CAMBRIDGE WINS

Agreeable Weather Conditions Obtained

WON BY TWO LENGTHS

First International Championship Lost by Americans Observed by Multitude of Spectators.

Putney, Eng., Sept. 8.—The weather conditions were ideal when Harvard and Cambridge turned out early in the day for a few brief practice starts before their final appearance for the great boat race which has caused as much excitement as was ever aroused in Great Britain by any contest over the historic championship course from Putney to Mortlake. The sky was cloudless, a light haze hanging over the river. The breeze was from the southwest and although against the racers it was very light in the early hours of the day.

London, Sept. 8.—The newspapers this morning devote many columns to the Harvard-Cambridge boat race, giving their readers all the information possible on every point of interest, the items of leading oars men relative to the outcome of the contest, the pictures of men who will row, and altogether do their utmost to make the occasion a great success. All of them admit that the race is an important one but the majority pick the Cambridge crew to win. The Tribune declares that it desires to see the race an annual fixture, adding, "one glorious instance makes us all akin today. The soul of sport is stirred to its very depths by this race. It is for no medal, cup or trophy. The whole sweetness of the fight is in mere honor's sake."

Sporting Life declares that "the contest will decide the question of the supremacy of the English and American styles of rowing," and strongly advocates "making the contest at least biennial. We must not always expect the American crews to come to England," the journal adds. "There is sound truth in the climatic theory and it is neither just nor sportsmanlike for all the races to be rowed in England. Oxford or Cambridge must emulate their athletic confreres and visit America in turn."

The race between Harvard and Cambridge today over the famous old Putney-Mortlake course on the Thames, a narrow winding waterway four and three-eighths miles in length, was the first dual collegiate race rowed between American and English crews in 37 years. In 1869 Harvard sent a four to Putney to meet Oxford in a dual contest. The English crew was victorious by nearly four lengths. Today's race was the first between British and American university eights and apparently has opened the way for many similar contests in the future. Interest in the rowing event has been heightened by the fact that Harvard's crew earned a decisive victory over Yale at New London in June last, while Cambridge was this year's winner of the race with Oxford.

In the race the two crews were representative of the best college rowing talent of the two countries and the result has been awaited with the liveliest interest. The Harvard eight is admitted to be one of the best aggregation of college oarsmen ever seen in an American shell, and every follower of the sport has been confident that in the international struggle on the Thames, America's rowing strength was typically represented in the Harvard boat.

The race was brought about through the efforts of R. C. Lehman, a member of parliament who was instructor to Harvard crews for two years, his last visit to Harvard being in 1898. It was agreed that the two crews should be as nearly as possible the same as those who raced against Yale and Oxford, respectively.

The excitement over the contest prevailed throughout provincial centers and even most of the sporting communities on the continent, judging from the telegrams asking for early and full stories.

With the Stars and Stripes and Harvard crimson conspicuous everywhere, the crowds began moving toward the course early in the day, the railroads running specials and every available train line was taxed to its utmost capacity. Early in the afternoon the green banks of the river were lined with people to an extent which promised the greatest pouring out of people ever witnessed at a boat race here. Although naturally the light colors of Cambridge predominated the Harvard crimson ran them close up, while a numerous contingent of young enthusiasts unable to make up their minds as to which would win had donned rosettes of ribbons combining the blue of Cambridge and the crimson of Harvard.

The members of the American colony in London and hosts of American visitors to the city were early in the field, taking up points of vantage from which to enliven the American crew, with Harvard's college yell. The majority of the expert opinion gave the final verdict in favor of Cambridge. The Cambridge stock was up to as high as 130 to 80, but most of the betting was done at nearer even figures.

As the afternoon advanced crowds gathered at the starting point and, stretching along the banks as far as the eye could reach, the throngs were wholly cosmopolitan and cheered with the usual enthusiasm at the appearance of either the crimson or the blue. The breeze freshened some when the time for starting the race approached.

Description of the Race.

