The biggest snap in the Similkameen Valley—Ranch containing over 300 acres, almost all bottom land, cutting at present about 100 tons of hay, can easily be made to cut 300 tons. For sale on easy terms by L. R. CHASE, Olalla, B.C.

LOCAL NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Rodgers and their little daughter went out on Wednesday's train for Seattle.

W. J. Stover has leased his fruit ranch here to O. H. Carle, and left on Wednesday to take up his abode in California. We hope that this is only a temporary move, and that the final swing of the pendulum will land him in the Similkameen for keeps, along with his helpmeet.

Jas. Elmhirst's big field of potatoes is a source of wonderment to the diggers. They began turning out 3, 4 and 5 lb. tubers, and put them aside as curiosities, but soon found that the whole field runs to those sizes. There is nothing freakish about the crop—it is all sound and high grade.

The new building being erected by D. J. Innis, next the weigh scales, as a harness shop for F. Prosser, has assumed shape. It will be a story-and-a-half structure, with square front, in the prevailing style of border architecture, and with a large shop window. Ed Lee and Earl Howse are the builders.

Wm. P. Kearns of Vernon, representing the Vernon News, is making the rounds of the Similkameen in the interest of that paper. The News is one of the oldest papers of the interior, and in the early days was the only one in a vast district; and though the territory in which it once held exclusive sway now contains numerous publications, the old reliable still enjoys a large circulation beyond its immediate local field.

F. Sauve is putting up a business block on the lot west of the Chronicle office, to occupy the full width of the lot. The building will be 30 x 30 ft., of one storey, with a high front, and will be divided into two shops or offices, one 12 ft. and the other 14 ft. in width, with a 4 ft. passage between. Each part will have a handsome plate-glass front. One part will be used for his own purposes, and the other will be to let. J. Knudson and E. Mills are the builders.

A dance will be held this evening in the town hall under the auspices of the baseball club. The club are taking pains to have everything connected with the affair of the best to be obtained, and they are anxious that it should be a success, both for its own sake and because they wish to make up the wherewithal to meet their obligations for the season. Good music and supper will be provided. Tickets $1.50. The patronesses are Mrs. Kirby, Mrs. Lowe, Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Coleman.

ELECTIONS

TO BE HELD ON THURSDAY, NOV. 25.

Premier Announces His Railway Policy—Subsidy for Midway-Nicola Line via Similkameen —C. N. R. Agreement.

Victoria, Oct. 19—The British Columbia legislature dissolves tomorrow.

Nominations take place Nov. 11 and elections Nov. 25.

The announcement follows an agreement signed between the government and the Canadian Northern railway, whereby the latter engage to construct 600 miles of railway from the Yellowhead pass to Vancouver within four years from date. The government on their part guarantee the bonds at 4 per cent. and as security take a first mortgage on the road in this province. The plans of the Canadian Northern as specified in the agreement also include the construction of a railroad across Vancouver Island to Barclay Sound, where the company intends to establish an ocean port.

D. D. Mann, vice-president of the Canadian Northern, met the executive of the Government today and the above satisfactory agreement was reached. The company will build southwards from the Yellowhead Pass to a point near New Westminster, thence connecting with Vancouver. It will pass through Kamloops, the route following the south bank of the Fraser, where a car ferry will connect with Vancouver Island and the C.N.R. will take over the charter of the Victoria & Barclay Sound railway.

Conservatives go to the country strongly entrenched in the confidence of the electorate, and the ministers predict a sweeping victory at the polls.

Premier McBride said tonight: "I have recently been carrying on negotiations with the Canadian Northern railway company for extension of its lines to the Pacific coast. It has been my intention not to submit my railway policy to the people of British Columbia until I was in a position to announce a concrete proposition in the nature of a contract with a responsible organization for immediate construction of the road. This I am able to do in respect to two lines of railway and it has therefore seemed advisable to dissolve the house and ask the approval of the people of the contract which the government has made. The house will therefore be dissolved tomorrow, nominations will be held on Nov. 11 and elections on Nov. 25.

