Wm. Johnston, of Nelson Creek, was in town Thursday.

Born---On Monday, Jan. 27, 1908., the wife of Wm. Avery of a daugter.

Rev. McKinnon of Athalmer, preached in the Presbyterian Church, last Sunday.

Sam. Lullan, was brought down on Thursday morning from the K.C. R. Camp, suffering from blood-poisoning in his left arm. The cause is the result of a sliver lodged under his finger-nail.

W.J. Barry, and wife of Spillimachene were in town this week, visiting friends.

T. Bond, and wife, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland for the past two months, left last week for their home in Whitewood, Ont.

Rev. W. L. McRae, who has been serious ill for some time past, was able to leave the Hospital this week, but is still under the doctor's care.

A Parlor Social was held at the new Methodist personage on Wednesday last, The featu e of the evening being an auction sale of lunch boxes. The highest bidd was $3.50.

Two men were up before Judge Wilson on Wednesbay. one was charged with stealing $60,00 from his Partner at Field he was found guilty and sentenced to 18 months hard labor in the Kamloops gaol.

Another man was up for breaking goal at Field, and was sentenced to 2 monthes in the local lockup.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Jones, and Miss. Dorothy, of Victoria, arrived on todays train on a visit to friends in Golden.

McMURDO BREEZES.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESP O

Mr. Eric Beven of Hanelly, South Wales, is staying with E. Cartwright.

Mr. Chas. Bookhout drove down to Golden to purchase supplies for T. A ton's camp.

Miss Hazel Coulton of Athalmer who after spending a few months with her sister at Kalt returned home on Sunday stage.

Mr Blackloch returned to the Windermere district on the stage.

NOTES ON SPORT.

The Golden Curlers arrived home on Saturday's train, They made a splendid showing at Calgary last week In the grand Challenge. Warren captured the fourth prize, and in the Visitors Trophy, King won second prize,

A four cylinder 12 horse power model G, Franklin automobile made the trip from Calgary to Okotoks a distance of 60 miles on two gallons of gasoline. Okotoks was reached in 64 minutes and a stop of 15 minutes iu that town, the return trip was made in 61 minutes, and four miles around town before the tank required filling.

A large number of citizens turned out on Saturday night to witness the races at the Skating rink. In the boy's potatoe race, boys under 15 years, Wm. Sutherland, jr., captured first prize, against a large field. John Blakely, won the skating backwards race. During the evening several pieces were played on a gramaphone, supplied by Samuel King.

Thos. O'Brien has given $100,00 for a Trophey for the coming Bonspiel

The Golden Bonspiel will be held on the 10, 11, 12, Feb. 1908., rinks will come from Calgary, Banff, and Revelstoke to take in the event. The Curlers will try and make this years spiel the best ever held in Golden.

We understand that a change in qualification for active members of the Alpine Club, will be introduced this year. President A. O. Wheeler, is in possession of photographs of Mount Garibaldi and vicinity of the Pacific Coast range, showing glaciers and other Alpine features. This mountain is considerably be ow 10,000 feet above sea level and its ascent involves difficult and dangerous climbing. Those who have essayed it tell an interesting story of that region, and its discovery materially changes the test of active membership. The Club will be asked to approve of a clause making 2,500 feet above the timber line on a glacier hung mountain, the lowest altitude in the test for qualification. The Camp this year will be located at Rogers' Pass.

Canada won the international basketball match played at Montreal between the M.A.A.A. team and that from Malone New York, by a score of 47 to 17. This makes the second game that these two teams have played this year, and the Montreal aggregation won in both cases, as, on their visit to Malone, the score was 26 to 17 in favor of Canada.

The University of Pennsylvania cricket team, which made a famous record last summer in England, will play conclusions with the best players in Montreal Toronto and Quebec buring the coming season, During their entire English trip the Pennsylvania team lost but one game, and should be able to give an equally good account of themselves in Canada. The tour will start in the latter part of June,

Game Protection.

