LATE PERSONAL ITEMS.

Dr. Vankleek was up from Armstrong on Monday.

D. Cameron moved out on Thursday to his homestead, situated up the river.

W. H. Hill came in on Saturday to enjoy a day's shooting. He can't stay away!

The proprietors of the King Edward Hotel are erecting a commodious sample room at the rear of their house

Vance Young drove Miss Young and Miss Houghton up from Armstrong on Monday, calls being made upon several Enderby friends.

Local Orangemen celebrated last Saturday in royal fashion. Brethren were present from Mara and Armstrong and twenty-five sat down to supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Shannon left for their home in Boissevain, Man., the latter part of last week, after a pleasant visit to Enderby, the guests of Mr. and Mrs R. P. Bradley.

There are quite a number of singers in town, and we opine that a musical organization in Enderby would be a success from the start. Who will take the initiative?

A bazaar under the auspices of the Ladies' of St. George's Guild will be held in the Town Hall on the evening of November 15. There will be for sale at moderate prices many useful and fancy articles. Sales will commence at 7.30 p.m. Admission will be free.

J. Peaver, accompanied by his family came in on Monday from Campbell's Bay, Quebec. Mr. Peaver visited Enderby two or three years ago, and has returned to make his permanent residence here.

Chilliwack will have a waterworks system before the end of the year. Last week the bylaw to grant a franchise to the Elk Creek Co., was carried by a large majority The water will be got from Elk falls, some three miles from the town.

J. Dale came in last week from Saskatoon and expects to stay here for the winter. Saskatoon is a hustling business town which is growing fast. This has been a banner year for wheat, the yield being marvellous and the grade A1.

W. Tomkinson, who has a fine ranch on the Salmon Arm road, was in town last Friday. He has had a splendid crop all round this year. Carrots yielded thirty tons to the acre, while potatoes that weighed three pounds each were of no common occurrence. Mr. Tomkinson has slashed thirty acres this fall.

A meeting of the Farmers' Institute will be held in the Town Hall, Enderby on the evening of Tuesday next, the 14th. As will be seen by the announcement, Mr. Anderson, Deputy Minister for Agriculture, will give an address on the fruit question, and in the afternoon condnct and open-air demonstration in Mr. Lawes' orchard of budding and grafting. The evening meeting will also be addressed by Mr. Logan on the good and bad points of a dairy cow, and the conformation of beef animals. It is hoped that there will be a good attendance. Farmers have been slow to recognise the advantage of these meetings. The addresses are at all times interesting and instructive, given as they are by men of experience and knowledge. In light of the impetus that has been given to the fruit industry by the change in the Stepney ranch, Mr. Anderson's address should prove a timely one; and so should the demonstration in the afternoon. We confidently expect to see other orchards planted out next spring, and shall soon see Enderby as the centre of a number of thriving orchards. That fruit growing is no experiment can easily be judged by the radical change about to take place at the Stepney ranch.

Notice The Union Restaurant, including all necessary furniture fittings etc for running the business is offered for sale. Or the furniture, which comprises bedroom, diningroom and kitchen appointments, will be sold in separate lots. The whole must be cleared out by the 20th. First come, first served. P. Greyell, prop.

A New Road

D. Burnyeat of Vernon returned last week from a two weeks' survey in the Mabel Lake country.

His trip was for the purpose of locating a more feasible route for the road from Enderby to the lake. This will give unbounded satisfaction to the settlers along that road and also to Enderby business men. The stores have this year experienced a heavy loss of trade through the impassable nature of this road, supplies being taken in from Vernon. And moreover, the development of a rich section of country retarded. Many settlers have gone in, but are discouraged by the lack of a good road.

The proposed road starts from J. Cook's place, and keeps to the high land on the left of the present one all the way to the lake, thus avoiding the old route, which could never make a good road. We hear that some very heavy work will be necessary, and that its construction will be costly.

There is a moon at night. Dark roads no excuse for not attending the meeting of the Farmers's Institute.

