Ratepayers' Association and Aldermanic Canditates

Reply to Questions of Civic Import

At the invitation of the local Ratepayers' Association twelve candidates for aldermanic honors assembled at the city hall on Saturday night and supplied brief answers to eleven questions of civic significance.

Mr. H. C. Wright presided and in his introductory remarks, entreated the speakers to exercise brevity. Most of the candidates did so, and although certain of them appeared armed with rather voluminous type-written replies.

Appended seriatim are the questions asked by the Association and the answers of the various candidates thereto:

1. Will you advocate macadamizing the main streets of the city before any attempt is made to lay any kind of permanent pavement?

W. Knowles: A matter of finance Is it possible for the city to borrow the money to put down permanent paving? Advocate for the present macadamizing the streets.

R. MacKenzie: Absolute folly to consider permanent paving at present time. Advocate macadamizing.

W. Dick: In favor of macadamizing prior to paving. An area in vicinity of ferry wharf should be put in better condition. Would give fresh arrivals good impression. Advocate paving as far as Second or Third street and east and west along the side streets.

J. E. Ward: In favor of macadamizing.

G. J. Phillipo: Yes, for the present. Agree with Ald. Dick's suggestion to pave vicinity of ferry wharf.

G. W. McRae: Yes.

J. D. Fraser: Yes, these arteries of the city east, west and north. Pave small section down town if possible

C. F. Foreman: Strongly in favor of macadamizing. Would like to see permanent paving on Lonsdale and side streets.

R. C. Biss: Yes.

A. W. Sargent: Certainly.

W. J. Irwin: Yes. Favor macadamizing main arteries of traffic.

G. W. Vance: Yes.

2. Do you advocate the city giving further financial support to the Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company towards the construction of the Second Narrows bridge, and if so, in what form?

W. Knowles: Absolutely necessary if our city is to go ahead and have rail way connection to have bridge built.

R. MacKenzie: Most important subject before them at present time. Believed ratepayers are prepared to make necessary sacrifice.

W. Dick: Absolutely require that bridge. City should bear its share by taking stock in the company.

J. E. Ward: Yes. The bridge will make North Vancouver the very center of industries on this side.

G. J. Phillipo: Yes.

J. D. Fraser: Yes. Would guarantee bonds in preference to taking stock.

C. F. Foreman: Yes, either by taking stock or guaranteeing bonds.

R. C. Biss: Yes, form a question for thought.

A. W. Sargent: Most important question. Would prefer taking stock.

W. J. Irwin: Yes, advocate taking of shares so as to have representation.

G. W. Vance: Yes, by taking stock.

G. W. McRae: Yes. Must give aid to everything which is opening up our relations with the outside world.

3. Will you advocate the immediate installation of a gas system in North Vancouver?

4. Will you insist that such a system be owned by the city if the civic finances are in such condition as to render it possible.

5. If it is necessary to grant a franchise to a private company in order to secure an immediate supply of gas for lighting and heating, will you insist that no bonus or exemption from taxation be granted, that the city be given the right to purchase the plant and business on favorable terms whenever such action appears desirable and that the terms of such franchise be submitted to the public vote?

W. Knowles: Do not think it would be a paying proposition at present moment. Has been such developments in electrical heating that future developments will probably put gas out of the running. Will favor, however, if company will take risk.

R. MacKenzie: Yes, but it is hopeless to expect city to go into this at present. Be better to grant franchise to private company with city's interests properly protected.

W. Dick: In favor of having it as soon as possible. Will be necessary to grant franchise to private company, city the c[illegible] thoroughly protected.

[illegible] Ward: Certainly if we can afford by th[illegible] every pay[illegible] private company on condition that it be turned over to city in specified time.

G. J. Phillipo: Almost necessary we should have it.

G. W. McRae: Yes. System to be owned by city or have right to purchase plant when desirable.

J. D. Fraser: No. Other things needed more badly.

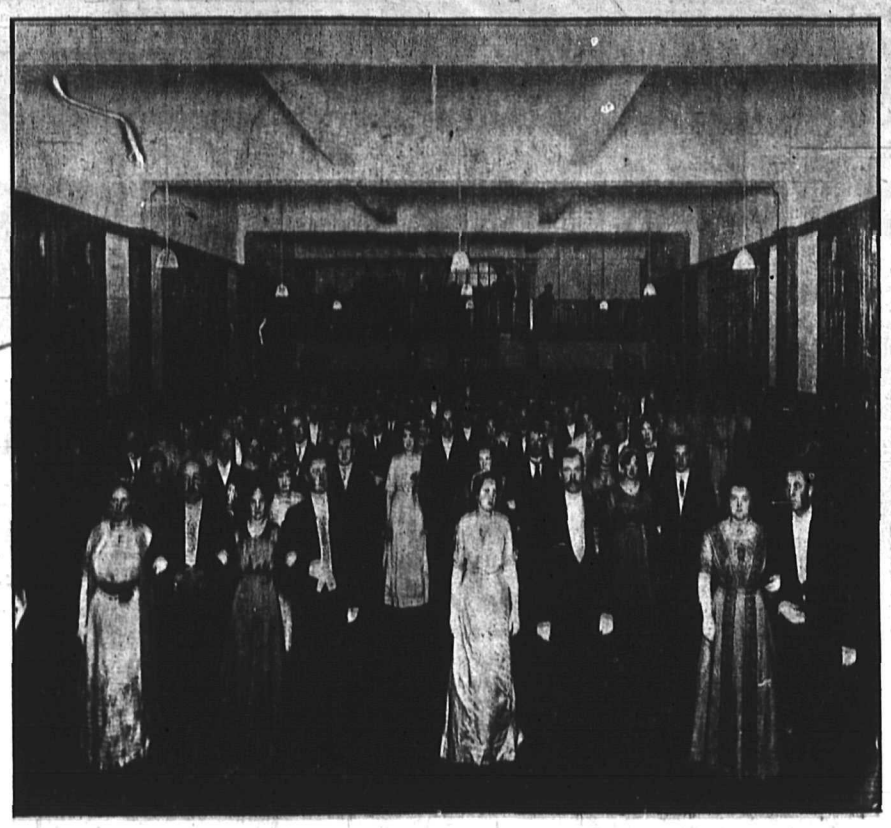
OPENING OF KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS HALL



FLASH LIGHT PHOTOGRAPH AT OPENING OF PYTHIAN CASTLE HALL

Pride and other similarly pardonable emotions filled the breasts of the Knights of Pythias on Thursday night when a large assembly, both fashionable and representative drifted towards Fourth and Chesterfield, streamed into the newly opened hall and forthwith took part in the entirely successful and memorable function. The company as a unanimous whole, strained its vocabulary for superlative terms in which to express appreciation of the many qualities of the new hall.

