MONEY IN PLENTY

Operatic Stars Obtaining Great Pay in London.

LARGE SUMS ARE PAID OUT

Americans Paying Two Hundred Guineas for a Single Performance—Some Prices Paid.

London, July 29.—Never before have musicians and operatic stars received such very large pay for performing in private houses in London as they have this season.

Kubelik, the youthful violinist, is easily the lion of the lot. He has never played at a private concert for less than 120 guineas and generally got 200 guineas. One well-known woman gave a Kubelik party each week and not satisfied with paying the maximum sum for his services, presented him with a Stradivarius worth £1500.

Mme. Melba's London agent asserts that she has received 500 guineas twice for appearing in private parties. which works out at about 125 guineas per song.

Paderewski got 1000 guineas for two performances in houses on Carlton house terrace. In many cases these large sums are paid by Americans.

SHAMROCK II ON HER WAY

An Enthusiastic Send-Off --Thousands Cheer the Challenger.

Gounock, Scotland, July 29.—The Shamrock II. accompanied by the Erin sailed on Saturday morning for New York. Great enthusiasm was displayed as the Challenger departed.

Capt. Sycamore desired to go out under canvas and he was favored with a slight easterly wind, sufficient to keep the flags streaming in the direction they each had to sail. She cut a strange figure with her stunted spars and scant canvas as she lay ready to start. At 10 o'clock Sir Thomas Lipton and Mr. Watson boarded her and a few minutes later her moorings were slipped, her head sails broken out and the Shamrock II. slipped away on her voyage across the Atlantic.

Thousands gathered along the shore and peers greeted her departure with great outbursts of cheering. Hats and handkerchiefs were waved, guns saluted and whistles shrieked. For miles along shores crowds occupied every vantage point. Sir Thomas Lipton remained aboard the Challenger until she was off Cumbrae, when he returned on a tug. Before leaving, he addressed the crew, thanking them for what they had done, and wishing them Godspeed on their voyage and a successful finish to their task. He said they had the best boat it was possible to provide for them, and that Mr. Watson had done his part well, partly for love of his profession and partly for love of the old flag the boat was to represent. They had a stiff fight before them, continued Sir Thomas, but those they were to meet were generous.

SPREAD OF THE STRIKE

A Serious Move from an Unexpected Quarter-- Complete Shutdown.

Pittsburg, July 29.—The Post says:

A serious spread of the steel strike is now threatened in an unexpected quarter. From the sheet steel, hoop and tin mill, the contest is expected to reach out into the furnaces in the Mahoning and Shenandoah valleys and cauae a complete shut-down of these plants. It will throw many hundreds out of employment and curtail the production of raw material as well as the finished lines.

SMELTER ARMY

General Kadish and His Armed Troops.

BREAKING THE LAW OPENLY

Trying to Terrorize the Union Men at Northport—Arrest of Kadish and Other Rioters.

(Special to the WORLD)

Northport, July 29.—Yesterday and today have seen exciting times in the Smelter City.

Early on Sunday morning about 4 o'clock a special train from Spokane having some thirty scabs from Leadville on board, arrived at the smelter. The union was well informed about the party's movement from the time they set out from Leadville, and an effort was made to talk to the men on their arrival in Spokane. The scabs, however, were well guarded by a posse of armed men led by a man who declared he was a United States marshall and who promptly pulled his gun and called on his armed assistants to do the same, when the union agent approached the gang. The man produced a marshall's badge and the union agent not wanting a row desisted taking further action.

The whole town of Northport was up and about all Saturday night fearing trouble when the train arrived, and when it did pull in an armed band led by Superintendent Kadish came down from the smelter.

Kadish and his men displayed their weapons openly and did their best to coax the onlooking union men into a scrap, but without avail. Several of the new arrivals refused to go in the smelter stockade and during the day some of the last arrivals sneaked away.

This morning while the preliminary examination of Reade and Cook before Justice Travice was proceeding, four armed men with Winchesters and revolvers made their appearance in the court room.

An application was made to disarm the men but they got outside before anything was done. A little later the four were arrested by a deputy who confiscated their weapons and locked the gang up for safe keeping.

Warrants have been issued for the arrest of Manager Kadish and all the men who appeared with guns yesterday. The authorities are determined to stop the practice at all costs and many arrests will be made shortly.

The striking union men are all unarmed, and the man who has been posing as a marshall and pointing his gun at all-comers is only a smelter agent. He is sure to be punished heavily.

The preliminary trial of Reade and Cook has been in progress all day and will probably last for some time as there are many witnesses to examine. The defence claim they can prove their complete innocence of the crime charged.

A LONE HAND.

It is quite possible that Bernard Macdonald is a very much misunderstood mine manager and that he has simply carried out "instructions from London" or it may be he is very much concerned in a conspiracy the details of which have not yet appeared in print.

In any case the manager must be hard pressed indeed when he finds it either advisable or necessary to proclaim so loudly that he is quite sure of his own position with his London directors as he did in his paper yesterday.