As the challengers, the Harvard crew took the water first and Cambridge closely followed their example. The two boats quickly got into position and R. C. Lehman, the starter and umpire, administered the usual caution, and a moment later, at 4:28 p. m., a pistol shot sent the two racing shells away to an admirable start. The nose of the light blue boat immediately showed to the front, the drive being so strong and the recovery so prompt with slightly quickening pace, while Harvard reduced their stroke and the light blues had gained a further advantage at the end of the first minute's rowing. Though they lost the advantage of a lead at the start, the Americans showed no signs of being disturbed. They kept up a stead pull at the rate of about 35 strokes a minute, which suited the crew. More than a length separated the boats at Craven slip, but on reaching the mile post the bend of the river on the Surrey side gave the Cambridge boat a great advantage. A head wind sent the tide rolling down this reach, making a broken sea of which the Americans got the full brunt, while the English were sheltered by the river bank on the Surrey side. By the time the boats reached the Crab Tree, about a mile and a half from the start, the Cambridge stroke had taken his boat over two lengths to the front. The Harvard stroke, Filly, at this point called on his men for a greater effort and they responded quickly. The quickened stroke soon told, the light between the boats' wakes was sensibly lessened, and when the Cambridge shell shot by Hammersmith bridge the Englishmen were barely a length and a quarter ahead.

Progress of the Race.

Pushing on past the lead mills, where both boats were doing 37 strokes, Cambridge increased their lead and appeared to be rowing well within themselves. As the boats turned the bend and entered rougher water Harvard again spurted. A magnificent effort sent the American boat up to its opponent foot by foot.

Off the Doves, although Harvard lost ground through wide steering, Stuart kept up in his steady stroke. At Chiswick the Englishman shook up his crew and began to pull away from Harvard. At the three-mile post Cambridge was over two lengths in front and on reaching Devonshire Meadows was two and a half to three lengths ahead, and the race was practically over.

Cambridge Won by Two Lengths.

Harvard, however, spurted again, gaining a length, but it was too late to retrieve the fortunes of the day and the Cambridge men passed the winning post easy victors of a gallant race by two lengths.

Time, 19 minutes 16 seconds.

ALL SIGNS ENCOURAGING

Mining Outlook in British Columbia Was Never Brighter—Week's Stock Quotations.

The week in mining has afforded fresh indications of the steady and rapid improvement over the whole field of British Columbia.

The Boundary and Rossland output remains at its record figures.

In the Sandon district the chief feature has been the resumption of work on the American Boy, a property rich in zinc as well as in high grade galena. The work will be done under the direction of W. E. Zwicky, manager of the Rambler-Cariboo, who planned and accomplished the famous long tunnel on that property. Meanwhile, the extra 400 feet of drifting on the Rambler has begun. It will take some months but there is no doubt now of the result.

The mineowners of Ainsworth are preparing a record mineral exhibit for the Nelson fair. Work on the Krao and United continues to meet with the most gratifying results, and other properties are likely to display similar finds in the near future.

In the north, around Camborne and Poplar, activity is greater than ever before. The amount of quiet development work accomplished during the present year has astonished even those whose faith in the district has been most consistent. The old belief that the richness of Poplar and Rapid creek properties was entirely on the surface has been completely dispelled by the demonstrations of ore at depth.

In the Sheep creek valley the tangles are being gradually straightened out. The bonding of the Golden Belle for a large sum by a practical mining man like Barney Crilley is certain to have a good effect throughout the district.

The stock market for the past week though having no sensational advances in any one stock, showed great firmness and activity in several different securities. From some standpoints a steady, firm and active market is preferable to the rapid falling and rising one, as it creates more confidence and in consequence larger tradings are recorded.

The Spokane market is very active and an increase in business is expected rather than a decline. Eastern exchanges reported business lively, but expect a still larger volume of trading as the season advances.

Dominion Copper held very firm after its rapid rise and no break in this stock is now looked for. Sullivan, too, exhibits great strength after its rapid advance and is now holding firm. La Plata is in demand and has advanced several points with no shares offered. North West Coal, since the meeting of the shareholders, is held firm, with but few shares changing hands. Nicola Coal has advanced, owing to the general demand for this stock, and parties on the inside decine to sell at prices considerably higher than are now offered. North Star and International Coal are being traded in freely and are very steady. Rambler-Cariboo is gaining more strength and while a sharp advance is not expected, still a steady demand will undoubtedly increase the price gradually. Breckenridge-Lund Coal, Western Oil, Rocky Mountain Development, Diamond Vale, Pathfinder and Denora mines remain unchaned.

