COUNCIL WANTS $59,000 TO DO CERTAIN FINANCING

Power Plant to be Paid for and Machinery for Building Permanent Roads is Needed---By-laws are Submitted

The city council needs $59,000, and they need it right away. At a meeting on Saturday afternoon every member present decided it would be a good thing to get this power plant business off their hands for good and all. Disgusted with the whole thing of course, they were, but the conditions as they exist now must be faced. The music has been played, the dance is over, and the piper must be paid—that is the attitude the council seemed to assume.

Just where they stood and how much money was needed to pay off the indebtedness on the mismanaged power plant was the vexed question. There is still a considerable sum coming to Mr. Newman, and here is where the difficulty arose. Mr. Newman claims he is entitled to certain sums and the council after legal advice, claim tnat Mr. Newman is not legitimately entitled to these sums. Accordingly with their heads together, with furrowed brows and worried expressions the councillors figuratively tore their hair in an attempt to figure out just what sum would be required in order to justify them in taking the rag and cleaning the power plant trouble off the municipal slate. With pencil and paper they figured it out over and over again. They revised these figures and again revised them and finally decided that the sum of $35,000 would be sufficient to clean off the whole thing and leave a little for contingencies that may arise in the wiping out process.

There were a number of things to be considered at the meeting, as Mayor Hamilton explained at the call to order. "There is an account against Mr. Newman which Mr. Smith asked us to prepare," he said, "there is the amount of money required to complete the work at the power plant; there is the question as to whether the cost should cover the building of a new flume; and there ie the question as to whether it would be advisable to purchate road mabe advisable to purchase road mastreets."

"This last question," he said, "had been before the people before, but on account of other bylaws being on the tapis at the same time the people voted against it. Now I believe the story would be told differently as the citizens realize that we must do something for permanent streets. We must have the road machinery in order to do this permanent work and it is absolutely necessary that we discuss this question in an impartial way with a view to our own present needs and those of our future citizens. At times our roads are in a deplorable condition, and it is up to us to do something."

With this premonition of what the meeting was called for, the Mayor closed with the remark "Now let us get busy." And accordingly every member ran his fingers through his hair and got busy.

What'll we do with this account of Newman's, was the Mayor's first question? And he answered it himself as he laid the delicate morsel aside: "Oh well we can't do anything with that as we haven't got any money to pay it.

The next thing to be considered is how much do we need to pay off the power plant indebtedness?

This of course was the signal for a great deal of hurrying and scurrying aiter books, papers, documents and what not. Pencils were requisitioned and sharpened, paper was in demand, the councillors furrowed their brows adding and subtracting, and after a laborious hour or so arrived at a decision that "we had better ask the people to vote $35,000 for the completion of the plant."

"Now let us get down to this new flume businessl" the mayor remarked. "Do we need it or do we not, it is for you to decide? Alderman Cowan, what do you think about it?"

Alderman Cowan, after a few moments consideration thought it would be a wise thing to leave it alone at present in consequence of new conditions. He thought last year that two flumes could have been built for the price of one, but they were not built. Very shortly he thought the city should be taking up the question of a new design in the power plant and until then he was of the opinion we could get along all right with the new flume that we have, and at the same time fix up the old flume. We will not require to use the old flume perhaps more than a few weeks in the year and we could reband it and fix it up at a cost of perhaps a few hundred dollars, so that it would answer the purpose. I would be in favor of leaving it at present, after fixing up the old flume, until we take up the new design which will cost perhaps $75,000 or $80,000.

How long do you think it will be before we require this new design? asked Alderman Abrahamson.

Oh perhaps three or four years, answered Alderman Cowan.

Well, blankety, blankety, remarked Alderman McKinnon, who just dropped in from snow shovelling at the rink. I hope it will not be ten or fifteen years before we need it.

Alderman Abrahamson, what do you think about this new flume? the mayor demanded.

Well, your worship, was his response. I am very much in favor of this new pipe line, but in looking over the figures I believe I will change my mind. I hope too it will be ten or fifteen years before we need this new design.

Ald. Cowan—If the old council had started right in with the new design I believe we would have been money ahead. The old power house and flume have got to go, that is certain, and it is only a question of time.

Alderman Barber expressed himself in favor of the scheme as outlined by Alderman Cowan.

Mayor Hamilton—The question is can we get the contract with the C. P.R. without this new flume?

Alderman Cowan was pretty certain we could if the old flume was repaired. "At the most," he said, "they will only require 35 or 40 horse power."

Alderman McKinnon was strongly of the opinion that the city should have the new flume, and moved that a by-law be put to cover the cost of the new flume, namely $15,000.

Alderman Cowan asked the mayor—Would you make provisions for the extensions of the lighting system asked for by the petition of a number of ratepayers a few weeks ago?

Mayor Hamilton—If it will pay us to do this we will, but if not I don't think we should.

Alderman McKinnon's motion that the bylaw include the new flume, seconded by Alderman Abrahamson was voted on, the yeas and nays being taken as follows:—

Yeas— McKinnon, Abrahamson and Barber.

Nays—Alderman Cowan.

Mr. Cowan explained afterwards that he was thoroughly in favor of voting the money for the completion of the new plant, but not for the new flume.

