SIR GILBERT PARKER

Advises British Manufacturers

Everyone who knows Sir Gilbert Parker knows that he is an experienced, wide-awake, observant man. If it were permissible to apply a slang but expressive Western epithet to a person of such importance, one might well dub him a "live wire." Few men possess so many marked characteristics. He is an artist, a litterateur, a shrewd man and a politician. During his visit to Victoria and Vancouver last year, he was greatly impressed with what he called the enormous strides made since his previous visit in 1890. He seems to have been 'infected' with the optimistic fever, for he credits Vancouver with a present-day population of 200,000. But while he found many things to arouse his enthusiasm, he also found one which occasioned him much concern, viz., that English manufacturers were not taking advantage of the splendid market which new cities in Canada offered the enterprising trader. On his return he wrote a lengthy letter to the Morning Post dealing with this subject, the substance of which is so important that it would bear reproduction. Sir Gilbert is not troubled so much about the establishment of local industries as at the fact that Canada imports her manufactured goods so largely from the States. He found that the reason for this was that the American system was to have local representatives living in Canada. These men are highly trained salesmen, and they induce Canadian customers to carry a reasonably full stock at all times. In order to do this, they keep their own warehouses well filled with such lines of goods as are required for consumption in Canada, and they give preference to Canadian orders in their manufactories in the States, so as to hold the Canadian market. The English manufacturecs, on the other hand, maintain very few resident agents in Canada: they send their travellers out at regular times, and unless their respresentative happens to be in a town at the pyschological moment when a large order is available for his particular line of business, they do not get it. There is another English system which does not work well and that is to make use of a commission agent as a representative instead of a selling agent. The disadvantage is that the former probably sells for half-a-dozen houses, and his interest in any particular firm is thereby diminished. Such a man can not be so familiar with his wares as a man who confines himself to one branch. The article contains a good suggestion which is no doubt acted on to some extent, but not as fully as it might be, viz., that large firms should have a representative and carry a stock, say, at Montreal and on the Pacific Coast, and distribute from these branches. Only in this way can they bring themselves as close to their customers as do the American firms. The list of goods which Canadians might import from the Old Country to a far greater extent would fill a column; in fact, Canada offers a market for almost anything which is manufactured in England, but that market has never been properly exploited. The Week thinks no one will deny that the two cardinal principles of Canadian trade ought to be to manufacture everything possible within our own borders, and to import what we cannot manufacture from the Old Country. Sir Gilbert Parker was not dealing with the former subject but his suggestions on the latter are well worthy of attention.—The Week.

MURDERED BY CHINESE BOY

"The deceased came to her death by being foully murdered some time between Tuesday night, March 31, and the evening of April 1, at her family residence, 1650 Pendrill street, Vancouver, and her body cremated in the furnace of the house."

The above is the verdict of the coroner's jury inquiring into the death of Mrs. Chas. J. Millard, whose charred remains were found by detectives

Jack Kong, a Chinese servant employed at the Millard residence, confessed this morning to the police that he killed Mrs. Millard by hitting her over the head with a chair, afterwards cutting up the body and burning it in the furnace.

At the inquest Mr. Millard related how he left his wife to go on business of the C.P.R. to Victoria last Tuesday and how he returned the following night and found his wife missing. He related that he thought his wife was with relatives and his suspicions were gradually aroused and dreadfully verified. Throughout the whole narrative the figure of Kong, the Chinese boy, seemed to move with perfect calmness, preparing meals for two.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S TRIUMPH

President Wilson scored a remarkable triumph in the adoption of the bill to repeal the law exempting from tolls coastwise American vessels passing through the Panama canal. The triumph is all the more remarkable in that it was scored in the face of the strongest possible opposition from the Democratic leaders in the house, including Mr. Champ Clarke, speaker, and Representative Underwood, majority leader, supposed the two most influential members of the house of representatives.

As dispatches show, Mr. Champ Clarke was most bitter in his hostility to the president's policy on this question and in this even went so far as to try to raise the anti-British cry which a few years ago was the stock in trade of all the cheaper of American politicians, as witness his declaration:

> I would rather see the Panama canal blown up than give the British people any control of it. It is ours for better or for worse.

The Mr. Champ Clarke who gave voice to this declaration yesterday is the same Mr. Champ Clarke who during the discussion of the Canadian-American reciprocity proposals in 1911 declared in the house of representatives:

> I look forward to the time when the American flag will fly over every square foot of British North America up to the north pole.

From this quotation and yesterday's declaration it is safe to place Mr. Clarke among the spread-eagle anti-British element in the United States that is fast dying out, and that will die out more rapidly still with a broad minded and sensible man like Woodrow Wilson at the head of affairs. The support which the president received in the house of representatives is probably a fair indication of the state of American feeling on this question. When last there was a Democratic president of the United States such a result would have been impossible and it is fair to assume that public feeling throughout the country at that time would not have been behind it even if it had been given.

Times have changed however, and today the two great branches of the English speaking race are closer together than at any time since the American revolution. And their relations are destined to become more closely knit together as the years go on. There will come a day, and that at no great distance when a man with the sentiments and views of Mr. Champ Clarke will hesitate to express them in public because of the universal ridicule which they would bring forth.

A Talk With Manager Webb

Splendid Team Assured.—Points from the Practises.—Trial Game on Friday.—Pars. about the New Men.

Prospects for the baseball season locally are excellent and enthusiasts can rely upon witnessing some fine games. The schedule has been previously published and from a talk which a "Mail-Herald" man had with President L. Howson and Manager Webb this morning it is a sure thing that the proud record of the Revelstoke team last season will be equalled, if not excelled, this year.

Manager Webb has retained the services of the pick of his last year players, whose willingness, not tosay anxiety, to stay in Revelstoke is a pleasing tribute to the good feeling that exists between the community and the members of the team. In addition he has secured a splendid lot of capable recruits, of proved value, who should and dou btless will materially strengthen the team this season.

The players already here are practising regularly on the Y.M.C.A. ground, commencing each afternoon at two o'clock. The men now practising include Webb, Derr, Pulley, Fisher, Burns, Oldfield and McCallister. McCallister and Burns are new men who have never been seen at the game in Revelstoke. McCallister is an outfielder from Calgary. He has played for some of the fastest teams in and around Calgary and comes here well recommended. Better still he shapes exceedingly well and shows good promise. Burns, who comes from Vancouver here, shapes well, He has played with some of the intermediate teams at the coast and on the prairie.

One of the most promising of the new men is Fahanger, of Denver, Col a third baseman who, in the words of capable critics. "looks good."

Without desiring to judge the new men on the limited experience of their actual doings which has so far been afforded at practices it is undoubted that Fahanger is so far the pick of the new players. He shapes excellently. Go and watch him at the practice match on Friday.

Deer played third base here last season and will probably be seen at centre field this season. Pulley, of course, is a fixture as catcher, and a good thing too. Fisher, last year's second base and centre fielder is well known by local fans. He will be tried in the outfield this year. Webb will pitch again, 'nuf said. He will also manage the team. McGuire late of Seattle, will be here for Friday's game. He is a short stop, and good enough to play with Seattle in the Northwest League. He is, according to reliable reports, a first class man.

