THE EDENOGRAPH

VOLUME 2. NUMBER 2. ENDERBY, B. C., MAY 24, 1905. PRICE, $2 A YEAR

Enderby Doings

F. Pyman has added a large show-case with swinging shelves to his jewelery store fixtures.

Miss Garnett has three sleeping-rooms to let, by the week or month. Next to the Methodist church.

Cabbage Plants for Ssle. Early, medium and late plants, $1 per 100. pply to W.T. Hayhurst, Armstrong, B.C.

The Okanagan is out. It is a little publication brought out weekly, by Gould Bros. of Vernon, at 50 cts. a year.

The stylish sailor hats displayed in the E. T. Co's east window, are receiving unstinted admiration from the ladies.

R. P. Bradley has in stock the best force-pumps made—the Allweiler and the Brantford—with a quantity of the best grades of garden hose.

A. Fulton has the contract for installing the heating apparatus in the Bell hotel block, and is busy making the large hot-air flues in his tinshop.

From the Advertiser to THE EDENOGRAPH, Greeting! We extend our best wishes for a most successful Vol. II, and may all the best things ye wish for thee and thine be showered upon thee. —Armstrong Advertiser.

The Orange Hall, Bell block, will be open all of today, and visiting Orangemen and others are invited to make it their headquarters for the day. The local brethren will endeavor to make all visitors welcome and comfortable.

The best in mattings, wall-paper, upholstered and fancy household furniture can be found at J. C. English's furniture store, at prices that cannot be touched anywhere in the Valley. A complete range of wall paper to select from.

J. D. Prentice, formerly of the provincial cabinet, was arrested at Ashcroft last Thursday charged with aggravated assault on Mrs. Duncan McGillivray, of Cache Creek. Prentice is now in jail awaiting a preliminary hearing.

The incessant rain since Saturday night has been a blessing to the country at large, but has put a crimp in the celebration committee's arrangements for today's sports. The grounds are in no condition for football or the other sports advertised.

W. J. Fenton has lumber on the ground for a new two-story house on his home property near town. The building will be erected on the site of the one which was burned to the ground a few weeks ago. A. M. Baird is doing the masonry work.

At the preliminary hearing held last Wednesday morning, A. B. Wallace made no attempt to shield himself or to deny any of the testimony put in against him. His own statement was, indeed, the most convicting of any evidence presented and he was committed for trial without bail.

After five years of misery and a legalized existance, the Slocan Drill of Slocan City, has ceased publication and Br'er Smitheringale has, or is, moving his plant in the direction of the Similkameen country. Charlie will find a field more appreciative than that of Slocan City, and then he will make a fortune.

Rev. J. C. Calvert, is a rural delegate to the Methodist conference. He is likewise a fowl fancier, and keeps a few hens. One day a brother minister passed by his door and, noticing the poultry perched on the front steps, called lustily, "Are those your lay members, brother?" "Yes," came the ready reply, "and very egg-otistical they are, too!"—Vancouver World.

The word "householder" as now used in the Municipal Election Act is no longer ambiguous. It means that any British subject, 21 years of age, who occupies a dwelling, tenement, boarding house or hotel or any portion of a dwelling, tenement, boarding house or hotel, in a city municipality, continuously during a current year, and who has paid $2 in taxes to the municipality, may vote as a "householder."

The B. C. Fruit Growers' Association will hold an important meeting at the Town Hall tomorrow (Thursday) evening, at 7:30 p. m. All in any way interested in fruit growing are invited to be present. The speakers will be: Mr. Brandrith, on "Planting and Care of the Orchard;" T. W. Sterling, "Varieties to Plant;" Mr. Palmer, "Markets;" Maxwell Smith, "Co-operation in Fruit Growing." Each of these topics will be treated from a local standpoint, and the meeting will make public much valuable information.

The recreation grounds committee have worked hard to put the grounds in good condition for to-days sports, and by Saturday evening they were in shape to have the best football game of the season on them. The continuous rain since Saturday night, has forced the committee to cancel the football game with the Kamloops team and if the weather continues wat to-day the other sports will be called off. However, at this hour weather indications are more favorable, and there is every reason to believe that, barring the football game, the original program will be carried out.

Dominion Estimates.

