VOLUME V. NORTH VANCOUVER, B. C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1907. NUMBER 9

ORIENTAL EXCLUSION.

The Asiatic Exclusion league meeting held here on Tuesday evening was a decided success, resulting in a large number of new members being enrolled and showing the interest that is taken in the city and district, and which is correspondingly felt throughout the province. There were over one hundred present.

Mayor A. E. Kealy occupied the chair and opened the meeting, declaring its purpose and speaking at some length on the subject. The question, he said, was exceedingly important, and one that the people of the east are almost equally interested in. It has brought great minds to consider the question. The people of British Columbia are nearest the Orient and we therefore feel it most. There are many sides, further stated the mayor, but the majority acknowledge that this must be a white man's country. We have to consider what has previously existed. The Orientals have heretofore been allowed in the country and have invested here. Both governments are to blame for allowing this. Those who have to do with councils know that the people are quick to sum up a question. It is, however, found that the difficulty is not so easily solved. We must give the governments credit for ability to solve the problem, and until they fail entirely should not condemn them. There is no doubt, he said, that if the immigration were to continue British Columbia would be in an awkward position. Mr. Kealy referred to Mr. G. H. Cowan's speech in Vancouver, and it was, he believed, the best he had heard on the subject.

Mr. Von Rhein, president of the league in Vancouver, said the Asiatic Exclusion league originated in Vancouver and the object of its organization was the most vital question of the day to be dealt with in the Dominion. He spoke of a large petition being signed in Vancouver to present to both local and federal governments. This petition did not ask for partial exclusion but for the enactment of laws that required the educational test to be put to those entering the Dominion such as was in force in other British colonies. This, he believed, would result in almost absolute exclusion. Further, it was thought it was a political question that should be taken up by every party. Regarding the influx of Chinamen it was for some reason larger now than ever in spite of the $500 head tax.

The city solicitor in Vancouver made the statement that one-fifth of the entire population of the city was Oriental and allowing the growth to average three to one, the result would soon be disastrous.

The Dominion party had the reins of power and there seemed to be a disposition to shift the responsibility to others and so on back and forth. Respecting the treaty there was never a greater farce. If it was the case a European would have the same rights in China or Japan as the Japanese and Chinamen has in the European countries. This was not the case, and Mr. Von Rhein quoted several instances in furtherance of his statements.

The Jap works for one-third of the prevailing wage, while the white man cannot live on such wages, not having been accustomed to the fare that the Oriental can subsist upon, he said.

The commission movements, said Mr. Von Rhein, were absolutely useless, affording occupation and pleasure for some easterner who did not understand the situation in British Columbia. The possibility of good results through a commission would be greater if a western man should be sent. There was, he said, no consistancy in the pretended necessity for Oriental labor for railway and development work. This work was carried on in the east, and as far west as the boundaries of this province by white labor, yet here large corporations found it to their purpose to employ Oriental labor.

Dr. Jordan, of North Vancouver, spoke next, opening with the statement that the time had arrived when the people of British Columbia had to say to the east and also to the far east that we want no more Oriental labor here. The labor in the long run being dear at any price.

The doctor thought it should be a political issue to be taken up by all parties, and furthermore, he considered the time would soon come when all factions of the province would take a decided stand and force some action. The laboring man needed to be backed up in this matter by every class. Referring to the growth of Vancouver he observed that at the present rate there need not be any need of imported labor. The educational requirements was also another leading point, the allowing of a refund of the head tax after the Oriental had shown that he had complied with the regulations regarding a year's attendance at school in this city. This, the doctor considered, was an easy loophole to get their tax money back. In regard to the revenue obtained from each Chinaman on entering the country the Dominion government got 50 per cent which directly came out of the citizens of British Columbia who paid wages to the Chinaman, who in turn sent to China for his cousin with the money acquired in this province.

