REVELSTOKE SASH AND DOOR FACTORY COMPLETELY DESTROYED BY FIRE

Loss Estimated at Twenty Thousand Dollars, With Insurance of Ten Thousand Two Hundred Dollars—Fierce Blaze Sweeps Through Building—Electricity Supposed to be Cause of Disastrous Fire Last Night

A spectacular fire last night laid in ruins the building and plant of the Revelstoke Sash & Door factory at the corner of Connaught and Third streets. The factory was owned by O. W. Abrahamson, and with the exception of a few tools, sashes and doors and a sander is a total loss. Nothing but the charred front wall of the building remain. The loss is estimated at $20,000, with insurance of $10,200. The cause of the fire is supposed to be due to electric wiring.

The fire was first noticed at 9.25 p. m., in the north east corner of the building by E. G. Burridge who lives opposite. He immediately sent in an alarm from box 17 at the corner of Third street and Campbell avenue and the fire brigade was speedily on the scene.

When the brigade arrived the fire seemed to be confined to the north east corner of the building. Water speedily played upon the seat of the blaze and the flames seemed momentarily to be quenched. Billows of smoke poured from the building, but no flames could be seen and "they have got it out" was the exclamation that could be frequently heard from the large crowd which had quickly gathered.

It was soon seen that the hope was vain and that nothing could save the building, filled as it was with dry and highly inflammable material. The clouds of smoke grew denser and rolled from the roof and from every window. Flames began to appear, and soon the entire rear of the building, where the lumber was stored, became a raging furnace of flame. The heat was intense and the building was quickly a mass of flames. The firemen strove valiently but were powerless against the fierce fire which swept from the back throughout the building.

It was impossible to save any considerable amount of the contents but the spectators carried out what tools they could lay their hands on and some manufactured sashes and doors. The stable and warehouse belonging to R. Howson & Co., a few feet to the west of the blazing building was in serious danger and was hurriedly emptied. The horses were taken out and furniture, rigs and hay were piled on the street. The firemen kept the building drenched with water and notwithstanding the intense heat which converted the water into clouds of steam the building was saved.

Lumber and shingles piled in the yard at the rear of the sash and door factory was also saved although they smoked from the intense heat of the burning building. A cement mixer near the south end of the building also escaped serious injury. The evening was calm and the smoke and sparks mounted upwards. Had a wind blown from the south nothing could have saved the Howson building and the Revelstoke Wine & Spirit company's warehouse could hardly have escaped destruction.

The insurance is as follows:

Fidelity Phoenix, Dominion Securities, agents, $1,200.

California, Dominion Securities, agents, $3,000.

Queen, Revelstoke General Agencies, agents, $1,500.

National, Revelstoke General Agencies, agent, $1,500.

Sun, Revelstoke General Agencies, agents, $1,000.

Union, H. N. Coursier, agent, $2000

Total $10,200.

The factory was one of the most complete of its kind in the interior. The building which had been recently enlarged was spacious, and equipped with all the latest machinery. The old high school, which was built by Mr. Abrahamson 15 years ago, was purchased by him last year and moved to the factory site where it had been converted into a spacious and well lighted carpenter's shop, glazing shop and office. The land at the rear of the buildings had been levelled and fenced and was used as a lumber yard, while inside the building was ample storage accommodation for the finer brands of lumber.

Among the machinery destroyed was a new moulder which would make any mould required and which was equipped with a 30 horse power electric motor, a panel raiser, joiner, surfacer, reciprocating mortiser, chain mortiser, elbow sander, turning lathe, moulder, tenoner, dado and boring machines, heavy clamp, light clamp, mitre trimmer, band saw, forge electric hoist. The factory turned out excellent work which was known throughout the interior. F. W. Wiffin has been foreman for the past five years.

By a curious coincidence the last fire in Revelstoke, on Aug. 20, destroyed the mill and machinery and lumber of Sawyer Bros. stave mill.

Dolls Are Given for Red Cross Society

The regular meeting of the Red Cross society was held at the Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday, October 20, Mrs. T. Kilpatrick the president, in the chair. The attendance was good and each one came with work or for some to take away. There are many knitting needles out that are not being used and the society would be glad if any one having them would return them if not possible to use them any longer. There are quite a number ready to do knitting and there are no needles for them. An appeal sent out for the British Red Cross to the people of Canada, to raise a fund on Trafalgar day for wounded soldiers and sailors was received and dealt with. The sum of $25 was given from the money on hand. The fact that on entertaining the Australian cadets last week no meeting was held, gave very short notice to arrange a special fund for that day. An appeal for funds for the Canadian soldiers' Christmas was received and Mrs. McCarter offered the use of her home for a tea to be given on Saturday, Oct. 23rd, for the purpose. Mrs. Holten will be hostess with Mrs. McCarter. A collection will be taken, tea will be served and a sale of home cooking and candy.

