Candidate for Reeveship

Mr. W. H. May Consents to Enter the Field

On Saturday morning a deputation of district ratepayers waited upon Ex-Mayor May and presented him with a petition comprising about 200 names and embodying a request that he should seek the office of municipal reeve for the ensuing year. The delegation consisted of the following ratepayers: Messrs. P. Westover, T. L. Kennedy, H. Lee, J. T. Device, jr., Percy King, T. Prime, J. W. Benson and J. M. Fromme.

The petition was presented by Mr. Percy King, who in the course of his remarks, referred to certain phases of district affairs and expressed the conviction of the deputation that Mr. May was precisely the man for the office of reeve for the coming year.

In replying Mr. May said that he had certainly made up his mind to permanently retire from public life, but that he appreciated the efforts of his friends and supporters in the matter of this petition, and that if he decided to commit himself to the wishes of these friends he would not waver even though possible defeat were in view. He felt, however, convinced that that was not the case. He realized that when the public in such numbers signed a petition of this nature that it was because they were sincere and because there were good reasons lying behind their action. Mr. May further realized that what was required in municipal elections was an honest vote expressing the sincere convictions of his electorate, and that only such a vote would procure honest results in the administration of municipal affairs.

Mr. May then intimated that he would take the request into consideration and upon being pressed by the deputation for an immediate answer disclaimed any personal ends so far as public office was concerned and reminded the deputation that in case of acceptance he must depend entirely upon his friends and supporters to secure the votes necessary for his election. He was of opinion that personal canvassing a candidate was neither desirable nor effective.

Mr. May mentioned two district matters with relation to the Second Narrows bridge, namely; that he thought further and more detailed information with regard to the progress of the work should be given to ratepayers, and further that he was of opinion that the district should have distinctive representation on the board of directors, instead of having a representative that acts in a dual capacity as at present.

Mr. May then intimated his cordial consent to the request given expression to and voiced his gratification at the confidence reposed in him by the petitioners and by that large proportion of the electorate who would support his candidature by polling their votes in his favor.

Request to City Council for Bylaw for New Ferry

In the course of last night's session of the city council, over which assembly Mayor McNeish presided, a letter was received from the secretary of the ferry directors enclosing a copy of a resolution passed at a special meeting of the directors yesterday afternoon. The resolution read as follows: "Whereas it is deemed necessary that the sum of $150,000 be obtained for the purpose of providing an additional ferry steamer, be it resolved that the city council be again requested to make provision for the submission of a bylaw to authorise that body acting for the corporation of the city of North Vancouver to guarantee and endorse the debentures of this company to the extent of the aforementioned amount, it being understood and assured that the trustees for the purchasers of the former issue have expressed their willingness to allow an additional issue to the extent of $150,000 without prejudice to the proposed issue herein mentioned to rank on a par with the initial issue and those combining the entire bonded indebtedness under first mortgage. As an alternative that the city council be requested to give consideration to the advisability of the sale of capital stock to outside parties i.e., the corporation of the district of North Vancouver.

Mayor McNeish, in explanation, said that quite a time ago, the ferry directors wrote to the council asking for a bylaw for a new ferry. With the election pending this was possibly the proper time to make such a request. When the ferry company built number three ferry the bonds were taken up by the B. C. Trust Corporation to the extent of $128,000 as first mortgage against the whole of the assets of the company present and future. Now, when they want to make another issue they really have to get the consent of their first mortgagees. The city wants to buy that $128,000 back at a premium and make a sale so that the company will not be placed in the position they are by being subjected to the conditions of the first mortgage.

It was proposed and decided, that the matter be left for full discussion on Thursday night.

The London and British North America Campany called attention to the state of the sidewalk on the south west corner of Lonsdale avenue and the Esplanade.

Ald. Henderson pointed out that all the sidewalk needed was a little better adjustment to the levels. he matter was left in the hands of the engineer.

A letter was also received from Messrs. Alexander and Brown asking the council to furnish them with the final grades of Keith road and Sixth street at the site of the Presbyterian church. It was decided that Mr. Hanes be asked to get the data ready for a bylaw for work in this relation.

Intimation came from the Prime Minister's office at Ottawa to the effect that the council's telegram setting forth the resolution as to the leases of the foreshore in front of the Indian reserve has been duly received and that the matter had been placed before the members of the departments concerned.