The estimates for the current fiscal year were presented to parliament last week Added to the amount voted last session they gave a grand total of $81,349,391. Among the western votes are the following:

New snagboat to replace the Samson $15,000.

Ashcroft-Barkerville telegraph line, $5,513.

Kamloops-Penticton line, Lower Nicola, Granite creek, Princeton, Hedley and Fairview, $2,500.

Vernon-Kelowna telegraph line, $1,000.

Ashcroft telegraph line, $3,637.

North Thompson river improvements, $2,500.

Ladysmith wharf and approaches, $4,000.

William Head quarantine station, improvements and repairs, $1,500.

Victoria harbor $2,000.

Harbors, rivers and bridges in British Columbia, general repairs and improvements, $1,500.

City Council Meeting

The City Council met on Monday evening and in addition to passing the by-laws submitted at the previous meetings, discussed the water question, recreation grounds question, and the question of a town hall. The water question has not yet assumed definite form. Regarding the question of recreation grounds, Attorney Billings has informed the Council that the by-law to raise the money for this purpose cannot be passed until the city has been properly assessed. The matter of the erection of a town hall for the use of the city was postponed until next meeting.

The Girls Let the Secret Out.

It is recorded that when Linevitch kissed his troops many of his soldiers were moved to tears. Probably, however, if you got a bunch of Russian whiskers in the eye you'd do the same thing.—Toronto Star.

Will Build a Hall

Enderby is promised a first-class hall, for lodge purposes, theatricals and all public purposes. The newly organized lodge of Oddfellows contemplate building it, and they purpose having it ready for the opening of the fall show season. The new lodge starts with a good number of members. Eureka Lodge No. 50, I. O. O. F., is its name and its officers are: N. G., W. Allen; V. G., A. Paul; Sec. R. Wheeler; Treas. J. C. Metcalfe; R. S. N. G., N. Simpson; L. S. N. G., C. E. Hopkins; R. S. V. G., W. Mack; L. S. V. G., E. Robinson; R. S. S., H. N. Henderson; I. G., R. Blackburn; O. G., M. Dunwoodie; W., J. Gaylord; Con., A. L. Matthews.

Rev. A. E. Roberts, will preach his last sermon as pastor of the Enderby circuit next Sunday. Mr. Roberts and family will leave for Nanaimo next Wednesday, where he has been called to the Haliburton Street Church. Rev. A. N. Miller, of Ladner's, has been appointed to the Enderby circuit. Mr. Roberts, during the three years stationed at Enderby, has been more than a preacher of the Methodist faith; he has exemplified by his conduct in fraternal, social and business life that liberality of spirit which raises men above the narrow confines of creed and places them within the bands of a nobler fellowship.

Dr. Reinhard's Horn

EDITOR THE EDENOGRAPH:

Dear Sir: Doctors should blow their own horn only reluctantly, and merely in defence, and editors on the other hand should always be willing to rectify statements which are not to the fact.

In your last issue you state that "Dr. Morris performed a very skilful operation in surgery in saving the injured hand of Thos. Pound."

Without going into detail, suffice it to say, that Mr. Pound has been from the beginning, and is still, under my charge. W. REINHARD, M. D.

ED. EDENOGRAPH:

An error occurred in your last issue regarding my attendance on Mr. Pound. I only assisted Dr. Reinhard to do the work. Yours, O. MORRIS.

K. of P. Grand Officers.

At the meeting of the Grand Lodge, K. of P., held in New Westminster last week the following officers were elected: P.G.C., A. G. Ferguson, New Westminster; G. C., Geo. Johnson, Nanaimo; G. V. C., Wm. Irvine, Nelson; G. P., G. T. Mallory, Kamloops; G. K. of R. and S., E. Pferdner, Victoria; G. M. of F., Thos. Walker, Victoria; G. M. and A., G. Hammer, Grand Forks; G. I. G., Ha. Brown, Revelstoke; G. O. G., R. H. Townley, Vancouver; Grand Rep., Noble Binns, Trail; C. F. Nelson, New Denver.

Just Between Ourselves

I blurt ungrateful truths, if such they be,
That none may need to say them after me.—Lowell.

Just here let us remark, that of all things, the great Okanagan Valley needs most a united, loyal people—not only in deed, but in thought—for a mutual benefit. We have here the greatest valley in Canada, for productiveness and comfort of living. Our's is indeed a rich heritage. But while the thought of rivalry is rife, and jealousy, fear, unrest and hate are in our minds—well, what think you? are we not still in the savage state?

