TELEPHONE SYSTEM FOR GOLDEN

Golden is certainly going ahead by leaps and bounds the past few years, and this week arrangements were completed whereby Golden will have a telephone system throughout the town. The poles are being put up as fast as possible and wires will be strung immediately.

Shop Early

Year by year the retail merchants are recognizing to a greater extent the necessity of urging customers to do their shopping early. It is now only about one week until we celebrate Christmas, and there is not very much time left for holiday preparations as store proprietors and their help will be busy selling the goods. This is a country in which it is necessary to urge early shopping. Thousands of people in this province came from places so far away that Christmas gifts for their friends at the old home must be shipped or mailed in good time to reach them by December 25. One might wonder why it were necessary to ask people to hurry up and get their holiday shopping done. Likely those who intend buying gifts will do so anyway, some would argue. It has been the experience, however, of those who have tried it that a very lively campaign at this season is very profitable. If customers were persuaded to do their shopping at a time when they would not be jammed and jostled by a great rush, they would be better satisfied, and would have more time to look for gift ideas. They have time to see and buy things they had not thought of before entering the store. It is only natural to argue that the earliest shopper gets the pick of the goods.

Miss Grace Bonner

The following is a clipping from the Calgary Daily Herald about Miss Grace Bonner:

The entertainment was a splendid one and much enjoyed by those who were present. Miss. Grace Bonner, by her clever impersonation of "Esmeralda," gained many admirers. Her ventriloquial specialties were much appreciated.

Miss Bonner will appear in the Columbia Hall to-morrow night.

C. P. R. PLANS

Winnipeg, Dec. 14.—The conference of officials of the Pacific division of the C. P. R., with General Manager Bury, which began last Monday, concluded on Saturday night, and with the exception of Mr. Busteed, who remains until Tuesday, all left for home on Sunday. Mr. Whyte carries appropriations east with him and will also discuss the question of building an elevator at Vancouver, in conjunction with the dominion government, for the storage of Alberta wheat. Over $2,000,000 will be spent in special work on the Pacific division this year in the reduction of grades, steel bridges, new depot buildings and freight sheds. Captain Troup will later go on to Montreal in connection with the transfer of the Atlantic Empresses to the Pacific.

Will drain Moberly Marsh

G. Gadston of Winnipeg, was in town last week for a few hours. Mr. Gadston is draining the Moberly marsh Last summer he had a gang of men making ditches for the water to pass out into the Columbia river. If his plans are successful, he will have about 50 acres of fine fruit land. He left for Winnipeg, Thursday.

Repeat it:—"Shiloh's Cure will always cure my coughs and colds."

Attempts Second Murder

New Westminster, Dec. 10.—John Pertella, a colored man who killed his mistress in Vancouver last August and who is now under sentence of death and is to be executed on Dec. 18. tried to kill warden James Brymner of the provincial jail Monday. That Brymner was not killed is due largely to the assistance of guard Alexander Turnbull, the lacrosse veteran. Pertella was being conducted along a corridor by the warden when he suddenly picked up a bottle which was lying near and smashed it over the warden's head. The official was badly wounded, and the enraged negro would have renewed the attack had not guard Turnbull arrived at that moment. The warden's head was cut badly and it will be several days before he will be able to move.

RAILWAY ACTIVITY

Busy Season Anticipated in Southeast Kootenay.

All indications now point to unprecedented activity in railway construction next summer in southeast Kootenay. It is reported that the holders of the Kootenay Central charter have virtually prepared their plans for the construction of this line. The policy of the company has hitherto been a waiting one, but circumstances will compel them to start work as early as possible next spring.

D. C. Corbin has constructed a line fourteen miles in length from McGillvray on the Crow's Nest branch to his coal mines in the Flathead valley. Application will be made at the next session of the provincial legislature for a charter to extend this road 40 miles south, to the international boundary. The construction of this road will be the means of bringing a large number of setnlers into the Flathead valley, and the promoters should be allowed to complete their undertaking.

COULDN'T FOLLOW SUIT.