Mayor McNeish and the president (Mr. H. E. Reid) at the outset strode onto the platform escorted by the directors, Messrs. T. L. Kennedy, M. McMillan, J. R. Badger, A. Davies and W. C. Eisenman (Mr. A. E. Kealy being absent), also Contractor J. E. Wright and Architect R. Jamieson besides representatives of other fraternal socities. The president delivered a short oration embodying the history of the order in tabloid form, and was followed by Mayor McNeish who spoke in a congratulatory vein voicing thus the opinion of the throng. Brief speeches also emanated from Messrs Jamieson and Wright. Then and at other periods during the evening Mr Murgatroyd, who is an accomplished pianist, created keyboard miracles. Subsequently the hall was ceremoniously opened by the president, who invited the guests to make a tour of inspection which they did under the gallant guidance of Knights. Meanwhile the floor was cleared and by the time that explorations had ended, was displaying a beautiful, even smiling, shining, inviting surface of a face. So the guests unanimously took the hint and commenced terpsichorean manoeuvres to tuneful accompaniments supplied by Mr. Bob. Chance's orchestra of five pieces. (This, of course, refers to the number of instruments, not to the extent of their repertoire!) A sit-down supper, for which Mr. S. W. Walker catered, formed a tempting and attractive side line, and the rapid disappearance of fare was in itself a tribute to Mr. Walker. In spite of this, however, dancing was energetically sustained until several hours beyond that period when grave yards are supposed to yawn, etc. etc. Friday morning's philosophy was embodied in the five significant words "It was well worth it." Here's then, to the future of the Knights of Pythias Hall! And here's to the prosperity of the order!

The building itself conforms to all the best laws of convenience. In the basement there is an extended supper room, with a spacious storing warehouse adjoining. The stairs throughout are accommodatingly wide and lead, as it were, to the "piece de resistance," which is destined to figure many times in these columns as the venue of important gatherings is balconied at the east end, and at the west adorned with a capacious stage admiringly equipped in every Thespian respect. An electrical scheme involving a piece of mechanism called a "dimmer" makes a half light effect possible—a device which obviates the necessity of plunging the auditorium into utter darkness during amateur theatricals. Another sapient move was that of using steel beams across the whole span of the concert hall, thus evading the usual nuisance of pillars or supports for the dancers to collide with. On the storey above is the council chamber—the chamber wherein the mysterious rites of the Order are enacted. And here (should some Knight become too ethereal in consequence of their traditional rites) he has only to wander to one of the windows and look upon a splendid modern landscape. A still finer outlook will be obtainable when the flat roof of the building is laid out picturesquely as a roof garden.

Those useful people who poke about in search of death traps can, by the way, cross the K. of P. hall off their list of possibilities. There is every modern safeguard against fire and furthermore a scheme of ventilation is used which is adjustable to any degree required.

LONSDALE THEATRE

There is a first rate program at the Lonsdale Theatre this week.

Lynne & Kliment are the most original minstrels seen for some long time. Miss Eleanor Hatch, the operatic soprano, received a warm welcome. Her delightful rendering of national airs was greatly appreciated.

The Cosnells are extremely funny and their tropical allusions are most amusing.

Very pretty indeed is the sketch by Curtis and Levan, very pretty and very clever and very amusing too.

Of the pictures "The Last of the Mohicans" is an elaborate and beautifully mounted tragedy. "The Marvellous Cow" is huge fun.

The management announce that they have secured the pictures of the "Delhi Durbar" showing our gracious Majesties in their Indian Empire. These pictures will be shown on Thursday and Friday and Saturday evenings and also at the matinee on Saturday. Early arrival at these performances is to be recommended.

Mrs. D. G. Craig will be at the Knights of Pythias hall on Friday, January 12th, at 2.30 to meet all those desirous of organizing a Pythian Sister Order.

Last night was missionary evening at the Epworth League. A profitable evening was spent. There was a good attendance. Next Monday night Mr. Ogle will speak on Martin Luther. All welcome.

OPENING OF NEW SCHOOL AT LYNN VALLEY

The new four roomed school which has been in course of erection at Lynn Valley by the provincial government is now practically complete. This structure will rank as one of the most modern rural schools in the province. Among its other notable features it will be fitted with the latest Shank's patent lavatory appliances. A spacious cement basement will provide excellent playground facilities during inclement weather and the wide hallways afford superior means of ingress and egress. It is the intention of the trustees to have the grounds laid out on a plan commensurate with the building inasmuch as the next school house to be built will necessarily be located elsewhere. The trustees have arranged a concert entertainment for tomorrow (Wednesday) evening by way of opening ceremonies, to which all residents and ratepayers are most cordially invited. No special invitations will be issued except to officials and all interested are requested to accept this invitation.

