FINNISH STRUGGLE

Revolution Spreading on Land and Sea

DISARMING CIVILIANS

And Spreading "Group of Toil" Manifesto are Tactics Adopted by Revolutionists.

Helsingfors, Finland, August 1.—The fight between the mutineers and the loyal troops was waged during most of the past night. The cannonade was heavy, the firing of the guns furnishing an awfully inspiring spectacle to the thousands lining the points of vantage on Observatory hill. The loyal minority seemed to command the forts on Nicholas island, which was engaged in a duel with Sandama's formidable masked batteries. At 10 o'clock this morning they were still exchanging broadsides at tenminute intervals. The casualty cases transferred to Helsingfors number less than 50, of whom 15 are dead. Thus far the number of killed or wounded in the Sveaborg hospitals has not been ascertained.

The diet at a meeting held last night issued an earnest warning to the people to abstain from participating in acts which might possibly gravely affect the whole country. Copies of the Viborg manifesto of the outlawed parliament are being distributed among the Cossacks, who quietly put them in their pockets.

The number of wounded and killed has probably been overestimated. The Socialists are on the alert, and the townspeople are in fear of a cannonade if the naval squadron arrives here.

There was a panic all day long yesterday among the summer residents on the islands of the archipelago owing to the fall of stray bullets and shells, which caused a number of casualties on the islands and in the city. A man sitting on the verandah of the yacht club was mortally wounded and a servant girl was killed. For more than a week Russian revolutionists have been working among the troops distributing the laboring and group of toil manifesto. It is reported that on Sunday 1,500 soldiers took an oath to fight on the side of the people.

The news of the revolt is causing the greatest excitement at Cronstadt, especially in view of the report that a mutiny of the crews of warships was proceeding at Cronstadt, and that the revolutionists were working hard to persuade the troops at Cronstadt to mutiny and refuse to fire on the warships. Precautions were hastily taken by the authorities at Cronstadt.

The breech blocks of the guns on board some of the warships were removed, while detachments of troops were sent on board other ships.

St. Petersburg, August 1.—(2 p. m.)—The greatest excitement prevails here as a result of the startling news from Sveaborg, and there is the deepest apprehension regarding the situation there, as there is little doubt that the rising of the garrison of the "Gibraltar of the Baltic" was a premature attempt to excite the widespread military conspiracy, which involved the seizing of the fortresses of Sveaborg, Cronstadt and Sevastopol as bases for revolt in the Black sea and Baltic fleets.

Although it is learned that a summons to revolt was issued there, the chief point now in doubt is the whereabouts of the main part of the Baltic fleet, consisting of a battleship and three cruisers, which were sent to Helsingfors upon receipt of news that the mutineers at Sveaborg had joined in the revolution. The squadron is expected to be under the personal command of Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch, brother-in-law of Emperor Nicholas.

There is no exaggeration in saying that the blow coming thus suddenly from an unexpected quarter has caused dismay in government circles, and the feeling of alarm is increased by the bad news from the interior. The strikes are spreading rapidly.

A Negro Lynched.

Atlanta, Ga., August 1.—Floyd Carmichael, a negro about 22 years old, after being identified by Miss Annie Poole as the man who had assaulted her early yesterday, was shot to death in sight of his victim late in the morning by a posse who had captured him.

Ignominious Oblivion.

Zion City, Ill., August 1.—At a meeting in the Tabernacle here last night for the purpose of choosing candidates for general overseer of the Dowie church in September in accordance with the recent order of Judge Landis, the name of Wilbur Glen Voliva was the only one presented. A standing vote of those present at the meeting showed 1,410 in favor of Voliva's election. The name of John Alexander Dowie was not mentioned at the meeting.

STREET CARS PAYING.

July Receipts Beat All Previous Records by Over 50 Per Cent.

The returns from the city tramway system for the week ending July 29th were $240.70, against $164.60 for the corresponding week of last year, an increase of $76.10, or nearly 50 per cent. The receipts to date for the current year are $3,434.35, against $3,201 to the same date last year, and, for actual running time, an average of $160 a week against $105 a week during 1905.

But the figures for July are most significant. For the four full weeks from July 1st to 29th the receipts amount to $942.45. For the other three days, which include a Sunday, they are at the same rate, about $35 a day, making about $1,056 for the month. That amount is fully $300 more than the total for any other month in the history of the service.