Report of Provincial Game Warden Presented to House.

The report of the provincial game and forest warden, A. Bryan Williams J. P., has been presented to the house The question of game protection is gone into extensively. Mr. Williams urging that the government take additional steps to preserve these resources.

In Lillooet and Chilcotin 24 outside hunters took out licenses. On Vancouver Island there were 14.

The return includes the reports of the deputy wardens, and the number of prosecutions for infraction of the game laws in each district is touched upon.

Mr. Williams draws attention to the destruction of game at the hands of Asiatics. Chinese are in the habit of looting the nests of game birds of eggs and in other ways are partly responsible for the destruction, contrary to law, which continually takes place.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS

The Canadian railways during the year ended June 30, 1907, killed one out of every 458,104, and injured one out of every 91,199 passengers carried. The total number of passeugers killed was 70 and the total number ihjured 349.

The slaughter of 35 persons and injuries 387 others attributed to broken rails, and the need of care in the manufacture of this portion of railway equipment is thereby strongly emphasized. Now that the heavy demands on the steel rail mills have ceased the makers may find it possible to turn out a higher class article and better calculated to stand the increased strain of present daytraffic.

This year's accidents oost the railways $1,961,970, including $642,248 for injuries to persons. Among the remedies urged are a stricter inspeetion of rails, roadbed and equipment, the adoption of a thorongh block system and an emphatic holding to account of those reponsible for accidents.

OPERATOR AT PINCHER CREEK SENT UP FOR TRIAL.

Must Answer Charge of Manslaughter for Allowing Trains to Collide.

MACLEOD, Jan. 27.---W. F. Mullen, C.P.R. operator at Pincher Creek, who allowed two freight trains to meet in a head-on collision at Brocket on the night of Dec. 22, 1907, by negligence when on duty, was today committed for trial at the next sittings of the supreme court of Alberta for manslaughter. The premliminary was heard by Supt. Primrose of the R.N.W.M.P.

The evidence of the preliminary trial disclosed facts in effect that the accused was not attending to duty at the time he was called from Cranbrook. The east-bound and west-bound freight trains collided and caused the death of F. Ormsbee, a brakeman.

It appeared from the evidence that every duty was neglected and a great deal of light was thrown on the facts by the evidence given today. The case is exciting a great deal of interest in railroad circles.

WORK WELL UNDER WAY

McDonnell and Gzowski have the work on the two tunnels which they are driving near Field for the Canadian Pacific Railway, well under way. These tunnels will each cut down the grade which the trains have to climb in that portion of the road, 70 feet, or a total of 140 feet. Each tunnel will be spiral in form, and one portal will be 70 feet higher than the other. One tunnel will be 2,800 feet in length and the other 3,2000 feet. In making the approaches, 6,000,000 yards of rock will have to be removed. The tunnels will overcome a difficulty which has hitherto handicapped the railway at that point, inasmuch as it takes from four to five locomotives to haul trains up the hill at that point.

THE BOWSER BILL.

As we anticipated the government was called pretty sharply to account yesterday for its acquiescence in the refusal of the Lieutenant-Governor to sign the Bowser Bill of last session. In one of the strongest and most logical speeches ever heard within the walls of the legislative assembly Mr. McDonald demonstrated that except in the event of a direct instruction from the Governor-General-in-Council the Lieutenant-Governor must act on the advice of his responsible ministers The executive he showed clearly, was a unity, and it was absurd for ministers to come into the House and assert that there was a difference between them and the Lieutenant-Governor and still hold office. Mr. McBride insisted that the general instructions issued when a Lieutenant-Governor received his commission amply covered the case in question. He did not see why he should resign under these circumstances more especially since in his opinion his action would not advance the cause of exclusion at all. Mr. Hawthornwaite contributed, along with much irrelevant matter, the cogent question, "What was the use of going on if the Governor was to veto anything he liked while the Premier sat quiet?"

