Memorial Service Held in Athletic Grounds

Large Crowd Participates in Impressive Service---Indians Represented by Their Chief.

North Vancouver responded loyally to the summons to attend a public memorial service for King Edward VII on Friday afternoon. The service was held in the open air on the Horticultural Society's grounds and was attended by upwards of one thousand citizens.

The procession formed at the City Hall under Chief of Police Davies acting as marshall, and marched to the grounds. The order of procession was as follows:

N. V. City Band
Children from Mission School
Boy Scouts
School Children from City and District.
Indian Chiefs and Braves
Mayor May, Reeve McNaught and Members of City and District Councils
Members of I. O. O. F.
Members of K. of P.
Members of S. of E.
St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society
City Clergy and Citizens

The procession started with the band playing the funeral march "At the Cross" by Riley and which was followed later by a dirge "There is no Death" by the same composer.

Rev. J. Hugh Hooper, directed the service at the grounds and associated with him were Revs. Gillies, Gillam Peytavin, Dalton, Butler and Davis. Mr. T. W. Ward presided at the organ, playing a portion of the "Dead March from Saul" at the opening and Chopin's funeral march at the close. An excellent choir which was comprised of members of the choirs of the several city churches led the singing enthusiastically throughout.

The official chairs on the platform were occupied by Mayor May, Reeve McNaught, Aldermen McRae, McNeish, Schultz, Irwin and Smith, and Councillors Allan and Lawson.

Mayor May, in the opening address expressed his appreciation of the presence of such a large gathering composed of citizens of all sects and classes and including likewise a goodly number of members of the native tribe, to pay tribute to the memory of our departed Sovereign, to express condolence with the bereaved Queen and the Royal Family, and to express their hope for King George V. and Queen Mary that a kind providence may direct their rule and that all wisdom may be accorded them for every exigency that may arise. Referring to King Edward VII. Mayor May observed that he was pre-eminently a man among men, an affectionate husband and father, a king among men men. He was honored as king of the greatest nation that the world ever saw and as one of the greatest of its long and illustrious line of sovereigns. Mayor May then referred briefly to the administration of justice, the protection of the rights and liberties of the people, the progress in science and in literature which has marked the period of the reign of King Edward, placing special emphasis upon the familiar declaration of Queen Victoria that the Bible was the foundation of British greatness. At the very zenith of his fame and his usefulness our Heavenly Father has taken our departed sovereign to himself, but his star would continue to shine through future eras of the history of the nation and the empire.

Reeve McNaught touched briefly upon the solemnity of the occasion which called the concourse together. In all probability it would not fall within the experience of those present to gather again on any similar occasion within the span of this life. Eulogizing the deceased king he declared that he was "a manly king and a kingly king." There were and had been too few such in the world. He was a ruler who lived not for himself but for the people over whom he held sway. He bore the burdens of his subjects for them. He took heavy burdens upon his own shoulders in order to protect the people. As a peacemaker there had been none to equal him. Of him it might be said with peculiar appropriateness that he had turned "Swords into ploughshares and spears into pruning hooks." When nearing his death he was able to say consistently "I think I have done my duty." Such had been his whole aim during his tenure of earthly power. Here was an example worthy the emulation of every citizen of the empire. It would be well for each were we able to say when the time of our departure has arrived as said King Edward VII. "I think I have done my duty."

Chief Mathias Joe Capilano observed that this was his first speech since he had succeeded to the position of Chief upon the death of his father. That father had often told him how he saw King Edward VII. at Buckingham Palace and that the King had taken him by the hand. This had greatly pleased the aged chief. Now the king had gone to sleep and we have heard him for the last time. "My father is asleep on the North Vancouver hillside and King Edward is asleep far away in England and we children are left behind." We now have a new king, George V. We all like him for his father's sake and say "God Save King George," so let us live in harmony between Indians and white people at North Vancouver.

