OTTAWA DELEGATES

Demands Made by Kootenaians Upon the Dominion Ministry.

Senator Templeman and Mr. Morrison introduced a delegation to Hon. Mr. Fielding last week consisting of Manager Aldridge of of the Trail smelter. Mr. G. O. Buchanan, of Kaslo, and Mr. Cronin, manager of the St. Eugene mine at Moyie, who urged the adoption of a tariff which would protect the silver lead industry of British Columbia. They asked that the duty on dry white-lead being increased to 25 per cent, and also urged additional representation in parliament for the Kootenay district.

They also asked that the bounty of $160,000, which was arranged for last year by the government to be paid at $5 per ton on production of refined lead, be paid, even if the production for the year has not exceeded 14,000 tons. At present there is no prospect of 20,000 tons production. In other words they want $100,000 paid over for the production of 14,000 tons, or about $7 per ton.

The delegates in addition asked that the government deal with the 50,000 acres of coal lands owned by the country and place them in hands of an independent company, with a limit on the price of $3.50 per ton f. o. b. on coke, and $1.75 for screen coal.

OTTAWA STILL STUBBORN.

Persists in Rejecting all Bills Disallowing Oriental Labor.

At the Saturday sitting of the provincial legislature Mr. Helmcken asked the attorney general whether it was true that word had been received from Ottawa to the effect that unless the provincial legislature struck out clauses in the private acts passed at the last session referring to the employment of labor the Dominion government would disallow those acts.

The attorney general declared that the Dominion government has so proclaimed its intentions.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE PENDING

Schalkburger Endeavors to Arrange a Peace.

BANISHMENT PROCLAMATION DROPS

Comments of London Press--Belief That Boer Commanders Will Disregard This Latest Intervention.

London, March 24.—There is little disposition in London to regard the news of the Boer government's visit to Pretoria any too hopefully. Official circles express the doubts, held throughout of the ability of Acting President Schalkburger and the other civilian leaders of the Boers to introduce such men as Generals Dewet and Delarey to surrender. Possibly they think the representatives of the Transvaal government are desirous of suing for peace, but there is nothing to show that they have any authority to impose submission on the commanders in the field.

The most hopeful sign they see is the announcement that Lord Kitchener permitted Mr. Schalkburger and his companions to proceed to the Orange River colony, the contention being that unless the British commander-in-chief in South Africa, who is on the spot and therefore most thoroughly conversant with the situation, recognized the possibility of fruitful results and believed in the good faith of the Transvaalers, he would not have permitted the visitors to continue their pilgrimage to the head quarters of their Orange River colony allies. These same cautious reserve permeates the the newspapers utterances and the comment in well informed circles.

Some significance is attached to the fact that in approaching Lord Kitchener Mr. Schalkburger and those associated with him, carried out to the letter the advices given by the British foreign secretary, Lord Lansdowne, in his reply to the peace note of the Netherlands government, that the quickest and most satisfactory means for arranging a settlement would be by direct communication between the leaders of the Boers and the British commander-in-chief in South Africa. But there is no sign that the Transvaal mission received any mandate from the fighting generals or that the latter are prepared to recognize the authority of their acting president, Mr. Schalkburger, to negotiate terms of peace

Presumably the latter satisfied Lord Kitchener that he had certain clearly defined proposals to submit to his ally, President Steyn. But the best information from South Africa deprecates any belief in the likelihood of a simultaneous surrender of the burghers still in the field, on the order from the Boer government. Almost the best to be hoped for is that the present overtures will so modify the situation as to bring peace nearer.

The Westminster Gazette this afternoon urges that any peace proposals should be regarded on its merits, pointing out that the ungenerous assumption that the previous Boer overtures were signs of weakness contributed largely to the failure of the negotiations.

The Associated Press has good reason to believe that Lord Kitchener in his interview with Mr. Schalkburger agreed to withdraw the banishment proclamation issued in September if General Dewet and the other Boer leaders surrender.