But this is not a sermon—just a touch of the gospel of good cheer, to keep the Devil busy on the pica case.

Let us not get too chummy with anybody.

Chums only pool their weaknesses, in which they are not brave enough to stand alone. Be a friend to all, stand by all, speak well of all. If we must talk let's say the good things. When we listen to tales of trouble we make that trouble our own—we absorb what we talk about. Then let us talk about the good things. When we stop to take part in bickerings and chewing matches, we are gone.

The soil is bounteous; the forests, mighty and grand are they; the mountains are full of precious gifts; the streams are teeming with fish; and the opportunity to work is everywhere. The Valley is crying for men—men who can serve it. And those who can benefit society most, in this or any other land, are those who are freest from prejudice, hate, rivalry, revenge, whim and fear.

As a community, the more harmony we possess, the stronger are we. This is paradoxical. Small communities are, to a degree, a hot-bed of strife, jealousy, heart-burning. Petty plots and counter plots fill the air. The community that is in the line of progress, is the one that has at its head men of strong, stern, inflexible, purpose—men who focus on their work, and avoid discord.

The way to cultivate a good digestion is to not think much about it. The soul that is surely damned is the soul that is ever in the throes of guilt. When the body is free from pain we know it is in good health. When the soul is in harmony with other souls discord cannot exist. But let's not take a grip on ourselves and try to be good. Just don't think much about it. If good comes our way, let's do it; but never let us go out of our way to get busy. We have seen good men and women who made a business of doing good to others, and the result has been that they cultivated a hate for others engaged in the same occupation, and at once there was rivalry.

"Society is in league against all of its members," wrote Emerson. And Emerson was right, wasn't he?

Baseball Opens

The Crescent baseball team, of Armstrong, came up to give Enderby a practice game last Wednesday afternoon. The game was in many respects a good one, and was won by Armstrong by a score of 9-10. On Saturday the Enderby team played a return game on the Armstrong grounds, winning in the tenth inning by a score of 14-12. The Armstrong lads put up a splendid game. They are young in years, but old in the art of twirling and basting with the willow, and gave the Enderby team a good afternoon's sport. The games proved that while Enderby has the material for a good team, it is going to require much more practice than the team has had to put it in condition to play the game. In Saturday's game the fielding of Patchett in the left, and Asson at short was perfect. Patchett bagged every fly that he could get under, and only one went beyond him. Willie Asson is little short of a wonder. He picks up everything that comes his way and puts it to first with a neatness that stops most of them. Though the Armstrong Crescents are juniors they had Daddy Armitage, F. T. Jackson and Sid Holtby, to play unimportant positions. It was, however, to the good playing of the little fellows that Enderby's big team had to play so hard to come out at the right end.

Drive Out the Saloon.

The Methodist Conference took a strong position against liquor drinking. On this evil resolutions were adopted as follows: "Local option limits the license area, educates the people, and puts responsibility of the saloon on each community. Therefore we most heartily recommend that a strong and united effort be made at the next meeting of the legislature to secure a Local Option act for this province.

"Your committee is of the opinion that the time is ripe for an agitation throughout the whole province to abolish the saloon. What we mean by this is 'saloon license', a house that provides no accommodation for the public.

"We further recommend that the provincial government be asked to enact such legislation as will make it illegal for a licensee to hold any public office in a municipality.

"We believe that moral reforms depend primarily upon intelligent convictions in the hearts of the people; therefore we would urge pastors, class leaders, league presidents, Sunday school superintendents, and all officials of the Methodist church to keep this question before those who look to them for light and guidance.

"The wide-open 'bawdy house' is a shame and disgrace to the cities of our province. We believe the common instincts of humanity, the deeper claims of patriotism, and the broader demands of the Gospel of Jesus, imperatively call upon all men everywhere to make common cause against this terrible evil.

"Another matter demanding attention in the cities is the existence of these 10-cent shows. These are poisoning the minds of the young people and children who attend in large numbers. Their influence is most baneful.

"Another question that has not yet been settled is the 'cigarette habit'. Our boys are being destroyed physically, intellectually and morally—hundreds of them every year."

