The said Municipality shall be called and known by the name and style of "The Corporation of the City of Enderby."

The said Municipality shall comprise all those pieces or parcels of land hereinbefore described.

The Council shall consist of a Mayor and five Aldermen, and the whole number present at each meeting thereof shall not be less than three.

The nomination shall take place, and the poll, (if any) shall be held at the School House, Enderby:

The nomination for the first election of a Mayor and Aldermen shall be on the 15th day of March, A.D. 1905, at 12 o'clock, noon, and the polling (if any) shall be on the 22nd day of March, A.D. 1905, and shall continue for one day only, and the poll shall be kept open between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., and R. I. Bentley, Esquire, M.D., of Enderby aforesaid, shall be the Returning Officer thereat.

The persons qualified to vote for Mayor and Aldermen at such first election shall be all such persons as are male British subjects of the full age of twenty-one years, who are freeholders, homesteaders or pre-emptors within the boundaries of the municipality, who have resided within the boundaries of the municipality for one year immediately preceding the date of these Letters Patent, and who shall, before the day of such election, have applied to the Returning Officer, and have had their names placed on the list of electors for such election.

Until the said City is divided into wards, the Mayor and Aldermen shall be elected by those qualified to vote in the whole City.

The Mayor and Aldermen elected at such first election shall hold office until his successor, or a majority of their successors, have been sworn in, unless he or they shall die or resign or become disqualified.

It shall be the duty of the Returning Officer to enter in a book, in alphabetical order, the names, addresses and occupations of all persons, qualified to vote as aforesaid, who make application to him, as aforesaid, to have their names placed on such list, and such list shall be the list of the electors for such elections.

Before the name of any person shall be placed on the list, he shall make and sign a declaration in writing, before some person authorised to administer oaths, setting forth his name, address, occupation and qualifications as aforesaid, which declaration shall be filed with the Returning Officer.

Such list and declarations shall be open to inspection by any person within lawful hours.

Any person may complain that his name is improperly omitted from the voters' list, or that any other name is improperly inserted thereon, and may apply to any Judge of the Supreme or County Court to have his name inserted thereon or to have any names improperly inserted thereon struck off the said list. In such latter case reasonable notice, to be determined by the Judge applied to, shall be given to the person whose name is proposed to be struck off. The Judge shall hear and dispose of all such applications in a summary way, and the Returning Officer shall amend the list in accordance with the Judge's decision.

At least six days' notice of the time and place of nomination and of holding of the poll (if any) shall be given by the said Returning Officer; such notice to be posted during that period in the manner provided by section 30 of the "Municipal Elections Act."

The Returning Officer shall, on the day of nomination, at 2 o'clock p.m., announce the names of the persons put in nomination in that behalf as candidates for the offices of Mayor and Aldermen, as prescribed by the "Municipal Elections Act."

At the close of the time for nominating the candidates the Returning Officer shall deliver to every candidate, or agent of a candidate, applying for the same, a duly certified list of the names of the several candidates who shall have been nominated; and any votes given at the election for any other candidates than those so nominated shall be null and void.

If, at the expiration of the time appointed for the election as aforesaid, no more candidates stand nominated than there are vacancies to be filled up, the Returning Officer shall forthwith declare the candidates who may stand nominated to be elected, and return their names to the Registrar of the Supreme Court.

No speeches or interruption to the proceedings of nominating candidates at the hustings shall be permitted by the Returning Officer between the reading of the notice of election and the closing of the proceedings on nomination day by the Returning Officer.

If, at the expiration of such time, more candidates stand nominated than there are vacancies to be filled up, the Returning Officer shall declare the names of the candidates, and publicly proclaim the day previously stated in his proclamation, and the place at which the poll shall be so opened in the Municipality, for the purpose of taking the votes of the electors according to law; and shall then adjourn the election, and shall take a poll by ballot, and shall cause to be posted up notices of his having granted such poll, indicating the names, residences, and occupations of the candidates so nominated, in the order in which they shall be printed on the ballot papers, which notices shall, as soon as possible after the nomination, be placarded in all the places where the proclamation for the election was posted up.

