Scraps from "Fun"

LITERARY MEM.—We see the following book advertised:—"Money: a Popular Exposition in Rough Notes. With Remarks on Stewardship and Systematic Beneficence, by the Rev. Thomas Binney." We should have thought the most popular exposition of money would be in bank notes. Possibly, however, there are people to be found who will sing the old song, "I'd rather have a Binney than a one-pound not."

A LEGAL POINT.—A correspondent wishes to know whether an action for divorce on the ground of desertion will lie against a "ship's husband" for pitching her over.

A DERBY NOTE.—Although the Exeter Hall people set their faces against races—at least any races that are not colored—it is the merest hypocrisy. Anyone who attends the opening of one of their meetings will see at once they have no objection to a preliminary "canter."

THE CHIGNON.—The absurd habit young ladies have now-a-days of padding the backs of their heads with horsehair, like sofa-cushions, may be briefly summed up as "stuff and nonsense."

A HINT FOR A HARISTOCRAT.—It is suggested that as the second title of the Marquisate of Downshire is the Earldom of Hillsborough the first title should be Up and Downshire.

CINQUE-ING YOUR CAPITAL.—Putting it in the Five per Cents.

BIRDS OF A FEATHER.—In the Royal Academy catalogue this year, under No. 163 our readers will be startled to learn that they will find the confession of a murder, inquiries for the perpetrator of which have been made from the earliest ages. Here it is: "163. Who killed Cock Robin?....S. Bird." The S., of course, stands for sparrow.

A JOKE THAT IS RAELY GOOD.—What is the difference between the Hebrew idea of a slave and the modern notion of a wash-hand stand? The former is stated to be "a hewer of wood and drawer of water," while the latter is "a drawer of wood and an ewer of water."

THE OWL'S VERDICT.

This is our sentence, final and abiding—
"Let Italy gain Venetia,
Let Austria take Silesia,
And let Prussia obtain—a good hiding."

Why are Lord Robert Montague's speeches like lines? Because they are length without breadth.

Disunion in the Opposition—We understand that the Conservatives are not, as is supposed, at sixes and sevens. They are at sevens and eights as to reform.

Astronomy—Lord Amberley took his seat on Monday, on which occasion Lord Russell was noticed taking an observation of the sun.

Why is the War-office not improved by the recent change?—Because it is a De Grey worse, and has got a Duffer-in.

Municipal

By-Law to Regulate the Sanitary Condition of the City.

BY-LAW.

We, the Mayor and Councillors in Council convened, by virtue of the power and authority vested in us by An Act to Incorporate the City of Victoria, passed the second day of August, A.D. 1862, in the Twenty-sixth year of the reign of Her Most Gracious Majesty Queen Victoria, entituled, "The Victoria Incorporation Act, 1862," hereby enact as follows:—

I. No person or persons occupying any Messuage, Shop, Building or other Erection, or any Land or other Premises within the city, or if there shall be no occupier thereof, no owner or owners of any Messuage, Shop, Building or other Erection, or any Land or other Premises within the City, shall have or permit or suffer to be in or on his, her or their Messuage, Shop, Building or Erection, or any Land or other Premises as aforesaid, any ditch, gutter, drain, privy or ash-pit emitting noxious or offensive effluvium or smell, or constructed so as to be a nuisance to or injurious to the health of any person or persons, or any swine kept so as to be a nuisance or offensive by reason of the stench thereof, or any dung, manure, refuse, offal, ashes, filth, or other matter or thing emitting noxious or offensive effluvium or smell, or any animal, vegetable or mineral matter or thing alone or together with other matters or things in a state of fermentation, putrefaction, decomposition or decay, or emitting noxious or offensive effluvium or smell, or permit or suffer any Messuage, Dwelling House, Shop, Erection or Building whatsoever within the said City to be in a filthy state or infected with any kind of vermin or dirt or emitting noxious or offensive effluvium or smell; Provided, however, that no per or. or persons shall be liable to any penalty for the infraction of this By-law until he, she or they shall have received notice from the Mayor and Council in manner hereinafter mentioned, and until he, she or they shall have neglected by the space or time therein mentioned to abate or remove the offensive matter or thing noticed in such notice and therein complained of, or to do the act, matter or thing required of him, her or them by such notice within the space of time limited by such notice.

And whereas it is expedient for the good government of the City that a Sanitary Commission be appointed, and to enable such Commission to inspect, order the removal and report all nuisances within the said City of Victoria;

Therefore be it enacted by the Mayor and Councillors of the City of Victoria, with the consent of His Excellency the Governor on Her Majesty's behalf:

II. From and after the passage of this By-law the Mayor and City Councillors may from time to time nominate three members of the City Council to act as a Sanitary Commission for the purpose of inspecting, ordering the removal and reporting all nuisances and other matters, the continuance of which may be deleterious to the public health.

