THE NEW MACHINERY

Now Being Installed in the Mother Lode Mine.

MOST COMPLETE IN DISTRICT

A Description of the Splendid Plant The B. C. Copper Company Is Now Putting In.

When, in the summer of 1898, the British Columbia Copper company of New York sent in the power plant that has since done good work in connection with the opening up of its Mother Lode mine, situate within a short distance of Greenwood, it enjoyed the distinction of then owning the largest mining plant in the Boundary district. That plant was brought in under considerable difficulties. Its total weight was about 85 tons and it was no easy task to haul it 70 miles, that being the distance between Marcus, where it was taken off the railway cars, and the mine. The expense, too, was considerable, wagon freight charges from Marcus having totalled about $3,000. Reference was made to this plant in last week's issue but now that a new and much larger plant is being installed, it will be of interest to note as well what machinery has hitherto been in use at this mine. This was as follows: Two 60-horse power horizontal return tubular boilers, 18 x 24 Ingersoll-Sergeant straight line air compressor, an air receiver 48 inches by 10 feet, two 3¼ Little Giant and three E 24 drills, a 7¼ x 10 hoisting engine, two 5 x 8 Bacon hoisting engines, a 10-horse power Dake engine and blower, a No. 5 Cameron sinking pump, one 4½ x 2¾ x 4 and one 3 x 2 x 3 boiler feed pumps, a Lawrie feed water heater, a 10 horse power Lively electric light engine and dynamo, a safety platform cage, ten ore cars, etc. Most of this plant was set up, buildings erected and all ready to start work by the end of September, 1895.

More extensive development work and the putting out of a large quantity of ore for treatment at the smelter in course of erection at Greenwood, requiring greater power than that already provided at the mine, an order was given to the James Cooper Manufacturing company of Montreal to supply the following new machinery and plant: A cross compound condensing Corliss-valve Ingersoll-Sergeant air compressor, with compounded air end and inter-cooler; high and low pressure steam cylinders, 22-inch and 40-inch diameter respectively, air cylinders of the piston inlet type, high and low pressure, 19¼ inch and 32¼-inch respectively and 48 inch stroke, the machine having a capacity of 30 to 40 drills and weighing 166,000 pounds; two 66 x 16 horizontal tubular boilers, each 100 horse power for 125 pounds working pressure, and to have horizontal smoke connection and one stack; a 54-inch x 12-foot air receiver; a feed-water heater of sufficient capacity for 350-horse power boilers; 10 E 24 drills; two double-screw and ten single-screw columns with arm and clamp; two iron safety platform cages with safety device and shield roof; two 6-foot sheave wheels; 1,500 feet of 1¼ inch wire rope, and twelve steel ore cars with McAskill wheels and axles. Most of this new machinery has now been received at the mine, and it is anticipated that it will be in place and ready for use about the middle of December, by which time the large new hoisting engine should also have been received and be in course of installation. A Robins belt conveyor and other ore-sorting appliances are also on their way in. A new gallows frame is being built. This is to be about 60 feet in height. Buildings to house the new machinery are either already completed or will shortly be erected. When all shall have been got into working order the Mother Lode mine will once again enjoy the distinction of being more extensively equipped with modern mining machinery and appliances than any other mine in the Boundary district.

The significance that attaches to thoroughly experienced and wealthy mining operators, who are also engaged in large mining and smelting enterprises in other parts of the North American continent, showing such confidence in the mineral resources of the immediate neighborhood of Greenwood as to expend between $400,000 and $500,000 in opening up and equipping one mine and a smelter to treat its ore product, is much greater and of far more material benefit to the district than bushels of "glittering generalities" could possibly produce. That "nothing succeeds like success" is a well-worn adage, but it is nevertheless as trite and true as ever, and since the British Columbia Copper company has beyond all reasonable doubt made a mine of the Mother Lode, and a big mine at that, it is perfectly legitimate to direct attention to the success that is attending their enterprise and to suggest that other individuals or organizations have equally good chances of obtaining and successfully developing valuable mining properties. provided sufficient capital be available and it be expended under the direction of competent men fully qualified for mining work.

