BUSINESS CHANGE

Library Legislative Assembly Jan 10

The Express is inform[illegible] genial dentist, Dr. Morrison, [illegible] cided to remove from North Vancouver to practice elsewhere and has sold out his local practice to Dr. Follick of Grand Forks, B. C. North Vancouver will be sorry to lose the amiable and courteous doctor who has always proven himself to be an excellent citizen and will wish him every success in his new field. Dr. Follick, his successor, is a graduate of the Philadelphia dental department of the University of Pennsylvania, and has for several years past been practising at Grand Forks, B. C., where he has succeeded in establishing an excellent business. We welcome Dr. Follick to our town and bespeak for him the same generous patronage as was accorded his predecessor.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Angus Cameron will be at home from 3 to 5 on Friday, December 30th, 16th street west side of Bewick Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Dick returned early this morning from a pleasant holiday spent touring the southern states. Much of the time was spent at Long Beach, Cal., where the tropical climate was most inviting. The travellers were away several months.

PRESENTATION TO CHIEF DAVIS

The members of the police force presented Chief Davis with a handsome set of ebony brushes on Saturday evening last, Christmas eve, in acknowledgment of the goodwill that exists between them and also as a token of Christmas greetings.

Somewhat About Books and Writers

Edward Whymper's "Scrambles Among the Alps" is a book which has enjoyed popularity for nearly forty years, though only lately has it been possible to obtain it at a popular price, consequently we may look upon it as somewhat of a classic. "Scrambles Among the Alps" occupies the same position in mountaineering literature as does Isaac Walton's "Compleat Angler" in piscatorial literature. Mr. Whymper's enthusiasm for scaling mountains rose to fever heat swiftly and suddenly. A London publisher commissioned him to sketch some of the great Alpine peaks and among these was Mr. Pelvoux in Dauphine. By mere chance he fell in with a very agreeable Frenchman who had accompanied a party which had failed to attain the summit, and this man urged Whymper to make an ascent. He did so and the spell was binding. The Metterhorn was then deemed the most inaccessible of Alpine peaks, and to prove or disprove this he set his face to make an attempt to scale its topmost crags. The book will be called the siege of the Matterhoro, for of the fourteen recorded attempts to scale this peak he made eight and was with the party which in July 1865 made the first ascent. During the descent occurred the tragic accident when one of the party lost his footing and in a moment Messrs. Hadow, Hudson, Lord Francis Gordon, with Croz, one of the guides, were precipitated four thousand feet onto the glacier below. Mr. Whymper and the other two guides were left alone, fearful and trembling their joy turned into grief, their laughter into mourning. The book concludes with words of wisdom which may be applied to other affairs than mountain climbing, but are, of course destined to that particular application.

"The recollections of past pleasures cannot be effaced, even now as I write they crowd up before me. Still the last sad memory hovers round and sometimes drifts across like floating mist cutting off sunshine and chilling the remembrance of happier times. There have been joys too great to be described in words and there have been griefs upon which I have not dared to dwell, and with these in mind I say climb if you will, but remember that courage and strength are raught without prudence and that a momentary negligence may destroy the happiness of a lifetime. Do nothing in haste, look well to each step, and from the beginning think what may be the end."

BY-LAW PASSED

The North Vancouver City Ferries Purchase By-law which was voted upon on Saturday last, passed with a substantial majority. The purpose of the by-law was to authorize the city subscribing for an additional issue of $80,000 of the shares of the company to enable the company to complete certain works now under way. The vote as recorded was as follows: For 96, against 11.

OBITUARY

After being bedridden for a number of years, death came to Scott Alexander Peter Nevers on Saturday at the home of his mother and step father, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bailey, corner of 17th street and Cherterfield Ave. Deceased, who was only 21 years of age, was the son of the late Alexander Nevers of Harlpand, N. B. The funeral took place this afternoon at 1.45 from Harron Bros'. undertaking parlors to Mountain View cemetery, Vancouver, Rev. Mr. Schlicter officiating.