IMPROVEMENTS TO CEMETERY

On Saturday afternoon last Aldermen Biss and McRae of the cemetery and parks committee made a trip to Seymour cemetery to inspect the improvements which have recently been completed. The portion upon which the work has been done consists of upwards of four acres lying along the north western boundary of the cemetery. This tract has been cleared and all roots, stones, etc. have been carefully removed. The ground has been laid out into plots, walks and drives according to the plans of the city engineer. A fence has been erected which is at once substantial and ornamental and the roadway approaches have been put in excellent condition. The entire cemetery area consists of 70 acres lying between Lynn creek on the north west and Seymour Creek on the south east. Topographically it presents a succession of hill and dale which presents excellent possibilities from the standpoint of the landscape artist so that, by expending a moderate sum in improvements from year to year the cemetery can be made a most beautiful spot for burial purposes. Under the chairmanship of Ald. Biss the committee has made an excellent beginning and the project is one which will commend itself to the favorable consideration of the ratepayers.

C. P. R. PROJECT ON NORTH SHORE

Government Asked to Delay Action for Thirty Days

At the call of Mayor McNeish a public meeting was held on Saturday evening to discuss the application of the C. P. R. for a railway route along the North Shore. The meeting was attended by a goodly number of representative citizens, who after thoroughly canvassing the matters in all its phases passed a strongly worded resolution requesting the minister of railways to delay the matter for thirty days in order that the fullest information might be obtained and the matter given mature consideration locally. This request has gone forward to Mr. H. H. Stevens at Ottawa.

CAPT. GATES AS FERRY COMMISSIONER

Nominated by Mr. P. Larson and seconded by Mr. A. S. McDowell, Capt. Chas. Cates has agreed to stand for ferry commissioner in the pending contest. Capt. Cates is one of the pioneer residents of the city and has a knowledge of shipping which should prove an asset to the future directorate.

Respectfully requests your Vote and Influence for Councillor for Ward 5, in the District of North Vancouver, for the year 1912

3 years actually a resident of this ward.
2 years Chairman of the Finance Committee of the District Council.
1st Vice-President North Vancouver Board of Trade.

To the Electors of the City of North Vancouver

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am a candidate for election as alderman to represent you on the City Council, and, if elected, will work for the general welfare of the City of North Vancouver.

Yours faithfully,

THOMAS L. KENNEDY

NECESSITIES FIRST

The City Council can best promote and foster the settlement and up-building of North Vancouver by providing for settlers and builders to such extent as the city's finances and credit will permit the necessary roads, sidewalks, water and sanitation; but in order to accomplish this successfully the city's credit must be conserved by eliminating extravagant expenditures for any class of improvements which are in the nature of luxuries to the present time (as for instance block-paving of streets as recently proposed by some of the members of the city council) whether they be under local improvements or as a general fund expenditure.

W. J. IRWIN,
(Candidate for alderman)

DISTRICT OF NORTH VANCOUVER

To the Electors of Ward Three:

Ladies and Gentlemen—I am a candidate for election as councillor for your ward and I respectfully ask your support at the poll on Saturday, 13th inst.

Knowing that Reeve McNaught has most loyally and insistently wrought for the benefit of the whole district, I desire to be able to co-operate with him in the exceedingly important work he has on hand.

As your representative, if elected, I will carefully attend to your interests, and keep in close touch with your re-representative associations. Every part of the ward will have my care.

I strongly favor the employment of local men for public work where that is possible ,and thereby giving encouragement to settle in the district.

I am, ladies and gentlemen,

Yours faithfully,

ALEX. PHILIP

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE DISTRICT OF NORTH VANCOUVER

Ladies and Gentlemen:

For the fourth time I come before you seeking election as reeve of this district. I have to acknowledge the heartiness of the support accorded me on former occasions. I have endeavored to live up to the responsibility you laid upon me. I have known no section or personal interest, but have striven to give due attention to every interest and specially to the actual settler on the land.

I had to be in Ottawa twice this year in the interests of the Second Narrows bridge and for fairly long periods on both occasions ,but my duties were loyally discharged during my absence by Councillor Allan as Acting Reeve.

Of the many matters before us during the last two years is the bridge across the Second Narrows which is of paramount importance. I hoped for greater pregress this year, but conflict with other interests and the general election caused serious delay. The best available engineerink skill is at work on the plans for a very large and substantial structure to meet every requirements for many years to come. All are agreed that such a structure is a necessity. But it involves raising $1,000,000 more of capital than we anticipated. My efforts have for some time been directed to obtain the extra amount, partly from the two governments and partly from municipalities interested, and I have every reason to believe that we will be successful. It was as your reeve that I began and have carried on this work and it will give me encouragement and authority to carry it on to completion if I still have your confidence and support.

I am sorry that the West Vancouver district resolved to separate from us as I have the feeling that we still need the strength of union, but I respect their wishes. I have endeavored and will still endeavor to work with them in the most friendly manner for the consummation of their desires. This separation will render another election necessary for the district as reduced in April or May next.

As a member of the late Joint Civic Harbor committee of the North Shore, I heartily joined in making known the possibilities of the North Shore for harbor works, and as harbor interests are now reaching a climax of attention, it is most desirable that the North Shore be well kept in evidence as we can have here at comparatively small expense a harbor or great capacity and usefulness which will mean great development for the North Shore.

The great need of railway communication with the vast Hinterland of British Columbia as far north as the Peace River district must be apparent to everyone, this railway should have its terminus in North Vancouver, and to that end I am directing my energies. The opening up of the district by good trunk roads radiating in different directions to enable intending settlers to reach their properties has always been my policy, and will still continue to be so.

My record of work is before you. My desire in seeking re-election is to still further serve your interests by persistently working for the consummation of those large undertakings and to that end I ask for your influence and your vote on election day.

I am, ladies and gentlemen,

Yours faithfully,

JNO. Y. McNAUGHT

TO THE NORTH VANCOUVER CITY ELECTORATE:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

In submitting my name in candidature for aldermanic honors I respectfully request your support at the forthcoming elections when your mark of confidence will be appreciated, and if elected, it shall be my earnest endeavor to merit the same by such a conscientious discharge of civic duties as shall best promote the welfare of the community.