"We have entered into a contract with the C.N.R. for the construction of a road from the Yellowhead Pass to Kamloops by way of the North Thompson river, from Kamloops to New Westminister and Vancouver and from a point near Vancouver to English Bluff to make first class connection with Victoria, both for passengers and freight and to build a railway from Victoria to Barclay Sound. The distance in all will be 600 miles. To assist the company in the construction of the road, which will cost about $50,000 per mile, the government will ask the legislature to guarantee interest at 4 per cent. upon $35,000 per mile. For security the government will hold a first mortgage on the lines of the railway in British Columbia and will have a covenant with the company indemnifying the province against any loss. By the time this railway is finished the C.N.R. will have at least 5000 miles of line through a highly productive country. The company has already been guaranteed from other provincial governments interest on its bonds and has never defaulted in its interest and the provinces have never been called upon to pay a single dollar. No Asiatics will be employed on the construction and the standard wages will be paid. Work is to begin within three months after the lieutenant governor gives his assent to the bill and the whole line must be finished within four years.

"An agreement has also been made with the Kettle Valley railway company for the construction of a line from Midway to Nicola, where connection will be made with the C.P.R. The Kettle valley company has a subsidy from the dominion government for the construction of a line between those points and the provincial government has arranged to revive the old Midway & Vernon subsidy of $5000 per mile for 150 miles and apply it to the route referred to. This will entail a cash subsidy of $750,000, which would call for an annual interest charge of $22,000, but the Kettle River Valley company agrees to pay taxes on the 150 miles, subsidized, which will reduce the interest charges to about $9000 per year. For this sum the province will secure construction of 260 miles of railway through the most productive part of the province. This line will pass through Penticton and Aspen Grove where there are large copper deposits, will make a detour to the south to obtain easy grades until it comes within six miles of Princeton, where it will swing north to Nicola. In connection with the Nicola branch of the C.P.R. this road will provide a through route

Six Chinese section laborers were held up at Erie last Sunday night and ordered to leave the town, which they proceeded to do on very short notice, says the Nelson News. From the account of the affair as given by one of the victims, the perpetrators were all masked.

Rats, which made their appearance in the grain fields and granaries of Manitoba last spring, are proving such a menace that the Manitoba government is taking active measures to rid the province of the rodents. A virus said to be fatal to rats is produced by the chemists at the American college at Winnipeg. The virus produces a fatal fever in the rats, much resembling typhoid.

Winnipeg is now connected with Lake Superior by three lines of railway, the last spike having been driven on that section of the Transcontinental. It is now possible for a train to run clear through from Winnipeg to Fort William by this new line far north of the C.P.R.

In Grand Forks all the smelter furnaces will have their enlargements completed by October 10, and the works will then commence treating 4000 tons of ore daily, and producing about 17,000 tons of copper yearly at a cost of between 8 1-2 and 9 cents a pound. At present the Granby ore produces 22 pounds of copper and $1 in gold or silver to the ton.

The revenue of the Dominion for the first six months of the persent fiscal year amounted to $47,353,000, an increase of $6,526,000 over the same period a year ago. September receipts were $8,853,000, compared with $7,284,000 the same month last year. The expenditure for six months was $31,563,800, a decrease of $1,100,000 compared with 1908.

Harry Swan, who has been building a stamp mill at Hollis, Alaska, for M. K. Rodgers, was called to his home in New Brunswick where his aged mother was dangerously ill. Fortunately he was able to reach there before she died. He has returned to Alaska to finish up his contract, but expects to return to the Similkameen shortly, this being the only climate which he considers fit for a white man to live in. —Hedley Gazette.

Winter weather notwithstanding, the work of surveying for the transcontinentals now entering British Columbia is to be pushed with vigor during the next few months. A Grand Trunk Pacific party is in the territory between Nicola Lake and Kamloops, while the Canadian Northern outfit, which has been on the North Thompson all summer, is preparing to push on from Cranberry Lake. Another party will work in the Yellowhead all winter for the same company.

A report from Colchester, England, states that during a medical examination of the 8th Hussars, who are shortly leaving for India, 12 men whose teeth were defective were sent to a local dentist. He reported that the teeth could be rendered serviceable at an average of £3 per man. It is understood that when permission was asked for the expenditure of this sum the reply came from the War Office that the men must either pay the money themselves or take their discharge. Eleven of the twelve have in consequence left the army. All were highly-trained soldiers of some years' service.

Gun-a-Noot Safe in Northern Wilds.

Gun-a-noot, the Skeena River murderer, against whom two unsuccessful expeditions have been sent by the provincial government, is now making his headquarters in excellent hunting ground between the head of Pelly Creek and the south fork of the Ingenika River, according to a report brought to Vancouver by a prospector who has just returned from the district, where he spent the entire summer. This man declares that the whereabouts of the murderer is not by any means unknown in the north country, but the few white men who are scattered about have no desire to molest the man owing to the temper of the Indians generally who, since the government has been unable to arrest Gun-a-noot, have become decidedly belligerent.