The hymn "O God Our Help in Ages Past" having been sung the lessons followed after which the hymn "There is a Blessed Home Beyond This Land of Woe" was sung.

Rev. J. D. Gillam characterized the gathering as an expression of regret and loyalty. Half the world was in mourning and the gathering was but part of a mighty assemblage encircling the globe and whose proportions dwarf the imagination. The death of King Edward has revealed to the world the hold he had upon it and its peoples. He was "a king among statesmen at home, and a statesman among kings abroad." He held sway by means of tact, ability and real power. The speaker drew a parallel between King Edward VII. and Shakespeare's character Hal in King Henry IV. We do not know as yet what place Edward VII. will occupy in history. Things transpired during his brief reign which were but germs and we are yet too near those events to gauge their true import. Two words rise from the King's grave, declared the speaker, the first of which is "peace." The relationships of England with other nations were never so harmonious as they are today. This is a day of peace and Canada is particularly interested in its preservation because of her exposed position and the unprotected condition of the Pacific coast. The second word is "duty." His last words were "I think I have done my duty." He gave his life as Kipling has so aptly said in pure self sacrifice, in the interests of the kingdom. In our departed king we all have an inspiring example to give ourselves to the God given work which lies at our hand. Mr. Gillam closed his address by a loyal reference to King George and his need of the prayers of his people, that he may be enabled to govern wisely and well and to carry on the work of the heterogenous empire over which he has been called to rule.

The hymn "Now the Laborer's Task is O'er" was then sung and was followed by an address from Rev. Father Dalton of St. Mary's parish, Win-

Lacrosse Match

The North Vancouver lacrosse team put up a highly creditable exhibition of the national game in their initial match when they met the team of the Squamish Indians on Saturday last. While the score at the close stood five goals to one in favor of the Indians, the game was much more evenly contested than the score would indicate. The local boys showed themselves willing to play the game at a fast pace all the way and vindicated the fact that they have material which will round into a form that will make any intermediate team in the province "go some" to beat. When it is remembered that the local team has been organized less than a month and that the Indians have been in the game for many years during which time they have shown themselves capable of disposing of some of the strong intermediate teams, it will be seen that the local team made an excellent showing. The attendance of spectators was fairly large and gives the club every encouragement that the local public will not be found lacking in extending that support which is now all that is required to enable North Vancouver to occupy a prominent place in lacrosse circles in the future. Dr. Newcombe acted as referee and proved capable and acceptable in every way. The doctor has a lacrosse record of his own, having played with the Victoria and the Vancouver teams and figured prominently in many a hard fought match.

A reward of $5 will be paid to the person delivering to owner a $2.50 U. S. pendant gold coin, which owner first missed from watch chain on morning of 17th inst. Finder please communicate with Express. 9

The May Day committee announce that arrangements are proceeding for the celebration but the exact date has not as yet been decided upon.

Rev. B. Hedley Balderstone returned on Saturday last from attendance at the annual session of the British Columbia Conference of the Methodist church, held at Nelson. Mr. Balderstone has been appointed to the pastorate of the church at Collingwood and will be succeeded in his present charge in this city by Rev. William Schlichter who for the past fifteen years has had charge of churches in various sections of the province.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy King have sustained a sad bereavement in the death of their infant daughter, Elsie Ruth which occurred at the family residence, First street east on Saturday evening last. The little one was eleven months old and had been ill only three days with a severe attack of croup. The funeral was held this afternoon at 1.45 o'clock, Revs. Hooper and Gillies officiating. The deepest sympathy of a wide circle of friends is extended to Mr. and Mrs. King in their sorrow.

District Council Hear From B. C. Electric Co.

During the first part of the meeting of the district council held Thursday evening Councillor Allan took the chair in place of the Reeve who did not arrive till later. All the councillors were present.

On account of the adjourned meeting the previous week the docket was an especially long one and a portion of the business had to be left over to a special meeting which will be held Monday evening.