Yours faithfully,

R. MacKENZIE

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF NORTH VANCOUVER:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am prepared to devote an adequate amount of time and energy to the work of the council and hav ethe honor of soliciting your vote and influence for election as alderman on January 11th.

It shall be my constant endeavor to secure clean, progressive and economical administration.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF NORTH VANCOUVER

Ladies and Gentlemen:

At the request of a large number of ratepayers I have consented to place myself before you as a candidate for alderman at the coming election. I stand for no particular section of the city, but if elected will support a good clean progressive administration. I respectfully solicit your vote and influence.

Yours respectfully,

GEORGE W. VANCE

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF NORTH VANCOUVER

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I beg to announce to you that I shall be a candidate for alderman to represent you in the city council this year.

I have resided in North Vancouver for eight years and I know the requirements fully. If you elect me to represent you, believe me, I will make it my chief aim to serve you faithfully and well.

I am in favor of the division of the city into wards, in that way only, the aldermen whom you elect serve your interests best. A few of the improvements that I should support, if elected ,would be:

Macadamizing of streets; a gas system owned by the city, if possible, if not, a franchise should be granted to a reliable company for a limited period with option of purchase by the city.

The ferry service should be amply provided for, including absolute safety for our residents and the public in crossing the railway tracks.

The Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Co. should be aided in every way, the bridge being absolutely necessary for the development of the North Shore.

More ample police protection by increasing the force should be provided for.

The bylaws as existing should be carefully enforced especially as regards to protection of citizens and property.

Foreshore rights in connection with the Indian Reserve should be acquired at the earliest convenience.

At a public meeting to be held before the election, I will make my position clear to you, and if you are satisfied with me, then give me your support and your vote at the election.

Believe me to remain,

Yours truly,

GEO. J. PHILLIPO

Ladies and Gentlemen,—In response to the requests of a large number of ratepayers, I have consented to place myself before you as a candidate for alderman at the coming election to be held on Thursday, January 11th, 1912.

It has been my chief aim during the six years of my residence to promote the welfare and advancement of North Vancouver in the most effective and impartial manner, and having already served you in various public capacities including three terms in the city council and previously one term in the district council I feel that the experience thus acquired together with my knowledge of local requirements, would be of sufficient value to justify my request for your hearty support.

Faithfully yours,

Here at my feet was the explanation. The base of the iron candlestick accounted for the octagonal design; while the fragments of a shallow, saucer-like sea-shell, which had been utilized as a match-holder, accounted for the smaller spot. These two articles manifestly had reposed upon top of the étagère. The matches, to the number of half a doen or so, were strewn upon the stairs and landing.

I picked up the candlestick from where it lay upon the landing, and examined it with much interest. It was a solid affair of ornamental iron, about fifteen inches high, and weighed some six or eight pounds—clearly a nasty weapon if wielded by a strong arm.

The bit of candle which it had contained lay near by, one end flattened out from having been crushed under somebody's foot.

At the time of his tragic death Mr. Page was in his sixty-first year, but a large and very vigorous man. He had been garbed in his street clothes (save for a frayed and purple smoking-jacket), thus contradicting Burke's belief that the household had retired. On the right temple the mark clearly showed where the candlestick's base had crushed the skull beneath. Death certainly had been instantaneous.

While I held the candlestick in my hand, Maillot suddenly exclaimed:

"By George, Swift! the old gentleman's death may have been owing to accident, after all!"

I looked keenly at him.

"Suppose he was here on the landing," the young fellow went on enthusiastically; "suppose somebody knocked that book-case affair suddenly forward—might've stumbled against it in the dark, you know—why, that heavy candlestick would have put a quietus on any man, falling on his head that way."

But I could not encourage this idea.

"I thought of that as soon as I saw the overturned whatnot," said I; "but several circumstances disprove it.

"In the first place, if the candlestick slid off the top, the dust would show it. Now the shell did slide, for you can plainly see where it scraped the dust in doing so.

"Again, considering your supposition, the candlestick would have struck about half-way up the flight; if Mr. Page had been at that point on the stairs—in the line of its fall—his head would have been too high to have encountered it. And then, Maillot, look here." I pointed to the object of interest itself.

"If you were carrying it while the candle was lighted," I said, "your thumb would be uppermost, and your little finger nearest the base—wouldn't they?"

"Naturally."

"Very well. Suppose, now, I reverse my grasp—my thumb toward the base, the little finger toward the top—I now have it in a pretty effective position for use as a bludgeon, eh?"

He was following me intently, and now nodded his head in token of comprehension.

"Look at those drippings," I went on; "the hand that last grasped the candlestick did not try to avoid them, although they were yet soft and warm from the flame. It doesn't require a trained eye to determine that the thumb was nearest the base."

"I declare!" he wonderingly interrupted. "Blest if you're not right, Swift. The candle was burning when somebody grabbed it up for use as a club. Whoever it was he caught hold of it with a pretty firm grip."

"An additional argument," I added, "that it was put to some violent use. It isn't necessary to hold it anything near so tight merely to carry it.

"However," I pursued, "the circumstance is in a way unfortunate. While I can gather the idea that the hand wasn't inured to hard labor, and that it was a rather long and slender one, it closed so powerfully upon the drippings that the pattern of little lines—the vermiculations which differentiate one man's hand from everybody else's—is merely a blur. As a wax impression of the murderer's hand it is not a success."

My audience seemed to be immensely interested. But I was not yet through with the wax impression.

"One peculiarity is suggested, though: this is unmistakably the impress of a right hand, and the owner of the hand wore a broad ring on the second finger—an unusual place for a man to sport that sort of jewellery."

The third finger of Maillot's left hand was adorned with a modest signet ring, while the private secretary's abnormally long, bloodless digits bore no sign that they had ever been encircled by any ring at all.

The situation was serious enough, however; the imprint which I assumed to have been made by a ring was so blurred as to leave wide lattitude for error respecting any deduction that I might make from it.