For a moment just trace the order of events since January last and understand what we are coming to—a little later. The position of the four mines and the smelter at Northport, at the opening of the year is pretty fairly well known and understood here and need not be gone into again. When the crash came in the old country, first of the London and Globe, and subsequently of the British America Corporation every one here was anxious to know how the mines and the smelter would be affected, and the English papers were closely read in order to ascertain what was likely to happen. But Whitaker Wright and his friends and foes on the English stock exchange were so busy fighting each other that so far as out siders could judge it became evident that the Rossland and Northport properties, provided they could get along, would not be interfered with until some combination—Whitaker Wright or some other—sufficiently controlled the situation to make a definite move. For some months a contest has gone on of which the public here knows little or nothing.

All this time, however, at least one man has been in practically absolute control here. One man in control of the Le Roi, Rossland Great Western, Le Roi No. 2, Kootenay mines and the Northport smelter plant—a combination representing a huge capitalization with simply enormous possibilities. What has really happened in the inner circle of this combination, which among other things has produced the lockout at Northport and the strike here?

So far as Rossland is now concerned the first outward move was made early in May when, as Mr. Heinze now tells us, the control of the Miner was obtained—obtained as we all have since learned by Bernard Macdonald. Why? Why did the manager want the paper—certainly not as a commercial underdaking—the mere suggestion causes a smile. He was not being attacked in any way—why then should Mr. Macdonald aspire to become editor in chief of the Rossland's morning paper. The attack made on the government at Victoria can safely be regarded as a blind for the real purpose Mr. Macdonald has no particular love for governments, provincial or dominion, but his dislike of both was not strong enough to make him buy a newspaper for the purpose of abusing them.

From the moment Mr. Macdonald controlled the Rossland Miner the paper became a rabid anti-union publication and its columns have been filled with just that class of matter which is supposed to "show up" organized labor in the most uufavorable light.

We were all warned of the unholy combinations of foreign agitators which exist in our midst and of whose existance we had all somehow not known until Barney grasped the editorial pen. Day after day tirades against unionism in all its forms appeared in the miner columns in various shapes.

The closing down of the Northport smelter, the official declaration that no labor troubles existed at Northport, followed quickly by the equally official declaration to the smeltermen—"we will break up your union at all cost; if you want work you must abandon your union we will have none of it," the protestations of good faith to the miners here if they would only wait until the Northport union was smothered and notifications begging men to remain at work and not to mind the agitator, foreign or domestic and the final acts of this pleasing drama—or tragedy, are they not all well known and understood by us all now?

And yet this one man—this able and discreet manager, this honest and uncorruptible man controlled the situation here alone!

Mr. Macdonald now pleads that his character is being assassinated—in England and elsewhere. Does the manager really ask us to believe that he has any character left which is worth assassinating?

The public are not privileged to to know Mr. Macdonald's real position they can only judge him from his own acts as disclosed by his own newspaper, and looking back during the past few weeks it is quite impossible to follow the manager's actions and in any way credited him with good faith. If with his immediate record fresh before the onlooking public, Mr. Macdonald wishes anyone to think him an injured and misrepresented man, his clear cause is easy. Let him tell us the whole story of how it all happened and when we have his story we can better say if any mistake have been made.

Cables from England at the moment may give Mr. Macdonald some comfort of a kind, but he must excuse the onlookers if they refuse to seriously regard his efforts at the moment.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Mr. Jolly Knowalls sends us a letter for publication this afternoon. It is very interesting. What the author has to say will enable those who read the communication to estimate without much trouble the exact amount of reliance which may be placed upon the statements that the Miner has changed hands and that Mr. Jas. Wilks will supersede Mr. C. A. Gregg as president and managing editor of the paper, and is to settle the newsboys strike. Such yarns are on a par with rumors so frequently circulated from time to time, that the B. A. C. has gone fluey, and that Le Roi shares have been manipulated.

Messrs. Macdonald and Kirby sent the Executive Board of the Miners' Union on Saturday a formal letter stating that the directors of the companies owning the Le Roi group and the War Eagle-Centre Star mines, were unable to comply with the demands of the union. This reply was not unlooked for and merely leaves the matter where it was at the start.

PLUCKY RESCUE

Nearly Over Bonnington Falls in a Row Boat.

JOHN KEYS' RACE WITH DEATH

A Two Hours' Struggle with the Rapids—Close Call for a Rancher—Insensible for Hours.