A jolt was given the North Lonsdale section of the municipality when in a latter from R. H. Sperling, general manager of the B. C. Electric Railway Co., it was intimated that he made no such promise in regard to that extension as credited to him by the council and further that it was found the work was too costly and the population too sparce to warrant an extension of their lines in that direction at the present time. Mr. Sperling said that his Company had just completed a line to Lynn Valley and were contemplating extending their Capilano line and in consequence of this he considered they were doing considerable for the district. It was pointed out that the promise referred to in Mr. Sperling's letter was alleged to have been given the District Council some time ago when the directors of the company, accompanied by Mr. Sperling, were on a trip of inspection through the district. The matter was referred to the reeve and the chairman of the Board of Works to confer with Mr. Sperling.

In connection with the application of the Imperial Car and Dry Dock Company, which is contemplating erecting a plant at Roche's Point in the district of North Vancouver to the Dominion government for increased subsidy, the company asked the council to wire Nicol Thompson at Ottawa their hearty support of the scheme in order that this might be of assistance to them when placing the matter before the minister. On motion of Coun. Bridgeman and Lawson, the telegram was authorized and despatched immediately.

Mr. Clark, representing Messrs. Orr & Company, of Vancouver, addressed the council on behalf of clients of theirs in connection with getting a road into lot 8, D. L. 1099, Mr. Clarke stated that the new owners were New York people who were contemplating erecting a non-licensed summer hotel there if the council would give some assurance that a road would be constructed to this property and permission be given to utilize water from one of the creeks in the vicinity.

The necessary assurances were given, the comment being made that the council was always willing to co-operate in any legitimate proposition of this nature.

Approval was given to a plan of grade submitted by the B. C. Electric Ry. Co. for their Capilano extension. The plan showed it to be the finished grade.

Ex-Councillor Westover wrote withdrawing his offer given previously to donate 7 feet off his property along the Lynn Valley road to widen that thoroughfare to 80 feet. Mr. Westover stated that other owners along this road were going to withdraw their offers also. Mrs. Westover wrote to the same effect. Both letters were filed.

On motion of Coun. Bridgman the clerk was instructed to get into communication with the owners along the Lynn Valley road between Ross and Hoskins roads with a view to ascertaining the wishes of the owners in connection with widening this road from 66 to 80 feet.

J. Loutet for a client asked for the extension of St. George's Ave. to lot 12-30-2026. Referred to engineer to report.

G. F. Duff wrote offering his resignation to take effect as evening at 8 o'clock. It was cepted.

The provincial secretary wrote giving notice that the appeal of the owners of D. L. 804 "Idyle Wyld" against the district of North Vancouver for not passing their plans would come up before the executive council in Victoria on May 31st.

Authority was given the reeve and engineer to defend this case when it comes up.

City Clerk Shepherd wrote giving notice that a meeting of the Provincial University committee would be held in the city hall on May 20th to consider the communication from the secretary of the Lower Mainland committee. Coun. Bridgman was appointed a delegate to attend.

E. O. McNarry and others made application for a road from Fromme Rd. to their property, lots 9, 14 and 15, block "A" D. L. 2023. Referred to engineer to report.

T. S. Nye asked that the council introduce a pound bylaw to cover D. L. 2026. It was referred to the committee of the whole.

E. A. C. Gibson, representing the Granite Quarries of Deep Cove, wrote explaining that he had been negotiating with the B. C. Telephone Company regarding a phone connection with their plant at Deep Cove on a semi-private plan. Mr. Gibson stated that the Company had asked an exorbitant sum for this connection besides utilizing the Quarry's power line poles from North Vancouver and had intimated that they (the Telephone Co.) could dictate terms in this district.

On motion of Coun. Bridgman and Allan, the clerk was instructed to draft a circular letter, first to be submitted to the finance committee to be forwarded to all the outlying municipalities as far as Chilliwack requesting that a joint meeting of the representatives of each be called for the purpose of discussing schemes for a municipal or private owned system.

