MR. SIFTON SPEAKS

Minister of the Interior Visits Boundary.

SMALL AUDIENCE GREETS HIM

The Auditorium Was Poorly Heated, the Audience Cold and not at all Enthusiastic.

The Liberal meeting in the Auditorium Tuesday evening was a frost in numbers, in enthusiasm and in the arrangements for heating the hall. At 8:30, when the speakers appeared on the stage, there were thirty-eight men and eight ladies in the main portion of the Auditorium. Afterwards A. Mowatt, H. C. Shaw, A. M. Whiseside and three ladies came in, making a grand total in the room of fifty-two persons. The gallery was occupied by about seventy-five men and boys. Duncan Ross occupied the chair. He said it was the intention that Mayor Hardy should preside, but as the mayor was unable to leave Phoenix, the duties had devolved upon himself. As it is generally understood that Mr. Ross would not object to stepping into the mayor's shoes at the end of the present municipal year, he may be pardoned in, as far as possible, imitating the genial manner, terseness and pure diction of the mayor at Tuesday night's meeting. On the platform were Hon. Clifford Sifton, Senator Templeman, S. S. Taylor, Q. C., and Mr. Miller of Nelson, J. R. Brown and Andrew Leamy of Greenwood.

The chairman in his opening address said that more than ordinary interest attached to Mr. Sifton today, as he has to his credit the defeat of Hugh John Macdonald. We have also with us the Hon. Senator Templeman of Victoria. A cordial invitation was extended to Conservative or Independent Labor speakers. Senator Templeman raised the curtain.

Senator Templeman said that he was pleased to be present. This was his first visit to Greenwood. A man who has been elevated to the rank of senator has still some interest in public life, although many people held a different opinion. The present contest marks a critical period in the history of this constituency. The voters should consider well before casting their ballots on December 6th. From what he had seen there is a strong element in favor of Mr. Galliher. There are not enough representatives for Yale-Cariboo. He was sorry that Mr. Bostock had found it inconvenient to again contest the constituency, for he had shown himself very active at Ottawa in looking after the interests of the district. After the next census is taken we will have two or three representatives. The voters should return Mr. Galliher, as he would be in a better position to help the district than an opponent of the government. The government is heartily in accord with the development of the West. The West is what is going to make Canada a great country, and the Liberal policy is the true policy of the country in that respect. The policy of the government in regard to the great mining industry will be explained by Mr. Sifton. As a new member of the senate his constituency embraced the entire province of British Columbia, therefore he was our representative in the upper house and was ever ready to to fight for the interests of B. C.

Mr. Ross then introduced S. S. Taylor, Q. C., of Nelson. He said the presence of so many ladies in the audience was a compliment to the speakers and also the men of the audience were the representative men of the city. As far as Canada is concerned the elections are over. The result shows that the Liberals have made a good record during their term of office. The government had placed its record before the people of Canada and the people have found it good. It was not for them to discuss the questions brought up by the Conservatsves. The success of the government was due to the fact that the business of the country was handled in a business-like manner. Such prosperity the Dominion has never experienced before, although Conservatives attributed it to the general wave of prosperity, it is not altogether due to that. It is at the same time a just condemnation and punishment that the issues brought forward by some of the leaders of the Conservative party were overthrown and the leaders themselves defeated at the polls. The race cry was raised by a few of the members of the Conservative party, while the Liberals were trying to build up the country as a whole. That cry will never again be raised in Canada, for only the record of the party will be dealt with in future, and the Liberal party at the end of the next four or five years will again be successful. We have in this constituency three men to deal with. Mr. MacNeill has retired from the contest and Mr. McKane is now the Conservative candidate. Mr. Foley appears to be a good, square, all round man. Mr. Galliher, too, is a good man. But this is not a question of men, it is a question of principles, of your interests, and of governing this country as a whole, and you must consider who will best advance your interests. We are accused of making love to the labor party. That is quite true and it is right that we should do so. The Liberals have always fought for the interests of labor, as the party has many members who represent labor interests. The Liberal party have done a great deal to advance the interests of labor in this country and the friends of labor will give their best support to the Liberals. The Conservatives have never passed a measure in the interests of labor during the whole eighteen years they were in power. The Liberals made no promises to labor in 1896. Take the Alien Labor Law. We must not try to keep out foreign labor, but the Liberals have put an end to contracting for foreign labor and bringing it into this conntry. The Liberals never promised this, but passed it because they are backed by the laboring people of Canada. The Liberals said that contractors had made a practice of Jewing the last cent out of the laboring classes, therefore they decided that wherever the public moneys of Canada were being expended the highest current wage should be paid to those employed. Now that the government has set the pace many private enterprises will have to follow, and the general scale of wages will be raised. Also boards of conciliation and Arbitration were appointed by the government. In the recent labor troubles in the Kootenays, Mr. Clute managed to bring about a satisfactory settlement. This will eventually bring about compulsory arbitration for settlement of labor disputes. Mr. Sifton will be a strong champion of labor in the government. The government also introduced the anti-combine amendment clause. Under legislation passed by Conservatives, trades unions were criminal. The Liberals added a clause amending this, but it was thrown out by the Conservative majority in the senate twice, and was only passed when a compromise was made on a bill introduced by the senate. Legislation concerning the union label is being considered, which will aid labor materially.