Anniversary of Galveston Flood.

Galveston, Tex., Sept. 8.—It was six years ago today, September 8, 1900, that the disaster occurred which for the time being wiped the city of Galveston off the map. In the evening of that day the entire island on which the city is situated was under water and more than 5000 lives had been blotted out. Like the present year, September 8 in 1900 fell on Saturday and the first news of the awful disaster reached the outside world not until Sunday morning, and it was some days later before the full extent of the calamity became generally known. In the six years intervening the city has fully recovered itself. A mammoth sea wall, one of the greatest pieces of work of its kind ever accomplished, protects the city from a repetition of the disaster, while as a further precaution the level of the city has been elevated from six to twenty feet.

Claim Britain's Protection.

Therhat, Persia, Sept. 8.—The bazars here are again closed and people are once more flocking to the British legation in protest against the delay in signing the revised ordinance proposed by the clergy relative to the projected national assembly. The clergy rejected the ordinance drafted by the grand vizier and submitted one of their own, to which the shah has not yet assented. At a meeting of clergy and merchants yesterday the merchants decided to close up business and proceed to the British legation, where they declare they will remain until the shah signs the ordinance and expels the late grand vizier and others who are opposing reforms.

Novelist on a Tour.

Banff, Alta., Sept. 8.—The private car Plymouth Rock arrived today from Vancouver, having on board Sir Arthur and Lady James, Henry James, the well known novelist, and Lord Lowther, speaker of the house of commons. The party have toured the northern portion of the United States and will remain here a few days and then proceed by way of the Pacific coast cities to Mexico.

(Special to The Daily Canadian.)

Greenwood, Sept. 8.—Ralph Smalles, who has been representing the promoters of the Midway and Vernon railway in eastern and European cities, returned to Greenwood last evening. He was accompanied by Mr. L. M. Rice, a well known engineer and construction expert. There is an expert of a large eastern construction company already on the ground checking up the reports of the promoters of this railway line. Ample European capital is known to be behind the latest enterprise and it is confidently expected here that construction will be commenced at once.

GRAND DUKE OF BADEN

Romantic Story Connected With Accession of Sovereign Who Celebrates Tomorrow.

Berlin, Sept. 8.—Advices from Carlsruhe state that preparations on a most elaborate scale have been made for tomorrow's celebration of the eightieth anniversary of the reigning grand duke of Baden, Frederick I. The celebration will be general throughout the duchy. The advices further state that the Grand Duke is particularly pleased and gratified by the visit of a delegation from Pittsburg bringing with them a message of congratulation from the Grand Duke's former subjects now resident in America.

The Grand Duke of Baden is in a way one of the most notable figures among the rulers of Europe. Few people have played a more important role, not only in the constitution of the German empire, but also in the maintenance of its integrity. It was he who, as one of the independent sovereigns of Southern Germany, conducted all the negotiations that led to the election of King William of Prussia as German Emperor in 1870. And it was he, too, who since then has been the principal factor in smoothing away all those many differences, some of them of a very acute character, that have arisen betwen Prussia and the other states of the confederation.

It is something of coincidence that the present week marked the fiftieth year of the reign of the Grand Duke. He owes his throne in the first place to the insanity of his elder brother, who died under restraint after being deposed, and secondly to the romance in connection with the son of the Grand Duchess Stephanie of Baden. Stephanie an adopted daughter of the first Napoleon, was a devout Roman Catholic and a Frenchwoman by birth. She bore to her husband five children, three daughters and two sons. One of the sons died in infancy. Concerning the other son there always has been a mystery. She herself went down the grave firmly convinced that her little boy had been stolen by the adherents of the now reigning and Lutheran branch of the house of Baden. True, an infant was carried to the grave with all the honors due to the remains of a little prince of the blood. But the Grand Duchess always insisted that the little corpse was not that of her child, but was that of a little boy who, moribund, had been substituted by her enemies for her own healthy offspring.