Invitations them came showering upon the council. One emanated from Mr. W. J. Irwin on behalf of the management of the Lonsdale theatre exhorting the mayor and aldermen and their ladies to be present at the flag-raising ceremony on Thursday, Dec. 7th. Another came from the North Vancouver Follies, who are giving an entertainment in the horticultural hall on December 12th.

The fire chief wrote for permission to hold the Firemen's ball on Wednesday, Jan. 17th next in the Knights of Pythias hall. The chief enumerated the many precautions which he would make in the case of an outbreak of fire during the festivities. Permission was granted.

A request from Mr. A. McAllister on behalf of the North Vancouver Lumber Company for a water supply to the site on which the company are building a saw mill on Bewicke avenue was referred to the water committee.

Two resolutions were received from the Ratepayers' Association, the first to the effect that the city council be requested to have a bylaw provided for the purpose of having the city divided into wards, and the second advocating a water supply to that portion of D. L. 544 known as Harbor View tract with as little delay as possible, also in D. L. 273.

The council ordered the filing of the two resolutions.

The building inspector, Mr. Fugler, reported that the number of building permits issued by him for the month of November was 5. The total cost of same was $51,260.

Messrs. Bond and Sweet, on behalf of Mr. H. D. Green-Armytage, who owns and lives on lots 17, 18, 19 and 20 in block 215, D. L. 545, fronting 23rd street, complained of the city water constituting a course for itself across Mr. Green-Armytage's property. The letter was handed over to the Board of Works and city engineer.

On behalf of the Vancouver Peace River Railway Company, Messrs. Abbott and Hart-McHarg wrote in accordance with the Dominion rules relating to private bills, enclosing notice of their intention to apply for a private bill at the present session of the Dominion parliament

The council deemed it advisable to refer the matter to the board of Trade, which shall investigate the local significance of the projected bill.

The North Vancouver Land and Improvement Co. Ltd. informed the council that they had recently sold block 9A, D. L. 550, to Messrs. Irwin and Billings and Mr. D. H. McColl under conditions whereby the purchasers were obliged to commence to clear the block within the next three months. When they had finished their work 19th street between blocks 9A and 16 would remain uncleared. The writers felt sure the council would be anxious to avoid leaving a strip of uncleared property between two well cleared blocks and they suggested that the council should take steps to have this portion of 19th street cleared at the same time as block 9A.

A letter also came from Messrs. Irwin and Billings advising the council to clear this block at an early date. They asked that 19th street be opened out past the property and that they be granted permission to open the lanes through that property. It was resolved to allow the street and lanes to be opened on condition that the recommendation for the city be at the rate of $100 per acre.

Romano Pinto matters were revived by a letter from the city's solicitors intimating that the firm had apparently violated the judgment of Mr. Justice Morrison and it was within the city's province to take action for contempt of court.

Mr. Hanes explained that the court's ruling provided that all back fills were to be tamped instead of flooded in with water. After the court had given this decision the contractors had persisted in doing the opposite and until the work was done properly Mr. Hanes refused to give his certificate for the final payments.

Ald. Kittson objected to taking the matter out of the city engineer's hands and putting the responsibility on the shoulders of the council. Mr. Hanes was there to look after their interests.

The city engineer then recommended the grading of Fell avenue to a permanent grade from Keith road to 20th street, the costs to the city being $4,562.00, costs to the property benefitted $20,438.00; total $25,000.00.

Mr. Henderson pointed out that many citizens thought the council had spent sufficient money this year on the very eve of the election we are asked to spend $25,000.

Ald. Biss was, however, decidedly of opinion that something should be done in the neighborhood concerned.

Ultimately the clerk was instructed to prepare a bylaw and the city engineer to prepare plans, and that tenders be duly advertised for. The motion embodying the above evoked one dissentient voice.

"MASTODON" FOR FIRST NARROWS ONLY

Dredge Not Available for Private Use --- Will Begin at Narrows About First of Year.

A special wire from Ottawa to the Express conveys the satisfactory assurance that the dredge Mastodon will be used for the work for which she was constructed, namely dredging the First Narrows, and for that work only until it is completed. Hon. F. D. Monk, Minister of Public Works, has issued explicit orders to that effect.

