TRUE INWARDNESS OF IT

Control of Water by War Eagle Is a Myth.

ITS ABSURD CLAIM OF SUPERIORITY

Attempts Are Made to Secure Possession of the Best Gambling Stock in the Camp.

The Miner declares that the War Eagle and Centre Star control the water of this city and therefore the Le Roi cannot put up a concentrator because it cannot get water. That is its meaning if it is not the exact words. The World has all along contended that the reason why the War Eagle made a fight for the water it did, was that no other mine should put up a large plant. That is also the reason why it is supporting the existence of our morning contemporary. But it has failed. It has a formidable case on paper but it would not bear a real test. The Le Roi No. 2 has walked through its cinch and the White Bear is doing the same and the Spitzee will in all probability follow suit.

Mine Management

The Miner declares that the only mine well managed in the city, or rather, the only mines supraexcellently has been the War Eagle and Centre Star and for that reason the amalgamation would help the Le Roi and thus help the camp. In the first place the World has little to say about the management of the War Eagle for it does not wish to hurt this camp. But the World considers that any snch amalgamation as this proposed by one of the parties will hurt this camp and will shortly publish some figures from the reports of the Centre Star and War Eagle which will show the costs of mining in those properties. It will be surprised if other properties have not shown equally as good results. In the meantime it will merely call to the attention of the camp the erection of an electric plant by the War Eagle its abandonment and substitution of a steam plant and the position of that steam plant with relation to the machinery together with the installment of the lengthy steam pipes connecting. Further to the sworn statements in the case of Hopkins as to the methods of management, some people would not scruple to call it another name, adopted with regard to the Silica plant and lastly to the erection of the mill at Trail, the time it has taken in constructing and the alterations which have become necessary from time to time.

Dividends

But the best proof of management is that of dividends. Rossland mines, having had to provide their own working capital out of St. Petersburg, June 2—A semi-official telegram from Mukden, dated today, says the Russian losses at the batt'e of Kinchao, May 26th were thirty officers and 800 men killed or wounded. The guns abandoned by the Russians were rendered useless.

Seoul, June, 3—Grading of the Wiju railroad has been finished for a distance of 25 miles from Seoul with all the necessary bridges constructed for 16 miles out.

Tracks will be laid along this stretch of road upon the completion of a long cutting near Yonhan, which will enable the transport by rail of heavy timbers and materials instead of the present difficult method of carting them by bullock carts over rough roads.

Work on the branch now under construction north from Seongdo, is progressing in a srtisfactory manner and it is expected that Pingyang will be reached by the beginning of December. The majority of the railway battalions heretofore stationed in temporary barracks at Yungsan, near Seoul, will shortly be sent further north.

THE LE ROI SITUATION.

Most people in the camp have sized up the alleged cablegram pub lished in the columns of our local contemporary yesterday morning and have set it down to what it was, just a brazened bluff in the interests of the War Eagle and Centre Star. But for the benefit of those who are not so well acquainted with the inwardness of things, the WORLD draws attention to the following facts which are well known to all conversant with the history of the principal mines in Rossland.

The Northport smelter is a different corporation to the Le Roi because it was started separately, and further because under the law of the State of Washington it has to be registered there and not in a foreign country.

The shares in the Northport smelter company are owned by the Le Roi with the exception of one or so held by each director so that they can qualify.

Consequently if there were an amalgamation to take place between the Centre Star, War Eagle and Le Roi the smelter could not be left out of the deal, unless the plant were abandoned as worthless.

In 1901 a cablegram was received in this camp by Bernard McDonald from Whitaker Wright, saying that approaches had been made for amalgamation, by the Gooderham properties, and asking for advice. Barney promptly turned it down. He presumably had respect for his own office or as probably did not agree with the academic management of Edmund Kirby.

In 1902 Mr. Frecheville declared in London that similar propositions had been made for using the Trail smelter, which at that time was reported to be in negotiation for sale to the Gooderham people, but that he did not see why a plant which had cost a million dollars should be thrown away. He turned it down and so did John Mackenzie.

In 1904 the same rumor which culminated in yesterday's fake has been sedulously spread through the camp, for the sake of its general effect upon public opinion. John Mackenzie has in all probability done the same thing as in 1902, and as Macdonald did in 1901 for exactly the same reasons. He has no reason for altering his opinion.

Therefore Mr. Blackstock can say with truth that this matter had been under discussion, and Mr. McMillan can affirm that statement. But in the columns of the Miner itself on Saturday or Sunday last, Mr. McMillan is reported to have said emphatically that there was no intention of wasting the machinery at the Northport smelter. Mr. McMillan's recent words, with regard to the alleged "deal" can only have the significance which the WORLD attributes to them.

A Good Find

A large body of ore was recently uncovered on two claims in Wellington camp, the Jackpot and Iron Clad. The former is owned by Al Sanderson and a partner, while the latter is owned by J. J. Farrell, W. J. Porter and G. W. Rumberger. The ore is said to be similar to Athelstan ore, where the values are so good. The lead is said to be 40 feet wide, and no one knows how long, the location being pretty close to the new line of the Great Northern.

profits, have all been remiss in this. Have the Gooderham mines been anp better? Have they been as good?