There is, further, no reason to anticipate any falling off in the returns, at least until the end of September. The estimated receipts from the service for the year are only $5,000. To reach that figure only about $300 a month for the balance of the year is required, and they are certain now to be at least double that sum.

Moreover, the figures already given take no account of receipts from advertising franchises, which are very considerable. George Horstead's advertisements inside the car are profitable to himself, his customers and the city.

ROUND THE BOUNDARY

Great Excitement Over the Discovery of Bullets of Gold at Franklin Camp—Sensational Find.

(Special to Daily Canadian.)

Grand Forks, August 1.—Rube Hull, a pioneer mining man of this district, who has also been a successful mining operator in Montana, arrived here from Franklin camp last evening, and reports a most phenomenal strike as having been made on the Aspin claim. It seems that as James Welcher was doing the ordinary assessment work he opened up a quartz lead which was from 8 to 12 inches wide lying almost perpendicular, with talc on both walls, and both walls are in water. This quartz lead is literally covered with free gold, which can be picked out in lumps from the size of a grain of wheat to a small marble. When he struck this lead Welcher was so excited that he could not control himself, and immediately sent a messenger to Grand Forks for ore sacks, but his request was refused, as the owners of the property considered that the rich find had been greatly exaggerated until A. McKinley, one of the owners of the property, went there personally a couple of days ago, and was greatly surprised when he saw the free gold standing out of the quartz. Mr. McKinley at once sent word to Grand Forks corroborating Welcher's report, and asked that ore sacks be sent up at once to the property.

Rube Hull, who has given this information, also states that the quartz is so literally filled with free gold that they are now picking it down on a large canvass, so as not to lose any of it. It is impossible to say what this quartz will run to the ton, but from its appearance less than a ton would be a good fortune for the ordinary individual.

This property is owned by George McLeod, David Whiteside and A. McKinley. It is expected that a stampede will tak eplace to this new quartz camp, second to none in the history of British Columbia.

Rube Hull is authority for the above facts.

A Speedy Retribution.

Mayfield, Ky., August 1.—The hanging of Allen Matthies, the negro who criminally assaulted Miss Ethel McClay last Wednesday night, took place at 8 o'clock last night in a legal manner in the yard of the county jail. Fully ten thousand people were on the scene, but only a few hundred could see the execution, although almost the entire fence surrounding the scaffold had been torn down. While the trial was going on, it was only fifty minutes from the time the jury was sworn in till the negro was pronounced dead.

Uncle Sam Pays Up.

Berlin, August 1.—The United States government has paid Germany the award of $20,000 in the Samoan case. Great Britain paid her damages in the spring, and the matter is therefore settled.

CHINESE WANTED

Labor Question in Kootenay Already Acute

RANCHERS REQUIRE THEM

H. E. Croasdaile's Resolution Carried Decisively after Animated Debate in Association.

The fruit growers of Kootenay, at a full meeting, by a decisive majority vote ask that the head tax on Chinese immigrants be remitted to enable an adequate supply of agricultural labor to be admitted. The debate was animated, and not one-sided.

The special general meeting of the Kootenay Fruit Growers' Association, called at the request of H. E. Croasdaile and others, was held this morning at 11 o'clock in the board of trade rooms.

There were present President James Johnstone, in the chair; J. E. Annable, F. J. Sammons, H. E. Croasdaile, C. C. Bourke, G. O. Buchanan, Captain Paddon, J J. Campbell, H. Williams, J. W. Ford, J. Tarry, J. Hyslop, F. D. Arundel, C. S. Moore, C. W. Busk and many others, about 40 all together.

The minutes of the last general meeting were read and adopted.

H. E. Croasdaile presented the following resolution:

"Whereas, the Kootenay Fruit Growers' Association, Limited, has been formed for the purpose of fostering and encouraging the fruit growing industry in this district; and

"Whereas, for the successful prosecution of the industry, it is essential that an adequate supply of labor be secured; and

"Whereas, the slight experience already gained has demonstrated that the necessary labor is not now available, a considerable quantity of berries having gone to waste last year for want of pickers, with the consequence that some growers who proposed to engage in the culture of small fruits and berries are now hesitating to do so; and

"Whereas, there is no prospect of any such accession through the ordinary medium of immigration of suitable white labor as will meet the requirements of the case, and we have therefore the prospect that the industry will be dwarfed and cramped instead of growing and expanding into the dimensions which our remarkable advantages of soil and climate had given us reason to expect; and

"Whereas, the Chinese have shown themselves to be efficient pickers, and are good general workers on fruit farms:

"Therefore, be it Resolved, That while regretting the necessity of taking a stand antagonistic to the views of many of our fellow-provincials, this association, in furtherance of the objects of its incorporation, is compelled to recommend that the policy of exclusion of Chinese labor by the imposition of a prohibitive tax be modified to the extent that Chinese engaged as agricultural laborers or domestic servants be allowed to enter the Dominion free of head tax, a system of supervision under the auspices of the Dominion government to be instituted to ensure that Chinamen so admitted are not allowed to engage in other lines of labor."