The Red Cross ladies mark every piece with the name of Revelstoke on it and this is the first time it has been acknowledged from the war zone.

Mrs. Pratt has donated 3 dolls on which tickets will be sold and a drawing to take place at a date announced later; she has also offered her home for a tea to be given in December. Mrs. Foote and Mrs. Corning have also offered their homes. Mrs. J. L. Smith sent in her monthly donation of $2. The society would be glad if others would take up this systematic way of giving; it matters not how large or small it may be, it will be gratefully acknowledged. The material on hand for convalescent shoes is about exhausted and the society would be glad to receive material, old or new, for this branch of the work.

The annual meeting will be held on Wednesday, November 3, when there will be an election of officers for the following year. Reports from the officers will be read and the amount of money read and work done will be given.

The following articles were received October 13: Mrs. Blacklock, Mrs. Goble, Miss Wadman, Miss Sophie Turk, Mrs. Moran, Miss E. Corson, Mrs. Glaspie, 1 pair socks each; Mrs. H. Manning, Mrs. Flockhart, 2 pair socks each; Mrs. Roberts, Ferguson, B. C., 4 pair socks. Received October 20: Mrs. F. Payne, Mrs. H. M. Needham, Mrs. Corkill, Mrs. H. W. Wood, Mrs. Bradshaw, Miss Helen Bradshaw, age 12, Mrs. Hogan, Mrs. Downs, Mrs. J. C. English, Mrs. H. Cook, Mrs. Kilpatrick, Miss Simmonds, Miss Wadman, Mrs. Urquhart Mrs. Kinney, Mrs. Falk, Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Atkins, Mrs. Purvis, Mrs. Pearse, Monte Creek, B. C., 1 pair socks each; Mrs. Lewis, Wigwam B. C., Mrs. T. Sturdy, Mrs. McLaughlin, Mrs. Skene, Mrs. Joliffe, Grandma Downs, Mrs. T. C. Little, 2 pair socks each; Mrs. Kincaid, 3 pair socks; Mrs. Wells, 6 pair socks; Mrs. Pagdin, 8 pair socks.

Troops Must Not be Billeted in Hotels—Winter Quarters for Recruits

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—The announcement from the militia department that towns and villages recruiting up to a minimum of 25 men will be allowed to quarter the men so raised during the winter until such time as they are required, has met with a wonderful response. Towns and villages from all parts of the Dominion have wired or written expressing their confidence that numbers far exceeding the minimum set can be raised and billeted within their respective limits.

"It is the greatest idea yet," said General Hughes this morning. "The response has been tremendous."

The following circular message is being sent to such localities as have been heard from."

"Your village in common with every other centre, large and small in the Dominion of Canada, will be allowed to retain within its own borders until the needs of the cause require their removal all troops over a minimum number of twentyfive who pass the strict medical examination, are of good character, and are otherwise acceptable, raised after this date. These men may not be billeted or boarded in any place where liquor of any kind is sold. While we have every faith that the soldiers everywhere in Canada will as in the past conduct themselves as gentlemen and that the citizens in each locality will establish high standards, yet should any place permit abuses to remain the troops will be promptly removed. Already in some localities both the citizens and the soldiers are establishing systems of their own for getting rid of all improper characters. I appreciate very highly the splendid spirit of Kamloops. (Signed) Sam Hughes."

RECRUITING MEETING FOR FIFTY-FOURTH OPPOSITE CITY HALL THIS EVENING

A recruiting meeting on behalf of the 54th battalion will be held this evening at the corner of Second street and McKenzie avenue, opposite the city hall. The speakers will be Capt. W. Neilson, adjutant of the 54th battalion, Mayor W. A. Foote and Capt. J. H. Hamilton, M. D., 54th battalion. The city band will enliven the proceedings with martial music.

"There is a splendid opportunity for any who wish to get to the front without delay" says Capt. Hamilton. "The 54th battalion is at present under strength, owing to having sent away overseas drafts, and more men are needed. It is ordered that the battalion shall proceed to the front as a unit and there is every indication that it will not be long before it is in England. It is also the Kootenay battalion, which many Revelstoke men have joined, and any who are thinking of enlisting should seize the opportunity now offered," concluded Capt. Hamilton.

Capt. Neilson and Capt. Hamilton arrived in Revelstoke last night and expect to return to Vernon tomorrow.