Chairman Abrahamson of the board of works then put in his report advising the purchasing of a stone crusher, a ten ton roller, the putting up of machinery and repairing quarry, the purchase of scrapers, motors, etc, for permanent road work, and strongly recommended that they be secured at once.

Alderman Cowan enquired as to whether it would be advisable to dig out the roads now and put in macadam and a few years later to dig this out again to put in pavement or some other form of road work.

Mayor Hamilton advised the questioner that the work proposed to be done with this new machinery would never have to be torn out again. "Whatever is put in now," he said, "would be permanent work and would be a foundation for more improved bitulithic pavement, such as is strongly recommended in Eastern cities.

This satisfied Alderman Cowan and in fact the whole council, and the following motion carried unanimously:—

Moved by McKinnon, seconded by Tarber, that a bylaw for $9,000 to purchase machinery for permanent roads be submitted to the people.

It was moved by Abrahamson, and seconded by Barber, that Court of Revision on the Assessment Roll be held on April 18th, at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Moved by Cowan, seconded by Barber, that Alderman Abrahamson, Barber, McKinnon, Sibbald and Mayor Hamilton be the Court of Revision.—Carried.

HON. THOS. TAYLOR FIRST MINISTER OF RAILWAYS

Deputy Minister and Chief Engineer Have Been Selected---Will Have Large Staff

Victoria, B. C., March 10.—Thomas Taylor, Revelstoke's representative in the legislature was today, formally sworn in by Lieutenant Governor Paterson, as British Columbia's first minister of railways, there being present at the informal ceremony Premier McBride, Hon. Dr. Young, and Hon. W. R. Ross, each of whom extended congratulations to their popular colleague upon the augmentation of his responsibility. It is the intention of the minister to proceed forthwith to a systematic organization of the new department over which he will temporarily preside and the expectation is that announcements will be made by the end of the present month as to the personnel of the railway department staff.

This will necessarily be an extensive one, its senior members too, being necessarily possessed of wide and expert knowledge in all matters affecting the construction and operation of railways. The senior departmental officers will be those of deputy minister and chief engineer, for which positions it is understood that selections have already been virtually decided upon.

The railway department as constituted by legislation of the just closed session, in view of the very important and expensive works now in progress or assured throughout the province, will probably be in the very near future one of the hardest worked and most important branches of the provincial service.

CUT-OVER TIMBERLANDS

Their Treatment a Great Problem in Canadian Forestry

'The handling of cut-over lands is the greatest problem in forest protection and forestry in Canada today.'

In these words, taken from Bulletin No. 9 of the Forestry Branch of the Dominion Department of the Interior (entitled 'Forest Fires in Canada, 1909'), the author, Mr. H. R. MacMillan, one af the assistant Inspector of Forest Reserves, sets forth one of the chief aims of Canadian forest management.

The danger from these cut-over lands is two fold. In the first place they are the worst possible menace to the forests because of the readiness with which fire starts on them at the least provocation. After the lumberman has finished cutting the timber, there remains, scattered over the land, a mass of chips, tree tops and other debris, which gradually dries out and in a few months becomes like so much tinder, and away match, a spark from a camp-fire, a lighted cigarette dropped, and away goes the tinder, and almost with the speed of thought a serious fire has developed. Perhaps the fire meets with no worse fuel than more of the cutting debris.

Then the loss is not serious, but even so the fire may have consumed much, if not all, of the thin soil characteristic of some forest regions, and any possibility of further tree growth is lost for centuries, if not forever.

Should the fire come to mature and valuable timber, the loss from the destruction of the timber may be enormous, and in some cases such fires have reached to the homestead of the settler, destroying his crops, buildings and other improvements (perhaps his little all) and even human life.

The other danger—not so much appreciated until late years, and even now only by a comparative few — is the hindrance to the tree seeds and the little trees which this mass of litter presents. Even when the seeds fall, they have small chance to start or germinate. Even if they should get thus far, the delicate root encounters nothing but dead wood, chips or peat and dies from lack of nourishment. If by any chance a small tree does spring up it grows with difficulty and has great chances of being swept over and destroyed by the fire.

Even during the present year 1910, many forest fires have raged in cut-over land, those of September, near the city of Vancouver, B. C., being a case in point.

Mr. MacMillan figures that for every foot of timber taken out of the forest by the lumbermen throughout Canada, an average of seven feet has been destroyed by fire. This, it may be said, is a lower estimate than has been made of certain districts of Canada, e.g., the Ottawa river valley, where Senator W.C. Edwards, one of the most prominent lumbermen of the country, thinks that at least ten times as much lumber has been destroyed by the fire as has been taken out by the lumbermen

Various other topics are discussed in the bulletin, such as the chiei causes of forest fires, the effects of the fires, in the destruction of timber, the destruction of the soil, the interference with the water supply, and the effect on future tree growth) and the means of preventing fires. Anyone interested in these topics and in forestry matters generally may obtain a copy of the bulletin free of charge on application to R.H. Campbell, Superintendent of Forestry, Ottawa, Ont.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 15, 1911