As the situation now stands the premier appeals to the general instructions issued to the Lieutenant-Governor, for, although Mr. Oliver seems to think that his remarks might refer to special instructions we see no good ground for this opinion. We understand, however, that all the cards are to be laid on the table tomorrow face upward and we shall be very much surprised if, when that is done, it is found that Mr. McBride is warranted in his interpretation of the state papers Meanwhile we reserve further comment on the constitutional question, which, we may remind Mr. McBride, is the issue proper and one in respect of which it might be well worth while to resign even though the cause of exclusion profited nothing thereby.—Vancouner World.

That the Canadian banking system has made more than a passing impression on the minds of Americans is borne out by the following despatch from Spokane received on Wednesday last: "The British American Bank has been formed here to operate six banks in Eastern Washington, headquarters to be at Spokane. A. C. Flummerfelt, of Vancouver, president of the International Coal Company, is president. H. N. Galer, of Spokane, a wealthy coal mine operator, is vice-president, and D. M. Rogers, a Canadian coal man is also heavily interested. The capital will be $1,000,000. The cities where the banks will be established have not yet been made public. The banks will be started in April and will use the Canadian system of banking."

THE LEAD BOUNTY

Board of Trade's Request for Extension.

NELSON, Jan. 28.—The Associated Boards of Trade, which convened at Moyie this week, have passed a strong resolution in favor of an extension of the lead bounty for another term of five years, and have also accredited Messrs, J. L. Retallack and L. Pratt as delegates from the board to Ottawa to press upon the Dominion government the claims of the lead mine owners.

The resolution reads: "Therefore be it resolved that the Dominion government be asked to extend the lead bounty for another period of five years, with the addition that the sliding scale be made to apply when lead is £18 or lower, instead of £16 or lower, as at present."

SHRIEKING AND SHOOTING.

It is a comfort to realize when we hear people talking about "the good old times that used to be," that in some respects at least, we show more common sense today. One instance is in our attitude toward women. There was a time when a woman was expected to shriek and faint in almost any emergency. It was even considered an attractive exhibition of dependence. Today we pardon lack of nerve and self-possession in a woman almost as little as in a man. The girl who rides and shoots has taken the place of the girl who used to shriek and faint. No small factor in bringing this welcome change about has been the campaign carried on by the J. Stevens Arms and Tool Company, Chicopee Falls Mass., makers of the famous Stevens firearms, who have introduced our girls to the healthy, upbuilding sport of out-door shooting. The company have issued a catalog illustrating many varieties of lightweight rifles, shotguns and pistols which girls all over the country are using today. It contains much useful and interesting information on such points as the selection, care and testing of firearms, besides notes on reference will be sent free to anyone sending four cents in stamps, to cover postage.

GET NEW POST OFFICE.

GRAND FORKS, Jan. 31.—If present reports are correct, the work of building a permanent post office and custom office in Grand Forks will be undertaken this year. It is stated that the new structure will cost $35,000, and will be located on an ideal building site in the heart of the city.

Rossland is raising $2,000 for its winter carnival.

Grand Trunk Pacific trains are to be running to Hazelton in two years.

H.M.S. sloop of war Shearwater, Commander Crawford, sailed from the Victoria port, Monday morning for Iquiqua. She has gone to meet the American fleet at an unknown South American port.

Ald. Calland suggested at the civic police committee today that the police take up the question of securing a pack of bloodhounds for the purpose of following gangs of criminals now infecting the city. He thought this would scare Seattle toughs south of the boundary line.

The government of the Fiji islands have ordered a sample of timber from this province, and if it answers the requirements of that colony, a considerable export trade from this province thither is likely to arise.

Some time ago a letter was received from A. Mahaffy, the colonial secretary of that colony, asking details from the provincial government with regard to the prices of various grades of timber manufactured lumber. The provincial government replied and enclosed price lists obtained from most of the mills of the province.