Revelstoke Soldier in List of Missing

St. Francis Whist Drive is Complete Success

The whist drive given by Mrs. H. J. McSorley and Mrs. McGinnis in St. Francis' hall on Wednesday evening proved a decided success both from a financial and social standpoint. About $40.00 was realized. The first prize for ladies was won by Mrs. L. Howson and the first prize for men by W. Neary. Mr. Neary and K. G. McRae had the same score Mr. Neary winning the cut. The consolation prizes were won by Mrs. E. Jackson and L. Howson. After the cards dancing and dainty refreshments were the order of the evening. Several numbers on the piano were given by Mrs. L. Howson and Miss Ginn. About 60 people were present and all agreed that it was one of the most successful evenings of the season.

Successful Sale Held by Women's Auxiliary

In spite of continuous rain throughout the afternoon on Tuesday last, one of the prettiest and most successful teas in the history of the Woman's Auxiliary was held at the rectory of St. Peter's church. On that occasion the rectory was generously thrown open by Mrs. Procunier to the Woman's auxiliary and its friends A large number attended and each received a cordial welcome for the unwritten motto of the rectory is 'Tibi splendet focus'—for you the hearthfire glows. The decorations were particularly pretty. The hall, where Mrs. Procunier received, was banked with beautiful green shrubs. The drawing room, where a tempting culinary table was arranged, was decorated with pink carnations, while the dining room was bright with beautiful scarlet carnations. Here the ladies and young girls were busy serving tea and coffee during the afternoon. But perhaps the busiest place of all was the library, where the apron table did a rushing business and rolled up a splendid sum of money. Much enjoyment of the afternoon was contributed by the Couche orchestra who generously gave their services. Their numbers gave great pleasure as did also the vocal selections pleasingly rendered by Miss Ginn and Mrs. Goddard. To these, and to the ladies of St. Peter's church in co-operation with the members of the W. A. and all friends who so generously patronized the sale and tea the Woman's auxiliary extend hearty thanks.

FIRST GAME IN LEAGUE

Bowling Schedule for Season Drawn Up—Business Men Win First Game

The Y.M.C.A. bowling alleys are now running full swing, and with the first league game bowled off on Wednesday evening. Good scoring was the order of the evening. The C.P.R. were matched against the Business men, but the former team played at a great disadvantage in not having its regular five men lined up. W. Wood was high man for the Railroaders, averaging 159 pins for the three games, but the support from the other players was unusually weak, with the result that the Business men carried off the three straight games. The latter aggregation as can be seen from the score sheet made a good showing C. Somerville being high the second game, and an average of 179 for the three games. The score was as follows:

A WELCOME DECISION

The decision of the minister of militia that recruits enlisting during the winter months shall receive their preliminary training at the centres at which they enlist where not less than twenty-five volunteers are available, will be very welcome. Efficiency should be the first consideration. There is not a town in Canada that would seek to retain for a day its recruits for active service, if by doing so their efficiency were lessened or their training handicapped. The war is too vital to permit local considerations to place a drag upon the wheels of military progress, but, if, as is apparently the case, training during the winter months can be as effectively obtained at the smaller centres as in great cities or camps, the decision of the minister of militia will be warmly commended. The war has been a severe drain upon the men and resources of Revelstoke and of similar cities, and training centres at such points during the winter will be much appreciated.

MR. CARVELL'S CRITICISM

It is amusing to read the comments of F. B. Carvell, M.P., for Carleton, N. B., on the investigations into military purchases in Canada by the commission presided over by Sir Charles Davidson. Mr. Carvell makes the prediction that "the Tory government intends to permit no more graft investigation and will endeavor to put the lid on tight" and he intimates that he will criticise the work of the Davidson commission "when the report comes in."

Mr. Carvell is known to fame. It was he who slandered Canadians who are now fighting for the empire by declaring that "all you get in the militia of Canada is that you teach about 25 per cent. of the men in Canada how to get drunk," and by the statement that the militia is a different kind of organization to what it was "if it helps anybody's morals, manners or religion." But it must be admitted that Mr. Carvell is an authority, of a kind, on investigation into graft. With E. M. Macdonald and A. K. Maclean he led the notorious "dark lantern brigade," whose activities stifled enquiry into wrong doing under the Laurier administration. By interposing every conceivable technicality and objection, and backed by the party majority, the brigade succeeded in making the investigations of the public accounts committee a farce. The sawdust wharf deal, the Merwin case, the timber berths scandal, and the refusal to permit investigation into the Lumsden and Hodgins charges in connection with the National Transcontinental railway are instances of the manner in which wrongdoing was hushed up under the last administration. Mr. Carvell who defended these scandals and who was not at all perturbed when a Liberal government supplied dog biscuits to the Canadian troops in South Africa in place of emergency rations criticises the present investigations. He is convinced that later on "the lid will be put on tight." He does not appear to realize that a new and honest system has taken the place of the methods that prevailed a few years ago.