Henry Zilka, from Spokane, a first baseman who will also help Revelstoke this season, is a top notcher. For the last two years he has played with the team of the University of the State of Washington. A very welcome addition this. Efforts are afoot to obtain the services of Carl Lewis, of Vancouver, who has figured in Northwest League games for Vancouver for several seasons past. He will very materially strengthen the team if he comes, as is almost certain now He is a catcher of experience and should prove a tower of strength to Revelstoke. He was pinch hitter for Vancouver last year.

Beamish, of Spokane, another well recommended recruit, is an outfielder who shapes well in the opinion of experts who have closely watched him. He is due here about April 15.

These facts speak for themselves.—Revelstoke is assured of a good team, and that being guaranteed enthusiastic support will be accorded the team. If anything the team this year is now better than last year's team, which is saying a lot, as the new men are players of professional experience and proved worth. In short the pick of last season's stars are retained and new stars have been secured.

At present the team is practising on the Y.M.C.A. ground, but the match ground will be in first class shape within the next ten days.

A practice match will be played on the Y.M.C.A. ground on Friday, commencing at two o'clock, against the Pirates. All local supporters of the game are cordially invited to be present on that occasion to cast their eyes over the new team. They will not be disappointed. In fact prospects are bright, very bright, for a record successful season.

THE BUDGET SPEECH

Tariff Changes Proposed.

The Minister of Finance has not thought it his duty to make a political budget speech. There is no attack on the record of his predecessors and no attempt to protect himself from criticism. Mr. White has made a direct business statement such as should be expected from a man entrusted with the financial administration of a great country. Leaving the debate to others he has undertaken to disclose the financial condition of the government to explain the tariff changes which he proposes, giving the reasons for them, and the reasons why certain other tariff propositions had not been adopted.

The financial statement is one on which another finance minister might have claimed congratulations. On current account there is a surplus only three times equalled in the history of Canada. The revenue is larger than in any previous year save one. With a capital expenditure exceeding all previous records the increase of the debt is less than the decrease in 1913 so that the net liabilities are less by six millions than they were two years ago. Yet $70,000,000 has been expended on capital account in that period, by far the larger part to carry out inherited undertakings.

The trade statement is not unsatisfactory. There is an increase over the first billion-dollar year. Moreover the increase is wholly in exports Canada has imported less than in 1913, but has sent aboard some $80-000,000 more of her own products than in the previous year.

Some changes are proposed in the details of the tariff, but the government stands absolutely by the national policy. For thirty-six years that tariff policy has been maintained, steadily endorsed by both parties in office, and by one in opposition. Mr. White is not a high protectionist but he is in harmony with his colleagues and with their party and so well satisfied with the Fielding Tariff that in three sessions he has not changed a fiftieth part of it. The principal change proposed yesterday is a reduction in the Fielding tariff. It is fair to say that Mr. Fielding also proposed to reduce the duty on harvest by the reciprocity treaty. The difference is that Mr. Fielding proposed to take off two and a half per cent., while Mr. White has made a five per cent. reduction. It is also worth noticing that Sir Lyman Jones who has lately renounced the Liberal party, is largely interested in the manufacture of harvesters.

The other more important changes in duties are increases in connection with secondary products of the iron and steel industries. While billets and other primary products remain as before, bars of certain sizes will pay higher duties, large tubing is placed with small in the protected list, as well as wire for nails and fences. Protection is extended to certain new lines of brass products. While the duty has been increased on some kinds of cut stone, rough stone heretofore dutiable, has been made free. There are some additions to drawbacks, which also assist home industries. The National Policy is evidently safe in the hands of Mr. White.

Mr. White has not met the views of the advocates of free wheat and free flour. He has also given a negative to those who sought a restoration of the iron and steel bounties. The minister gives fairly the argument advanced to him for and against free wheat. He does not consider the case closed, but points out what is involved in the proposition, and announces that under the present circumstances the government is not convinced that the duty should be abolished. There are many reasons why a step of that kind should be delayed even if it should be found expedient to take it in the future. One is that industrial conditions would be seriously disturbed by such a departure, and this is not a good time to turn artisans out of employment.

BIG GAME HUNTING

It is expected that British Columbia will attract more big game hunters this year than ever before. All those identified in any way with the outfitting of sportsmen, who come from outside for the purpose of going after mountain sheep, caribou, the grizlly bear, etc., have the same report. More inquiries are being received, and the prospects are that more splendid trophies will be taken from the hinterland of this Province than in any previous season.

Letters have come to the Provincial department from veteran guides and sportsmen in the Lillooet district bearing out this summing up of the conditions and the prospects. One writer, who has been a guide for the past twelve years, and a hunter in the province for thirty years says: "There are more young deer and sheep here now than at any time in my recollection. I have never seen so many deer as I did last November."

Another guide says: "I have been a guide for twenty-five years, and I want to say that the deer, sheep and goats have been increasing rapidly since they were afforded protection by the game laws. They are now more plentiful than ever."

Notice has also been received that several parties are already being organized to spend some months in the British Columbia wilds. Most of them have expressed a desire to go into the Cassiar country, although there was some trouble last year with the Indians. A repetition of this, however, is not expected.

Halcyon Notes

Hard times to do not seem to effect Halcyon. The hotel is taxed to its utmost with guests and Mr. Boyd is getting everything in readiness for the coming summer tourist trade. He expects to build an addition this summer to the hotel as well as enlarge the present electric light plant, and add enough lights to light the villas to the rear of the hotel.

P. A. O'Farrell and wife, of New York, arrived Wednesday to spend a few weeks at the famous health resort before continuing their trip to Vancouver, Victoria and Spokane. Mr. O'Farrell is amongst the leading journalists of Canada.

Reid Johnston, C.P.R. agent, expects shortly to take a trip to Alaska for his holidays.

The Halcyon Bottling Company are daily making large shipments of their famous mineral water to all parts of British Columbia.

Mrs. Boyd expects to raise at least a thousand young chickens this coming summer, for market and hotel use

Alex Lucas, M.P.P. returned today to Vancouver greatly benefitted after his few days stay. ffl

FRUIT CROP

Hon. Price Ellison's Tour

Everything points to a tremendous fruit crop in the Interior this year—the greatest in the history of the province—according to the Hon. Price Ellison, who has just returned from a tour of the Okanagan Valley. This is expected for a variety of reasons. Climatic conditions have been all that could be desired, more acreage is being utilized, and young orchards are constantly coming into bearing. This happy situation, the Minister states, will find the producers in a better position than ever to reap the reward which is justly theirs.

Mr. Ellison's main purpose in making the tour was to stimulate the co operative movement on the part of the fruitgrowers' Association; and he says that the outlook could not be more encouraging. The Minister first addressed a meeting at Chilliwack and then proceeded to Armstrong, Vernon and Summerland, where he also delivered addresses.He explained the provisions of the Agricultureal Association Act, by which the growers may receive pecuniary assistance when certain stipulations have been complied with.

The whole of the Okanagan district has now been organized from Penticton to twenty miles north of Salmon River into one general selling agency. This system does away with making his own prices and thus de-the practice of the individual grower demoralizing the market. As indicating the success of the movement, the Minister mentions that the agency last year handled 60 per cent of the produce of the valley. Of course, several large companies, which have been in the business for several years and are firmly established, are continuing business.

Mr. Ellison mentioned a matter which well illustrated a disability under which the growers worked in the past and which has now been overcome. In the Fall of 1912 there were no less than 167 carloads of fruit from all points on the railway tracks at Calgary at one time. This was simply disastrous, for neither the grower not the consumer benefitted. Such a thing can never happen again as long as the central selling agency maintains its organization.