W. Y. WILLIAMS' TRIP.

Mr. W. Yolen Williams, manager of the companies of the Miner-Graves syndicate, is at the Allan, having returned from a month's visit to the mining centers of the United States. Mr. Williams was taking a month's holiday and put in the time pleasantly in visiting the leading camps for the purpose of learning the latest wrinkles in mining. In speaking of his trip yesterday Mr. Williams said that he went from here to Butte, where he saw mining on an extensive scale in the famous mines of that camp. He also visited the smelter, where thousands of tons of ore are reduced each day. Butte, he says, is certainly a wonderful mining camp, and the mines and smelters are furnished with the best of machinery. Next Mr. Williams visited Salt Lake City, and from there made trips to Bingham canyon and Park City. In the latter place there are silver mines, stamp mills, sampling works, etc. He also visited other mining camps in Utah. From Utah Mr. Williams journeyed to Denver. It was twenty-two years since he had before visited Denver. When he was there before the place had a population of 30,000, while now it has 135,000. It is now a handsome metropolitan city. From Denver he went to Colorado Springs and passed several very pleasant days there. Then he visited Cripple Creek and Victor. In the vicinity of these two towns there has sprung up since 1891 large mining communities and a section which produces $20,000,000 in gold per annum. Mr. Williams says there are some wonderfully rich mines there. Next he visited Idaho Springs in Clear creek county. From Denver he left for home and arrived here after having been absent for a little over a month. There was a great deal of excitement over the election in nearly all of the towns which he visited. This was particularly the case at Butte, were the matters political were at a fever heat.

In speaking about smelters, he said he inspected a number while he was away, but none of them were better equipped for the economical handling of ore than the Granby smelter at Grand Forks. Still, he said, he had picked up quite a number of new ideas while he was away which would be valuable to him in conducting operations on the several mines under his charge.

Mr. Williams said he was much pleased with the way the mines of the Miner-Graves syndicate in their Phoenix camp were turning out. It had been demonstrated that the ores of the Knob Hill and Old Ironsides could be treated at a profit. With increased experience and the handling of the ores and with the most economical methods, conducted on a larger scale and with enlarged smelter facilities and the addition of a refining plant the profit could and would be considerably enlarged. One thing was certain and this is the fact that the ore yields a profit with the present facilities at the company's command, and it was a great satisfaction to have this demonstrated to the wiseacres who predicted failure and loss in the attempt to mine and reduce the low grade ores of the Boundary at a profit. —Rossland Miner.

The U. S. ELECTIONS.

The presidential election in the U. S. on Tuesday last resulted in a sweep for the Republicans. McKinley carried 27 states with an electoral vote of 292, and Bryan 17 states with an electoral vote of 155.

"Brain and Brawn" is the subject of the sermon for Sunday evening in the Methodist church.

IN THE SIMILKAMEEN

Percy Godenrath Gives His Opinion of the District.

SOME CLAIMS IN CAMP HEDLEY

A Description of a Nunber of the Properties Now Being Worked.

The announcement made by Hon. J. H. Turner, minister of finance, when recently in Greenwood, that the provincial government had in view the construction of a railway from the Boundary to Penticton, at the foot of Okanogan lake, so as to connect with the C. P. R. service on that lake and its branch from the north end to Sicamous on the main line, has again directed attention to the possibilities of the mineral resources of that section of the Yale district known generally as the Similkameen. One of the most enthusiastic believers in the richness of the many camps of the Similkameen district is Frank Bailey. With a view to directing attention to this district Mr. Bailey has published an accurate map of a part of the Similkameen, embracing a dozen or more of the best known camps. In speaking of the district to a representative of the Miner, he said: "I anticipate much travel next year into the Similkameen. The past season many claims have been partially developed, and an effort made to attract capital our way. Already a number of townsites have been placed on the market, such as Keremeos, Olalla, Princeton and Similkameen City, and with the opening up of the country they are bound to forge ahead.

"One of the best known camps, situated as it is in the heart of the district, is Camp Hedley. The most important property in this camp on which steady development has been in progress for many months, and which is shortly to have a thoroughly equipped mining plant in operation, is the Nickel Plate mine. It was located late in the fall of 1898. Shortly after it was examined by J. O'Toole, Marcus Daly's expert, who secured a twelve month's bond on a basis of $60,000. K. M. Rogers is in charge of the development, and before the bond had expired showed up over $100,000 worth of ore. There are three veins on the claim, one of which is said to average $60 per ton. In Camp Hedley most of the properties are surveyed, and a great many are crown-granted. Among the most important groups in this camp beside the Nickel Plate might be mentioned the Climax, Rollo, Ironsides, Draw, Red Mountain, Wellington, Florence and Oro Plato, all on the east side of Twenty-Mile creek; the Ready Cash, Roadsides, Red Chief, Copper King, Jubilee and Mana V., and many others are on the west of the Indian reserve and Twenty Mile creek.