The investigations into military contracts have given no satisfaction to Mr. Carvell and his friends. They hoped that some discredit might attach to the Borden government, but Mr. Borden has shown that the government will do all in its power to eradicate graft, great or small. When a Conservative member of parliament became indirectly connected with a sale to the government of surgical dressings Mr. Borden's action drove him from the house of commons and forced him to make restitution. Similar action was taken in the case of another Conservative member who was connected with a purchase of horses by which the country was defrauded. Every other contract is being probed with the utmost rigor and under the light of the fullest publicity. So far as the government is concerned no graft will be tolerated. Many Liberals give the government due credit for its sincere desire to honestly protect the public interest. Mr. Carvell evidently cannot bring himself to believe that the whitewashing methods he and his friends championed are really finally discarded, but if he possessed a sense of humor he would surely appreciate the fact that he, at least, should be silent if he cannot commend the new methods of investigation now in vogue.

FROM THE SANCTUMS

MAKE THEM FEEL AT HOME.

Toronto Mail & Empire: The people of Canada must resolve themselves into a permanent Committee of the Whole to deal with the question of returning soldiers. The Dominion government can be trusted to do all that is in the reasonable power of a government to do in the premises, but it must have the co-operation of the several provincial governments, which in turn must have the loyal assistance of the municipal governments, and every citizen who has stayed at home must be the friend of the men back from the front.

SAVING DAYLIGHT

Toronto Telegram—Canada of all countries in the world should be the first to change the present system of dividing the day between hours of labor and hours of leisure. Daylight labor is scoffed at as an ad. Move the end of the working day one hour nearer sunrise and the change would add a month to the life of the Ontario summers. The departure of summer is proclaimed in Ontario not by the disappearance of the warm weather from the days, but by the disappearance of daylight from the evenings. September is endured for the first of the autumn months. September might be enjoyed for the last of the summer months. Let the clocks be moved on an hour.

AT THE THEATRES

"The Pretty Sister of Josie" produced by the Famous Players, with Marguerite Clark as Pepita is a beautiful picture, perhaps the most beautiful picture in which Miss Clark has appeared. It gratifies the eye in every scene, it reaches the sympathies, it satisfies a desire for a logically balanced romantic story and it offers some uncommonly fine acting. In all but the forgotten atage play, Maude Adams was the first to act the fascinating Pepita, the central figure in Frances Hodgson Burnett's portrayal of emotional people to whom love and life are synomymous.

Whether the first appeal in "The Pretty Sister of Jose" be attributed to the sympathetic personality of Miss Clark, or to the artistic tone and superior quality of the production in its entirety, is of small consequence. Everything is made to harmonise in the creation of a completely artistic picture, dramatic without becoming melodramatic, human, charming and occasionally humorous. The director displayed a nice judgment in his variation of scenes, running from tragedy to light comedy, all having a legitimate place in the story's progress, and natural to the characters. There is humor in Pepita's flouting of Sebastiano, also in Jose's mock bullfight with a goat for a bull, and there is tragedy in the girl's final capitulation at the bedside of her dying sweetheart.

How well Jack Pickford is developing as a mature actor is shown in his playing of Jose on Tuesday at the Empress theatre.

Government Team Defeated by Fire Hall

Last evening on the Y.M.C.A. alleys the second game of the league was bowled off, when the government team went down to defeat in three straight games against the Fire Hall The latter aggregation put up a great game all the way through, although McLeod met with hard luck in the second game, rolling perfect balls in almost every frame and only netting the small score of 94. Bezley was high man with 242, made by eight strikes and two spares, his average for three games being 189.

On Monday night at 8 o'clock the Bankers clash with the Board of Directors in the third game of the series.

Marry Maimed Heroes British Rector Urges

The Rev. Ernest Houghton, a Bristol rector, has started an appeal to patriotic women of the nation, to give their lives to ameliorate the condition of maimed heroes of the war by marrying them. He has launched a "League for the Marrying of Broken Heroes."

The rector contends that the example of France shows that unions thus arranged promise a greater percentage of happiness than is customary from the methods in England because they are based upon a high degree of unselfishness.

Strict secrecy is promised as to the women prepared to sacrifice themselves, after the plan of the league, until the arrangements for their marriage are complete.

