Prospects Bright for a Lively Season in Mining.

EASTERN CAPITAL IS TAKING

Hold of Some of the Properties. Prospecting for Coal Near Princeton.

Word has been received here from Gossland. that the Similkameen Copper Company, owning the Virginia, Alabama and Noonday properties on Copper mountain have sold a large block of stock in the east and are now preparing to begin active d·velopment work. Mr. J. S. Clute, barrister, of Rossland and M. J. D. Anderson, P. L. S, of Trail, are trustees for the company.

The recent develovment on the Lost Horse, where a good body of ore has been discovered within 250 feet of the Virginia claim, will encourage the company to thoroughly explore the ledge already found on the property.

The stock of the Similkameen Copper Company, limited. is largely held in this city, says the Rossland Miner, and it was learned yesterday that operations are shortly to be commenced on the properties of the company, three of which are located on Copper mountain and one on Kennedy mountain, in the Similkameen country. Mr. Stuart Armour, one of the officers of the company, has been in the east for several months, financing the company. He has succeded in selling 200,000 shares at 10 cents each. The proceeds of this sale will put the company in such shape that the work of developing the property of the company can be commenced and carried on for a considerable period.

Prospecting for coal is still interesting a numer of our citizens. Several new locations have been made in the district recently and there is no doubt that when the snow leaves the ground a number of showings which are known to exist will be located. Mr. S. Spencer returned from the coast last Saturday, where he was successful in interesting several well-known Vancouverites, among them being several prominent C. P. R. officials, in the coal fields around Princeton.

The work done on several of the seams has shown considerable improvement in the quality of the coal as depth is obtained. The Vermillion Forks Company are steadily working their lease adjoin the town and are taking out some first-class coal R. Rowland has now nearly five feet of clean coal on his location and the Swansborough and McCroskrey claims are developing well.

There is some talk of a coal syndicate being formed in the district to thoroughly prospect different seams with a diamond drill. When this is done the full value of the coal will be ascertained, as in a sandstone formation, such as we have in this district, layers of bituminous coal are often found below the lignite beds. Meanwhile the prospects for a busy season's work among the properties already located are exceedingly bright. —Similkameen Star.

THE COAL PROBLEM.

J. J. Campbell, commercial manager of the Hall Mines smelter, has returned to the city after an absence of several weeks. Mr. Campbell is following with keen interest the progress of the struggle between the C. P. R. and the interests represented by James J. Hill. His sympathies are altogether with the Canadian road and as a Canadian smelting man he is most dessrous of seeing the Hill charter defeated in the house of commons. Mr. Campbell does not take this stand because of a desire to see the Canadian Pacific the only railroad operated in the Kootenays, but because he regards the proposed invasion of the Kootenay coal fields by Hill interests as the most serious menace to the industsrie of the provinces ever contemplated in the history of the country.

"Permit the American railroad trust to enter the Fernie coal fields and you will hopelessly cripple the smelting industry of the district until other producers of coking coal are developed, which may be a matter of years. The Crow's Nest coal company will naturally sell its product at the greatest possible profit to itself, and with an American railroad at its doors the Fernie coal will naturally be controlled by J. J. Hill who will take the product across the line to his railroad and to the American smelter trust's institutions. This will leave the Canadian smelters hopelessly at a loss for coke, and shut downs will be inevitable unless smelting rates are raised to the point where smelters can bring in coal from the coast Eventually other properties may be developed to produce coke but time is required for this and the results in the meantime must be disastrous. The American smelters refuse British Columbia lead sres and with the Canadian smelters stranded for lack of coke the mining industry would be in a bad predicament.

"The government should take steps to prevent a pound of Fernie coal going across the international boundary line unless there is a surplus over the requirements of this couniry. The industries in this province are at the present time living from hand to mouth in the matter of coke and only manage to secure a supply sufficient for their needs by dint of constantly urging the Crow's Nest people to ship supplies. With the Hill road taking the bulk of the Fernie output, as will undoubtedly be the case, should their charter go through, our industries must be placed in a most unfortunate position The opening of the Fernie coal fields was the greatest event in the history of this country, but to divert the coal product to the trusts whose interest it is to divert the trade of the country to the United States will be a greater blow to the prosperity of the province than the development of the coal deposits was a benefit."—Nelson Miner.

HAD TO CONQUER OR DIE.

