The element of doubt that has existed around this place has dissapeared.

VOLUME 1, NO. 56 | SOUTH FORT GEORGE, B. C., SEPTEMBER 9, 1911 | $3 DOLLARS PER ANNUM

SOME GENERAL INFORMATION

To answer The Herald's many Correspondents.

The Herald is forever being deluged with letters of enquiry regarding the townsites, lands, labor conditions, and possibilities of this town and district, from the four corners of the compass. We received this week, a letter of enquiry from Boulder City, western Australia, whilst last week we had a letter from a fellow in darkest Africa—and still they come. In compiling the following data we have tried to incorporate a volume of information desired, by first arranging synoptically a number of the letters of enquiry before us and extracting therefrom questions relevant to the situation.

The Indian Reserve has always been a bone of contention with our information seekers. This land, 1366 acres, was sold last week to an individual who is believed to be acting in the interests of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company. He paid $100,000 for it, and common sense points to the fact that no person or corporation could afford to pay such a price for that land, other than the G. T. P. who want it for townsite purposes, for without the railway company behind the deal the Indian reserve would not be worth more than its value for farm land.

The following data appeared in our columns seven months ago. It is still applicable to the situation, and is good sound advice;

There is no town, city or village by the name Fort George, controlled by a railway. What property is being sold today in the district is firstly and all the time addition property. Addition property, like every other commodity, has a value by its proximity to the point to be selected by the the railway company. Some of it is good, some bad, and some being sold in coast cities today is not worth a pinch of snuff Every newcomer who is a free agent has located in what is known as South Fort George during the past season, and a large number, too, who had previously acquired property in other additions. The reason for this is too palpably plain to the man on the ground. He buys where there is an ultimate prospect of advance and profit. No man has bought real estate in Fouth Fort George because of love or bond of sympathy for the Northern Development Co. The same opportunity was afforded to buy elsewhere. No man in his right senses and on the ground would think of paying one thousand dollars for a lot if he did not believe the strategical position of the point in which he invested would develop into profitable return. The Northern Development Co. have not advertised South Fort George to any degree. It does not need outside advertising. All that is necessary is to have the prospective investor cover the ground and the rest is plain. The Northern Development Co. have not performed any development work on the townsite worth speaking about. This has been accomplished by those who have had the good fortune to buy lots early. It is individual effort that is making South Fort George; not the workings of a corporation.

What commands and arrests the attention of a new-comer is the position South Fort George commands by being on the Fraser river. With the exception of the Hudson's Bay Co.'s strip, which is a trifle over one-third of a mile, facing the same river, and separating South Fort George from the reservation; the eastern portion of the Collin's addition and Fort George Centre, all other additions are back from the river in varying distances of from one-half to two miles.

John Houston picked out Suth Fort George. He could have purchased elsewhere as cheaply.

The B. N. A. bank inspector selected South Fort George and located the company's bank on the shores of the Fraser.

The Trader's Bank cancelled their pre-arranged plans on arrival here and located in South Fort George. Why? Because they saw the value of the big waterway.

The Hudson's Bay Co., were never restricted in the selection of their post. The Hudson's Bay Company were never restricted in the selection of their post. The main store and office building are situated 75 feet from the Fraser's edge. This selection was made many years ago.

There are the arguments we advance in regard to South Fort George, and which appeal to every mortal who has visited the district. We do not claim that South Fort George is the railway town selected by the G. T. P.. But this we do believe, that by its proximity to the reservation and its ideal location on the Fraser river, it will be an important section of the Grand Trunk townsite once the railway company locate their terminals on the Indian lands.

There are a number of townsites, or, as we have said, additions, here that are being sold. On page two a map will be found showing these sites in detail. The name of "Fort George" was acquired by an outfit of townsite venders named the Natural Resources Security Company Ltd., of Vancouver. They bought a parcel of land to which the name had been appended by an astute individual who recognised the drawing power of the name in peddling lots at long distance. It adds no more material value to their sites than does a catchy name on a pill-box effect the medicinal qualities of the quack remedy it contains. A correspondent, writing from Calgary, addresses us on the matter of townsites as follows:

"Editor. Fort George Herald.
South Fort George, B. C.