If, after the adjournment of an election by the Returning Officer for the purpose of taking a poll, one of the candidates nominated shall die before the poll has commenced, the Returning Officer shall, upon being satisfied of the fact of such death, countermand notice of the poll, and all the proceedings with reference to the election shall be commenced afresh: Provided that no fresh nomination shall be necessary in the case of a candidate who stood nominated at the time of the countermand of the poll.

In case of a poll being held, the candidates (duly qualified) who shall obtain the greatest number of votes shall be Mayor and Municipal Aldermen respectively.

Every person qualified to vote shall have six votes, being one for each Alderman to be elected, and one for Mayor, but he may vote for any less number than six; Provided always, that he shall not cast more than one vote in favour of any one candidate or vote on more than one occasion. And in the event of the number of votes being found to have been equal for any two or more candidates, one or more of whom, but not all of such candidates, being by the state of the poll entitled to be declared elected, the Returning Officer shall, by a casting vote or votes, as the case may be, decide which of the candidates for whom the votes may be equal shall be elected: Provided that the said Returning Officer shall not vote except in case of an equality of votes as aforesaid.

All expenses attendant upon the said election shall be borne by the said City.

The opening of the ballot boxes and counting the votes shall be in the presence of the candidates, if they attend for that purpose.

The Returning Officer, after the declaration of the poll, shall retain the ballot papers and boxes until a Clerk shall be duly appointed, to whom he shall forthwith deliver the same.

Every person who shall have presented himself for nomination, and who shall have been elected a Mayor or Municipal Alderman, must serve for the term for which he has been elected, unless in case of sickness, or in default pay a sum of fifty dollars towards the Municipal Revenue; such sum, with costs, shall be recoverable by the Clerk of the Municipality, summarily, before any Justice of the Peace.

Any vacancy in the office of Mayor or Alderman shall be filled as provided by the "Municipal Elections Act."

The first meeting of the Council shall be held on the first Saturday after the day of election, at the School House aforesaid, at 12 noon.

Until provision be made by by-law in that behalf, all proceedings at and relating to the meetings of the Council shall be held and taken in accordance with the provisions contained in the "Municipal Clauses Act," and all the powers, privileges and duties of the Mayor and Council shall be the same as those prescribed by the said Act.

At the first meeting, or as soon thereafter as possible, the Council may elect a Clerk, Treasurer, Collector and Assessor, or such officers as they may deem necessary, who shall hold office during the pleasure of the Council, and receive such remuneration as the Council may by by-law appoint.

In testimony whereof, we have caused these our letters to be made patent, and the Great Seal of our said Province to be hereunto affixed: Witness, the Honourable SIR HENRI GUSTAVE JOLY DE LOTBINIERE, K.C.M.G., Lieutenant-Governor of our said Province of British Columbia, in our City of Victoria, in our said Province, this 28th day of February, one thousand nine hundred and five, and in the fifth year of our reign.

By Command,
FRED J. FULTON,
Provincial Secretary.

To Organize a Base-Ball Association

The following letter should commend itself to our base-ball enthusiasts:

Revelstoke, B.C., March 4, 1905.

Editor THE EDENOGRAPH—

Dear Sir: As we have organized a base-ball team and wish to increase the interest along the line of sport, we ask your assistance through your paper in helping us notify the ball players in your locality of the plan we have outlined for the summer of 1905. It is our desire to organize an Amateur Base-Ball Association to include the towns of Revelstoke, Kamloops, Vernon, Golden, Enderby, Armstrong and Kelowna.

We would like the managers of the different clubs to correspond with us so that a meeting can be called at an early date for the purpose of arranging a schedule and adopting rules to govern the Association.