FINED FOR ASSAULT

Two prominent business men of this city came to blows on the 23rd inst. and as a result the one who delivered the slap on the other's face pleaded guilty before Magistrate Kealy in the police court this morning and was fined $7.50 and costs.

POLICE COURT

John Leach was fined $25 and costs or three months hard labor by Magistrate Kealy in the police court this morning on a charge of being drunk and incapable. It later developed through the testimony of Mr. J. M. Henderson that the accused had made his way into Mr. Henderson's house, corner of 4th street and St. Patrick's Ave. and appeared at Mrs. Henderson's bedroom door. Mr. Henderson sent the man away twice gnd the third time he came back Constable Blake was waiting for him. In his own defence Leach said he had mistaken Mr. Henderson's house for the Lynn Valley hotel where he was boarding.

A number of new water mains have been laid through North Lonsdale to meet the requirements of the growing population in that district.

A very pleasing affair took place at No. 1 fire hall on Friday evening last when the firemen presented Chief Donovan with a handsome ebony-mounted set of dressing accessories enclosed in a morocco case. The presentation was made by Capt. Dowell in the presence of a number of friends.

FOUR ORCHARDS NOW ARE NEEDED

Announcement is made by the provincial department of agriculture of the allotment of four more of the much coveted demonstration orchards in connection with the practical scheme of the local government thus to inculcate general knowledge of the most approved and promising methods to be adopted with hope of success in the several districts of the province possessing district and individual climatic and soil conditions. These allotments are for the districts of Cowichan, Nelson, Rossland and Trail, and are as follows:

Nelson district—The orchard to be established on the ranch of J. C. Neale, M.D., at Willow Point, five miles out of Nelson City.

Trail—Orchard located on the ranch of J. D. Anderson, Murphy Creek, this property being advantageously characteristic of the lower Columbia country, a coming fruit district of great promise.

Cowichan — The demonstration orchard to be allotted to H. W. May, Cowichan Station, whose property represents a large area of excellent fruit land in that Island district.

Rossland—The orchard to be placed on the farm of George Ryder. These allottments bring the total thus far announced by the department up to ten, the others being:

North Fraser—James Laity's farm, Hammond.

South Fraser—Fraser Valley Nurserseries Co., Aldergrove.

Pennys District—B. C. Horticultural Estates, Walhachin.

Kamloops—B. C. Fruit Lands Co., Kamloops.

Shuswap—Shaw Ranch, Shuswap.

Salmon Arm—Robert Turner, Salmon Arm.

MAYORALTY MEETING

A public meeting has been called by Alderman W. J. McNeish in the interests of his candidature for the 1911 mayoralty on Wednesday, Dec. 28th, in Larson's Pavilion. At this meeting he will give an exhaustive report of his two years' tenure of office as the chairman of the Board of Works. A hearty invitation has been extended to every ratepayer and especially to the other mayoralty candidates, Mayor May and Mr. A. E. Kealy, to be present.

TO THE ELECTORS OF NORTH VANCOUVER

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I beg to offer myself as candidate for School Trustee and should you do me the honor of electing me, I assure you I will use my best endeavors to secure for you the very best school houses available for the money expended. I have been interested and associated closely with educational matters, school and college buildings for the past 23 years. In England I was complimented by the Board of Education, London, on several occasions for my school planning. On September 13th last I had the honor of reading a paper before the school convention at Kelowna, B. C.

It is well known to some of you that grave mistakes have been made lately, North Lonsdale school for instance, which commenced at a cost of $12,000, I am informed has now passed the $28,000 stage and is likely to go beyond $30,000.

I am not against spending money on well equipped, sanitary and ventilated schools if we get our money's worth, but we have not done so in the past. If I am elected I will make a special effort to see that our children are educated under the most perfect conditions available.

Thanking you I beg to remain

Yours truly,
HENRY B. WATSON.