I gravely regarded young Maillot, and tried to picture him to myself in the role of a murderer, but was obliged to own that such a thing was exceedingly difficult to do. Still, all things are possible; and the next few minutes had to determine whether I should take him or Burke into custody—maybe both—or permit them to go about their business.

"Mr. Maillot," I said by and by, "I'll tell you frankly: this business looks pretty bad for you and Burke—unless between you you can help me to place it in an entirely different light."

He paled, but met my level look steadily enough.

As I have already said, he was a good-looking chap, dark of hair, his eyes grey, and he possessed an honest, open countenance that stood a whole lot in his favor. He was tall, with a well-knit, athletic figure that made me fancy he had been an heroic member of his university football team.

But I have known just such men—steady, upright and governed by high standards of conduct—to become in the twinkling of an eye red-handed assassins.

Your man of lofty ideas and honor, in truth, is the more deeply sensible of injury and sometimes the easiest incensed. He is the more keenly hurt when his most sacred feelings are suddenly outraged. Finish off his equipment with a hot, passionate temper, and his resentment is likely to strike as blindly and as effectively as a bolt from a surcharged thunder-cloud. It is the motive that either palliates or makes the crime. A moment's previous reflection often stays the hand from a deed which a lifetime of after regret can not recall.

I could associate these possibilities with Maillot, and yet extend to him my sympathy; for controlling impulses are infinitely various and sometimes not to be held to account.

And so, too, could I have done with Burke, if he had betrayed one trait of a nature to inspire sympathy or engage my goodwill. Still, I meant not to be in the least influenced by my own feelings in the matter, nor do I now believe that I was; I determined to be as just and impartial as possible. Bear in mind that, as yet, I had been given no hint of a possible motive.

After a bit Maillot said very soberly:

"The possibility of such a thing never for an instant occurred to me; but—Swift—I suppose I must meet it somehow."

"You're beginning excellently," I returned sincerely. "That's the way to look at a thing of this kind. If you'll not forget that I'm inclined to be kindly disposed toward you, why, I dare say we can, between us, clear up whatever mystery there is in one-two-three order.

"For example, why you came here last night—your business with Mr. Page—when you tell me that perhaps—"

I stopped. Maillot's face had suddenly become a mirror of consternation.

"Good Heavens, Swift!" he gasped, recoiling, "I—I can't do that!"

I promptly grew grave. And then, from the head of the stairs, came the slow, colorless voice of Alexander Burke.

"How about the Paternoster ruby, Mr. Maillot?" inquired he.

Maillot's hands closed spasmodically; his teeth clicked together; and he slewed round like a released spring.

Next instant, had it not been for the intervening stairs and Stodger's and my quick interposition of our bodies between the two men, matters certainly would have gone hard with the private secretary. Maillot's temper was like gunpowder; the quiet question seemed to sting him to an unreasonable fury.

"You—you spy! You dirty sneak!" he snarled viciously

CHAPTER IV.

The Ruby

Unless I wanted affairs to get away from me entirely, it was high time to assume complete control of them, and immediately to abandon all temporizing measures.

I turned Maillot about without ceremony.

"Go with this man to the library, Stodger," I peremptorily directed. "Burke, you come with me."

In the next ten seconds I had the big library table between the two, Burke impassive, while Maillot glared at him savagely. I wanted to give them time to cool—Maillot, at any rate; so I took advantage of the opportunity to scribble a note to the Captain, hinting at the complications promised by Felix Page's death, and requesting that I be permitted to retain Stodger as an assistant—for I liked the stout, cheerful man who was willing and quick to act upon no more than a hint, and at the same time not disposed to interfere at all with my own modes of procedure. This message I gave to him, requesting that he entrust it to either Callahan or O'Brien for delivery. "Tell 'em to clear out," I added; "I have no use for them here."

Then I thrust my hands into my coat pockets, and fell to pacing the floor while I reflected. That is to say I reflected after I had secured a good, firm grasp upon the thoughts which skurried helter-skelter, like a flushed covey of quail, through my brain.

The Paternoster ruby!

Here was the very thing I had tried so futilely to recall when the Captain first mentioned Felix Page's death!

Like a flash, the phrase had opened up to me an illimitable vista of possibilities. I went over in mind all that I had ever heard of this famous gem, and wondered—indeed, to tell only the bare truth—I thrilled with the very idea: could it have had any part or place in the financier's death?

The Paternoster ruby!

Those three words were an illumination; memory was flooded; and I glowed with a satisfaction that, in accordance with my custom in such matters, I had collected and preserved every available scrap of information which had in any way to do with this same Paternoster ruby. And right here some of that data must be presented.

First of all, this magnificent gem's known history hinted at no religious association whatever, as its name might seem to imply. In more than one journal I have seen it seriously affirmed that at one time it was a property of that celebrated pope, Alexander VI., Rodrigo Borgia, father of Caesar and Lucrezia—thus investing it with an antiquity and romance which the facts did not warrant.

But, after all, am I not premature in making this last assertion? Perhaps it will appear before we are through.

The gem first became known to the world and acquired its name through one Luca Paternostro, an Italian dealer in precious stones having his place of business in London, who claimed to have purchased it in the rough from some adventurer whose name is unknown to history. This occurred in the early '80's.

Subsequently it was carefully cut in Amsterdam, a paste replica made for the purposes of display in the course of trade, and then added to Paternostre's stock—perhaps not because he expected to dispose of it to the first chance customer, but rather by reason of the prestige which the ownership of so superb a jewel would give him; it was an excellent advertisement.

Have You Figured the Loss From "Busy" Signals?

Suppose a customer is about to order something or other over your telephone. The operator finds your line or lines engaged. The customer must wait—or order somewhere else. Maybe he chooses to wait—calls again—again finds your line or lines busy. That means a possible loss of a customer.

The business man needs adequate telephone service for the accommodation of his business and his customers. When you lose customers through "busy" signals, it has been proved that your telephone facilities are inadequate.

People who get business make it easy for their customers to get them and have the number of telephone lines their business requires. The number should be determined by the amount of use at the BUSIEST time of the day.