The question of the Chinese in this province is a very serious one. We realize the baneful influence of the Chinese, but the rest of Canada does not. We have only six representatives from our province, while against us are arrayed the churches of Canada, the C. P. R. and all the capital that is looking for cheap labor. Further, imperial relations demand a great deal of thought from the government. Diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Japan have been interfered with on account of legislation passed by British Columbia. These matters have all been carefully considered by the government and we must therefore not expect too much. Sir Wilfrid Laurier dared to introduce a measure for doubling the tax on Chinese coming into the country and was successful in passing it. Truc to his promise, he has also provided a commission to investigate this matter. When the investigation is over, legislation for still further increasing the tax will be secured. A large number of Chinese when going home to China are given a permit to return to this country. The Chinaman never returns to Canada but passes on his certificate to another Chinaman who has no difficulty in impersonating the first man. If this permit system were done away with it would solve a great deal of difficulty in connection with this question. During the last four years the Liberal party has given us good proof of its efficiency. The Liberals are now in full sympathy with your cause. If you return a labor candidate we will have three members of the labor party at Ottawa. Three out of 220. It is not to your best interests to vote for Foley. At the Labor congress which convened in September, 1900, Ralph Smith said that if the government do as much for labor in the future as they have done during the past two years labor will be much nearer their goal. Mr. Foley said last night that the alien labor law was a dead letter, thereby contradicting Ralph Smith, who savs the law is being actively enforced. The great success of the Liberal party is largely due to the leadership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He has done more to unite the two races than any other statesman. As a result of his efforts Canada stands better now with Great Britain than ever before.

The chairman then introduced Hon. Mr. Sifton, whom he described as the most abused man in political life in Canada.

Mr. Sifton remarked that the Conservatives had a habit of making their strongest attacks on the strongest men in the Liberal party. Although not meaning to compliment himself, he had received a goodly share of their attacks. He took much pleasure in being able to say a few words in behalf of the Liberal candidate in this riding. I have been for the past four years the representative of Western Canada in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's cabinet. It is a big task to look after such a large territory. You will admit if occasionally some things are not done as quickly or carried out as fully as some people would like, there is some ground for an excuse. I will say that I have done to the best of my ability what has been required of me. The Western portion of Canada during the last four years has progressed as never before in the same length of time.

The leader of a political party has a great deal of discretionary power. Our system of government places enormous power in the hands of one man, in deciding as to who his colleagues should be and as to what questions should be introduced. The great question at issue during the recent campaign was whether the people approved of the personnel of the Laurier government. We have not that question to deal with tonight. It is whether the record of the Liberal party is good enough for you. You will declare whether or not you have confidence in the administration of this government. There never has been, nor will there ever be, a government that will do everything just as we think it should be done. So long as that is the case it is quite impossible to please any single elector. Therefore when we are deciding as to what political party we will support, it is a question of which of these political parties is most in accord with our principles. Mr. Foley was on the platform with us last night at Grand Forks. He took exception to many steps taken by the government. It is often necessary to compromise in political matters. One objection Mr. Foley made was that the government was not sincere in declaring itself as friendly to the working men, and that the legislation that has been passed favoring labor was merely for the purpose of catching votes. The only way to obtain legislation is to get it from one or other of the parties. That is the British system and we believe it to be the best. If, when one of these parties succeeds in legislating along lines favorable to labor, they are not likely to permit more legislation of that kind if the sincerity of their motives is

FOLEY MEETINGS.

Chris Foley, Independent Lobor candidate, and Jim Wilkes of Nelson, will address the Electors in the Auditorium tonight; Noble's hall, Midway, Monday night, and school house, Eholt, Tuesday night. Everybody welcome. Old party adherents invited to be present and converted. Opposition speakers cordially invited.