Premier McBride is on a tour of the Interior, and it is reported that he will visit Enderby.

Married.—At St. James' church, Armstrong, on November 8, by Rev. F. V. Venables, Mr. C. W. Holliday to Miss Harding, both of Armstrong. The bride, who was given away by her brother, was attended by her sister as bridesmaid, while Mr. Cambie fulfilled the duties of best man.

An event that is being looked forward to with much eagerness is the bazaar which will be held by the Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church in Town Hall. The date fixed is December 15; which is just a nice time for the buying of Christmas presents. There will be for sale at the numerous booths many fancy and useful articles, dolls, toys and candy. Refreshments will be served and it is hoped to have musical selections at intervals. Admission free.

Ed. Harrap left on Monday for the coast where he will undergo a course of treatment for his eyes, which have been troubling him for some time past. His many friends wish him a speedy and complete recovery.

The Stepney Ranch will be to Enderby what the orchards of the Coldstream are to Vernon. Watch the increasing volume of our fruit shipments.

Sir Arthur Stepney is expected in town the end of the week, and it is eqpected make a lengthy stay here. Sir Arthur comes to superintend the stock sale to be held at his ranch on the 22nd inst., and also the selection of the location of the first orchard. Forty acres will be planted out immediately, which will be greatly augmented as the varieties suitable to the soil and location are known.

T. Blurton of Mara was in town on Saturday and was a pleasant caller at this office. He had just returned from a shooting trip into the Chilcotin country, acting as guide to a Capt. McNeil, who comes from Scotland to this country every year in quest of game. Good sport was obtained, and among the list were two mountain sheep or big horn, which are generally regarded as to shoot of British Columbian game.

F. Pyman and G. Bell visited Grand Prairie last week, returning on Saturday. The drive is a very pretty one and the scenery magnificent. The ranchers, some sixty in number, all seem happy and contented, and the farms look as though they are owned by prosperous and contented people. Among other organizations for winter amusements is a minstrel troupe, who are planning a visit to Enderby early in the new year. We are sorry to learn however that they have no school, and that no divine service has been held there for some time.

It would seem that the Provincial fruit exhibit for the Royal Horticultural show in London will never get there. It was shipped on the Allan Liner Bavarian, which now lies stranded on the rocks at the mouth of the St. Lawrence. She has on board the largest cargo of apples that has ever crossed the Atlantic. Her cargo is being taken out, and she is likely to remain there all winter, as the ship will soon be frozen in.

An important change took place this week in the personel of the pioneer store. H. W. Harvey has taken into partnership with him Mr. W. A. Dobson, who arrived from England a short while ago. It is the intention of the new firm, with the increased capital, to carry a larger and more comprehensive stock in all lines, to be in a better position to cater to the increasing demands of this district. Old and new customers alike will reap the benefit of this enterprising firm.

SALMON ARM NOTES

J. Mallory came in Saturday last from Carmen, Man., with a car of effects.

The report of the Fair Committee of the Farmers' Institute was presented at the meeting held last Saturday. The report was very favorable, and the finances shown to be in good condition The secretary was recommended to pay the prizemoney in full. A committee was appointed to organize an agricultural society and to look for a site for fair grounds.

Mrs. Wamsley of Clayton is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCallum.

Trade is good. Four cars shipped last. Demand for milk is good.

The MOCK PARLIAMENT

We are pleased to say that such an admirable scheme for education and entertainment such as the mock parliament is, has not been allowed to languish. Last night's meeting was a most enthusiastic one, and that its popularity is rising is evident by the number of new members who have taken a place on the benches. But there is plenty more room. The first bill introduced was one to amend the Municipal Act to give municipalities power to buy wild land and improve it; and then of course to sell it again. In introducing this measure, Premier Truesdale pointed out the many advantages that would accrue by this amendment. Finance Minister Bell and the member for Rambletown spoke also in its favor. The bill passed, the majority of the opposition being absent.

After recess, the proceedings grew animated, the opposition being then in full force. A bill was introduced to abolish the taking of circumstantial evidence. This was strongly opposed by the opposition, several speeches denouncing the measure were delivered. The bill failed to pass, and a motion of want of confidence in the government carried.