Gun-a-noot was at Fort Graham last winter, spending several weeks there without molestation. The man has surrounded himself with a number of relatives, including women and children. The men of the party are declared to be well armed and to take the murderer would mean a fight through which it is said to be scarcely likely the members of any attacking force could pass without loss of life.

It is known in the north that the Indian has succeeded in establishing a very effective line of communication with Hazelton, distant about 250 miles, and he is thus able to receive at stated periods, supplies of staples which he could otherwise procure only by applying at some of the Hudson Bay posts. Gun-a-noot and his band spend their time hunting, trapping and washing gold; with the proceeds of the chase and the placer diggings they pay for the few necessaries which are packed from Hazelton to them by Indian friends. One of the Indians with the murderer is a man who spent a number of years working placer in the vicinity of Manson Creek and he is supposed to be the man who is washing the gold which is several times a year sent out from the murderer's headquarters.

To Hang at Kamloops.

Kamloops jail is to be the scene of a double hanging in December next. A white man and an Indian will on that occasion pay the penalty ot the brutal murder of an Indian woman committed at Quesnel some time ago.

The condemned murderers were brought into Kamloops jail by Constable Burr, of Ashcroft. They had been tried and found guilty at the Clinton assizes before Mr. Justice Morrison.

The white man is named Robert Walker and William Chinley is the Indian.

Two other men, charged with murder, also came up from Clinton in charge of Constable Burr. Basil and Ernest Louis are Indians, both charged with the murder of a Chinaman at Dog Creek. At the Clinton assizes the jury failed to agree in the case of Basil and at the instance of the Attorney-General, who conducted the case for the Crown, the further hearing of the case was laid over until next Assizes, as was also the trial of the case against Ernest Louis.

The Indian boy, Augusto, who was arrested some time ago on the charge of shooting a little Indian boy, aged five years, came up for trial at the Clinton Assizes and he was found guilty. He was sentenced to five years at the reformatory at Vancouver.

The Canadian department of the Interior has recently been estimating the available water power of Dominion streams, and concludes that there is over twenty-six million horse- power in accessible localities, of which only half a million has been hitherto developed. The largest power is on the Hamilton River in Labrador, where 9,000,000 horsepower is available, the Canadian part of Niagara Falls coming second.

J. A. BROWN, Publisher.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1909.

John Oliver, the new provincial Liberal leader, has lost no time since his accession in going before the people and stating his policies. In a speech at Vancouver, in the course of a general arraignment of the McBride administration, he makes one pronouncement on constructive lines, and states with some definiteness his conception of the proper method to be adopted in order to secure better railway facilities throughout the province. His railway policy may be stated in one word, "Bonus." He points out that Dominion bonuses of $6,400 a mile are available for something like 1000 miles of road; that the Dominion bonus appears to be insufficient to induce the building of the roads; and he proposes that the province give an additional bonus of $3200 a mile, or $5000 if necessary, in order to get the roads built. Of the road now building through the Similkameen he has this to say:

"But, great as these projects are, I do not consider them the most important we have to consider, I consider the most important railway that can possibly be undertaken in B. C. is that which will connect the city of Vancouver with Nicola on the C.P.R., at one end and Princeton on the other." There was a great deal of uncertainty as to when the connection would be made. They knew that J. J. Hill had stated that he would build the road without a subsidy. He starts in the heart of the Crow's Nest valley watercourses, zigzags across the boundary line, the Similkameen river, and is now at Hedley and the road graded to Princeton. J. J. Hill had dodged every heavy grade in B. C., and that made him (the speaker) feel very donbtful about the heavy grades of Hope Mountain pass. The position was very difficult there or roads would have been built long since. He did not believe that J. J. Hill himself knew if he would build the road there or not. "If J. J. Hill could satisfy the government of B. C. that he would be able to go through in reasonable time without subsidy, well and good. If he could not satisfy them, let them be prepared to give some company a subsidy that would be able to do it. And if there was no company prepared to take hold of it and build it on a reasonable subsidy, the position was just the same as it was in regard to the Fraser river bridge transportation question. And Vancouver owed much of its prosperity to the bridge at Westminster, three lines of railway running across it. That piece of road was essential to the welfare of the Province of B. C. more than any other piece of road, and he believed if the Liberal party adopted the policy of co-operation with the Dominion government at Ottawa in securing the railway construction outlined, they could secure assistance for making the necessary connection. If they could not overcome the natural obstacle by a reasonable subsidy to a railway company the best way was to take hold of it as at the Fraser bridge.