HOCKEY ON JANUARY 2nd.

City Treasurer Humphrey is in receipt of a communication from the secretary of the James Bay Athletic Association, Victoria, advising that their hockey team would arrive here on the morning of the 2nd proximo to play the local aggregation at 10 a.m. sharp. While the Victoria team lost two points by scratching two weeks ago, they asked that in the interest of the game they be allowed to play North Vancouver and although the latter were perfectly justified in retaining the points gained they were sportsmen enough to forego them and agree to play the match on the date arranged. It may be noted in passing that from the tenor of the letter it is the intention of the visitors to make the trip to North Vancouver play the match and return to their home city within about 16 hours. This is reducing transportation to a fine point considering the distance to be covered.

NEW ROAD MAKING METHODS

Considerable effort is being made in England to meet the conditions of roadmaking imposed by motor and trolley traffic. As a definite step in this direction a new and direct roadway is proposed between West Hartlepool and Middlesborough, near Newcastle, in the county of Durnam, a direct line of 7¾ miles. In designing the roadway the engineer in charge has given attention to the possible development in both heavy, slow and fast vehicular and motor traffic, each of which demands separate consideration, and possibly different methods of road-surface treatment. The plan accordingly provides for a centre footpath 9 feet in width; on the east side of the footpath a road for motor and light fast traffic 24 feet in width; and on the west side of the footpath, a road for heavy, slow, traffic 22 feet in width. This gives a width for highway purposes of 55 feet. The plan further shows on the westermost side of the footpath a width of 14 feet reserved for light railway or trolley purposes, making a total width of land to be acquired of 69 feet. A scheme similar to this will doubtless control future road making in England, and existing roads may be constructed on a corresponding plan. One of the chief advantages in separating the several kinds of traffic would be in permitting different methods of surfacing to be used, and those best suited to the traffic adopted. Another advantage would be the lessening of the chances of accidents. A third advantage would be the greater speed permissible to fast travelling.

MUNICIPALITIES MUST HELP

Chairman Mabee of the railway commission has laid down the ruling in no uncertain terms that in future municipalities would have to bear a proportion of the cost of safety appliances at level crossings and in other ways which were made necessary by the progress of urban and municipal growth. The share he broadly outlined at about one-third subject of course, to special arrangements for special conditions. But he made it plain that the railroads were not to be saddled with the whole cost of the protection of the public, which often had to be protected from itself.

"If," said Chairman Mabee, "we make an attempt to load upon the railroads the whole cost of all these safety appliances we should either have the railroads out of business in a short time, or else they would be compelled to make sharp increases in freight and passenger rates. The municipalities themselves contribute to these dangers. Municipalities and cities are growing in every direction, and why should they not have to contribute to the cost of protecting these level crossings? ...

"There is no arguing that municipalities should not pay anything, because thay have not to pay. We are living in a more enlightened age and the public must pay for decent protection. The march of civilization demands it and we must go down in our pockets and pay for it. The question is whether a third is too much for the municipalities' share or not, or whether the railroads should pay three-quarters. That is a matter to be decided."

FERRY DIRECTORS' REPORT

The first annual report of the Board of Directors of North Vancouver City Ferries Limited, which was submitted to the ratepayers on Thursday evening last revealed a highly satisfactory state of affairs in connection with the ferry business.

The report (which is published elsewhere in this issue) covered the entire period of eighteen months during which the majority of shares in the ferry company has been owned by the city. The aggregate results therein set forth represent a degree of success far in excess of that which was commonly anticipated when the ratepayers sanctioned the purchase of the shares now held by the city. The balance sheet which constitutes a part of the report is drawn up in accord with the rules of the most strict business procedure and shows that after ample provision has been made for every legitimate contingency or liability, there remains a net profit of four thousand dollars in round numbers. The total amount thus far paid by the city for shares in the company is $70,000. The business could, therefore, pay a dividend of five per cent. and still have a few hundred dollars in the treasury.