We would like if possible to have a schedule arranged early in April.

Yours respectfully,
REVELSTOKE BASEBALL TEAM.

Address communications to J. E. Lehman, P.O. box 216, Revelstoke.

Could not this matter be taken up at the meeting called for Thursday evening to discuss bowling and tennis?

For Sale: Nine-year-old work-horse; splendid worker and in good condition; weight about 1300. Apply, S. F. Waby, Enderby.

Found, in Enderby, bank bill. Will be returned on amount, bank and number being given. G. M. Salt, Enderby.

For Sale: Thoroughbred Buff Orpington eggs for hatching. $3 for 15. H. Byrnes, Enderby.

Wanted, to buy: A second-hand saddle, in good condition. Address, H, this office.

Molasses always runs faster as the weather warms.

Ira C. Jones is building another cottage. A tenant is waiting.

H. W. Harvey has bought the feed and chop stock of W. Jones.

The Rothesay Lumber Co. will start the mill at Mara next Monday.

Seed time is here, and the stores are showing large stocks of all varieties.

If you wear overalls, you will be interested in the big stock of Levi Strauss garments shown by the Enderby Trading Co.

Subject for debate at the Literary this evening, "Resolved: That women should not engage in industrial or commercial pursuits."

It is reported that the mills and timber limits of the Yale-Columbia Lumber Company, have been taken over by the Columbia Lumber Company.

The Kamloops Lumber Co. has been shipping from Enderby about eight carloads of lumber a week the past month, most of it going to the Northwest.

A meeting will be held in THE EDENOGRAPH office, on Thursday evening to discuss the making of a bowing green and tennis ground, and starting a club.

J. C. English is keeping his Japanese mattings to the front. They are the best that ever were shown here or anywhere. Patterns the daintiest and quality the best.

G. S. Mohr, of Hedley City, is visiting his home near Enderby. Mr. Mohr speaks in glowing terms of the Nickle Plate city, believing that they have the biggest mine in America.

Superintendents Marpole and Kilpatrick were in the Valley this week, and as a result of their visit the daily train service will be inaugurated on or before April 1st, report says Mar. 13.

Manager Sweeney, controlling the branches of the Bank of Montreal in B. C., passed through to Vernon on Monday. The opening of the Enderby branch is delayed, while the fixtures are being put in.

Big game is running low in the Mable lake valley. Wally Huppel shot a fine speciman of black wolf last week, near the Huppel resort. It measured a fraction less than seven feet from tip to tip, and had a bushy neck similar to that of a lion.

The Bachelors' ball given in the Town Hall Monday night, was the most successful event of the season. Upwards of sixty people were on the floor and others enjoyed the music seated at the card tables. The music was furnished by Messrs. Leonard and Rosamon, and the floor was in excellent condition. Several attended from Vernon and Armstrong, and the surrounding district was well represented.

Jas. Haynes was out with a light shot gun near the Haynes cabin, Mable lake valley, on Monday, when he encountered a ferocious black bear. The bear was intent on a closer acquaintance than Jim cared about, and he stepped away somewhat quickly. For five years Mr. Haynes has been enlisted in the Royal Dragoon Guards, and served with General French in South Africa. He never retreated, but when Bruin charged he concluded heels were the better part of valor and recrossed the Tagula on the double-quick, but in good order.

Enderby's Remarkable Growth

No better evidence can be had of the town and country's rapid growth than to look over the enormous stocks placed on the shelves and in the warehouses for the opening season by the merchants. Particularly noticeable are the stocks of H. W. Harvey and the Enderby Trading Co. Mr. Harvey has increased his storeroom and warehouse space until he now has 9,484 square feet in use. His warehouses are crowded with several carloads of new goods. The past week he transferred from the cars to his machine sheds a complete stock of mowers, rakes, binders, seed disc drills, hoe drills, disc harrows, lever harrows, field harrows, spring tooth harrows, breaking plows, plows, scufflers, farm wagons, trucks, buggies, etc. The Enderby Trading Co. goes more into finery, and its stock would do credit to a city of 10,000 population.