In effect, Mr. Oliver says to Jim Hill: "You seem to be reluctant about finishing your line. If you keep on being reluctant till I get into power, I will finish it for you at the public expense." It is not without reason that it has been said of Mr. Oliver that he talks too much. But as to his general policy of implementing Dominion bonuses with provincial money, there can be no doubt that it will meet with a great deal of support from the districts that are hungry for railways and are more anxious to see the steel than to count the cost. Mr. McBride has also stated that he has important railway projects to submit for the people's approval at the coming elections. It will be interesting to see what form they take.

Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, president of the Grand Trunk Pacific, declares that he is unable to appreciate the position of the people of British Columbia in regard to the employment of Oriental labor on the G.T.P. The road is urgently needed, and the temporary employment of a few thousand Asiatics would save two or three years, while their introduction, he contends, would not displace a single native Canadian. If he would reconsider that latter statement, he might perhaps be better able to appreciate the Canadian position. To say that there is a lack of white labor is simply untrue. Given fair pay and fair conditions, any employer in Canada can get any number of men he needs. The Canadian Northern people, who are working next door to the G.T.P., have no such difficulty as the Grand Trunk people profess to have. Says D. D. Mann, vice-president of the Canadian Northern, "In all of my thirty-two years experience I have never yet employed an Oriental to work for me." Speaking of the mileage of which it is expected to complete the grading this year, Mr. Mann says: "We shall have about four hundred miles in the three provinces graded by the end of the year. The trouble lately has been that the men have nearly all gone harvesting, but most of them will be back to work in a short time." The fact is that the G.T.P. contractors are anxious for bigger profits than will come to them if they carry out their work under the conditions first agreed to, hence their attempt to show that they cannot get enough workmen without going to Asia for them. But the people of Canada know better. The people of Canada are paying the piper, and they propose to call the tune. If Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson would do a signal public service and at the same time make a great name for himself, he should turn his efforts to drawing on the work-hungry myriads of Britain for his road-building force instead of clamoring for coolies.

"Bruce" devotes the first page of the current issue of Saturday Sunset to the railway situation in the Similkameen, and once again portrays graphically the difficulties of communication between the Coast and the Interior, and the consequent drawbacks to the prosperity of both sections. His solution of the problem is that the provincial government should construct the vital link, the proposed Kennedy tunnel, for the joint use of the three transcontinental lines, the G.N.R., the C.P.R. and the G.T.P. He suggests that if the G.N.R. now builds on the long horseshoe curve to the north, that part of the line need not be abandoned when the tunnel is bored—that the east side will be required in any event, and that the west side could be connected with the coal mines at Nicola and the coal be slid down the 2½ per cent. grade to Vancouver. One advantage claimed for government construction and ownership of the tunnel is that it would give a measure of control over the roads. The proposition may be the best final arrangement. It should carry as a corollary the condition that both the lines now building from the Yellowhead to the Coast must take their routes through the valleys of the Interior and not through the Fraser canyon. And in the meantime it should not be allowed as a fresh excuse of the Great Northern for further delay in fulfilling its charter.

KEREMEOS FRUIT LANDS

The Best Time to Secure a Lot is NOW

Before our great irrigation system was completed and before the railway was completed, many settlers located on our fruit lands in the assurance that these necessary works were soon to be carried out.

Now the works have been carried out, the water courses have been laid, the railway runs through the centre of the settlement, and the remainder of our lands are still open on the same terms. The very best time for the fruit grower to settle at Keremeos is right now.

DON'T DELAY—The time is short during which you can get in on the ground flour and secure a tract of virgin land in the heart of one of the very choicest fruit-growing districts of the province. Before another year passes it is altogether likely that every foot of it will be taken up.

Our fruit lands are free from timber and rock and are ready for planting. No mountain side, but in the centre of a beautiful valley and a prosperous settlement.

The properties are being offered in 1, 3, 5 and 10 acre Blocks with a well laid out townsite now doing an active business.

Our terms are liberal. One-third cash. Balance in 3 payments at 7 per cent.

Acreage properties are from $175 to $300 an acre. Town lots $100, $200 and $300.