"Camp Hedley is easily reached from Similkameen City, which is situated on the main wagon road 23 miles southeast of Princeton and 22 miles northwest of Keremeos. This place is already the center of a large mining industry and as development progresses the population will grow. Its location is an excellent one, comprising several large flats, which extend from the base of the mountains in a fan-shaped area on a gentle slope to the Similkameen river. There is also an abundance of pure creek water for domestic purposes. The townsite company is installing a sawmill plant and making extensive preparations to build up the place.

"The adjacent mining belt is about 80 miles in width; running for over 40 miles in a northwest and southeast direction—from Copper mountain to Bullion mountain, and including Camp Hedley, Stirling camp, Pearson's camp, and 20, 18, 16 and 15-mile creeks; all of which are distinguished not only by the number of a first-class mining properties, but by the large extent of ore in sight and the high grade of their minerals. The ores of the district are chiefly arsenical iron, which in Camp Hedley runs high in values in gold and silver, but in the other camps mentioned the ores are chiefly chalcopyrite carrying good gold values. Stirling creek, Pearson's and Stray Horse camps are principally copper camps, whereas Camp Yuniman is nearly all quartz, carrying free gold in paying quantities. The copper ores are usually combined with sufficient lime, silica and iron to make them self-fluxing. There are good smelter sites in Camp Hedley, and as the mountain sides are very steep, being on a 60 per cent slope on 20-mile creek, all the ores will eventually be treated in the valley below Similkameen City, which adjoins the Indian reservation.

CROPLEY-JOHNSTON.

On Wednesday last Alderman George Cropley of Greenwood and Miss Lilly Johnston of Winnipeg, Man., were married at the residence of Duncan McKay, of Anaconda. The ceremony was performed by Rev. B. H. Balderston. Mr. and Mrs. D. McKay assisted the couple through the ceremony. An excellent repast was furnished by Mrs. McKay. The health of the bride and groom was proposed by Mr. McKay. Mr. and Mrs. Cropley left on the afternoon train for Nelson. The many friends fn Greenwood of Mr. and Mrs. Cropley will wish them a happy married life Mr. and Mrs. Cropley will reside on Silver street.

A LIBERAL VICTORY.

The elections resulted in the Laurier government being returned with an increased majority. In Ontario and Manitoba the Conservatives gained, and in the other provinces there were Liberal gains, with the exception of British Columbia. Following are the complete returns:

UNION LABEL — VANCOUVER TRADES & LABOR COUNCIL — GREENWOOD

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10. 1900.

THE Rossland Miner, in its issue of the 2nd inst., comes out in favor of Chris Foley. As it is generally understood that the Rossland Miner is controlled by F. Aug. Heinze of Butte, Montana, it is presumed that that astute manipulator of legislative bodies is rasponsible for the change in policy of the Miner. Mr. Heinze's favors are not gratuitous as a rule, therefore the question naturally arises as to what use Mr. Heinze intends to make of Mr. Foley if the latter is elected. The friendship of F. Aug. Heinze is a dangerous thing when extended to a candidate for parliamentary honors This is especially so when the candidate is a workingman. Heinze is said to have made the assertion, after being successful in carrying his railway bill through the local house, that he "bought the British Columbia legislature for $20,000, a less sum than that for which he could buy a jury in Montana." If Mr. Foley is in any way connected with such a man he cannot expect the support of electors who are nat favorable to the purchase of legislators. This is a matter which Mr. Foley should endeavor to make quite clear to the electorate. If he is not in league with Mr. Heinze the sooner the electorate have proof of it the better for Mr. Foley. The representative of Yale-Cariboo-Kootenay must be beyond the shadow of a suspicion of being dominated by F. Aug. Heinze or any other foreign influence.

THE elections in the Dominion on Wednesday resulted in the return of the Laurier government with very little change in the strength of the two parties The Conservatives made considerable gains in Ontario and Manitoba, but this was offset by Liberal gains in Quebec and the Maritime provinces. Both Sir Charles Tupprr and Hon. George E. Foster were defeated. Since the death of Sir John Thompson the majority of Conservatives have not been in sympathy with the leaders of the party, and until young and more progressive men take the lead, the party will not be successful at the polls. In British Columbia the parties will be about the same as in 1896, with the exception of Nanaimo, where Ralph Smith was elected. Mr. Smith is as yet an unknown quantity and probably will remain so. The election of Aulay Morrison for New Westminster will give general satisfaction to the younger men on both sides. His opponent had outlived his usefulness (if he ever had any) in the political world. As expected, Prior and Earl were elected in Victoria.

THE following, taken from the Midway Advance of the 5th inst., would lead readers of that paper to believe the pyritie smelter is being built at or near Midway: "J. P. Harlan, ore purchaser for the Pyritic Smelting company, who are building a smelter a short distance east of the town, was in Midway last week." The smelter is being built at Boundary Falls, about six miles from Midway and three from Greenwood.