III. The Commission shall perform their services gratuitously.

IV. The Commission shall have power to enter any Messuage, Dwelling House, Shop, Building or other Erection or Land or other premises within the City, and whether or not the same be occupied or the curtilage of any of the same, and inspect the condition of the same between the hours of eight in the morning and eight in the evening.

V. No person or persons shall permit, after due notice in that behalf given, any animal or vegetable matter in a decomposed or putrifying condition to remain on the premises occupied or owned by him or them.

VI. The Commission on behalf of the Mayor and Council may notify any person or persons on or occupying any messuage, dwelling house, shop, building, or other erection, or the curtilage of any of the same or other land or premises within the city, or if the same be unoccupied, then the owner of any such messuage, dwelling house, shop, buiding or other erection, or the curtilage of any of the same or other land or premises within the city on which any matter or thing may be done, permitted, or suffered, contrary to the intention of this by-law (according to the form of schedule A annexed) to remove such nuisance as before mentioned, or to close up, purify, cover, or cleanse any well, cesspool, drain, privy, ditch, or gutter, or otherwise to abate or remove the matter or thing noticed in such notice as in their judgment shall seem meet by giving notice in writing, (as per schedule aforesaid) signed by two or more of the Commission on behalf of the Mayor and Council, specifying the act to be done and the time in which the same is required to be done, such notice may be given to the occupier or owner of such messuage, dwelling house, shop, building, or other erection, or the curtilage of any of the same or of the land or premises in the city, or by leaving the same at his, her, or their last known place of abode, or by fixing the same or a copy thereof on some conspicuous part of the premises.

VII. In the event of any Messuage, Shop, Building or other erection, or any land or other premises within the City being unoccupied and the owner or owners thereof neglecting or refusing to abate or remove any matter, or thing done, permitted or suffered, contrary to the requirements of this Bye-Law, either absolutely or in the terms of any such notice as aforesaid, duly served as aforesaid, within the time in that behalf specified, it shall be lawful for two or more of the Commission, on behalf of the Mayor and Council, or their servants or agents in that behalf, to do the act or acts, matters or things, required to be done or performed by such notice at the costs and charges of the owner or owners of such Messuage, Shop, Building or other erection or any land or other premises, the said costs and charges to be recoverable by action as work and labor done and money paid by them for the use of such owner or owners as if done at his, her or their actual request, or in such other form as is proper in law.

SUNDAY EDITION.

SUNDAY MORNING, JULY 22, 1866.

A CHAPTER ON COAL.

Above all the subjects that can be discussed in a public journal, we believe the most important to the people of Vancouver Island is the subject of coal. If we are ever to occupy a prominent position among the countries of the earth, it will be, as far as we can judge at the present time, solely owing to our coal measures. We believe our population generally underrate the staple of the colony—they would much rather hear of two bits to the pan being struck at Leech river than the discovery of any number of coal seams; and yet we find the assertion repeated over and over again by the very best authorities that England owes more of her greatness to her coal mines than to any other thing. In a recent scientific article in the London Review we are indeed told that England's future is one of great anxiety, through the certain extinction of her coal power, and the most elaborate and carefully prepared arguments are brought forward to sustain the writer's position. "The question of the duration of England's coal fields, "it is asserted, "is gravely discussed at the present time by persons who have studied the geology of Great Britain and have watched the enormous drain upon its collieries in late years." "Of course," continues the writer, "complete and absolute exhaustion of our coal mines must come—it is only a matter of time. Such an obvious proposition as this might seem superfluous, but it may not be so, for only a few years since it is reported that the foremost statesman of the day believed in the growth or reproduction of coal! Coal once gone is gone forever, so far as we are concerned. The carbonic acid gas which it produces in combustion may serve as food for plants in this and other parts of the world, and so its carbon, by the agency of some force, may again be deposited in a form available for fuel. But notwithstanding what Lyell may propound, it is certain no flora now exists in any part of the world, either in kind or luxuriance of growth, like that which formed the coal of the carboniferous system." The theory, or rather the dream, that some new heat giving product will in time be found that will replace coal, is treated with almost ridicule by the writer. Steam navigation, railway travelling and the telegraph are brought forward as instanciug the inventive faculty of men, but it is shown that these achievements consist not in the discovery of any new force but simply in the novel application of forces previously known. A quotation on the matter from Mr. Jevons' treatise on the "coal question" may not be uninteresting or uninstructive to many of our readers. "Coal," he says has all the characteristics which entitle it to be considered the best nutural source of motive power. It is like a spring, wound up during geological ages for us to let down. Just as in alluvial deposits of gold-dust we enjoy the labor of the natural forces which for ages were breaking down the quartz veins and washing out the gold ready for us, so in our seams we have peculiar stores of force collected from the sunbeams for us. Coal contains light and heat, bottled up in the earth, as Stephenson said, for tens of thousands of years, and now again brought forth and made to work for human purposes. The amount of power contained in coal is almost incredible. In burning a single pound of coal, there is force developed equivalent to that of 11,422,000 pounds falling one foot, and the actual useful force got from each pound of coal in a good steam engine is that of 1,000,000 lbs. falling through a foot; that is to say, there is spring enough in coal to raise a million times its own weight a foot high. Or again, suppose a farmer to despatch a horse and cart to bring a ton of coals to work a portable engine, occupying four hours on the way, the power brought in the coal is 2800 times the power expended in bringing it; and the amount of useful force actually got from it will probably exceed by 100 times or more that of the horse as employed in the cart. In coal we pre-eminently have, as the partner of Watt said, 'what all the world wants,—Power.' All things considered, it is not reasonable to suppose or expect that the power of coal will ever be superseded by anything better. It is naturally the best source of power, as air and water and gold and iron are, each for its purposes, the most useful of substances, and such as will never be superseded."