The returns for last year were most satisfactory. Especially was this the case in respect to apples and pears, as prices in excess of those obtained by the growers in Washington and Oregon were obtained.

Mr. Ellison pointed out that a great incentive to the co-operative movement in this province lies in the fact that the growers in Oregon, Washington, and California are so highly organized. The thirteen cents duty which Canada maintains against fruit imported from the United States more than wiped out owing to cheaper labor on the other side of the line, and lower quotations for lumber from which boxes are made. So enterprising are the growers that they are spending as high as $6 per car in advertising purposes alone. It will be seen that the Provincial grower must be up and doing if he wishes to hold his own in the markets which are naturally his.

The Minister is of the opinion that the growers will never succeed in the larger measure until they surround themselves with stock, for stock is the basis of successful agriculture.

ENORMOUS TOURIST TRAFFIC

Mr. J. S. Dennis, assistant to the president of the Canadian Pacific Railway and in charge of the department of Natural Resources of that corporation with headquarters at Calgary, is en route to San Francisco where he will make final arrangements for the installation of the Canadian Pacific's exhibit and headquarters for the Panama Pacific Exposition. Plans have been prepared for a very artistic structure to house the exhibit which will be on a very extensive scale.

Mr. C.E. McPherson, Winnipeg general passenger agent of the C.P.R., arrived in Vancouver from San Francisco where he attended the meeting of the transcontinental passenger agents to discuss rates for the exposition west of Missouri River points. Arrangements were completed for the selling of tickets by diverse routes, and the belief is that practically every ticket sold will provide for the traveller returning to his home by a different route. Mr. McPherson is confident that the scenic attractions that the C.P.R. has to offer in the Fraser Canyon the Selkirks and the Rockies will compel the majority of the travellers to go through Canada at least one way.

"There will be over three hundred conventions in San Francisco during the fair," said Mr. McPherson yesterday. "This means of course, that the convention business this year on the coast will be at a minimum.

"But it is predicted and apparently with much soundness that there will be over a million people go from the East to San Francisco next year There appears to be little doubt but that the Exposition will be ready on time. In fact it has been officially stated that the Exposition grounds and buildings are eighty per cent. completed now."

Mr. McPherson who is recognised all over the United States as well as in Canada, as one of the veterans of his profession and one of the most efficient administrators of the passenger traffic business that modern railway methods have produced, will remain in Vancouver today inspecting local conditions and will leave tonight for Winnipeg, travelling via Nelson and Spokane.

Ten miles of new telegraph line, which is being built on the Kootenay Central south of Spillimacheen, the present terminus of the line from Golden, has been installed, states J. F. Richardson, superintendent of telegraphs for the Canadian Pacific railway, who has just returned from a trip of inspection in the East Kootenay district and along the main line as far as Field. It is planned to construct 55 miles of line this season, and two gangs are now in the field, having started operations two weeks ago.

The Japanese population of Vancouver was diminished last week by the death of Heigi Takairrio, Heigi might have been living yet, making his contribution to the Oriental question, if he had not tried to save the lives of two ladies in the house where he was employed. The clothing of these ladies caught fire by an accident that happened to Heigi with some furniture polish. One of the ladies was blind. Heigi went to her help and both women escaped with some injuries. But while the man from Japan was extinguishing the fire in the clothing of the older lady his own were burning. Now Heigi is dead, and Vancouver has lost one gentleman.

The First Silk Hat

On January 15, 1797 John Hetherington emerged from his haberdashery shop in the Strand in London, wearing the first silk hat ever seen in public. Hetherington was promptly surrounded by an astonished mob of such proportions that he was arrested and charged before the Lord Mayor with inciting to riot. The officer who arrested him testified that he "appeared upon the public highway wearing a tall structure which he called a silk hat, having a shiny lustre, and calculated to frighten timid people. Several women fainted at the unusual sight, while children screamed, dogs yelled and a boy was thrown down by the crowd which collected, and broke his right arm." The defendant was bound over in £500 to keep the peace.

In a certain literary club, one of the members, in proposing the name of a candidate for membership, mentioned among his qualifications, that he could speak several dead languages. To this an opponent replied that he never heard the gentleman in question speak but one dead language, and he murdered that as he went along.—Christian Register.

RAILROADS NOW UNDER CONTRACT

Railroad construction work in various parts of the Northwest now under contract by Guthrie, McDougall & Co. of Portland, will call for the employment within the next three weeks of thousands of men, and will necessitate the expenditure of many millions of dollars.

The principal project now under contract by this company is the construction of the Kettle Valley Railroad in Southern British Columbia, While this road is to be only thirty-five miles long, it must be built through a mountainous country and will require a heavy force of men.

"We will employ all the men we can get," said Natt McDougall, head of the company. "We doubtless will be able to get men right on the ground"

Guthrie, McDougall & Co., also have a contract from the Great Northern for building from Coalmount, B.C., to Otter Summit, as also twenty miles of new track and changing the line for the Northern Pacific between Lester and Easton, Wash., and will start May 1 on a thirty-five-mile piece of track for the Milwaukee & St. Paul between Maytown and Chehalis, Wash. ...

GOOD COW GOES CHEAP

The following is a sample of what is discovered by the simple weighing of milk and testing of samples. A four year old cow gave in one month 920 pounds of milk containing 35 pounds fat. In the same herd a five year old gave only 330 pounds of milk and 19 pounds of fat. Thus the first cow gave more than the other two combined.

This further fact is interesting; this particular cow was sold by a man absolutely ignorant of her value or dairy capacity. The present owner, through keeping individual records, knows her better and would not sell her for less than thirty dollars more than he paid for her.

Another fact is worth careful attention; the total of the herd yield for a day or a month will never reveal these good individuals. What the owner needs to know for certain is obtained only from a record of each cow he keeps. You can save labor and good feed by bestowing them on cows that you know are worth keeping; you will then be in a position to keep your best cows and will not lose money by selling good cows cheap.

THIS STOMACH REMEDY REMARKABLY SUCCESSFUL

You know us—your home druggist. You know we wouldn't guarantee any remedy to relieve indigestion or dyspepsia, or money back, unless we felt the utmost confidence in that remedy. Therefore, when we offer you Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets with this proof of our faith in them, it leaves you no room for hesitation or doubt.

The remarkable success of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is due to the fact that they contain, among other things, Bismuth and Pepsin, two ingredients endorsed by the medical profession as invaluable in the treatment of stomach ills. They soothe the inflamed stomach, check heartburn and distress, stimulate the secretion of gastric juice, aid in rapid and comfortable digestion of the food and help to quickly convert it into rich, red blood. In a short time they tend to restore the stomach to a naturally comfortable, easyacting, healthy state. They also benefit the bowels.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us The Bews Drug Store. Three sizes, 25c., 50c and $1.00.

"She is a woman; I must receive her." This was the statement of Gaston Calmette as he permitted Mme. Caillaux to enter his private office. A few moments later Mme. Caillaux emerged from the room, leaving her victim dying on the floor and announced to a porter who would have detained her, "I am a woman; you must not touch me." With such illustrations as this, and those offered by the vandal acts of militant suffragettes in Great Britain one is led to wonder of the time has not come when there should be a revision of the definition of the word "woman," as it has bearing upon man's attitude toward individuals of the sex.—Calgary Herald.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 8th, 1914.