It is learned that several attempts have been made from different quarters to secure the use of the Mastodon by private parties, but these were not favored by Mr. H. H. Stevens, M.P., member for this riding, and the order was accordingly issued as above. It is expected by the Department that the minor repairs, at present in progress at the Wallace Shipyards, will be completed by the end of this month and as the dredge will proceed at once to its berth at the Parthia Shoal, it is practically certain that operations will be under way early in January. The Express is further advised that Mr. Stevens is endeavoring to induce the Department to issue instructions that a double shift be used in order to hasten this important work as much as possible.

GASOLINE LEAKAGE SETS FIRE TO LAUNCH "EXPEDIENCE"

Crew Escape in a Small Boat

A grave disaster befell the launch "Expedience" owned by Messrs. McDougal-Jenkins on Monday evening. At about six o'clock it was plying its customary course laden with ninety gallons of oil and several men, Mr. Charles Harris being in charge. Quite suddenly a portion of the launch burst into flames and it was obvious from the nature of the cargo that the boat was in a serious plight. Consummate resource was displayed by Mr. Harris who contrived to get the crew into a small boat in which an escape was made from the burning launch. Shortly after the police boat came upon the scene and the ill-fated "Expedience" was duly sunk in the Inlet. It can only be asumed that the outbreak occurred through a leakage in one of the gasoline tanks. That no loss of life was occasioned is, under the circumstances almost miraculous. It is understood that the loss of the launch is partially covered by insurance.

Robert Hughes, during the festivities. The public is cordially invited to see these excellent views. A collection will be taken.

At the city hall on Saturday morning W. Pirrie endeavored to convince Mayor McNeish that it was with no felonious intent that he appropriated a plank which was lying on one of the city thoroughfares. As a warning to others, Pirrie was told to pay the costs of the court and was let out on suspended sentence. His Worship intimated that future plank appropriators would be more severely dealt with.

THE PROBLEMS OF B. C. AND THEIR SOLUTION

The Victoria Daily Colonist makes a very apt comment upon one feature of present day tendencies when it declares editorially "There is a disposition abroad in certain quarters just now, to give prominence to every half-baked opinion to which some transient visitor to this province sees fit to give utterance."

British Columbia is attracting the attention of and is being favored from time to time by a personal visit from many men of prominence and of wide influence from the older portions of the world, and this practice, which is now well established, will doubtless be adopted in the near future by very many other personages of like eminence who have not as yet seen this province. The impressions of these outstanding men from the old country and elsewhere are always a matter of interest to those who are resident within the province and not infrequently they are able—because of their ripe experience their marked faculty of penetration and their exceptional ability to arrive speedily at an intelligent grasp of a situation in a general way—to cast a helpful side-light upon local problems or to induce us to view some familiar question from a new angle, which is at once interesting and instructive. British Columbians will not be slow to appreciate all that is valuable under such circumstances, neither will they allow any false pride to prevent them from accepting and making the best use of all that can be learned from such sources.

The men, however, whose early impressions resolve themselves rapidly into opinions of real merit will be found reticent in giving public expression thereto, lest they allow themselves to be betrayed into some theory or position, which larger information and more mature judgment may constrain them to abandon.

On the other hand, there is always at hand, a plentiful supply of comparatively obscure and shallow minded individuals who harbor an overweening fondness for publicity and who are ready at the slightest opportunity to unburden themselves of a lot of cheap verbiage with regard to any local matters which may present themselves at the time. The confident manner in which men of this type are able to deliver themselves of pronounced opinions at sight with reference to questions which others find to beset with perplexities, after years of close study and serious thought, would be considered remarkable were those opinions not so palpably superficial. The promptness with which they would introduce innovations of the most radical type, may gain them a reputation in the minds of a very few who naturally sympathise with that sort of thing, as advanced thinkers, but in the estimation of the saner and safer thinking of the people, they will rank as authors of "confusion worse confounded."

After the most liberal allowance has been made for all that is of value in suggestions that come from outside sources, the unassailable fact remains that British Columbians must themselves face and solve the problems of British Columbia. Under normal conditions the men who are fully versed in the real inwardness of conditions in this province, the men who have the most intimate and comprehensive knowledge of our resources and advantages, the men who have been in position to grow into these problems as they have developed and who have given mature consideration thereto, the men who have fully entered into the spirit of the west, the men who are "saturated" with western sentiment with its exalted optimism and irrepressible enthusiasm—these are the men who are best fitted to lead British Columbia by the safest path to the most expeditious attainment of the hibhest and best that is rendered possible by the inherent riches which are found within and the attendant opportunities which await the province. In the face of this unavoidable responsibility there need be no hesitation in asserting that the citizens of this province are made of the stuff which is fully capable of rising to the occasion, of meeting the issues which are inseparable from the enviable advantages and opportunities which they enjoy and of evolving the best means of meeting and overcoming all those difficulties or obstacles which may present themselves because of internal conditions or external relationships.