We don't wish to upbraid anybody, but for goodness sake, if not for their own sakes, wont somebody get at it and boom this city a little bit. One week a fellow will drop in here with a big advertisement from Kamloops, which is good business for us, and we run it. This fellow rants and shouts about Kamloops, telling us all about the money the C. P. R. and the C.N.R. and other corporations are spending there till we almost believe Kamloops is the only place on the map. Then another fellow comes along from Merritt and booms that place till we conclude it is nip and tuck between the two places as to which would be the best place to move our plant to. These advertisements are all good business to us and we run them because we are in business for what we can get out of it, and not for our health. Nobody can reasonably blame us for that, and yet we find people who are so docile and lamblike in business that they positively call us down, with the intimation that we are not loyal because we boom outside places. Goodness only knows we do our share in boosting Revelstoke, but do you? Only a week or so ago we told in these columns of the C.P.R. spending from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 in this section, and the item was published helter skelter all over the Dominion. First it appeared in the coast papers then in Calgary, then in Toronto and the dear only knows where it will go before the press finally drops it, and if that isn't boosting the city we would like to know what is. A bright real estate fellow in Kamloops heard that the C.P.R. was to spend a mere quarter of a million in that section. He took his cue from that and went around boosting for the city and selling real estate on the strength of it. He is doing a good business out of it and for his enterprise he deserves every cent he can get. This paper did not get one cent for publishing abroad that the C.P.R. would spend $1,500,000 in this section, but we are content in knowing that we have done some little in placing this city on the map and before the investing public. But could not some real estate firm, some board of trade or some city council take this very fact up and do a little boosting for the city on their own account? We don't want to do it all, and moreover there is no money in it for us unless we go into the real estate business, and we don't want to do that. All we want to do is to make a good paper for this city, and we pride ourselves that we are doing it as well as the people will let us. If somebody else will dig in and make people believe we have as good a city and as good a country as there is in the interior you can just bet your bottom dollar we are right with them and will boost for Revelstoke for all we are worth, but we don't want to go at it single handed. Have you no faith in Revelstoke, Mr. Citizen? If you haven't you had better move out, but if you have then boost for her. We have all the advantages that these other towns have and more to, and besides that perhaps we have a good power plant now. Nobody can tell. Mr. Smith, of Smith, Kerry & Chace, says we have and he should know. There is no reason whatever why all our advantages should not be collected and used for a good real estate advertisement some place. It would pay and there is no reason whatever why our city council should not put aside a small sum every year for publicity purposes. Other cities do and do it cheerfully. Think this over some night when your conscience troubles you and you can't sleep.

There are purity experts and there are purity pugs. There are those who study carefully conditions as they exist, then go at the festering sores which afflict humanity, probe them to the bottom, let out the pus and prescribe an effectual remedy. Then there are those who malign every city where a prostitute exists, heap execrations on the heads of the prostitutes themselves and without rhyme or reason, pummel and pound till the "districts" are broken up and scattered to the four corners of the city and permeate every respectable street in that city.

Fortunately Revelstoke has not been burdened with the latter class, and fortunately Dr. Ernest Hall who visited this city last Sunday and lectured to large audiences, was not of this latter class, but rather of the purity expert class. By the manner in which he handled his subject, he is entitled to that name. Not that Dr. Hall was the least bit merciful to his hearers or to those responsible for the existence of the prostitute, for his talk was a marvel of audacity in handling a subject usually tabooed by society. His hearers were all no doubt shocked at the outset, but a certain callousness set in after he got warmed up and then it was not as bad. Dr. Hall rightly laid the blame of the existence of the prostitute and the long line of dreaded diseases that follow in their train, at the doors of parents who through feigned or ignorant modesty neglected to teach their children things they should know. The subject should be treated wisely and well by parents just when it will do most good, till this is done there is little hope of eradicating the prostitute from society. She has been in existence since the world began, and so long as male and female exist will she be with us. Dr. Hall believes in displaying the flag of danger and letting the people know the risk they run in associating with such people. Then once warned the responsibility is with themselves.

The doctor knows his subject well. He being a physician is in a position to know it. But after all doctor, might not some of the blame be laid at the door of extravagant living. The young lady with rich parents, dresses in her silks and satins, and has a score of admirers. Her next door neighbor's girls work in a store receiving merely enough to clothe themselves decently. She is at a disadvantage in not being able to dress as well as the daughters of the rich, yet she covets admirers and presents fine clothes, which she cannot afford. What then is more natural than that she should exploit the easiest way, and once exploited, fall to hopeless shame. This would be a theme that Dr. Hall might well harp on in the hope of bringing society to its senses on the subject that he has shown affects us all so vitally.

DRUNKENNESS CAN BE CURED

Old Fallacy That Drunkenness Cannot Be Cured Exploded.

Many men drink who desire to stop the habit. Whisky, however, has undermined the constitution and creates a craving that is not to be denied and the man must have whisky or something that will remove the craving and build up the system and restore the nerves.

Samaria Prescription stops the craving, steadies the nerves, builds up the general health and makes drink actually distasteful and nauseous. It is tasteless and odorless, and can be given with or without the patient's knowledge, in tea, coffee or food. It is used regularly by Physicians and Hospitals. It has cured thousands in Canada, and restored happiness to hundreds of homes.

Read what Mrs. G——, of Hull, says of it and what it did for her:

"It is four months to-day since I started to use your Remedy. I followed the directions, and had the best of results. One week after I started using your Remedy the patient stopped drinking, and has not drunk a glass of liquor since. I hope you will accept my heartfelt thanks. MIRACULOUS RESULTS IN DUNVEGAN, C.B.