"Sir: I am forced to write to you for a little information regarding the location of Fort George. I have heard many people talk about Fort George and yet none of them seemed to know the exact location of the said place. We have the names of three different Fort George's; they are as follows: Fort George, Central Fort George and South Fort George. Now I am led to believe that some of the said places are a couple of miles apart; is this the case? Which do you say is Fort George? It is a bit puzzleing for those that would like to purchase lots to know where to buy. I certainly would buy some lots there, if I knew I was getting them in the real Fort George, but a man is naturally backward in purchasing lots in a town with three different names. I don't suppose you know where the G. T. P. station is going to be located yet, but I note that the maps of the Natural Resources Company show it on Nechaco River, and also I see in the same map the legal townsite of Fort George is in Lots 927 and 928; what is your opinion of it?—is that correct?"

This enquiry, coming from Calgary, characterises the doubt brought about by the operatiobs of lot peddlers who carry their methods of competition to vigorously denouncing the other man's goods. The Herald has no affiliations with any of the lot-selling concerns and tells the truth about them all in spite of hell. We have repeatedly shown that investment in some of the Natural Resources Company's sites is a wild sort of gamble. The South Fort George townsite is practically sold. We would not advise anyone to buy lots on any of the townsites without seeing them. The most profitable investment for large capital will be found in the G. T. P. townsite which will probably be put on the market a year from now.

There is only one logical place to locate on pending the arrival of the steel here. That is on the South Fort George townsite. By the time the rails have reached this place the first bench on this site, now the centre of industry in the district, will be built up substantially. We have here at the present time two banks, a sawmill with a capacity of 25,000 feet a day, three splendid general stores, the lumber yards and headquarters of a second mill, headquarters of the mail steamboat with their warehouses, agent's quarters etc., a drug store, local telephone system, a theatre with a seating capacity of six hundred people, and the only independently owned newspaper here, not under the control of a townsite company, equipped with the most complete plant north of the railway belt on the mainland of the province. The only licenced hotel in the district was located here, but was totally destroyed by fire on July the first. A new hotel is now practically completed by one of the proprietors of the burned Hotel Northern, and when completed, within the month, it will be licenced. Here are located the live real estate firms, the land surveying firms, the headquarters, wharves and offices of the Fort George Timber and Trading Company, a concern backed by the J. D. McArthur Construction Company, of Winnipeg, that operate a line of steamboats out of here and the mill before mentioned. The Government offices are within half a mile of this site on the Hudson's Bay land. Besides the larger business houses there are numerous small stores, restaurants and residencies. Now, on the townsites of the Natural Resources Security Company, on the Nechaco River, there is a large hotel, built by the townsite concern, without a licence, which it will not be granted, and a few business houses in some way subsadized by the Natural Resources concern.

No person should purchase land off a blue print in this country unless it is subject to approval on investigation.

There is no government land in the district for sale. It is all under reserve for pre-emption only.

There is plenty of land tributary to the Fraser River waterway system open for pre-emption. The land is not open land, but is comparitavely easily cleared. Copies of the "Land Act", setting forth the statutes governing the acquisition of land under the pre-emption clause may be had on application to the Department of Lands, Victoria, B. C., together with maps showing the lands open for pre-emption. The land will raise good crops of garden truck, wheat and oats, the first year it is plowed. In the opinion of experts the Fort George district will be one of tne best mixed farming and dairying sections on the route of the G. T. P. There are a great number of land companies selling farm lands in this district. Their prices are not, generally speaking, exorbitant, providing the land they sell is of such a nature as to be brought under cultivation without great expense in clearing.

Carpenters get $7 a day and helpers $5 for nine hours. There is at present an ample supply of labor for the time of year. Next spring there will be a much greater demand for men.

To summarize, the outlook for Fort George, as a city of the future, is now well founded on facts that point to the coming realization of a prosperity we have long seen in the offing. The fact that the G. T. P. have acquired the Indian Reserve speaks for itself. The town will have all the advertising of Prince Rupert, with the developing impetus of being a natural railroad centre that is the destination of building railways.

Local and Provincial

All the papers praise Mr. Burrell's after dinner speeches. We would recommend that he dines before taking the platform at South Fort George, if he comes here.

Mr. Stead, a staff correspondent of the Winnipeg Post arrived here on the Steamer B. X. on Thursday last. Mr. Stead will write up the townsite situation here for the Saturday Post.

A big game hunter named C. Barnsby, who came all the way from Worcester, England, to shoot grizzley bears and moose on the Big Salmon river, left town this week for the north fork in a canoe, accompanied by William Seymour, who will act as guide, and an Indian. Mr. Barnsby took with him provisions to last two months.