At the time at which the ratepayers ratified the bylaw to guarantee the bonds of the ferry company to the amount of $128,000, the general consensus of opinion was that the city would be called upon to make good, perhaps the whole, but assuredly a goodly portion of the annual sinking fund and the interest charges in connection therewith. It transpires however, that these apprehensions were erroneous inasmuch as the profit and loss account shows that out of the gross profits of the ferry business the necessary sums have been set aside to pay these charges. In addition to this over $13,000 good will was written off. Ample sums were likewise set aside out of the gross profits to provide for depreciation on the boats and plant whereby the foundations have been laid for a fund to be used for replacing the present equipment within a reasonable period which has been set as its "expectation of life" so to speak, and other sums were apportioned to provide for every contingency that the dictates of sound business procedure demand should be met. It is after providing for every reasonable liability on a most liberal scale that the report comes through triumphantly with a net profit that cannot be assailed, totalling in exact figures $3984.80.

This satisfactory result may be accounted for in a general way by stating that it is the outcome of the greatly increased traffic of all kinds that has been created to cross the Inlet. It still remains, however, to analyze that traffic and to discover the sources from which it has arisen, the influences to which its steady growth is due. It is certainly correct that a considerable portion of it is due to natural expansion. The population all about Burrard Inlet has increased greatly during the past eighteen months and in the natural course of events North Vancouver has participated in the general progress in this respect.

It must further be conceded that the fact that the ferry service passed under a form of municipal control exerted a helpful influence upon the influx of population to the north shore. The fact that the essential purpose for which the ferry was operated was no longer that for creating dividends for private owners, if possible, but rather the convenience and comfort of residents in North Vancouver city and district, created within the public mind an anticipation of improved service and lower fares, which proved a very influential factor in inducing population to come to the north shore Kindred causes, such as the sustained agitation and steady progress toward the early construction of Second Narrows bridge have contributed to keep North Vancouver prominently before the public eye, to impress prospective settlers with a sense of the future importance of the north shore and to attract population.

Due allowance must be made for all such causes in the endeavor to account for the pronounced success of the ferry business under municipal control, but after this has been done the honest desire to give credit where credit is due will not rest satisfied until it has been frankly declared that the most important and fruitful of all the causes that contributed to the influx of population and the consequent gratifying growth of the ferry business was the progressive, liberal and business like policy adopted and consistently adhered to by the Board of Directors of North Vancauver City Ferries Limited. The administration given by the Board of Directors has fully answered the expectations which were created within the public mind by the city buying the controlling interest in the ferry plant and business. It is unnecessary that the various alterations and improvements which have marked the present administration should be specifically enumerated. Suffice it to say that the general policy has been one which has continually made for the advantage, the accommodation and the comfort of the travelling public; the actual operation of the boats has been conspicuous for its efficiency, inasmuch as notwithstanding the fact that the service has relied solely upon two boats each of which has been running at its full capacity day after day leaving an extremely small margin of reserve upon which to rely, those boats have been kept on the run and have been managed so as to meet the demands of the largest traffic that developed upon any occasion. The inconvenience necessitated by the compulsory withdrawal of either boat temporarily has been held down to a minimum. Although a grand total of about one million five hundred thousand passengers was carried during the year, not a single accident or mishap of a notable nature occurred, although immense crowds were handled upon holidays with arrangements which while the best that could be devised, were necessarily more or less imperfect. The office and clerical department of the business has been characterized by faithfulness and efficiency. The members of the official staff on the boats and at the landings have been capable, courteous and faithful. Throughout the several departments the service has been conducted in a manner creditable alike to the Board of Directors, the manager and employees of the ferry and to the ratepayers of the city. In support of this assertion it is not intended neither is it necessary to claim that the service has been absolutely beyond criticism in all matters of detail. On general lines and with regard to major matters, the favorable vote of the electors last Saturday on the bylaw to raise $80,000 for ferry purposes carried with it the endorsation of the administration of the Board.

