet. It is two feet in width, with well defined walls, and carries native or dry silver in the form of wire or strings. For over a foot the ore is so rich that it assays fully 800 ounces per ton. The news of the strike has caused great excitement in the neighborhood of Kaslo, and congratulations are being showered upon the fortunate holders of the property.

A specimen of the ore is on exhibition at the office of The Canadian.

REGATTA ARRANGEMENTS

Boat Club Men Amused at Suggestions of Local Critic That Program be Varied.

Preparations for the regatta on Friday and Saturday afternoon are as complete as they can be made before Friday morning. A final committee meeting is called for this evening at 8:30 at the club house.

As a caretaker is on duty at the club house this week who is not familiar with the personnel of the club, members are specially requested to carry their membership cards with them and show them when requested.

The crews of Victoria and Portland are expected to arrive in Nelson tonight, and put in three days' practicing before the contests. The Vancouver men will probably be in tomorrow night, although no definite word has been received to that effect.

Members of the Nelson Boat Club are intensely amused at the advice which has been tendered them by a local sporting authority. They concede that the intention is wholly kindly, but they would explain that the list of N. P. A. A. O. events on the regatta program is official, and not variable at the discretion of the home club, however sagacious may be the guide, philosopher and friend whose services are gratuitously offered.

The junior and senior singles and doubles cannot be combined, but, as already announced in The Daily Canadian, the winners of the juniors go into the singles as a matter of course, and a contest for each event is certain.

The regatta will be followed by many at the coast, where the newspapers are giving it much attention. The following from the pen of a resident of Nelson, formerly of the staff of the Victoria Times, appears in that paper:

"The city of Nelson, on the south shore of the west arm of Kootenay lake, will be the scene of the next aquatic contest for the supremacy of the Pacific coast. The course over which the oarsmen of Portland, Vancouver, Victoria and Nelson will hold their competition is one of the best in the world, being at all times free from high winds and surrounded by lofty mountains. At an altitude of 2,000 feet above the sea level, the air is refreshing, and the stretch of water over which the boats will pass affords every one along the shores and in the numerous launches and rowboats owned by the residents of the metropolis of Kootenay a good opportunity to view the races from the start to finish.

"Few persons residing on the coast realize the wealth and beauty of the rising young city which is now acknowledged to be the commercial centre of the West Kootenay country. Located on the shore of a body of water navigable for 200 miles the city has a system of waterworks second to none in the province. The electric light plant and street railway is furnished with electricity from the power works at Bonnington Falls, where the incorporation is installing a plant at a cost of $200,000. Steamers and launches glide here and there, bearing fruit from the near-by ranches and passengers to the many sylvan retreats on both shores of the lake. Railroads run in connection with the palatial steamers and direct lines connect with Spokane, the Boundary country and other centres on both sides of the line. The sewerage system is good, and within sound can be heard the numerous waterfalls which are used for generating power and light for the factories and business houses. With public and high schools, seven churches, four banks, good hotel accommodations, and the best of fishing and hunting, the future of the city is assured. A tourist association, with a permanent office in the city, is distributing literature and answering correspondence from all parts of the world. The fruit grown in Nelson and the vicinity is unsurpassed, and it is the intention to make exhibits at the various fairs and exhibitions throughout the east. The visitors will be entertained in a most appropriate manner. Excursions and banquets will be in order, and the association will be taken in hand by reception and other committees. The people of Nelson own a large number of launches, and the shores of the lake will be in gala attire during the regatta. All arrangements are complete, and the next meeting will be witnessed by thousands of visitors from the neighboring republic and residents of the province."

PARTY POLITICS.

The study of politics and of political economy has little interest for the average citizen because years of experience under the party system have deluded him into the opinion that such subjects are only interesting to the active politician. In the opinion of the average citizen the profession of politics is not unlike every other profession, in that certain men who happen by the choice of the people to be in possession of the reins of power, and being paid by the country for their services in the various administrative functions which they discharge, their work is regarded as so much professionalism. Experts in their departments they may be, and what they do may be well done—in fact, admirably done—but to the average citizen the amount of interest he has in political subjects is bounded by a more or less intelligent knowledge that this is so.