AN act will probably be passed at the next session of the Dominion parliament making the study of French compulsory in the public schools of Canada.

A large number of the French must have voted Liberal in Quebec.

THIS AND THAT.

WHAT curious somersaults politics teaches a party to perform. Here today is the Colonist giving special prominence to a letter of Thos. R. McInnes, in which he predicts that the Laurier government will not be sustained. By the way, wasn't Thos. R. McInnes the name of a gentleman who was dismissed by that government because he had formed the false conclusion that he might usurp the rights of the people?—The Vancouver Province.

THE announcement of the proposed establishment of a Canadian mint has not been received with expressions of gratification by bankers generally. They claim that it is an unnecessary innovation which will have no effect on monetary conditions in Canada. The question of the effect may be left in the hands of experts in political economy, in which peculiar science they will be able to find arguments for the proof of almost any view which may be taken. What interests the miner more is the establishment of assay offices where he can have his gold tested and stamped. its value marked and settled, without unnecessary expense and delay, and without entrusting, to him most important matters, into the hands of unknown, and perhaps untrusted authorities. Bankers argue that gold is only a product, just as wheat or pork, and that when sold out of the country value is received. The farmer does not have to send his raw product to Washington or London, or some other foreign city to find a market, and the miner claims as clear a right to aid in the advantageous sale at home of his product, no matter where its ultimate destination.—Toronto Telegram.

A. K. STUART SPEAKS.

Following is taken from the News-Advertiser of the 4th inst. When the statement is made that the mining commissioner to the Paris exposition speaks, it does not necessarily follow that he had summoned up sufficient energy to think on the subject:

"Mr. A. K. Stuart, who represented British Columbia at the Paris Exposition, lately told Mr. Stephenson of Victoria, when the latter visited Paris, that Mr. Tarte had used the most violent language in speaking of British Columbia. He had damned British Columbia and said it was a nest of agitators and kickers. Mr. Stuart told Mr. Stephenson how these words and Mr. Tarte's disloyal utterances had pained him, and he regretted that he (Stuart), a staunch Liberal, could not come home to British Columbia and record his vote against his party, as a protest against Mr. Tarte's outrageous actions."

It is generally believed that Mr. Stuart was not satisfied at holding a subordinate position in Paris. He no doubt feels that A. K, Stuart, and not Tarte, should have been the central figure from Canada at the Paris exposition. It is probable that Tarte made the statements attributed to him in the foregoing paragraph, but it bad taste on Mr. Stuart's part to criticize a member of the government that has kept him from being a burden on his friends for the past four years. Mr. Stuart's appointment was heralded by the Grit press of the district as an excellent one, and others, not Grits, considered the government had conferred a favor on the district by sending him to Paris.

The Theoretical Mining Idea.

Men who have been engaged in the mining business for years are better qualified to judge of the way operations should be conducted than the theoretical operators who perhaps never saw the inside of a mine. The theoretical ideas of running the copper mines of Montana—ideas which prevail in eastern circles—are set forth in an article published in the current number of the Engineering Magazine. It is entitled "The Basis of Successful Mine Management," and the most interesting part of the writer's observations are these:

"It may seem almost self-evident that one of the secrets in conducting mining operations so as to secure a maximum profit—the point naturally to be aimed at—is to get the largest amount of work that is possible out of each man that is employed without 'sweating' him, but at the same time without overpaying him; and to secure the most useful effect that can be got out of the various machines in use, up to the full limit of their capacity in the shortest possible time, without overtaxing them; that is to say, speaking generally, it depends on making the best use possible of the men and materials placed by circumstances at the disposal of the manager of the mine.

"Obvious as this proposition mry appear in principle, however, it is apparently by no means always recognized or acted upon in practice. Managers, indeed, often seem to fail to grasp the fact that the value, whether of men or machines, is the profit translated into money which their work represents when spread over a given period of time; consequently, the net profit or loss resulting from the undertaking is the difference between what I might term the profitable and unprofitable units of work accomplished in the aggregate.

"If the former exceed the latter, the business as a whole must necessarily be profitable, and vice versa; but it is often the case that individual carelessness or departmental inefficiency may reduce, if not entirely wipe out, profits actually earned in other directions, in which work has been executed with greater relative economy."

DECIDEDLY HUMOROUS

To those who know Alexander Dick, M. E., and the stand taken by him on the eight-hour law and in the last provincial campaign, the following interview in the Rossland Miner will be considered his best attempt in the field of humor:

"Yes, I approve of the attitude of the Miner in this contest, and I am heartily in sympathy with the aspirations of a workingman to occupy a seat in the Canadian parliament. It seems to me that this is in accord with the democratic system of government in this country. It is always unpleasant to break away away from old party ties, and I have purposely avoided an expression of opinion up to this late date and only do so now to show that the result of the elections tomorrow does not weigh with me in this decision.