It is highly probable that the Fort George Trading and Lumber Company will build a steambaat here this winter for service on the upper river next year. Messrs. Foley, Welch & Stewart will also build two steamboats for delivery of material along the grade. The contractor's boats will probably be built at Tete Jaune Cache.

The Coronation pictures shown at the Fort George Theatre during the past week were perhaps the best films yet produced by the Northern Interior Amusement Company. The films attracted good houses. The company is to be congratulated upon its enterprise in featuring the show with such subjects. The season closes for the winter, at the end of October.

Frank Hoffercamp, the well known lacal tonsorial artist, received intimation this week that he had inherited a legacy that makes him independent for life through the death of an aunt in Portland, Ore. Frank calls it an everlasting meal-ticket. It makes no difference when you meet him on the street however, as prosperity never swells the top-piece of men that have seen as many of the ups and downs of frontier life as Francis Hoffercamp. It costs no more to have him amputate your whiskers than it stay right at the corner of Second Street did formerly, and he tells us that he will and Thappage Lane until the toot of the milk train does the work of the alarm clocks in this neck of the woods.

J. M. Wiley, the Winnipeg grain operator, who has been spending his summer vacation in bringing a large stretch of his wild land at the mouth of the Willow River under cultivation, returned to town on Wednesday last accompanied by Mrs. Wiley. Last spring the Wiley land at the mouth of the Willow River presented the spectacle of a stretch of land covered by light brush and wild grasses; the same land, now tilled and bearing crops, is indisputable evidence to the fertility of the soil, and proves that newly broken ground can produce good crops in the Fort George country. Mr. Wiley has, on his model farm, fifty acres under cultivation. A roomy and comfortable dwelling house has been built on the ground, and a stable for the work horses imported by Mr. Wiley. The ground is bearing crops of oats and barley. Peas, Mr. Wiley tells us, did wonderfully well, and all other varieties of garden truck have grown luxuriously. Mr. Wiley tells us that he will return next summer and will import a band of cattle, for dairying purposes.

The Cariboo Observer is publishing plenty of Charley Gibbons' government advertising pap together with the Fort George Tribune. Both papers are boosting for Martin Burrell, the conservative candidate. The Fort George Herald is not doing any boosting for our esteemed member, and in consequence we are not receiving any dope from the Gibbons pap-dispensary. When we started out to spread the white wings of The Herald over the world, for the general benefit of mankind, we announced our policy Conservative. We still have that policy rivited to our make-up, but we absolutely refuse to allow The Herald to become a cog in the political machine. We hold, above everything else, our spirit of independence absolute, so we go on our way, papless but rejoicing.

When it comes to baseball stunts South Fort George can certainly hold her head highf The result of the games played in Quesnel last week redound to the credit of the hub city once again. Two games were played, in the first of which the Quesnel team put one over Fort George, but only that one. The Saturday game resulted in a score of 16 to 17 in favor of Quesnel. Then Sunday dawned, and having got into form after the inactivity of the long steamboat trip, in the game of the day before, the home team walked to the diamond with sparkling eye and confident mien, and proceeded to snow Quesnel under with a score 30 to 5 in the home team's favor. It was a day of classy batting. The home team smashed the old town's offerings all over Quesnel and environs, and the way our star batter poled the sphere into the middle distance rejoiced the hearts of the Fort George fans. Riggs was in the box, and in good form. Charles Brown, the veteran batter, did most of the classy hitting, with Harry Close catching. The home team had several members of the Nechaco townsite team with it.

More Information.

The department of Lands in Victoria has recently issued a series of three maps covering lands open for pre-emption in the Northern Interior. An absolute reserve, covering about nine square miles of land north of Lots 950, 951 and 953 is shown on the of these maps. This reserve is situated about five miles up river, following its meanderings, or about 2½ miles in a straight line, from here. The curiosity that was aroused locally regarding the mysterious reserve led us to wire the Minister of Lands in Victoria requesting information on the government's reason for placing the reserve. We received the following reply:

Victoria, B. C. Sept. 8. 1911.

Fort George Herald.
South Fort George B. C.

It was not considered in public interest to allow the lands to be alienated at present so they were reserved for such general purposes as government may hereafter determine.