The political history of any country is, however, of vastly wider and deeper interest, and a knowledge of the principles and purposes which have actuated men, their success or failure in their attempts to realize these, together with the incidents which always are associated with political activity, are, when once understood, among the most interesting of studies. Thus the genesis and history of party politics, the lines of demarkation which distinguish one party from another, the difference between those who are in political power and those who are out, are matters upon which the citizens of every democratic country should be well informed.

The Conservative party in Canada has had, as everywhere, certain well-defined principles, and for these it has consistently struggled since the federation of the Dominion and before. Canada for the Canadians, or empire within empire, has been the ideal of the Conservative since the Dominion secured its integrity; and whatever could be done by legislative enactment or executive administration to work out his ideal has been consistently done, or, at least, attempted by the Conservative party. The Liberals, on the other hand, have not been originators.

They have, whenever they have been in power, contented themselves with a half-hearted imitation of Conservative methods, a compromise between election pledges and the imperative demands made of them by the deputations and delegations which have waited upon the rulers and assisted them in guiding the ship of state. In saying this, we have no wish to depart from the strictest statement of the facts that is possible. The student of the political history of Canada knows that it is true.

It is somewhat discouraging, therefore, to have some of the Liberal papers calling out for the abandonment of party lines in politics in British Columbia. To have them pleading for a return to the old coalition methods which wrought such havoc in the province not so many years ago is only to herald abroad how little there is to hope for from the Liberal party as it is constituted in the province at present. It is as much as to say that, not liking the Conservative administration, we must abandon hope. It is like advising the abandonment of the political methods which have made Canada what she is, and what have made the empire what it is. It is like the confession of a moribund party that, being a disappointment to its friends, has now no other plea than that to have good government we must go out of both parties and select the executive heads from among the best men of both.

No such confession has ever been made by the Conservatives, nor will such ever be made. The Conservative party in Canada, while in the ranks of the opposition at present, are pleased with that measure of its principles that have been copied almost without modification by the party in power. The Conservative party in British Columbia is satisfied with the achievements of its leaders during the few short years they have been in charge of provincial affairs. It is true that there were many and peculiar difficulties to be over overcome when that party took the responsibility of governing the province. It is true that party lines were not well defined and party feeling was not strong. It is true that political affinities had been discovered and pacts formed between members of both parties which it has not been easy to break away from. All these things have combined to make the path of administration anything but an easy one, but with the general results we are sure there can be no serious fault found, and criticism where it exists is more a partizan than a conscientious affair.

What the loyal and province-loving citizen should do is to acquaint himself with the political history of his adopted country. It should be read, not in the disjointed and partizan representations of a Liberal party press, but from authentic sources written by the calm and dispassionate political historian. When this is done there will be no disposition on the part of the intelligent ratepayer either to seek the abandonment of party politics or the retirement of the Conservative administration.

THE RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

The terrible accident on Saturday night a few miles south of the city on the S. F. & N. railway brings home to us the perils incident to railway travel and the awful fate that too often befalls the traveller. The recent derailment of a train at Salisbury was made almost international in its importance because of the palpable failure of the company's employees to obey the rules of the road. There seems to be some doubt as to where the responsibility for the one of Saturday night lies, but if it was in the power of human beings to prevent the frightful loss of life and injury to body and mind which resulted, the responsibility should be fixed somewhere. Was the rolling stock of the company's train in good condition? Was the train running a curve at too high speed? These will be questions asked by every one, and there should be the most thorough investigation. While monetary compensation for a life lost in accident, even when it can be shown to be somebody's fault, is a poor salve to wounded feelings and bereaved hearts, the heaviest penalty should be inflicted unless the element of chance was wholly predominant. The sorrow-stricken friends of the deceased will have universal sympathy.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The prize list for the Nelson fair to be held on September 19th to 21st has been received. It is an ambitious book of a good many pages and numerous illustrations. It makes a specialty of prizes for fruit and pictures of various scenes incident to fruit-growing. Ten years ago if any man had predicted that Nelson and district would become more famous for horticulture than for mining his sanity would have been seriously questioned; but such has been the decree of fate. We wish Nelson every success in advertising its resources and its commercial situation to the world.—Victoria Colonist.