The program for next Thursday will consist of a debate interspersed with musical items. The subject will be: Resolved, that the warrior is of more service to his country than the statesman. Hearty invitation to all.

A REFUTATION

"Seeing ourselves as others see us" has often been put forward as an advantage of no mean value in these busy times. The picture presented, however, by this process of reflected vision is not always of a veracious character.

Much depends upon the seer.

For instance, the following is quoted exactly as it appears in the Armstrong Advance of October 27th, under the heading of "Editorial Notes."

"As the subject of city incorporation is discussed the results of incorporation in other places is often cited as arguments for or against. Naturally our nearest neighbors are first looked to for profit from their experiences. Enderby, from the statements of many of her citizens has not benefited by incorporation. Yet because Enderby should, possibly, not have made any improvement in their condition by incorporation, is not to say that other places are not to reap benefits by it. Take, for example, our southern neighbor, Kelowna. Incorporation has in her case proved beneficial in many ways, and we believe her citizens are very generally satisfied with the new order of things. Many other places might be cited that have made incorporation successful as well as some which would have been as well without it, so that the extent of its benefits appears to depend materially on the character and make up of the people and the conditions existing before the advent of incorporation."

In this case some little gleam of imagination is certainly required to recognise the City of Enderby—our cheerful and prosperous selves—in the vivid word picture so graphically portrayed by our gifted contemporary.

We, as a community are held up in the view of the whole Dominion as a melancholy monument of self-confessed failure. Nor does our discerning critic stop at the mere announcement of our parlous condition; with the eye of the seer and the precision of the anatomist, he sees, and at once cuts down to the cause and root of our supposed failure—it is "the character and make-up of the people!"

The reason of our contemporary's uncalled for and ungentlemanly attack on Enderby is hard to understand. We are aware, however, that some individuals whose early education has been neglected are apt to imagine that they can benefit themselves by disparaging other people. We suggest to the management of our contemporary that they should require their staff to join a correspondence school and take therefrom a course in etiquette.

They might at least when next tempted to slander an unoffending community before the whole civilized world pause to remember the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as ye would that they do unto you."

It appears to us that the great majority of the citizens of Enderby are well satisfied with the change which was made when they decided to undertake the responsibility of local self-government. We have made a point of ascertaning the facts of the matter and we find that in spite of the revenue available being only derivable from the taxation for a fractional part of the year and in the face of expenses amounting to over $400, together with the purchase of the necessary office furniture, which cost about $250, the city is spending on street improvements purchasing a nuisance ground, fire hose, etc., a sum of nearly $500. It may also be noted that the community have the satisfaction of controlling their own affairs, keeping the taxes in their own possession and expending them as they think fit.

We call upon our contemporary if it possesses a spark of gentlemanly feeling to apologise to this community and to withdraw its odious comparisons and slanderous reflections.

TOPICS OF THE WEEK.

We commend the suggestion of forming a progressive association to the thoughtful business men and residents generally of Enderby. Among many projects for drawing attention to Enderby is one we continually hear mooted—the many attractions the district around Enderby has to offer in the way of sport. With hotel accommodation unsurpassed, we look for Enderby to be in the very near future a centre for tourists But, our varied attractions must be made known.

A man with a slightly different cut to his whiskers or his coat creates as much excitement as a duckling in a henhouse; and for precisely the same reason. He, like the duckling, rouses the ancient tribal instinct against the different—the instinct that makes herd put to death the stranger, though of the same species; the instinct that makes a people look on a foreigner with suspicion, dislike and contempt. These old instincts of ours! How ancient they are! formed as many of them are when the ark floated on the waters of the flood. And how strong they are! They defy reason and commonsense education and experience. And how subtle they are! Influencing our daily life and often making us stumbling blocks in our own way and the way of others around us.