There are evidences that the people of B.C. are awakening to a better realisation of the vast possibilities afforded by the development of their natural attractions in regard to tourist traffic. Revelstoke has been a pioneer city in this matter, and has cause for congratulation in this connection. The completing of the auto road as an adjunct of the Revelstoke National Park will mark an important step forward, and cannot but be productive of immense advantage to this district from the viewpoint of tourist attraction. An editorial in a Calgary contemporary is significant and is especially interesting as bearing upon the efforts of the C.P.R. in this part of the province, efforts which have been fruitful of very good results. The importance of good roads amongst the mountains of Western Canada is daily receiving more sympathetic attention, which is as it should be. The Calgary writer referred to says:

When the United States government set out to make first-class roads amongst the mountains, running from city to city, its action was rather ridiculed by the majority of citizens, who looked upon the project as a specimen of monumental folly. Today those roads are amongst the best paying assets of the republic by reason of the enormous amount of tourist travel which they have attracted wherever they have been constructed. The Canadian Pacific railway, taking the cue from our southern neighbors, has followed out the same principle in some portions of the Rocky mouotains, which has induced an enormous amount of tourist travel westward for several years past. Had it not been for the enterprise of this company in this matter Banff would have been known to few and further west would still be regarded as an inaccessible sea of mountains possessing only the charm that can be gained from them on a passing train. Neither the federal nor the provincial governments have had the time or the inclination to follow the example of the United States administration, but the time is coming when it will be recognised that the more tourist traffic can be attracted to Canada the more investments will be made in this wonderfully prolific country, and, by cooperating with the various railways in this matter the expense alike to the governments and to the railway companies in further opening up the wonders of the western mountain ranges to vehicular traffic would be rendered lighter, and it would increase the area covered by automobile and other locomotive appliances other than railway cars. The result would gratify tourists and develop Canada's commercial progress.

Thousands of men, according to a Portland dispatch, are needed to work on the Kettle River and Coalmont Railways in this province. If any steps can be taken to secure for our own people preference in this field, they ought to be taken. We know how very difficult it is to protect domestic against foreign labor; but there may be some way of doing so that will be fair to the contractors as well as to their employees.

IS THE EARTH DRYING UP?

Prof. T.W. Gregory, of London has been busy for some time past dealing with the question whether the earth is drying up. His conclusions are here reproduced:

"Owing to the varied nature of the evidence to be considered, the extensive and scattered literature whence much of the evidence has to be gleaned and the contradictory opinions expressed by high authorities, the problem whether the earth is drying up is hedged about with difficulties. But one fact does seem to me to result clearly from the evidence; there have been many widespread climatic changes in late geologic times, while in historic times there has been no worldwide change of climate.

"If we consider particular countries, such as Egypt and Palestine the balance of expert opinion is strongly in favor of the view that there has been no climatic change in either since the earliest existing records. The belief in a lesser rainfall in Palestine has been fostered by the oft repeated comparison of the Hebrews between the stony wilderness of Sinai and the matured fertility of Canaan. But it may be concluded from the most precise tests now available from the range of the date palm and the vine, and from the facts recorded by Old Testament writers, that the climate of Palestine is the same today as in the time of Moses.

"Returning to the wider question—geological evidence shows how the passage from the climate of the glacial period to that of our own day has proceeded on two main lines. In some countries there has been a gradual rise in temperature since the disappearance of the ice, accompanied either by an increase or decrease in humidity. In other countries the glacial conditions were succeeded by a warm, dry period, followed again by wetter conditions.

"This increased humidity characterizes the present climates of Scandinavia, Germany, Hungary, Roumania the eastern parts of Africa from Nigeria to Cape Colony, and there is some evidence of the same change following a dry post-glacial period in England. As an increased rainfall has been demonstrated for so many parts of the world, it is only natural to expect a compensating decrease in other districts; and there is accordingly a pre-disposition to accept the claim that central Asia is suffering from increasing desiccation.

"Yet it is well to remember that the extent of such change may be easily exaggerated by attributing to recent climatic exchanges the effects of prehistoric variations. For archaeological and historical evidence shows that central Asia and even the coasts of Persia and Beluchistan had a very arid climate in the earliest times of which we have human records, that the Caspian sea was at least as small and as low in the fifth century as it is now, and that the African and Asiatic deserts are in places again passing under cultivation.

"Though it must be admitted that while there is a strong balance of opinion in favor of the view that the aridity in Asia is being still increased, there are weighty authorities on the other side.

"The explanation of the conflicting views may be that in central Asia the desert is widening in some places and contracting elsewhere. That the total rainfall in central Asia has diminished is, however, probable as an accompaniment to its increase in parts of Europe. Variations in the distribution of rainfall must result from any considerable alteration in the level of the land; the uplift of a continent must cause the rainfall to become heavier on the margins and lighter in the interior.

"The increase of rain on the coast lands would, however, hasten their lowering by denudation, and again the rain would sweep over the interior: hence the marvellous geographical equilibrium, which has rendered possible the unbroken course of evolution, would in time, unless checked by renewed uplifts of the coastlands restore the more even distribution of the rain and revive the desolate regions in the heart of a continent."

"Do you believe in polygamy?" asked County Judge Clarence Cole, in examining Anthony Solitaire, one of forty-nine applicants for naturalization papers.

"I do not know what you mean," Solitaire answered through an interpreter.

"Do you think a man should be permitted to have more than one wife?" asked the judge.

"Some do. I don't want any," was the retort.

"Passed," said the court, and the papers were awarded.

COME WEST FOR OPPORTUNITIES

"In spite of the fact that there has been a tightness of money and falling off of business pretty much all over the West, the West is the place for the young man, the place where there are more opportunities than in the Middle West or the East," said Mr. M.H. Foley, head of the well-known railway construction firm of Foley, Welch and Stewart. Mr. Foley, with Mrs. Foley, is on his yearly visit to the Pacific coast, having spent part of the winter in California.

The western work of the firm is entirely in the hands of Messrs. Welch and Stewart, Mr. Foley explained, while he, from his headquarters in St. Paul, Minn., directs the work in the Middle West. The company has completed the C.N.R. line between Fort William and Sudbury, and there is little more railway construction of magnitude in the Middle West at present, Mr. Foley said.

There was comparatively little railway construction in the East and Middle West last year and there will be less this year. The well-known visitor expressed his optimism over business conditions. He looks for an early revival. Conditions in the Middle West just now are good.

Mr. Foley believes that the construction of the Pacific Great Eastern from Vancouver to Fort George, and its projection into the Peace river district will mean another steady flow of immigrants from the middle states into the new territory. "It was too hard to get in there before," he explained He does not think immigration fell off a great deal last year from the year before, but predicts a considerable decrease in the immigration from the States to the prairies this year.

Area of Cultivated Land Increases

A bulletin on crop and agricultural land statistics is in course of preparation by the Department of Agriculture. When this is published there is every indication that it will show that, since the last book of similar statistics was published in 1911, there has been a steady progress maintained all over the Mainland in reclaiming land from its wild state and adapting it to the production of crops.

Mr. A.B. Tweedie, assistant statistician, in answer to an inquiry on the above subject yesterday, stated that though returns were not all in yet, from his own observation he was able to forecast that everywhere in the Mainland there would be found a steady increase in the area of cultivated land. Particularly would this be noticeable on the Thompson river south of Kamloops, and Pemberton Meadows, where another official of the department, Mr. Thornber, said that the coming of the railway was inducing a great many of the old settlers as well as new ones, to begin mixed farming now that there will be a good market for all kinds of farm produce.