Gordon Grant, secretary of the Exclusion league in Vancouver, was the next speaker. He referred to the unanimous feeling in Victoria in regard to exclusion. The question, stated Mr. Grant, effected not only the workingman but the whole Dominion. Regarding the manufacturer's claim that the treaty cannot be broken, Mr. Grant claimed that in the first place the articles of agreement stated that the treaty could be annulled by giving six months' notice and it also stipulated that not more than 480 Japanese immigrants would be allowed to enter each year. This portion of the agreement which had been absolutely broken was a sufficient means for the breaking of the treaty. The invading of the many industries of the province by the Orientals were serious conditions, and also the white man being superior to these people in every way, yet the action of the governments indicated that the whites were expected to lower themselves and compete on the same plan as the Japanese.

J. W. Wilton, a prominent member of the executive of the league in Vancouver, touched on the health phase of the question. He referred to the plagues and diseases of all kinds that existed in the cities in China and also its invasion in San Francisco in the Asiatic quarter and the great danger it would be to Canadian coast towns if such conditions were permitted to grow. In regard to the importation of cheap labor by capitalists, it was known that the white man was capable of developing work that was worth while developing. The railways in the United States and Eastern Canada, continued Mr. Wilton, had all been built without this class of labor and why could not British Columbia railways be built likewise.

Mr. Cummerford spoke endorsing the views of former speakers.

Reeve May, of the district of North Vancouver, was called upon. Mr. May contended that this province had every reason and facility for being entirely a white man's country. "Suppose," he said, "we do need railway and public works development at once, why not get our own blood and kin from the old country who will mix with the Canadians and build up the country and become national citizens."

Mr. Harry Cowan then took the platform. Mr. Cowan went into the different phases of the question with spirit, stating it was a great question to be fought by all political parties as one body. He also took up the health and food matters and the invasion upon the mills and public works by the Orientals. Mr. Cown's speech concluded the speaking and it was then moved by D. H. Dick and seconded by Mr. Macpherson that the meeting endorse the resolutions of the Vancouver league sent to Ottawa and Victoria. It was resolved unanimously that North Vancouver would affiliate with Vancouver with an executive of five members in North Vancouver, from which two representatives be sent to form a part of the Vancouver executive. Those appointed were G. J. Phillippo, W. C. Green, W. R. Owen, D. G. Dick and P. Rochussen.

Mr. Phillippo was called upon and stated that he was entirely in accord with the feeling throughout the meeting and that he considered a noticeable and important feature was the plague and disease question and that steps should be taken to quell any chances of such a state of affairs becoming prevalent here.

It was moved and seconded that a copy of the resolutions of the meeting be forwarded to Ottawa and Victoria.

The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to the mayor for his interest in the exclusion question. Mr. Grant put the motion and it was answered with musical honors.

At a meeting of the North Vancouver executive at the close of the general meeting G. J. Phillippo was nominated president; W. C. Green, secretary, and W. R. Owen and P. Ruchuseon as representatives to the Vancouver league executive.

At the closing of the general meeting it was announced that it was in order to enroll for membership in the league. Twenty-eight names were enrolled.

HORTICULTURAL SOC'Y

A meeting of the Horticultural and Agricultural society was held in the Orange hall Tuesday evening. A fair attendance was present.

The lecturers for the evening were Mr. Kydd of Simcoe, Ont., and Miss Rose of Guelph, Ont. On account of the fog both speakers were delayed in getting over from Victoria and this delayed the meeting later than the scheduled time.

The subject under discussion was "The Dairy Cow: Its Summer Good and Winter Care," and Mr. Kydd did full justice to it in his talk.

He stated that the three points in connection with the obtaining of good results from a milker were proper management, regular and proper feeding and the most particular of all the breeding. The sire of the herd he considered at least half of the essential requirements for good milk results, as a sire not coming from a good milking stock would therefore have a tendency to lower the supply and grade of milk of his herd. While a poor cow was only one animal and not affecting any others.

He continued that milking cows should be kept in their stalls in cold and wintry weather, that exercise was not needed or required and the cold chilled the animal and reduced the flow of milk. The stable, if well ventilated, supplied all the fresh air required. Regular feeding was also important and the less the animal was disturbed or excited in the stable the better.

Miss Rose followed Mr. Kydd. She stated regarding the quality of milk or cream that a large supply of cream and a low grade of skim the Jersey excelled, and ice versa, for a smaller supply of cream and a high grade of skimmed milk the Ayrshire was far the best. For an average grade of both cream and milk, yet below, as she thought, a good normal grade, the Holstein was preferable.