"I was just about gone," writes Mrs. Rosa Richardson, of Laurel Spring, N. C., "I had Consumption so bad that the best doctors said I could not live more than a month, but I began to take Dr. King's New Discovery and was wholly cured by seven bottles and am now stout and well." It's an unrivaled life saver in Consumption, Pheumonia, La Grippe and Bronchitis; infallible for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Hay Fever, Croup or Whooping Cough. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at J. L. White's and Miller Bros'. drug store.

Mayor Jakes has appointed the following a committee to make preparations for entertaining delegates to the Associated Boards of Trade which will meet here on the 28th inst: C. Scott. Galloway, W. G. Gaunce, F. J. Finucane, Jas. Anderson, J. W. H Smythe, D. A. Bannerman, Robt. Wood, Duncan McIntosh, W. M. Law and H. C. Shaw.

THE SMELTERS READY

To Blow In as Soon as Coal Arrives.

WORK ON KING SOLOMON

A Very Rich Lead Crosscut on the Sallie—Work on the Rambler Group.

The Greenwood smelters are receiving the final touches making ready for blowing in. The B. C. Copper Company's smelter is ready to blow in, but the management is waiting until there is a sufficient quantity of fuel on hand to assure a steady supply. It is expected the smelter will be treating ore some day next week. The pyritic smelter at Boundary Falls will be ready to blow in on the 1st of March, but it will probably be a week later before the plant will be in full blast. Coke and coal have been coming in to both smelters during the past two weeks from Fernie, in East Kootenay, so it is only a matter of a few days until both smelters will be turning out matte.

Frank Chadler came down from the West Fork Thursday. He had been driving a tunnel on the King Solomon. The tunnel has been run 80 feet, and when work was shut down the face of the tunnel was in ore. Work will be resumed in May when the tunnel will be continued until the ore body of the upper ledge is crosscut. There are three parallel ledges on the King Solomen, and the object of the tunnel now being run is to crosscut these ledges. On the upper ledge a tunnel has been run 74 feet and two shafts sunk to a depth of ten feet. A 14-foot shaft has been sunk on the center ledge, and on the lower ledge there is a 25-foot tunnel and a 33-foot shaft, from the bottom of which 10 feet of crosscuttfng has been done.

A rich strike was made the past week on the Sallie, near Beaverton. At the 100-foot level a 4-foot ledge was crosscut. The ore is high grade, running up into the hundreds of dollars in gold and silver. The Sallie is owned by a syndicate, of which Robert Wood of Greenwood is the head. There are two parallel leads on the claim Below the lead on which work is now being done there is a 2-foot ledge of very rich ore. The tunnel on the upper ledge is in 180 feet and stoping is now being done and ore shipped to the Boundary Falls smelter.

Two shifts have commenced work on the Rambler group, near Eholt. The crosscut, at the 100-foot level, is in about 100 feet. The crosscut will be continued through the ledge, when the mine will be made ready for shipping.

Sixteen men are at work on the No. 7, in Central camp, drifting and stoping. The machinery has all been hauled to the mine with the exception of the boiler which R. F. Coates expects to have there this week.

MORRIS NOT ARRESTED.

A letter and telegram have been received in this city from C. S. Morris, who is at Olalla in the Keremeos valley, stating that the report that he had been lured into the State of Washington is without foundation. This report was published in nearly all of the papers in the province and was thought to be reliable. Mr. Morris, however, denies the truth of the statement and he should know.

The question is why and by whom the report was caused to be put in circulation and the reasons therefor. President Tietjens of the New York bank, from which Morris is accused of embezzling the funds, says he received a telegram from a town in Washington stating that Morris was under arrest there. The bank recently began a suit against Morris in this province to recover the amount he is alleged to have stolen and it is possible that the report of his arrest was put in circulation for the puapose of afecting this suit. Another explanation is that a plot actually existed to lure Morris across the line, which failed.. and the plans of those in the attempt were prematurely made public.—Rossland Miner.

SATURDAY, FEBRUAR 16. 1901.

The city council at its last meeting voted the sum of $200 towards entertaining members of the Associated Boards of Trade, and tabled a petition for a monthly appropriation to the public reading room. While no objection can be made to the action of the council in appropriating the sum of $200 to the entertainment of representative business men of the interior of British Columbia, still the establishment of a free reading room is of more importance to the people of Greenwood than the visit of the Associated Boards of Trade, and the petition should not have been tabled.