Mr. J.C. Readey, soil and crop instructor, stated that he would say that everywhere on the Mainland, south of the C.P.R. the bush was being steadily pushed back, and he commented with satisfaction on the increased interest shown everywhere in mixed farming and especially the growing of fodder crops. Keen interest is being shown by the farmers in the four-acre investigation plots at Chilliwack, Armstrong, Rolehill, Edgewood, Grand Forks and Rock creek These plats are being worked by the government, in co-operation with the farmers' institute in each district. The aim is to find out the possibilities of the soil for the production of fodder crops. In this way it is hoped to evolve a system of rotation and lists of crops best suited to the needs of each district. These plots have been secured on a five-year lease with option of renewal for another three years.

Two Recipes

For a wedding:—To one summer's night add two young persons, a beach and a little propinquity. Mix in one lock of wavy hair, an atom of delicate perfume, and stir with a slight breeze. Sprinkle the whole with moonlight and let alone for the evening.

For Happy Wedded Life—To one woman add numerous kisses, each supplemented with "Yes, dear, I love you more than ever." Mix thoroughly with long pleased expressions at sight of new gowns and hats, and season with many remarks about—"youthful appearance." Sprinkle liberally with checks and bonbons—(courtship brand). Do not stir up.

BOXING

Evans vs Burns

On April 21 there is to be a return match between Bobby Evans and Charlie Burns, of Vancouver. The event is fixed for the Opera House, and in view of the records of the men their past meetings, and particularly their fine exhibition on the occasion of their last bout at Revelstoke there should be a big house.

The opera house forms a fine ring, and the last boxing exhibition held there was of a level throughout calculated to ensure generaus support for similiar exhibitions staged under the same management in future. Bobby Evans enjoys a reputation locally which was enhanced by the decision awarded him over Burns by Referee Willoughby, but there was not much to choose between the two. The return engagement on April 21 is to be for ten rounds and patrons can rely upon witnessing a clean, bustling exhibition. There will be a number of minor events, between local lads pretty evenly matched, and the occasion should be well worth a crowded house.

All changes of ads must positively be handed into this office by Monday evening in order that the change shall appear in Wednesday's issue, and any changes intended for Saturday's issue must be handed in not later than Thursday evening of each week. Business men please take note of the above.

GROUNDHOG COALFIELDS

IMPORTANT DEPOSITS

For Use In the Navy?

Mrs. Amy Campbell-Johnston, who recently returned with her husband a mining engineer, from an inspection trip in the Groundhog country, contributes the following article on the value of the mineral production of that region for use in the British navy:

After many years of strenuous work by my husband in his journeys to the far north of the headwaters of the Skeena, Naas and Stikine rivers, the fruit is beginning to ripen for the benefit of the British Empire. As the writer accompanied him in every foot of the way, sharing all the hardships so she can speak feelingly of the important culminations developing for our future shipping industries along our coasts, calling for a large army of workers in the northern interior to win the mineral to load on the prospective great mercantile fleets about to be organized to carry this excellent coal widecast to all ports on the Pacific Ocean.

First, we must realize that these coalfields contain a "rara avis" in hard smokeless steam coal, second to none in the world's producers, and only equalled by the product of South Wales and the Eastern American coals of Pennsylvania and Western Virginia. All these coals are called "dry coals," that is, high in fixed carbon, to generate intense heat, calculated as British thermal units for comparison; low in ash and clinker that the temperature of the fire grates may not be lowered by constantly opening their doors to drop and clean the fire bars; and containing just sufficient volatile matter to generate a smokeless flame to reach the water tubes above them. This happy combination of these three essential parts is that for which the naval lords of the world are seeking that they may manoeuvre their respective fleets of Dreadnoughts in secret, over the many seas, without a tell-tale trail of smoke following them to discover their presence to an enemy.

THE GROUNDHOG COUNTRY.

In 1910 my husband with the writer made their first trip into the Groundhog country to examine, as a mining engineer, certain coal lands lying near the headwaters of the Skeena river, offered to Quebec capitalists. This trip entailed penetrating 200 miles of country little travelled and 200 miles from the nearest base of supplies. We were generally warned in Hazelton that we were starting out on a fool's errand, and that whatever small area of coal was there, was already secured by the Crow's Nest Coal Company. Our investigations the first year from this trip proved that a wider range of coal certainly existed than had been contemplated by the first stakes New seams were found on Biernes' creek, named after one of the most intrepid pioneers of that northern country, George Milton Biernes, who had staked these properties and acted as our guide on this trip. My husband became enthusiastic even then, seeing a broad scope for future commerce in those far-away wilds.

On the invitation of the directors of this Quebec syndicate, we went East to discuss personally the pros and cons of undertaking such an arduous enterprise to open up these great coal fields, requiring also the construction of 150 miles of railway down to the nearest seaboard to make the production marketable, and so reap dividends on such a large outlay of money, amounting to, say, ten million dollars. These Quebec capitalists, under the guidance of Mr. Leon Benvit of Winnipeg, grasped eagerly the tempting suggestions and quickly provided the cash to carry out the further preliminary development, amounting to seventy-five thousand dollars, all to be spent in an expedition taking miners, supplies and pack horses for a siege of seven months' work in those wilds.

Of course, other large sums have been spent by this syndicate in purchasing holdings and carrying the coal licenses ever since, and the heavy expenses of reconnoitring, locating and obtaining provincial and Dominion charters for their railroad, named the Naas and Skeena River Railway. The result of this seven months' development proved coal to exist in many seams, of ample commercial sizes over extensive area. From now on, with the analysis of the coal samples brought out, representing the several seams, it was recognized that a discovery had been made of great importance, not only to Canada, but to the British Empire, from a strategical point of view

The writer had already started communication with the Duke of Argyll, as one who could lay this matter of great importance before the British Admiralty. He recognized at once its seriousness, and desired to be kept fully posted as matters matured, saying he had already laid the facts contained in our letters before the Rt. Hon. ReginaldMcKeena, then First Lord of the Admiralty, At this time the Hon. L.P. Pelletier was making his memorable trip on behalf of Canada to the centre of the Empire. This minister was supplied with the fullest further details to present to the British government.

Now, the leaven, apparently, is beginning to work. Mr. D.A. Thomas, with his confreres is the largest contractor to supply smokeless steam coal to the navies of the world, as well as to mercantile fleets plying to all ports. To carry out his contracts perhaps, too, at the suggestion of the British Admiralty, he has at last been forced to realize the importance of this Groundhog commodity, not only from its quality as competitor to his other coal mines in South Wales and the Eastern States, but also as an economic factor capable of laying down coal in the future at a cheaper price per ton, and so, seriously cutting into his trade.

REWARD OF THE PIONEER

These facts the writer considers history which should not be lost sight of in the public interests, and also that all the pioneers who are instrumental in opening up the natural wealth of our province at the risk of their lives, when others following in their laboriously cleared tracts are alone the ones to reap the harvest of dollars from possessing more capital to carry out successfully the original neep thoughts of those who have unrewarded and painfully broken the trails and originated the conceptions having such far-ranging effects in the history of nations. This history should include not only captains of industry, but the venturesome prospectors who primarily take their lives in their hands to be followed close on their heels by the miners, packers and advance guard of civilization, all unitedly making possible the ultimate wealth given only to the capitalists.