J. M. Duval claimed, in a communication that he had been overcharged for water to his premises. It was resolved to rebate the amount charged after it had been turned off and to hold the unpaid arrears against the property.

An echo of the Ward 1 election came up in the form of a bill from Messrs. Burns and Walkem, for $126.30, legal expenses incurred in connection. Authority was given to have this amount paid.

Coroner Diplock forwarded verdict of jury in the late drowning accident at Capilano of Albert and Minnie Pement in which it was suggested that the municipality post up notices warning people of these dangerous places and also to have a few life buoys hung up on the rocks at such points. It was resolved to refer this matter to the owners of the property in question before taking any action in the matter.

In regard to a laid over communication of the city council in reference to the right-of-way for the city water main along the Lynn Valley road, it was decided to ask the city council to meet them on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. It was further resolved to hold a committee meeting on Monday evening to take up several pressing matters.

Mr. Balfour Ker forwarded a deed of a certain triangular piece of land to the district at the bottom of Dudley road.

Tenders for the laying of the water pipes in D. L. 553 was received from J. O'Connor and accepted. The price quoted was $176 for 6-inch pipes, $524 for 4-inch pipes and $5 for installing valves and meters.

Tenders for the supplying of wood pipe were received as follows: Municipal Construction Co., 6-inch pipe, 35¼c per foot and 24c for 4-inch pipe. Dominion Pipe Co. 6-inch pipe, 36½c per ft. and 4-inch pipe 24½c per ft. Separate prices were quoted for valves, meters, etc. It was referred to the engineer to bring in a report next Monday evening.

Vancouver City and the Bridge

Reeve McNaught and Mr. James C. Keith had an interview with the city council of Vancouver last week anent the assistance to be given by that city towards the construction of Second Narrows bridge. While no definite assurances are forthcoming, the result was sufficiently encouraging to justify the hope that the council will submit a bylaw to raise $75,000 or $100,000 for the purpose. The points of difficulty were that there was an inclination in certain quarters to treat the bridge as a real estate scheme only, while others questioned the possibility of building the bridge for the sum named, one and one-quarter millions and it was not clear to the minds of the members of the board that the city had the powers necessary to devote public money to that purpose. The matter was ultimately laid over to be gone into thoroughly at an early date.

NORTH VANCOUVER, B. C. MAY 24, 1910

BASIS OF PROCEDURE RE INDIAN RESERVES

Some weeks ago the Express discussed editorially, the existing state of affairs with reference to certain Indian reserves located within or adjacent to centres of population and sought to emphasize the necessity that principles which have up to the present been enforced spasmodically and in individual instances, with respect to the alienation of these reserves, should be systematized, reduced to concrete form and incorporated in the regulations governing the administration of that department of the federal and the provincial governments. From present indications it would appear that the sentiments therein expressed were a fairly accurate prognostication of that which was to actually transpire.

A committee from the Board of Trade of Victoria recently went to Ottawa to interview the government with reference to certain matters of great importance to the provincial capital. Among other things this committee discussed with the government the question of the Songhees Indian reserve which occupies upwards of fifty acres of choice property in the heart of the city. As the result of these negotiations Senator Riley is now in Victoria vested with authority to find a solution of this vexatious problem which has been a source of irritation to Victoria for a generation. In making a statement to the Times of that city Senator Riley said: "I have the utmost confidence that the present negotiations looking to a settlement of the Songhees Reserve question will result successfully. There is every indication that within a few weeks—possibly within a few days—the welcome announcement will be made to the people of Victoria that this large area in the heart of the city will be thrown open for development."

Proceeding, Senator Riley stated that he had asked Hon. Frank Oliver, minister of the Interior, what he was prepared to do, to which Mr. Oliver had replied, "The government will do anything in reason." Mr. Riley then outlined to the Minister the scheme of settlement upon which he was proceeding which he says "appealed to the minister of the interior as a thoroughly feasible plan of settlement and he expressed hearty concurrence in it."