Revelstoke's New Station.

The contract for a big station at Revelstoke has been definately awarded to the contracting firm of Messrs. Smith and Sherburne of Vancouver, and Mr. Smith left this afternoon to commence work on the building.

The plans show one of the handsomest stations outside of the big cities, and will be amply capable of covering the big business handled from Revelstoke along the main line of the C. P. R., as well as the work done on the branches into the Kootenay.

Revelstoke is the head office of the interior, and work has been increasing so fast during the last few years that the railway company found it imperative to build a station and office building.

Tenders were called for the construction of the new building, and most of the big contractors in the province bid. The announcement was made publicly to-day that Smith & Sherburne had been awarded the contract at the price of $25,000. Mr. Sherburne stated that the building was to be two floors above the ground, of mixed stone and brick, while from the contour of the place an extra story of cut stone would be built below that.—Vancouver Province.

The Pathetic Side of Life.

The seamy side of life will occasionally obtrude itself, even when people are boasting the loudest of the civilization of the twentieth century in a way to startle the most calloused. Here is an incident of metropolitan life in England that carries with it an entire sermon: On the night of January 29th of last year, medical officers and inspectors of the London County Council took a kind of a census of London outcasts Between 1 o'clock and 5 o'clock in the morning, from Hyde Park to Whitechapel and Holborn to the Thames, they counted 1,609 men and 188 women walking the streets without a place to sleep, or sleeping in doorways. On the basis of these figures gathered in four hours' observations, the officers estimated that one person in every 2,000 in London was a homeless outcast. And among the 1,977 wretched wanderers thus counted, fifty were little children!

Living in Hope.

An old negro died in Kansas not long ago, and as he belonged to no church or society, three or four negroes volunteered to bury him, and they were the only followers in his train.

After the coffin had been lowered into the grave all seemed to feel something ought to be said. They appealed to the oldest man present, who delivered the following: "Brother, you is gone, but we hope you is better off than we think you is."

Words of Cheer.

The loyalty of newspaper men to their field of work is often a matter for admiration. H. M. Walker of Enderby was recently offered a good price for THE EDENOGRAPH, but as the buyer proposed to move the plant Mr. Walker said "no, this paper was started to build up Enderby and shall stay with Enderby or shall not be sold to anyone." Such newspaper men deserve the best support of the community in which they conduct their business.—Kootenay Mail.

No woman ever really makes a fool of a man: she lets nature have her way.

EMPIRE DAY

If there is one day above another that every Britisher will ever hold dear, it is Victoria, or Empire, Day. Wherever the flag of Great Britain is unfurled to the breeze Victoria Day will be observed while the Kingdom of Britain stands. And well it might! Today we are reminded of the saintly life of Great Britain's Mother Queen; and the world's noble woman. No words can express the love of the British people for Queen Victoria, or tell the esteem of the peoples of other nations for this womanly woman, whose reign of sixty-five years marked an epoch in the Empire's history unparalleled for material prosperity and political contentment. No former monarch so thoroughly comprehened the great truth, that the powers of crown are held in trust for the people, and are the means and not the end of government. This enlightened policy entitled Queen Victoria to the glorious distinction of having been the most constitutional monarch Great Britain has ever seen.

But quite as important and beneficial to the Empire was the example set by her Majesty and the Prince-Consort in the practice of every domestic virtue. Their stainless lives, their simple, unobtrusive piety bore rich fruit in the stability of the throne.

In honor of such a mother, such a Queen, the Empire celebrates today.

DUTY NOT PLEASURE

It is not a pleasure to take hold of a case like that which disturbed the morals of Enderby last week, but by frankly exposing the evil and placing the man where he can do no harm, either to himself or others, the dirty mess is cleaned up as it should be and the mouth of the Gossip sealed, by leaving her nothing to talk about.

Had Wallace been allowed to escape it would have been a social calamity, and a disgrace to the community. In a case of this kind the voice of duty calls louder than that of desire, and, no matter what may be one's personal feeling in the matter, society must be protected at whatever cost.

Constable Gardom fearlesly did his duty, and is to be commended for the prompt measures he took in the matter.

JUSTICE AND LAW

On another page we reprint a criticism of a decision of the Supreme Court of the province made by the Guild Gazette, the official journal of the Merchant Service Guild of Canada.