Speaking to his resolution, Mr. Croasdaile conceded that the labor difficulty was not yet acute, but contended that it was felt already and was bound to grow worse. He said that apart from the question of price, the only source of agricultural labor was the Chinese. Every industry, he said, in British Columbia had at first been dependent upon Chinese labor, and some industries must continue to be. He did not wish to introduce Chinese to compete with white labor, but maintained that white labor was not now, nor likely to be, available for purposes of agriculture.

James Johnstone said that he had tried every kind of labor; he had for a long time a sentimental objection to employing Chinese, but he had found them essential, efficient and honest. He would like the introduction of white labor, but had no hope of ever obtaining it. The only white labor ever available, and that only temporarily, was inexperienced and incompetent. Provided proper regulation of immigration was secured, and a good class of Chinese laborers obtained, he strongly favored the resolution.

T. Morley seconded the resolution and endorsed Mr. Johnstone's contentions. He also regretted the scarcity of white labor, but saw no hope of any remedy. While Chinese labor is essential, he thought it a hardship that the price of it should be increased by a prohibitive head tax.

Cecil Bourke objected on the ground that it would be breaking faith with the British who are being urged to come to Canada. He did not regret the ambition of British laborers to become land owners, and urged that they be not excluded by putting Chinese in control of the labor market.

C. G. Broadwood sympathized with Mr. Bourke's protest, but was certain that other labor was not obtainable. He would gladly employ British and Canadians, but they were not available.

J. J. Campbell thought that securing Chinese would not exclude white men. He said he employed four white men, but could not do so unless he also had Chinese. If Chinese were excluded—and the present laws aimed at that—the fruit-growing industry must be abandoned. He contended that it was absurd that every kind of labor was available and untaxed except the one kind required. More and cheaper skilled agricultural labor would do more than anything else to develop the land, and would create employment for even more white laborers. He favored the resolution, while emphasizing the importance of regulation and limitation, as suggested in the resolution. He said that every part of Western Canada was crying for workmen that could not be found, and industries were contracted in consequence.

Mr. Campbell's speech was loudly applauded.

J. E. Annable told that in Manitoba and the new provinces the question was already a burning one. The western harvest this year would require 35,000 men, and no one hoped for half of it. He quoted R. M. Palmer as saying that it was useless to ask for the remitting of the Chinese tax, and suggesting that European labor be thoroughly investigated.

Captain Paddon told of the experience of Natal land owners and the introduction of Indian coolies. He favored similar treatment of the Chinese.

Crozier Bourke thought it useless to ask a government to repeal an act just passed, but favored securing Japanese labor.

J. J. Campbell thought an earnest and united appeal would not be ignored.

J. W. Ford opposed the resolution. He contended that land owners in British Columbia could afford to pay for white labor. He thought white labor could be obtained, and urged the prior claims of fellow-Britishers, even if they could not be bossed like Chinese.

James Johnstone, in reply to J. W. Ford, said that he knew from his own experience that the only class of British labor available was useless for agriculture.

J. J. Campbell suggested a second resolution urging assistance, as suggested by F. J. Sammons, to skilled British laborers who had not the means to emigrate.

G. O. Buchanan thought the labor difficulty was already acute, as planting has been reduced because it was known that labor could not be obtained. He thought nothing could be done in Europe, as all immigrants induced by great efforts of the Dominion government are taken in the prairies, and were never available for British Columbia. He thought there was no prospect of an adequate supply of agricultural labor from any such source, or from any other source except China. Berry picking, he thought, would never be done well by any but Chinese or Indian labor. He did not wish to see young Britons and Canadians engaged as farm laborers; there was room for them all as independent ranchers.