In the third volume of the census of 1901, which deals with the manufactories of the Dominion, we learn a few facts regarding our productive enterprises. It covers 14,650 establishments in the Dominion representing 269 classes of industries. The value of capital employed is given as $446,916,487, of which $209,378,638 represents lands, buildings and plant, and $237,537,849 working capital. In the census year 344,035 person were employed, their salaries and wages amounting to $113,249,390. The cost of material used in manufacturing was $266,527,858, and miscellaneous expenses $24,688,837, making a total of $404,463,045. The value of products was $481,053,375. As compared with 1891 for works employing five hands and over, the census of 1901 shows a gain of 585 factories, 72,002 employees, $34,015,039 earnings and $112,356,362 in value of products. The highest rate of wages is in British Columbia.

City Fathers

The Bylaw Relating to Dogs and the Taxing Thereof. Long List of Accounts.

Minutes of a meeting of the Corporation of the City of Enderby held in the court house on November 1, 1905

Present, Geo. Bell, mayor, and Aldermen Evans, Kenny, Sharp and Smith.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

The question of amending the public morals bylaw was again postponed.

Bylaw No. 9 (dogs). In accordance with notice given at the previous meeting, Alderman Evans introduced a bylaw relating to dogs, as follows:

A bylaw relating to dogs and the taxing thereof.

1 A tax of two dollars shall be paid annually for each dog within the City of Enderby by the owner, harborer or keeper thereof to the City Clerk at his office on or before the 15th day of January in each year, or at any subsequent time during the year at which any person shall commence to keep a dog; and in respect of this tax a fractional part of a year shall be counted as a year; and upon the said owner, harborer or keeper thereof neglecting or refusing to pay the tax herein imposed, he shall be liable to summary conviction before the Mayor, Police Magistrate or any two Justices of the Peace to a penalty not exceeding Five Dollars.

2 The harborer, owner or keeper of a dog in the city shall cause such dog to wear a leather or metal collar to which shall be attached a metal tag, provided free of charge by the city for that purpose, indicating in figures the number corresponding to the number under which such dog is registered, and the year for which such tax has been paid.

3 No person shall be liable for the payment of a tax on any dog under the age of six months.

4 Every fierce, malicious or dangerous dog, known to be such by the owner, harborer or keeper thereof, shall be kept muzzled and chained and not be allowed to go at large.

5 If any dog shall unprovoked bite any person, on complaint made before the Mayor, Police Magistrate or any two Justices of the Peace, on oath, the owner, harborer or keeper of such dog shall destroy same or remove it from the city under a penalty of Ten Dollars.

6 The owner, harborer or keeper of a bitch shall not suffer the same to be at large during the season of her being on heat; and any person failing or neglecting to comply with the requirements of this section shall, upon conviction before the Mayor, Police Magistrate or any two Justices of the Peace, be liable to a penalty of not less than twenty-five dollars.

7 In the case of any person being convicted before the Mayor, Police Magistrate or any two Justices of the Peace under sections one, five and six hereof, and failing to pay the penalty imposed together with costs, or costs only, it shall be lawful for the said Mayor, Police Magistrate or Justices, or any two or more of them to levy the said penalty and costs, or costs only, by distress and sale of the offenders goods and chattels, and in case of no sufficient distress to satisfy the said penalty and costs, or costs only, it shall be lawful for the Mayor, Police Magistrate or Justices convicting as aforesaid to commit the offender to the common gaol or lockup house for a period not exceeding thirty days, unless the said penalty and costs be sooner paid.

Alderman Evans gave notice that at the next meeting of the council he would move that bylaw No. 9 be rescinded, and the foregoing substituted therefore.

Alderman Smith drew attention to the urgent necessity of constructing a crossing at the point where the railway track intersects Mill street. Some discussion followed, in the course of which it was pointed out that the railway company's fence had been erected on the street.

The clerk was directed to write to the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. pointing out the great inconvenience to which the public are subjected through lack of a crossing at this point, and suggesting that they should set back the fence, extend the station platform to the corner of Mill street, and make a plank crossing over the track.

No decision was arrived at regarding the suggestion that the bylaws be revised.