THE McNAMARA TRIAL

The general public will approve and applaud the statement of Detective Burns that "As for the unions, nine tenths of the laboring men do not sympathize with the anarchistic element who advocate dynamiting, murder and the destruction of property." It is not necessary in order to protect the prestige of trade unionism at the present juncture that labor leaders should ask the public to accept the theory—improbable to the last degree—that the M'Namara brothers were bought, to make a bogus confession. While accepting that confession as bona fide, and believing that the men who made it are guilty of the crime confessed, the powers of discrimination with which every human being of average intelligence is endowed, will convince him at once that not only had organized labor as such no connection whatever with those unlawful acts, but further, that recourse to such deeds of violence is altogther foreign to the principles of trades unionism and repugnant to the real spirit which actuates that great organization. That the M'Namaras were the chosen agents of a coterie of kindred spirits, there is every reason to believe, but that this was but a collection of individuals of whose existence and purposes organized labor as such, had no knowledge will be universally accepted.

The fact that members of trades unions and sympathizers with trades unionism, contributed freely in money to defray the expenses of the most able defence of the accused that could be procured is a manifestation of loyalty to their comrades when in difficulties which society at large must admire. Those contributions were made, however in implicit reliance upon the strong protestations of innocence which had been made by the accused and by others upon their behalf. Now that their guilt is proven, those who assisted most willingly in supplying money for the defence will doubtless most staunchly support the administration of strict justice.

This sensational event in the industrial world again forcibly emphasizes the fact that despite the most strenuous and sincere efforts, it is practically impossible for any great organization of human beings to exercise a censorship over its membership such as will prevent individual members from developing theories which are out of harmony with the principles of the organization or from occasionally perpetrating deeds whose tendency is to bring the organization under reproach. The maxim "A fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind" ought to work out in a collective as well as an individual sense, and it is within the range of possibilities that one of the effects of this regrettable occurrence may be the establishing of new sympathies between organized labor and other great organizations which have experienced similar difficulty with erring members.

MAKING GOOD

The Tenderfoot, According to a Victoria Paper.

A young fellow comes to British Columbia from Eastern Canada or the United Kingdom. He has left a home of refinement, a father who has struggled to educate him and who may have to economize to pay back the money he has borrowed to send the lad to this land of promise; a mother who has carefully looked after his needs and with loving sisters, perhaps, who envy him the opportunities before him, boy and girl friends who make life pleasant for him and older friends daily greetings made him feel that he "belonged." He reaches, let us say, Victoria. He knows he is a good, honest, industrious young fellow who can "make good" if he gets the chance. He has heard of the openings for work and of the rewards that are to be won. The morning after his arrival he goes out to look for employment. The first thing that disillusions him is the fact that every one seems to be busy, that is every young fellow like himself. He sees the street full of motor-cars. the sidewalks full of people, on every hand the evidences of a completely organized, advanced, and prosperous community. This was not just what he expected and if he is somewhat stunned by it and begins to wonder how he can break into this organization which seem to be getting along very well without him, one need not be surprised. He is at a loss to know just which way to turn to seek employment, and perhaps his first efforts result in failure. Homesickness and disappointment take possession of him, and though he may keep up a brave showing, he is at heart one of the unhappiest men on earth.

There are scores of young fellows who come to our cities every year and have just this experience, and it is small wonder that many of them write home letters which are full of disappointment and pessimism. Now before saying something that may be of service to such young men, we have just a word or two to those who have already obtained a footing in the country. Try when you meet one of these well meaning clean, honest and hopeful young fellows to give them words of encouragement, if you can do nothing better. Necessarily they are ignorant of conditions here. Help them all you can.