The article in question tells of the case of John Morgan vs. the British Yukon Navigation Co., wherein the Full Court reversed the decision of the lower court and set aside the verdict of the special jury. We do not know on what grounds the higher court reversed the lower court, but it certainly appears to be a hard deal on the man who lost a leg.

If there is any reason to question the justice of the Full Court's ruling, there should be no difficulty in carrying the case to a higher court or to the Chief Justice of the Dominion, or even higher. Surely the Guild can find the money necessary to appeal the case, and if the case is won John Morgan will not be out anything and the Guild will get its money back.

We don't think the courts are so bad as painted. No doubt they do make mistakes, for law is a wondrous thing. A merely finite being can never tell you what it is. One day's evidence is enough to prove this. For instance: the Supreme Court of the United States, four out of the nine justices dissenting, has declared unconstitutional a New York law limiting the hours of work in bakeries. The highest court of New York, three out of seven justices dissenting, had declared the same law constitutional. Thus sixteen of the most eminent judges in the land—nine of the Federal Supreme Bench and seven of the New York Court of Appeals—have passed upon this law, and eight of the sixteen were wrong about it.

Almost at the same time, the Federal tribunal handed down a decision in a railroad land damage case, also from New York. On the same set of facts, the New York Court of Appeals had once held against the railroad. In this particular case the lower court held against the railroad; then the Court of Appeals, by a divided bench held in favor of the railroad. The Washington court four of the nine justices dissenting, reversed the Court of Appeals which had previously reversed itself, and upheld the lower court. In the famous Northern Securities case four of the nine Supreme Court justices, and a fifth, while casting the determining vote which settled what the law is, reached his conclusions on grounds different from those taken by his colleagues of the majority.

The Weather.

With The Owl

HANK EKLAW IN THE DARK WOODS.

MAN (or the woman) who permits another to switch him off the path of duty, or intention, which amounts to about the same thing, will never accomplish the work the world has for him to do. He will be a tool in the hands of the crafty; clay in the potter's shop. It is the steady aim that hits the mark; the firm purpose that makes the will. Weak men blame others for their failures. They start well, but the first puff of adversity's wind makes them duck. Then, along comes a squall, and—over they go!

Oh, dear; how cruel is fate! And the other fellow—they think—little realizing that they themselves might have prevented the swamping had they looked sharp for squalls.

A couple went to a Roman Emperor and asked for a divorce. The Emperor listened to the charges and counter charges, and, being wise, said, "You folks don't want a divorce, all you need is a vacation."

That would hit most of us—not only in matters where divorce is felt necessary, but also in many other things.

When our little humdrum life becomes so tiresome; when we feel out of sorts in our work, and we want a divorce from our surroundings; when we feel dissatisfied with things in general, we need a vacation. By vacation, let us not think it must mean the throwing up of work. It may mean just the reverse. Perhaps our life has been so self-centered, so selfish, if not indolent, that a spell of good hard work would be the very vacation we need—giving our mind and our talents freedom in something larger and better than ourselves." Vacation is relaxation. Work is relaxation. When one's thoughts are wrapped up in himself he becomes enslaved. Man then lives for the basest in his nature; for that which takes all and gives nothing. When we break away from that taskmaster—Self—and throw our energies into unselfish labor for others, we rise above the fault-finding weakness and step out with boldness and steady purpose; neither dictating nor being dictated to; to carry on the work that is our's to do.

LAW AND JUSTICE

Several months ago, says the Guild Gazette, of Victoria, a jury of his peer awarded John Morgan, a member of the Guild, a judgment of $12,000 for damages sustained, viz., the loss of a leg, while superintending the working of a capstan on a vessel belonging to the British Yukon Navigation Co. This decision did not suit the powerful and rich corporation. It pursued like a ravenous blood hound its poor crippled victim and overtook him before he could get his hands upon the bounty awarded him. The case was appealed by the company and a bench of British Columbia judges, learned in the law, have decided that the humane and righteous verdict rendered by the jury is at variance with the statutes and have set it aside, throwing the costs of the proceedings upon the poor and unfortunate cripple.

The gentlemen arriving at this decision are regarded in the community as honorable and humane men, but they are sworn to uphold the law. The writer assumes that their judgment is in accordance with the law and that they have conscientiously done their duty, but he would ask, what respect can any man with a spark of humanity in his breast have for laws that compel the rendering of so unjust a decision.