Coal mining on Vancouver Island has made so far but little progress; but when we shall have more capital and more skill, this complaint will not obtrude itself. There are sufficient coal indications already, to justify the hope that with a wise course of legislation we will become the great manufacturing country of the Pacific As the world progresses—as steam-power increases—the demand for coal will grow day by day, while in most places the supply will scarcely keep pace with the demand. Coal producing countries, therefore, will become more and more sought after by the manufacturers and the capitalists, and Vancouver Island will not be overlooked in the general search. Much, however, depends upon ourselves whether this desirable state of things comes soon or late. When we look at the anxiety evinced by men of wealth in England to get hold of coal-bearing land—when we see it gravely proposed in the principal magazines that England in her next imbroglio with China should seize upon a large tract of coal country contiguous to Pekin—it shows clearly enough that it is to our mismanagement or want of knowledge that the colony has not to-day a dozen coal mines in full blast.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY—Our New Westminster contemporary the Columbian is rather severe upon us for making a blunder in a figure of speech in relation to Mr. Cardwell and the union question. We are accused of talking about "Mr. Cardwell's little nursling" having a chance of being yet "weaned and baptized," and the Columbian corrects us by saying that these colonies were "weaned and baptized long ago"—that the "complaint in fact is that they were prematurely weaned, and cruelly cast upon the cold charity of strangers, yet still hampered by the Downing street red-tape"—all of which is very good, but he has "struck the wrong man." We never made use of the language attributed to us. Our contemporary has not unnaturally got confused over the names of the Colonist-Chronicle, in whose columns he will find the passage to which he takes exception. We put him right in this particular, as we have no desire to rob our Victorian contemporary of his legitimate laurels.

LETTER FROM BIG BEND.—We have been favored by a Victorian with the following extracts from a letter received by him from a friend on McCulloch's Creek:

McCULLOCH'S CREEK, June 25.

DEAR SIR,—I arrived here a short time ago and commenced business, and have got into a fine little provision trade. Affairs, however, are not looking very well, the mines turning out the reverse of what was represented, so far as shallow diggings are concerned. Some twelve or fourteen claims perhaps, are making from half-an-ounce to an ounce per day to the hand, but those reported as taking it out big last fall are still sinking, and have not yet struck the bed-rock. On the chances of the gold being found there depends the value of the mines. The miners themselves, however, are all very confident that in a week or two we shall have some news worth sending to Victoria. On French Creek affairs are somewhat similar, but much more extensive. Provisions may be quoted—Flour, 40c; bacon, $1; beans, 75c; tea, $2 25; sugar, $1; coffee, $1 50; tobacco, $4; and other things in proportion.

THE SHUSWAP SILVER MINES.—Mr. Carter, the gentleman sent up from Portland to inspect and report upon the Shuswap or Cherry Creek silver ledge, arrived here from New Westminster yesterday morning in a canoe. He is of opinion that the probabilities are in favor of a very rich strike of silver ore in that region, the indications being remarkably favorable. The company now at work have not yet found a well-defined ledge, but should the seam they are opening lead to a ledge, they will have a good thing. Mr. Carter speaks in high terms of the beautiful prairie country round Okanagan, and especially of the mineral indications of the whole country, which he pronounces magnificent. He returned to Portland via Puget Sound yesterday by special boat.

SEA BATHING—Our friend John Reid, of the Ferry, has supplied a desideratum long wanted in Victoria. His new floating bath-house, anchored just round Foundry Point, affords an easy and cheap opportunity of obtaining that luxury of which so few of our townspeople avail themselves—a sea-bath. The bath-house is neatly and comfortably fitted up, and ample facilities are afforded to ladies who wish to take a dip. The institution should be well patronised.

STATE OF THE BRIDGES.—Teamsters complain, and, with good reason, of the state of the bridges on the Esquimalt road. The approach to Rock Bay bridge from the town is in a very dangerous state, and the Esquimalt end of the second bridge is still worse. Cannot our paternal Government do something for this main thoroughfare?

FROM THE NORTH COAST—The steamer Sir Jas. Douglas arrived down yesterday at 5:30 p. m., bringing 12 or 15 passengers and a quantity of produce. All was quiet and prosperous at Comox and Cowichan. At Nanaimo the miners had given a grand pic-nic, free to all comers, which was a great success.