Two capricious young ladies planned to have some fun when a certain young man called to spend the evening. They thought it would be great sport to imitate everything he did. When the young man entered the parlors he blew his nose, which each of the girls promptly imitated. Thinking it a pecular incident, the young man proceeded to stroke his hair. Both girls followed. Then he straightened his collar. They did the same, and a few dimples and smiles began to appear in spite of them. Now it was the young man's turn. He was positive of his ground and calmly stooped down and turned up his trousers.—Ex.

WEDNESDAY, DE EMBER, 9, 1908

MERRY YULETIDE.

This is the merry Yuletide season when all the joys of life center round the fireside. The members of the family, if at all convenient, gather at this time under the parental roof. To enhance good feeling, presents are bestowed and greetings sent to absent ones. The home, be it ever so humble, is the one sweet spot to which all eyes are longingly turned, and from which all happiness radiates.

The proud boast of the old English common law that "a man's home is his castle." The four winds of heaven might blow through its chinks and crannies, but the king himself might not cross its threshold unbidden. Only the law's stern necessity in pursuit of crime could authorize an unwelcome intrusion.

The sanctity of former times still scrupulously surrounds it, and the sacredness of its portal has been but enhanced by the advancement of civilization. The modern home needs neither towers, battlements, nor bastions to protect it from the assults of the powerful. The humblest citizen to defend his lowly shack can invoke the protecting arm of the whole nation.

The governments of all the world foster the love of home. Liberal laws are enacted with this end in view. The public domain is generously bestowed upon bona fide settlers. The various states, without, we believe, a single exception, have exempted the homes from seizure for even a just debt. In short, the protection and sacredness of the homes goes side by side with that of the person. It is the commendable desire of every worthy citizen to be the owner of his own home in fee simple, and to encourage this desire have a these beneficent laws have been enacted.

But God must be in all to insure the full measure of happiness that may therein be produced. In our early Sunday School lessons we we taught that God was everywhere, and, spiritually considered, this is true. Yet it is not in this sense that the expression is used Nor in the sense that God shall be present in embroidered mottoes on the wall; but that the spirit of Christ—which is peace, justice, love forbearance, temperance, patience—shall fill the bosoms of those therein dwelling. For where the spirit of Christ abides not, the spirit of evil is sure to intrude. In the spiritual and moral life there no empty houses.

A Curious Duel.

The following quaint account of a duel is taken from an old paper, and will probably be new to most people:

A duel was tately fought by Alexander Shott and John Nott. Nott was Shott ank Shott was nott. In this case it is better to be Shott than Nott. There was a rumor that Nott was not shot, and Shott avows that he shot Not Nott, which proves either that the shot Shott shot at Nott was not shot, or that Nott was shot.

Notwithstanding that circumstantial evidence is not always good, it may be made to appear on trial that the shot Shott shot shot Nott, or as accidents with firearms are frequent, it may be possible that the shot Shott shot shot Shott himself, when the whole affair would resolve itself into its original elements, and Shott woald be shot and Nott would be not. We think, however, that the shot Shott shot shot not Shott but Nott. Anyway it is hard to tell who was shot.

HOW WOMEN READ PAPERS

"It's quee. the way women read the newspapers," observed Mr. Fattipose, "I fetch my morning paper home with me of evenings, so that I can get the real juice out of it, only having time for headlines in the morning.

"Well, last evening after dinner I started to fill my pipe, and was lugging my paper around the room with me, so that I'd be sure to have it when I wanted it, you know; had it tucked under my arm in order that as soon as I got the pipe-a-going I could flop into my easy chair and go through it systemmatically.

"But my wife, of course, saw the paper tucked under my arm that way. and she playfully pulled it from ben.ath my arm while I was driving a straw through the stem of my pipe. I knew then, of course, that I was in for the old performance.

"She plumped herself into a rocker, and without casting so much as a glance at the inviting headlines on the first page—which is the first thing that a man looking at a newspaper invariably does—she turned, as usual, to the less important inner pages.

"Oh, the Fishfaces have a son,' she exclaimed the first thing. 'And mercy on us! Who do you think's married? —been married ever since last April, and here's the announcement just published—why Kittie Cottonseed!"