GIN PILLS Brought Relief

"I suffered untold misery even when under treatment from the best doctors for over ten months, and nothing seemed to do me any good or relieve my painful condition. My trouble was Inflammation of Kidneys and Bladder.

I finally determined to go to the Victoria Hospital, Halifax, for treatment.

Two days, however, before my intending departure, a neighbor called and happening to have a GIN PILL in his pocket, insisted on my taking it. I did so and six hours after taking it, the results and benefits I derived were simply nothing more or less than miraculous. Instead of going to the hospital, I sent for a box of GIN PILLS with the result that I am a cured man. I recommend GIN PILLS to everyone suffering from Kidney Trouble."

HANGMEN ARE SCARCE.

Montreal, March 13.—Is hanging obsolete? Sheriff Lemieux of Montreal certainly thinks so. There are three murder cases before the courts in one stage or another and Radcliffe ehe public executioner, is dead. The government has announced that no successor will be appointed and that, hereafter, each sheriff will be expected to be his own hangman. This is quite as it should be and according to law. But the sheriffs don't like it. They want a man with some experience for such an important undertakiag. EARL PERCY'S LONG WALK

Montreal, March 13.—No less a person than the Governor General himself is said to have taken the other end of the small wager Earl Percy made that he could walk from Montreal to Ottawa in three days. The Earl who is an attache to the viceregal household, left Montreal early on a Saturday and arrived at Rideau Hall the following Monday night, thus covering the one hundred and ten odds miles in three days. A Yukon dog driver in the pink of condition would hardly do better. This is not altogether a record for the peerage, however. When the Earl of Lonsdale Ras in Canada fifteen years ago, he walked up the same route Earl Percy took as far as Como, crossed the Ottawa river to Oka gnd continued across country to St. Eustache in one day. After resting at the old seignoury of the Globenskys over night he returned to Montreal by St. Rose and Terrebonne — almost ninety miles in two days.

CONVERGENT VIEWS ON RECIPROCITY MEASURE

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Lauds it and Hon. Clifford Sifton Condemns It--Are They Both Right?

Two memorable speeches have been made in the House at Ottawa this past week on the reciprocity measure. The Mail-Herald would like to publish these verbatim, but owing to the limited space at our disposal each week this is impossible. However we give herewith a resume of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's speech and the introduction of Hon. Clifford Sifton's speech, which contain the pith of their remarks. Both of these are from the Toronto Globe,—

SIR WILFRID LAURIER

Ottawa, March 7.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier's vindication of the international reciprocal trade agreement was comprehensive, lofty and compelling. To its stirring eloquence was added the note of conviction of the righteousness of the Government's policy, of confidence in its enthusiastic acceptance by the people and of determination to carry through Canada's part in the undertaking. "We shall go on, whether the Opposition follow or not. We will drag them on, even against their will. Our policy has been, is, and will be, so long as the Canadian people continue to place in us the confidence they have shown during fifteen years, to seek markets wherever markets can be found."

In this declaration the Prime Minister met at the outpost the projected demand of the Opposition for the indefinite postponement of further consideration of the proposals. There will be no waiting for Washington.

By his speech Sir Wilfrid raised the issue to a level from which it could be viewed in its true perspective. In luminous language he traced the history of the reciprocity movement from its inception under the Conservative regime prior to Confederation, through successive Governments to the present time, demonstrating that when the last Conservative Administration left office in 1896 they remained pledged by the then Minister of Finance, Mr. Foster, to the policy of reciprocal trade. The Prime Minister placed before the House and the country the advantages now offered to Canada through the concessions made by the United States, and one by one, took up the objections urged, dealing with each in detail. He met the argument that trade would be deflected from Canadian channels by pointing out that the bonding privileges now in force already gave to the Canadian exporter access to the American routes, but that the shorter and cheaper Canadian routes gave them a compelling advantage.

Dealing with the objection that the natural resources of the Dominion would be menaced, he claimed that there was nothing in the agreement which removed the present control of the Federal or Provincial governments over forests, minerals, etc. The cry that industries would be imperilled, was, he contended, without foundation. The agreement concerned chiefly natural products, the only manufactured products dealt with being agricultural implements. The Government negotiators had taken every precaution not to injure any existing industry. Finally, he took issue with those who maintained that the agreement meant the fiscal dependence of Canada upon the United States, and ultimately annexation. The Dominion's fiscal autonomy remained absolutely unimpaired, and her loyalty to the motherland was too deeply founded in the hearts and minds of the people to be affected by the mere matter of selling more goods to their southern neighbors. There was no disloyalty in exports.

Touching on the favored-nation aspect of the arrangement, the Prime Minister noted individually the countries concerned, and quoted figures to show that their trade was unimportant and did not affect, except in a very limited way, the products that Canada had to sell. As for the effect on British trade, he pointed out that Great Britain would never send a bushel of any kind of grain to Canada. "England," he said, "could give a preference in her markets for our natural products if she chose to change her policy, and then we would be prepared to give upon her manufactured products corresponding advantage. The policy of Canada is just the same as it was three months ago, when the arrangement was made; it is the same policy as it has been for the last twelve years, and it will be the policy of the Canadian Government at the next Imperial Conference."