W. ROSS.
Minister of Lands.

We trust that our readers will feel grateful to The Herald for casting so much light upon an abscure matter.

Dr. McLennan, secretary of the J. D. McArthur Construction Company, arrived here on the Steamer Chilcotin on Monday last. Dr. McLennan expressed satisfaction regarding the recent sale of the Indian Reserve here. He continued his trip up the Fraser to Grand Canyon in the steamer Chilcotin, and left this morning for the east again.

That Hazelton, the mining camps and the Skeena river will be widely advertised by the G. T. P. R. is a fact that is beginning to be realized. Moving pictures are already being shown all over the world, of the country through which the G. T. P. passes. Mr. Harbeck, the artist who takes these pictures, is now working around the coast, and is on his way to Hazelton, getting another set of views to be sent over the world. He will be here within a very short time.

Dr. Slocum, who is well known here, is showing 5000 feet of these pictures, the title of which is "The Land of the Sunset Sea." He is anticipating a visit to Hazelton.—Omineca Herald.

The total lumber cut of the Dominion of Canada for 1910 has just been received by the Forestry Branch. Reports were received from 2763 yrms operating sawmills, which is nearly 700 more than reported last year. Thus the 1910 report is a better estimate of the actual lumber production than ever before. Nearly five billion feet of lumber was cut during 1910 throughout the nine provinces of Canada, which represents a total value to the country of seventy-seven and a half million dollars. This is about fifteen million dollars over the value of the 1909 cut. Ontario, as in former years, holds the premier position as a lumber province. Its forests are made up of diversified species, which enable it to produce one-third of the lumber for the Dominion. British Columbia, however, will soon take Ontario's place, from predictions made on the 1910 report. In 1909, the western province produced a trifle over half as much lumber as was cut in Ontario, whilst for last year the amounts returned from the two provinces were practically the same. Although one-quarter more lumber was cut in Quebec in 1910 than in the year previous, the increase was not sufficient to maintain it in second place of importance, which position was usurped by British Columbia. The remaining provinces New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Saskatchewan, Alberta, Manitoba and Prince Edward Island cut lumber in the order of importance given, but supply only one-sixth of the amount for Canada.

Down in Vancouver the editor of the Saturday Sunset is beginning to write his dirty work under a nom du plume that we have often heard applied to him. In the right hand corner of his editorial page he hands out journalistic garbage under the caption "Sundogs." With a trifling addition and alteration ! ! !

Rivers to be Improved.

Fred Haden, in the employ of the Federal Department of Works, arrived here this week to clear the eastern channel in the Fort George canyon, of obstructions to navigation. The Dominion government has appropriated the sum of $8,000 for the work. The eastern channel in the Fort George canyon is the main waterway. It is dangerous to navigation owing to a reef of rock that extends almost entirely across it from the shore to a large rock island near the southern end of the canyon. This reef, we understand, is to be blown out. Other appropriations are to be spent in work on the Nechaco River very shortly. We have heard nothing of appropriations for work in the Grand Canyon, or in the Giscombe rapids, both of which places need attention to render the river properly navigable between here and Tete Jaune Cache. In the opinion of Captain Foster the Grand Canyon could be made navigable without serious danger to steamboats, by the expenditure of a very small sum. Captain Foster took the steamer Chilcotin through the lower grand canyon this week. He informs us that the canyon is "a good steamboating proposition." In his estimation Giscombe rapids need attention badly. These rapids are full of boulders, and in any stage of the water, excepting when the river is high, it is only with great difficulty that a large steamboat can navigate the rapids. This could be remedied by the blowing out of boulders that obstruct the best channel.

Next year steel will be laid to Tete Jaune Cache, 300 miles up the Fraser river from here. When this is an accomplished fact the "boom" days of this town may be said to have fairly commenced. Steamboats will be running between Fort George and the Cache linking us up with Edmonton and her trade, whilst from the south the old Cariboo road will vomet forth its crowd of dusty automobile travellers on-to the beach at Soda Creek, bound for Fort George. There is no point on the North American continent today that possesses the many advantages of this place for a field of investment, or a town to grow up with and prosper in a delightful climate and country.

Authentic Map of Townsites: Showing areas sub-divided.

The plan reproduced herewith is authentic. It shows the situation of the lands subdivided into townsites here today. It is the first work of its kind published showing the location of the station grounds on Indian Reserve No. 1 here, sold this week for railroad townsite purposes, as filed in the Kamloops Registry office by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company. The plan was executed by the firm of Gore & McGregor, the well known provincial land surveyors who have been carrying on survey work in this section for many years past.