THE CITY MONEY BY-LAWS

Because of the interest which naturally attaches to the polling for the several candidates for civic honors, there is danger that the important issues involved in the bylaws which are being submitted to the electors concurrently with the civic elections, will not be so thoroughly discussed as is desirable and that the ratepayers will find themselves confronted by issues concerning which they are not so well informed as they would wish to be when the moment arrives for marking their ballots with reference to the by-laws.

The fact that these by-laws have been framed by the city council ,after due consideration, makes at once a prima facie case in their favor, and judging from the results upon similar occasions in the past, the probabilities are very strong from that cause alone that the money by-laws will meet with favorable reception at the hands of the electors for the reason that, although in submitting these by-laws to the electorate, the council does not necessarily, by that act, declare its endorsation of each by-law, the fact is nevertheless implied that in the opinion of the council, the electors would be on safe ground were they to ratify the by-laws.

It is, nevertheless ,advisable, that due consideration be given the by-laws by the ratepayers personally in order that the balloting thereon may be based upon intelligent conclusion of the individual voter with respect thereto.

With regard to several of the bylaws the case in their favor is so patent that the mere mention of the purpose to be served is sufficient.

By-law number 195 provides for borrowing $15,000 to construct a subway for passengers under the C. P. R. tracks at the ferry landing at Vancouver. This project has already been strongly endorsed by a mass meeting of the ratepayers and the need is so urgent and so generally recognized that argument would be superfluous.

By-law number 192, to provide $5,000 for opening up lanes represents a very modest outlay for a purpose whose advantages are readily apparent.

By-law number 191 authorizes the raising of $5,000 for the purpose of improving the cemetery. The cemetery site is an excellent one and the area is ample for many years to come. The necessity of providing adequate facilities of this nature in every city is universally admitted and North Vancouver should make a creditable record in this particular. Much good work has already been done in getting the cemetery area into good condition and it is necessary only that a moderate sum be expended from year to year in additional improvements, in order to provide this city with a cemetery that will be exceptional in many particulars.

By-law number 190 to raise $25,000 for fire department purposes gives no cause for difference of opinion. From the standpoint of the safety of property, also because of the financial saving in lower insurance rates and because of the reputation to be gained abroad from an up-to-date and thoroughly equipped fire department, North Vancouver should be ready to assume any reasonable expenditures which may be required in this respect.

The necessity of providing some public wharfage facilities at which different kinds of small craft might moor has long been felt by those who are informed in this particular. Up to the present private parties have cordially granted the use of their wharves for this purpose ,but the time has now arrived when the city should provide this public convenience and by-law number 193 accordingly authorizes the expenditure of $10,000 for the construction of a city wharf at the foot of Chesterfield Avenue.

Mahon Park is the latest purchase of the city for park purposes and one of the best as well. The erection of a federal drill hall upon a portion of this property (the granting of the required area for which purpose will doubtless be ratified under the by-law which is submitted for the purpose) will bring this park into considerable prominence and the proposition that $15,000 be expended in improving this public area is therefore well timed and would be money well expended.

The endorsation of by-law number 196 by the electors to authorize a loan of $12,000 to the Horticultural Society would have the effect of preserving this most excellent property for public purposes. The loan would be properly secured by the property which is worth many times the sum named in the by-law, while the money would enable the directors to meet existing obligations and to expend such sums as were needed to place the property in first class condition. Inasmuch as the property adjoins the recreation park and other property comprising in all about twenty acres, which is held for public purposes the retention of the Horticultural property by means of this small outlay ensures the preservation of this splendid public area intact and gives the city first call upon this most valuable property under all circumstances.

By-law number 186 calls for $37,000 for school purposes, the completion of Lonsdale and Ridgeway schools, for improvements to the grounds and other necessary purposes. The attitude of the citizens of North Vancouver toward local educational facilities has always been most encouraging. The best is none too good for the boys and girls of this city in this respect. The city could covet no greater distinction than that of being known as an excellent educational centre. Our public schools already have a reputation second to none in the province and it is now required only that open handed provision be made from year to year to keep pace with the rapid development of the requirements of our growing population in educational matters.

The Rice Lake reservoir scheme has been prominently before the ratepayers for some time and is generally well understood. This splendid natural reservoir provides ready made facilities in this respect, the artificial construction of which would cost scores of thousands of dollars. Its utilization will place North Vancouver in possession of waterworks advantages such as are enjoyed by few if any other cities in Canada. It is urgent that the work of transforming the lake into a reservoir be begun at an early date, in order to prevent the ever increasing demand upon the civic water supply from overtaking the supply and possibly causing serious difficulty. The bylaw, therefore, makes timely provision for works that are of supreme importance.

The ratification of by-law number 189 to borrow $50,000 for street improvements and maintainance will place the incoming council in position to proceed at the earliest posible date in the spring with the very important work which is needed upon the streets. The move to make prompt provision in this regard and to prevent the loss of a large portion of the season, through otherwise unavoidable delay is a most commendable one and will doubtless be appreciated by the ratepayers.

It is quite appropriate that the largest amount provided for in any one by-law should be for the purpose of improving and extending the waterworks system of the city. Much excellent work has been done during the past year in the way of installing water mains of a permanent nature and a very great deal remains to be done in this particular while the development and extension of the system to keep pace with the rapid increase of the demand, incident to our growth in population, calls for large expenditures. The council have given the ratepayers the benefit of their accurate knowledge of the actual requirements in this vitally important matter in submitting this bylaw to provide the sum of $125,000.00 for waterworks purposes.