TWO LARGE LEADS

Running Parallel on Marguerite in Deadwood Gamp.

BOARD OF TRADE STILL ACTIVE

Will Send Delegation to Victoria to Get More Money for West Fork Road.

From present appearances the Marguerite mine in Deadwood camp will make one of the big mines of the Boundary district. Both the east and west crosscuts from the 100-foot level are in ore. The development work has conclusively proven the existence of two parallel leads about fifty feet apart at a depth of 100 feet, and rapidly converging. The size of the ore body is not yet known, the one in the east having just been encountered, and the one on the west pierced for a distance of 25 feet and no wall discovered. The ore is arsenical iron and chalcopyrites, and carries fair values. A large body of higher grade ore was partially opened up a few weeks ago in the old workings, but at the present the development is being confined to the workings at the 100-foot level. In building a wagon road from the main road to the mine, a ledge of arsenical iron was uncovered, but no work has been done upon the showing. In the spring the management intend installing a full equipment of machinery when the various leads already discovered will be thoroughly prospected and the mine put upon a shipping basis. The ore will be treated by the Standard Pyritic smelter at Boundary Falls.

At a meeting of the Greenwood board of trade held yesterday afternoon, H. C. Shaw and C. Scott Galloway were named a delegation to go to Victoria and interview the government in reference to a further appropriation to complete the West Fork wagon road to Rendell and and Beaverton. Had the board of trade not interfered in the first place, the road would now have been completed from Westbridge to Carmi by Mr. Thruston. It is only just that the board of trade should endeavor to make some amends for the injury done to the prospectors and other settlers on the West Fork, and it is to be hoped that the delegation will be successful in getting a sufficient amount to make at least a sleigh road as far as Deep creek, to which point the Carmi management will shortly have a road graded.

James C. Dale came down from Carmi on Tuesday last, and will in a few days leave for a short visit to his old home in Carmi, Illinois. He has not visited the old home for ten years. Mr. Dale came to Boundary six years ago, and, like all the old timers who stayed with the district, has been successful. He was one of the original owners of the Golconda group in South Deadwood, his interest in which he sold to J. C. Haas. He was among the first of the prospectors who went into the West Fork country and in 1897 located the Carmi and Butcher boy, the former of which may now be classed in the shipping list, as ore will be shipped to the smelter as soon as the wagon road is completed.

On Sundry morning John Portman, driver for the Elkhorn brewery, and his brother Andrew were out hunting north of the city. They separated and shortly after Andrew saw a deer and shot it, the bullet passing through the deer and severely wounding John in the thigh. The wound is not considered dangerous, but Mr. Portman will be unable to work for a couple of months.

J. C. Boss arrived in the city this week. Mr. Boss was one of the first to handle Boundary properties for outside capital. He put through the deal for the Brooklyn, Stemwinder and other properties fn Greenwood camp. He was also interested in Central and Copper camp properties some years ago.

Lem Pearce, at one time on the Greenwood police force, but lately a resident of the Myers Creek district, passed through the city yesterday on his way to Seattle, where he will spend the winter.

H. B. Munroe returned from the West Fork yesterday, where he had charge of a gang of graders on the wagon road. Work has been shut down.

WEST FORK ROAD.

Hugh Cropley came down from the West Fork Thursday. He is interested in the Wellington and Homestake mineral claims in that district and also has a ranch six miles below Beaverton. The survey party on the wagon road had reached his ranch before he left. He does not think the road can be completed for less than $12,000. The work so far done is of no use to the setlers on the West Fork, as the grading has been done in patches, and until the connecting links are graded the road is of no practical utility to any one. The Carmi road has been graded to a point opposite Rendell, and will be continued down to Deep creek. Work on the mine has been closed down until the wagon road is completed.

HOW CANADA IS ADVERTISED.

What the C. P. R. Is Doing in Making the Dominion Known Abroad.

Mr. J. C. Holden, president of the Ames-Holden company, who recently returned to Montreal after a two-and-a-half years tour around the world, concluded an interview in the Montreal Gazette by stating:

"Two things in particular are making Canada more widely known and more highly considered the world over. First, her part in the war, which has excited interest not only in England but in every part of the globe; secondly, the widespread advertisements of the C. P. R. Wherever Mr. Holden went he found the pamphlets of the great railroad. He found them in Russia, in Norway, in Turkey. When the P. and O. steamship reached Hong Kong all the passengers wished if possible to go on by the Empress boats; for, after experience of the ships of many lines and many nations, Mr Holden declares them unsurpassed for comfort, table and attendance. Even in out-of-the-way up-country inns in Japan, where guests are forced to eat and sleep on the floor and their diet consists of fish in every possible form, the C P R. advertisements were found. Canada's reputa- has never stood higher than now."