The lots initialed N. R. S. Co. lying to the west and south of the Indian Reserve are the various townsites owned, or being sold on a profit sharing plan, by the Natural Resources Security Company, of Vancouver.

The only buildings on any of their sites are located on subdivision 938, which is, together with 937, the land registered by them under the name "Fort George." Here the townsite company have built a large hotel, and a number of other buildings. The other subdivisions, Lots numbered 937, 1429 and 777 are at this time entirely undeveloped except for a few avenues cut through the jack-pine and two roughly graded streets. Lots 2608 and 2507 are known as the Hodgkins addition. This addition is owned by a number of Victoria speculators and is being sold by the Natural Resources Company. Lot 1427 is of doubtful ownership. It was staked in the name of Harbour Engineer Bacon of the G. T. P. at Prince Rupert, and is called "railroad property" on the advertising maps of the resourceful resources concern. It is not yet subdivided. All the above subdivisions are a long way from the present centre in the scene of townsite development here, and very little development work will be done on any of them, unless undertaken, as at the present time on Lot 938, by the owners.

Lot 417 is owned by the Hudson's Bay Company and their post, founded over 100 years ago, stands on it. The Provincial Government Agent's office is also located on this land. It is considered possible that the Hudson's Bay Company will subdivide their land together with the railway company. Lot 932 is the property of the Fort George Land Company. It has been subdivided but temporarily withdrawn from sale. Lots 933 and 934 are the townsites of South Fort George, the business, industrial and residential centre of the total area subdivided at this time. The whole of the waterfront on this townsite forms a natural dock, owing to the fact that the site is on a series of natural terraces the lowest of which is about ten feet above high water mark. On all the other sites, especially those on the Nechaco River, the river frontage is of little commercial value, owing to its height above the river.

Lot 1426 is owned by the Walch Land Company, of Winnipeg, and is a good property for residential purposes. Lot 913 is owned by J. M. Wiley, of Winnipeg. Plans are now being prepared for its sub-division. Lot 925 is owned by A. Lindsay, of Winnipeg, and is sub-divided for residential property. Lots 1431,934 and 1432 are held under reserve by the provincial government. The large island at the junction of the two rivers is owned by Messrs Williams & Murdoff, of Vancouver, who will probably sub-divide.

The sub-divided area today aggregates about 2000 acres.

Socialism.

The doctorine of Socialism is being preached in our midst. Not in the vein of the ranting monologue fanatic of the street corner; an individual lean and gaunt, with blazing, deep-sunk eyes and long talon-like fingers, who raves of the red flag of Socialism and the world-smashing power of the masses, going to waste for want of attention to the advices of the gaunt one, but the doctorine of Socialism founded upon the philosophy of the party's "Communist Manifesto", which is the fundimental hypothesis of every Socialistic platform. It reads as follows:

"In every historical epoch the prevailing mode of economic production and exchange, and the social organization necessarily following from it, forms the basis upon which is built up, and from which alone can be explained, the political and intellectual history of that epoch; and consequently the whole history of mankind since the dissolution of primative tribal society, holding land in common ownership, has been a history of class struggles, contests between exploiting and exploited, ruling and oppressed classes; the history of these class struggles forms a series of evolution; now-a-days, a stage has been reached when the exploited and oppressed class—the proletariat—cannot attain its emancipation from the sway of the exploiting and ruling class—the burgoisie—without at the same time, and once and for all, emancipating society at large from all exploitation, oppression, class distinctions, and class struggles."