To the young men themselves we say: Keep up your courage and take the first honest work that offers. If you will go through this province and talk with those who have made a success of things, you will be surprised to find just hom many of them began just as you will have to begin, that is with no capital except youth, health and energy, good principles and industry. If you have these things you have the best capital any man can ask in this country. You have an actual asset in your loneliness, if you only realize it, for it makes you free to accept work that you might hesitate about taking if you had a lot of friends, and especially girl friends. Remember if you start at the bottom you will not have so far to fall if you miss your grip of things at the outset. If the right stuff is in you, if you are as good a fellow as you think you are, you will come out all right. And just another word of advice. Do not let yourself slip backward in your personal habits. No matter what you may have to do to earn a living, think of what you have been, and of what you mean to be. Do not unlearn the lessons taught you by your father and mother as to the beauty of a clean, manly life. If with such ideas in your mind you get a job of work, even if it is wheeling a barrow or shovelling sand, you will have begun to "make good" you will have begun about where that middle-aged man who has just stepped from his office to his motor car began. When he was your age. A certain well known Victorian once sat in his office in the rear of his business house. A caller, who had passed rows of desks to reach him, asked him why he did not get further back still. He replied: "I can't. There is no further to go When I came here they set me to work on the sidewalk with a broom, and they have kept pushing me back ever since." It is not where you begin, young man from the east or from the old country, that counts, but how you begin.—Semi-Weekly Colonist.

FLYING FELONS

Aviation as an Aid to Crime

It has been suggested that the ease with which anyone may become possessed of a machine which will enable him to go at will through any point through the air will give an enormous power to criminals in the conduct of their nefarious designs. This is doubtless true, and there are many precedents for such a conclusion. Other scientific developments have been seized on by evil-disposed persons, and much harm has followed.

Any source of power in nature may be abused, and it is not to be supposed that the machine which has provided a new, powerful and wholly personal method of locomotion will be free from such abuse. One of the functions of government is to maintain order, and if the introduction of aerial navigation may be followed by a new method of evil doing it will doubtless become one of the changed details of government to cope with the fact. It is possible that the great difficulty of catching and punishing evil doers who may use the new adjunct to their designs will result in an altogether changed method of dealing with crime. Methods similar to those which have prevented thousands of deaths from fever and malaria in the Isthmus of Panama may be discovered for preventing deaths at the hands of the degenerate human beings, and possibly the only thing needed for the development of such methods will be the utter breakdown of the old plan of trying to keep one man from committing a crime by punishing some other man. Juts what such methods may be cannot be determined at the present time, but if the expenditures incurred in maintaining detective departments were diverted to the extermination of slums and criminal quarters in cities, and in the dispersion of the hordes of ignorant aliens from congested localities into the wholesome country, doubtless much unenacted crime would be prevented. One of the inevitable results of the spread of population, due to new and independent methods of transport, would be the extermination of breeding places of crime, just as the breeding-places of disease-carrying mosquitoes have been removed, so that the new order of things would aid in working the cure of the social disease. H. H. Suplee in "Cassier's Magazine."

CHATTERING CODS AND WHISTLING HERRINGS

In any other land than that from which the sun refuses to retire at midnight accounts of boatloads of men listening to the private conversations of fishes under water would smack too much of the adventures of "Alice in Wonderland" to be taken seriously. Nevertheless, the fishermen along the Norwegian coasts are just such eavesdroppers.

Every fishing vessel is now equipped with a telephone to which is attached a microphone designed to augment submarine sounds. These sounds, collected by an electrical apparatus, communicate by means of a copper wire with the receiver of the telephone installed on the boat.

By listening in the ordinary way, receiver at ear, the fishermen can tell precisely the moment when the fish begin to collect.

It is said that there is a considerable difference in the sounds made by the various fish as they congregate. The cod utters a gutteral grunt and the herring has a whistling intonation which is said to be rather musical.

It's better to be level-headed than flat footed.

THINK OF THIS LIGHTING A PIPE

It has been estimated that for each minute of time, the civilized nations of the world strike three million matches. This is said to be the average for every minute of the twenty-four hours of the day. Fifteen hundred billion is the number for the entire year, and those persons who live under the American flag are charged with the consumption of one half of this amount.