Mr. Buchanan conceded the certainty of opposition and the unlikelihood of immediate relief, but he believed there was hope, and that a change might come very soon. He saw no principle justifying the exclusion of Chinese, while Japanese, Lascars, Hindoos and Slavs were free. He thought it an unfortunate attempt to create a monopoly of labor, and so perpetuate artificially high wages.

After a few other speeches and a brief reply by Mr. Croasdaile, the resolution was put and carried by a vote of 15 to 6, many not voting. Copies were ordered to be sent to the government and to other associations.

REPORT IS CONFIRMED

Member of Outlawed Russian Parliament Shot While Walking With His Family.

St. Petersburg, August 1.—The report of the murder of M. Herzenstein, a member of the outlawed parliament, is confirmed. He was assassinated at his country house near Terioki, Finland, by men in the employ of the Black Hundred organization. While walking along the seashore with his wife and daughter, several shots were fired at him from an unoccupied building. Two of the shots hit him, and he fell dead. His daughter was also wounded in the hand. The murderers have escaped.

Three hours prior to the murder a 'phone message was received at a newspaper office from Moscow asking for news of M. Herzenstein, and saying it was reported in Moscow that he had been assassinated.

M. Herzenstein was of Jewish descent and very wealthy. His attacks on the minister of finance and lower house of parliament attracted widespread attention. He supported the constitutional democrats for land appropriations.

TO FIND THE POLE

Wellman's Arctic Expedition Making Ready

AIRSHIP IS DESCRIBED

Novel Features and Intensely Practical Ideas are Evidenced in its Construction.

Whether or not Mr. Walter Wellman succeeds in his proposed aerial dash for the pole next month, and whether or not the enterprise is prompted by the scientific spirit or by a desire for advertisement, it seems certain that the big dirigible balloon in which he is to make his attempt is a remarkable piece of work, entirely apart from its great size. The balloon, we are told in an article contributed by a Paris correspondent, has been designed and constructed with very great care by Louis Godard at his aeronautic establishment near Paris.

The most casual observer will notice its substantial construction, and it seems likely to weather the severest shocks which it may receive in its voyage toward the pole. No less than seven thicknesses have been used by Mr. Godard in making the canvas. The principal novelty lies in the use of layers of pure Para rubber, which are placed between the layers of silk and cotton canvas. This is the first time that a light, as well as a strong, envelope has been secured in this way. Starting from the inside, we have first a layer of strong and specially woven French silk fabric; then on the silk is applied a layer of rubber, and on top of this comes a layer of cotton canvas. A thinner layer of rubber comes next, and then a second layer of cotton. Over this and forming the outer coating of the balloon is a thin layer of rubber. Such a combination of layers is very resistant, both to the pressure of the gas and to the moisture, which is one of the well-known features to be met with in the polar regions. Seeing that the rubber is attacked by the atmosphere, it is not a usual thing to place it on the outside of the balloon; but in the present case it has been used for a number of reasons, the principal ones being that the airship will be in use but a comparatively short time, and that it was desired to have a smooth surface, and especially to avoid the penetration of moisture into the tissues of the balloon, which would weight it down.

What is striking about the whole construction is the practical ideas which prevail in the design of all the parts. Thus instead of using a long, cigar-shaped body, Mr. Godard preferred to shorten up the balloon considerably, and give a length which is only three times the largest diameter, so as to make it quite steady and easy to handle in the filling operations, as well as in the actual flight. Thus we have a balloon whose total length is 160 feet and greatest diameter 52 feet.

A long guide rope will trail upon the ice so as to steady the airship's flight. For these different reasons it will be seen that the chances of accident are very much lessened.

The car is suspended by steel piano wires, and at each end is a propeller driven by a separate motor. Between them is the main deck and also the cabin, which is thus described:

The main cabin, made of osier, is somewhat above a man's height and covers the whole width of the nacelle, having almost a cubical form. On either side are six windows of a light basket work, and other windows are made in the front and rear of the cabin. A complete set of wireless telegraphy apparatus is installed in the cabin. The mast wire is formed by the steel guide-rope cable which trails upon the ice. Thus the party will be able to keep up a constant communication with the base of operations at Spitzbergen, and from there with Hammerfest, so that if all goes well we will constantly have news of the expedition.

The motive power for this great airship is to be furnished, as noted above, by two gasoline motors and two separate propellers, so that if anything should happen to the principal motor the second one will be sufficient to run the balloon.

Passenger Rates Reduced.