Newspapers speak the minds of the men who run them. Occasionally we find a man who thinks he is the hub of the universe; that were it not for his massive brain and extraordinary journalistic ability, the whsle newspaper world would go up in smoke of ignorance. Such men are rare, but unfortunately they do exist. Last week the Phoenix Pioneer man discovered that there was one paper in the district he had overlooked to accuse of swiping his valuable copy. He states that at considerable trouble he published an original article, and that we copied it. Now if by any chance we happened to publish a piece of news word for word with the Pioneer, we humbly apologize to our readers, and promise if they will overlook it, we shall never again indulge in such type melting articles of fiction; and again, if we did publish the article referred to, we are indeed sorry, especially after the little Pioneer man going to such trouble in his efforts to publish an original article, but our grief is made lighter when we think of the news this paper has furnished the Pioneer. We would suggest that the editor of the Pioneer devote more of his time to writing mining articles about moving winzes and quarrying rock, which will never be reproduced, unless under the heading of humorous.—Midway advance.

A FIREMAN'S CLOSE CALL.

"I stuck to my engine, although every joint ached and every nerve was racked with pain," writes C. W. Bellamy, a locomotive fireman, of Burlington, Iowa., "I was weak and pale, without any appetite and all run down. As I was about to give up, I got a bottle of Electric Bitters and, after taking it, I felt as well as I ever did in my life." Weak, sickly, run down people always gain new life, strength and vigor from their use. Try them. Satisfaction guaranteed by Miller Bros. and J. L. White. Price 50c.

THE GOOD OLD GAME.

In the olden days, when men didn't have much sense, that "brother to the ox," otherwise called the Man with the Hoe, went out to dig him a turnip for dinner. (Of course all this is a dream; such a thing could never really happen, you know.) He bent nearly double over his work and brought up a nice one. Just then Mr. Merchant appeared and suggested to the Hoeman a game which he said was so entertaining it would keep them busy forever. He gave Hoeman a shining bit of glass and took up the turnip. He cut off a piece of the turnip for Profit, and passed it to Mr. Exchange, who cut off a piece for Transportation, and tossed it to Mr. Middleman, some distance away. The latter took a piece for Commission and handed a piece to Mr. Banker as Interest. Mr. Middleman then turned it over to A. Gent, who took a piece from it and tossed it to Mr. Exchange, who in turn handed it to Mr- Merchant. I wondered why each had taken so large a piece until I saw a military looking man called Government and a wretch called Charity go to each of the others and demand part of what they had taken. By this time there was nothing left of the turnip except the peel and a very little meat. Mr. Merchant took the meat as hfs profit and traded the peel back to Hoeman for the bit of glass he had given him at first. Yet before he did this, he handed Mr. Printer a part of what he took, for advertising. Then Mr. Government approached and sententiously said: "Take it, Hoeman, it is all yours, and I will protect your right to it." And he stood over him glaring savagely. Then Charity came, grimacing and rubbing his hands, and handed Hoeman a piece of turnip that had fallen from the jaws of one of the others. Mr. Merchant beamed on Hoeman and said: "Isn't it a fine game? Isn't it a beautiful system? You will observe how you were protected, for all the time the turnip was out of your hands you had that shining money, and then, after we have all served you, you get your own back again." Mr. Hoeman smiled. Merchant continued: "And then see what Mr. Charity has brought you. I'm sure yoe are a lucky dog, and have plenty of incentive to work." "Y-a-a-a-s," said Hoeman. Then the "brother to the ox" went to eating his turnip tops, while the others turned up their noses at him.—C. L. Phifer.

COMBINES AND MONOPOLIES.

The world has learned the lesson of co-operation very effectively within the last few years. Labor set the example and capital is following closely in its footsteps. Professional men have formed unions ostensibly for the protection of the public against quacks and the unscrupulous, but the law which guards the welfare of the people benefits to a certain extent those who were instrumental in securing its passage. The railways of the continent are being amalgamated and many which were formerly run independently and competitively will soon pass under one management, and the communities which formerly benefited by their rivalry will be dependent entirely upon the quality of the mercy which they show. The ships which sail upon the deeps and the shallows are all passing under the control of great "lines." Soon there will be no such thing as vessels owned by individuals, for all such owners will be persuaded or coerced to join the combinations. Departmental stores, carrying everything required by man in these luxurious days, are doing the business formerly conducted by hundreds of individual traders. Under this system, which is only in its infancy, the great centers are swallowing up the small towns. When the mail erder habit has fully developed it is expected that the growth of the chief cities of the world will be greatly accelerated, and the quiet little places which the poets who have passed away delighted in will become sleepier than ever, and by and bye will never wake at all.

