BACK FROM THE WAR

Lieutenant Jack Leckie Arrives in Nelson.

IN A NUMBER OF ENGAGEMENTS

But Managed to Dodge all Bullets Coming His Way—Destinguished Service.

Lieutenant Jack Leckie. of the Strathcona Horse, was in the city for a few hours last night en route to Greenwood, where he will remain for a time. Mr. Leckie's last visit to Nelson was on the occasion of the departure of the Kootenay detachment to join the Strathconas at Ottawa, when the volunteers were entertained at the Hotel Phair. Since that time he has gone through a hard campaign in Africa but appears to have come through hale and hearty. During the entire year in Africa he was in engagements over a score of times, but escaped without a scratch, and was also lucky enough to escape the fever and other sickness which claimed almost as many victims as the Boer bullets. The Kootenay men who have returned from the front unite in stating that Lieutenant Leckie was as efficient an officer as served in the corps; and that the autnorities became aware of this fact is evident when it is stated that Mr. Leckie has been recommended for the Distinguished Service Order, a reward of valor that is sought after almost as eagerly as the Victoria Cross. The announcement of the granting of the Order is expected shortly.

While decidedly reticent on the subject of his own performances, Lieutenant Leckie does not hesitate to state that the men from this district under his command acquitted themselves splendidly. From the start to the finish of the trying campaign the Strathconas were ready for business at a moment's notice and never shirked work. They were more or less of a rough and ready outfit in camp and on the march, the distinction in this respect between the Strathconas and the Imperial troops alongside whom they served being very marked, but under fire the sterling qualities of the men from the west came out, with the result that they won the admiration and respect of the general officers commanding. The Strathconas were under the direction and pay of the Imperial war office. This meant that the men were rated as Imperial troops and were senior to any of the colonial corps raised later, a fact which they did not permit the other Canadian to overlook. On pay day, however, the other corps had decidedly the best of the situation, for they drew liberal allowances while the Strathconas received only the shilling per day allowed the British "Tommy Atkins."

The Imperial officers regarded the easy-going manner of the Strathconas indulgently. It was useless for them to protest, as one staff officer learned to his discomfiture, and the incident is worth relating. The Strathconas had finished their work with General Buller's division, and were en route south, being located at a station on the railroad until trains were procured for their transportation. On parting with the corps, Buller had said: "Good-by Strathconas. Better, braver or more useful men I have never had the honor to command." The boys were naturally tickled with the popular general's commendation; and the fact that, while lying at the station, they had stolen two barrels of rum from a good's train did not tend to subdue their spirits. Merriment ran high when a haughty staff officer strolled over from a general's quarters nearby and ordered all lights out. The men from western Canada had been complimented by Buller and were full of rum, two factors which did not make the staff officer's order acceptable. The lights were not extinguished and the first thing that happened was that one of the boys from the Kootenays shot out the officer's lantern with a bullet from a six shooter. This started the ball and in two minutes the entire outfit was outdoors picking off semaphore lights and playfully shooting the windows out of the railroad depot. The fusilade of shots aroused the entire camp and in a few minutes several thousand troops had stood to arms in anticipation of an attack by the Boers. Lieutenant Leckie and other officers of the squadron were hurriedly summoned and quieted the outfit. Next day the officials rustled up cars and packed the Strathconas down the line as fast as possible.

Lieutenant Leckie gives a hitherto unwritten chapter of the history of Beresfore, who enlisted at Nelson and is now captain in Lord Kitchener's Bodyguard Beresford went sick soon after leaving Capetown and never was in a skirmish. He went to Durban, sewed a couple of strrs on his tunic and announced that he was an officer. The real facts leaked out and Beresford was slipping into a peck of trouble when he secured his commission. Pym, who enlisted at Nelson, was an officer's orderly until he received a commission in the artillery. He was killed in his first engagement after securing the rank.

In common with other returning volunteers, Lieutenant Leckie regards Canada as a more promising field for the average man than South Africa.—Nelson Miner.

BAPTIST CHURCH CONCERT.

The concert in the Baptist church last night was given to a large and appreciative audience. All the numbers on the programme were well rendered. Mr. Kauffmann, Mr. Davies and Mr. and Mrs. Millis received hearty encores. The serenade, by the double male quartette, was one of the best numbers in a really good entertainment. Mrs. Travis, Mrs. Methot and Prof. Kauffmann were the accompanists.

TWO COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

The Phoenix Chinese Trouble Came Up Before Magistrate Norris Yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon in the city hall, before W. H. Norris, J. P., M. H. Roy, John Meagher and Fred Durelle of Phoenix were tried for the crime of "unlawful assembly" in that city on the 5th day of January last. On that date John L. Parker, superintendent of the Stemwinder mine in Greenwood camp, hired a Chinaman in Greenwood and drove up to Phoenix with him. This fact was telephoned from Greenwood to Phoenix and a crowd of about two hundred men and boys met Mr. Parker at the western extremity of the town, took the Chinaman out of the sleigh and sent him down the hill. Previous to this time Mr. Parker had a Jap in his employ as cook and general servant. The Jap left Phoenix and Mr. Parker hired a Chinaman. The people of Phoenix started out with the determination not to allow Oriental labor in that city and have been successful thus far.