She contended that the Ayrshire was more fitted to this climate, being of a stronger constitution than the other breeds and able to subsist on rough food. The Jersey was too delicate for the damp weather to give good results.

Miss Rose stated in closing that if a day meeting was held when she visited North Vancouver next year she would be glad to meet the ladies in the afternoon and give a talk on domestic science and in the evening she would make an experimental test in the orchard or barn.

At the special meeting of the city council held last Thursday evening, Alderman Dick introduced a bylaw "to regulate wires and apparatus to be used in electric lighting, power, telephone, telegraph, signal and all other purposes in the transmission and use of electricity." It was discussed and passed its first reading.

Robt. Dick, of Mission, arrived in the city on Friday morning. Mr. Dick's stay in town will be very short, as he intends going home again today.

The district municipal office is in receipt of two school building plans from the government. The one is to be located in Lynn valley at the corner of Center and Harold roads in D. L. 2023, and the other at the corner of the Capilano and Keith roads on the plot of time ago.

The plans will come up for consideration at the next meeting of the school board, when it is expected that tenders will be called for for the erection of the two school buildings.

Mr. Burr and family, of Camborne, arrived in the city a short while ago and are taking up temporary residence on Tenth street. Mr. Burr has purchased on Second street, where he will make his permanent abode soon. Mr. Burr brought down several fine horses, both for saddle and working, which he has on sale or hire.

A parlor meeting is to be held tomorrow, Wednesday, the 16th inst., at the residence of Mrs. A. R. Steacy, Sixth street and Lonsdale avenue. Mrs. MacKew, of Vancouver, will deliver a short address. All ladies are cordially invited to attend and especially new comers who have been coming into the city of late in considerable numbers.

Football Club

North Vancouver football team tied the Celtics of Vancouver by a score of two to two at the Athletic grounds, North Vancouver, Saturday afternoon. This bespeaks a revolution in the local team in view of the scores of recent matches. Considerable interest was directed towards the result of this exhibition match, principally on account of several new men that the North Vancouver club were giving a try out and it seems the experiment brought creditable results.

Next Saturday the first match for the national cup is to be played and the competing teams are the Shamrocks and North Vancouver. Following up Saturday's performance with good earnest pratice, North Vancouver need hardly fear for the result on Saturday.

CITY COUNCIL.

Mayor Kealy presided and the aldermen with the exception of Alderman Crickmay were tpresent at the general meeting of the city council, held Monday evening, in the city hall.

Alex Philip, chairman of a deputation committee of citizens, wrote advising that the committee wished to meet the council in regard to a petition from a large number of citizens respecting the regulation of the liquor traffic. A number of prominent church representatives were named to address the council.

It was moved and seconded that the deputation, which was of considerable size, and representative of the city, including the Women's Christian Temperance union, the Independent Order of Good Templars, the English, Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist church, should be allowed to speak.

The Rev. J. H. Balderstone was the first speaker, and at the close of his remarks he presented the petition. He drew the mayor and aldermen's attention to the present attitude of the city in regard to the liquor traffic and the open bars on Sundays, also stating respecting the petition that of the signatures solicited, approximately 90 per cent were in favor of the strict observance of the liquor regulation laws, and he believed that the great majority of the citizens were in favor of Sunday closing.

He believed there were two sides to the question, the one the financial interests of the town, the other that of a well organized and clean city with a reputation far from being unsavory, as he thought it was at present.

He called attention also to the influence on the younger generation which was detrimental to the city in that way.

Colin F. Jackson spoke strongly in favor of the petitioners' request for a Sunday observance bylaw by which North Vancouver would not become the dumping ground of Vancouver.

J. H. Hooper, vicar of St. John's church, considered that the reputation of the town in outside places was of the highest importance, such as to win the confidence and respect of all. He also referred to the respect and example that should be shown to the rising generation.

Dr. Howell spoke a few words in favor of some action being taken in regard to Sunday selling. His opinion was that the city, while some few would be benefited by an open Sunday, was not benefited by those who came to the town to drink. He considered the city would receive a great deal more benefit from keeping an orderly and clean town and thus encourage the right kind of visitor or citizen as the case might be.