GENUINE PATRIOTISM.

Ladies of Canada:

While statesmen and politicians argue the Zollverein and differential trade within the Empire (which they will do while jaw displaces common sense), settle this matter for yourselves.

Your brother colonists of Ceylon and India ore growers of pure teas, Black and Green. Canadian and United States importers supply you with 11,000,000 pounds annually of Japan teas, yet they know Japans are artificially colored and adulterated Let the knowledge of these facts and the sentiment of patriotic sisterhood move you to help the British planter.

British-grown black Teas hold the Canadian market. Drinkers of Japan tea should try the Greens now coming on the market, and your dainty palates will approve them. Yes, we hear your grocer's excuses; but insist. Ladies can always get what they want. Remember how you ran your husband to—well, do they still think it paradise? They certainly will if you give them Ceylon and India green tea. Blue Ribbon, Monsoon and Salada packets are now obtainable.

UNION LABEL — TYPOGRAPHICAL — GREENWOOD

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1900.

By no stretch of the imagination can the work done on the West Fork wagon road be considered anything but a failure. About five miles of road have been graded and this not continuous. The road built so far is of no practical use to the people of the West Fork until the connecting links have been made. The road is being built in much the same manner as the Mackenzie government attempted to build the Canadian transcontinental railway. The Miner some time ago criticized the council of the Greenwood board of trade for burking the efforts of E. H. Thruston to get a road to his mine. In all seriousness the suggestion is now offered that in future the council of the Greenwood board of trade confine themselves to purely social functions, such wining the provincial minister of finance and the consequent small talk that would naturally follow at such a gathering. By their action in this matter they have done an irreparable injury to those owning prospects in the West Fork country. And these are the men who want to handle the city's affairs.

THE Liberal meeting Tuesday night in the Auditorium was held under anything but favorable circumstances. The building was so poorely heated that to remain and listen was a persecution. Howeveo a large number sat it through and were well rewarded for their perseverence by the speech of the minister of the interior, who, although suffering from a severe cold, gave a splendid address, that from a Liberal point of view must have been all that could be dedesired. His explanation of the large liberal majority in Quebec was a neat piece of campaign work. The want of enthusiasm might just as well be attributed to the fact that the temperature of the hall was below zero as to any other cause. However there were not any very strong evidences of the enthusiasm among the masses claimed by local Liberal leaders towards the Laurier government. Even the name of J. Israel Tarte didn't produce any spontaneous outbursts of Liberal enthusiasm. And the minister of the interior was discreetly silent on the question of whisky permits in the Yukon. The meeting could not be classed as emotional.

IN his speech Tuesday, night S, S. Taylor, Q. C., of Nelson, in referring to the cheap labor question, said that "the easterners did not know the difference between Japs, Chinese, and English, Irish and Scotch." This probably accounts for the result of the elections in Quebec and the Maritime provinces.

BOTH Mr. Sifton and Mr. Taylor emphasized the necessity of voting for "principles, not men." That is just the point. Conservatives who believe in the traditions and policy of their party shsuld vote for the Conservative candidate. Workingmen who believe in the platform of the Independent Labor party, should vote fer the candidate of that party, and those who believe there is no difference between white men and Chinese should vote in accordance with that belief. The fact that the Liberals have have a majority in the house should not influence the man who believes in the principles of his party. Those principles are the same whether the party are in the majority or the minority. It is hoped that no elector will take the cowardly view that if the candidate of the party in power is not elected the district will suffer.

THE Ross and Hardy factions have broken out in a new place. Whether the present difficulty is purely municipal is not known. It may have resulted from the fact that the party machine has been in the district the past week, and after such an event there is usually a bone of contention. This is especially true after the minister of the interior has made one of his triumphal tours through a district. In this "growing time" there should be sufficient for all good Liberals.

IT IS said that Hugh John Macdonald is to be the Conservative leader in the house of Commons, and that Nat Boyd will resign in Macdonald constituency to give him a seat. Since the death of Sir John Thompson the party has not had a leader who had the respect of the masses. Hugh John will command the respect of all classes of the Conservative party, not so much because he is the old chieftain's son, but on acount of his personal qualities.

Tartar.