Two days campaign in Sault Ste. Marie and Steelton brought in more than $70,000 for the Canadian Patriotic and Red Cross funds.

GILLETT'S EATS LYE DIRT CLEANS-DISINFECTS

GILDED YOUTH SPENDS FIFTEEN HUNDRED DOLLARS A WEEK AT BANFF

"You," said the secretary, impressively, as he ushered the Calgary newspaperman into the suite de luxe of the Alexandra hotel, "are the first stranger in three days and the first press man who has ever been permitted to interview Mr. Readon." He pronounced the name 'Reardon,' but explained carefully that it was spelled "Readon."

The reporter swallowed his embarrassment and adjusted his necktie. He was about to be ushered into the presence of the young man known variously as the Gilded Youth, the Millionaire Kid, and the Boy who put the B in Banff. All summer stories of the marvellous spending habits of the Millionaire Kid—he rather favors this title—have filtered down from Banff in one form or another.

The human cash box who for the past summer has turned the humdrum mountain resort life of Banff into a mad vortex of metropolitan high life, the man who was king of all he surveyed and all that was on sale from the C.P.R. hotel to the hot springs, had finally packed all his belongings, his secretaries and under secretaries, his Scotland Yard man who acts as a personal guard, his personal barber and personal bartender, and personal chauffeur, bellboys and others and come to Calgary seeking further excitement and amusment.

The newspaperman was ushered into The Presence. He shook hands with a handsome youth, above the medium height, dressed quietly in a suit of some neutral shade of brown, wearing a soft silk collar and a cravat of a dark shade without a tiepin or jewelry of any sort. It was hard to reconcile this young man with the black hair parted in the middle, the dark brown eyes, olive complexion and regular features with the pictures of the dazzling splendor who demands music at all times—when arising, while shaving, eating, and going on fishing trips.

While the secretary, who was introduced as Mr. A. Metcalfe, rang for a bellboy—incidentally, the bellboy appeared with a startling suddenness that indicated constant attendance just outside the threshhold—the newspaperman explained his errand.

He was put at ease instantly.

"Certainly," said the secretary, "just ask me anything you want to know about Mr. Reardon. I handle his financial affairs for him. And, by the way, can you suggest anything first for a little entertainment? We have thought of hiring the sight-seeing car of Calgary and a band to make a little tour of the city.

"The town's pretty dead just now" suggested the reporter. "Why not hire all the hearses and hacks with a band and bury it?"

"Excellent, Excellent; anything else?"

"Well, you might get two bulls from P. Burns yard and have a bull fight with some local toreadors."

"Fine, fine; would the police let us do it?"

The drinks having arrived, the healths of the Millionaire Kid, the secretary, the detective and others of the retinue were drunk and details of the proposed entertainments discussed Among other things, it was explained that while The Presence, Himself, considers it a portion of his dignity to never go beyond a certain line of sobriety, the secretaries and staff are pretty good fellows.

The duty of the chief secretary is to arrange entertainments and provide suitable humorous stories when gloom appears to be settling down.

"Now," said the reporter, having consumed the sixth Scotch, "how about this story that Mr. Reardon's income is $80,000 per year and he spends $79,500 of it."

"Well," said the secretary, impressively, "Mr. Reardon's income is $1500 a week. You can figure it up for yourself."

"And we spend it all," corrected Mr. Reardon.

The secretary explained that Mr. Reardon is an Englishman and it was made plain that Reardon is his incognito name. The name appended to cheques is said to be J. B. Jenkins, but it is considered bad taste to discuss the actual identity of the Gilded Youth. The ancestral home is somewhere outside of London, and there is a grandfather, 79 years of age, owner of coal mines in Wales, who is the next of kin.

"It's a shame," said the Presence, "to make jokes about the old man's age and what will happen to his millions when he dies. Some of the boys will do it, however."

There is no other brother, as reputed, "but," remarked Mr. Reardon, "I have a sister."

"Tell him of our trip to Lake Louise," commanded His Highness.

The secretary proceeded with a tale of securing a private dining car from the C.P.R., a band, and collecting a large party of bellboys and others to attend the annual dance given for the hotel bellboys and employees at Lake Louise. There was much singing of "This is the life," a large dinner, and wine.

"We drank 45 quart bottles of champagne," said the secretary.

"Excuse me, 54 bottles," interrupted His Highness. "The manager of the hotel was slightly annoyed because all his help were intoxicated. Of course, when I arise at 8 o'clock, I always insist on music, but that morning we had considerable difficulty arousing the orchestra to their duties. It was somewhat amusing listening to them trying to play 'I want to go back to Michigan,' under the circumstances."