" 'Huh—and Gertie Gitalong's married too--married yesterday in Wilmington. Who can her husband be I'd like to know? His name here is Perkins. But I never knew she went with anybody by the name of Perkins. Maybe it's a runaway match; but, gracious sakes alive, if it is, why, Gertie Gitalong's a pretty old-fashioned girl to be figuring in anything like that. We went to the same school and she was always at least three grades ahead of me. Well, thank heaven, she's got somebody for a husband, at last. My, but what a tug she had of it to be sure!"

"Well, I wanted my paper pretty badly by this time; but what could I do?

" 'Oh, old Gitgilt is dead!' she broke out an eighth of a minute later.

" 'Dear me, poor Mrs, Tuffroad is dead, too. I surely must go there tomorrow. It almost broke her heart when her daughter Aggie went on the stage, and it never seemed to comfort her in the least either when Aggie began to earn, oh, hundreds and hundreds of dollars a week as a chorus girl! They pay lots of money to these chorus girls, don,t they, for just standing around and looking dollish and pretty?'

" 'Humph! Here's an advertisement for one of those autumn trips to the West Indies,' she resumed a minute or so later. 'My dear, can't we take one of these trips this year. Only umpty-five dollars for the round trip. Really, I think we ought to go. Shall we?'

"Well, I was thinking about a lot of things in the paper that I want t. unravel the sequels of, and so got to reply, but she didn't mind.

" 'Oh, here is a sale of those new Elizabeth ruffs, and I'm just aching in every bone for an Elizabeth ruff!' she went on. 'And tomorrow is going to be a big day for model suits. I want a hunter's green suit. All of my friends have got them already, and they're flaunting them in my face wherever I go.

" 'Oh yes, and there's going to be a big sale of counterpanes, and—oh, my! here's an advertisement for those lovely new pale green raincoats for men, and you need a new raincoat badly; and oh, dear me, here they're just giving dull brass beds away, and I'm crazy for a dull brass bed, and here's some selling for only $25—and there's going to be an awful slaughter in table cloths and napkins. By the way, I wonder how the show is at Klammerheims this week? When are we going my dear, tomorrow night, or the next?'

"Then she went over the auction sales, the 'Lost and Found column, the 'Apartments to Let' column, although heaven knows why, for we've been living in the same apartment for seven years, and have no idea of moving; and then she read aloud a lot of stuff about winter tours to Colorado and California.

"Finally when page 7 was twisted into the place where page 3 ought to have been, and the whole darned paper was in a hopelessly lopsided and disreputable condition; why, she tossed it back to me, saying:

"Dear me, there isn't a thing in the paper nowadays, is there?'

"Well, after about ten minutes of careful and patient work I finally got the paper straightened out so that I could take a peek at it on the first page.

" 'Huh, I said, as soon as I saw the headlines, 'here Roosevelt's written another one of those letters of his.'

" 'Um—that so?' she said, musingly—she was out in the bedroom by this time, fixing her hair and her mouth was full of hairpins. 'As we going to the theatre tomorrow night, or the next, my dear?'

" 'And, b'jing,' I went on, 'here's another letter that Bryan has written right back at him..

" 'Bryan,' said she. 'Who is—oh, that Nebraska man. He running for president again, isn't he?'

"No use talking at all," concluded Mr. Fattipose, women couldn't get along at all without their newspapers could they?"

WHAT FARMRES WANT.

The progressive farmer now-a-days is the one that keeps himself posted on the latest devices and practical knowledge of experts to make farm work easy, and at the same time get the best results. The agricultural columns of The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal are admittedly the best in this country for the Canadian farmer. No purely agricultural paper costing twice the money furnishes the farmer to-day with as good information as The Family Herald and Weekly Star and at the same time gets a weekly newspaper without a peer and a magazine equal to any of the best English or American publications. A weekly newspaper, magazine and agricultural paper—all three combined—for one dollar a year is what one gets in The Family Herald and Weekly Star, and no farmer's home in Canada can afford to be without it. Send one dollar for 1909 and you will find it more than fills the bill.

WHY NOT THE BEST?

When the best can be had at the same price as the inferior article, why not have the best? There is absolutely no doubt that the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal is the best dollar's worth in the line of newspapers. It is an educator for the whole family. It has more features than any other half dozen big city papers or magazines. Give it a trial for 1909, and you will be glad of your bargain.