Mr. Wm. Hall, president of the I. O. G. T., gave his views, endorsing in full the remarks and attitude of the former speakers and assuring the delegation that as a representative of the Good Templars of his endorsation of the petition.

In answering the delegation the mayor stated that there was being formulated a liquor license bylaw and that his council would give due consideration to what had been said and to the petition which was in his hands. In regard to the city's morality he considered that it compared most favorably with any city on the coast. Rev. Mr. Hooper rose to say that he was not referring to the six days of the week, but it was the seventh that disorder prevailed.

The North Vancouver Land & Improvement company wrote enclosing deed of conveyance of block 110a, D. L. 548, being the part of Victoria park west of Lonsdale. The letter stated as a reminder that one of the conditions which the municipality made with their company with taxes previously paid on the ground as a condition of the conveyance. Accepted.

The boulevard was brought up again and passed its third reading.

The blasting bylaw was given a full reading. Some alterations were made which will be verified at the next meeting, when the final reading (short) will be given the bylaw.

Attention has been directed to oil indications where excavations have been made for J. C. Keith's new block, corner First street and Lonsdale avenue. The seepage is quite distinguishable on the surface of the water lying in the holes. It is thought that the source is somewhere to the north of the city, possibly near Grouse or Timber mountain.

SCHOOL SITES.

The local school board has for a long time been grappling with the question of procuring suitable school sites in the city. The task was no easy one, and we are pleased to note the success of its labors. At no distant date a by-law will be submitted by the city council to the ratepayers for their approval The amount of money to be raised by way of a civic loan is indeed a most nominal one, totalling in round figures the comparatively small sum of about $43,000, to be expended thusly:

(1) For block 2, D. L. 273, approximately four acres, $20,000. This is one of the best buys in North Vancouver. A year ago it could be bought for $7,400.

(2) For the northeast corner of Seventeenth street aud St. Andrew's avenue, three and one-third acres, cleared and graded $11,000. This proposition may be secured by the city issuing five per cent. bonds to run for 50 years.

(3) For the northwest corner of Chesterfield avenue and Twenty-second street, three and one-third acres, cleared, $10,000. The same terms as uumber two will be acceptable to the seller.

The board are to be commended for its energy and enterprise in being able to put before the citizens three sites, the locations of which cannot be equalled in the city, as all sections have been carefully considered. In addition to the foregoing sites the board has arranged with Mr. Fell, the manager of the Lonsdale estate, when D.L. 552, west of the Indian mission, is resurveyed, that a site will be set apart for school purposes.

Taken into consideration the difficulties that Vancouver and New Westminster went through and the high prices paid by them or school grounds, should be an object lesson for North Vancouver to act promptly. Once these grounds are sub-divided into town lots and buildings erected thereon it would be next to an impossibility for the city to get these properties.

As it is expected that the location of the pound will be removed shortly, it is to be hoped that the city will annex the vacated property to the grounds of the Chesterfield avenue school.

The attendance at the schools are increasing most rapidly, there being over 200 pupils attending the foregoing school. The board has already taken steps for additional school accommodation, for which an extraordinary expenditure must be provided for.

The proposed loan by-law should be carried without opposition.

The city loan by-laws puplished this week will be commented on in our next issue. We recommend our readers to peruse them.

The logging firm known as the Echo Logging Company, and conducted by Messre. Brandon & Dawson, has changed ownership, being now conducted by Mr. Brandon Mr. Dawson has retired from the business, which will in future be carried on by D. Brandon. The latter is well known to many North Vancouver people, having resided for the past nine months on Second street.

The Hotel North Vancouver has installed a brand new register, fitted in a neat nickel frame with all down to date attachments. On each side are neatly printed advertisements of local interest. The whole were furnished by the Western Hotel Supply Company, of Seattle. Mr. Damon is the Canadian agent.

CITY COUNCIL

The city council met last night, His Worship Mayor Kealy presiding, and Ald. Crickmay was absent.

Ald. Emery brought up the matter of an approach to the new fire hall, which was laid over.