TARTAR is a deposit of animal and mineral matter, precipitated from the fluids of the mouth on the teeth. Sometimes it accumulates in such large quantities as completely to incrust them. It imparts to the teeth a greenish, yellowish, darkish and sometimes a white color. Its effects on the teeth are always injurious.

When once allowed to become crusted with tartar, no one can thoroughly clean his own teeth, because he can neither see where the masses are nor can he use the proper instruments for their removal. The work can only be done by the dentist. Everyone, then, should visit his dentist at least twice each year, for cleaning and examination of his teeth.

The question is often asked, if cleaning the teeth with instruments does not injure the enamel, or if they are not so irritated as to cause disease, and perhaps instances are cited in which teeth of a friend have, in their imagination, been led to decay because of the work done on them by some dentist in cleaning.

It is undoubtedly true, that when teeth are cleaned cavities of decay that were masked by tartar are uncovered, but the cause existed before. The decay of which the patient complains was not caused, but revealed by the cleaning.

Neither the medicines nor the instruments employed by a good dentist will in any case injure the teeth.

MR. SIFTON SPEAKS

doubted. There is no possible way in which labor can more clearly say that they do not want legislation of that kind than to accuse us of thereby trying to catch their votes. and the effect will be in accordance. It is said that the government regards it of great importance that a Liberal candidate should be returned from Yale-Cariboo, but in my opinion it would suit us better if an opposition candidate were returned from this riding, because the requirements of so large a constituency could then be easily overlooked. The constituency is the mots important in Canada with regard to mineral wealth, but it is a mistake to suppose that your verdict will make any difference to the government. You will give me credit for coming here because Mr. Galliher is entitled to my support, and because I wished to acquire a little more knowledge concerning the wants of this province.

At the present time Mr. Tarte is receiving a great deal of attention from the press. It ir said that Mr. Laurier has been returned to power by his countrymen from Quebec, but with the exception of Ontario every portion, taken geographically, has given large majorities for the government. In Manitoba and the Northwest territories we have seven seats out of eleven. In British Columbia we have Aulay Morrison and Ralph Smith, the latter will give the government a general support. In the maritime provinces the Liberals have a large majority. Therefore, for the next five years, Laurier's government will represent the whole of Canada. In Quebec we readily admit that many have voted for Laurier because he is a French Canadian. They have every reason to be proud of Laurier. But all Canadians have reason to be proud of him, so it is not strange that French Canadians should want Laurier at the head of the government. In Quebec the main issue was not the trade and railway policy but was the policy of Laurier and his government with regard to closer relations withe mother land. The Conservatives criticized Laurier on his trade policy with Great Britain, and also attacked him on the subject of sending troops to Africa. They tried to work up Quebec against him and failed. The French people upheld Laurier's imperial policy. I wish to call your attention to a few of the main points of the government policy on which we have been attacked. We are said to have broken our promises with regard to our financial admnistration, in that we had unduly increased the expenditure of the country. One paper said that our annual expenditure exceeded $40,000,000; the next taking up the cry said $60,000,000; the next $75,000,000, and then $100,000,000. The last statement was probably made by a paper run under the name of Tupper. The Toronto World, noticing these discrepancies, said that the amounts should not be varied. If all would say $60,000,000 and stick to it the people would believe it, The actual financial conditions are these. There are two kinds of expenditure—annual and capital. On capital expenditure only the interest is charged. Annual expenditure is harder to control as it represents the actual running expenses of the country. Last year it reached $42,500,000. The Conservatives point out that it was only $37,000.00 at the close of 1896, therefore they say we have increased the expenditure by $5,000,000. But in 1896 the Conservatives did not expend the necessary amount to carry on the business of the country. They cut down the expenses by not making an appropriation for annual drill of the militia, and necessary repairs to public works and buildings. This was not an economy, as it cost more later on to repair these mistakes. The finance minister brings down estimates at the beginning of every session which contain nearly everything. and supplementary estimates near the close of the session. In 1896 Mr. Foster brought down estimates and prepared supplementary estimates. These together amounted to over $43,000,000, so that the Conservative party showed that this amount was necessary, and if they had remained in power their expenditure would have been greater than ours.