INTERESTING READING

Dr. R. I. Bentley, as returning officer for the municipality of Enderby, has taken great pains to prepare the papers and business in connection with the nomination and election of the first mayor and councilmen for the town. The public notice given over his signature gives the qualifications for mayor and aldermen. It will be interesting to note that only those electors are eligible to vote "who are free-holders, homesteaders or pre-emptors within the boundaries of the municipality who have resided within the boundaries of the municipality for one year immediately preceding the date of the Letters Patent, (Feb. 28), and who shall before the day of election have applied to the returning officer, and have had their names placed on the list of electors for such election."

The qualifications for electors for the first set of officers are quite different from those of any subsequent election. Hereafter all electors qualified to vote at a general election may vote for candidates for city offices.

A careful reading of the substance of the Letters Patent will aid to clear up a great deal of uncertainty about points that are poorly understood, and will aid the returning officer in the difficult work he has to do.

RECREATION GROUNDS

Enderby must do something if it is to have sports grounds this season. The old field is no longer available, and unless a private company takes the matter in hand and provides a suitable place we will not have grounds where out-door sports can be held. This would mean a serious loss to the town and retard the growth of its love for out-door athletics.

Perhaps the best piece of ground for this purpose is that owned by Peter Greyall and H. W. Wright, north of town, where the race course used to be. But this property may be too valuable for other purposes to be given up to this. However, if a large enough tract could be purchased by a private company, and fenced in regulation recreation ground style, and admission charged, it is doubtful if a better investment could be made. A pavilion is also necessary if Enderby is to participate in holding the annual fall shows (and why shouldn't she), and this would properly come within the scope of the recreation grounds company.

The same proposition could be considered in connection with the property adjoining the skating rink. There the building is already up, and with very little alterations could be used for all in door exhibition purposes.

Another proposition has been suggested. It is for the citizens to secure through the Indian agent, by permission of the reservation Indians, control of the island opposite the sawmill company's property, and by popular subscription of money and labor, to clear it off and make recreation grounds and a park suitable for all time to come. A foot-bridge or pontoons could be made to serve as the connecting link with the mainland, and the expense of building would be light.

Whatever action is taken should be taken soon, if we are to feel the good of it this summer.

MONEY ARGUMENT

It is a peculiar fact that in all the monetary agitations, and especially in the commotion which characterized the political campaigns of the United States when the money question was put forward, not a single argument based on sound logic was ever advanced for the gold standard, or against the free use of silver. The case in the United States was a mass of what T. P. Patton characterizes as "contradictory nonsense." It was made up of these three points:

1. Under free coinage of silver the value of the coin would be no more than that of bullion—about 50c on the dollar—and no increase in the demand for silver would advance the price of the bullion.

2. Notwithstanding the above obvious fact, there are a lot of silver barons — very shrewd men—who are spending vast amounts of money to procure legislation for the free coinage of silver, and they will make enormous profits by coining their bullion into dollars that will not pass for any more than the same weight in bullion.

3. When this paradoxical state of affairs materializes, the rest of the world will go crazy, and make this country the dumping ground of all the silver in the world. Even the Latin Union, whose silver, being coined on a ratio of 15 1-2 to 1, and is worth $1.33 an ounce in gold, and can't be purchased for less, will ship their silver coin to this country to be coined into cheap dollars, that will not be legal tender at home, and will be no use on earth to the people of the Latin Union.

These three paragraphs contain the whole case, and it is astonishing at this time to look back, and think that an alleged intelligent people were misled by such tommyrot.