Since reaching Victoria Senator Riley has been prosecuting his mission industriously and to good purpose. He first interviewed Mayor Morley who highly approved of the scheme presented and went so far as to state that the city could well afford to assume the expense of certain features of it which the government had been prepared to pay. Following the Mayor Mr. Riley had a conference with Premier McBride with the result that the provincial premier was found "thoroughly sympathetic and desirous to aid in a settlement in every possible way. He thought the plan a good one, though there were a few minor points which he desired left over for further consideration. We came to a hearty agreement, however, on the main question. We spoke of the provincial government's revisionary rights. The premier promised to deal very generously on that point, saying that it could probably be arranged on the same plan as had been followed in dealing with other Indian reserves throughout the province, where only a nominal sum had been taken by the government for such rights. The premier said when I left him: 'By all means effect a settlement if you can. I am with you. I will do anything in my power to help Victoria to get rid of this long-standing grievance.'"

H. D. Helmcken, K.C., as the legal advisor of the Songhees tribe, was next interviewed by Senator Riley with the result that his pathway of success continued smooth and unobtrusive as his statement as follows testifies: "I outlined the scheme of settlement to him. He believed it the best plan that had yet been devised, and thought there would be no difficulty in getting the Indians to accept such a fair offer. He agreed on every point and promised to take the matter up with the Indians at once.

"I understand that Mr. Helmcken has already had a conference with Chief Cooper and other members of the tribe and that he found a majority of them in hearty accord with the proposal. There may be a few of them who are not ready to give their final word, but that they will be brought into line I have no doubt."

The particulars of the scheme of settlement upon which Senator Riley is working and which gives every assurance of effectively disposing of this old standing grievance upon the part of the city of Victoria are as follows: "That the land be subdivided and sold at current market prices; fifty per cent. of the proceeds to be paid over to the heads of the families of the Songhees tribe forthwith and fifty per cent. to be held in trust by the Dominion government 'for their heirs and successors.' A further concession to the Indians which I proposed was that they should yearly be paid a portion of the interest on the trust fund."

Now that the wheels of government appear to have arrived at a stage in their ponderous revolutions at which reason is to be allowed to assert her sway in the matter of Indian reserves and in which ordinary business common sense will be allowed to influence the situation, there is every cause to conclude that principles of procedure will be arrived at which will by automatic application, dissolve the difficulties which have hitherto existed and will render available a just and easy solution of this important problem, not alone for the city of Victoria but also for every city throughout the land, which is confronted by the question of a local Indian reserve.

North Vancouver is closely interested in the developments now proceeding and cannot but watch with intense interest the progress of the movement which Senator Riley so ably champions.

GRAND MUSICAL FESTIVAL

Public Meeting Called to Discuss Project.

Very special interest upon the part of the citizens in general should attach to the project which the Civic Advertising Committee now has in hand of holding a grand musical festival in this city, at a date towards the close of August. North Vancouver is now attaining a magnitude in point of population which places the city in position to face large undertakings and to specialize along some suitable line which will result in the permanent establishment of some annual event which will constitute an outstanding feature among the annual fixtures held in the several sections of the province. It is doubtful if any more appropriate purpose could be selected than that North Vancouver should concentrate her energies upon the promotion of the interests of music. As an art it is one of the noblest, one of the most popular and one of the most elevating in the experience of men. The one who "has no ear for music is the rare exception." The man who "is not moved by the harmony of sweet sounds" if happily a very scarce specimen of the race of men. In general terms music has peculiar charms for the masses of men, women and children, it stirs the deeper emotions and exerts everywhere a refining and elevating influence. Any steps taken, therefore, to encourage this art will appeal strongly and widely to the sympathy and the active support of all sections of the public and by being persisted in from year to year will gain for North Vancouver an enviable reputation and wide publicity of the most desirable order.