It is not to be expected that the personnel of any Board appointed by an appeal to the electors will remain unchanged from year to year, but it is just to state that whatever changes may develop from one cause or another in this respect the Board of Directors of North Vancouver Ferries Limited for the year 1910 has provided an administration deserving the high appreciation of their fellow citizens, and the emulation of their successors. North Vancouver will be fortunate indeed if the average in this regard is sustained in future years at the standard set by the Board for the year now closing.

THE NEXT CENSUS

The Dominion census which will be taken next summer, probably in June, will show that British Columbia has at least 300,000 people. The census of 1901 showed British Columbia's population to be 190,000. British Columbia is at present represented in the Dominion House of Commons by seven members. The census of next summer will, according to arithmetic and the British North America Act, give British Columbia twelve members in the House of Commons.

The British North America Act made Quebec the pivotal province and says:

1. Quebec shall always have sixty-five members.

2. There shall be assigned to each of the other provinces such a number of members as will average the same proportion to the number of its population (ascertained by census) as the number of sixty-five bears to the number of the population of Quebec.

3. In the computation of the number of members for a province, a fractional part not exceeding one-half of the whole number requisite for entitling a province to a number shall be disregarded; but a fractional exceeding one-half shall be equivalent to the whole number.

4. In any such readjustment the number of members for a province shall not be reduced, unless the proportion which the number of the province bore to the number of the aggregate population of Canada at the then last preceding readjustment of the number of members for the province is ascertained at the then latest census to be diminished by one-twentieth part or upwards.

5. Such readjustment shall not take effect until the termination of the then existing parliament.

6. The number of members of the House of Commons may be from time to time increased by the parliament of Canada, provided the proportionate representation of the provinces prescribed by this act is not thereby disturbed.

The population of Quebec in 1901 was 1,615,000. Quebec then has one member for each 25,006 people. Therefore, British Columbia should have twelve members. Work it out for yourself.

The British North America Act says that at the end of each decennial census the representation of the provinces shall be readjusted. The readjustment next year will give British Columbia five more members.

DRY FARM METHODS

The satisfactory results in the shape of good average crops obtained in British Columbia and Alberta during these two droughty years should be sufficient to stimulate enquiry as to the principles involved and the methods to be practised. Many volumes have been written upon agricultural matters and doubtless many more will make their appearance, but it is questionable whether there is anything being issued from the agricultural press today more readable or more interesting than dry farming literature. There is no industry in the world which requires more intelligent study than agriculture, horticulture and stock raising. Just answer this question, can a man be a successful stock raiser, can be grow fruit to perfection if he is ignorant of the proper tillage of the soil? Let the agricultural student answer this question. Why does this cubic foot of soil contain five inches of moisture while the other one immediately alongside is as dry as ashes? Take first class selected seed grain and see the different results obtained by two farmers the same seacon on the same soil, and explain why one has so much better results than the other. To come still closer, explain why some of those selected kernels should show such different results in the same field, all conditions of soil and subsoil being equal—longer straw, bigger heads, plumper grain and larger development in the stooling, making many bushels per acre difference in the harvest. These different results are not brought about by chance; they are cause and effect, and these causes have been studied, and are still being studied, so as to eliminate the untoward result and make the beneficial one universal, and this too in a semi-arid district where the precipitation does not exceed twelve inches and water for irrigation is not available. To commence then, the soil must be put into proper physical condition to receive the moisture whether rain or snowfall in the winter. The first thing is for the disc harrow to follow the binder hour by hour. If this is not done what moisture there is in the ground will, under the influence of the hot sun beating on the bare ground speedily evaporate. The importance of this being done at the right time is great. Leave the discing for a couple of days and fall ploughing may become an impossibility through the hardness of the ground, but disc immediately behind the binder and later on the soil will plough up easily and in mellow condition. The sub-service packer is an implement of Professor Campbell's invention which follows the plough and prepares an ideal seed bed from two to four inches below the surface. The soil in this condition is then ready for the winter precipitation, receiving every drop and allowing none to run away or to evaporate, as it will do in great measure from a hard surface. To lay the ground up rough for the winter is not advisable, as too great a surface is exposed and evaporation is accelerated.