SPECIAL CANOE.—Messrs. David, Carter, Dr. Evans, and several other gentlemen arrived from New Westminster by special canoe yesterday morning, it being understood when they left that the Alexandra would not come down till Tuesday morning.

CHURCH PARADE.—Divine service will be held at the Camp this afternoon at 3 o'clock by the Chaplain, Rev. Thos. Somerville. We are requested to state that space will be allotted within the encampment for those of the public who wish to be present.

GEN. HALLECK—A special telegram received here last night states that Gen. Halleck and staff had left Olympia yesterday for Portland. They will consequently not visit Victoria as expected.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.—A call of the House has been issued by the hon. Speaker for Monday at 1 p.m. Highly important business will be laid before the members.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The steamer Alexandra arrived down yesterday at 2:30 p.m., with 20 passengers and a small river and treasure express. She also brought about 30 tons of freight for the Western Union Telegraph Company, and a large number of fresh salmon, for the latter of which there was a rush of eager customers.

We have the Columbian of Wednesday and Saturday last, from which we extract the following:

MOVEMENTS OF GOVERNOR SEYMOUR.—We have been permitted to make the following extract from a private letter dated London, May 18th, 1866: "Your Governor and his wife were at the Court and Levee last week, and at the Countess of W———'s party on Saturday. We hear nothing of his return to you; but as all of the name of Seymour are considered great favorites with the highest in the land, I dare say he will have the power to return and the preference, should British Columbia and Vancouver Island be made into one Government."

VOLUNTEER ARTILLERY CORPS—The following are the officers of this company: Mr. Holmes, Captain; Mr. David McCulloch, senior Lieutenant; Honble. H. P. P. Crease, junior Lieutenant; Mr. David McCullock, Musketry Instructor to the corps.

SALMON—The season for catching this fish has now set in, large quantities being taken out of the Fraser during the past week at the rapids above Yale. The quantity caught during the present run is not less than from 1500 to 2000 in 24 hours, the principal part of which are salted, not many being sold fresh.

ENTERPRISE—We learn that Mr. H. Woodcock went up on the Lillooet yesterday for the purpose of making arrangements to have a grist mill erected at Soda Creek.

CHEESE—This valuable commodity is now manufactured of excellent quality and in large quantity on Reece & Co.'s farm at Chilliwhack, with which is connected an extensive dairy.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS for week ending Saturday, July 14th.—Duties, $4,529 76; harbor dues, $194 06; head money, $40; tonnage dues, $395 17; inland navigation licenses, $ 00; fees, $1. Total, $5,159 99. Number of passengers, 40.

FROM KOOTENAY.

Mr. Weil, of this city, arrived from Kootenay direct yesterday afternoon, having left Wild Horse Creek on June 26th. He intended to come through by Fort Shepherd and thence take the steamer Forty-Nine up the Columbia; when he reached Court river, however, about 100 miles from Wild Horse, he was prevented from proceeding further by high water. The trail so far was very good, but from that point to Shepherd it was quite impassable for animals, owing to the inundation of Kootenay lake and to the fallen timber. The road is so bad that no train from the Fraser can possibly go through before the fall. Dewdney's trail Mr. Weil pronounces to be a perfect humbug; for seven miles along Kootenay lake bottom animals would be mired every foot of the way, even in the fall, unless the road is corduroyed. Mr. Weil was therefore obliged to go round by Spokane and Colville, which was a roundabout of nearly 300 miles. The money expended by the British Columbian Government on that trail is thrown away unless they corduroy the lake bottom and build bridges.

There were between 700 and 800 men on Wild Horse Creek, including 300 Chinamen, when our informant left. The Chinamen own about two-thirds of all the claims. The white men's claims will be mostly worked out by fall. It is the general opinion of old miners, however, there must be rich and extensive diggings in the vicinity of Wild Horse Creek. One company of prospectors started for Finlay Creek, 60 miles from Wild Horse. This creek was discovered before Wild Horse, but was deserted for the richer diggings of the latter. Good prospects have been obtained on Finlay Creek.

The Columbia Shaft Co., just below the canon on Wild Horse Creek had commenced work, and had splendid machinery, but were waiting for canvass from Walla Walla, to rig a pump which will throw 400 gallons a minute. They are determined to see bed-rock before they stop, having obtained surface diggings at the mouth of the shaft, paying $8 to $10 to the hand. The Nip-and-Tuck Co. are hydraulicing, and had got very good prospects. They were bringing in a ditch from Boulder Creek which will cost $10,000 to $15,000. This is the spot where Siwash Macdonald sunk a shaft last year and got a $20 nugget.

The Perseverance Tunnel Co., which sold out to Mr. R. N. Pendall, are sending down for hydraulic apparatus. If these turn out well there will be miles of rich hydraulic diggings.