But the silver campaign was a mistake in not fixing definite and safe limits that could be understood by the people. The question of silver and gold coinage is sure to arise in Canada when the mint is finally opened, but it will not come up in the way of anything doubtful or experimental. The monetary balance of the Netherlands, against which there never has been a suspicion, and which is proved by experience to be absolutely sound, is good enough to take for a safe limit. And Canada is in a position where she must do one of three things. She will either establish a safe coinage ratio and make her own gold and silver in a sufficient quantity for her people, or continue to use a conglomerate coinage from the United States and wherever else her immigrants come from; or she may perpetrate some such folly as that man Bickerdike proposes, driving out the foreign money and putting a stop to the magnificent progress of the country that is just getting started.

HANK REKLAW IN THE DARK WOODS.

NEVER try to stop an ambitious man. In the first place, you can't do it; that's work for the Omnipotent. In the second place, it will not do you nor him any good if you succeed. Stop him here and he will break out there; suppress him today and he will come up afresh tomorrow. God bless him; that's just what we like about him. He never is stilled. Forge ahead he will! If his pace is too fast for you, better drop out than be a drag; give him rein. If he's right he'll succeed whether or not. If he's not right, the quickest way to stop him is to let him stop himself.

We see things differently—how fortunate. We do not know each other's destiny—we do not know our own. All we can be sure about is our duty now—this moment. Upon our faithfulness in it depends our preparation for the next duty.

I would not be so uncharitable as to lay upon the conduct of another my construction of his acts and my interpretation of his thoughts. When a man is honest he will grant that his neighbor is, or might be, honest also, though his thoughts and actions may not harmonise with his own. We would be ever so foolish if we were to attempt to confine all thought to our own channel. It is not very wide or deep at best, and, though it may contain some truth, all truth does not flow through it.

Yes we see and understand things differently. I have been accused of assailing Catholicism in my remarks last week about the devilish actions of a certain priest, remembered from my youth. Sad, isn't it, to feel that one's thoughts, spoken from the broad plane of simple truth, should be narrowed down to the small confines of creeds, and construed to mean what the writer never had intended! How true it is: we understand only what our hearts are prepared to receive, and all the logic of a Paul would not make us see deeper than we desire.

Can't find anything better

That is the opinion of men who are expert fruit growers and have gone over this tract of land. It is right in the town, a few minutes' walk from the Postoffice. Land is continually raising in value. We have sold a number of these blocks, but have a few choice building sites left. You won't find lots of better value. The town will continue to progress; it has only fairly started. Property will continue to increase in value; building lots will never be less valuable than they are today. Your best opportunity is NOW. Price of Lots, $10 to $70

HIS POST-NUPTIAL CALL

"WELL," she said, gayly, as she stretched one hand toward him, while in the other she still held his card, "what a genuine surprise! I thought you were honeymooning in the hills. Congratulations! But why haven't you brought your bride? And why didn't you send me cards? But you always were a careless boy!"

He held her hand a minute, searching her face for some sign of chagrin. But a mocking smile was all that greeted him.

"There weren't any cards," he said, somewhat hurriedly; "I was in town, and I supposed you'd see me now that it is all over with. Besides you know it happened without—"

"Cards?"

"Preparation. The fact is, I hadn't intended—hadn't—but it's all over now! How are you? You look just the same, Betty!"

"Why it's only a year since—but sit down! Won't you have some tea? Do! But how nice of you to call! And only three days married! Then you didn't go away, as the papers said?"

"No; we took a train for town, intending to go to the Berkshires next day. But she—that is, Mrs. Brown, you know—had never been to the Waldorf, and she found it so absorbing that I haven't been able to tear her away."

"Just fancy! You take two lumps, don't you? It seems so odd! You see, I've never met anybody that knew her. She's lived off there in the country, hasn't she? Is she pretty?"

"She's a dear little girl, Beauty—Betty, I mean. Ha, ha! I wasn't quite sure you'd see me at first. But it was a little bit dull this morning, and I said to myself: 'I'll chance it! Betty was always a good sort, and now that everything is ended—why—' Thanks."

