Nelson, June 30.—Everything is already for the celebration tomorrow and Saturday and all the events scheduled will come off with the exception of the balloon ascent which has to be cut out as the ascensionist Leonard has wired that he is too ill to carry out his engagement.

There is a football match between Slocan and Nelson tomorrow afternoon and some launch and fours on the lake.

The city is already presenting a gala appearance and the hotels are besieged with applications for rooms.

THE LAST SAD RITES

Military Honors at the Funeral of Late C. E. Barrett

There was a large turn out yesterday at the funeral ceremonies accompanying of the despatch of the remains tof the late C. E. Barret of the Rocky Mountain Rangers to relatives in the east.

The funeral services were pronounced at St. George's church by the rector, Rev. John Cleland and afterwards the cortege wended its way up town to the C. P. R. depot. First came the Bugle band and the guncarriage with the Rangers. On the gun carriage was placed the coffin which was almost hidden by the funeral floral offerings of the numerous friends of the deceased among which was conspicuous a handsome wreath presented by the boys of the band, whom the late Bugle Major had devoted so much pains to train. After these followed cariages and a number of mourners on foot. At the depot, the parting salute of honor, was fired by the company and the bugles sounded the Last Post.

If you will try the Palace Cafe you will not take your meals any place else.

FORT IS CLOSELY INVESTED

Three Positions Stormed by the Japs.

ATRHUR TOTTERING TO ITS FALL

Big Battle Is Impending—Conflicting Stories as to the Actual Position Are Told.

Tokio, June 30—It is unofficially reported that the Chikwanshan, Chitanshan and Sochoshan forts part of the Port Arthur defences, were captured on Sunday after an all day fight, beginning with an artillery duel. Sochoshan, it was added, was first captured, and the other forts fell soon afterwards.

The Russians retreated west leaving 40 dead. The wounded have not been ascertained. The Japanese lost three officers and 100 men killed or wounded. The officials here do not confirm the report.

Newchwang, June 30—H J. Middleton, the Associated Press correspondent with the Russian headquarters near Liauyang, died on Sunday from enteric dysentery. He was the first American war correspondent to lose his life at the front in the present conflict. He was about 33 years of age, unmarried and born in London.

Tokio, June 30.—An unconfirmed report has been received from the Island of Hokkaido that ships resembling the Russian Vladivostok squadron had appeared off there on June 29. Similar reports have been received from the places along the northern coast of Japan. The navy office does not give credence to these reports.

Chefoo, June 30—Chinese who left Port Arthur on June 24 say that only four battleships, five cruisers and the torpedo boats left the harbor on June 23. Of these, three returned badly damaged, but none sank. On June 24 the Japanese main army was within 14 miles of Port Arthur, but their scouts were nearer, Natives of Manchuria have not been ordered out of Port Arthur but only the natives of other provinces and thousands of these have left. The hospitals at Liauyang are overcrowded.

Newchwang, June 30—Brigands are again active in this vicinity. They attacked a village south of here last night, and the natives and foreign residents fear that on account of the Russian reverse, if the Japanese troops do not arrive within a few days, the brigands will become bolder and enter this city. This they could do easily as it lies practically unprotected.

A native report that one division of General Kuroki's army was 15 miles south of Tatchekiau at 5 o'clock yesterday evening was not confirmed. If true it indicates that the Japanese plans for a fight there yesterday must have been upset by the heavy rains.

St. Petersburg, June 30.— Though no further advices from the front have been received up to midnight it appears now from General Kouropatkin's tactics that a heavy engagement may be deferred for some days. It is possible that the Japanese may rush matters, but it is not generally expected here General Kouropatkin will give battle until he reaches a position of his own selection. The country in which the armies are now coming into contract consists of a series of mountain chains, running parallel with the railway, alongside of which the Russians are falling back as the Japanese are advancing. Fenshui, Motien and Dalin are all passes which take their names from the mountains over which they run. General Kuroki, who has heretofore been south of the mountains is advancing, to the westward from Hsiuyen and his columns must traverse the passes named before emerging into the more open country along the railway, approximately abreast of Tatachekiau, Taicheng and Liauyang. The Russian outpost and the Japanese advance are now in close touch at all these places. The Russians after harassing the Japanese advance from each of these positions, are falling back on General Kouropatkin's main body, supposed to be somewhere between Liauyang and Tatachekiau. General Kouropatkin is now moving slowly northward along the railway and where ever he makes his stand there will be precipitated what is expected to be the decisive battle.

WAS A GALA DAY

Two First Class Shows in the City

Yesterday was a gala day for Rossland, with two first class shows in the city. The day was an ideal June day, and the heat and the dust were the only drawbacks.

Norris & Rowe's circus was easily the best that has come into the city, and the two performances were witnessed by large crowds both morning and evening. The number of ponies was astonishingly large, and was a welcome surprise, among other good features, to those who thought the camp was hardly worth a visit from a really first class circus.

The Georgia minstrels in the evening also drew a large audience and the visitors to the Opera House were delighted with the excellence of the entertainment, especially the part singing, which was away above the average.