Investment Opportunities Sometimes Overlooked.

In this western country speculation often blinds otherwise thoughtful and careful business people to the investment possibilities of enterprises that are essential to the life of the country. There is much food for reflection in the thought that the people of British Columbia use one million dollars worth of soap annually. As investors, we may not be interested in soap particularly, but we are interested in getting profitable returns on the investment, and soap is one of those everyday necessities whose possibilities are very easily overlooked. The fact that a million dollars worth is used in British Columbia alone, is enough to make one pause and investigate.

Less than a year ago the Western Soap Co. Ltd., began the manufacture of Lighthouse Soap in Vancouver. Within that time the demand for the product has increased so that it is now equal to about three times the present capacity of their factory. This increase has made necessary the building of a new factory, and for this purpose the Western Soap Co. Ltd., has been incorporated with a capital of $250,000.00, which is divided into 250,000 shares at $1.00 each. 100,000 of there are now being taken by the public at par.

The Western Soap Co. Ltd., is in a unique position. The process of manufacture which they use is owned by them exclusively, and it enables them to manufacture at a lower cost than any competitors. This is a secret process, but they can sufficiently explain it to anyone who is interested enough to inquire, to show just where they stand. This process alone makes the future of the company unusually bright when once operating in their new factory, and in a measure keeping pace with the demand. They can also establish other factories contiguous to other markets, having the advantage of competitors by their cheaper process, or they can sell the right to use this process to competitors. In either case, the stockholders are bound to make several hundred per cent on their investment when this is done.

Apart from this, however, the present demand for Lighthouse Soap alone, at a most conservative estimate, will enable the company to pay 20 dividend on the stock. Apart from their process, the stock must grow very rapidly in value because the country is growing rapidiy and the demand for soap is steadily increasing, and with a cheaper process, the company will capture the lion's share of the trade which is now held by older companies.

The proposition is one of a staple industry—the manufacture of a product which everybody has to use all the time, and which at the same time affords unusual opportunities for profit, through its exclusive ownership of a special process, just as the telephone company stockholders realized unusual profits because the company had a monopoly of that method of communication.

It is easy to become a stockholder in the Western Soap Co. Ltd., whether yon have much money or little to invest. Not less than fifty shares are issued to any one person, and not more than 3000; 25% of the value is payable on application, 25% on allotment, and the balance in calls of not more than 25% at any one time. For full particulars address, Western Soap Co. Ltd., Vancouver, B. C.

"I understand that you called on the plaintiff, Mr. Barnes. Is that so?" questioned Lawyer Fuller, now Chief Justice.

"Yes," answered the witness.

"What did he say?" next demanded Fuller.

The attorney for the defence jumped to his feet and objected that the conversation could not be admitted in the evidence. A half-hour's argument followed and the judges retired to their private room to consider the point.

An hour later the judges filed into the court-room and announced that Mr. Fuller might put his question.

"Well, what did the plaintiff say, Mr. Barnes?"

"He weren't at home, sir," came the answer without a tremor.

She—What's that little steamer by the side of the man-of-war?

He—That's a tug.

She—Oh, a tug-of-war, I suppose; I've heard of them.

Mr. Green—Now, I'm going to tell you something, Ethel. Do you know that last night, at your party, your sister promised to marry me? I hope you'll forgive me for taking her away?

Little Ethel—Forgive you, Mr. Green! Of course I will. Why, that's what the party was for.

Stealings at the A. Y. P.

The Seattle fair, having lost hundreds if not thousands of dollars through the peculations of gatemen, who stole piece by piece the 25-cent and 50-cent coins which visitors handed them to drop into the turnstile slots, the brown-uniformed money-takers were fired in a body and replaced by the gray-uniformed men of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific guards.

The trick which diverted the stream of silver coins from the turnstile boxes into the pockets of the gatemen was so simple that, although they are loath to acknowledge it, the exposition officials are satisfied that it has been carried on ever since the fair opened, although it only reached big proportions within the past few weeks, or since the retrenchment policy of the executive committee forced the removal of a number of inspectors from the gates.

The dishonest gateman, in carrying out his scheme, received the quarter or half-dollar from the visitor to the fair, turned the gate far enough for the person to pass through into the grounds, and then turned the gate back to its normal position before it had clicked as an indication that a fare had been registered.