"Is she pretty?"

"She's a blonde, you know. Yes, I never liked blondes, but she is quite fair. Not dark at all—not a bit like you!"

"No—blondes usually aren't dark, are they? What did you say her name was?"

"Harriet."

"Oh, dear me! But, of course, you have some pet name? You were always very clever at improvising."

"No, I just call her Harrie—she prefers it. And she—she calls me Charles."

"Ha, ha, ha, ha! Oh, Chub! Not really?"

"Yes—she's a dignified sort of girl—serious, high church, and all that! A dear girl! We'd known each other since we were kids. Why, I knew her, Beauty, before I met you!"

"Yes? You never told me."

"Well, you see I never thought of her except as the little girl next door. And then—well, you know, Betty, I never thought of anyone but you then."

She fingered his card nervously, thinking, tapping the bit of pasteboard against her rings. Her tea was untasted. He drank his feverishly.

"I suppose—" she said, "I hope those letters of mine—they—they—they are—"

"I burned them—the night before—before it happened."

"Oh!"

"It was queer. I knew I was going to be married next day, but I read some of them over, and over and over again! It was like opening a grave. It began to hurt. I had to stop and dump them all in the fire."

"Best place for them, Chub! It was all a dream."

"Ah-h-h!"

"We should have been dreadfully unhappy!"

"Unhappy?"

"Yes—you were jealous—and flared up—"

"And you flirted—"

"Ha, ha! You fancied so—"

"Ah—don't talk like that now, Betty! It's not necessary. You cared no more for me than—"

"I cared for no one else in the world. That's all! But what's the use of all this, Chub? I haven't seen you for more than a year—then I read of your marriage, then—your card comes up—three days after. And instead of telling me of the perfections of your bride, you begin to quarrel with me, just like old times. Now tell me all about it! Is she nice? But, of course, she is. You were always so particular! No other sort of girl would attract you."

"You don't understand—dear—um—er—I mean Betty. Harriet didn't attract me in that way. You see, when you threw me—when we quarreled—I suffered terribly for a time. I was willing to put my pride under my feet a thousand times. I wanted to just come back and ask you to forgive me—"

"But you never came."

"I wrote, asking you—"

"Ah, yes; but that is so different. When you're insulted a girl!"

"Insulted! Why, Betty—"

"Yes; your suspicions were insulting. And that evening—you said—you said—"

"I didn't know what I was saying."

"Well, let's drop it now, Chub. Tell me how it all happened. Did you fall in love right away—with her?"

"I never fell in love. Can't you understand, Beauty? Her folks and mine lived beside each other in the country for years. We grew up there—played together! When I began to mope around home after you—that autumn—why it was natural she and I should meet again. We walked and drove, and played tennis—and rowed on the river after dinner—or took out the canoe."

"H-h-huh?"

"Then I told her about you."

"You did!"

"I'd have gone mad if I hadn't told someone. She was sorry. She took my part—she thought—"

"I suppose she'd object to your calling—"

"Fudge! She's not that kind of a girl."

"If she knew that you were here! Ha, ha!"

"Pouf! Now don't try to be funny, Betty."

"Funny! But for her you'd have come back, that time."

"What time?"

"Oh, you know! But she was one of those clever, mouse-colored girls—I know them."

"Come back! How could I come back? You returned my letters! Do you remember? When I saw your handwriting across the big white envelope I was afraid to open it, thinking perhaps you had said — 'Come!' I took it out in the boat one evening and opened it. She was rowing. My own letter fell out. I felt horribly cut up. I—I—my God!—I believe I cried! She was like a sister to me. Told me it wasn't worth it. I was going to kill myself! She comforted me—she advised me!"

"Ah, yes—I see."

"She begged me to promise not to write to you again—told me to be a man! Then I waited two weeks more, and I told her I would write you once more and then end it if you didn't answer. That letter—that letter! How could you have—"

"What?"