In his evidence yesterday Mr. Parker stated that he had a revolver in his possession and fully intended to shoot if interfered with, and would have done so had the gun not been taken from him by the crowd. From this it will be seen that the information had been laid against the wrong person. If Mr. Parker, as he stated in evidence, went from Greenwood to Phoenix, carrying a gun, and with the intention of shooting, it must appear to every right-minded person that his was a premeditated intention of breaking the peace by shooting into any gathering of citizens whom he might meet on the public highway and perhaps killing some of them. This looks very much like a deliberate intention of committing murder.

Two witnesses gave evidence that Meaghre had not been off his own premises, a quarter of a mile distant, during the afternoon of disturbance. One witness gave evidence that Roy was among those who attacked Parker and the Chinaman. This Roy denied on oath. No evidence was given implicating Durelle, except his own statement that he was in the crowd.

The magistrate dismissed the case against Meagher and committed Roy and Durelle for trial.

Pringle & Whiteside appeared for the prosecution and R. B. Kerr the defence.

MR. COLLINS RETURNS

From the East — Montreal People Sore.

HIGH ASSAYS FROM RAMBLER

W. T. Smith is Back—Ore in the Dewey Group—Athelstan Shipping Regularly

Geo. H. Collins returned Wedneseay from a business trip to the east, taking in Montreal, Toronto and other eastern centers. Mr. Collins found the Montreal people particularly sore against British Columbia, they having been burned by Republic, Payne, and other investments that have not come up to their expectations. None of the properties in which Montreal people are interested are located in the Boundary district, excepting the B. C., but as the B. C. stock is not on the market the general public are not interested in it, and therefore very little is known about the only mine in the country from which Montreal capital is receiving dividends. East of Montreal, in Quebec, New York, Boston, and St. John, N. B., people were more favorable to mining investments in British Columbia In St. John Mr. Collins found the business men more progressive and conversant with mining than in any of the other cities visited. St. John capital is working several mines in Colorado, and also in Nova Scotia. A mine in Montana, owned by St. John people, was recently sold to W. A. Clark of Butte for $1,100,000. A mining man is therefore understood when he talks mines to the business men of St. John. Mr. Collins' trip was a satisfactory one in every respect.

The crosscut from the 100-foot level on the Rambler, Summit camp, is in a distance of 153 feet and good ore is being taken out.

The Athelstan mine, in Wellington camp, is now making regular shipments to the Boundary Falls smelter, from two to three cars of ore being the daily shipment.

Clement Vacker, who has charge of development work on the Sallie, came down from the West Fork this week. He brought down a very pretty specimen of wire silver from the claim.

J. S. Harrison returned this week after a three month's visit to friends in Sheffield, N. B. Mr. Harrison is sub-recorder of mineral claims for the West Fork and Canyon creek districts, and left Tuesday for Westbridge, where his office is located.

Thos. Donan and partners have been doing development work on the Dewey group of claims, near Eholt, for the past six months The claims are situated on Delamar mountain, about half a mile from the railway station, Eholt. A tunnel has been run 60 feet, and is now in a good body of ore.

W. T. Smith, who has been east for the past three months, returned to the city Monday last. While in the east Mr. Smith had several consulations with parties interested in the Stemwinder and Brooklyn, in Greenwood camp, and the Emma, in Summit camp. He thinks work will be pushed this season on all three properties. Mr. Smith will shortly commence development work on the Bounty, near Beaverton, on the West Fork.

J. W. Nelson returned from the West Fork Saturday, where he had been looking over the Rambler claim, in which he is interested. There is a 22-inch ledge on the property, an assay from which by Guess Bros., of average samples, gave returns of $5.28 in gold and 133 ozs. in silver. It is the intention of Mr. Nelson and his partners to put a force of men at work on the claim about the middle of April, and ship ore as soon as development is sufficiently advanced. The Rambler lies east of the Sallie.

SATURDAY, MARCH 30. 1901.