The country for one hundred miles round Wild Horse Creek yields the color everywhere, but Fraser River trade will not be benefited in the least, no matter how rich diggings are struck, unless a good road to Kootenay is opened at once. The trains, four in number, loaded with provisions, came in from Walla Walla on the 1st of May, while from Fraser River trains cannot cross over Kootenay Lake Mountains before July 15th, even if the road is in good order.

On his way down Mr. Weil met many Big Bend miners on their way to Kootenay and Blacktoot. Many who went to Blackfoot last fall avowed their intention, if they struck nothing there, to cross to Fort Benton, take the Missouri river down to St. Louis, and never show face on the Pacific coast again.

Judge Gaggin arrived on Wild Horse Creek on the 7th June, and tried a great many cases, amongst which was that of a colored man, charged with stealing goods, who was sent up to the Assizes to be held at Big Bend, as Judge Begbie was not expected at Wild Horse Creek this year.

During Mr. Weil's stay at Colville he learnt that the steamer Forty-Nine had been gone up twelve days and nothing heard of her. It was thought that she could not ascend the rapids, as the Columbia was higher than ever known before. He also learnt that a large firm at Colville, D. N. Ferguson & Co., had $15,000 in dust on hand at their stores on French and Avalanche creeks to send down by the Forty-Nine. They had sent up 40 tons of goods by the last trip. Judge O'Reilly was expected down by the steamer en route for Wild Horse creek.

The trail from Rock creek to Hope was in excellent condition. Mr. Allison, of Similkameen, deserves great credit for keeping this part of the road in such good repair.

Seymour Correspondence.

SEYMOUR, B. C., 11th July, 1866.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TELEGRAPH,—Perhaps a few lines for your new paper may be acceptable, although there is but little news to send you. The violent storm we had ten days back, did an immense deal of mischief, washing away dams, sluices, wheels, &c., and filling up the shafts and claims; while the hot weather melting the snow at the head of the creeks, is sending them down "booming" and the unfortunate miners can only sit down and look on at present. A friend writes me word that it is the general opinion that it will be three or four weeks yet before the snow will be melted from the head of the creeks. The Columbia too is very high, overflowing the trail, and passengers by the ferry across Gold Creek have to wade up to their armpits to get to the ferry boat. On French Creek they have had to contend with a fire in the woods, which caught some of the houses and tents and drove most of the inhabitants and their goods down to the edge of the Creek. There are now some 300 to 400 men on the creeks, and that number will not be recruited from here, as our population will scarcely number 100 now. I can tell you but little more about the new diggings on Adams' Lake, now christened "Pump Creek." Several parties have gone down there to see what they are, but they have not been heard from. Major Robertson, of whom I spoke in my last letter, made his appearance here by the last steamer, and the following day hired a mule for $20 (for which it appears he did not pay) to go over to Big Bend, borrowing some $50 or so from a gentleman whom he had induced to come up to see the famed Silver Lead of Cherry Creek. Poor man, he seems to have lost his way, for he returned the mule by a gentleman who came in to-day, sending a polite letter to say he was on his way down to Colville. However he will scarcely go to Colville, but will probably lay by for a chance to get over to the Saskatchewan country with a party leaving the Columbia about the end of this month. A Mr. Carter, the President of the Silver Company formed by Robertson, came up to-day to enquire after his (R's.) welfare, but I fear will not get much satisfaction. It is a rascally piece of business, because it breaks confidence in the country. The steamer brought up 69 pack horses and mules and about 12 tons freight. The folks here are very angry about a paragraph in the weekly Chronicle of the 3d just come up, stating that a grocer on French Creek took $160 per diem. They say all the stores on French Creek do not take that amount in a week!

SPECIAL TO THE EVENING TELEGRAPH.

Last Night's Despatches.

California.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21—The Eastern line has been out of order beyond Laramie up to four o'clock p.m. No news was received for evening papers. The line is now working well to Chicago and New York.

The United States steamer Saginaw, which sailed recently for Victoria and Petropoloski, encountered a very heavy storm and returned to Mare Island to refit. Extent of damage not reported.

A disease among cattle has been reported in San Joaquin county. They swell and die suddenly. Democratic County Convention met again last evening. The Committee appointed to inform Mr. McElroy of his nomination reported they had waited upon him and that he desired them to express his thanks for the honor conferred upon him. The convention soon after adjourned until Monday evening.

A meeting of California Volunteers was held last evening, when a committee was appointed to make arrangements for assisting discharged soldiers to secure claims and bounties due them for their services in the army.

No later gold quotations than those of yesterday. For the previous day quotations were: Gold, 150¾, and Sterling 109. Legal Tenders 70½ @70¾ buying, and 71¼ @71½ selling. Money easy at 1@1½.

BALTIMORE, July 18.—Vallandigham, Bright, and C. Faulkner, passed through the city last night en route to Washington, for an interview with the President. A gentleman who travels with them says one object of their mission is to recommend the appointment of J. B. Weller, of California, to be Secretary of War, in view of Stanton's anticipated retirement.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, July 16.