The following report of the finance committee was adopted and accounts ordered to be paid:

H. McDonald, principal public school	$70.00
Miss Beattie, assist.,	50.00
G. Rosoman, clerk,	16.66
B. Gardom, constable	15.00

The clerk was instructed to write to the Education Department to ascertain when the council may expect to receive the amount of the school grant.

The council donated $10 to Constable Gordom towards the cost of erecting a wood shed.

On the chairman of the works committee reporting that no line had been cut through the bush to mark a portion of the western boundary of the city, the clerk was instructed to write to Mr. Billings and enquire what instructions he gave Mr. Burnyeat when arranging for the making of the survey.

Trading Stamps Illegal

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—J. G. Watson, 1st vice-president, and J. A. Beaudry, secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, interviewed the premier yesterday to learn definitely when the law abolishing trading stamps takes effect.

They were informed that the statute of last session comes into force today, but that the enforcement is a provincial matter, criminal justice being a subject in which the local governments have exclusive jurisdiction.

EVENING.

Across the sky, at eventide
Was drawn a rosy curtain wide,
All softly gathered to the West,
Where soon the sun would sink to rest.
The shadows lengthened, one by one,
And lower dipped the setting sun
Till, wrapped in folds of brilliant red,
He sank to rest upon his bed.

The rosy color died away,
And faded with the closing day;
The little birdies ceased to sing,
And made a gentle twittering
As flying home to roost and rest,
They sought the shelter of the nest,
And over hill, and vale and dell,
The peace of evening softly fell!

The flowers gently folded up
Their petals in a pretty cup;
The nodding daisies fell asleep,
And little stars began to peep.
Still fainter grew the western light
Till twilight melted into night,
And Nature, as the moon arose,
Called softly for a sweet repose.

"Oh, hush!" the silver moonbeams said;
Then, peeping in upon each bed
Where lay a little children form,
All flushed with sleep and rosy warm,
They whispered, as with kiss o light,
They touched the tumbled curls: "Good night!
Dream sweet's, little children dear;
Rest on, sleep on! The Night is here!"
—Constance M. Lowe, in Cassell's Little Folks.

A QUEST.

Long since, there lived a man reputed wise
(Some better things were said of him, some worse),
Who made his life a tireless quest to know
The way and Wherefore of the universe.

He wandered through solutions intricate,
And old and new philosophers he read;
This one converted, but another spake,
And made his faith apostasy instead.

His life was girt with vain analysis,
And subtle disputations held in thrall
His soul, that wildly dreamed to overleap
The mystery life offers to us all.

But when Age left him twisted, gray and worn
He felt the barren purpose of his quest.
And longed to quite forget his mocking doubts
And live his last, few, trembling days at rest.

But Death had watched him with a cynic's eye—
And marked his shuffling feet, his sight grow dim
And one still evening stood befre his chair,
And smiled, half kindly, as he beckoned him.

Those passionate persons who carry their hearts in their mouths are rather to be pitied than feared. Their threatenings serve no other purpose than to forearm him that is threatened.—Fuller.

About Hogs

Prime heavy hogs include hogs between the weights of three hundred and five hundred pounds that are in prime condition. Years ago hogs of this type were numerous on the market, but fortunately this kind is being replaced by one of lighter weight, the butcher hog, weighing from one hundred and eighty to three hundred and fifty pounds.

When we stop to consider that a hog when between six and seven months old will make a gain of fifty pounds in one month, and that during the last stages of feeding necessary to produce a prime, heavy hog it requires from three to six months to produce a gain of fifty pounds in live weight, it is apparent that the most popular hog on the market can be produced with more profit than could the hog that was most popular a few years ago. A hog that has been fed continuously from the time he was farrowed up until he weighs three hundred pounds and is about nine months old, cannot be fed profitably beyond that stage. Often he can he sold with more profit at a lighter weight and a younger age than above mentioned, says Farm and Fireside.