Years afterward a young man was found fainting with hunger at the gates of Nuremberg, and was taken to the police station. He was entirely unable to communicate with anybody, having no power of speech and no acquaintance with either reading or writing. He fell into charitable hands, and gradually was taught and educated, whereupon by degrees he became able to give some account of himself. From this it appeared that he had been kept like a wild beast in a dark room. This existence continued from the time he could remember until the day he was placed, blindfolded, in a cart and driven to the spot at the gates of Nuremberg where he was subsequently found. The memories which he recalled of his childhood were of such a character as to give rise to the belief that he was no other than the missing son of the Grand Duchess Stephanie. A meeting was arranged for them, the mother being convinced that the youth was her missing son. But within a few hours of the time appointed for the interview he was mortally stabbed by some unknown individual.

REQUIRES PAPAL SANCTION.

Society of Jesuits Complete Election of Black Pope.

Rome, Sept. 8.—Francis Favier Warnz, a German, was today elected general of the society by the congregation of the Society of Jesus in succession to the late Father Martin, who died last May. Following the election a messenger was immediately despatched to the vatican to inform the pope of the choice, which to become effective requires the papal sanction.

Rome, Sept. 8.—It is learned that two ballots were taken before the final choice was made. At the conclusion of the decisive balloting announcement that a new general of the order had ben chosen was communicated to the outer world b the ringing of a bell which was the signal that the meeting was at an end. Thereupon the rector of the college, upon whom had been placed the responsibility of maintaining the seclusion of the conference hall, opened the door of the council chamber. Formal acknowledgement of the election then was first made to him by a secretary. At the same moment Father Alfred Martins, procurator general of the Jesuits, who had been especially appointed by the congregation, started for the vatican to inform Pope Pius of the company's choice. He was received immediately by the pope, who expressed great satisfaction over the selection of Father Wernz. "He is just the man fitted for the position," said the pope. He charged Father Martins to take to General Wernz the apostolic benediction and also an affectionate letter of greeting which he wrote to the new general. In the meantime General Wernz was receiving congratulations from members of the order and many others at his own home in the college, where he went immediately after the announcement of the election.

Father Francis Aver Wernz was born at Rothwell, Wurtemburg on December 2, 1842, and at the age of 15 years entered the society of which today he was chosen head. In 1863 he received an appointment as professor in the Gregorian university and has been rector of the university since 1904. He is a consulting member of the congregation's ecclesiastic extraordinary affairs and index council and is recognized as a progressive man and extremely energetic.

High Taxes in Montreal.

Montreal, Sept. 8.—The finance committee of the city council today received a letter from the Hemming Manufacturing company complaining of the tax of $5 per year levied upon them for their electric motor. The company say that they recently moved to Montreal from Toronto, but had they not invested largely in plant, etc., they would move back to Toronto or Hamilton, because they find the cost of rent, power, light, labor and small purchases of materials greater here than there. They warn the council that if they persevere in raising all kinds of taxation on manufacturing industries they will soon lose some of the city's important factories. No action was taken on the letter. It is doubted that the allegations of protest are correct.

Titular Archbishop Consecrated.

Rome, Sept. 8.—Mgr. Avers, apostolic delegate to Cuba, today was consecrated titular archbishop of Sardis. The ceremony was performed at the castle by Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, assisted by Father Kennedy, rector of the American college. The antipex clerical society had prepared to make a demonstration at the function against Cardinal Merry del Val and the policy of the vatican, but the police interfered and forced them to hold their meeting in private.

J. R. GLOVER MAY DIE

Difficult Operation Successfully Performed by Surgeons of Medicine Hat.

(Special to The Daily Canadian.)

Medicine Hat, Sept. 7.—A very difficult operation was performed on Engineer Glover yesterday afternoon in the Medicine Hat General hospital by Dr. C. F. Smith, assisted by Dr. C. E. Smyth and Dr. Woodlands. In the head-on collision here last Friday night Glover's back was broken and the spinal cord mangled. No hopes of his recovery could be entertained unless the cord could be repaired and this operation was undertaken yesterday, the spinal cord of a dog being used to take the place of the original one for about an inch. The act is being watched with extreme interest by medical practitioners.

The operation has been successfully performed twice before.

At latest reports Mr. Glover was doing well.

TEL-KWA'S RICHES

Nelson People's Property Proves Rich

WIDE VEIN OF COPPER

Col. Topping Gives Account of His Summer's Work---Valley is Future Dairy Land.