The fact of the matter would seem to be that what is wanted at the Le Roi is neither a Consulting Engineer nor a Managing Director, but a Mine Manager who will run the mine to the profit of the mine and of the camp and not in the interest of a parcel of stockjobbers.

Comparisons

Now all comparisons are "ojus" and the WORLD sincerely wishes it had not been dragged into this for it believes that Mr. Kirby is doing his best according to his lights. It thinks, however, that his lights are poor ones and regrets a policy which would militate against the well being of other mines, as evidenced by the utterances of its own organ with regard to the cinching of the water and a policy which is continually stirring up industrial feeling by its initiation and persistence of suits against the local unions and further a policy which stirs up racial feeling by encouraging a set to be made, for instance, against a really clever engineer like G. V. Hopkins, for his "English accent" (whatever that might mean to the foreigners). That is to say for speaking his language in his own educated way in his own country under his own flag! A man who does these things, however, clever he may possibly prove himself to be in other directions is not fit to have the destinies of a British mining camp under his control.

Want the Control

There is one point about the care which, is, there must have been some substratum of truth in the whole matter. There would seem to be no doubt that the Gooderham properties want the control of the situation. Why?

If it is merely a matter of personal aggrandizement, it would not concern the camp, particularly were the person to be so aggrandized fit, important as such a thing would be to the camp. If we are to have a Tsar, let that Tsar be at all events British.

If it be a matter of economy, the WORLD fails to see how it can be economy to treat ore at Trail, when it can be treated at Rossland and pay freight and a profit to the Gooderhams.

If it be a matter of necessity then all that can be said is that the Gooderham properties have erected a mill and find they have no ore of their own to treat. This would explain the exceedingly low price of both Centre Star and War Eagle shares.

Must Show Us!

Then as a matter of business, regarded from the point of view of the Le Roi: That mine before it would erect an Elmore plant, despite the negotiations entered into, very properly wanted to see it demonstrated a commercial success. Equally, therefore, before it would enter into any contract with the Trail mill, it ought to see that that plant has actually started, and moreover has proved itself to be a superior success.

Lastly Sir Henry Tyler, including his associates on the board of directorate of the Le Roi, especially that associate who is styled the Managing Director, have presently to face an angry meeting of shareholders. The financial year of the Le Roi concludes on the 30th day of June. The accounts are now made up quarterly, and a meeting could be called within 60 days from now. It is necessary that they should have some scheme to submit, and such a scheme as the present is practically a confession of hopeless ill success. Ill success so pronounced that the best scheme they can propose is to turn over the management to somebody else! If the Miner chooses to believe that the London shareholders can be got to accept any such proposal it must have a very open mind.

People are beginning to pay less attention to the absurd statements as to the Le Roi and business is in consequence looking up.

George Fraser, master mechanic at the Le Roi, is severing his connection with that mine. It is not hinted even that he had anything to do with the alleged faulty assaying or sampling.

Let that amalgamation come to pass and a departmental store plus the hotel on Savage avenue will permit the grass to grow on Columbia avenue. Get in and help the War Eagle organ, citizens of Rossland.

THAT SNOWSHOE DEAL

New York Company Fails to Come to the Scratch.

At the recent meeting of the Snowshoe Gold and Copper Mines in London, says the B. C. Review, an interesting description was given of the negotiations with the American company, with a view to amalgamation—negotiations which were finally broken off, owing to the fact that after everything had been practically settled and the signatures of the directors on both sides had been affixed to the draft agreement, a number of unreasonable proposals were received by cable from New York.

It appears to have been the usual game of bluff which the Americans are so fond of employing when negotiating with Englishmen. In this case, however, they found that in Mr. Waterlow, Deputy Chairman of the company, they had to deal with one of great business capacity and experience, and he refused to countenance their disregard of business morality. As these people, who would naturally underestimate the value of the Snowshoe property, acknowledged the fact of one million tons of ore being in sight, and the underground development is most extensive, the value of the property is apparent. As the board have convinced themselves that to obtain the full value from their ore they must either own their own smelter or amalgamate on satisfactory terms with a company owning a smelter, they have, in our opinion, wisely determined to keep the mine closed until their future course of action is decided.

Already they have been approached by other parties with a view to amalgamation, and in any event Snowshoe ores are so valuable for admixture with the ores of other mines in British Columbia owing to their self fluxing qualities, that it cannot be long before they are enabled to find a satisfactory solution to the present position. Had the money market been more satisfactory, the board possibly ere this have arranged for the erection of their own smelter.

SCANDAL AT PHOENIX

Government Commissioner Investigating Police Charges.

Phoenix, June 3.—Hugh Archibald MacLean, Deputy Attorney General, who was appointed by the government to make a thorough inquiry into the administration of justice in this city from the incorporation of the city, has held three or four sittings already and will probably hold several more before concuding and turning in his findings to the government.

The trouble grew out of the conduct of a case of Alice Chase against police judge W. R. Williams last March, in which the former was exonerated of criminal charges. Five aldermen resigned as an outcome of the case, and many letters were written to the government. The appointment of the commissioners was the direct result of the appeal to the government to straighten out the matter.

As yet there has been no intimation of what the commissioner's report will be. Two witnesses are expected to arrive from Moyie today to give testimony.