The market at the present time also discriminates more severely against the hog that is overdone in condition. The hog that is in greatest demand is one that is smooth, symmetrical, compact, end evenly covered with a firm layer of flesh which has a large proportion of lean meat and not an excess of fat. This naturally suggests the question of bacon hogs.

There are two kinds of bacon hogs—the English bacon hog and the bacon hog of the United States. The English bacon hog of America is produced almost exclusively in Canada, and the product is sold principally in foreign markets. The bacon hog of the United States is of the fat, or lard, hog tpye, and is an intermediary between the fat, or lard, hog and the English bacon hog.

It has frequently been advocated that since Canada is so successfully producing the English bacon hog for the English market that the United States could also produce this kind of hog with equal success. The demand, however, for this kind is limited; at least, so is claimed by the hog raisers across the line, and say that while the tendency of the market at the present time is towards a lighter and leaner animal, the change must be made gradually and in harmony with the demands of the market

The market demand for hogs is not uniform from season to season. In the winter there is a great demand for heavy hogs, while in the summer the market demand a lighter hog. The winter season is the packing season, and the hog best adspted to this service is the heavy hog; therefore it is but natural that this kind of hog should be demanded by the market at this season of the year. The hogs slaughtered during the summer months are used principally for the fresh meat trade, and the lighter hogs are best adapted to this purpose.

The supply of hogs on a market at the different seasons of the year does not conform to the demand. Most pigs are farrowed in the spring. By the time winter sets in many of them are ready to go to market in a finished condition, and many more are sent in unfinished for various reasons, such as a lack of feed, lack of feed, lack of thrift, and the need of money to meet pressing obligations The result is that light hogs and pigs are forced upon the market in undue proportion during the fall and winter. How is it with the heavy hog? Pigs that were farrowed in the spring have not as yet had time to develop into heavy hogs, and fall pigs of the previous year which have not already been sold are not numerous enough to fill the gap. This causes a scarcity of heavy hogs in the late fall and early winter. In summer the conditions are reversed, giving more heavy hogs and fewer light ones. The hog that is sent to market in the summer usually is one that was farrowed in the spring or the fall of the preceding year and has developed into a heavy hog. Light hogs are scarce at this ime, because most of the pigs are farrowed in the spring. These facts usually work together to make a narrow range in the prices between heavy and light hogs during the summer months and a wider range during the winter months.

This variation in the supply of hogs from the normal demand also has a tendency to lower prices. If the hogs of a certain class on the market are not sufficient to supply the demand for that class of hogs, the demand must necessarily be filled by hogs of another class. These will not command the price that they would if they were sold within their own class, provided the different classes sell on the same level, nor would they bring as much as would the hogs whose places they are to take. It lowers the price because the supply of hogs furnished is of a different character than is demanded by the trade. This has a depressing influence on the market, and the total receipts for hogs sold partly outside their classes are less than they would be if sold entirely within their classes.

Buttermilk is a valuable feed for hogs when fed with some kind of ground grain such as wheat middlings, shorts or ground oats. A mixture of those grains made into thin slop with buttermilk and fed several times a day gives excellent results when fed growing hogs. For pigs just weaned I prefer sweet skim milk and a mixture of ground grains. I never give buttermilk alone unless we are feeding whole grain, then it is fep in limited quantities directly after each meal. When given alone the hogs partake too greedily of it and indigestion may result.—Pacific Homestead.

Doings in Enderby

F. Billings was a passenger on Monday's train en route for main line points.

Ex-M.P. Gilmour of Vancouver passed down the valley on Monday.

The approach to the sidewalk at the corner of Cliff and Maud streets has now been nicely graded, and is a great improvement.

Ray Hancock left for the coast on Friday where he will attend business college at Vancouver.

J. F. Smith of the Vernon News was up on Friday on business in connection with their Okanagan write-up.

Mr. and Mrs. Crane and Miss Edwards were visitors to Armstrong on Monday, where they attended the travelling dairy school. The attendance was fair, and instruction was found to be useful and interesting, especially to beginners.