It seems that there has been considerable difficulty in securing a continuous and uninterrupted flow of music. For one thing, the players occasionally get tired out and have to snatch a little sleep. Then, again, they will commit social solecisms, as when the drummer, having taken an enormous number of telescopic observations through the bottom of a champagne glass, sat down on, or through, the drum and the violinist got the bow inextricably tangled up with the strings.

One of the advance stories from Banff was how the Millionaire Kid, afflicted with ennui, had summoned together the population of the town and set fire to his six-cylinder automobile for their amusement. It was explained, however, that this is a libel, the bonfire of the automobile having been entirely accidental. Transportation was not interrupted, however, as another motor was secured at once.

There was one story of a hunting trip. The retinue included a French chef and a bartender.

"It wastes time, to mix the drinks ourselves," explained the secretary. The hunters, it seems, had pretty good luck, as Mr. Reardon is a good shot and secured quite a bag of mountain sheep and bear. Unfortunately, the liquid refreshments gave out on Thursday, whereas they had planned to remain until Saturday, and it was necessary to make a quick trip back to Banff.

"At one point," said the secretary, "they told us it would take us three hours and a half to get into Banff. We made it in a little over an hour. It is wonderful how fast one can travel when he is thirsty."

"I don't know that we are very popular with the theatrical managers," explained the secretary, "as, on one occasion when I came to Calgary to secure a number of young ladies for our show, I took fifteen up with me. They all rode on top the back going up to the hotels, and you should have seen the procession. The manager says now that they have such swelled heads that he can't do anything with them."

"Do we take an orchestra with us on our fishing trips? Why, of course; didn't you know that. It makes fishing ever so much easier."

At this moment one of the body guard who had been introduced as Mr. Neville, stepped into the other room to confer with another one of the staff. The newspaperman chanced to ask just then:

"I understand that you have a detective as a personal bodyguard?"

'Sh-h, sh-h," whispered The Presence, laying a finger over his mouth and indicating Neville in the next room with his other hand, "say nothing."

It seems that Mr. Neville is the detective, reputed to be a Scotland Yard man.

"Our hotel bill at Banff," explained the secretary proudly, "ran from $650 to $800 per week. Altogether, we spent in Banff something like $33,-000.'-

The secretary mentioned this, not with regret, but pride, and as an illustration of the injustice, as he termed it, which caused one hotel manager in the summer resort to have the police call on Mr. Reardon in Calgary for a little bill of $1400 that had not yet been settled because he had not definitely left Banff. The secretary explained that Mr. Reardon, at the time, had two blooded horses in the stables at Banff, worth far more than the bill, which had not been forgotten.

"I think it was a surprise to them," said Reardon, "when I pulled the cash out of my pocket and paid them. They thought I would give a cheque and they would turn it down and hold me all night. It merely shows the convenience of having a little spare change in one's pockets."

"Do you usually carry around that much?" queried the newspaperman.

"Oh, yes, $4,000 or $5000 for emergencies," explained the secretary.

Rumor has it that the Millionaire Kid and his retinue are soon to depart. Questioned on this score Mr. Reardon said that he is going out for a little visit with former Lieutenant Governor Dunsmuir, of British Columbia, but expects to return soon to Calgary.

Today, The Presence, and his retinue, are going out for a little duck shooting. They were out looking for some chicken shooting on Thursday, and his staff told with elation of the wonderful shot made by the Millionaire kid when he bagged a Hungarian pheasant, which flew up in front of their automobile while they were travelling thirty miles an hour.

"He shot right between my head and the chauffeur's," said the detective proudly, "bang! just like that. Nearly scared me to death, but he got the bird.'-

Asked his age Mr. Reardon replied: "You can tell everybody that I am 22 years old on December 4 next, and as a parting shot he added, and tell them all to send me presents."

Former Rector Expounds Ideals of Club

Speaking to the members of the Womens' Canadian club on "Ideals of a Canadian Club," Dr. Paget, dean of Calgary, said that Revelstoke was very dear to him on account of associations, as he had at one time been rector of the church here.. He was very glad to see a Canadian club formed here, and he believed it was a step forward. He said it would be a nucleus for any kind of public work, as it is often very difficult to get a good public work done without some sort of an organization of this kind to start it. He then spoke of being present at the birth of both the mens' and Womens' Canadian clubs of Calgary and had given the first address at the womens' club.