"In this age of ever-widening, ever-advancing ideas, it is impossible for Canada to remain a passive onlooker. The growth of the Dominion as compared with the United States is far from satisfactory. The most potent factor in this rapid progress of the United States is the intense patriotism of its people and a national pride which has been cultivated by its statesmen.

"The old parties point with pride to their moss-covered platforms and invariably view with alarm any legitimate programme based on a cordial study of social conditions and calculated to confer the blessings of higher civilization on mankind. Selfishness is their besetting sin. They forget the lessons of history, the opposition to reforms during the past fifty years, and the onward march of triumphant democracy! Pointing with pride to dead issues. and viewing with alarm the vital questions of the time will not retard the progress of reform. Fifty years ago it was considered almost criminal to advocate measures now accepted as the common law of the land. Many notable examples of this that will be readily recalled have occurred during the Victorian era. Yet in Canada both parties seem to have drifted away from national and social questions, while professional politicians are engaged in an unseemely struggle for place, power and pelf. Mr. Foley has displayed moderation in the past and in my judgment his election is not a menace to any vested interest"

LOCALS AND PERSONALS.

J. R. Brown, recorder at Fairview, is in the city for a few days.

Tomorrow afternoon the beefeaters will play a game of football with a team composed of fisheaters and musheaters. Kick-off at 2:45 sharp.

Ralph Smailes returned from the coast Tuesday. While in Victoria he completed arrangement with the government in reference to the townsite of Rendell on the West Fork. Lots will now be placed on the market.

Hugh McKee returned from the Similkameen the past week. It appears that the account of his accident copied from the Star last week was incorrect. He and partner, hearing the bell near camp, went out to round-up their horses. They separated and in running through a a clump of bushes was struck on the head with a stone or a sling-shot and when he again knew what he was doing he was still running. It is supposed that some one hidden in the brush struck him while passing.

Following were registered at the Imperial the past week: Wm. P. Bassett, R. Robins, Victoria; L. Major, Spokane; J. P. McIntyre, Winnipeg; L. Sears, Thos. Hardy, Phoenix; Thos. Parkinson, Mrs. G. W. Wilson, J. G. Vance, W. G. Harvey, E. Anderson, L. Ernst, Nelson, B. C.; W. H. Vass, Montreal; C. Bermafore, G. L. and Mrs. Fraser, Mrs. W. G. Fraser, Rossland; Geo. E. Fish, Portland, Ore.; W. G. McKenzie, Geo. Bunscombe, C. A. Carman, Vancouver; J. R. Brown, Fairview; Henry Nicholson, Camp McKinney; Geo. A. Rendell, Eholt.

A. A. Anderson, publisher of the Bossburg Journal, was elected representative to the Washington state legislature from Stevens county on the Democratic ticket. The Miner extends its heartfelt sympathy to Mr. Anderson, as he is too honest to mix up in politics, and predicts that he will be a very much disgusted man before his term in the legislature expires.

W. F. Robertson, provincial mineralogist recently paid a short visit to the district. After looking over the Granby company's smelter at Grand Forks he proceeded to Phoenix, where he went through the Old Ironsides, Knob Hill and Victoria group of mines. He came on to Greenwood the same evening and next morning ascertained from Mr. F. Keffer, manager of the Mother Lode, what extensions of work had been accomplished at that mine since his visit some time ago. Mr. Robertson also visited and examined the work being done on the Greenwood smelter, He was unable to visit any of the Deadwood properties and left for the coast on Saturday's train.

Let Deeds Ratify Sentiment.

Ladies of Canada—The world never saw an exhibition of patriotic sentiment as the African war called forth.

Canadians, Australians, and the splendid youth of Natal fought side by side with the British tea planters of Ceylon and India.

Australia drinks the teas of Ceylon and India, while Canada already drinks their black tea. Drinkers of Japan tea should try their Green teas. Up-to date tea merchants the (Salada company for instance), now sell them entirely on merit. "Mindle-of-the-road men" are only waiting for supplies. While "sit-on-the-fence men" are waiting to see how the cat will jump. Ladies of Canana, we pray you to aid the British planter.—Colonist. 1

W. L. Hogg, managing director of the Sunset mine, arrived in the city last evening.

J. W. Porter, of Vancouver, special agent of the Vernon and Nelson Telephone company, was in the city this week on 'phone business.