In his preface to "Barnaby Rudge" Charles Dickens cites the following historical incident in illustration of the brutality of the legal decisions of the time contemporaneous with the date of his story, Dickens says:

"That the case of Mary Jones may speak the more emphatically for itself I subjoin it, as related by Sir William Meredith in a speech in Parliament, on 'Frequent Executions' made in 1777:

"'Under this act (the Shoplifting Act) one Mary Jones was executed; it was the time when press warrants were issued, on the alarm about Falkland Islands. The woman's husband was pressed, their goods seized for some debts of his, and she, with two small children, turned into the streets a-begging. It is a circumstance not to be forgotten, that she was very young (under 19), and most remarkably handsome. She went to a linen-draper's shop, took some coarse linen off the counter, and slipped it under her cloak, the shopman saw her, and she laid it down. For this she was hanged. Her defense was (I have the trial in my pocket) that she had lived on credit and wanted for nothing, till a press-gang came and stole her husband from her, but since then she had no bed to lie on; nothing to give her children to eat and they were almost naked; and perhaps she might have done something wrong, for she hardly knew what she did.'

The parish officers testified to the truth of this statement; but it seems as there had been a good deal of shop-lifting about Ludgate; an example was thought necessary; and this woman was hanged for the comfort and satisfaction of shop-keepers in Ludgate street. When brought to receive sentence she behaved in a frantic manner, as proved her mind to be in a distracted and desponding state; and the child was sucking at her breast when she set out for Tyburn."

The cruel, devilish spirit behind the law that sent to the gallows at the behest of property the beautiful, young, helpless mother with a prattling babe at her breast, for no crime at all, is identical with that which in the case before us relieves the wealthy corporation of all responsibility while it heaps upon the poor toiler, distressed and crippled, the costs of an appeal instituted by a soulless corporation purposely to set aside and make a farce of the verdict of twelve honest citizens. I say with all the fervor of my being "Damn such villianous law," and I pity from the bottom of my heart the calloused soul of the man or woman who cannot say "amen" to such sentiment.

Cariboo's First Wagon

A vehicle odd and ancient, the first to reach the Cariboo gold diggings before the wagon road was completed in 1869, and which was at that time a matter of much curiosity to the miners, has been dug up on the Royston Australian ranch at Alexandria, B. C., and will be on exhibition at the Dominion Fair to be held at New Westminster from Sept. 27 to Oct. 7. The vehicle was the invention of Mr. Royston, who, with the assistance of Mr. Olson, propelled it into Quesnell loaded with supplies. It has but one wheel, in the centre, and is operated by two men at a pair of handles each on either end. It was peculiarly adapted to getting over the rough country in the days of its service.

WITH HANK REKLAW

What is the use of quarreling with God?

Purge the temple of its uncleanness and pass on.

An honest people need never be ashamed of the truth.

A college degree is no proof of excellence of character.

Covering up vice and warning the depraved to get away only passes him on into new fields.

To say that a soul is lost while that soul has a spark of love in it is to deny what God is.

The highest grade of farming is to turn hay, grain, roots and stubble in cows, horses, sheep, swine and poultry.

Religion is a cheap thing when it allows one to deviate in one's orbit to secure an easy way out of a difficulty.

I do not know, I may be mistaken; but I believe that every puff of tobacco smoke and every squirt of tobacco juice makes one less the man.

The habits of boyhood will reach on into manhood. It is important that the basis of all should be the habit of pure thinking and manly acting.

What the world needs today is not more preachers and teachers. It wants men to live in secret as they live in open; to have nothing unclean in or about them—to be gods in the chrysalis.

It is not work that kills men; it is worry. Work is healthy; you could hardly put more on a man than he can bear. Worry is rust upon the blade. It is not the revolution that destroys the machinery; it is the friction.—Henry Ward Beecher.

God is sure to reveal a way out of our troubles. But we must have faith enough to stop worrying over the impossibility of help, and look straight ahead towards the opening he has made for our escape. If our Guide has helped us in the past, He surely can do so in the next thing we are tempted to worry over.