In an eloquent and inspiring peroration Sir Wilfrid Laurier struck a ringing patriotic note, culminating in the declaration that if the United States had founded a nation upon separation from Britain, Canadians had set their hearts upon building a nation without separation. "Rather than part with our national existence we would part with our lives," he affirmed in a phrase destined to become historic. "To the Canadian people," was the closing message of the statesman, now near the sunset of a life dedicated to his country's weal, "I would say that if it is possible for us to obtain such relations of commercial amity and national good-will between these two young nations, Canada will have rendered to Old England, the mother of nations, nay, to the whole British Empire, a service unequalled in its present effect, and still more in its far-reaching consequences."

The scene in the House was a memorable one. All the galleries were crowded to overflowing, and scores were turned away for lack of accommodation. Seated beside the Speaker was the Countees Grey, and a distinguished party from Rideau Hall occupied the Speaker's Gallery. Sir Wilfrid was given a great reception on rising to speak.

HON. CLIFFORD SIFTON

Mr. Chairman, I agree with what has been said by members of the House who have preceded me respecting the very great importance of the question we are now discussing. I have found it the most important question which has come before this House since I have had the honor of being a member of it, and when I say frankly to the committee that the result of my investigation has been to lead me to the conclusion that I cannot follow the leader of the party with which I have been identified practically all my lifetime it will be very evident that to me at least it is an extremely important question. A difference with the political party with which I have been associated all my lifetime must necessarily be of an extremely painful character. With the members of the government I am and always have been upon the best and closest possible terms politically and socially. Some of the members of the government I regard as my closest personal friends. And, away back in the county of Brandon there are a great many men who for 23 years have been my supporters, who, I am quite satisfied, will find great difficulty in understanding why I find it necessary to vote against the party with which they and I have been identified so long. It will be readily understood, Sir, under those circumstances, that my convictions upon the subject are extremely strong.

Twenty years ago the Liberal party had as its policy a policy of unrestricted reciprocity. As a young man, young in public life at that time, I followed the leaders of my party; I took an active part in that election. There are I think some gentlemen in the House here against whom I spoke in that campaign, and to the best of my ability I endeavored to convince the electors whom I addressed that the policy of my party was a wise and prudent policy. I am free to say, Mr. Chairman, that almost before the campaign was over I had succeeded in convincing myself.

From that time on my views have undergone, perhaps a gradual, but a steady and certain change. When the tariff was revised in 1887 I was satisfied that the tariff as we adopted it at that time represented a good policy for the Dominion of Canada, and possibly the best policy we could adopt. And, ever since 1898, when under the Joint High Commission efforts were made to secure some kind of reciprocity with the United States my conviction has been strengthening in that direction. A couple of years ago I had the honor of delivering an address in New York in the Chamber of Commerce of that great city, and I indicated pretty clearly at that time, though to a somewhat hostile audience what my views are.

Now, I am well aware, Mr. Chairman that it is a matter of possibly small concern as to when and how my opinion has been arrived at, but I will ask the House to pardon me for mentioning the facts which show that my opinion on this subject is not a spasmodic or suddenly formed opinion but is the mature conviction which comes to me as the result of something over twenty years of pretty close contact with the affairs of Canada. Some of my newspaper friends have intimated that there was some mystery about my opinion upon this subject. I have not sought to make any mystery of them I have perhaps avoided discussing the subject with my political friends because I did not desire that any of them should feel that I was endeavoring to induce them to adopt my opinions, and I did not desire to say anything to any of my Liberal friends except what I was prepared to say in the presence of the members of the government and in the presence of the House. But what I have to say about this is this. We have in the Dominion of Canada pretty strong party ties. Do not leave our party for small reasons. We do not leave our party if it happens to do something that we do not at that moment approve of—because it builds a bridge or a court house or a public building or even a railroad that we do not think necessary at the time. We have a pretty strong idea with regard to party allegiance, and my conviction is that it is a good thing and contributes to the stability of government that we have that idea. But it must be remembered nevertheless that the reason why we adhere to a political party is that party in general represents the principles that we think ought to be applied to the government of the country; and when one's party is led to apply principles which are of fundamental and far-reaching importance, affecting the whole national structure, and one feels that he cannot conscientiously adopt or follow those principles, then Mr. Chairman, his party allegiance is necessarily dissolved, and if he desires to retain his own self-respect, it becomes absolutely necessary for him to decline to follow that of which he does not approve. That is the position in which I find myself today; and, however, painful the process may be, I take the only course which I can take and retain my self-respect.

DEATH IN SNOWSLIDE.

Kaslo, B. C., March 10.— While crossing between the Flint mine and the Granite King with Geo. Banbury, P.G. Johnston met instant death in a snowslide at 5 p.m. yesterday. The men were on snowshoes. Banbury escaped unhurt by throwing his body back downwards on the moving avalanche, being carried safely to the foot of the slide. He was able to procure help and extricate the body of his comrade and bring the remains here on a sled.

SMALLPOX IS SPREADING

Montreal, March 13.—Although the provincial health authorities say they are not in the least alarmed it is evident that the dread disease, smallpox, hat by no means been eliminated from the Montreal district by the isolation of the three cases discovered here in as many weeks. There are suspicions of further outbreaks and several suspects are under surveillance. A woman is being carefully watched in Maisonnouve and three children have been placed in a vacant house in the north end with a heroic trained nurse. The medical authorities are doing their utmost to keep the cases quiet with a view to nipping any public unrest in the bud. Montreal has not yet forgotten the trying times of 1885 and 1886, when hundreds lost their lives.