TO PRESIDENT JOHNSON—SIR:—I hereby resign the office of Attorney General of the United States. Be good enough, sir, to accept my thanks for the kindness, consideration and confidence you have ever shown me.

JAMES SPEED.

WASHINGTON, July 11th.—Sir: I have the honor to tender herewith my resignation of the office of Postmaster General, to take effect upon your notifying me of your acceptance. In thus withdrawing from the Cabinet, it is proper to say I do so chiefly because of the difference of opinion between us in regard to the proposed amendment of the Constitution, which I approved, and for the proposed Convention to be held in Philadelphia on the 14th proximo, to which I am opposed. My confidence in the patriotism of the Union-Republican party, and my conviction that upon its permanent control of the Government depends in a great measure the peace and happiness of the country, will not permit my holding an equivocal attitude in respect to it. Assuring you of my personal appreciation of the uniform courtesy received from you,

I am very respectfully yours,

W. DENNISON.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Washington, July 16.—Sir: Your resignation of the office of Postmaster General, tendered in your letter of the 11th inst., is hereby accepted. Fully appreciating your kind assurance of personal regard,

I am very respectfully yours,

ANDREW JOHNSON.

The letter of Senator Doolittle, demanding the views of the Cabinet concerning the new party movement, is not published. Each member replied. Seward says: "Excuse my surprise that you ask whether I approve the call of the proposed National Convention at Philadelphia. After five years' destruction by civil war I regard the restoration and unity of the country as its most immediate as well as its most vital interest; that restoration wll be completed when loyal men are admitted as Representatives of the loyal people of eleven States so long unrepresented in Congress; nothing but this can be complete, nothing more remains to be done. Every day's delay is attended by increasing inconveniences, embarrassments, and danger at home and abroad. Congress possesses the power exclusively, and after a session of seven months it still wants to exercise it. It is in perfect accordance with the Constitution that people assemble in conventions to address Congress, and petition and remonstrate. This will be a lawful and patriotic attempt in the right direction."

CROQUET BALL.

AFTER TENNYSON.

Cousins, leave me here a little, go to chicken and Moselle;
Leave me here, and when they want me, let them ring the luncheon bell.

'Tis the place, and in the greensward as of old the hoops are stuck,
When I first met Amy Thornton, and I voted her a "duck."

Amy Thornton! I can see her, with her mallet raised to strike,
And her little foot placed deftly in the attitude I like.

Many a morning when the dew-drops had been chased away by dawn,
Did I look on Amy Thornton moving slowly o'er the lawn.

Many a morn I saw her tresses fairly floating on the wind,
And I blessed her for her chignon as it lightly hung behind.

Then about the lawn I wandered, with my Amy "doing spoons,"
And I made a heap of sonnets, full of "loves" and "stars" and "moons."

In the spring the lawn was shaven close as any lawn could be,
In the spring my youthful fancy lightly turned to Amy T.

And I said, "Bewitching Amy, tell me 'mid this croquet play,
Shall we go through life together, as we went through hoops to-day?

Then she turned with eyes whose splendor seemed to shoot one through and through,
"If I find no richer suitor, why then I'll put up with you."

Many a morn we played together, while my friends did naught but scoff,
Till she played "loose croquet" with me, and began to "take two off."

O my Amy, reptile-hearted, so to put me in a fix,
O the horrid hoops and mallets! O the wretched balls and sticks!

Falser than the falsest partner in the middle of a game,
Missing two hoops in succession, and incensed at bearing blame.

It is well to wish thee happy, croquet games with me were sweet,
Can you love a man whose mallet only hits his clumsy feet?

Yet it shall be. You will lower to the level of his play,
And the distance of your croquets will be lessened day by day.

With my intellectual optics I look scorn upon your game,
Get thee to thy feeble "duffer"—well he merits such a name.

* * * * * * *

Hark, my laughing cousins call me, and I leave the fatal place,
While from lawn and garden slowly fades the faithless Amy's face.

LOVE'S DESPAIR.

The following from the pen of Victor Hugo in his "Toilers of the Sea," is peculiarly characteristic of the author's sensational and dramatic power. Gilliat is an unsuccessful lover, standing on a rocky promontory on the coast of Guernsey, and waiting dreamily until the vessel approaches that is to bear away forever the object of his affections. He becomes so wrapt up in his silent misery as the vessel recedes from his view, and so oblivious to his position on the rock, that the tide rises gradually and he is swept into the world beyond:—