William McInnis, ex-Socialist representative, in the provincial legislature, for the city of Phoenix, B. C., addressed a meeting in the Fort George Theatre on Monday evening last, being Labor Day. Mr. McInnis is a sincere preacher of the Socialistic gospel. He sees in the realization of the party's principles the solution to the problem of a more universal happiness. By socialism, as evolved from his interpretation of the manifesto Mr. McInnis would emancipate the working class, annihilate the possibility of super-abundant individual wealth, and shatter and scatter the money power. Listening to Mr. McInnis in the Fort George Theatre on Wonday night the scene carried us back, in a flight of memory, to the days when other Socialists entered the political arena. One in particular, James Hurst Hawthornethwaite, the brilliant ex-Socialist of Naniamo. Why the "ex?" Well, nobody could call James Hurst a Socialist now—no, he made a success of the business and got the money, and with his rise to affluence, and his contamination with the capitalist class he used to rave about flew away the red-hot Socialist principles he had used as stepping stones to fame and fortune. Mr. McInnis, in his speech of Monday night, omitted, it seems to us, some very crucial points in his argument. The working man, according to his illustrations of the general principles governing manufactures, were not getting a fair reimbursement for supplying the vital power that turns the wheels of commerce. According to an illustration he gave, the average factory, after paying all running expenses, and taking into consideration their consumption of raw material, was able to account about half the period of labor supplied as clear profit on their books, as according to Mr. McInnis, one half of the labor period supplied by the working class is sufficient to pay the running expenses "in toto". Never a word about competition. According to Mr. McInnis, it appears as though manufacturers have a dead,-immortal-cynch on fortune the moment their machinery is installed. Yet who, from the window of a railway carriage, has not looked out time after time upon a vista of warehouses empty, and falling into decay, and factory chimneys smokeless and moss-caked all speaking eloquently of the levelling power of competition in trade, a competition that smashes the small man, that helps to neutralize the money power, and compensates its distribution. Yet Mr. McInnis' speech was full of interest. To listen to a Socialist who has made a close study of social phonomena one must be impressed. It brings to ones mind a problem to ponder which one may dwell upon long and earnestly. Its solution is difficult of comprehension. Put two men on a desert island, and in an astonishingly short space of time one will have a corner on the visible supply of sea-gull's eggs, or perrywinkles. Go out in the woods in the winter time and read the tale told by the tracks in the snow. The rabbit torn and mangled to feed the Coyote or the blue grouse slain by the hawk—the battle of the strong; survival of the fittest.

The platform of the Socialist party attains as near political perfection as any platform ever evolved. It is created from the declaration of principles written tered to meet each new phase of commercial progress that has marked the march of commerce by such events as the improvement in mechanical contrivances for the production of commodities, but with its idealism, it seems to us—to end. Perhaps, as Mr. McInnis points out, the course of human events are trending towards a period when the creed of the Socialists will offer a solution to a complex crisis in political economy, evolved out of the congestion of the markets by the process of mechanical perfection in production without new fields for the exploitation of capital. It is a hope based far in "futures" forlorn, credulity taxing— yet based upon a summary of conditions that exist.

Church of England Work.

We are in receipt of a copy of the Newbry Chronicle, containing a vivid and interesting description, from the pen of the Rev. R. H. I. Williams of the Church of England's Cariboo Mission field, who has taken up his residence in South Fort George, of the journey of himself and other members of the party, from London England to Quesnel, British Columbia. The Rev. Mr. Williams is a member of the mission which finds its support in one of the poorest parishes in South London. We regret that lack of space precludes our reprinting the article in its entirety. The final paragraph sums up the task that Rev. Mr. Williams has set out to do, and his sincerity and comprehensive appreciation of the new world in which he finds himself up here, are rapidly winning for him a most sincere regard from all denominations here. In concluding his article Mr Williams writes: "In some ways this mission is a particulary difficult one to work. To start with our "parish" or area for which we are responsible is very nearly the size of England, and no railways to get about (it mostly has to be done on horseback) added to which the population is exceedingly sparse and scattered—in all that district there are only about 17,000 souls—not twice the population of Newbry, but every day people are flocking into the country, and who can tell what may happen in the next five years? Then the winters out here are severe, anything between 30 to 50 degrees of frost! when one must use sleighs or dog teams. Last, but not least, the cost of living and the cost of everything is enormous, 25-cents (about 1s. of our English money) is the smallest coin in use up here, this means you pay 2s. for a hair cut, 12s. to have your horse shod, eggs 3s. per doz. now (in winter 1s. each) etc.; but after all it is not in our own strength that we come out here to do your work, for surely it is your work as well as your priveledge, by prayer and almsgiving, to help fulfil out Lord's command. The men of Cariboo, like the man of Macedonia in the Bible, have themselves asked for help, and we are answering their cry. But we are only in the advance guard of that great army, the Church, and although we may be separated by such great distances, we are still "All in One" as at any rate the members of the Church of England Men's Society are not likely to forget. And I know that you will sometimes think of the six men who are fighting the Devil in a lonely outpost of the Church, west of the Rockies."