Philadelphia, Pa., August 1.—Important changes in passenger rates were announced yesterday by Fourth Vice-President John B. Thayer, of the Pennsylvania railroad, following a meeting of the board of directors of that company. The company has decided to reduce the maximum two-way fares from 3 1-3 and 3 cents to 2 1-2 cents a mile. The new rate will probably be effective on September 1st. The company will also on September 1st place on sale 1,000-mile tickets, valid only on its line or the Pittsburg and Erie, at the flat price of $20. These mileage tickets will be transferable.

COLUMBIA VALLEY POLITICS.

Liberal Organizer Ignorant of Geography and Strays Afield.

One hears all kinds of political rumors these days, says the Golden Star. It is evident that an election will soon be pulled off. Who the candidates for the Columbia district will be your correspondent does not know, but the names mentioned on the Liberal side are John Buckham, J. C. Greene, O. D. Hoar, W. C. Wells, H. Atchison and Rufus Kimpton, while on the other side the names of those who are eager to run are too numerous to mention. Peter Sebastian will be an independent, and John Taynton will run on the Socialist ticket. A well-known Wilmer philanthropist will divide honors with Sebastian.

It is reported that a stranger got last last week going from McKay's ranch to the springs. This is the second case we have heard of in this section. A few years ago a prominent Golden citizen lost his bearings while organizing for W. C. Wells and drifted over into Jennings, Montana, and commenced organizing Wells clubs there. The savages of that belt did not take to Wells, preferring whiskey straight, and the Golden man had to take to the hills, landing a few days afterwards in an exhausted condition on the wagon road not ten miles from Brisco. This might seem like a joke to some, but the genial citizen will tell you it was no joke with him.

INVESTIGATION GRANTED

J. D. Moore, Government Road Expert, Will Visit Balfour—Petition is Largely Signed.

The farmers of Balfour are not quite unanimous about the question of the government road but a majority are certainly with the petitioners, Messrs. Gray and McKay. A supplementary petition endorsing the request for delay and investigation was presented to Commissioner R. A. Renwick this morning, as follows:

"We, the undersigned ranchers of Balfour and vicinity, endorse certain statements made to the government agent by Messrs. McKay and Gray concerning the manner in which the road along the north shore is being constructed and the waste of the money on the same."

Among those who signed it are Catt. Padden, Crozier Bourke, Cecil Bourke, H. H. Sewell Wm. Brindle, agent for S. S. Fraser, H. Smellie, and others, numbering in all about 18. C. W. Busk and J. W. Ford, while not wholly endorsing the complaint, ask for investigation.

So far, it is learned, a great deal of road building has been done at their own expense by Messrs. Busk, Gray and Strank, and Mr. Busk has done all the necessary surveying gratis. Mr. McKay has supplied all tools and kept them in repair.

Commissioner Renwick has decided that J. D. Moore, government road agent, shall investigate the matter fully and report, a decision with which the petitioners express entire satisfaction. They prefer a little delay to having a permanent road in the wrong place, and disclaim any motive other than the general good.

Important Legal Decision.

Butte, Mont., August 1.—"Resident stockholders of mining stocks are subject to taxation on that stock" is the opinion handed down yesterday by Attorney-General Galen in response to a query from A. D. Clark, chairman of the board of county commissioners of Silver Bow county. At the present time, according to the commissioners, about $10,000,000 worth of Amalgamated United Copper and other mining stocks held by residents of Butte is escaping taxation, and it was the desire of the commissioner to ascertain whose property was located in the state that could be assessed. The decision is of great importance.

Price of Metals.

New York, August 1.—Silver, 65; copper, 17 3-4; electrolytic copper stock, 18 3-8, firm; lead, $5.75.

London, August 1.—Silver, 30 1-16; lead, £16 12s 6d; zinc, £26 15s.

Trains and Boats.

Crow boat—45 minutes late.

Slocan train—On time.

Spokane train—On time.

Coast, Boundary and Rossland train—On time.

It's easy to name the winner of an argument in which a man's words are pitted against a woman's tears.

CHILD DROWNED

Sad Death of Irving Hume This Morning

FEW YARDS FROM HOME

Accident Probably Due to Slipping of Life Preserver---Efforts to Restore Were Vain.

The saddest accident that has occurred in Nelson for a long time happened on the north shore just opposite the city this morning about 10 o'clock, when Irving, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Hume, was drowned within a few yards of his home.