Since it happened that warships from both the United States and Japan came to this province seeking smokeless fuel for their navy, the same year that we had discovered the value of Groundhog coal, the writer immediately grasped the importance personally placing this before the British Admiralty through her correspondent, the Duke of Argyll.

From his enthusiasm for further details, the evident correct policy would have been for Mr. Campbell-Johnston to have gone himself to give direct technical evidence concerning the quality and quantity of this coal to expedite their development as the Admiralty prefer putting their own questions direct, rather than acquiring knowledge second hand. This method would have more speedily brought this Groundhog coal matter to a focus.

OUR HOME WOMEN HAVE BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Next time you go to the theatre or to the "movies" just notice, if you please, how many of our home ladies have beautiful hair—glossy, lustrous, and well-dressed. Then, if you will pick out five or ten of those whose hair seems to be particularly pretty and will ask them what they use on it, we feel sure that at least more than half of them will say "Harmony Hair Beautifier." It is fast becoming the rage with both men and women who are particular about the appearance of their hair.

Sprinkle a little Harmony Hair Beautifier on your hair each time before brushing it. Contains no oil; will not change color of hair, nor darken gray hair.

To keep hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of hair and scalp, insuring a quick, thorough cleansing. Washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness—just a sweet cleanliness.

Both preparations come in odd-shaped, very ornamental bottles, with sprinkler tops. Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.00. Harmony Shampoo 50c. REVELSTOKE CITY AND DISTRICT

Resources of Our Inland Empire.—Revelstoke Geographical Centre of Southern British Columbia.—Hub of Timber Belt.—Mineral Zone.—Agricultural Lands.—Vast Water Powers.—Government Lands Now Open Provide Homesteads for 30,000 Prosperous Agriculturists.—Scenic Attractions.—Industrial Possibilities.

The inhabitants of British Columbia are often accused by those ignorant of the vast resources of Canada's premier province, of being biased in their forecasts of the future wealth and population of the province, and especially in regard to that section known as THE INTERIOR.

There are even people in the Coast cities, who, whilst only too willing to admit the destiny of their own centers, are still incapable of doing even bare justice to that great Inland Empire, which in the last analysis is the only justification for the existence of the entrepot business which alone supports the rainswept seaports of the Pacific Coast of Canada.

The dweller along the ocean shore, whilst boasting of his prosperity, which depends upon the handling of traffic destined to be consumed in the Interior, is foolish indeed to attempt any other explanation of his own prosperity, save and alone that the vast development of the inside of the continent is the very creation of the sea and railway born transferring of commodities by virtue of which his own cities are being built.

MINING

One of the greatest direct causes of traffic along our railways running to the Pacific Coast, is the recent developments in the production of minerals throughout the Interior of British Columbia.

Foremost among these rank the coal silver lead, galena, copper and other mines of the district of Kootenay and the Crows Nest Pass whilst the Similkameen and adjacent territory presently being opened up by new railway construction is also commencing to swell the output of base and precious mentals. Under the stimulating influence of this mineral output, prosperous mining towns and camps, peopled with the most capable and highest paid body of skilled miners to be found in the Dominion, have sprung into existence within the last ten years. These centers, are only the forerunners of the great wealthy cities which so soon as sufficient capital is available, will arise as if by magic, at the strategetical points which will be the transportation centers of the vast, well-defined, high grade, mineralised regions which are now being located by prospectors and government geologic surveys, throughout the lode belts of the Interior of British Columbia.

FRUIT GROWING

Another of our infant, but destined to be gigantic industries, is the Fruit Growing business, throughout the sheltered fertile valleys of our Interior. The vast numbers of people whose prairie crops of Golden Grain wave over countless hundreds of miles of land whereon it is impossible to grow fruit, possess both the appetite and the means where with to satisfy same; and in the near future the fruit eating desire of a population of twenty millions of prosperous citizens of the great Northwest, will have to be satisfied by the products of B.C. Interior fruit ranches and orchards.

AGRICULTURE.

But fruit growing is anly one of the varied methods of wresting wealth from B.C. valley soils. As the operations of the lumbermen take off one valuable crop of produce, they are succeeded by the mixed farmer, who tears out the stumps of the forest-growths, and re plants the products of the market garden and mixed farm The same insatiable market which gapes open for the products of the orchard, is waiting to swallow up the produce of the celery and tomatoe field, the potato row, and the cabbage patch. In the same manner as the present day smiling fields and pastures of Old Ontario were hewn out of the wilderness of but three short generations agone, so shall the fertile valleys and hillsides of British Columbia blossom as the rose under the efforts of a race of pioneers and agriculturists, before whose labors, backed by resources of science and money, unavailable to their forefathers of the Empire Loyalists, the terrors of the western wilds are even now and before our eyes, being replaced by the bounteous peace and plenty of a highly cultivated land.

TIMBER

In spite of every advantage of soil and climate which will bring the agriculturists in his tens of thousands in to our fertile valleys, there will always remain throughout the Interior of British Columbia, large areas of timbered land, and which, under the careful systems of reforestration, and protection now being introduced by the government, will stand for all time to come, among the greatest timber producing areas in the civilized world. There is scarcely a prominent business man of Revelstoke, or any other interior town, who has not in the past made large sums of money and aided the development of the country, by helping in some manner to get this timber out to the waiting markets, and in the future as in the past, ten millions of dollars will be gained by the wide-awake lumbermen, workers and dealers of these districts, through the legitimate exploitation of the timber wealth of our great province.

CITY OF REVELSTOKE.

Go where you will, you will find no better located point for the site of a city than Revelstoke. It is as nearly as possible in the centre of that great section of British Columbia extending for a length of 350 miles between the Crow's Nest and B.C. Southern railway systems to the south and the routes of the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Northern railways to the north.

Prettily situated on the Columbia river where it is crossed by the main line of the Canadian Pacific railway, it is also the junction with the main line of the Arrowhead and Kootenay Railway, which connects with the palatial steamers of the C.P.R. on the Arrow Lakes, and with the B.C. Southern, Columbia and Western, Crow's Nest Pass and Great Northern Railway systems to the south.

As the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Northern railways to the north proceeds, and these systems become extended into the Canoe River valley and the territory tributary to the Big Bend of the Columbia, they must seek connections with the south, and Revelstoke will be the point of junctions of the railway systems of the future with those of today as they traverse the great valleys which radiate east and west, north and south from this city as their common centre.

RAILWAY DEVELOPMENT

As proof of the gigantic plans for railway development centering on Revelstoke as a great strategetical transportation centre, the Canadian Pacific system, Canada's premier transcontinental route, have voted the sum of $10,000,000 to be expended during the year 1913 to 1918 in double tracking their mainline from Calgary to Revelstoke and Vancouver, this gigantic work involving the building of a tunnel under the mighty Selkirks, the rebuilding of the big steel bridge across the Columbia at Revelstoke, and the laying of an additional set of steel through the entire mountain section. During the progress of this work, for five years now commenced, Revelstoke will be the centre and pay station, whence most of the supplies will be distributed to the tunnel gangs and where the wage bill of approximately $12,800,000 will be disbursed and circulated

COLUMBIA RIVER NAVIGATION.