The sub-surface packer is perhaps the only implement not usually found on a well stocked farm. It is somewhat similar to a disc, but the ten wheels are solid and wedge shaped. But an improved packer with harrow combination has been recently brought out which attached to the plough does the whole work in one operation. In answer to my enquiry the inventor writes: "I will commence by saying I was raised in Colorado, and have lived eight years in Alberta, so have had a good chance to study dry farming. This implement is on the same principle as Prof. Campbell's, but smaller, and is followed by spring teeth similar to a weeder that can be raised or lowered by a lever. The whole outfit weighs but 170 pounds and can be attached to the plough in such a way that it runs on the fresh ploughed furrow and does the work better than can be done afterward. It turns on a swivel and does as good work in turning corners as elsewhere, and will not break itself or the plough on rocky land. I made the first one because I knew what I wanted and could not buy it. I have used two of them for two seasons and consider the implement just as necessary as a plough. I can summer fallow in dry windy weather without drying out the soil. This year I had 50 acres of fine wheat on which the attachment was used, the other 100 acres were a total failure. My neighbor, G. H. Lait, used it and took five first prizes for grain at Medicine Hat fair, but on the land where it was not used the crop was not worth cutting, thus showing the conversation of moisture as well as an ideal seed bed. This fall I started a plough with the attachment with one man and a four horse team and got eighteen acres per week into ideal shape for winter wheat and the fifty acres looks fine. Some of it was harrowed afterwards, but the plant shows no improvement. We have had some very windy weather since sowing but the soil has not blown a bit. I think it would prevent washing if used on irrigated land. I have patented the implement in Canada and the U. S. A. Yours faithfully, R. R. Markle Gros Ventre, Alberta, Sept. 23, 1910.

Now I think my task is done. I have tried to tabulate simple practical cases, hoping that the thoughtful members of the community will find an attractive subject worthy of their consideration. This phase of agricultural development is, as I have already stated, claiming the attention of agriculturists all through the semi-arid States af America, Mexico, Australia, South Africa, Turkey, Hungary, etc. Practical men from each of those countries have attended the congresses. At the last one our neighbor, Senator Bostock, represented the Dominion but no representative was there from British Columbia, nor is there a corresponding secretary for this province as there is in Alberta and Saskatchewan. This is badly needed in connection with a demonstration farm within half an hour's walk of this city, and desiring not to repeat what has been already written I would seriously urge upon the Farmers' Institute of this district to do its very utmost to accomplish this purpose.—C. E. Lawrence in Kamloops Standard.

NEW MAP OF B. C.

A new map of the province of British Columbia has just been issued by the department of the Interior, Ottawa, which will assist in meeting the demand for complete and up-to-date information.

This map, which is on a scale of 35 miles to the inch, shows not only the whole province, but portions of each of the following: Yukon and the Northwest territories on the north, Alberta on the east, the United States on the south and Alaska on the west. All information of a general nature, which the scale will admit of, is shown, including railway stations and all important points.

The boundaries of the Dominion railway belt and the Dominion land agencies into which it is divided are clearly shown. All township and range lines of the Dominion lands system of survey, with corresponding numbers, are shown in this district. The Dominion electoral divisions throughout the province are also shown.

All railways in operation and the Grand Trunk Pacific line is located.

Single copies of the map will be sent, free of cost, on application to the chief geographer, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

REMOVE BEAVER PROTECTION

Provincial Game Warden Williams says it is probable that the restriction on hunting beaver will be raised next fall and the following year in certain sections of the province. The closed season of the last six years has resulted in a rapid increase of the animals and in some places they have become such nuisances as to lead to special permission to destroy them. The government action when suspension of the closed season ends next November will be directed to conserve beaver colonies where the dams are doing no injury and will be aimed at the prevention of increase as to cause damage. The animals will never, however, be allowed to get to the low point when the present restrictions were framed.