The department of public works at Suva have not ordered from the British Columbia Mills, Timber and Trading company, of Vancouver, a sample shipment according to advices received Tuesday by the provincial department of lands and works. The order includes 40,000 feet of rough timber, 21,000 feet

When the Earth Quakes.

Some idea of the stupendous power of the subterranean forces exerted by earthquakes is shown by the changes effected by them in geography. Mountains have been obliterated or new ones formed, islands have been made or destroyed, and whole stretches of coast line wiped out. For instance, in September, 1759, on the lofty tableland about 150 miles southwest of the City of Mexico, a piece of land four square miles in area was suddenly raised 550 feet, and numerous cones appeared, one of them, the volcano of Jorullo, being nearly 1,700 feet high. Java in 1772 suffered in the opposite way, for a tract of country fifteen miles long by six miles broad was swallowed up entirely, a mountain of 9,000 feet being reduced to 5,000 feet only in the process.

The Balloon Plant.

One of the curious devices of nature for scattering seeds is seen in the balloon plant of California. The fruit is yellow and is a little larger than an egg. It has the appearance of an empty bag, but it contains a watery substance which evaporates or dries up when the fruit matures, a sort of gas taking its place. This gas is lighter than air, and the fruit flips back and forth in the wind until it finally breaks loose from its slender stem, rises into the air to a height of from seventy-five to a hundred feet and sails away to fall in some distant spot and thus extend the growth of its kind.

Poetry.

"Why are poets so little appreciated?" asked the young man with long hair.

"Well," answered Mr. Cumrox, "it's this way with a piece of poetry: If you can't understand it you don't care to read it, and if you can understand it you haven't any respect for it."

"Jug" Medicine.

Up in a little Vermont town they tell a story of an old nurse. She was the kind of an old nurse to be found in small towns, who comes, after much urging, to "tend" a case and who has many Sairey Gamp peculiarities.

Miss Sally, as she was called, was induced to come to the house of the sick woman and take charge. She moved in—cob pipe, batch of starched aprons, knitting and all.

After the good creature had seen the case through she said to the doctor, "Doc, kin I take my toll?"

"What's that, Sally?" asked the visiting physician who had come from the capital city and was amused and a little irritated by the old woman's ways.

"I mean the medicine," said the nurse complacently.

"The medicine!" exclaimed the doctor. "What on earth do you want with the medicine?"

No fifth wheel to a wagon was ever more redundant than left over medicines.

"I puts it in me jug," replied the old woman slowly, "and then I gives it out occasionally when there ain't no doctor nigh."

The visiting physician roared with laughter, but sobered down when the story of old Sally's "jug" medicine was explained to him. That there were not more victims to her unique methods of cure was a mystery.

his splendid machine as they went bounding over the road with a red October sunset in their faces.

Another automobile came toiling up behind them and passed them on the road. It was occupied by Madame Blanche and Maurice Ankeney.

The vague depression that had been haunting Jean became poignant. She felt misused.

"Queer taste he has," she observed, with a curl of her lip. Then to hide her pique she conjured a spirit of daring.

"Oh, let's pass them! Do, do!"

Harold Buckley, ready to please her or possibly for reasons of his own, entered into the sport and put on power with great abandon.

Jean was almost delirious with the excitement of swift motion. "How jolly!"— Then came a sudden jolting and a desperate adjusting of brakes. They had struck a rocky place in the road. Before Harold could slow up Jean was almost shaken from her seat. The rocks, as, on a level with their eyes, blinded them. There was a loud report, a scream from Maurice Ankeney's auto, which they had grazed in stopping, and they toppled over into a shallow ditch, with an extra tire hanging to one of their wheels.

Jean felt a sharp pain in her arm as she picked herself up; then the diversion of what followed made her forget herself. The blond heiress followed up her screams by an attack upon Harold, who had just extricated himself whole from the ditch.