The importance of the industry which turns out the little splinters of wood tipped with sulphur or some other material ignited by friction, is only recognized when the average smoker tries to contemplate his predicament if he had to go back to the time when he had to coax a spark from a tinderbox. Small and insignificant as is it, the match demands as much attention in the choice of the wood involved in its manufacture as any other forest product. Only the choicest portions of the best trees are suitable. Sap-wood, knotty or cross-grained timber will not do. Instead of being a by-product, the little match is turned out at hundreds of mills over the country where the by-products are bulky objects like doors, sash, shingles, sidings, posts, and cord woods. The pines, linden, aspen, white cedar, poplar, birch and willow are the most suitable match timbers.

Marking an Historic Spot

A simple, yet impressive ceremony that marks an epoch in the history of the press of Canada took place before a humble dwelling house on Grafton street, Halifax, on the afternoon of October 10. The occasion was the unveiling of a tablet that will mark for all time to come the site of the first printing press set up in Canada.

In 1751, but two years after Halifax was founded by Lord Cornwallis, Bartholomew Green jr. established the first printing press and one year later, in 1752, the Halifax Gazette ,the first newspaper published in Canada was issued from the same premises. The tablet that marks this historic spot is one of many being erected by the Nova Scotia Historical Society in various parts of the province marking points of similar interest. In itself the tablet is a very simple affair, being about twelve inches square and composed of white metal on which is inscribed the following:

The first printing press in Canada, established by Bartholomew Green, Jr., 1751, and of John Bushell's press, where the Halifax Gazette, the first newspaper in Canada was published in 1752.—Nova Scotia Horticultural Society.

For some years the Halifax Gazette continued to be published from the premises on Grafton street and in subsequent years it was known as the Nova Scotian. While the Gazette under its original name is no longer known, it is nevertheless, still in existence, now being published by the province of Nova Scotia as the Royal Gazette.

The history of the Halifax Gazette might truly be said to be the history of the press of the Maritime provinces. The founders of the Gazette were the pioneers in Nova Scotia and against heavy odds, did much for the liberty of the press.

The unveiling of the tablet marking the spot, where the first press in Canada stood, took place before a representative gathering of citizens. Rev. Archdeacon Armitage, president of the Nova Scotia Historical Society, spoke on the early history of journalism and speeches were also delivered by D. R. Jack of St. John, James Macdonald, secretary of the Historical society and J. W. Regan, maritime representative of the Associated Press.

Charity often begins as home without getting much of a start.

OPPORTUNITY

They do me wrong who say I come no more
When once I knock and fail to find you in;
For every day I stand outside your door,
And bid you wake and rise to fight and win.
Wail not for precious chances passed away,
Weep not for golden ages on the wane;
Each night I burn the records of the day,
At sunrise every soul is born again.
Laugh like a boy at splendors that have sped,
To vanished joy. be blind and deaf and dumb,
My judgments seal the dead past with its dead,
But never bind a moment yet to come,
Though deep in mire, wring not your hands and weep,
I lean my arm to all who say: "I can."
No shamefaced outcast ever sank so deep
But he might rise again and be a man.
—Walter Malone.

Remember when speaking of your competitor that you are the other fellow to him.

In Switzerland there is a newspaper especially for engaged couples. Agents all over the country collect particulars concerning young people who become engaged to be married, and their names, addresses and particulars of their social position appear in this weekly journal. Every girl whose name is thus mentioned receives the paper for one year free, the subscribers to it being chiefly tradespeople who send advertisements of their goods to those whose names are so published.

Rheumatism being such a universal complaint, it is hardly to be wondered at that there exists a paper entirely for thebenefit of rheumatic sufferers. This is published in Germany, and in it rheumatic patients discuss their symptoms and tell of anything that has proved a relief to their pains, while medical men contribute articles to it on the different phases, symptoms and species of rheumatism and the progress which the cure of rheumatism is steadily making. Needless to say, most rheumatic patients make a point of seeing this strange print.

There was staying in London recently the editor of the only illustrated paper in the whole of the Caucasus, who, therefore, is in the happy position of having no competitor. He is said to have made arrangements for the publishing of a world's miniature post card newspaper, the print of which will be so small that the readers will be supplied with a magnifying glass in order to master its contents.

Greenland possesses one monthly journal called the Kalorikmit. It consists of a single sheet of three columns and is published at Godthaab, on the west coast of Greenland. A three months' subscription to the paper takes the peculiar form of two ducks. A sableskin will pay for the paper for a whole year.