In conclusion a glance at the city's financial condition is necessary in relation to these proposed expenditures and the result cannot be other than satisfactory. The assessed value of property within the city is $10,990,371, twenty per cent. of which gives the city a statutory borrowing power of $2,198,074. The bonded indebtedness of the city is $903,921 and the total amount of the proposed by-laws is $374,000, which would make a total bonded indebtedness of $1,277,921. After making all due allowance for what may be termed indirect charges against the credit of the city a very wide margin remains with which to provide for all such requirements as may develop during the year, in addition to those provided for in the bylaws. In a general way it is understood that sixteen per cent. has been the basis which has been kept in view, in deciding upon the bylaws to place before the ratepayers. This would leave four per cent., out of the statutory twenty per cent. or one-fifth of the entire borrowing power of the city with which to provide for requirements unforeseen at present for 1912, a margin which will be recognized as gratifyingly safe. The financial situation is therefore such that should the purposes of the respective by-laws commend themselves to the ratepayers, there need be no hesitation upon their part in casting a ballot in favor of any or all of them.

Annual Report of District Police

Major Toft, district chief of police, has rendered his report upon the police activities in the municipality since his appointment in October 1st last. During the last three months 12 prosecutions were instituted, of which 10 convictions were obtained. The cases dealt with were as follows:

1, attempted suicide; 1 obtaining money under false pretences; 1 theft; 4 unlawful discharging of firearms; 1 assault, 3 unlawful blasting, 1 unlawful possession of stolen goods.

Complaints of lost or stolen property have been very few ,considering that a number of people in certain parts of the district appear to be in the habit of leaving their houses during the greater portion of the year, without providing secure locks, or in some cases, locks at all. A number of warnings have been given to people who were in the habit of removing gravel from certain creek beds without having a lease or any other authority permitting them to do so, and this practice has apparently now been stamped out.

Several contraventions of the provisions of the B. C. Traffic Regulation Act by people obstructing the traffic through leaving lumber, shingles, etc., on the roads and also filling up the ditches, have been reported and investigated and a stop has been put to this practice.

Various breaches of the heavy traffic by-law, by people hauling heavy loads on and cutting up of the roads of the district, have also been investigated and checked. So far, however, sufficient evidence to warrant a prosecution has been unobtainable.

With the enormous amount of clearing of land in the district which is constantly being hurried on, the by-law relating to blasting appears to be the one most frequently violated, and the only practical method to adopt in order to prevent offences of this nature, which often result in most serious accidents, would be, considering particularly the large area of the district, to provide additional mounted patrols, the most frequent breaches being those of inadequately safeguarding the danger zone and blasting after sunset.

There are at the present time six special constables of whom two are in possession of gasoline launches, one residing at Woodlands, and the other at White Cliffe. Both of these constables are in a position to afford a great deal of police protection along the waterfront, which of course, is of great value to the district in order to prevent crime being committed along the waterfront.

The Chief states in conclusion that generally speaking he has so far found the district fairly clear of crimes of any serious nature. With the great influx of people who are expected to settle in the district during the coming year, he has no doubt whatever but that the police work will necessarily materially increase during the coming year.

NOTICE

TO HOLDERS OF NON-REGISTERED AGREEMENTS FOR SALE

Contrary to the usual practice the Assessment Notices for 1912 have been sent to the registered owners of property according to the Land Registry records.

Up to the present, purchasers have been in the habit of notifying the city authorities that the property had changed hands so that notices of assessment and taxation should not go astray. This form of registration of owners has heretofore been deemed sufficient for city purposes, but owing to a recent decision the city council is advised by its solicitors to recognise these owners only who appear on the records of the Land Registry Office. Unfortunately a great many never register their deeds or agreements.

The North Vancouver Land and Improvement Company has received numerous assessment notices for 1912 for property which it has sold and which has since changed hands two or three times.

The Company, therefore, desires to notify persons who have purchased from it that they should take steps to ensure notices of assessment and taxation being sent to them so that they may become aware of the value at which they are being assessed and pay taxes as they fall due.

MR. MAY AND THE IMPERIAL CAR COMPANY

Editor Express:

It is rather interesting to see that Mr. May thinks he can gain support by reference to the application of this Company to the district for a guarantee of their bonds. Though that is ancient history and I have the assurance of Mr. George H. Coman, ex-M.P. that the company has now completed their financial arrangements and will immediately get down to construction work it may not be out of place to reply to Mr. May by giving the exact facts regarding the application. The company owns real estate which ,estimated at a very moderate valuation when the dock is established and when their own works are established will be worth over $3,000,000, and they own a mining property on the north boundary of the district reported by an expert of high reputation as having one million tons of a high class of iron ore in sight. They undertook to give employment to a very large number of men at their works, and as they own about 1½ miles of waterfront they proposed to offer strong inducements to other industries to locate there. They wished the district to guarantee their bonds to amount of $1,000,000 and of that sum $600,000 was to be expended in their works, under approval and sanction of an engineer representing the district. These bonds were to be secured by a first charge over every asset the company owned and these amounted to a considerable sum over the value of the real estate and included 160 valuable patent rights. Over 600 voters in the district signed a petition asking the council to submit a by-law to the electors to grant the request of the company. I was asked as president of the Board of Trade to accompany the directors who appeared before the council and all the above facts were stated to me. I gladly went and introduced the matter to the council. The proposition was unquestionably one worth considering, as if it could be entertained with safety to the public interest it meant so very much towards the development of that section. I pointed out that the best test would be the effect which entering into such a transaction would have upon the borrowing powers of the district in the market and I was able to cite the written opinion of a well known financier to the effect that with so valuable a security the credit of the district would not be impaired. The applicants were all well known men and some of them are leading ratepayers in the district.

The council did not entertain the application and I am not aware of any one having blamed them for refusing but surely there was nothing improper or wild in either the application itself or in the council giving it very careful consideration. Many wilder undertakings have been given by municipalities with excellent results.

Mr. May refers to the amount of unpaid price on the company's lands. I may state that several of the vendors were prepared to accept a security deferred to the district's charge in settlement of their interests, thus giving practical assurance of their confidence in the property. Personally I had no stock or interest of any kind in the company other than a ratepayer in the district.