It was so easily done that only the stoutest person failed to pay toll to these thieves when the latter elected, for the gate had to be turned beyond the registering point in order to let them pass. And, the coin, once held out, found its way to the pocket of the thieving gateman after he had palmed it long enough to escape detection.

So clever had the dishonest gatemen become that they are known to have carried on their operations most successfully, and the scheme of money-getting was discovered only by the merest accident. Two detectives from a neighboring city observed the trick and reported it to Chief Wappenstein, of the A.-Y.-P. Guards, whom they had come to the fair to visit.

Harris Explains Letter.

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—Mr. Harris, Canadian trade commissioner in Japan, formerly of Vernon, B. C., who it was alleged some time ago, had written to a Toronto merchant warning him not to ship goods direct to Japanese merchants because they cannot be trusted, has sent to the department an explanatory cable.

He says that an entirely wrong inference has been drawn from his letter, that his caution applied to one individual firm only, and not to Japanese business men as a class. This is what has been suspected at the department all along, and officials are still at a loss to know why the Toronto business man to whom the letter was confidentially addressed, should have given out a private communication which was liable to be misunderstood.

Local and General.

Between 60 and 70 miles of rails for the Grand Trunk Pacific rallway have arrived at Prince Rupert. These rails are 30 feet long and weigh 800 pounds each. They are brought all the way around the Horn from Sydney, N.S., on tramp steamers chartered by the G.T.P. The line from Prince Rupert to the Copper river will be laid with rails brought around by sea and the rest of the mountain section with rails from the east over the part of the road already built.

Engineers who have been out surveying the line for the Hudson Bay railway are preparing their report for presentation to the government at the coming session of the Commons. Indications all point to the recommending of Nelson as the terminus instead of Churchill. Nelson offers better harbor facilities, is open for a longer period, has a much greater flow of water, and is not so much subject to blockade from floating ice. The line to Nelson would be easier and cheaper in construction, is seventy miles shorter, runs through timbered conntry, offering better protection from drifting snow, and avoids a climb over the height of land separating two rivers. An engineer is now out making an examination of Hudson straits.

Hard on Mormons

Mormons in Utah got a severe jolt when the announcement was made by Dr. Cook and Commander Peary that the north pole country had been discovered and found to be nothing more than a bleak desert of ice.

Since the beginning of Mormonism the followers have clung to the theory of the land about the pole being occupied by the descendants of the ten tribes of Israel who left Palestine a few centuries before Christ and travelled in a northerly direction for a year and a half.

Through a series of remarkable discoveries and revelations the Mormons claimed to have located the descendants of the ten tribes at the north pole, which must surely have been their stopping place if they travelled north from Palestine for a year and a half.

To confirm the theory that the descendants, probably many millions in number, were in the north pole country, the books of Isaiah and Jeremiah were referred to by the Mormon elders and missionaries. In these books many references are made to the Lord's people of the north and how they would be "brought down from the north."

Josephus, the Jewish historian, is sponsor for the statement that the ten tribes went north a year and a half. Through revelations and inspirations the Mormons drafted the story of the descendants being co-favorites of the Lord with the Mormons.

The ten tribes were the chosen people of the Lord in the early days, while the Mormons claim to be the chosen people of the latter days, and for that reason they call themselves Latter Day Saints.

A sense of protection always has been felt by the Mormons in the teaching that in the day when they were in the sorest need of help from the opponents of their religion the north pole tribes would march down to Utah and combine forces with the Mormons.

Led by the Lord, the two armies of saints would be a world power, and all other religions would fall before the progress of "the army of the Lord."

How New Zealand became a British possession is one of the romances of colonization. Seventy years ago it was a sort of no man's land, but it leaked out that France contemplated annexation. There was a race from Sydney between a British and a French man-of-war, the former winning by a few hours and securing New Zealand for the British crown. A few years previously a French adventurer, Baron de Thierry, at the head of 100 followers, whom he had recruited in Sydney, had proclaimed himself "King of New Zealand," but the baron had not sufficient funds to maintain a monarchy. His subjects deserted, and his reign collapsed.

The Question With You is Money,

"Where Shall I Invest to Make the Most Money?"

Reflect upon this: The people of British Columbia are paying out a million dollars every year for soap.

The demand for Lighthouse Soap in less than a year has outgrown the capacity of our factory, and we are compelled to build a new one.

For this purpose the Western Soap Co. Ltd., has been incorporated with a capital of $250,000.00, divided into 250,000 shares at $1.00 each, of which 100,000 shares are now being taken by the public at par.