"Mr. Buckley, this is a great way to drive!" she cried in her high voice with its slightly foreign accent. "Why don't you look at your road?"

But she was instantly mollified by Harold's abject apologies and shook hands with him quite sweetly.

Maurice, who had got to work without loss of time, had almost finished putting on a new tire when Jean felt so faint that she had to sit down on the grass. The pain was coming back into her wrist.

It was just then that Maurice Ankeney happened to look over his shoulder. He burst out roughly to Harold, who was still busy with the heiress. "Don't you see the girl is hurt?"

He got to her first, but in a second they were all bending over her. She assured them that it was only a sprained wrist.

Just Describing Him.

"Who was that man who held you up while you were away?"

"He was a sub from the suburbs."

"Looked to me more like a Rube from the rhubarbs."

Wanted Some Show.

"Does your wife buy her bread?"

"You bet she does! Do you think I would take a chance on having a rolling pin in the house?"

Warped.

"Is the barber liberal minded?"

"Not at all. I never saw such a prejudiced man. If you don't watch him, he will cut your hair bias."

New Experience.

The passless statesman has indeed
A most unhappy lot.
He never knew before, it seems,
How bad the walking got.

Difference in Degree.

"What's the difference between broken and broke?"

"The first is bad as possible, but the second is far worse."

Going Some.

"I understand they were married in haste."

"Yes, on a ninety mile an hour train."

The agitated young man began:

"Mr. Brockman, you may have noticed that I have been a frequent caller at your house for the last year or more."

"Yes," replied the busy merchant, "I have seen you there now and then. I remember."

"You will not be surprised therefore when I tell you that I want to marry your daughter."

"But"—

"Let me anticipate any objections you might have, Mr. Brockman. I am of good family, I am not dissipated, I have a good business and am able to support a wife. All I ask is"—

"But, young man"—

"I can bring testimonials to prove what I say. I have never wanted any other girl, and"—

Duties of the "Pet" Sheep.

Out at the abattoir the "pets" among the sheep may be distinguished by their size, height and shapeliness and by the intelligence of their expression. The pets are murderers. In the other pens sheep come and go by thousands to the slaughter, but the pets remain. They are trained to lead their fellows to death, and they do this work well, for they have by reason of their strength, intelligence and beauty a great influence. When the butchers of the abattoir wish to slaughter a flock of sheep weed is passed to the pets and they indifferently, calmly, enter in among the flock, gain their confidence and esteem and then take their places at their head and lead them to the slaughter house.

The Dwarf Palm of Algeria.

The dwarf palm, which furnishes considerable quantities of fiber, grows in great profusion in Algeria and is one of the principal obstacles to the clearing of the land, so thickly does it grow and so difficult to pull up. Its roots, in shape resembling carrots, penetrate into the ground to the depth of a yard or more, and when its stem only is cut it sprouts out again almost immediately. As its name indicates, this palm is very small and can only attain a certain height when protected, as in the Arab cemeteries, for example.

Palmistry.

"I see financial troubles ahead of you," said the gypsy as she scrutinized the lines in Softleigh's palm.

"What is the cause thereof?" asked the innocent youth.

"I see a dark woman," continued the dealer in futures, "who is destined to cause you trouble in money matters."

"As I expected," groaned the callow youth. "That washerwoman is going to hold my laundry for ransom again. Oh, woe is me!"

Tommy Won.

Two brothers went to the same school. They were absent about a fortnight, and then one returned alone.

"Where is your brother Thomas?" asked the master.

"Please, sir, he's laid up with a sprained arm. We were trying to see which could lean out of the window farthest, and Tommy won."

Bovril in the Kitchen

The object of cookery should be to prepare food in the most nutritious, palatable and easily digestible form. BOVRIL is the embodiment of all these qualities and is therefore of paramount importance in the kitchen where a little of it added to soups, gravies, stews, etc., gives relish and real nourishment to even the most tasteless dish.