On coming into power we found that the Intercolonial railway terminated at Levis, opposite Quebec. This railway is the largest single government enterprise in the country. We found it in a bad way financially. It cost $55,000,000 and was not payiog interest or running expenses. Prior to 1893 id did not come within $3,000,000 of paying expenses. It could only take traffic on such terms as the C. P. R. and Grand Trunk were prepared to offer. These railways did not give very favorable terms. The late government had made traffic arrangements with the C. P. R. and the Grand Trunk. The agreement in substance was this: When the traffic was not of any particular value the Intercolonial got it, otherwise the C. P. R. and Grand Trunk got the traffic. The railway had to be extended to Montreal and this has been the cause of the contention between the C. P. R. and the government.

Our opponents have not been able to pick out one particular department where expenses were greater than they had been. In my own department $235,000 was expended in 1896, and although the business has increased three times and the revenue seven times, the expenditures remain about the same.

In the postoffice department the deficit was $750,000 and has been brought down to $50,000. It is imposible to find any finaucial mismanagement under the Laurier government. While the Conservative government was in power the public debt increased forty-three millions. In the four years of Liberal rule the public debt has increased less than a million and a half per year. The increase in the public debt must be decided by the amount of trade of the country. While the Conservatives were in power the public debt increased faster than the trade of the country, and faster than the revenue. The public debt is now increasing much less rapidly than the trade of the country and the revenue.

In 1897 Tupper predicted that the country would be ruined. He said that Mr. Fielding's course would do a great wrong to Canada. On one occasion, when Laurier as leader of the opposition, attended a banquet given by the Toronto board of trade, Mr. Foster, when called on to speak, tried to prove that the country was in a prosperous condition by giving a great number of figures. Laurier, in reply, said that when the Liberal party came into power people would not need figures to prove that they were prosperous, but would only need to put their hands in their pockets to know it. This prediction has since been made true. In the whole country it is conceded that Canada is more prosperous than ever before. Both parties now declare it, even Tupper and Foster joining in.

It is the duty of the government to develop the country and to obviate the necessity of young men leaving it, and so long as I may be a member of the government, I will always be in favor of a policy of progress. no matter what portion of this country may be in question.

Jas. McNicol of Midway was called home to Glasgow, Scotland, last week by a cablegram stating that his mother was dangerously ill.

Atwood & Thompson, general feed merchants, have sold out their business to Cropley & McNeill. Mr. Thompson leaves next week for Nelson to go into the retail grocery business. Mr. Atwood will remain in Greenwood as manager for Smith & McLeod.

Evening classes will be opened in the upper room of the public school building, Greenwood, on Monday, the 10th of December. The work will be carried on in three courses, calculated to serve the convenience of proposing students. Monday and Wednesday of each week will be devoted to mathematics, in which course the elements of arithmetic will be taught in their relation to the practice of bookkeeping, mensuration, etc. Some practice in mental arithmetic. will also be added. Tuesday and Thursday will be devoted to the study of modern history, Canadian history holding a central position throughout. Passing reference will also be made to some of the more salient features of British history. This course throughout is intended not only to add much to the student's practical knowledge of history, but indirectly also to develop some power intelligent expression. Friday sessions will be devoted exclusively to the study of grammar and its relevant branches of composition, correspondence. No pains will be spared to make the course instructive. Some personal attention will be given to individual pupils and for all a practical result will be aimed at. The combined course will occupy five months. The fee for the single mathematical course, i. e., two nights per week, for five months, will be $10. The fee for the course in history $10, and that for the course in grammar, $8; mathematical and historical course, $15; either of the above with grammar, $14; full course, including all, $20. Filling the Teeth.

WHEN any part of the tooth becomes affected by decay the only remedy is to remove that portion and supply the place with a material that may be so manipulated that it will become solid, impervious to the action of air or moisture, resist the force of mastication and serve as an artificial enamel

The comfort of a pure breath and wholesome saliva, the agreeable effect produced on others by the exhibition of a clean and healthy mouth, the advantage of the teeth in vocalization, the favorable impression made upon the general health by the ability thoroughly to masticate the food, exemption from the sufiering incident to diseased organs and the possibility of the preservation and usefulncss of the teeth till advanced life, are reasons sufficient, it would be thought, to induce everyone to pay that attention to the mouth which would secure such results.

Their liability to decay, and the fact that, unlike other portions of the body, the teeth are not endowed with the power to repair injury or replace lost tissue, so that when decay has destroyed any portion of their structure there is no possibility of its restoration, are most urgent reasons why they should receive intelligent and earnest care.

The habit of dental service once established, the individual should visit the dentist several times each year; and though the teeth may be found perfect, the satisfaction of having the dentist tell you this is agreeable. A grain of prevention in the care of the teeth at the proper time—when there are only minor defects—is better than an ounce of gold after they have been neglected