It is claimed by some writers and all capitalists that these movements are conducive to the well being of communities. Transportation charges are lower than they ever were before, and the necestaries of life were never known to be so cheap. Wages are higher, hours of labor shorter and the standard of living upon a much higher plane. All of which is undoubtedly true. But what of the millionaires who have become such in the course of a very few years? They could never have accumulated their hoards without acquiring a very effective cinch on the people, and the people are so unreasonable as to be inquiring why this sort of thing should be allowed to continue. Andrew Carnegie is estimated to have an annual income of twenty-five millions. The dollars roll in so fast that he knows not how to dispose of them because he is on record as having declared that it would be disgraceful to die "rich." Praises of his generosity are continually rising from the communities which have been benefited by his givings, but they cannot drown the groans of his oppressed workmen nor the cries of the widows and orphans whose protectors were shot down by the mercenaries of the millionaire in the many strikes which have taken place at his works in Pennsylvania. Rockfeller, the Oil King, is a man of the Carnegie type, with little of his disposition to distribute wealth. Both of these men attained to their affluent positions by contriving to obtain control of the natural wealth of the country and bv scientifically guiding its courses into their private coffers. Now somebody says the state has been remiss in its duty. It should have retained its resources, hired men with the genius to develop them, and turned all the resultant wealth into the pockets of the community.

In Canada we are blessed with some state-created millionaires, few though our years as a community have been. No blame is to be attached to these men because of the good fortune which has befallen rhem. No doubt they believe, as we all do, that they attained to their enviable positions solely by reasons of native merit. We have given our railway magnets millions more than ever found their way into the undertakings which they were intended to assist. The lines built with the money of the people have assisted greatly in the opening up of Canada to the world, but there are writers who say that we have not been the chief beneficiaries. American goods are carried very much cheaper than Canadian products, not only to the seaboard on either side of the continent, but into the Canadian market to compete with the merchandise of our own country. One company has announced that its chief terminal point will henceforth be in Portland, Maine, and the other has threatened to pack up and take all its ocean business to Boston, Mass. In a word, the railway companies know no nationality, and sentiment has no place in their thoughts. These developments have had the nataral effect upon the public mind of causing inquiry as to the purpose for which railways have received such generous assistance from the coffers of the Dominion. A government commission to regulate rates and remedy the abuses is demanded, and the extention of the state railway to the Pacific coast is suggested. A feeling against monopolies of all kinds has been aroused which may gather strength and result in consequences which those who have not given much thought to government ownership may yet be astonished at.—Victoria Times.

LIKES THE NAME.

The Toronto Telegram says that Ireland and Scotland would have been well content if the new king had chosen to wear the name of Patrick on the throne. Scotland loves Edward as a name for kings like Ireland loves Cromwell for a name for soldiers. England is the predominant partner in the United Kingdom, and the sentiments of England have alone been considered by the king in the choice of a name. Scotland may have wished that the king had chosen a name other than that immortalized in "Scots Wha Hae:"

See approach proud Edward's power;
Chains and slavery.

But if the name "Edward" recalls tyranny to Scotland, it must also recall Bannockburn to England, and in any event the new sovereign can plead that he liked the sound of Edward better than the sound of any other name in his numerous collection.

WANTED, A NEW RELIGION.

Just at this time we need a new religion that will make a man pay his debts. Shouting don't settle old accounts with God, Devil or Man. We bounce right onto a fellow and put him out of the church if he goes to a ball or a theatre, but never a word to the pious scamp who never pays his debts. Preachers and people who do not pay their debts are doing the church more harm than than dancers and drunkards, for there aee more of them in the church.

How is Your Eyesight?

I have made arrangements with

J. C. LANNERBERG,

the Eye Specialist of Rossland, B. C., to remain with me for some weeks. People with defective eyesight should not miss this opportunity.

There are many ailments due to defective eyesight, and many people suffer through life with headache and nervousness when relief can, in nearly all cases, be received by wearing a properly fitted pair of glasses.

Some people object strenuously to the wearing of glasses, especially by children, and express their fear that "if they once begin to wear them they are afraid they can never leave them off again." To fight against the assistance which art may supply in this direction is absurd. Why should not they be worn through life, if by their aid discomfort is removed and sight preserved, while through their lack, vision is indistinct, eye-pains or headache prevail, and the tendency is toward the destruction of the eye When the eyes feel tired through overwork a pair of glasses properly fitted will give instant relief, and such glasses in many cases need to be worn for only a few months, and the benefit experienced will more than pay for any imaginary discomfort from wearing glasses.

With twenty years' experience in correcting chronic eye trouble, he feels well able to give the very best of satisfaction in the work, and when no aid can be had in restoring lost vision he will truthfully say so. All work guaranteed. Consultation free.