In the house of commons the war secretary, Mr. Broderick announced that a fortnight ago, Mr. Schalkburger intimatd to Lord Kitchener his desire to be granted a safe conduct through the British lines and back in order to see Mr. Steyn with reference to the possibility of peace proposals. Lord Kitchener with the consent of the government has acceded to the request.

The announcement of the war secretary was received with cheers.

True Blue Turns Out to be Trumps--The Rambler-Cariboo Mine.

Chas. Jackson has just returned from a visit to the Rambler-Cariboo. He reports that the developments at the 800-foot level are progressing favorably, and a fine, clean body of galena ore is being mined.

The talk around Kaslo, Mr. Jackson, centers upon True Blue, where some surprising developments have flately been made. There are only our men employed, but the ore is turning out wonderfully well. The values are principally in copper, though there are also gold and silver values in the rock. Some $6000 per month is being netted by the mine which at the present is only down ninety feet. Kasloites feel there is a bonanza in the property

GIANT FLOATED

Good News for Rossland Camp.

ANNIE STRIKE IS IMPROVING

Developments at the Le Roi—Fine Body of Ore Encountered on the Cascade.

One of the best bits of news the camp has had for some time is the flotation of the Giant in the old country by ex-Governor Mackintosh. The company is duly gazetted in the current issue of the Provincial Gazette, and further particulars as to the intentions of the new management of the mine will in due time reach the city. It is said that the governor has succeeded in doing even better in London with the propositions he took over there than he did some time time ago with the notorious B. A.C. There can be no doubt that the news of the deal the governor made over the B. A. C. gave life to the camp when it was very dead indeed. The properties have been mismanaged from a financial point of view, but as mines they have proved and are proving to be great successes. It is only to be hoped that the governor will be at least equally successful with his newer deal, and that the new properties will not have the ill luck to be mishandled by another Whitaker Wright.

It is said that the strike on the Annie is doing very well. At the beginning of the month the management cabled to the effect that the ore was going just under $20 to the ton, but later developments show a better record than this. The vein varies from eight to twelve feet in width, and is good clean ore.

A recent strike as also been made upon the upper levels of the Le Roi particulars of which have not as yet been made public.

News has also reached camp that a fine body of ore has been encountered in the stope of the Cascade.

LABOR CONVENTION.

It is to be hoped that the representatives of the various bodies of organized labor throughout the country who are to meet in the convention at Kamloops within the next few weeks will thoroughly recognize the importance of the issues before them. While the country is thoroughly ripe, nay over ripe, for the action yet it will be well for that party which will owe its birth to the deliberation of hat convention to thoroughly consider its platform. There are things for which men in advance of their fellows are striving but which must be set aside for the present until the light of education and experience has disclosed the recommendations which endorse such principles to every fair-minded man in this province.

There are certain things which we all want and one of these is government upon party lines so that some set of men shall be responsible to the country. Whether the party formed in Kamloops will be strong enough in the immediate future to put up a candidate of its own in every constituency is doubtful. But it certainly ought to be strong enough to force the candidate desirous of election to endorse the platform that is drawn up at Kamloops. The government ownership of railways may at the moment be slightly premature but even this is doubtful. There exists no valid reason why it should not be be carried out if the people really want it and say so determinedly. The proper adjustment of the burden of taxation is another point, the repudiation of land grants and extravagant concessions is another. The insistence upon a fair trades union act, the enforcement of a thorough truck act, are still other points. A determined stand should be made against the immigration of the Oriental and it should be insisted on that the legislature not only pass such laws but reenact them just as fast as they are disallowed at Ottawa, following the precedent of Queensland which colony proved itself thoroughly successful in carrying out such a line of policy. Then again there should be a firm insistence upon the passage of a compulsory arbitration act which would however do away with the fearful harm resulting from strikes forced upon labor by the selfish attitude of foreign capitalists. In fact there is plenty of timber in the woods and it is only necessary that the proper trees should be selected out of which to make a stable platform. As for the assertion that third parties never succeed that need be no deterrent for as a matter of fact there are no parties in the province at the moment and the Liberals would get into line so quick that would be senators like Sinclair and railway politicians like Bodwell would wonder what In thunder had struck them.

TRADES UNION BILL.

Nothing is easier in arguing upon the merits of a case than to present a false issue as that of the opponent, and then proceed to condemn it. Nothing, however, can be less convincing. The case must be poor indeed, when the adversarys contention cannot be fairly met and his opponents have to rely on pure misrepresentation.

Such are the methods adopted by "Britisher" in the morning paper, and which are endorsed even in a more flagrant manner by an editorial in that paper itself.

Smith Curtis has introduced a bill into the local legislature whose purport is to do away with the effects of the Taff Vale decision, and to restore to the act the meaning with which it was charged by its fathers and endorsers. That meaning was for 28 years plain to every judge within the Empire. At the end of that time another was read into it by the judgment in the Taff Vale case. It is then competent by the legislature in which that bill had its origin or where that bill with its meaning as read into it for over quarter a century was endorsed, to say whether the meaning imported into it so lately, between two sessions of the legislature, is the meaning they are desirous of seeing that the act conveys.

The question has for several months past been ventilated in the columns of the leading British reviews and newspapers and one of two actions have been widely recommended, the one to do away with the meaning imported into the act by the Taff Vale decision and restore to the bill the purport of its authors and the other to give to the union equal powers against all companies or persons who strive to break up the union by discriminating against union labor.

Smith Curtis has adopted the former method and though at one time and that up to very recently it seemed as if the British house of commons would adopt the other, yet as a matter of fact as will be seen by perusing the news item in another column of this issue the bill now awaiting decision in the British house is almost identical with that before the Victorian legislature. Smith Curtis, therefore, in introducing such a measure, has shewn himself to be no player to the gallery as the Miner unwisely calls him nor impractical politician as some self-seeking members of his own party stigmatize him, but, on the contrary, to be a man of statesmanship at least equal in calibre to those imperial statesmen, the reputation of some of whom is world wide. In fact Smith Curtis has performed a much harder task. What Sir Charles Dilke and his colleagues are doing is what the educated people of the old country would expect to have seen done but what our local member is doing is a deed that takes great courage to do with every interested person in the country, one and all afraid of the voice of the people, and one and all anxious it should be muffled, dead against and flamboyantly fulminating against such a course of procedure. Smith Curtis is gaining a title to the suffrages of the people of the province which will not be easily forgotten.

By comparing the quotation of the Miner with the wording of the act it will be seen that it has deliberately left out the most vital clause of exception. When a man in private life descends to such a policy he is regarded as a trickster and a liar, and when a newspaper resorts to such tactics it simply forfeits every pretension to respect in the minds of all fair-minded men and does its cause, however just, irreparable injury.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

It is beginning to dawn upon the press that conditions in the Far East are greatly complicated with the widespread rebellion in the south. How widespread it is can be gathered from the fact that the two towns, among others, lately captured by the rebels, Lungchao and Yungning, are situated over 600 miles apart, the one being near the frontiers of India and the other not far from the coast.

It must be admitted that the best "sediment" of Rossland society think that the legal arguments of the white washed Yank who calls himself "Britisher" are irrefutable. That they have not touched upon the point at issue seems to have little weight with them. What they want to see is some means of effectively putting the unions out of business. But the "sediment" have not got the votes.

SALMO DISTRICT

Should Have a Boom This Year.

CONDITION OF LEADING MINES

Much Capital is Being Invested—Good Wagon Road is Wanted.

Indications are that during the coming summer the district around Salmo will have a decided boom in a mining way.

In the Sagonne district Finch & Campbell have recently bonded the Sagonne group for $100,000, the adjoining claims being also bonded to C. P. Hill for $50,000. It is calculated that a six mile trail would be sufficient to cover the distance from the end of the Yellowstone wagon road to the Sagonne properties, now under development.

On the Yellowstone hill a large number of properties are undergoing development, the principal being the Queen. This property has been bonded to the Holmes syndicate for $20,000 and is is now being rapidly developed.

Four carloads have been shipped to the Nelson smelter and shipments have been discontinued on account of the breakup of the wagon road. The ore shipped was taken from the second level, now in 60 feet. and is reported to average about $50 per ton.

The rich Queen vein also traverses the adjoining Hide Away group, owned by Messrs. McArthur, Walbeser and Broadfoot. The vein here varies in width from two to twelve feet and the owners claim it averages $24 across its maximum width.

The London & British Columbia Goldfields company has bonded the Ore Hill claim in the same neighborhood for $35,000, of which the first payment has been made to Birtsch, the owner.

The Homestake has a continution of the Queen vein which has been opened at several points on the surface, showing eight feet of ore from which gold is freely panned. The owners propose further development this spring.

Besides the Yellowstone and Sagonne districts, what is known as the Lost Creek district is also tributary to Salmo, Here the most noteworthy properties are the Wilson group and the Crown. On the former a tunnel has been run by Charles Wilson a distance of 75 feet on a four foot ledge of galena ore.

The Crown is a copper and silver property, owned by Messrs. Devlin and Neeland of Nelson. The vein has been cut at 100 feet by tunneling and shows seven per cent copper besides high values in silver.

From Nicola it will connect with Princeton, the chief town of the Similkameen district, where extensive coal measures are now being opened up; there are also large copper deposits in this district, which should provide the railway with a valuable mineral tonnage. A BRITISH TRADES UNION ACT

Drafted on Similar Lines to Those Drawn by the Local Member.

The bill to "amend the law relating to trade unions," introduced into the British parliament in view of the decision of the house of lords in the Taff Vale railway case, has now been printed, says the Colonist. Its short title is given as the "Trades Unions Act, 1902," and it is backed by Atherley Jones, Mr. Abraham, Thomas Bailey, Mr. Bell, T. Burt, Mr. Channing, Sir Charles Dilke, Mr. Fenwick, Sir George Newnes, Mr. Pickard, D. A. Thomas and John Wilson. The following are the operative clauses:

1. "No action or other proceeding at law or in equity shall be maintainable against any trade union, or against any person in their respective capacity as officers or trustees of any trade union, for any wrongful act or acts committed by any officer trustee or servant, agent or any member of such union in furtherance of any strike, lockout or trade dispute between employers and workmen, unless it be proved that the council, committee or other governing body of such trade union expressly authorized or were privy to such wrongful act or acts.

2. "For the purpose of this act, the term trade union means a trade union as defined by section 16 of the Trades Union Amendment act, 1896."

The strike has been settled a the Le Roi mine, but it it is still in force at the other mines as before.

Negotiations are being carried on with the other mining companies of the camp which have been effected by the strike but they are not yet completed.

STRUCK AT DEPTH

Important Results Obtained at the Famous Ymir Mine.

After tunneling 2150 feet on the Ymir mine on Friday last the main ledge was tapped at a depth of 1000 feet. When the last information was received the tunnel was seven feet into the ledge and the farther wall had not been reached. The ledge was found within a few feet of where it was expected, and the values and character of the ore are the same as those of the higher levels. This is considered of great importance as it is a good indication that the formation is unbroken to the great depth reached.

CHAPLEAU AMALGAMATION.

Pormation of a Strongly Capitalized English Company.

Repeated rumors have been heard in the camp, says the Slocan Drill, for some time regarding an amalgamation scheme under way in Europe, in which the Chapleau group, on Lemon creek, figured. It turns out now that the Chapleau and what is known as the Camp Mansfield properties at the head of Ten Mile creek, have been united under one management. To this end a company has been formed in England, with a capital of £500,000, which will purchase the several claims, and place a large amount of money in the treasury for development purposes.