But neither this company nor any other company has a show of success till the Second Narrows bridge and railway connection are existing facts and the man who has done more than any other to bring these within reach is Reeve McNaught, yet some are doing their best to deprive him of the power to carry on that work to completion.

I am,

ALEX. PHILIP.

... resident ratepayers' candidate for re-election. Opposition candidate cordially invited. "Seafoam" leaves Vancouver at 7.15, returning after meeting.

MR. CHARLES NELSON MUNICIPAL CANDIDATE

A little over a week ago Mr. Charles Nelson was the recipient of a petition signed by thirty-five names of representative significance asking him to enter the lists for Ward 1 in the municipality as a candidate for council honors. Mr. Nelson's satisfactory reply was as follows:

J. Alexander and Others:

Dear Sir,—In reply to your request as per petition presented to me a few days ago re standing as councillor for Ward I. and allowing my name to be nominated, I informed you personally at that time that the vote of the meeting of the ratepayers of West Vancouver would help me to decide what course to pursue. Since that meeting was so largely attended by the ratepayers and a large maporit; supported your motion, I beg to thank you and them for the nomination and I hereby accept the same.

Yours truly,
CHARLES NELSON,
Retired Chemist, Vancouver.

FAIR DISTRIBUTION

If elected I will oppose any atempt of the Council to unduly concentrate expenditures or use the city credit in any particular section of the City at the expense of the other portions, but will endeavor to secure a fair and impartial distribution of street work and other improvements throughout the city ,in accordance with the requirements of traffic and actual settlers.

W. J. IRWIN,
9-1 (Candidate for alderman)

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF NORTH VANCOUVER

Ladies and Gentlemen :

At the request of a number of the ratepayers I have decided to accept the nomination for eFrry Director.

I have been connected with shipping business for a lifetime as master and mariner of sailing ships and steamers, and during that time have visited the principal seaports of the world, and have had occasion to travel on and observe the management of many large ferry systems, and if you consider experience a necessary qualification, I would thank you for your support on Thursday, 11th inst.

Yours respectfully,
R. McMILLAN
Master Mariner.

NORTH VANCOUVER CITY ELECTORS

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Permit me to make use of the press as the most available means of letting you know that I am again a candidate for alderman and of asking your support for re-election.

Yours respectfully,
GEO. W. McRAE,

North Vancouver.

CITY FERRIES

Board of Directors, 1912

Your vote and influence are respectfully requested by

Walter L. Boult

... Sir,—It has come to my knowledge that a rumor regarding my candidature for alderman in the city of North Vancouver is now circulating which intimates that I am one of a clique pledged to pull for one particular locality of North Vancouver.

In reply I wish to state that this rumor is absolutely untrue, that I have not agreed with any one to pull for any particular locality and have no idea of doing so, and to emphasize this point I wish to state the following facts:

1, That I have attended no meeting other than the regular Ratepayers' Association meeting last held at the City Hall.

2. I have not been asked to stand for any ticket as rumored.

3. If I had been asked to do so I should have refused.

4. I am standing independently and absolutely on my own merits.

And furthermore it is my opinion that no honest man could accept nomination with the intention of using his influence for the benefit of any location, in his own interests, or in the interests of his particular friends, and I challenge the authors of this rumor to prove either at a public meeting or through the press that this rumor is true.

It is my intention should the ratepayers see fit to elect me to work for the interests of the ratepayers of North Vancouver. I stand for all that means progressiveness, good government and fair treatment to all ratepayers in all parts of the city. My record as councillor for the district municipality of North Vancouver during the past year will confirm this statement.

Yours sincerely,
J. EADES WARD

5th January, 1912.

The approaching election for the reeveship of North Vancouver is one of great importance to thousands of people who have interests in the city and municipality of North Vancouver, and they should consider well the importance of the election.

North Vancouver is now at what is probably the most critical period of its life. With the Second Narrows bridge comes the railway, but without it, the day is far off when North Vancouver will establish railroad communication with the outside world.

Much of the credit must be given to Reeve McNaught—and will be given ungrudgingly by all—for having brought the arrangements regarding the construction of the bridge to their present satisfactory state.

Yet much more has to be done.

Owing to the engineer's report, it has become evident that a larger sum is needed than was at first estimated.

Reeve McNaught has labored long and hard to bring affairs to their present state and no one is better equipped with the facts and information necessary to brings things to a final and satisfactory termination than he is. He has amply proved his devotion to public interests during his term of office; he has given his time and labor without stint.

His opponent may be in every way worthy, but to change Reeves at the present state of affairs, appears like changing physicians in the middle of an operation.

Those of us (and incidentally I am one) who differ from him in politics, can afford, against such proven merit as his, to put politics aside.

There can be no doubt that the affairs relating to the Second Narrows bridge have been greatly advanced under his care, so it behooves us, as practical people, to give him every opportunity to finish his work by re-electing him to the reeveship of North Vancouver.

As business calls me away to England during the elections, I take this means with the courtesy of the editor, of giving my support to Mr. McNaught.

Mr. J. D. Fraser is completing arrangements for the construction of five cottages on his property on the Esplanade east of St. Andrew's Avenue, where he owns several lots.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE DISTRICT OF NORTH VANCOUVER:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having received a requisition signed by two hundred ratepayers asking me to stand as a candidate for reeve for 1912, it is with great pleasure that I consent to their wishes. I have had the confidence and support of the public for 17 years as councillor and reeve of the district and mayor of the city. If elected I will use my influence to prosecute all necessary improvements in a spirit compatable with the western spirit of progressiveness such as roads, streets and trunk roads and give intending settlers access to their properties.

I will endeavor to work in the best of harmony with the cities and districts interested in the building of the Second Narrows Bridge, fully realizing that the construction of the same is the pivot of our future success.

I will use my best endeavors to work in the most friendly manner with all who are interested in the furtherance of railway and other transportation facilities in and around Burrard Inlet.

Trusting that my long experience in public matters may justify my request for your hearty support,

I am,

Yours faithfully,