MIXED MARRIAGES.

Montreal, March 13.—Archbishop Bruchesi of Montreal, has placed the ban on mixed marriages in his diocese and curiosity has reached bubbling point in society circles as to how Miss Alice Shaughnessey, Sir Thomas Shaughnessey's oldest daughter, is going to get the knot tied when she becomes the wife of Mr. H. W. Beauclork, Miss Shaughneesey is a strong Roman Catholic and Mr. Beau clork a protestant. House,s Point, just across the border line, is Montreal's Gretoa Green; but it is likely that it will be unnecessary to go there, although there have been many weddings in the little boundary town of late on account of the ban. There are other mixed marriag?s which are causing trouble also, but they are not to be mentioned in the same breath. These are the union of Chinese to white women. Orientals appear to have a strange fascination over some women. If they cannot get married they go to live in Chinatown anyway. The police say it is the "dope" which attracts them: Be that as it may Chinese wedding bells are frequent these days and the bride is always a white girl. With a few exceptions the chinks make good husbands, but the authorities do not approve.

$5,000,000 IN B. C. LANDS.

On behalf of an American and two Winnipeg syndicates Mr. H.P. Carper of Winnipeg, Friday closed deals for the purchase of approximately nine hundred thousand acres of land in the Peace river district of British Columbia. The amount involved in the three transactions is about $5,000,000 the vendors being the British Canadian Securities Co. and the Grand Trunk Land Co., of Vancouver.

The new owners intend to engage in colonization work on an extensive scale, adopting the methods which are so successful in settling Alberta and Saskatchewan. One of the Winnipeg syndicates is headed by Mr. Edward Brown.

DAHLIAS AND POTATOES.

By a kind of horticultural irony the dahlia, that popular flower that so often forms a conspicuous display at flower shows, has a dreadfully prosaic parentage. It has been developed from the Mexican tubers introduced about one hundred and twenty years ago by the Swedish naturalist, Dr. Dahl, for the purely commercial purpose of supplementing the potato! The doctor's scheme did not meet with favor, and the dahlia dish soon disappeared from British tables, but the gardeners of the old country at once perceived the great potentialities of the flower and accordingly proceeded to produce the double dahlia and other delightful floral fantasies. The tubers of the dahlia, too acrid for most tastes, are still eaten in some parts of France.

LOST—Brown Spaniel Puppy, white chest, white feet, white tip on tail, answers to name of "Buster." Any one harboring this dog after today will be punished by law.—Cliff Urquhart, H. J. Bews.

WONDERS OF MODERN SCIENCE.

Wich much trouble the burglar had effected an entrance into the trust company's office. As he approached the big steel safe he was confronted by this sign:

SAVE YOUR DYNAMITE
THIS SAFE IS NOT LOCKED
TURN THE KNOB AND OPEN

"I don't know what their little game is," he said, "but I'll just see if it really is unlocked."

He grasped the knob and gave it a turn.

Whereupon he received an electric shock that nearly floored him, an alarm bell rang loudly, the office became flooded with light, a door in the wall flew open and a big dog sprang at him.

"Darn my fool hide!" he exclaimed an hour later, as the door of a cell in the police station closed on him; "I know what's the matter with me, I'm too trusting."

COURT HOUSE TENDERS

Victoria, B. C., March 13.—The provincial public works department is again inviting tenders for the erection of a new Grand Forks court house, such tenders to be received until April 3rd next. A deposit of $2,000 is required to accompany each bid and the successful tenderer will be called upon to furnish a bond satisfactory to the minister of public works in the sum of $51000 for the satisfactory completion of the contract.

SERIOUS MILL ACCIDENT

Castlegar, B. C., March 13.— The first serious accident to occur in the Edgewood Lumber Company's mill happened at 3:30 Thursday afternoon. T. Parker, working on the planer, while making some alterations near the belt below the planing room, got caught gnd every bit of his clothes were stripped off before the machinery was stopped. He was apparently not seriously injured beyond being badly bruised but Manager Waldie took him to the Nelson hospital on the Boundary train.

THE SHAPES OF EGGS.

There was recently had before the Zoological Society of London a mathematical discussion of the differences in the shapes of eggs. A few eggs, like those of the owl and the tortoise, are spherical, or nearly so; a few, like the grebe's or the cormorant's, are elliptical, with symmetrical ends; the great majority, like the hen's, are ovoid, or blunter at one end than the other. The hen's egg is always laid blunt end foremost. Eggs that are the most unsymmetrical are also eggs of large size relatively to the parent bird. The yolks of eggs are spherical, what ever the form of the entire eggs may be. This has been shown to be due to their being enclosed in a fluid, the "white," which makes the pressure everywhere on the surface of the yolk practically constant.

WHISKY HOLDS ITS VICTIMS

Until Released by Wonderful Samaria Prescription

Liquor sets up inflammation and irritation of the stomach and weakens the nerves. The steady or periodical (spree) drinker is often forced to drink even against his will by his unnatural physical condition.

Samaria Prescription stops the craving, steadies the nerves, builds up the general health and makes drink actually distasteful and nauseous. It is tasteless and odorless, and can be given with or without the knowledge of the patient.

Thousands of Canadian homes have been saved from misery and disgrace by some devoted wife, mother or daughter through this wonderful Canadian remedy. The money formerly wasted in drink has restored happiness, home comforts, education and respect to the families formerly in want and despair.