The children, four in number, have been allowed to play on the beach and bathe near the shore, with many injunctions to keep within safe distance. Irving was allowed in slightly deeper water than the others, but always wore a life preserver.

This morning after breakfast the children adjourned as usual to the beach. Exactly what happened is unknown. It is probable, as happened as late as yesterday, but in shallow water, that Irving's life preserver came loose and fell to his feet.

The children were shouting at their play, and when their shouts became cries of alarm, they did not at first attract any notice.

Then one of the little girls ran for help, and first found Andrew Halkett, C. P. R. conductor, who is camping on the shore. As soon as he gathered what had happened, Mr. Halkett ran to the shore and plunged in, but, in their confusion, the children directed him to the wrong end of the float, and his diving was without result.

Mr. Hume, who was at work behind his cottage, saw Mr. Halkett diving, and instinctively guessed the occasion. He joined him at once, and together they searched the shore. In a few minutes Mr. Halkett located the child's body and brought it to the shore. Leaving the father to work at resuscitation, he paddled at once to the city boat houses and telephoned for Dr. Hall. The doctor responded at once, and was taken over in A. L. Lindsay's launch.

Every effort to revive the child had already been made by Mr. Hume himself. The hopeless task was continued for an hour and a half longer under Dr. Hall's directions, but life was already extinct and all efforts failed to produce the faintest sign.

The body was brought to the city later by Mr. Hume.

The other children, whose ages are between 3 and 7, could not say how long Irving had been under water before Mr. Halkett arrived. When found he lay on his back on the bottom motionless.

Arrangements will be made for the funeral later.

Mr. and Mrs. Hume have the heartfelt sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement. Irving was their eldest child, and a bright, courteous, manly little fellow, a favorite with all who knew him.

Hurd's Doubtful Story.

New York, August 1.—According to the Tribune, Roscoe V. Hurd, dealer in gems, 126 West 23rd street, complained to the police this morning that he had been robbed of a quantity of diamonds, rubies and opals, worth between $10,000 and $12,000, and a check for $159.

He said also that he was unable to find his messenger, John O'Neil, 22 years of age, of 251 Washington Square, Brooklyn. He says he gave the jewels and his check to the young man to take to the place of his brother, another diamond dealer, in Maiden Lane, at 2 o'clock yesterday. Hurd says the messenger never delivered the valuables. After waiting until 11 o'clock for the return of O'Neil, he says he went to the home of the boy's father, but the young man was not there. Hurd says he employed O'Neil only yesterday morning, and the delivery of the jewels was the first important errand entrusted to him.

Chicago Saloon Licenses.

Chicago, August 1.—The last saloon license that will be issued in Chicago until the city nearly doubles its present population was given out yesterday. The license number is 7,353. Under the Harkin ordinance, which goes into effect today, no more saloons will be permitted in Chicago until the ratio is one saloon for every 500 people.

JOURNALISTIC SOPHISTS.

There is an ancient adage which, being translated, is to the effect that people who live in glass houses should not throw stones. The adage has timely application in the case of Nelson's morning paper, which was yesterday guilty of a pretty exhibition of political ignorance or a deliberate purpose to misrepresent facts for political ends. It charges the Mail-Empire of Toronto with a whole catalogue of curious political crimes, and takes so dignified a stand on the question of political editorials that we may be pardoned for calling the attention of our readers to a subject in which they might not under other circumstances be interested.

The controversy is over recent decisions in cases of election protests in Nova Scotia, and the Mail speaks sarcastically of the political corruption that is apparently rampant there.

Here is how the local organ of the opposition pays its respects to the Mail, and also how it treats well-known facts of political history. It says:

"The Toronto tory organ has not an equal for casuistry or bitter invective. It has a select list of pet phrases which includes every unpleasant adjective and damnatory noun known to the English language, and its political terminology is fearfully reminiscent of the recent American stockyard scandal disclosures."

And further on it continues:

"The Daily News desires to present briefly these salient facts: The law of the land contains a provision, well known to every person in political life, to the effect that an election protest must be filed within a certain time. That time the Conservatives, either purposely or by mistake, allowed to elapse before they entered their action; and on these grounds, and these grounds alone, the courts refused to hear the appeal. Allowing Mr. Borden and his colleagues full credit for at least average conversance with the statute book, and taking into account their undoubted shrewdness in political tactics, it is nothing more than fair to surmise that the specified time limit was purposely allowed to pass, and that after it was obviously too late the action was commenced so that the opposition leader could pose before the country as one to whom justice had been denied by the courts.