"I knew a year ago I had a good prospect; I know now that I have a good mine." Such is Colonel E. S. Topping's summary of the results of his summer's work in the Tel-Kwa valley at the copper mines.

Colonel Topping arrived from the north by way of Vancouver last night and is at the Strathcona. He has a number of splendid specimens of copper ore which will be assayed at the Hall Mines smelter.

Speaking of his season's work Colonel Topping said:

"I have had to make 8000 feet of trail and I've done about $2500 worth of work. I haven't met with a single disappointment. Every shot put in sent up high grade copper. The group contains at least two mines, either of which alone would warrant the building of a smelter.

"In the one from which these samples are taken the vein is 11 feet wide. These are fair average samples. I wasn't looking for show pieces. I merely wanted to give the owners some idea of what we have.

"I have had lots of visitors during the summer. They were all taken with our showings. There is a lot of work being done in the valley of the Tel-Kwa and along the Bulkley. Mr. McInnes, A. Heinze's manager, is there, and Mr. Scallon, president of the Amalgamated Copper company, has a big force on. Mr. McInnes has splendid showings of coal.

"Altogether there are about 125 men on the Tel-Kwa, prospectors and ranchers. They grow fine vegetables and raise splendid stock. There is no part of the province better fitted for dairying."

Colonel Topping may be induced to reserve some of his samples for exhibition in the mineral department of the Nelson fair.

He has a robe made by Indians of marmot skins, which, he says, beats anthing he knows as a sleeping robe. The marmot is the favorite meat in the north, where there are cariboo. It is a species of ground hog, living amon the rocks above the timber line. When cooked the flesh turns pink, and tastes like spring chicken.

The colonel has spent a pleasant as well as profitable summer. His plans for the immediate future are not definite.

Dictate Terms of Peace.

Havana, Sept. 8.—General Menota declared today that the leaders of the rebellion in the province of Santa Clara had intimated that they would negotiate for peace on a basis of new municipal elections, a new general election, amnesty for all insurgents and the appointment of a special commission to investigate the death of Congressman Vimuendas, the national Liberal candidate for president, who was killed last year in a fight with the police at Cienfugos.

Havana, Sept. 8.—Two more bridges on the Western railway were blown up last night. One was situated 12 miles east of Pinar del Rio, near Puerto Golpen depot, and cutting off railway communication with Pinar del Rio.

One Chance Left.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 8.—Dr. Jacob Force, former president of the Northwestern National Life Insurance company, must serve three and a half years at Stillwater prison at hard labor unless the supreme court grants him a new trial. Judge Brocks of the district court today denied an appeal for a new trial. Dr .Force was charged with having expended for his personal use large sums belonging to the insurance company.

Sentenced to Be Hanged.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 8.—The court martial which tried Senide Konoplianikovo, the woman who assassinated General Min on August 26 at Peterhof on August 26 at Peterhof, today sentenced her to be hanged. She maintained her composure and smiled on receiving the sentence, which is to be subject to commutation by order of Duke Nicholas Nicholatevitch, commander of the guards corps.

STANDARD OIL.

The Associated Press sent out last week a brief announcement that the Standard Oil company is making an attempt to secure control of the distilleries of the United States. The announcement was brief and lacked detail, so that, while some curiosity was aroused as to what possible use the Standard Oil company could have for distilleries, the matter was not treated seriously. That it was of tremendous significance, however, now turns out to be the case and further information shows that the same sinister influence is at work for its own protection, and the further ramifications of its own interest, that have been ever characteristic of Standard Oil. The Province discovers what is probably the true significance of this new enterprise and wisely remarks that "the reason for its desire to operate this industry is not far to seek. John D. Rockefeller, with his well known prohibition views and socalled religious proclivities, will not be credited with the ambition to manufacture the popular product which inebriates but does not console. This is not his aim, but if in the pursuit of business he finds it necessary to take a hand in the whiskey business he will hardly be expected to refrain. And it so happens in this case his pocketbook is threatened unless he is able to control the distillery industry. Heretofore the Standard Oil company has had a monopoly on benzine, one of its manufactured products. Under an act of congress placing denatured alcohol on the free list, benzine will have a competitor in the arts and trades that threatens to supersede it. Alcohol is a product of the distilleries, and the desire of the Standard Oil combine to control the whiskey industry is therefore readily apparent. The report conveyed in the despatches is that the oil trust has made an offer to purchase all the principal distilleries in the country, and the offer is occompanied with a threat that in the event of nonacceptance opposition distilleries will be erected."