Some of the purposes which would be served by the establishing of an annual musical festival upon an extensive scale at North Vancouver other than of purely local import, would be as follows:

To show that as a community we appreciate the high value of the art of music and wish to contribute our quota to its encouragement.

To promote a healthy competition in musical circles throughout the lower mainland and beyond, both as for individual musicians and musical organizations.

To assist an educational movement along musical lines which will make for higher standards upon the part of musicians and for the elevation of the musical tastes of the public at large.

To draw together the musical elements of the constituency to which this festival will appeal and to promote as far as possible uniform advancement in musical knowledge and achievement throughout its entire sphere of influence.

The establishing of a reputation for North Vancouver as a music-loving community and as a centre of musical influence will do much to promote the welfare and cheerfulness of the community life and will constitute a powerful element of attractiveness to many families of musical temperament and tastes.

The field which the festival is designed to cover includes band music, orchestral music, choir music, soloist work and in fact every practicable feature of vocal and instrumental music.

It is hoped to be able to offer prizes of so handsome a nature that the attention of the local musical world will be arrested and that individuals and aggregations from far and near will attend to compete. The fame of such an institution would naturally reach to extended bounds and would if continued from year to year attain to a commanding position in the list of annual fixtures.

During the progress of the respective competitions very large concourses of people would gather as a matter of course and with capable management the financial results should show a satisfactory credit balance.

The entire project as outlined by the Civic Advertising Committee is worthy the serious consideration of all public spirited citizens and a large and representative gathering should be present at the public meeting called for Wednesday evening at the city hall to thoroughly canvass the whole proposition.

FACTS ABOUT B. C.

British Columbia is the largest province in the Dominion, its area being more than 380,000 square miles. It is rectangular in shape, and commands Canada's approach to the Pacific Ocean.

British Columbia has the mildest climate of all the provinces, particularly in the settled sections, where severe winters and hot summers are unknown. Some parts of the interior, notably the Okanagan district and the region about Kamloops, are well known health resorts.

British Columbia's resources are unequalled in magnitude and variety. They include minerals, fisheries and timber, while agriculture, ranching and fruit-growing are profitable carried on.

British Columbia's aggregate production in 1906 was more than 55,000,000, equal to $200 per head of the population, and this is hardly more than the beginning.

British Columbia's trade is the largest in the world per capita. In 1906 the imports were $15,718,579, and the exports, $22,817,578, which was an increase in the total trade of the province in two years of $10,000,000.

British Columbia exports fish, coal, gold, silver, copper, lead, timber, fruit, furs and skins. Its markets are the whole world. Near at hand the Northwest Territories afford an ever-increasing market for lumber and fruit.

British Columbia produces about 30 per cent. of the entire mineral output of Canada. Its yearly total is now reaching out towards the $30,000,000 mark. The total mineral production of the province recorded to date is $300,000,000.

British Columbia's principal minerals are gold, silver, copper, coal and lead. Iron is known to exist in large deposits on Vancouver Island and other points along the coast, as well as in the interior.

British Columbia's ore production is almost its entirety, together with ore from the United States, is treated in British Columbia smelters. There are eight smelters treating ore from 170 mines.

British Columbia's timber domain is the greatest on the continent, its forest area consisting of 182,750,000 acres, all which, however, is not of present commercial value.

British Columbia's yearly timber production amounts to $12,000,000, and the facilities for extending this industry are inexhaustible, as far as raw material and markets are concerned.

British Columbia has about 160 sawmills, the interests of which, exclusive of the value of lands purchased or acquired by lease, represent an investment of more than $20,000,000. The annual cut exceeds 650,000,000 feet.

British Columbia lumber is shipped to the Northwest Territories, South Africa, the Orient, Great Britain and other countries.

British Columbia's fisheries produce from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 annually, and their development is really only in its initial stage.