In taking up the topic Dr. Paget spoke in part as follows:

"The aim of the Canadian club is to foster patriotism, to encourage the study of the institutions, history, arts, literature and resources of Canada, and to unite Canadians in such work for the welfare and progress of the Dominion as may be desirable and expedient. Taking the first phase "to foster patriotism," that is to give an unselfish love and devotion to our country and motherland. It is easier to cultivate this spirit in a small community than in a larger one, just as it was easier for the early Romans to be more patriotic than the members of the whole Roman empire. Horatius was a citizen of Rome, while St. Paul was a member of the whole empire. We are in the position of Paul and should have an interest in the whole British empire.

"On August 4, 1915, when war was declared, the old Motherland, grey with her years and trying to maintain peace, stooped down and picked up the gauntlet that the foe had flung at her feet. Believing that she was entering into a war of righteousness against military tyranny she called on her sons for help. Her sons came from all over the empire and rallied around the old flag. There never was a response in old Rome like it. This shows that our spirit is healthier, stronger, deeper, than it ever was. And back of this response is the home, where patriotism and its principles are instilled into our coming citizens. Our children must be taught love of home, town, province, country and also that they are members of the whole British empire. Cecil Rhodes was an example of this kind of patriotism. He was born in a country parsonage in England and at the early age of 17 went to South Africa, settling in Kimberly, a model city. Here he immassed immense wealth and obtained great influence. He used both to make Kimberly a model city. He then set to work to make South Africa a better place to live in, using all his influence to bring about kindly relations between the natives and whites, and also between British and Dutch settlers. But Cecil Rhodes never forgot the Motherland. He still remembered that he was a member of the great British empire. He was an example of splendid loyalty to home and empire, and an exponent of national patriotism. He left as a monument the Rhodes scholarships which will be of lasting benefit to the whole Anglo Saxon race.

"Now this is an age of commercialism and it is very hard to keep these high ideals of patriotism always before our children, to teach them that public service is to be chosen above private gains; to encourage young people to go into the stormy sea of public life. Not only must our children fight military tyranny, but they must fight also corruption and indifference in politics that saps the very foundation of our public life."

In closing Dr. Paget said, "If we succeed in instilling the ideal that public service is to be chosen before private gain into our children's minds, then the Canadian club will have done the country a great service."

Mrs. Robbins moved and Miss Dixon seconded that a vote of thanks be given Dr. Paget. Thanks were also voted to Mr. Couche's orchestra for rendering several splendid selections and to Mrs. W. Bews, who sang Tolsti's 'Goodbye,' very beautifully.

The Bishop of Kootenay, who has been in Eastern Canada for the past few weeks attending the general synod and conducting retreats for the clergy of different diocese, is expected to return to Vernon today.

Mr. Angus McDougal, one of the best known and popular old timers of Golden and the Columbia valley, fell dead of heart disease at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, Oct. 16, at the Russell House at Golden, where he was stopping for a few days, following several months stay in camp 6 of the Columbia River Lumber company.

In reply to a telegram from the Nelson board of trade asking that the daily Boundary train service be restored and the Arrow Lakes daily boat service, which is to be reduced to a tri-weekly service, be continued, a wire has been received from Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific railway company, stating that George Bury, vice president of the company, would arrive in Nelson yesterday and take the matter up with the representatives of the board.

For some time the city police have suspected that somebody was operating a blind pig and supplying soldiers at the camp with liquor of an inferior quality. On Saturday last Chief Clerk's suspicions were verified when he searched a shack near the creek, below the mobolization camp, and discovered a lot of raw alcohol and a quantity of flasks in which stuff purporting to be whiskey of various kinds had been placed. The occupants of the shack, J. C. Goupil and Jas. Badger were arrested and tried by police magistrate Heggie on Tuesday, when they were convicted and sentenced to one year and nine months respectively with hard labor.—Vernon News.

On Monday morning at 5 o'clock a fire of mysterious origin completely destroyed the Hotel Edgewater, located 62 miles up the Columbia valley from Golden. What was once a pretty structure is now but a charred chimney and one of the assets of the Columbia Valley Orchards, Ltd., is no more. Incidentally the Dominion Trust company, now undergoing liquidation, is short a tangible asset and another chapter is added to the series of catastrophies that encompassed that ill-fated corporation. The hotel was not as yet completed, the interior furnishings not having been put in when the Columbia Valley Orchards went into liquidation. The exterior work cost approximately $15,000, and the hotel was destined to become a tourist resort. However with the financial crash that overtook the promoters of the project, work on the building was discontinued, and since then it has been unoccupied and under the supervision of an agent.

Mrs. Jack Hume will receive on Tuesday, Oct. 26th.