Whether you have much money or little, the opportunity is equally good. We issue shares in lots of not less than 50 and not more than 3,000 shares to any one person, and the terms of payment are, 25% on application, 25% on allotment, and the balance in calls of not more than 25% at any one time.

Remember These Facts

1. Everyone uses and has to use soap.
2. Every additional person who comes into the country increases the demand, the sales, the profits.
3. Every year the value of your company stock increases as the business grows.
4. Every year you get a dividend—a cash return upon the money invested.
5. Lighthouse Soap is made by a process which no other company can use—a process which enables the company to manufacture a superior soap at a lower cost than its competitors.
6. The demand for Lighthouse Soap is equivalent to about three times the present capacity of our factory to supply.

We Can Show You. First, a most conservative annual return of 20% on your investment.

Second, where your interest in the exclusive manufacturing process of the Western Soap Co. will increase the value of your stock several hundred per cent. in a few years.

Do not put in any money—simply ask to be shown—then use your own judgment.

Western Soap Co., Ltd.

LOCAL NOTES.

R. G. Shier of Hedley left on Monday for Vancouver to attend to some business affairs and to visit his family.

Mr. Holbrook, late manager of the stamp mill at Hedley, took his leave of the valley on Monday and left on the train for the south.

Mrs. E. Coulter arrived home from New Westminster yesterday. She was accompanied by Mr. Coulter's father, who will remain for a visit.

In A. Robertson's orchard some of the apple trees are turning out a double crop—apples and nosegays. The fruit and blossoms may be picked at the same time from the same branches.

Though some of our local hunters have met with indifferent success in their quest for deer, one party that was out a few days ago had the phenomenal luck of getting a deer ready killed, dressed and hanging from a tree. It had been left there by a party of Indians, and since the latter discovered their loss they are reported to have taken to the warpath.

Mark Spencer, wife and daughter, from Leduc, Alberta, moved to Keremeos this week, bringing with them a carload of effects, including a herd of high-class dairy cows. Mr. Spencer had visited the valley before, and fully determined to take up his abode here after a sufficient experience of the northern plains. He will take his time about selecting a location, and in the meantime is residing in Mr. Kirby's hotel building in Upper Keremeos.

ELECTIONS.

for the Boundary and Kootenays and give a new railroad to Spokane. Thus it will be seen the government has been able to secure construction of about 860 miles of railway at an annual cost of $9000 and open up a large and productive part of British Columbia.

With respect to development schemes in general, premier McBride promised immediate construction of more public highways, and adjustment of taxation on a more equitable basis and to provide for permanency of tenure of crown lands. In conclusion he stated that on the points of better terms and Asiatic immigration, the government's policy would not be changed. British Columbia must remain a white man's country.

A plebiscite upon the question of local option will be taken at the same time as the provincial elections.

"I suppose you like your new motor car, Mr. Wheatlands?"

"Yes," replied the wealthy agriculturist, "but I'd get a lot more satisfaction out of the dad gum thing if I could only make it feel the whip when it gets balky or skittish."

Tilson-Rainey.

The first wedding to be celebrated in Keremeos church was held on Wednesday, the 20th inst., at noon, when Simeon Robert Tilson was united to Miss Lester Ada Rainey, daughter of Mrs. L. A. Schafer of Oroville, in the presence of a few friends. Rev. A. H. Cameron performed the ceremony. Mr. Tilson has been a resident of Keremeos during the railway construction time, as local manager for Porter Bros., timber contractors, and will continue to reside here for a time. His associates on the work, with whom he is highly popular, have the heartiest good wishes for the long life and happiness of himself and bride. The happy couple left on the afternoon train for a wedding trip southward.

Armstrong's Tough Quarter.

The Armstrong Advertiser says: The denizens of the Chinese gambling saloons had a glorious carousal one evening this week; they wound up at 3 a. m. by discharging firearms a number of times. This sort of thing is allowed by a Council who make the white men shut their bars at 10 p. m. on five days in the week and at 7 p. m. on Saturdays; ring curfew bells, pass bicycle bylaws all for the expressed purpose of improving the morals of a community which was less in need of anything of the sort than any place in British Columbia. "Thou shalt not" is the edict to the white man; to the Chinaman it is "Go ahead, raise all the Cain you like, drink all the whisky you wish, gamble as much as you like, overcrowd like packed herrings, you are privileged." And to cap the climax a white woman arrived on the premises on Thursday.