INSURANCE REPORT

The report of the superintendent of insurance for the year 1909 shows that business was carried on in Canada by 55 companies; of these 23 were Canadian, 18 British and 14 American. Cash received for fire premiums during the year amounted to $17,049,474, being greater than received in 1908 by $22,199. The amount paid out for losses was $8,646,826, which was less than paid in 1908 by $1,632,629. British companies paid out for losses $4,849,587, Canadian companies $2,123,508, and American companies $1,653,731. The gross amount of policies, new and renewed, taken during the year was $1,579,975,867, which was greater by $112,681,846 than the amount taken in 1908.

The business of life insurance was transacted by forty active companies, of which 23 are Canadian, 6 British, and 11 American. The total amount of life policies taken during the year was $131,739,085, an increase over 1908 of $31,842,872. For the year the Canadian companies show an increase of $10,092,394, the British companies an increase of $540,473, and the American companies an increase of $21,121,005. The total amount of insurance written by the Canadian companies during the year was $70,121,877, American $48,686,230, and British $3,- by native companies exceeds that tak- by native companied exceeds that taken by British and American together by $26,500,000.

The total amount of life insurance in force at the end of the year was $780,356,980, which shows the large increase of $60,840,966 over the previous year.

TIMBER LICENSE REVENUE

There were during November 283 timber licenses issued for lands east of the Cascade Mountains, producing a revenue to the province of $33,405; west of the Cascades the total number of licenses issued was 816, and the accruing revenue $115,057.60; timber license transfers added $1360 to the month's total; penalties, $25, and miscellaneous receipts, $2.10, making an aggregate for November of revenue in this department of $150,049.70.

No operations in coal prospecting licenses are recorded during the month.

LYNN VALLEY NOTES

(Express special correspondent)

Mr. J. W. Bunker has returned from Kamloops.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, Fromme Road, have moved to their new house, Fredrick Road.

Mr. Matheson, Langley, Mrs. H. Harvey, Vancouver and daughter, were visiting Mr. Robt. Brown Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lewis have left for an extended visit with friends and relatives in London, Ont., for Christmas and New Year's.

A box social will be held under the auspices of the Lynn Valley Institute in their hall on the evening of January 20th, the particulars of which will be given later.

Poultry fanciers in the Valley are preparing a number of birds for the Vancouver poultry show next month. May their enterprising spirit land one or two of the ribbons.

Mrs. Crawford is convalescent at the North Vancouver hospital where she has been stricken with typhoid fever. Her many friends will be glad to know of her improved condition.

Fromme road in Lynn Valley has been extended to Wellington Drive and the appearance of the work is a striking testimony of the good work of Foreman McLean.

The prevailing fine weather this week end brought a number of real estate hunters to the valley. Several parties were noticed around Centre, Doran and Lynn View.

The several new roads in the district present a very attractive appearance and this is attributed to a large extent to the supervision of Inspector Reid.

The district is constructing a temporary foot bridge across Lynn creek just above the Lynn Valley car terminus. This is for the convenience of settlers and travellers going through by Rice Lake and through to Seymour. The plans for the permanent bridge are now well under way and work will commence at the earliest possible moment.

WEST VANCOUVER NEWS

Mr. Harry Thompson has also moved into his bungalow near Hollyburn wharf and when same is quite finished it will have a very cosy and charming appearance.

Messrs. R. Crane and A. Smith have commenced work on their homes which are being erected in D. L. 1079 and all the building material has now been delivered in each case.

Mr. W. A. Thompson has now moved into his house which is situated on the Marr Road and the view which can be obtained from this delightful spot is equal to that of any in the vicinity of Vancouver.