City Engineer Loutet reported that he had examined the plan of sub-division of lot 7, block 19, D. L. 548, and although the adjoining sub-division of lot 6 had not been correctly platted to connect, there were no jogs in either the lane or the streets. Report was accepted.

Ald. Irwin brought up the question of appointing a truant officer. On motion Chief of Police Davis was appointed to act as said officer.

His Worship brought up the question of blasting during foggy weather. The blasting by-law was taken up and passed. Blasting during a fog is in contravention to the said by-law, and any violation of this law will be summarily dealt with, the maximum penalty is a fine of $100, or in default two months at hard labor.

On motion Ald. Irwin was tendered a vote of thanks for his able work in connection with the framing of the blasting by-law, No. 9.

Ald Jordan submitted a loan by-law to raise $43,000, by issuing debentures for the purpose of acquiring additional school sites, which passed the third reading.

Ald. Jordan read by-law No. 15, which provides for the raising of $14,00 by way of a loan for the purchase of the boulevard on Queensbury avenue, from the North Vancouver Land and Improvement Company. Read a third time.

Ald. Emery submitted a by-law to raise, by way of a loan, the sum of $35,000, to be paid within the period of 50 years, for the purpose of extending and improvfng the watetworks system. Read a third time.

A vote of the ratepayers on these loan by-laws will be held on Tuesday, October 29th, at the city hall.

City Clerk Shepherd was appointed returning officer.

Among the callers at THE EXPRESS office yesterday was Wm. Williams, son of John Williams, of Moodyville. Willie has just returned from southeastern Alaska, where he has been engaged in putting in machinery for canneries Last year he installed machinery for miscellaneous canning in China, where pheasants, tea, etc., are put up. He leaves to-night for Seattle.

After two weeks' vacation Roy Wheeler returns this afternoon to work at Notch Hill, B.C., where he is employed as C.P.R. operator.

On Monday night the fog was so thick that the pilot house on the St. George could not be seen from the lower deck. Capt. Powis, nevertheless, was equal to the occasion, and made his moorings as correctly as he does in daylight.

Elections must be in sight, as rumors have reached this office from different parts of the province of the probable starting of new papers. THE EXPRESS is to have a contemporary.

In lest week's report of the city council we stated that Ald. Smith had the dog tags made. The worthy alderman states that the tags were made through the medium of the city hall.

On exhibition in THE EXPRESS office is a tuft of the genuine turf from the well-known bogs of the old sod in the County of Caven, which Ex-Councillor P. A. Allen brought home with him on his recent return trip from Ireland.

CITY AND COUNTRY

A parcel express service has been started to and from Lynn valley daily, leaving on arrival of the North Vancouver mail in the afternoons from the postoffice. Mrs. Sugden is the carrier.

The Methodists of North Vancouver will open their new church building on Sunday, Oct. 27th. Rev. R. H. Milliken, B. D., of Wesley church, will preach at the morning service. Dr. Fraser, of the First Presbyterian church, will take the afternoon service, and Rev. J. P. Westman, pastor of Mt. Pleasant Methodist church, will address the evening gathering. The musical portion will be good. At the Monday evening meeting there will be a splendid program of music, elocution and short addresses. The Ladies' Aid Society will serve light refreshments. The present building is located at the back of the church site on Fourth street and faces on St. George's avenue. A tent will be used in connection with the church on opening day to accommodate the large audiences which are expected. The trustees hope to have the church paid for before it is opened. The present building is small and inexpensive, and will form no part of the permanent church structure. In connection with the opening services a beginning will be made on raising $6,000 to pay for the church site and erect a school room, which will be part of a complete plan for a permanent building. A unmber of Vancouver friends have signified their intention of taking a hand in the matter. The mission board at Toronto will do something, and locally we shall do all that we can. The present building may give fairly good accommodation for the coming winter, but within a year a much larger auditorium will be necessary.

Ex-Councillor B. J. Cornish has returned from Fernie, where he is engaged in building the new courthouse. He says business is brisk there.

We hear complaints about the pounding of cows and other animals. Now that garden "cass," as Jonathan Slick puts it, is all in, there is really no need of arresting poor people's cows. The by-law should not be enforced till spring time. Other municipalities observe this rule.