But for the resourcefulness of Misses Bella Muir and Florence Cocking, the Baptist church picnic at Nanaimo on Friday last might have ended under sad circumstances other than being the pleasant event it was. Lilly Kemp was in bathing, and, going beyond her depth, went over her head. Bella Muir, who was near by, grabbed her, but as she had fainted, she could do nothing with her, when Florence Cocking came to her assistance, and between the two they managed to get her ashore, where friends worked with her for some time before she came to.

The Lethbridge Herald, a weekly grit paper, has the following on British Columbia politics:

"It is said the provincial elections in British Columbia may be held before the end of the year. If the electors do not trounce the McBride government, one of the worst administrations that ever governed a province, they deserve all the evils the McBride outfit will thrust upon them in the future."

Every line of the above quotation has the earmarks of the ignoramus and of the partizan parasite.

The Chicago papers who predicted the secession of western Canada, owing to the large influx of Americans into this country, need not worry that it will happen in this generation. The Americans here are more than satisfied with the country and its system of government, and are not anxious to introduce that system that has made possible the Homestead trouble, the Coeur d'Alene bull pen and the Colorado murders.—Blairmore Times.

The Moyie Leader says: "The Nelson Daily Canadian is 'making good.' There is not a more ably edited newspaper in British Columbia."

40 Acre Farm
FOR SALE

A valuable farm for sale, situated in the heart of the fruit growing country. 40 acres, 3 acres well cleared and about 70 fruit trees planted, are bearing some this year. A good cabin, root house and stable on the property, also a nice spring. The land is of the very best quality, and can be all worked. It is beautifully situated on Howser lake, West Kootenay, one mile from post office and store and two miles from C. P. R. branch to Trout Lake. Splendid farm for potatoes. There have been four crops in succession without manure, and the last crop was as good as the first.

LOCAL AND PROVINCIAL

Born Saturday night to the wife of H. J. R. Fotherby, Carbonate street, a son.

E. F. Waggoner, of Spokane, grand master of the Masons of Washington, was in the city yesterday on his way home from Calgary.

The regular meeting of the city council will be held in the city hall tonight. There is a lot of routine business to come up, and possibly a communication from the Allis-Chalmers-Bullock Company.

Old-time Winnipegers now resident in Nelson will regret to learn of the death of Frank Lynn, which occurred at the Prairie capital Friday morning. Deceased was a resident of Winnipeg since 1871, and was for several years connected with the daily press of that city.

The regular monthly general meeting of the Twenty Thousand Club will be held in the board of trade rooms tomorrow night at 8:30. Besides elections and routine business, the club has to arrange for the smoker in aird of the regatta already determined upon, and for the series of dances at the pavilion.

R. Armstrong and W. Dean, of Chicago, arrived in Nelson yesterday, and leave for Greenwood this morning. They are interested with A. Miller, of Greenwood, in the La France and Strathmore mines. Mr. Armstrong is of opinion that active operations will be resumed at the La France properties before the end of the summer.

Guests at the Strathcona are enjoying excellent music each evening during dinner. A small orchestra, including Miss Pill, pianiste, and D. Curtis, violinist, has been engaged by the proprietor, and diners are delighted with reveries, nocturnes, waltzes, two-steps and many of the favorite opera airs. The innovation is a very pleasing one, and has scored a decided hit with patrons of the house. The artists are excellent, and play in perfect harmony.

Trouble Among the Unions.

New York, July 21.—According to the Herald, one thousand men, plasterers, electricians, carpenters, lathers and cement layers, were ordered to strike yesterday in sympathy with the striking plumbers, who are out because contractors give employment to plumbers who are members of local Plumbers' Union No. 2, which is disgraced for refusing to obey the rules of the National Association of Journeymen Plumbers. Operations on several new buildings were interrupted.

Campbell, of the Coldstream ranch, Lord Aberdeen's, the vegetables, and the Vancouver Poultry Association has been asked to recommend a judge for that department.

C. F. McHardy who has just returned from an extended trip through East Kootenay, expresses warm approval of the suggestion made through these columns by Captain McMorris that the Cranbrook and Lethbridge lacrosse teams be secured for the fair. He says that all East Kootenay and the Pass district of Alberta are enthusiastic partizans of one or the other team. At the same time, all are interested in Nelson, and the attraction of Nelson, the lake, the fruit and lacrosse would bring hundreds here and amply repay the city, if not the association directly.

Lost.

The gentleman who found the lady's purse advertised in these columns a few days ago, please return purse to this office.