Thus it would appear that while John D. Rockefeller is patting Sunday school children on the heads and coyly suing for popular acquaintance, explaining that the world does not really know him as he is, he has his emissaries and agents at work extending the tentacles of the horrid octupus that has its clutch on every state in the Union and on Canada as well. Probably the best thing for the world is that it should thoroughly know the Standard Oil magnate as he is, and not as he would wish to appear. If there were one spark of philanthropy or protection to society guaranteed in the proposal to acquire control of the distilleries, there might be some excuse for this new crime, but there can be no doubt that the same flinty and unrelenting avarice that controls Standard Oil is the inspiration of the movement.

THE JESUS RELIGION.

Thos who are inclined to watch the development of affairs in the Orient have been impressed with the awakened spirit with which the Oriental nations have adopted or adapted Western ideals to some extent in their national life. While this has been markedly noticeable in commercial and military affairs the close observer will have observed that a serious strain has been placed upon the attachment of the Orientals to the religious systems of their ancestors. From the first, against great opposition, the Christian religion has been winning its widening way till rumors have from time to time reached the Western nations that the religion of Jesus has made a profound impression upon all classes, but more especially upon the heads of religious societies and systems in Japan and China. Singularly enough Christianity has made most headway where its advocates and missionaries have confined themselves to the teaching of its ethics and morals, as well as to the communication of its spiritual truths rather than where the teaching has been doctrinaire.

Buddhism and Brahamanish have both felt the influence of the new religion and it has been closely examined and analyzed by the more intelligent priests and teachers of these older types of religious life. Now comes the startling announcement that a very conspicuous writer in one of the main newspapers of Peking, himself a Buddhist, has written a startling article in which he advocates the establishment of the Jesus Church in China. His argument is equally noteworthy.

He begins by calling attention to the present trend toward radical reforms. Then he notes that all important reform movements emanate from the West, and that when traced they are found to crystallize about a man or group of men; that these reformers, when they are studied as to the source of their ideas and inspirations are found to be imbued with the Jesus' religion. And so the writer concludes that the surest way to promote reforms is to introduce and foster the Jesus Church and faith. But he also concludes that the reform work can only be successfully carried on in China by natives, not foreigners; and so he logically argues that some eminent man must connect himself with the Jesus religion, understand all about it, and then become the representative head of it in China; so that all that is good about the religion may find in a native Chinese who has the confidence of the empire and people a proper leader!

PEOPLE IN GLASS HOUSES.

There must have been some sinister influence at work to secure the passage of a resolution at the meeting of the trades and labor council of Thursday evening to the effect that the Twenty Thousand club have all its printing done in the city or else suffer a boycott by being deprived of the support of the members of the labor unions. We cannot but think the resolution was ill-advised, for a moment's thought would show that there may, or must arise, occasions when the Twenty Thousand club will require work done which is beyond the possibility of local production. The facilities for special work are not unlimited in Nelson and in several instances the club has had no choice but to order its work done by outside firms. It is true the members of that club might keep their work down to the capabilities of the local printing offices, and perhaps if they had no more enterprise than those who condemned them they would do so. We hold no brief from the club to deal with the matter, but it has occurred to us that the proceeding of those who voted so unanimously for such a resolution was rather high-handed. If there were any practical printers at the meeting they must have overlooked the case for the club and permitted the resolution to pass undiscussed. If there were none such present the interference of the labor unions with the affairs of the Twenty Thousand club smacks of impertinence.

At any rate, nearly all, if not all of the committees of the club buy their plumage in Nelson and pay for it, while we will wager it as a safe guess that if those in the labor meeting who have bought their staples from Eaton's and Simpson's departmental stores had been excluded from voting, the vote would not have been so enthusiastically unanimous.

It is one thing to run a Twenty Thousand club and quite another to be consistent when voting resolutions.