British Columbia's fishery output in 1905 was $9,850,216—greater than that of any other province in the Dominion, and one-third the whole fishery yield of Canada.

A new school will soon be erected at Mount Lehman.

New Westminster council may submit a bylaw to the ratepayers for raising $97,000 for building a new high school and two other schools.

Moyle's streets are to be given a general overhauling, wider and better sidewalks put down in several places and new sidewalks built on several of the outlying streets. The work will be done by the provincial government.

PROVINCIAL NEWS

VICTORIA

The city council of Victoria has offered to co-operate with the school board in the matter of securing a site for the new high school at Spring Ridge. This offer sets out that not only will the city give the corporation property in that section of the city but will also provide the sum of $7,500 additional to complete the purchase of the site, over and above the $25,000 which the school board has set aside for the purpose.

Nearly one thousand names have been taken off the old list of voters for Victoria district.

Barring delay the big power plant of the B. C. Electric Co. at Jordan River will be completed and connected with the city early next year. This means that power will be generated at the new station a year and a half ahead of the time limit set in the agreement with the city.

Assessor Northcott and staff have completed the work of preparing the assessment roll for the city of Victoria for the present. It is expected that it will show a tremendous increase over the figures for last year. Last year the assessed value of the land was $17,960,980 and of the improvements $10,368,210. Owing to the large amount of building during the past year and the increase in land values it is believed that the increase this year will total upwards of a $1,000,000.

The work of paving Douglas street between Humboldt and Fisguard streets, will be taken in hand almost immediately. Cement sidewalks 20 feet in width will be put down.

Steps are being taken by the city council of Victoria looking to the removal of all electric light, power, telephone and telegraph poles from off the business streets and having them placed underground.

RECORD TIMBER CUT

For the fiscal year ending on March 31st, according to the report of Crown Timber Agent Leamy, 116,035,422 feet board measure of standing timber was cut under license in the Dominion railway belt in this province. The total revenue of the office for the year amounted to $123,763.69. Both the amount of timber cut and the revenue obtained through licenses for this period is fully twice as large as that of last year, when it totalled 53,923,157 feet. All records in this line have been broken.

The new business premises now in course of erection by the Irwin & Billings Co. Ltd., at the corner of Lonsdale Avenue and Fifteenth street will comprise two modern stores each measuring twenty-five by sixty feet with plate glass windows. The first story will be made into thoroughly up-to-date housekeeping suites. Several additional property owners in that vicinity have in contemplation the erection of buildings of a similar character.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

nipeg, who is a visitor in the city. "This gathering," declared the speaker "is no matter of form." We owe him who is gone this tribute for all that is great is made by God. He holds it in his hand. This king was great and God has put His was a king of peace and with seal upon that greatness." He peace came power, than which earth never saw greater. King Edward sought peace, with a heart full of love for his fellows. There were two characteristics of his greatness to which the speaker would refer. The first was the fact that Edward VII. came to the throne an old man. He had passed the period when his powers were in their prime, when he ascended the throne. But all at once realized that here was a man of men. He had possessed himself in patience all those years when his powers were growing stale for lack of use. Conscious of power he had exhibited magnificent self control, by allowing that power to remain fallow. Such a man was a strong man. The second characteristic was this: It will not be known for many a day how much of his greatness was of his own cultivation. The speaker here related a conversation which he had had before leaving England with a member of the nobility who was inclined to adversely criticise the king in some respects. He had asked the critic the question "You are conversant with the facts concerning the king's early tutor?" Yes. "Is it not a fact that that tutor was not a Christian?" The critic acknowledged that he was not. Nevertheless the speaker had observed the king had become a christian. Notwithstanding the unfavorable character of those early influences, the king had brought himself into right relation with God and had given himself to the people under the majesty of heaven.

The concluding exercises of the service consisted of the reading of the proclamation of the Governor-General with regard to the accession of King George V. and the singing of the National Anthem by the congregation.