Only the serene soul is strong. Every moment of worry weakens the soul for its daily combat. Worry is an infirmity; there is no virtue in it. Worry is a spiritual near-sightedness; a fumbling way of looking at little things, and of magnifying their value. True spiritual vision sweeps the universe and sees things in their right proportion.

Strange, isn't it. One day men will condemn a Siwash for filling up on bad whiskey, the next they will denounce the granting of another hotel license and the next we find them sympathising with and wishing the escape of a man guilty of the most depraved conduct that a human being could stoop to. Is this charity, or only sentimental bosh?

What the Local Pastors Talked About Sunday

"But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship Him. God is a spirit, and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth."

Taking these words of Christ for his text, Rev. Mr. Campbell spoke, Sunday morning in the Presbyterian church, on the simplicity of the life of Christ. While we learn much, perhaps the most, from studying the life of Christ for its holiness, and its love, yet there is much to be gained by the study of his simplicity of living, his sincerity of purpose and absolute honesty of speech. No life was more simple, and at an age when the world was given over to sham and religious veneer. His simplicity in his social life, in his teaching, and in his religious worship, all set us a good example. When he prayed he did not pray by rote, nor yet to please the ear of his hearers; he spoke the inmost feeling of his heart. He could go to His Father in confidence and faith knowing that He knew his inmost thought, and that he would not be heard by God if his lips spoke words that did not express his sincere desire. It was said of him that he "went about doing good"—the noblest tribute that could be said of any man.

"I would rather," concluded Mr. Campbell, "meet a person whose character bordered on the coarse, or the vulgar, if that one was honest and sincere and simple, than to meet one whose very presence made one feel that behind his shallow words there was a hollow nothingness."

Heb. 13:8: "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday and today and forever," was the text chosen by Rev. Mr. Roberts in the Methodist church, Sunday evening. After speaking of the changes that mark the physical world the preacher said that the abiding love of a personal Saviour was the distinctive feature of the Christian religion. While the sublimest morality must, and does, spring from the Christian faith, religion is not morality; nor is it a creed; it is love. The love of a personal Saviour for a sin-stricken world. Other religions are defective at this point. They all testify to the longings of the human heart after God, but none make the love of an unseen Lord the centre and sum of all. Hence the need that Christ should be the same yesterday, today and forever. And if Christ abides then His church must abide. The church's safety does not lie in the man who happens to be the preacher, or in the wise generalship, or in the great numbers attending, but in the fact of the abiding Christ. And if Christ abides His Gospel must abide. The good news of salvation to all lives on forever, and Christ's call is still as loving and persistent. Our obligation to spread the good news remains. The great commission to go into all the world is imperative upon the Christian church. Our confidence is that Christ abides and must assuredly prevail. The Christian army moves on to victory because led by an unchanging Christ.

Dogma and Our Schools

David Wilson, inspector of schools for British Columbia, replies to a Revelstoke pastor who said the school children of the province were taught all knowledge except the knowledge of God. After pointing out the insuperable difficulties in the way of dogmatic instruction, Mr. Wilson points out that something more important than dogma remains, and continues:

"The teacher, as moral instructor, can deliver to his pupils the subject-matter o. morality; he can give them a clear understanding of what is right and what is wrong. There is a body of moral truth upon which all good men of whatever creed or opinion are agreed. It is the public school teacher's duty to deliver to them this common fund of moral truth, not in the style of a preacher, but according to the methods of the pedagogue—that is, in a systematic way, the lessons being graded according to the ages and capacities of the pupils. Conceive the modern educational methods to have been applied to that stock of moral truths which all good men accept, and you have the material for the lessons with which to inculcate the highest morality. As a matter of fact, a pupil every day learns morality as an art, if not as a science. All studies if properly taught, every school exercise if properly conducted, is a means of moral training, and may help to build up a moral character. The teacher who is a good disciplinarian is advancing his pupils morally. If children are to become moral, their tastes and habits must be carefully guarded. It is the function of the school, from the very nature of its organization and management, to train children in the habits of regularity, punctuality, industry, neatness, obedience, truthfulness and honesty. In delivering the subject matter of morality to his pupils, the teacher is not called upon to discuss the ultimate grounds of moral obligation. The public school assumes that the family, the church and the Sunday school have given some attention to the religious instruction of children, and that its pupils are not ignorant of the existence of a God, of man's accountability to Him, and other primary beliefs."