"Again came your writing on the envelope, and again I carried it in my pocket until I sat with her in the boat. I said to her: 'This ends it! If she has not answered me, I shall never think of her again—so help me God! She shall not make me suffer so!'"

"And you—you—read it—?"

"No; she said to me: 'Yes, you will write to her. You will go on forever at that girl's feet. You have no pride. You love her. You will open it and find your own letter—and—and—weep!' I threw the letter across the boat into her lap. 'You are mistaken,' I said; 'you open it—do what you please with it. I'm through!' In a minute she had torn it in two and thrown it over the side. The envelope opened as it floated on the still water, and then I saw—and she saw—my own writing—my own letter! That was the end! That night I asked her to be my wife."

"Ah-h-h! That was it! I am so glad!"

"Glad! glad! What do you mean? Glad that you broke my heart?"

She leaned over and put her hand on his. Her fingers were trembling and her face wa white.

"I mean, Chub, that on the last page of the letter you said: 'Give me just one chance to see you again! Write me just one word—"Come!"'"

"Yes—I know it by heart!"

"Well, I wrote it, right under your signature; just that word—'Come!' Don't you see? I wanted you to come back—I—I—"

A silence fell over them. She still tapped the card against her rings. Her eyes were full of tears. He looked away from her, his gaze groping the wall, his face gray.

He gulped something in his throat. A piano-organ began to play in the street outside—a merciful relief from the stillness.

"You haven't told me, Chub," she said, "is—is—she pretty?"

"She's blond, you know," he said; "I never particularly cared for blondes. She's—she's a dear girl, though! I—I— Good-by, Betty!"

"Good-by, Chub!"

"Good-by!"

"Good-by!"

The hall door shut softly as she stood listening. There was a quick step over the pavement and the slam of a cab door. The strains of the piano-organ rose magnificently into the high closing notes of the "Intermezzo."

She looked into the mirror with eyes that shone triumphantly through tears.—Town Topics.

WITH HANK REKLAW

Without love laughter is dead.

If we would be happy in our work we must laugh in it.

Taking frivolity into business is not taking happiness into it.

Boost Laugh into Sorrow's window and Happy will climb into his heart.

It will be enough if the world can write on your tombstone, "He laughed in his work."

WORK is the step-ladder that puts you where you can knock the persimmons off the tree named Success.

When we carry today's burdens through the night, how Gloom will frown upon us when we awake on the morrow!

I would rather have the consciousness of knowing I had spoken the word that Duty demanded than to have the plaudits of any man, or all men.

When we watch the clock and see how much we can beat it in eight or ten hours, work becomes drudgery to us—and all drudgery is like a bad stomach.

As well take the dish-pan to church and beat it with a stick as to mumble a prayer to God with your eyes and heart and mind on Miss Jones' headgear or tomorrow's business.

A happy look or a word of cheer is never lost. There was never a sane man or woman or child who would not reciprocate when sincerity electrified the speech and countenance.

I heard a man so full of whiskey that he could not hold his head out of his plate tell how man and God should conduct the world so as to avoid the enslavement of the "workingman."

The robbins have been singing to us for two weeks or more—and that's a pretty good sign of Spring, though even robbins may get their toes nipped when they run ahead of the elements.

I heard a man say the other day, that when a man finds pleasure in his work, he can work sixteen hours a day and every hour will be one of pleasure. Is it any wonder that man can enjoy a good night's sleep!

Yes, my Honey, there's something more than a shallow ha-ha needed to radiate happiness. Let there be a laughing countenance and an eye that reflects depth of love—not a grinning face that only shadows a treacherous heart and a knife-blade soul.