Read the following, one of the numerous unsolicited testimonials received:

"I can never repay you for your remedy. It is worth more than life to me. My husband has been offered liquor several times, but would not touch it. He said it had no charm for him now. May God's choice blessings ever rest on you, and yours, are my prayers ever. No one knows it but those who have tried it. As soon as I can I will see others that I know would give anything to stop their husbands from drink. I will give them your address.

"Mrs. K——, Dewinton, Alta."
(Name withheld on request.)

Now, if you know of any family needing this remedy, tell them about it. If you have any friend or relative who has formed or is forming the drink habit, help him to release himself from its awful clutches. Samaria Prescription is used by Physicians and Hospitals.

A FREE TRIAL PACKAGE of Samaria Prescription, with booklet, giving full particulars, testimonials, price, etc., will be sent absolutely free and postpaid in plain sealed package to anyone asking for it and mentioning this paper. Correspondence sacredly confidential. Write to-day. The Samaria Remedy Co., Dept. 46-49, Colborne St., Toronto, Canada. Also for Sale by C. R. Macdonald, Druggist, Revelstoke, B. C.

THE CITY IN BRIEF

An Easter High Tea will be held at the Methodist church parlors, Monday, April 17th.

See Chas. M. Field about the subdivision touching Port Mann, the Gazetted Pacific terminus of the Canadian Northern Railway t.c.

A bright song service was given in the Methodist church on Sunday night last, the feature of which was a well rendered selection by the Junior Bible Class male quartete.

Mr. J. E. Miller, inspector of Inland revenues, whose headquarters are in Victoria, was in the city yesterday on his way from Golden to the Okanagan.

The Kamloops Sentinel, in stating that Robt. Armstrong came here from Kamloops, is in error, says Chief Parry. The maniac came here direct from the coast he says, as his bank book showed a deposit in the Vancouver banks the day previous to his arrest here. The Armstrong arrested in Kamloops must have been a different individual altogether.

The Hume store employees are good sports and the word is being passed around that that business house will turn out one of the crack amateur baseball teams of the city this summer. The head of the firm is as enthusiastic for the success of the ball team as he is for the two or three curling rinks which he hopes to recruit from his employees for next winter's sport.

A ten-ton cold storage plant in connection with the Revelstoke Meat Market will be in operation here by May 15th, is the good word brought back by Mr. C. F. Lindmark, who recently returned from the East. "The plans and specifications are out," said Mr. Lindmark, "and while in Chicago I ordered all the latest and most up-to-date machinery procurable for such purposes." The material will arrive along here shortly and when in operation this city will have one of the best cold storage plants in the interior.

WANTED—Girl for general house work. Family of three. Apply Mail-Herald Office.

Don't forget the tea, afternoon and evening, March 22, at the home of Mrs. J. P. McLennan. Culinary, candy and fancy work tables 2t.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Lindmark returned home from the East on Saturday night last after an absence of about seven weeks from the city. During their stay in the east Mrs. Lindmark underwent a successful operation at Rochester (Minn.) hospital, and returns to the city feeling much improved in health. Mr. Lindmark made a number of side trips while away, one of which included a visit to Ottawa where he was present in the House of Commons when Hon. Clifford Sifton made his notorious speech denouncing the reciprocity measure.

On Sunday last Rev. M.G. Melvin, who shortly leaves for his pulpit in New Westminster, was greeted by two of the largest congregations ever present at Sunday services in St. John's church. The preacher made no attempt at a farewell sermon but after the service on Sunday night expressed his gratitude to the members of the church for the liberal support they had given him during his stay here, and hoped that they would extend the same support to his successor. Next Sunday the pulpit will be occupied by Rev. M. McCall, of Arrowhead, and the following Sunday Rev. Mr. Stevenson, the new minister will take charge.

Roy M. Smythe, tobacconist and chicken fancier, has developed a peculiar cunning for veterinary work this past week, a delicate operation which he performed on one of his hens having occasioned a big demand for his services from other sources. Mr. Smythe's fowl have recently shown an abnormal appetite for hay which they have gobbled up with such avarice as to seriously effect their health, the stuff becoming lodged and matted in the crops. The amateur vet. undertook to open the food bag of one of his hens and extricate the offending substance, sewing the incision up afterwards. So successful was the operation that his hens are clucking around as proudly ae ever, and as a consequence Mr. Smythe has gained an enviable reputation among local eggsters.

CAN YOUR BOY SWIM?

Swimming Expert Will Teach Him How at the Y.M.C.A.

There is no pastime or play that is more democratic in its nature than swimming. Where a number of persons are gathered to enjoy this invigorating sport, there is only one line to be drawn—the water level; and the aristocrats are those who can keep their heads above water. In its larger aspect, swimming has an economic as well as social value, in conserving health. Every state, and province should, therefore, prevent the fountain heads of our rivers from contamination. Every farmer who would have his home attractive, should prevent the pig pens and cow byres from polluting the little streams that spring on his soil or pass through it. Every city should have its amateur swimming clubs in which the members may develop the art to its highest degree, while the spirit of contest, held within reasonable bounds, turns putty youths into men of steel. No person has any right in a canoe who cannot swim, and swim well.