"We are sorry to believe this of Mr. Borden."

We should be very sorry to "believe this of Mr. Borden ourselves," but as the News has such a sudden fit of pious and sanctified sorrow for Mr. Borden's course in this matter, we shall administer hasty relief to its aggrieved sensibilities by telling it that what it states is not true of Mr. Borden.

The petition in question was filed in ample time, but there is a provision in the law under which the date of trial of an election petition must fall within a certain time limit after the filing of the protest. The trial judge who fixed the date placed it three days too late to meet the legal conditions, with the result that Mr. Borden was absolutely helpless, and when he appeared to press the case before the courts he was told by the trial judge, the brother judge concurring, that the date of the trial placed the case outside the jurisdiction of the courts. Thus was Mr. Borden prevented from securing justice, and it was for these reasons, and not for those stated in the morning paper, that Mr. Borden's appeal was refused.

An eastern paper, commenting on the case, says:

"Judge Russell, of Nova Scotia, was a supporter of Laurier when in the commons, and received his appointment to the bench at the close of the last parliament. This eminent jurist postponed the trial of the corruptly-elected politicians who hold the Halifax seats that should belong to Mr. Borden and his colleague until July 17th. When the case opened on July 17th the same judge ruled that the trial ought to have commenced on July 14th. As his lordship had allowed the trial to be delayed for three days too long, the corruptly-elected members were confirmed in the seats to which they had not been properly elected."

While we make no comment on the action of the judges in question, both of whom were appointed by the Liberal government, we are both pained and humiliated that, for no apparently honest reason, a Liberal paper in the far west, at such great distance from the scene of action, where the voters would be unfamiliar with the facts, should resort to such political sophistry, if not something sadly worse. The only possible explanation of such politically coarse conduct must lie in the thought that the News hoped it would be able to slip its select fallacy into the public mind coated and gellatined so that it would be unsuspected, and the political virus it contains do its work in the body politic when it would be too late to recall the administration of the decoction. Any other explanation, such as that the editor was ignorant of the facts, is inadmissible, for the reason that an editor who essays such heavy subjects should have some suspicion of what he is writing about.

To read the lofty scorn with which the morning paper refers to the political sophistry of the Mail and Empire, while in the same columns it is guilty of much worse misstatement of the facts, is like the pot calling the kettle black. It reminds one of the attempted cleverness of Marie Corelli, who, in one of her books, points out the serious offence against public morals committed by a certain school of writers, and who in the whole story which has this complaint for its moral succeeds in weaving a plot full of suggestive situations that out-Herod Herod. Still we do not wish to place the News and Corelli in the same class. That would be sophistry.

SOUND, SOBER SENSE.

"Times of commotion," said Governor Pennypacker of Pennsylvania in a recent proclamation, "furnish the test of the capacity of the people for self-government. Every man is entitled to labor and get for his labor the highest compensation he can lawfully secure. There is no law to compel him to labor unless he so chooses, and he may cease to labor whenever he considers it to be to his interest so to cease. The laboring man, out of whose efforts wealth arises, has the sympathy of all disinterested people in his lawful struggles to secure a larger proportion of the profit which results from his labor. What he earns belongs to him, and if he invests his earnings the law protects his property just as the rights of property of all men must be protected. He has no right to interfere with another man who may want to labor. Violence has no place among us, and will not be tolerated. Let all men in quietness and soberness keep the peace and attend to their affairs, with the knowledge that it is the purpose of the commonwealth to see that the principles herein outlined are enforced."

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Dr. Goldwin Smith declares that he is not an annexationist, but a unionist, i. e., he favors "free, equal and honorable union." Ten years ago, says the Ottawa Citizen, he would not have denied that he was an annexationist; now the charge makes him appear ridiculous, and demands denial. The qualification of the philosopher of the Grange is merely a sign of the times. In the days when he and other faithless pessimists were advocating annexation, Canada was poor and struggling, and a minority of weaklings saw her only salvation in deserting her heritage and slinking under the wing of the United States. Now Canada is becoming rich and prosperous and fulfilling the destiny that every steadfast, stout-hearted Canadian was confident would be hers. Even the aged professor realizes the light in which history will regard the role of the men who attempted to betray this country into annexation in 1891. Perhaps better late than never is his recantation, but it would be more straightforward to confess his mistake than to fawningly juggle with words.