America is the land of eccentricities for newspapers. Imagine yourself asking at a book stall for the Crowbar or the Missing Link, or the Tar Heel, or the Buzz Saw, or the Arkansas Thomas Cat. These are actually the titles of newspapers in the States. Yet even these are hardly the worst, for among the list of papers in Alabama are the Hot Blast, Spot Cash, and Wire Grass Siftings. The people of California are more or less proud of the Pomo-Tropic, the Buzz and the Ojar. Colorado has the Flume and the Rattler, while the state of Georgia contains the Jimplicute and the Hustler—Tit-Bits.

Living in a tens, as we understand it, is great if you don't have to.

THE VANCOUVER FERRY APPROACH

Editor Express:

As I may not be present at the public meeting on Tuesday evening, permit me again the privilege of your columns to offer a brief reply to the remarks of the chairman of the ferry board. I must reiterate my statement that the representatives of the Board of Trade and the Ratepayers' Association deny having given approval of the proposed deal with the G. T. P. Company. I do so on authority of assurances given by Mr. Doney, who represented the Board of Trade and by Mr. H. C. Wright, president of the Ratepayers' Association. The newspaper reports of the chairman's remarks at the city council meeting are my authority for the statement that he said it would take a year to build the subway.

Mr. McNeish's sneer regarding the source from which my letter emanated, I take as a personal compliment. I am aware that we differ on many matters, and in many respects I am content to have it so. Perhaps differences may become even more apparent as time goes on.

Regarding letter writing, I may have overstepped the limit allowed by Mr. McNeish—chiefly I fear in criticizing his actions, which he dislikes very much—but with your kind indulgence I have occasionally written, and I am likely to write again if I have anything to state that I deem of sufficient importance to the public interest.

My excuse for any feeling shown in my last letter is the keen disappointment that a practical solution of our difficulty available was being unduly delayed, and we were being drawn into an arrangement that can only lead to an increase of the difficulty. I am,

ALEX. PHILIP.

The East Capilano Ratepayers' Association, which now comprises over fifty members, is discussing many matters which the association hopes to see consummated before long. Among other things the B. C. E. Railway will be asked to establish a Capilano belt line from the present terminus at the school house down the Capilano road to Robson road, thence eastwards to Keith road and connecting with the present line at the corner of Fell avenue. Also the need for a better and wider road in this district will be the subject of a resolution to the council who will be petitioned for the widening of the Capilano road to the extent of 30 feet from the Indian Mission to the Canyon View Hotel.

NORTH VANCOUVER TO HAVE THE BEST

The moving picture equipment which will be installed in the new Lonsdale theatre which will be opened at an early date, will constitute a distinct departure from the ordinary run of equipment found in similar houses of entertainment in the west. This equipment represents the latest and best that has been produced and reaches the highest possible point of perfection in the projection of films. The equipment has been shipped direct from a leading factory in England to North Vancouver and the films used from time to time will likewise be procured from this source. North Vancouver play goers will have the privilege of enjoying entertainments of this character not excelled anywhere and rarely equalled in the west.

LYNN VALLEY NOTES

Two houses are being built on the Lynn Valley and Crawford roads for the J. P. Crawford Co. Melville and Sons are the contractors.

A meeting to discuss the situation re missionary for Knox church will take place this evening. The managers and officers will confer together.

Mr. C. A. Gould, late of the Lynn Valley, has moved to Medicine Hat, Alta., where he has taken a position in the new machine shops just started there.

The new institute hall is making good progress, considering the condition of the weather. The frame is erected and the roof shingled. Mr. Baker, the contractor, anticipates having the building in shape for use by the first of January.

Mrs. Eaton and family herein express their hearty thanks to the Sunday School and Choir of St. Andrew's Church, to Mr. Jarrett and staff, City Hall, and to the many friends whose kindness and sympathy helped to bear the burden of a sore bereavement.

Have You Figured the Loss From "Busy" Signals?

Suppose a customer is about to order something or other over your telephone. The operator finds your line or lines engaged. The customer must wait—or order somewhere else. Maybe he chooses to wait—calls again—again finds your line or lines busy. That means a possible loss of a customer.

The business man needs adequate telephone service for the accommodation of his business and his customers. When you lose customers through "busy" signals, it has been proved that your telephone facilities are inadequate.

People who get business make it easy for their customers to get them and have the number of telephone lines their business requires. The number should be determined by the amount of use at the BUSIEST time of the day.