The farmers of Ontario in their annual convention at Toronto voted resolutions on tariff questions and on economic problems that are the bane and worry of the statesman's life with a sangfroid and innocence that must have been truly refreshing. The farmers of Missouri in session yesterday discussed commercial fertilizers, the railroad and the farmer, drainage, plant breeding and seed selection. That it what makes the difference between farmers who farm for the farm's sake and those who get too swelled up for their jobs and want to run the country. The Yankee has some characteristics that strike a Canadian as peculiar, but when it comes to farming give us the Yankee farmer. He knows his biz.

One of the neatest and most attractive advertising pamphlets that has come to our desk is one recently issued by the C. P. R. and entitled, "Impressions—Victoria, B. C. The Mecca of All Tourists." The beautiful back cover is headed "A Bit of Old England on the Shores of the Pacific." Inside, the photo-engravings are chaste and elegant, and while they do justice to some of the beauty spots at and around the capital, they do no more than justice. It is a pity that a similar class of work could not be secured for Nelson, as the scenic beauty of the Kootenays rivals that of the coast.

The Cranbrook Herald indignantly rejects the offer of The Canadian to find it a Chinese purchaser and intimates that when the time is ripe for it to sell—that is to say when the right price is offered—it can complete the deal without the intermediary offices of any agent or middleman. We are sorry to read this for two reasons. First, we should be very sorry to see such an excellent paper as the Herald pass into the hands of the Chinese; and, secondly, we are sorry to learn that our respected contem. is so chummy with the Chinks.

WHO IS MY NEIGHBOR?

Christ's Answer to the Sceptic on the Meaning and Obligations of Brotherhood.

Tomorrow will be the thirteenth Sunday after Trinity. No saint's days or other holy days occur during the week.

The gospel for the day contains the story of the good Samaritan. The story was told by Christ to illustrate the meaning of charity or love of fellowmen in reply to the skeptic lawyer's question: "And who is my neighbor?" The lawyer had already shown perfect familiarity with the letter of the law, but his question betrayed a disposition to equivocate and quibble, showing that the letter, not the spirit of the law, appealed to him.

There is added point in the story in the circumstance that the man who "went down from Jerusalem to Jericho and fell among thieves," found his only friend in need in the person of a Samaritan. There was a feud between the two districts. It was the woman of Samaria at the well who told Christ: "The Jews have no dealings with the Samaritans."

The mention of the priest and the Levite—the tribe of Israel consecrated to the priesthood—who passed by the wounded and disappointed traveler, there is undoubtedly intended a rebuke to the Jewish priesthood of the time, who were so absorbed in the ceremonial observance of the letter of the Levitical law that they ignored the obligations of charity and brotherhood, and whose religion, with its spirit dead or dying, had become mere formalism, the perfunctory solemnization of rites whose meaning had long been forgotten.

The following services are announced for tomorrow in the churches of Nelson:

Church of England—St. Saviour's, cor. Ward and Silica streets; thirteenth Sunday after Trinity; holy communion, 8 a. m.; morning prayer and litany, 11 a. m.; children's service, 2:30 p. m.; evensong, 7:30 p. m. Rev. F. H. Graham, rector.

Roman Catholic—Church of Mary Immaculate, corner of Ward and Mill streets: Low mass, 8 a. m.; high mass, 10:30 a. m.; evening service, 7:30 p. m. Rev. Father Althoff, priest.

Presbyterian church—St. Paul's, corner of Victoria and Kootenay streets: Morning service, 11 a. m.; Sunday school, 2:30 p. m.; evening service, 7:30 p. m.; Sunday school, 2:30 p. m. Rev. J. T. Ferguson, minister.

Methodist church—Corner Silica and Josephine streets: Morning service, 11 a. m.; evening service, 7:30 p. m.; Sunday school, 2:30 p. m. Morning subject, "The Army of the Triumphant Christ"; evening "Pull Yourselves Together."

Baptist church—Stanley street, near Mill: Morning service, 11 a. m.; evening service, 7:30 p. m.; Sunday school, 2:30 p. m. Rev. E. H. Shanks, pastor.

Salvation Army—Barracks on Victoria street, west of Josephine: Special services for tomorrow. Knee drill, 9 a. m.; holiness meeting, 11 a. m.; a praise meeting at 3 p. m.; salvation meeting at 8 p. m.