A. Joost of Vancouver was at the Hotel Revelstoke on Thursday.

The C.P.R. hotels at Glacier, Banff and Lake Louise are closing down for the winter at the end of the present month.

The Rex Theatre company will take over the Rex theatre on Monday. Nothing but Mutual Masterpieces, World films and British Columbia pictures will be shown. There will be a first class orchestra.

Rev. S. S. Osterhaut, Ph. D., superintendent of Oriental missions in British Columbia for the Methodist church will preach at the Methodist church tomorrow morning at the 11 o'clock service. Rev. Lashley Hall will occupy the pulpit at night.

Mrs. Lashley Hall spoke at the Methodist church at Salmon Arm, in the interest of prohibition yesterday evening. The subjects were "The Call to Woman," and "The Coming Issue." A public meeting was held in the evening in the interests of prohibition for British Columbia.

It is rumored that one, at least, of the local sawmills, will put in logging camps this winter and cut a large supply of logs so that the mill can be put in operation early in the spring. This is good news to the people of Kamloops and district.—Kamloops Standard.

At a meeting of the Young Men's Bible class of St. John's church on Wednesday evening, it was decided to reorganize for the coming winter. The following were the officers appointed for the season.: President, W. Wood; Vice President, Geo. Matheson; Sec.-Treas., R. Chisholm; Committee, P. Blackhall, J. Little, Allan Thomson. The class meets every Sunday afternoon at 2.30 p. m., and all young men are cordially invited to be present.

The indications are that a long, hard winter is coming, with plenty of snow and cold weather and that it will commence early. The past two winters have been somewhat easy going affairs and two easy winters in succession means a hard one to follow. Additional cause for expectation of a hard winter is found in the fact that the gophers in the hills have all taken to their holes pretty early and because of an unusually warm August.—Salmon Arm Observer.

"An evening of song and story with Fanny J. Crosby, the blind poetess," will be given by an augmented choir in the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening. Such well known hymns as "Rescue the Perishing," "Blessed Assurance," "Saved by Grace," and "Pass me not," will be sung, some as solos, duets, etc., and some as choruses by the full choir. The congregation will also take part in singing the familiar hymns. Mr. George Brean, formerly of Vancouver, will preside at the organ, and the minister will give a brief address on the life of the late hymn writer.

There is room for 50 men to secure employment with the Columbia River Lumber company at Golden, according to statements of superintendents in charge of the timber gangs. The demand for lumber, occasioned by heavy draughts being made upon B. C. mills to supply Europe, has made it necessary to carry large crews in the woods and despite the announced unemployment in the larger centres such as Calgary, it has been hard to secure competent help for the lumber camps. Ordinarily the company employs 350 men during the winter, but owing to the scarcity of labor the crew numbers only about 250.

The Womens' Canadian club and their friends celebrated Trafalgar day by attending the Empress theatre en masse, Mr. Smythe having offered them one quarter of the evenings proceeds to be used for patriotic purposes. The pictures were exceptionally fine, "Jim the Penman" being the principle, with good army pictures. At the close of the performance G. Ralph Lawrence delighted the audience with "The Battle of Nelson." Mrs. Fred Bews and Miss Kezzie Borden also sang very nicely a patriotic duet entitled "Canada's Ready." The Canadian club's share of the evening's proceeds was $10.75, which will be forwarded to headquarters to help swell the wounded seamen's and soldiers' fund.

Cranbrook Man Acquitted of Soldier's Murder

FERNIE, B. C., Oct. 22.—Hugh McGill was acquitted of the murder of Samuel Watson at Cranbrook on Sept. 15 last, on Tuesday, after the jury had deliberated less than an hour. The trial has occupied two days here. A. I. Fisher, who appeared for the accused, to the conclusion of his address to the jury and also Sherwood Herchmer, crown counsel,, received applause, the former for his appeal on behalf of his client, the latter for his fairness to the accused. Chief Justice Hunter in discharging the prisoner stated to him:

"Under the circumstances of this case, McGill, I don't think anyone will regret that the jury have been able to absolve you from all blame, and I can only say my only hope is that you may recover from the shadow cast across your life. I will further say I think the fate of this unfortunate man Watson ought to be a salutary warning to any man who in the future sets out with the purpose of destroying another man's home."

From an interpellation in the Italian Chamber of Deputies it would appear that it has reference to the case of Marquis Garroni, Italian ambassador at Constantinople, who, it has been asserted, although informed in July, 1914, by the German ambassador at Constantinople, Baron von Wangenheim, that the Austrian note to Serbia made war a certainty, neglected to inform the Italian government.