The soldiers of the French and German army are taught to swim across the river with their clothes done up in bundles, and carry them dry on the head and shoulders; also to swim with all clothes on, holding the gun out of the water with one hand. English and Scottish school children are taught swimming, and their different methods of life saving, but the Canadian and American school board have as yet given little consideration to the needs of the children in this respect; and thus the great majority grow up in total ignorance of an art that the people of the stone age considered a vital necessity. Can you afford to let an opportunity to learn this art slip by? Nature is very busy exterminating the stupid. Will you be one of these, or have to stand and see some one drown because you are ignorant of something so easy to learn? Mr. H. H. Corsan, swimming expert, will be at the Y.M.C.A. March 27th.

ALLEN PLAYERS GREETED WITH CROWDED HOUSES

Miss Verna Felton in the Role of "Magda" Displays Wonderful Ability

Opening with a little romantic drama the Allen Players appeared here on Monday night for a full week's return engagement, and a capacity house greeted the favorites in the play "Merely Mary Ann." The audience was thoroughly satisfied with the performance, which in itself is the highest meed of praise that can be rendered. In this play Miss Verna Felton played the name part, and the jump from that role to her "Magda" of last night shows the remarkably versatility of that actress.

In Sudermann's tragedy of provincial life Miss Felton displayed wonderful histrionic ability. The battle of wills that rages in "Magda," the titanic struggle between the father with his strangely perverted notions of honor and parental duty, and the daughter, who with a will that matches his, has attained a broader and saner view through sin and suffering and expiation, brings these two figures into sharp prominence almost to the exclusion of the others The role of Magda exhibits the finest florescence of Miss Verna Felton's art. She plays the part in such a way that it is not, as might be supposed absolutely repugnant. Her Magda is a noble woman, who after all, has atoned for sins by toil and achievement—sins that in the final analysis must be considered the fault of that father who drove her out because she would not marry as he willed, and who after eleven years of neglect suddenly strove to resume the parental role he had so inconsiderately abandoned. In the earlier scenes Miss Felton showed unsuspected facility in comedy, and her scene with the gentleman's card party (which by the way is deftly substituted for the ladies' committee in the original) was richly droll. She was cheated of the audible recognition her acting deserved by the odd habit Sudermann has of arranging his climaxes in the middle of his acts and of sending the curtain down while the audience is left in suspense.

Shas. C. Dale's portrait of the old man was strikingly fine—a piece of character not excelled by anything in the Allen engagement. Richard Frazier made his own best record, in his portrait of the punctilious, utterly weak and selfish Counsellor Von Keller, although he appeared not as thoroughly conversant with his lines as might be expected.

Miss Ella Houghton was girlish and natural as the younger sister Marie, and Alf. Dendoff was personable and acceptable as her cousin lover, the young lieutenant, H. Irving Kennedy, played the pastor in rather too young guise, but yet with considerable individuality. Miss Evelyn Green was the Colonel's wife and Mrs. P. R. Allen extracted occasional comedy from the role of her sister.

Tonight the Allen Players put on the board the comedy drama "The Heir to the Hoorah," Thursday night "The Resurrection," Friday night "A House of a Thousand Candles," Saturday matinee "Out of the Fold," and Saturday night "Hello Bill." Anyone of these plays is worth seeing and deserve a full house, as they can be capably handled by the Allen Players.

STEAMER TO TETE JUAN CACHE

New Westminster, March 9.— To Captain J. H. Bonser, who makes his headquarters in this city, belongs the honor of being the first master to take a steamer from Fort George on the south bank of the Fraser beyond Grand Canyon to Tete Juan Cache.

This statement is interesting in view of the fact that the Winnipeg capitalists who recently acquired the assets of the Fort George Lumber & Navigation company have decided to place a steamer service on the Fraser this summer between Fort George and the Cache. The trip will be no experiment, as Captain Bonser as long ago as last July took the steamer Fort Fraser through the canyon to the Cache, encountering no difficulties beyond those to be met with in navigating unknown waters of the character of the Fraser. On that trip the steamer carried ten tons of supplies and eighteen passengers. The year before last the steamer Chilco made the trip through the Canyon, but did not go as far as the Cache. From Grand Canyon to the Cache is a distance of about 200 miles.

Capt. Bonser, who was in charge of the fleet of the Fort George Lumber & Navigation company last summer, will ply the Skena this summer for the Prince Rupert and Skena River likely be back with his old company next year.

WHO IS JEZEBEL?

So deep-rooted is sentiment against reciprocity in the peach belt of the Niagara Peninsula that even Sunday school teachers are drawing parables from it. Yesterday a fruit-grower took advantage of the lesson to teach both patriotism and morality—more of the former than the latter be it known, since he professes to be a good Tory.

"Take heed and beware of covetousness," said he, repeating the golden text. "And now my children," he continued, "this beautiful lesson has a special meaning to us today. We are facing a great national crisis, in some respects a national peril. Covetous eyes are set upon Canada.

"In this magnificent stretch of country, commonly known as the fruit garden of Ontario, we have whatmight be styled Naboth's vineyard. To the south of us lies the United States, and in the person of Uncle Sam we have the wicked Ahab. But worst than that, in our own midst we have the character represented by Jezebel. And who is Jezebel? None other than Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He is the one who would betray the Canadian Naboth into the hands of Uncle Sam-Ahab, that he may despoil the vineyard that we live in."—Toronto World.