The other afternoon a party of fishermen from Nelson went fishing in the vicinity of Beasley's siding. They took out with them a quantity of "tanglefoot," with the result that a man who has a shack and a ranch at that point took on a larger shipment of the fire water than was good for him. After the fishermen had departed the ranchman, in his semi-insensible condition, attempted to cross the river in his row boat, which was on the beach near his ranch. This point is only about two miles from Bonnington Falls, and the water runs at a pretty rapid rate. On boarding the boat he threw himself across it in such a manner as to indicate that he had fallen, as his head was hanging over one side of the boat and his feet over the other. In this position he floated out into the stream. When the attention of John Keys, who lives on the other side of the river, was directed to the awful situation in which the man was placed, he immediately rowed out to the rescue. All the time he was nearing the rapids and every moment was precious. With an energy only born of such emergencies, he reached the boat in which the helpless man was hastening to destruction. By some means Keys managed to secure the painter of the ranchman's boat, and, placing his foot on the end of it, pulled for the shore with all the energy of despair, and at the risk of his own life. Had an oar broken or anything else gone wrong both of them would have been lost over the rapids. For two straight hours he rowed for all he was worth. For a long time he appeared to make no progress. But with a commendable energy he persevered in his self-appointed task, and finally succeeded in reaching the shore. All this time the rescued one was utterly insensible. Indeed, it was not until the following morning that he was in the least aware of the close call that both himself and his gallant neighbor had experienced the previous day.

COMMUNICATION.

Regarding Some Rumors--Too Good to be True.

Editor EVENING WORLD.

Owing to the persistent rumors that have been put into circulation to the effect that the stockholders and board of directors of the Rossland Miner held a recent meeting in Butte, Montana, where the management of the Miner was severely criticised, and that steps were taken to place the direction of the paper in competent hands, I cabled MacGinnis on 25th, and received a reply today by postal telegraph as follows: "Report that Miner has again changed hands is absolutely false. The governor circulating stories among shareholders that our Ossified Man, who edits the paper is a "Missfit"—MacDonald has complete control of both Miner and Ossified Man. You are authorized to make this public.

It is well that the public should understand this fact before taking sides. Kindly insert this letter in your paper.

A BIG DEAL IN NELSON

Victoria Block Sold for $42,500--Steady Rise in Real Estate.

The Victoria block and the building to the west of it in Nelson was sold on Saturday for $42,500.

According to the Nelson Miner Mr. Stocks purchased the property about two years ago from Beer Bros., for $38,000. It is said the block itself was valued at $31,500 in this sale, the other building and lot representing the balance. The Victoria block was originally purchased by Beer Bros., for $13,000, they expended some $6,000 in improvements on it, the rise in land values in Nelson in the past few years representing the increase. W. F. Teetzel & Co., druggists; Fred Irvine & C., dry-goods, and the Nelson Hardware Co., are the principal retail tenants of the block.

A PLAIN STATEMENT.

The Facts of the Case as Presented by the Executive Committee of Rossland Miners' Union, No. 38, W. F. M.

Rossland, B. C., July 12th, 1901.

To the Citizens and Business Men of Rossland and Vicinity and to the General Public:

The business and social interests of a community are so closely interwoven in a community like Rossland, that any dispute among the industrial elements forming the social structure, is often more disastrous to the business or non-combattant class around which the labor and capital elements revolve, than to the actual combattants themselves. Thus both labor and capital are morally obligated to strive to adjust their disputes, to protect the social structure of which they are separate parts.

For this reason this union deems it well to make a careful statement of all the reasons leading us to precipitate this industrial strife at this time. Since the agreement between the big corporations of Rossland and Rossland Miners' Union in April, 1900, this city has apparently enjoyed industrial peace; yet all who are conversant with the industrial affairs of Rossland for the past fifteen months know there has been a secret warfare waged against this Miners' Union, which has been nearly as destructive to the business interests of the community as an open struggle between the two industrial forces, and worse in that there is no apparent end to be seen.

We have given long and careful consideration to this matter and have reached the conclusion that the foundation of the trouble rests on the fact that nearly one-half of the employees in the mines of this community receive about 20 per cent less wages than the same class of labor in surrounding camps, many of which camps have a lower grade of ore and are less favorably situated than Rossland. We believe that it is to continue to enforce this unjust scale of wages that so many annoying practices have been introduced to undermine the prestige of this Miners' Union of Rossland.

First.—An annoying system of espionage and blacklisting by which many of our ablest members have been compelled to seek employment in other localities, although of unquestioned ability in their trade.

Second.—By revoking a time honored privilege of the Secretary being allowed to solicit members among the non-union employees of the companies who might be off duty on the premises of the companies, a privilege guaranteed us by the last half of Article 15 of the agreement of April, 1900; thus preventing us from refilling our ranks depleted by loss of members compelled to seek employment in other fields.

Third.—By connection with bogus employment agencies seeking to flood the over crowded labor market with cheap foreign labor.

Finally.—By the largest corporation in this vicinity openly seeking and striving to crush a sister union at Northport, Wash.

We believe all these efforts are mainly to enforce this unjust scale of wages and to prevent all efforts towards an increase. Therefore we have fully resolved that there can be no industrial peace in Rossland and vicinity until this wage question is finally and satisfactorally settled. Then will this fair city enjoy the prosperity for which nature has so evidently intended it.

For this result we ask the moral aid and support of the many diverse bodies making he general public of this city.

Especially we ask your aid in maintaining order, without which we cannot succeed.

There can be no permanent settlement but a just settlement, and to this end we will use all our power as an organization, and all the assistance of the Western Federation of Miners.

We have right on our side and must surely win.

EXECUTIVE BOARD
ROSSLAND MINERS' UNION No. 38, W. F.