The sympathy of the entire community will be tendered to Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Hume and their family in the sad bereavement suffered through the drowning of their eldest son this morning. The Canadian, in common with all classes, joins in tendering its condolences to the afflicted home.

IN MODERN EGYPT.

The Necessity of British Rule Being Maintained.

Sir Auckland Colvin is the British comptroller-general in Egypt, and is also the khedive's financial adviser. From such a dual poin tof vantage Sir Auckland is well fitted to judge of actual conditions; a reading of his "Making of Modern Egypt," however, shows that he is also fitted to interpret the course of Egyptian events in general during the past twenty years, and in the department of finance in particular. In that period, as influenced by England, of course the central figure has been Lord Cromer. But at the beginning of the period the central figure was Lord Dufferin. England has indeed been fortunate in having such pro-consuls. We are not surprised to find Sir Auckland a sturdy advocate and expounder of British rule in Egypt. Not only is he as convinced as we are of the goodness of that rule; he is equally convinced of the unfitness of the Egyptians, unaided, to rule themselves. First of all, there is Mohammedanism in the way. Whether it be regarded as a scheme of religion, as a social life, or as a system of government and polity, it does not favor the sustained and continuous progress of the nation following it. But, Islam aside, where will one find among Egyptians, inquires our author, the necessary sense of corporate needs, the common and collective purpose, the civic virtues, the social energies, without which no real progress can be made? There is no native power, he avers, which could maintain, far less continue, the work of reform for a twelvemonth if the controlling British hand were removed. It must be admitted that Sir Auckland makes out a good case for Great Britain in his review of recent Egyptian history, beginning with the institution of dual control in 1876, and chronicling the military revolt, the rise of the vexed Sudan question, General Gordon's career as envoy to the Sudan, the retirement of the British troops from that vast region south of Egypt, Lord Cromer's policy for both Egypt and the Sudan, the end of Dervish rule at Khartum, and, finally, the Anglo-French agreement, which ended a quarter century's chapter of complicated international relations. The recent recrudescence of Muslim fanaticism in Egypt, the Sinaitic peninsula, and the Sudan, and the readiness of the Anglo-Egyptians to meet it, makes a review of the situation interesting at the present time.

Hawthornthwaite's Tour.

(Western Clarion.)

Phoenix, B. C., July 21st, 1906.

Dear Comrade: I enclose you $25 for provincial organizing fund. The boys up here are doing well; they have found out what they want, and seem to be willing to pay for it.

Great time in Rossland. Spoke there four times; once to the Italian local, at their building, being introduced by Joe Callister. No one seemed to have been aware of the existence of such an institution. They have a fine, vigorous organization, and are true-hearted comrades. I was astonished at the number of Socialists I found in Rossland, which has always been supposed to be the stronghold of Liberal capitalist politics in this province. Macdonald made a pitiable exhibition of himself on the platform, some of our Socialist comrades even feeling sorry for him. It is needless to say I didn't.

He was to have met me on the platform and discuss the burning question of the day—Capitalism vs. Socialism. He was in the meeting, and the audience forced him on the platform, but to the disappointment of friends and foes alike, he refused to speak, and followed his usual tactics—that is, did a sneak.

He met me the next night and discussed provincial politics, as these ducks are sometimes willing to do, because it is fairly safe ground for them, being easier to conceal the real issue. But I venture to say that Macdonald would have given a good deal to have escaped even that little ordeal. Unless both wings combine to support him, he cannot be again elected in Rossland. The town is ours for keeps.

I speak here tonight, and spoke in Grand Forks last night. The comrades there will at once organize. This camp will come into line, too. Socialism is rampant here.

Yours in the revolt,

J. H. HAWTHORNTHWAITE.

EDMUND TRAVES' MISHAP.

Started Freight Car and Fell Off—Sustained Painful Cuts.

Edmund, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Traves, sustained a serious accident last evening. He was playing on the C. P. R. tracks, and climbed on a freight car which stood on the track on a slight incline. In moving round the car the child kicked a brake loose and set the car in motion. The sudden movement threw the boy violently off the car.

He fell on his face, his teeth striking a tie. He broke several teeth, and cut his lips, chin and neck. Doctors were summoned quickly and attended to his injuries. He is not in danger, but his injuries will be very painful for a long time.