In addition to these vast schemes of railway development, another project of International importance has recently been commenced, being nothing less than the rendering suitable for navigation of the world's Seventh largest river for the entire distance from Revelstoke to the Pacific ocean at Portland Oregon. The U.S. government have already spent $5,000,000 in work on the lower Columbia, and the Dominion Treasury, at the last Ottawa session, voted a sum of $20,000 to pay the expenses of a survey and hydrographical investigation, which is now actually at work making a complete chart of the upper river from Revelstoke to the International Line. It is proposed to provide a ten foot channel from Revelstoke down the mighty artery of the Columbia along which a cheapest easiest and natural traffic highway of the West, the timber and minerals of B.C., and the wheat of the Northwest, could be floated at a minimum of cost and labor, via Portland to the Pacific ocean. This route has already received the unanimous backing of the Producers and Merchants of Alberta, as voiced in their resolution at the recent "Panama Grain Route" convention in the City of Calgary when the Columbia River Grain Route was officially recognised as a coming factor in the transportation situation of North America.

INDUSTRIAL POSSIBILITIES

While Revelstoke thus occupies an exceptionally strong position as a traffic emporium, its outlook is still brighter from an industrial and manufacturing point of view. There are 1,800 miles of timber on the Columbia river and its tributaries north of the city. The expenditure involved in the conversion of this timber into a marketable product will not fall far short of $275,000,000.

Water power is plentiful in the vicinity, the city having harnessed one stream to a capacity of 1,800 horse power, which is offered for industrial purposes at low rates.

In the valleys tributary to Revelstoke are about a quarter of a million acres of land of good quality, and which, when cleared of timber, and cultivated, is well adapted for fruit-growing, poultry farming, dairying, stock raising, and general agriculture. This land is capable of supporting a rural population of 30,000 people.

Extensive and varied mineral deposits are known to exist in the neighborhood, and await development.

Cradled amid beautiful scenes of mountain and glacier, forest-clad hill and vale, river, stream and lake; favored with an equable climate, Revelstoke is one of the most picturesquely located of Canadian cities and an ideal town in which to make a home.

It is well lighted, has a high pressure supply of pure water which can be extended to meet any future requirements, good drainage and sewerage, high class educational institutions in the way of public and high schools, a Y.M.C.A. with a well-equipped gymnasium, two public parks fair grounds, race track, magnificent summer park on Mount Revelstoke connected with the city by trail, nice homes and gardens, and in fact all the modern conveniences that go to make a town attractive from a residential point of view. (The great summer and tourist resorts of the Rocky Mountains are within a few hours reach.) Good fishing may be had in many of the adjacent streams and lakes. Hunters will find here resorts of big game with reliable guides at call.

IDEAL CLIMATE.

One of the most valuable assets of the district is its climate. It is comparatively mild, equable according to the seasons, salubrious, bright and sunshiny throughout the greater part of the year. The heat is not excessive in midsummer; the evenings are always pleasantly cool. The winters are not extreme, the temperature rarely falling below zero, and then not exceeding ten degrees below for a few days in midwinter. The natural moisture is sufficient to make irrigation unnecessary. A more bracing atmosphere it would be difficult to find.

The Government records show summer and winter ranges of temperature as follows:

Summer—July, 1909, Maximum 89 deg July 1909, Mean. 77 deg; July 1909 Minimum, 40 deg.; July, 1909, Mean 49 deg.

Winter—January, 1910, Maximum, 40 deg.; Jan. 1910, Mean, 27 deg.; Jan. 1910, Minimum, 12 below zero. Jan. 1910, Mean. 17 above zero.

Precipitation—Summer, 1910, 2.32 in. rain; Winter, 1910, 1.11 in. rain, winter, 1910, 22.20 in. snow.

The altitude of Revelstoke is 1,400 feet above sea level, and it is subject to Pacific Coast winds influence, a guarantee of moisture and mildness varied with fine and sunny weather.

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS.

Among recent developments at Revelstoke, and as additional proof of the energy and ability of its citizens and their ultimate faith in the future of this city and district, may be mentioned.

LANDS OPEN

The throwing open of the Railway belt lands to settlement, enabling bona fide homeseekers and purchasers to take up forty acre sections of the soil of glorious Kootenay, upon the most favorable terms.

SCENIC CAPITALISATION

The commencement of a unique scenic and tourist attraction, in the shape of a road to the summit of Mount Revelstoke, built expressly for automobile traffic, and giving access to the Mount Revelstoke National Park, six thousand feet high and forty-eight square miles in extent, presenting a series of magnificent views of the Great Selkirk Mountains, with snow clad peaks, ice fields, glaciers, and the wondrous Columbia River valley, said by world travelled tourists and Mountain Climbers to surpass the wildest dreams of fancy for beauty and scenic features.

CAPITAL OF CANADA'S ALPS.

In anticipation of a vast tourist traffic, which the exploitation of these scenic assets and the building of the promised C.P.R. hotel and Mount Revelstoke chalet guarantee for this city an energetic campaign of advertising and publicity has been inaugurated.

Mrs. Schafer, the world renowned descriptive writer of the Canadian West, has been engaged to prepare the manuscript of a large illustrated booklet describing the wonders of our surroundings, a strong branch of the National Travel Association is in progress of formation and with the Spring of 1914 the citizens will embark on a great publicity project, wherein these various items will be placed before the public of North America, and in which scheme the support of the C.P.R. and all its agencies, is assured. These are a few of the reasons why citizens of Revelstoke and District believe in their home city, and explain the spirit of optimism which prevades the air of Revelstoke and surrounding territory.

UNEMPLOYED PROBLEM

How it is Dealt with in Switzerland

In view of the fact that the unemployed problem is a live issue thru'out British Columbia the following interview with Mr. Robert E. Mansfield, American consul-general at Vancouver, who spent eight years in the United States consular service in Switzerland before assuming his duties in this city, will prove of interest. His residence in the mountain republic gave Mr. Mansfield an excellent opportunity to study econamic questions, and his views on the subject are therefore of value:

'In Switzerland the indigent unemployed are dealt with as an economic question," observed Mr. Mansfield. "The Swiss act upon the theory that a man who is unemployed is, if left to himself, prone to become unemployable, and that for a community to allow anyone of its members who is capable of work to remain unemployed is a public waste for the reason that as soon as he becomes a subject of charity he is a tax upon the community, which has to support not only the individual but also those dependent upon him. The purpose is to assist the unfortunate unemployed to secure work not only for the sake of the individual, but also in the interests of the state; to prevent his becoming a tax upon the community instead of a source of income—a consumer instead of a producer.

COMPULSORY INDUSTRY

"In inductrial Switzerland there is no place for the idle. It is considered the duty of the authorities to assist, in every way possible, persons honestly seeking employment, and it is also held to be their duty to punish the work shirker and to force him to earn his bread before he may eat it. No toleration is shown to the loafer begging is prohibited by law, and vagrancy is classified as a crime in the legal code of the confederation.

"A man may not deliberately join the army of the unemployed and remain indefinitely in the ranks without even making an effort to secure employment, and in the interval be constantly deteriorating into an unemployable. There is no restoring to charitable institutions no wandering about the country extorting aims from honest people while pretending to be in search of employment.

"An unemployed person must make a serious effort to find work. If he does not, the authorities will find it for him and of a kind that may not be of his liking, and he is compelled to perform the work assigned to him If he refuses he is placed in the workhouse, where military discipline is maintained and where every inmate is required to work to the full capacity of his strength, for which he receives as compensation his board and lodging with wages ranging from 3 to 10 cents per day. His stay in the institution depends upon his conduct and during his forced employment the state makes a profit on his labor, as most of the institutions of this character are so well managed that they are sources of income instead of expense to the Cantons to which they belong.