In the Pulpits

What the Local Pastors Talked About Sunday

Rev. Mr. Craw, of Vernon, occupied the pulpit in the Presbyterian church Sunday morning. His subject was the Ministry of Pain, and his text was found in Heb. 12:11. Pain is one of the greatest realities incident to human life. The stories of life might be more artistic if this element were eliminated, but we should soon tire of them, and cast them aside as untrue of life, for truth cannot be sacrificed even to make beautiful, but must have the first place, even at the expense of what is pleasing. It is false philosophy and false science that ignores the reality of pain. Witnesses to the reality of pain meet us wherever we go. The bent form, the contorted limb, the blanched countenance, all speak of pain and sorrow.

The sources are many. There is pain as a member of society—we must, to some extent, carry the sorrows of others. Then there is the pain and suffering incidental to family life. The home life must be rent by sorrow, pain and death. Pain of the struggle for existence, where the strong have the advantage over the weak.

We of today, as in all time, look for a solution, but apart from the light the Gospel throws there is no solution that gives any help. We must look upon pain as an educator, not as punishment but the element of discipline. As Christians, it is to be received as the badge of our adoption. We can be assured if we long to be Christ-like He will not send one pain, affliction or sorrow that will not be for our good and His glory.

In the Methodist church Sunday evening, Rev. Mr. Bagshaw spoke on the subject of the all-seeing eye of God, and took for his text the words addressed to Adam, "Where art thou?" The question has ever been timely, and is one that every individual must answer for himself and alone. No man can escape the eye of God, who sees beneath the excuses that men offer and judges the motive that is in the heart. To the Christian there is the blessing of knowing that in whatever circumstance of life he finds himself, God sees, and is near to help. This thought carries with it the matter of one's responsibility to walk circumspectly not only in the eyes of men, but also in God's sight.

The question also comes home to the man in sin; none can escape it. Whatever excuses one may offer for his conduct, though men may accept them, they will not pass the searching eye of God. Conscience is a mentor through which God speaks, pointing to one's duty in all of life's affairs. Men try to stifle conscience, and sometimes they succeed, but, though they may, they can not escape the judgment of God. The question, "where art thou" must be answered. Though one may hide from the eye of all his deed, and another may hush the appeals of conscience, no man can pass the judgment of God without giving an account for the deeds done in the body.

The Pastor Exemption Clause.

In the present school law there is a clause that exempts pastors from holding the position of school trustee on any school board in the province. The new school act now before the legislature proposes to lift this exemption. Some of the Vancouver pastors have expressed themselves very much in favor of the amendment, but not so Rev. R. N. Powell. In a letter to the Vancouver World Mr. Powell gives his reasons, and most people will agree with him. He says in part:

"All things being equal, there could be no reason why clergymen should not be equally eligible for the office of day school trustee, but all things are certainly not equal. All things being equal, there is no reason why teachers, inspectors, educational superintendents should not be eligible, but all things are not equal. These gentlemen are personally interested and concerned, and, therefore, wisely excluded from holding such positions. Will someone say the clergymen are not personally interested? Many of them are not, but many of them are, vitally interested. What was it led the legislators who framed our educational policy to insert the clause in question? It was the persistent attempt on the part of certain sections of the church, through their own clergy to control the educational system for denominational purposes at the expense of public funds.

"No one will deny that it is still the avowed policy of at least two denominations of the church to control education; if evidence is asked, it is only necessary to cite the fight for separate schools in Canada, and the long and painful fight of the Nonconformists and the Free Church Council of England, on the question of the church control of the day schools.

"Serious as the matter might be in the cities, the real danger lies in the rural districts. Oftener than not, a clergyman is the dominant influence in the small communities, let him be eligible for school trustee and he easily controls the situation and then it depends upon himself whether that public school becomes a denominational feeder to his church or not. If he chance to be a clergyman of a denomination that claims it as part of her duty to control educational matters for 'the church' what follows? You have separate schools in the worst possible form.

"This is not a clergyman's question alone; this is a question for the people, and let the people speak. It is a vital question; it is a question that must be dealt with quickly and vigorously."