The Cashmere approached with the slowness of a phantom. Gilliatt watched it still. Suddenly a touch and a sensation of cold caused him to look down. The sea had reached his feet. He lowered his eyes, then raised them again. The Cashmere was quite near. The rock in which the rains had hollowed out the Gild Holm-'Ur seat was so completely vertical, and there was so much water at its base, that in calm weather vessels were able to pass without danger within a few cables' lengths. The Cashmere was abreast of the rock. It rose straight upwards as if it had grown out of the water, or like the lengthening out of a shadow. The rigging showed black against the heavens and in the magnificent expanse of the sea. The long sails, passing for a moment over the sun, became lighted up with a singular glory and transparence. The water murmured indistinctly; but no other noise marked the majestic gliding of that outline. The deck was as visible as if he had stood upon it. The steersman was at the helm; a cabin boy was climbing the shrouds; a few passengers leaning on the bulwarks of the vessel were contemplating the beauty of the ocean. The captain was smoking; but nothing of all this was seen by Gilliatt. There was a spot on the deck on which the broad sunlight fell. It was on this corner that his eyes were fixed. In this sunlight were Deruchette and Caudray. They were sitting together side by side, like two birds, warming themselves in the noonday sun, upon one of those covered seats with a little awning which well-ordered packet boats provided for passengers, and upon which was the inscription, when it happened to be an English vessel, "For ladies only." Deruchette's head was leaning upon Caudray's shoulder; his arm was around her waist; they held each other's hands with their fingers interwoven. A celestial light was discernible in those two faces, formed by innocence. Their chaste embrace was expressive of their earthly union and their purity of soul. The seat was a sort of alcove, almost a nest; it was at the same time a glory round them; the tender aureola of love passing into a cloud. The silence was like the calm of heaven. Caudray's gaze was fixed in contemplation. Deruchette's lips moved; and, amidst that perfect silence, as the wind carried the vessel near shore and it glided within a few fathoms of the Gild-holm-'Ur seat, Gilliatt heard the tender and musical voice of Deruchette exclaiming: "Look yonder! It seems as if there were a man upon the rock." The vessel passed. Leaving the promontory of the Bu de la Rue behind, the Cashmere glided on upon the waters. In less than a quarter of an hour her masts and sails formed only a white obelisk, gradually decreasing against the horizon. Gilliatt felt that the water had reached his knees. He contemplated the vessel speeding on her way. The breeze freshened out at sea. He could see the Cashmere run out her lower studding-sails and her staysails, to take advantage of the rising wind. She was already clear of the waters of Guernsey. Gilliatt followed the vessel with his eyes. The waves had reached his waist. The tide was rising: time was passing away. The sea-mews and cormorants flew about him restlessly, as if anxious to warn him of his danger. It seemed as if some of his old companions of the Douvres rocks flying there had recognised him. An hour had passed. The wind from the sea was scarcely felt in the road; but the form of the Cashmere was rapidly growing less. The sloop, according to all appearance, was sailing fast. It was already nearly off the Casquets. There was no foam around the Gild-Holm-Ur; no wave beat against its granite sides. The water rose peacefully. It was nearly level with Gilliatt's shoulders. Another hour had passed. The Cashmere was beyond the waters of Auriguy. The Ortach rock concealed it for a moment; it passed behind it, and came forth again as from an eclipse. The sloop was veering to the north upon the open sea. It was now only a point glittering in the sun. The birds were hovering about Gilliatt, uttering short cries. Only his head was now visible. The tide was nearly at the full. Evening was approaching. Behind him in the roads, a few fishing boats were making for the harbor. Gilliatt's eyes continued fixed upon the vessel in the horizon. Their expression resembled nothing earthly. A strange lustre shone in their calm and tragic depths. There was in them the peace of vanished hopes, the calm but sorrowful acceptance of an end far different from his dreams. By degrees the dusk of heaven began to darken in then, though gazing still upon the point in space. At the same moment the wide waters round the Gild-Holm-'Ur and the vast gathering twilight closed upon them. The Cashmere, now scarcely perceptible, had become a mere spot in the thin haze. Gradually the spot, which was but a shape, grew paler. Then it dwindled, and finally disappeared. At the moment when the vessel vanished on the line of the horizon, the head of Gilliatt disappeared. Nothing was visible now but the sea.

There are rumors of a wide spread conspiracy in Russia, of which the attempted assassination of the Czar was only a premature development. Great anxiety is said to prevail in Government circles; the police are on the alert, and the newspapers have been warned to be very careful in their articles.

MORE EMANCIPATION.—The inhabitants of Taschkent have voluntarily resolved to set free their Persian slaves, as a compliment to the Czar, having learned that the Russians had emancipated their serfs in deference to his wishes. The Russian papers cite this as a proof of the civilizing influence of Russia in the East.

THE GREAT REMEDY OF THE AGE.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

The effect of the Ointment on the System.

To the very core and centre of all diseases which affect the human body, this remarkable preparation penetrates. It disappears under the friction of the hands, as salt disappears when rubbed upon meat. The unguent performs its healing errand rapidly, safely, and without pain. Simple eruptions, open sores, hard tumors, scrofulous developments of all kinds, abcesses, cancers, old wounes, and, in fact, every species of inflammation and suppuration, whether in the skin, the flesh, the glands, or among the muscles, can be arrested in its destructive course, and permanently cured without danger by rubbing in this inestimable Ointment.

Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Sores, and Ulcers.

In many Hospitals in Europe this celebrated remedy is now used for the cure of old wounds, sores, and ulcers; in Spain and Portugal, and in many parts of Italy, the first Physicians regularly prescribe its use. It is a sovereign remedy for bad breasts and bad legs; and likewise for all skin diseases. It is to be found in the chest of nearly every sailor, soldier, and emigrant.

Imprudencies of Youth;—Sores and Ulcers.

The above class of complaints is surely removed by nightly fomenting the parts with warm water, and then by most effectually rubbing in this Ointment. Persons suffering from these direful complaints should lose not a moment in arresting their progress. It should be understood that it is not sufficient merely to smear the Ointment on the affected parts, but it must be well rubbed in for some considerable time two or three times a day, that it may be taken into the system, whence it will remove only hidden sore or wound as effectually as though it were palpable to the eye. Bread and water poultices, after the rubbing in of the Ointment, will do great service. This is the only proper treatment for females in cases of cancer in the stomach, or for those who suffer from a general bearing down.

Piles, Fistulas, Strictures.

Blotches, as also swellings, can with certainty be radically cured if the Ointment be used freely, and the Pills be taken night and morning as recommended in the printed instructions. When treated in any other way these complaints only dry up in one place to break out in another; whereas this Ointment will remove the humor from the system, and leave the patient a vigorous and healthy being. It will require time, aided by the use of the Pills, to ensure lasting cure.

Diptheria, Bronchitis, Sore Throats,

Any of the above class of diseases may be cured by well rubbing the Ointment three times a day upon the skin covering the throat, chest, and neck of the patient. The unguent will soon penetrate the pores and give immediate relief. To allay the fever and lessen the inflamation, eight or ten Pills should be taken night and morning. The Ointment will produce perspiration, which is so essential for removing fevers, sore throats, and those oppressions of the chest which arise from Asthma, Bronchitis, and other causes.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following Cases:

Bad Legs	Corns (Corns)	Rheumatism
Bad Breasts	Cancers	Scalds
Burns	Contracted and Stiff Joints	Sore Nipples
Bunions	Elephantiasis	Sore Throat
Bite of Moschetoes and Sand-Flies	Fistulas	Skin diseas

THE ONE THING WANTED.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

The Blood.

These famous pills are so composed that they operate wholesomely on the stomach, the liver, the bowels, and other organs; by correcting any derangements in their functions, whereby a steady supply of pure materials for the renewal of the Blood is furnished, and a constant abstraction of effete products is effected. This perfect circulation thus becomes the very fountain of health and life, and overcomes all form of disease wherever its situation.

General Disorders of the Liver and Stomach.

All who ever indulge at table, either in eating or drinking, should take about ten of these famous pills at bed time, from which will result a clear head and good stomach the following morning. Thousands of Ladies are always complaining of sick headaches, want of appetite, want of energy, and want of strength, to correct all these evils, three or four of these Pills should be taken twice a week, when they would give the invalid the health and appetite of a ploughman.

Females of all Ages and Classes

Obstructions of any kind, either in young or those between forty and fifty—the most critical period of life—may be radically removed by using these Pills according to the printed directions which accompany each box. Young persons with sickly and sallow complexions may have the bloom of health restored by this corrective, which purifies the blood and expels all gross and impure humors from the system. Beware then of the critical age from forty to fifty, as it sends many thousands to premature grave,—these Pills should be taken at that period of life two or three times a week

Want of Strength and Energy.

Persons of sedentary habits, or those troubled in mind, working in Factories or Coal Pits, who cannot obtain that amount of fresh air and exercise which nature requires, suffer from weakness and delility, lowness of spirits and want of appetite. All such should take a dose or two of these Pills every three or four days, as they act gently and effectually on the system and impart vigor and energy to the body, which is always followed by a good appetite, sound and refreshing sleep, and a high flow of spirits.

For the Cure of Dropsy.

The efficacy of Holloway's Pills in Dropsy is extraordinary. They act with such a peculiar effect upon the system, that the fluids causing this direful complaint, are perceptibly carried off and prevented from any further accumulation. The sufferer regains a buoyancy of spirits, and rejoices in a completely renovated constitution. It is indispensably necessary that the Ointment should be most effectually rubbed into the complaining parts during the whole course of treatment.

Children and their Ailments.

In no country in the world are more children carried to an early grave than in Great Britain. Coughs, Measles, Scarlatina, Fevers, and other diseases attack the little sufferers, and death, but too often, follows at a rapid pace; yet if at the first stage of these complaints, parents were to have recourse to Holloway's Pills, all danger would be avoided; for the stomach and bowels would be gently but effectually cleansed by this mild aperient; the depraved humors corrected and the secretions duly regulated. A perfect cure would soon be effected, and the little patient restored to sound health.

Holloway' Pills are the best known remedy in the world for the following diseases:
