VOLUME V. NORTH VANCOUVER, B. C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1907. NUMBER 8

BOARD OF TRADE

The North Vancouver Board of Trade held its second annual meeting on Tuesday evening in the city hall. It was a most enthusiastic gathering, all being unanimous in the welfare, protection and advancement of the industrial and commercial interests and resources of the Ambitious City. Mr. Chas. E. Tisdall, ex-M. P. P., and member of the Vancouver Board of Trade, made an excellent address, which was well applauded.

Among those present were: His Worship Mayor Kealy, Chas. E. Tisdall, ex-M. P. P., Ald. A. McKay Jordan, Ald. W. J. Dick, Ald. W. J. Irwiu, Rev. J. D. Gillam, District Engineer Donald Cameron, P. Larson, Alex. Philip, C. M. C,, Ernest Townsley. W. L. Boult, R. T. Blackburn, Henry A. Shaw, I. Waidon. A. A. Crowston, A, V. Gardner, Fred. Tuck, E. C. Parry, A. J. Picton-Warlow, C. R. Hickman, S. D. Schultz, A. S. Billings, T. L. Kennedy, Jack Loutet, John J. Murray, A. E. Anders, James Murray, jr., Jas. Fieldhouse, D. G. Dick, W. Nicholson-Lailey, L. Reda, D. W. Elder, G. J. Phillippo, W. C. Green, Geo. Bartley, J. B. Williams.

At 8 o'clock the hall was comfortably filled when Vice-president Phillippo called the meeting to order. He said that it was on the 23rd of July, 1906, when a few business men got together and arranged that a board of trade should be started. The idea prevailed that something was needed to develop North Vancouver. There was an attendance of 40 at a subsequent meeting, when different committees were formed to carry out the objects of the board, particularly the fostering of trade and industry. In this regard a railway line was given encouragement to come into the city. At present the assurance is that the Canadian Northern Railway has made arrangements to build to Burrard inlet. The speaker assured his hearers that with the magnificent water front, the facilities were not alone available for the requirements of railways, but as well for wharves. (Applause.) "It was only a short time ago that many thought that the consummation of this idea was only a dream, but it is no dream," he said amidst applause. In 1886 the population of Vancouver City was comparatively few, now it is estimated at 70,000. There were only about 1,200 people living here a year or so ago, now there are 3,000. This shows the great development that has been going on here in so short a time. Despite the present monetary situation things in general here have not been dull. People were coming into this city from all over the world. The volume of business done, as well as in real estate, was greater than that of a year ago. "I think, however, it is just as well to go slow, but sure," he said. Regarding the promotion of industries, the best advertising was the providing of suitable roads, as when they were built easy access would be given not alone to manufactories but to the homes of the Ambitious City. The citizens must get together and concentrate their efforts to make a great city. We have everything to make up a great city," said the vice-president. He referred in pleasing terms to the splendid work done for the up-building of the place by Mayor Kealy, as well as Alderman Irwin, Smith, Emery, Jordan and others. These gentlemen had done much for the well-being of the board of trade, the present membership of which was now 130, and applications were coming in all the time. (Applause.) Among some things needed in North Vancouver was a better ferry service. The board did its bast to have the people pass the by-law. Unfortunately, however, the proposed by law did not pass. He thought that if it was brought up again the electors might do different. Another matter that the board dealt with during the year was the improving of the trail to Grouse Mountain, under the able chairmanship of D. G. Dick, of the Tourists and Settlers Committee. There were a great many beauty spots in the district, and the trail is one of the very best. During the year Mr. Flumerfelt, of the Vancouver Tourist Association, the Hon. Mr. Cotton, M. P. P. for this district, His Worship Mayor Kealy, and Mr. Alex. Philip, C. M. C., had delivered addresses at the regular meetings of the board. Lately the board held a very successful conversazione in Larson's pavilion and another entertainment was looked forward to. He hoped the members would try to pull well together and achieve that suecess which they have earned Mr. Phillippo took his seat amidst loud agplause.

His Worship Mayor Kealy complimented the vice-president and secretary, for their work had been tremendous. The board of trade since it had started had done good work. Every item of importance that came forward had been taken up by it and stayed with from start to finish. The ferry was the burning question of the hour. (Applause.) Such matters as the ferry, bridge and railway equally dealt with the district and city. A large number had big interests here. But the lack of transportation facilities had given the place a backwerd set—more or less. "And to succeed we must put four shoulders to the wheel instead of two—we want people of push, push, push," said his worthip amidst applause. The possibilities in North Vancouver for fruit growing were immense. The fruit grown in the level valley, reaching across the district into the Lynn and on to the Seymour will compare favorably with the up country product. The matter of government fruit inspectors not coming into North Vancouver should be taken up by the board. The reason advanced for their not inspecting the orchards here was that there was not enough trees. At a recent meeting of eight, no less than 5,000 trees were counted, and it is calculated there are double this uumber of trees in North Vancouver. (Applause.) Vancouver City could be supplied with half the fruit she requires. He hoped that the board of trade would back up the horticultural society in asking the government for an tree inspector. (Applause.) "We have a wonderful wealth, too, of tourist attractions. That wealth cannot be taken advantage of unless trails, roads and the like are opened up. We must make accommodation for the tourists," added his worship. "With these numerous attractions, if we do not allow more hotel accommodation, then our labors would be in vain. The more people induced to visit us the more people you will have here for life. The matter of having more hotels was not a question of selling liquor, but for people to come here. More railway facilities were wanted. People do not understand the lack of industries, and until a railway comes here they can't be got." His worship said that all agitation possible to force the railway companies to drop the fyled plans or build should be made. (Applause.) "It was not right for any railway company to tie up the land and waterfront. The commissioners agreed to this a year and a half ago. In the meantime, however, the company got an extension of time when nobody knew anything about it. "But we must not sit down and wail while that extension is hanging over our heads," said the speaker amidst applause. There were three great questions in North Vancouver, the bridge, the ferry and the railway, and his worship hoped that the officers that were elected for the new term would act in conjunction with the council to get these questions settled. (Applause.)

Chas. E. Tisdall, ex-M. P. P., received a very hearty reception. He said he was a very busy man. His experiences had been with but one board of trade, which he had been connected with for seventeen or eighteen years. In Canada boards of trade were government institutions. In interesting terms Mr. Tisdall sketched the rise and progress of these institutions. The first board of trade was organised 500 years ago at Marseilles, France, to keep the government alive to the interests of trade and commerce. The first established in the old country was at Glasgow and the second at Edinburgh. Later several places organized them, and a great work was done. Manchester was largely instrumental in getting the corn laws passed. Now all decent sized cities had either a chamber of commerce or a board of trade. In Canada, before a government board of trade could be formed, the city must have a population of 2,500, and the board a membership of 30. The Vancouver board of trade had initiated several things in the interests of commerce, among which were the small debts court. Statistics were dry, and the only time they were read were when people were going into a new city or district. In this regard the Toronto board of trade had followed the style of the annual report of Vancouver. The printing and compiling of the Vancouver report cost about $800 a year, but no work had done more for Vancouver than this publication. (Applause.) He suggested that North Vancouver should get up a report along the same lines. Another important thing, Mr. Tisdall suggested, was the forming of an arbitration committee to settle disputes arising between capital and labor. (Applause.) Mayor Kealy, in alluding to the bridge, said Mr. Tisdall, it was only in combination that the merchants could ever accomplish anything, and by pulling together and pushing it would ultimately be procured. (Applause.) The speaker dealt with the question of freight rates in favor of a rival city at some length. While the Vancouver board of trade lost on this issue before the railway commission, he said, yet the influence of the board induced the C. P. R. to make a concession to the merchants of Vancouver. Most of the work of a board of trade is actually done by the different committees and the president and secretary. "Keep party politics out of the business of your board," suggested Mr. Tisdall. "Never allow party bias to mitigate against your best interests. The good of the community is linked with its commercial enterprises," he added. He complimented the board on the public interest and enterprise not lacking in North Voncouver. (Prolonged applause.)

Mr. D. G. Dick, chairman of the tourist and settlers committee, reported, in a neat speech, that during the year it received from various sources the sum of $125, to be expended on improvements on and leading to North Vancouver Heights, formerly known as Grouse Mountain, of this amount $90 on the trail, and $34.98 in erecting a small building near the summit, for a shelter in stormy weather, had been expended. There is still need of another small house for the use of those who cannot make the ascent to the summit in one day, and trust a few of those who are interested in viewing the beauties of nature from the rugged cliffs of the summit of North Vancouver Heights will contribute sufficient means to enable the North Vancouver board of trade to erect other shelters to protect the weary traveller against the inclemency of the weather. The committee endeavored to give all information possible to tourists and settlers by distributing printed matter and otherwise. By so doing North Vancouver has become better and more favorably known. It may seem strange, but at first meeting with the travelling public very few of them seem to realize that North Vancouver was superior to any other place on earth, but as the place became better known it has become more favorably understood. (Applause.)

Mr. Townsley spoke on the requirements of increased hotel accommodation. He thought that the two hotels here could easily cater to the needs of the public.

Dr. McK. Jordan, chairman of the public improvements committee, reported at some length. Regarding the telephone service he said that the city was handicapped and that business was curtailed thereby. He spoke against the system of short operating hours. "What is needed, and needed badly," said the worthy alderman, "is a continuous service, as well on Sunday, and a flat rate." (Applause.) "At all times staud by the board whether a committeeman or as a private member. The proposal of the bridge across the Second narrows would benefit Vancouver more than North Vancouver. He thought Vancouver should take up this matter immediately. He spoke of the Asiatic invasion, and said that the people of British Columbia were the real contributors of the poll tax on Chinese. (Applause.)

Alex. Philip, C. M. C., and member of the commerce and industry committee, spoke at some length, but more particularly addressed the tourists and settlers committee regarding the road to Eagle Harbor and Deep Cove. (Applause.)

Secretary W. J. Irwin, was called upon. Mr. Irwin thought the first year was but the initiative of the work and that it would be an incentive to improvement for the second one. He also gave a report of the receipts and disbursements.

S. D. Schultz, chairman of the legislative and administrative committee, said that nothing had been referred to his committee and he therefore had no report to make. He thought, however, that the necessity of the community at large pulling together in all matters of public interest and especially the bridge, ferry and railway questions was of the most importance.

M. S. McDowell, chairman of the membership and grievance committee, reported that there were no grievances and that the membership roll had reached 130 members.

The election of new officers followed and was as follows: President, Geo. J. Phillippo; first vice-president, W. J. Irwin; second vice-president, D. G. Dick; treasurer, H. R. Heffell; and the chairmen of the several committees were, commerce and industries, H. C. Wright; agricultural and mining, A. A. Crowston; transportation, A. R. Steacy; tourists and settlers, J. R. J. Murray; public improvement, I. Walden; publicity and information, Geo. Bartley; finance, H. R. Heffell; legislation and administration, S. D. Schultz; membership and grievance, D. W. Elder; reception and entertainment, M. S. McDowell.

The auditors for the past and ensuing year were appointed and were A. Phillip and J. Murray.

A vote of thanks was then tendered the officers for their work during the past year and also to Mr. Tisdale for his attendance and information.

At an executive meeting called after the general meeting Mr. Selkirk, editor of "Where To Go," was appointed secretary.

DISTRICT COUNCIL

The regular meeting of the district council was held on Friday evening in the municipal hall. The Reeve and Councillors Robson and McNaught were present. The minutes of the last meeting were adopted.

P. Ford asked for an extension of Dover Court road to his property, which was referred to the board of works.

Miss Homewood offered to purchase nine acres in D. L. 881. The offer was declined.

The secretary of the U. B. C. M. wrote asking if the council had any amendments to suggest to the Municipal Clauses' act. Referred to the clerk to report.

Messrs. Kingsford, Smith & Co. wrote asking to be appointed auctioneers for the district land sale. The letter was received and filed.

The city clerk of North Vancouver wrote that the city council had received and filed the district council's letter with copy of resolution regarding the matter of arbitration. The matter was laid over to a full meeting of the council.

Tenders for Center road were not opened, but the specification was amended and it was resolved to call for tenders to be in by next meeting of the council. A number of plans were submitted for approval and passed.

A letter from Mr. Dawson that he had authority from Mr. Keith to relocate the Lillooet road from Keith road to the cemetery to provide a better grade, and asking to meet the district engineer in the matter, was read. Resolved that the engineer go over the ground with Mr. Dawson. Plans of foreshore lands in front of streets ends in D. L. 204, 193, 611, 649 were received from Mr. Brownley. Resolved to apply to the Dominion government for grants for these lands.

The financial reports were received and adopted.

The clerk reported settlement of Mr. Green's claim for widening Lonsdale avenue for the sum of $125.

The engineer reported progress with the Lynn bridge work and also that the work of repairing Center road and making additional crossings on Lynn Valley road was being proceeded with. Resolved to ask the city council to connect the Keith road with Robson road in D. L. 265.

Highways appropriation bylaw was introduced dealing with land necessary for the Marr road, the May road, the Ross road, and the straightening of the Keith road near the Capilano river.

A bylaw to repeal part of the Lynn Creek bylaw was also submitted and considered.

Resolved that Councillor McNaught have authority to give aid to the Harris family if such is found necessary.

Resolved that Mr. Ivan Cameron be engaged to assist in preparing bridge and other plans.

The council then adjourned.

Mr. J. W. Horne has given instructions to prepare his partly erected blocks on Lonsdale avenue, immediately north of the city hall, for the addition of a second storey. The original plans call for only one storey, but some change in the arrangements and most probably the wish of the intending lessee necessitated this alteration.

N. V. A. C. SMOKER

The North Vancouver Athletic Club's smoker last evening was one of the attractions of the season. Not only was it a financial success, but it was also without doubt the most popular smoker yet pulled off in the city.

The program was very nicely arranged and at no time was there a lagging of interest or delay.

The program opened with a piano solo "The Belle of New York" by Mr. J. Alexander. Following was a song by Mr. W. C. Jones "Asleep in the Deep," and a quartet by Messrs. Harrop, Wood, Alexander and Young. At this stage Mayor Kealy announced the opening of the Kangaroo. His worship, besides acting as chairman, was the supreme judge in the court proceedings, and Dr. Jordan appeared as counsel for the defence and Mr. H. C. Wright as prosecuting attorney, all appearing in wigs and gowns. Very grave charges were brought against some of the prominent citizens, and in particular against a number of aldermen present, who, while in Victoria a short time since acted as the charges read, in a most unbecoming manner, considering the high and honorable positions which they hold in the city. As a matter of course, the prosecutor substantiated all his charges and obtained a conviction in every case, and the usual fine was imposed by the judge.

Mr. Sam. Robb took the platform and made several clever hits. The mayor and each one of the aldermen who were present, received particular reference. His reference to grand Larsony came very nearbringing the evening to a tumultuous conclusion.

Following at intervals in the court cases while prisoners were being sought out, were songs and recitations, which consisted of a song by Mr. H. C.Wright, recitation by Mr. Gardner, song by Mr. Harrop, "Song of the Bow," Mr. C. F. Jackson, quartet, "Little Tommy Went a Fishing," by Messrs. Harrop, Wood, Alexander and Young; song, "Queen of the Earth," Mr. Gardner.

An exhibition wrestling match between Champion Rod Renshaw and Kid Thompson was very interesting, the decision falling to Renshaw who secured one fall in the time allowance.

A boxing bout between Hamilton and White of Moodyville resulted in a draw.

Mr. Spence and Mr. Ross, both of North Vancouver, developed a great deal of amusement and the earnest manner in which they mixed things up, drew the audience to their feet repeatedly. The referee announced a draw.

The concluding event was an exhibition bout between two sailors in their characteristic style of boxing.

At the close President McKenzie, of the athletic club, took the platform and moved a hearty vote of thanks to the mayor, aldermen present, Mr. J. Alexander, Mr. Wright and Dr. Jordan and the many others who contributed in the evening's events. His motion was followed by loud applause which amply showed the satisfaction felt throughout.

Killed a Bear.

A party of three sportsmen secured a fine specimen of a black bear back of Grouse mountain Saturday afternoon.

The party consisted of Mr. F. Mills and Mr. Gray, of Vancouver, and W. C. Green, of North Vancouver. Mr. Mills was the fortunate killer. He has also a number of excellent trophies to his credit killed by his own hand in the mountains near to Vancouver.

The party had splendid weather and besides being successful in game they were also fortunate in having a bear, a camera and a fine day coupled together, which is a circumstance that seldom happens. Several pictures were taken of the group and also of the victor and vanquished.

A new plumbing and tin shop has been opened in one of the new stores in the Thompson block, on Lonsdale avenue, between First and Second streets. The proprietor is James Fraser, of Vancouver. Mr. Fraser is a practical man and thoroughly understands the business, and considering the number of buildings that are in course of erection in the city at the present time and the large number to be built, there is hardly a doubt as to the success of the new enterprise. North Vancouver is fast outgrowing its one horse stage and in almost every line competition is arising.

CITY COUNCIL

A full board was present at last night's special meeting of the city council.

The district council submitted a financial account to date against the city. Received and filed.

Another letter from the same source, asking the city to open up a road connecting the Keith and Robson roads. Referred to board of works with power to act.

The by-laws of the Union of B. C. Municipalities were read to the council through the medium of the Canadian Municipal Journal.

Alderman Emery presented several applications for the extension of the water works system.

His worship said that there were no funds at present on hand for this work.

Will It Come to This?

It was a bright Sunday morning in 1907. "John," called the impatient woman at the foot of the stairway, "please come on down, I have been waiting two hours for you to dress."

"Keep on waiting, Martha," shouted her husband, "you didn't think anything of making me wait for you to dress ten years ago! I told you then that men would some day wear shirt waists that buttoned at the back and get even. Revenge is sweet."

City Treasurer Woods is very busily engaged receiving taxes. The rebate closes on the 15th of this month, and he expects to have a large percentage in before that date.

The case of William Harbor for being drunk and incapable on the 6th of October came up before His Worship Magistrate Kealy this morning. A fine of $10 and costs or eight days was imposed.

Mr. Roy Wheeler returned home last Saturday for a week's visit. Mr. Wheeler has been telegraph operator since April on the C.P.R. east of Revelstoke, where he went from the commercial office in Vancouver. J. Murray, jr., has returned after a holiday trip to California. Mr. Murray visited a number of the cities along the coast, including San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert, who have been residing in A. F. Beasley's residence during the summer months, have returned to their home in Vancouver.

A number of Rossland delegates to the Liberal convention, held in Vancouver a short time ago, were in this city Friday.

Mr. M. McMillan, of the firm of McMillan's Grocers, is a former Rossland resident, and he spent a great portion of the day showing the visitors around. Among them were Kenneth Martin, proprietor of the Hotel Rossland; T. Marrow, druggist, and W. F. McNeill, shoe merchant. The two latter are already owners of considerable North Vancouver real estate. They were astonished at the development and advancement that has taken place in such a short period and Mr. McMillan thinks that at least one if not two of his visitors will return again with a view of further going into the business situation and prospects.

The charge of negligence brought against the Japanese on whose property the little Libbey girl was supposed to have secured the dynamite caps that she unfortunately exploded in her hand some few days ago and which blew part of one hand off, came up before his worship, Magistrate Kealy this morning. Sir C. H. Tupper appeared for the defense and Mr. J. H. Livingston prosecutor. After a short hearing the case was dismissed.

CITY COUNCIL.

A general meeting of the city council was held in the city hall Thursday evening. Mayor Kealy presided and all the aldermen were present.