Enderby is feeling the increased demand in the Orient for Canadian flour. The local mill is shipping a consignment this week, and regular shipments are now expected. It is also gratifying to note that these shipments are increasing in volume.

Before these notes are in print the Columbia Flouring Mill will have thrown off its allegiance to Rockefeller and will light their buildings with electricity. For the past few days workmen belonging to the Hinton Electrical Co. have been busy installing the plant. Besides being safer, more convenient and of greater illuminating power, the save in running expenses will be no small item.

A message from Geneva, Switzerland states that the village of Zofingen, was decorated one day with flags in honor of a hen which had laid its thousandth egg. Five adjacent villages sent deputations, accompanied by band which serenaded the industrious hen. Oh! hens of Enderby, would that ye seek-ed to do likewise. Will not an enterprising man get a setting of eggs.

There was a good muster at the inaugural shoot of the Enderby Gun Club on Saturday afternoon last. Though the score was not gratifying, the members are very enthusiastic, and look for keen competition in the near future. A. E. Hale was top scorer with 13 out of 20.

In a letter from Mr. H. M. Walker to H. Fraser this week, we were shocked to learn of the death of Mr. Walker's father, which occurred at Los Angeles, Cal., two weeks ago. In tendering Mr. Walker our sincerest and heartfelt sympathies, we feel sure that we are but echoing the sentiments of the whole community in this, "Harry's" sad loss.

A man in a neighboring town who secured his wife through a matrimonial agency, is trying to secure a divorce. Just another instance of finding that mail order bargains are not just as represented and that a much better grade of the same article can be obtained at home. Good enough for him; he ought to patronize home industry. The home grown article is usually the best.

J. W. Callum was over from Salmon Arm on Monday.

Rev. D. Campbell was a passenger on Monday's train on his way to attend a meeting of the Presbytery at Revelstoke.

In case some of readers may be mislead by a mechanical error, which occurred in the game laws synopsis published two weeks ago, that the close season for beaver is for six years from October, 1905, and not 1906.

Many complimentary remarks are overheard about the new hotel. Commercial men are now slow to note a good house, and the word is soon passed along. With such a nicely appointed house, Messrs. Bell & Murphy cannot fail to attract tourists to this district, where opportunities for sport with rod and gun are unexcelled.

Rev. Goro Kaburagi, who visited Enderby last week, and who gave such interesting addresses, is a most interesting and well informed Japanese gentleman. When in Vancouver he is the proprietor and editor of the Canadian News, daily paper published in Japanese, which has a large circulation throughout Canada. This was Mr. Kaburagi's first visit to the valley, and was delighted with our scenery and beautiful fall weather. He left for Vernon on Saturday.

The members of St. James' Anglican church at Armstrong have raised the necessary funds for the support of a resident vicar there. Archdeacon Beer, in congratulating them, has promised to send a minister as soon as possible. In thus relieving Mr. Verables of nearly half of his unwieldy parish, which requires, as the Advertiser aptly puts it, a man of more trojian qualities than even a Roosevelt, Enderby is practically called upon to support a resident vicar.

To See It is to Want It.

Every person who sees the picture, Queen Alexander, Her Grandchildren and Dogs, at once exclaims, Where can I get a copy? Isn't it a Beauty! etc., etc. It certainly is a beauty, far ahead of anything we have yet seen in the premium picture line, and the publishers of the Family Herald & Weekly Star of Montreal deserve credit for it. The few copies already received in this section are greatly admired. It is a decided change from pictures of former years. It goes we understand absolutely free to all who pay one dollar for a year's subscription to the Family Herald & Weekly Star. The paper and picture at that price is a marvel of cheapness. A picture dealer would easily ask two dollars for the picture alone.

Bring your old air-tight heaters to F. Fulton to be relined. Will be as good as a new stove at a third the cost

There may be, no doubt there are, features about other parts of the Okanagan that will equal anything we have about Enderby in the way of nature's provisions for home-life, but certainly none can excell us. Climatic conditions are perfect; and for health and beauty, Enderby's location is unsurpassed. No cold, damp weather, or hot sultry days.