CIVIL SERVICE

A New York contemporary in discussing the Slocum disaster where a thousand lives were sacrificed to the greed of the transportation company connived at by bought officials, declares that the only remedy is the providing of a heavy penalty, such as obtains against ocean steamers and railway companies. At the first blush it would seem, on comparing riverine with ocean steamers, that as so seldom disaster occurs on the latter, and as heavy damages are recoverable, that the remedy suggested would be all sufficient. But when the other form of transportation, railways, or tramways, is looked at, it will be seem that the power of collecting heavy damages does not discourage the almost daily accident. And the reason is not far to seek. Any railway man will admit it. It is simply that it is cheaper to pay an occasional loss of this kind, although heavy, than to so run their lines that accidents are practically impossible. It must be remembered that these railways are wholly operating upon this continent. The ocean going boats, if they wish to take passengers, must comply with the laws not alone of the seaports of the United States or of Canada, but of those of the British ports to which they ply. Now the British law is very severe in this particular. Moreover it is very exacting. For this reason accidents no more occur upon the ocean going boats than they do upon English railways. It is not a question of a heavy money penalty. It is a question of honest inspection. But a New York official, however honestly he endeavors to carry out his duties, will be decapitated when his party goes out of office. His is not a position that directly appeals to the public, and even were the appointment made elective, the result would be the same. If the State of New York were to promptly dismiss all those officials whose neglect has led to this fearful loss of life, and at the same time declare that no other man should be dismissed from the service as long as it could not be proved that he was neglecting his duty, the State of New York would probably in future be as honestly served as is England. Human nature is the same the world over,

CONTEMPT OF COURT,

Recently in this province there has been an instance where a popular public official, placed in a position of trust, has abused the condence placed within him, and misused the country's money. He was brought up for trial, duly convicted, and then, because the money was made good, he was allowed to go on suspended sentence. At least that is the reason given. Within the limits of Rossland, within the past few years, most old timers will recall with regret the fate of a young bank clerk who went the same pace as did his fuller plumaged imitator lately at the coast. He was convicted. He replaced the money, But he was sentenced to jail. Evidently in these two cases what was sauce for the goose was certainly not sauce for the gander. Why? The fact of the matter is that the replacing of the money had nothing whatsoever to do with the crime. If the laws of this country are to be respected, punishment must follow crime, irrespective of the position of the offender. It is this sort of thing that lends reality to the accusation that there is one law for the rich and another for the poor. When together with this is found the lenieney which transgression is visited on the part of the men of the gown, where disbarred lawyers still hold up their heads, where people on the judicial bench fear not to openly break the law which they are supposed to enforce, and the Attorney General saith nothing no surprise can be felt if the accusation is believed. When the ordinary man sees the respect which our judges claim, the frills of dignity in which they enstarch themselves, on and off the bench such an aping of the royal quality of justice does indeed create a contempt of court which is noue the less profound because it is so seldom uttered.

"And the holder hereby waives any claim or demand against the Government, and expressly agrees not to take any steps or proceedings, or present any petitions, to enforce any alleged claims or demands against the Government of the Province of British Columbia arising out of the issuance of this licence or any other matter or thing appertaining thereto.

"The land being under reserve from pre-emption and sale this licence does not include any right other than the right to prospect for coal and petroleum.

RUSHING TO A FINISH

V. V. & E. Mean Business in the Boundary Camps

Phoenix, June 30.—In the neighborhood of 1000 men are employed on the construction of the V., V. and E. branch of the Great Northern railway from Grand Forks to Phoenix and laborers are still coming in almost every day, the majority of whom are being absorbed by the sub-contractors in the work being done. While contractors of many years' experience assert that not once in a hundred times are railway construction contracts completed on time, this time there is likely to be an exception, and many of them are figuring on completing their work some time in October.

One thing that is very much in favor of this is the accessibility of of work, generally speaking. The lines of the C. P. R. permit of it being reached from both ends and in the middle at the same time, and this fact is, of course, being taken advantage of to the full extent. As a result, every station (100 feet) of construction work was sub-let to smaller contractors in a short time after P. Welch appeared on the scene for J. W. Stewart, who has the entire contract from the Great Northern main contractors. Railway laborers arrive daily and are set at work by one or the other of ten or a dozen sub-contractors. With these favorable conditions it may be satd, therefore, that the first month has seen no small amount of grading the 26 miles of line, the primary object of which is to connect the Granby mines with the Granby smelter.

Burns and Jordan who have six or eight miles of work out of Phoenix have three camps established, have sub-let portions of their contract to smaller contractors, and already have about three hundred men on the pay rolls. Both partners of this firm are on the ground now, and have a large part of their right of way cleared. They will also build the two mile spur to reach the No 3 tunnel ore bins of the Granby mines, and today began the work of actual grading operations within the corporation limits of Phoenix.

The best cup of coffee in the city can be had at the Palace Cafe.

To the Merchants

Why Don't You Increase Your Business?

Do not sit down and complain of lack of business, because people are sending out of the city for their goods.

Hustling will Do the Trick

Give them to understand that they can save money by dealing at home.

YOU WILL HAVE TO SHOW THEM

That you can sell them better goods for less money than they can get them for at some Cheap John department store in the east, and keep the money at home.

When you have done this You will get the results

The next question is how to reach the people to tell them what you want them to know

You can do this by keeping your advertisement in

The Evening World....

It reaches all the people and goes in all the homes in the city. Its circulation is increasing every day.

Give it a Trial

And you will not complain as to the result

BANK WANTED AT TRAIL

Petition is Being Circulated by Residents of Smelter City

Trail is once more to have a bank. For banking privileges in the thriving Smelter City on this occasion, there is likely to be a spirited competition. The citizens and the bankers themselves are divided on the subject. It is said that the Bank of British North America is willing to reopen its branch for two days in each week, but that a petition is in circulation to locate a permanent branch. It is also reported that the Crown Bank of Toronto is anxious to establish itself in Trail, and that quite a number of the merchants and citizens generally are in favor of this proposition.

The question has also been asked why does not the Bank of Toronto open a branch there, seeing that that corporation has now considerable investments in this direction.