In the Provincial house John Houston of Nelson is endeavoring to abate the delegation pest. He has asked the premier "Is it the intention of the government to bring down legislation to suppress the delegation nuisance during sessions of the legislative assembly?" Mr. Houston's question may be for the purpose of creating amusement in the house, but should he be successful in suppressing the professional delegate, he will have conferred a lasting benefit on the people of British Columbia. Annually hundreds of delegates are sent to Victoria to support schemes which are only beneficial to railway corporations or chartermongers. These corporation heelers, (usually in the pay of some company wishing special legislation from the government,) work up a little excitement in the locality in which they reside, get a few of their friends together, and are appointed delegates. They go to Victoria as representatives of some one of the interior districts, while in reality they are the hired "boosters" of a company asking for legislation for the purpose of robbing the public. The majority of the newspapers in the west advocating what they were pleased to call "the open door policy," handled special advertising from the Crow's Nest Coal company at the time of such advocacy. One delegate to the meeting of the associated boards of trade at Greenwood, had himself specially appointed a delegate from one of the boards of trade, the regularly appointed delegate coming here as alternate. After the discussion on the B. C. Southern the special delegate left for the Coast, taking no further part in the proceedings of the convention. A large delegation is being sent from Kootenay and Yale to Ottawa for the purpose of asking the government to pay a bounty of $5 per ton on Slocan ores, The railway fare, and, we suppose, other expenses of the delegates, are being paid by parties interested in getting the bounty. If the ore of the Slocan will not pay the ordinary mining and treatment expenses, the mines should be abandoned.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

The progress in the east of public education on the transportation question is indicated by the following article in the Canadran Manufacturer:

"There is probably no important question upon which public opinion has crystalized more rapidly than that of the public ownership of railways and the reception of Premier Ross' timely suggestion has thus far been so favorable that there is little doubt that he will carry it into effect with the fullest measure of popular approval. * * * Recent developments in railway management sufficiently show the danger which menaces the trade of this country at the hands of great railway corporations by the diversion of traffic from Canadian ports to Portland and Boston. The trade of the undeveloped regions of New Ontorio is naturally tributary to Toronto and the western peninsula of the province, and it is of the first importance that ample safeguards should be thrown around any scheme involving the building of the road with public money, to prevent the diversion of traffic into other channels.

It is no less desirable to secure cheap transportation rates and prevent the extortion so generally practised by railway corporatiins.

When a subsidy is granted at so much a mile the invariable tendency is to construct as large a mileage as possible in order to secure the government subsidy, and to sell the bonds of the company, most charters giving them power to issue bonds in the proportion of $20,000 per mile. * * * The management fix the rates sufficiently high to cover the interest on bonds, sold generally at a heavy discount, as well as on the government subsidy, and in addition they figure on paying a dividend on their common stock. Until this point is reached all expostulations as to the extortionate figures charged are met by the answer that the line does not pay, and that, therefore, they cannot reduce them. Under government ownership all that the road would require to earn above running expenses would be the actual cost of construction. It is estimated that the Temiscaming road could be built to James Bay at a cost of $15,000 a mile; the sum voted by the Dominion government to the original holders of the charter covering a considerable portion of the route is $3,200. Deducting this from the estimated cost of construction would leave $11,800 per mile as the amount on which interest would have to be paid out of the receipts, as against a bond issue of $20,000 per mile and possible divedends uuder the system of private management."

THE OUTLOOK.

No one who has been watching the trend of events for the past few months can fail to be impressed with the conviction that the outlook for British Columbia is very rosy indeed. It now seems settled beyond all doubt that the immense coal fields in the Crow's Nest district will be developed on a huge scale. What this means to East Kootenay, and, in fact, to the whole of southern British Columbia, may be left to the imagination—suffice to say that an era of remarkable progress and prosperity will be ushered in if the statements referring to contemplated undertakings made by the officials of the coal company are to be believed. Then, again, we think it may be taken as a certainty that the near future will see the establishment at some point in southern British Columbia of a lead refinery, which will give a great and permanent stimulous to the mining industry and permit of the thorough development of many properties which are now lying idle. The building of the Coast-Kootenay road, which is now, all admit, assured, will also tend greatly to benefit the Kootenays. Taken altogether, we think there is every justification for a feeling of confidence that stirring times, fruitful in progress and prosperity, are immediately before us.—Nelson Miner.

Carmi is a good location for a town, and if push will build a city, the owners will certainly make one there. WORK ON THE BRUCE.

Work has been resumed on the Bruce. This property, which is situate close to Midway, has had considerable work done on it already. A tunnel has been run about 250 feet and the present work consists of extending it to a greater length. Some fine ore has been taken out of the tunnel, but as yet the main ledge has not been encountered.

Last week Sydney M. Johnson, P. L. S., of Greenwood, agent for the Stratford Exploration & Development company, an eastern syndicate owning a large interest in the Bruce, visited the property in company with S. W. Hall, a Rossland mining expert. Mr. Johnson was very much pleased with the result of the recent development, so much so that a force of men is likely to be kept at work until the main lead is tapped. Mr. Hall was also greatly impressed with the property and is of the opinion that the tunnel will only have to be run a short distance farther in order to strike the lead.

In speaking of Mr. Hall's visit to the Boundary country, the Rossland Miner of a recent date has the following to say: "Mr. S. W. Hall returned on Sunday night from a visit to the Boundary country and the Norway mountain section. He went to the Boundary for the purpose of examining the Bruce group, near Midway, and while there took advantage of the opportunity to inspect the mines in Phoenix camp. In the Bruce group he found a very fine showing of chalcopyrite ore. There has not been enough work done to determine the extent of the properties, although it is a fair looking prospect."—Midway Advance.