THE UNEMPLOYED CLASSIFIED

"The unemployed by casualty or misfortune are not classified with those whose employment is due to lack of industry or misfortune. As a matter of justice and of government policy an effort is made to distinguish between the two classes, so that each may be dealt with according to its merits.

"The man who is unemployed because of dissipation, incompetency or because he does not want to work, is treated as a criminal and sent to a penal institution, whereas the man who is out of work in spite of an honest endeavor to secure honorable employment, is assisted without being subjected to penal servitude or humiliation of any kind whatever.

"In some of the Cantons of Switzerland there is in operation a system of insurance against unemployment, in which persons who contribute a certain sum per month, or by the year, are guaranteed employment or paid a weekly indemnity for the time they are actually out of work. In the latter case it is necessary for the insured to show that his unemployment is not his own fault.

"This plan of insurance has never become general or popular, however, as it involves many details which make it difficult for the beneficiaries to secure the payment of the benefits prescribed.

"The Swiss law, making insurance against sickness and accident compulsory on the part of the employees in industrial institutions obviates the necessity for public charity in the majority of instances where wage-earners are deprived of their income by reason of illness or accident. Under the compulsory insurance act the expense is divided between the employer and the insured.

"This system is considered generally satisfactory, as the workpeople feel more secure and are more contented in their employment. There are other systems by which employers or employees can protect themselves against the expense of medical treatment and supplies in case of sickness or accident. By the payment of a small annual fee to the society for the protection of domestic servants that organization will assume the responsibility for the care and treatment of those enrolled upon its records.

"There are several institutions in Switzerland where employment is furnished to deserving persons who have been unfortunate and who, through no fault of their own, are temporarily out of work, where their stay is voluntary and where, in addition to comfortable accommodations and good, plain food, they receive some compensation for their labor.

"About twenty-five years ago employment agencies were first established in the important industrial centres of Switzerland. Municipal interest was soon shown in these institutions and by 1900 several of the larger cities, including Zurich, Geneva, Berne, etc., operated municipal employment bureaus. In March, 1910, these official institutions were united into a national organization subsidized by the federal government, called the Swiss Bureau of Employment, with head offices at Zurich.

"It will thus be seen that the undertaking of supplying the needy unemployed with work has practically passed into the hands of the federal government. In Switzerland immense mutual benefit is secured by this consolidation of employment agencies, such as the interchange of information in regard to the work market, co-operation with private agencies, and the special employment offices of labor unions, and the furnishing of statistical information."

SIR RICHARD McBRIDE

High Commissioner ?

Ottawa, April 7—Premier Borden and his colleagues one and all decline to discuss at the present time the matter of the appointment of a successor to the late Lord Strathcona as high commissioner in London more than to say that the post is not yet filled.

It is understood that no final decision in regard to the matter will be reached until after the conclusion of the present session. Since the visit of Sir Richard McBride to Ottawa the impression has been growing that the British Columbia premier is quite likely to go to London. Many of the names which have been mentioned as possible successors can be eliminated. For instance, neither Hon Adam Beck nor Sir Edmund Osler have any desire to leave Canada. The same can probably be said of Hon. Robert Rogers, Hon. Geo. Perley and Hon. G.E. Foster.

This reduces the list materially and makes it practically certain that if Sir Richard will accept the position he will be Lord Strathcona's successor. It is agreed here by everybody that the choice of Sir Richard would be a wise one and that while British Columbia would lose his valuable services in a measure, the Dominion as a whole would stand to benefit by the presence of Sir Richard in London.

Since leaving Ottawa several days ago, Sir Richard went to Washington where he called on President Wilson and Hon. Franklin K. Lane and then went to New York. It is his intention to leave again immediately for Vancouver.

August Belmont of New York, is a great financier. He has a son, Raymond Belmont. New York divorce proceedings show that young Belmont squandered $110,000 in four years on Ethel Loraine before he married her. She was a show girl; he was a stage-door Johnnie. Now this golden fleece hunter wants a large slice of the Belmont fortune.

RACED WITH DEATH

Robert Bunt, a Canadian Pacific Railway engineer, had one leg cut off and the other crushed at 4 o'clock Sunday morning at North Bend, when he tried to cross a track by crawling between freight cars. Bunt had just come in from a run and after housing his locomotive was crossing the yards when he was caught and injured.

A special train was made up consisting of a locomotive and caboose and there commenced a race with death which established a new speed record through the Fraser canyon. Three hours and ten minutes after leaving North Bend Bunt was being tenderly carried off the train at Kamloops, where his home was, after a remarkable trip of 140 miles. Though delayed by a stop at Lytton where a surgeon was taken aboard, the little special did better than forty-five miles an hour.

A short time after the injured man had arrived at Kamloops hospital he died. He was about 50 years of age a native of the Orkney Islands and unmarried.

Budget Speech

The main features of the budget speech delivered by Hon. T.W. White in the house yesterday are that the government has decided not to accept the American offer of free wheat and flour.

The duty on rolled iron and steel beams weighing up to 120 pounds, has been raised.

Duty has been placed on wire rods which are now free, with drawbacks on wire used in the manufacture of fences for farmers.

Charcoal for making pig iron and bituminous coal for smelting have been placed on the free list. The duty on harvesters and reapers has been reduced from 17½ to 12½ per cent.

No change has been made in regard to other agricultural implements.

SACRED CONCERT

The program, printed elsewhere in this issue, of Miss Parker's arrangements for the sacred concert on Good Friday evening, promises a delightful evening. There is a wide variety in the selections, both in theme and setting, and the quality of the music leaves nothing to be desired.

Every person that has an interest in the best the musical world has to offer should make an effort to be present, the names of the artistes ensure that the numbers 6will be efficiently rendered and Miss Parker is an host in herself. The concert takes place in the Masonic Hall, admission being 75 cents and 50 cents.

The McAulay Fund

William McAuley, the man who was so sorely injured on March 23rd near Rogers' Pass as the result of being run over, is progressing favorably in the Revelstoke hospital.

Mr. H.F. Dings has banked $55 in a trust account on McAuley's behalf and is still receiving subscriptions to the relief fund which we commended to our readers in our last issue.

McAuley has been provided with a new outfit to meet his pressing needs and the fund being raised on his behalf is at present in charge of Mr. Dings.

We shall publish later a list of subscriptions received at the town offices.

At the Empress

Edna Morgan, of Atlantic City, promises rash acts of daring for the sake of Warren Kerrigan. She makes but one stipulation—a fortunate one:

This is what I would do for Warren Kerrigan:—

I'd sigh for him, I'd die for him,
I'd drink Big Muddy dry for him,
I'd weep for him, I'd leap for him,
I'd go without my sleep for him,
I'd fight for him, I'd bite for him,
I'd walk the streets all night for him,
I'd kneel for him, I'd steal for him
Such is the love Ifeel for him.
I'd slide for him, I'd glide for him
I'd swim 'gainst wind and tide for him,
I'd try for him, I'd cry for him,
But—hang me if I'd die for him—
Or any other man!

Warren Kerrigan is playing at the Empress theatre his standing in the Great Artists contest is second on the list with 63,270, with 25 more votes sent in by some of his Revelstoke lady admirers. Kerrigan will be shown on Monday next, In the Barriers of Bars.