When the work of widening the Gordon Road is completed it will have a width of 22 feet opened up and ditches are being dug on either side, also culverts put under the Keith Road so there is no longer any danger of the heavy rains causing any damage to the road bed.

There are a great many more people travelling by the West Vancouver ferry boats this winter than there were last and as the launch is now fitted up with a small air-tight stove it is no hardship to cross on this run even in the coldest weather.

Mr. Charles Nelson is having his grounds laid out in a very artistic manner and has already planted quite a number of fruit tress, shrubs and flowers. The tennis court is also coming along in good shape and Mr. Nelson hopes to have it ready for playing on by next summer.

The work of building the first store in West Vancouver is now well in hand and when completed will be much appreciated by residents in this locality who up to now have been ordering their stores from Vancouver. Mr. Alexander is having this building erected on the Keith Road near the wharf and in addition to the store it will contain two offices which will be utilised for real estate purposes. This is an important step in the great strides which have been made in building during the past year and now things are on a firm footing there is not the slightest doubt but that West Vancouver will be a famous residential section for those who have their businesses in the cities of Vancouver and North Vancouver.

CANADIAN FISHERIES REPORT

The annual report of the fisheries department of the Dominion shows that the total value of all kinds of fish and fish products taken by Canadian fishermen during the last fiscal year was $29,629,169. This sum constitutes a record, being $4,178,084 ahead of of 1908, and $149,607 better than the total of 1905, which was the previous record.

The great increase in value is due to increased catches in the western provinces, British Columbia alone contributing nearly four millions of the increase.

The total number of men directly engaged in the work of the fisheries throughout Canada last year was 90,357.

In commenting on the action of the department taken two years ago to assist fishermen on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts in transporting fresh fish to the inland provinces by means of a special fast freight service and government assistance in the way of meeting the express charges, the report says: "Before the question of improved facilities was taken up by the department the interior Canadian markets were practically altogether supplied from the United States. Of course there are some kinds of fish not caught off the Canadian coasts, and for which there is a certain demand at hotels, etc., which continue, and no doubt will continue to be brought to Canada, but that the trade in staple food fish, such as cod, haddock, halibut, salmon, etc., which were previously obtained from the United States, has been practically altogether replaced by Canadian fish, is quite obvious.

In 1906 the imports of fresh fish from the United States into Ontario and Quebec was 1,968,572 pounds. In 1908 such importations had fallen off to 1,180,543 pounds, while during the years which ended on March 31, 1910, such shipments, including oysters in the shell and lobetsre, of which there were 2,115 barrels of the former and 26 barrels of the latter, had fallen off to but 761,569 pounds.

"Not only had importations of fresh fish from the United States been practically supplanted, but the consumption of such wholesome and nutritious food drawn from Canadian sources, is rapidly increasing.

Work on the erection of the horse show building at the Queen's Park, New Westminster exhibition grounds is to be resumed at an early date, judging from the fact that tenders are being called by the R. A. & I. Society for the completion of the building. The tenders have to be in to the secretary by Saturday next, Dec. 10th are are for labor only.

Burns' Supper (Haggis)—25th January, 1911, Horticultural Hall.

C., in the said Municipality of the City of North Vancouver, of which every person is hereby required to take notice and govern himself accordingly.

"The qualification for Mayor shall be his being a male British subject of the full age of twenty-one years, and having been, for the six months next preceding the day of his nomination the registered owner, in the Land Registry Office, of land or real property in the City, of the assessed value, on the last Municipal Assessment Roll, of One Thousand ($1000) Dollars or more, over and above any registered judgment or charge, and who is otherwise qualified as a Municipal voter."

"The qualifications for Alderman shall be his being a male British subject of the full age of twenty-one years and having been for the six months next preceding the day of nomination the registered owner in the Land Registry Office, of land or real property in the City, of the assessed value, on the last Municipal Assessment Roll, of Five Hundred ($500) Dollars or more, over and above any registered judgment or charge, and who is otherwise qualified as a Municipal voter."
