INFANTRY GUARDS AND ARMY SERVICE CORPS ARRIVE

Military March to Alien Internment Camp in Park—Aliens Arrive Beginning of Week—Park Officials Visit Camp

The military guards for the alien internment camp in the Revelstoke park and the army service corps detachment which will attend to the supplying of the camp have arrived. On Monday next the first contingent of aliens will arrive, consisting of 50 men who will come from Vernon. On the following Wednesday another 50 aliens will arrive, these coming also from Vernon. The final party of 125 will arrive from Brandon during the following week, making 225 aliens in the camp.

At noon yesterday a company of the 102nd regiment consisting of 56 men arrived from Kamloops under command of Capt. Wain, who will act as camp commandant until the arrival of Capt. Rose of Kelowna who is expected to arrive in Revelstoke at the beginning of the week. The other officers in command of the company are Lieut. A. Grant of Revelstoke and Lieut. Richards of Mara. Attached to the company are Buglers R. Gordon and J. Bourne of Revelstoke. A large proportion of the soldiers are from Revelstoke.

The infantry company marched to the camp in the park yesterday afternoon and last night occupied the bunk houses that have been built for the accommodation of the aliens. They will go under canvas as soon as the militia tents are erected.

Lieut. Swinford of the Canadian Army Service Corp, in command of a detachment consisting of acting sergt. V. d'Auria, acting corporal D. S. Milligan, four drivers, three general duty privates and one cook and orderly arrived in the city on Thursday to take charge of the supply department in connection with the alien internment camp and the military guards. The detachment will be stationed in Revelstoke. Teams or motor transport will be provided which will be driven by the military drivers. All supplies for the camp will be purchased in Revelstoke.

Contracts for supplies for the camp have been let by the army service department to G. W. Bell for bread, P. Burns & Co., Ltd., for meat, F. McCarty for feed and to L. C. Masson for groceries. A temporary office has been opened by the army service detachment in the vacant store on First street next to L. C. Masson's store. The house next to H. Manning's store on McKenzie avenue has been rented and will be used by the detachment for office quarters and storehouse as soon as it is renovated.

J. B. Harkin, commissioner of Dominion parks, S. J. Clark, superintendent of the Park at Banff, who arrived in the city yesterday, went by automobile to inspect the camp yesterday afternoon. They were accompanied by Capt. Palmer, Capt. Wain, Lieut. Swinford, and by F. E. Maunder, superintendent of the Revelstoke park.

SUPPLIES FOR BRIDGE GUARDS PURCHASED IN REVELSTOKE

The detachment of the Canadian Army Service Corps which arrived in the city on Thursday under command of Lieut. Swinford, will, in addition to arranging the commissariat of the alien internment camp, provide supplies for all the military posts on the lines of communication between Kamloops and Field. All supplies for the troops will be purchased in Revelstoke.

The provisioning of the posts from Kamloops to North Bend will be managed from Kamloops.

ALL TEACHERS ENGAGED—MORE PUPILS AT SCHOOLS

Resignations of Teachers Accepted and Appointments Ratified by School Board—Staff of Teachers One Less Than Last Term

That all the teachers necessary to fill the staffs of the Revelstoke schools have been engaged, that the number of pupils this term is already 30 more than last term and that the teaching staff has been reduced by one teacher was the statement of H. Manning, chairman of the school board at the meeting of the board on Thursday evening.

There are now, said Mr. Manning, 250 pupils at Central school, 315 at Selkirk school and 67 at the high school. All children who expect to attend the school this term must report not later than next week.

The greatest number of children in any one class at the Central school is 43 and the lowest number is 20, that number being in the receiving class. The numbers in other classes are as follows: 28,42, 38, 37, 41. In Selkirk school the lowest number of pupils in any one class is 30 with 46 the highest number in a class. In the high school there are at present 67 pupils. Mr. Manning with Mayor W. A. Foote visited the schools on Thursday and found every arrangement satisfactory.

The board instructed the secretary to write W. H. Horobin, to whom a contract for wood had been let, notifying him that the wood must be supplied by Sept. 15, otherwise the contract will be transferred to the next lowest tenderer.

The resignations of J. W. Hughes, vice principal of the Central school, Miss L. M. Manley and of J. E. Lovering who had been engaged as principal of the high school were formally accepted.

The action of the chairman and secretary in engaging A. H. Scriven, B. A., as principal of the high school, C. E. Falkner as teacher of the commercial class, Miss A. Eaton as vice principal of the high school, Miss Mildred Merriman, B. A., as teacher in Selkirk school, Stewart W. Code, B. A., as vice principal of Central school and of Miss Pearl A. Green, B. A., as vice principal of Selkirk school was ratified by the board.

A letter was received from James Gordon who had been offered the principalship of the High School regretting that he was unable to accept the position as his trustees thought it too late to make a change in their staff.

A resolution was passed asking the city council to instal a strainer in the water main to prevent gravel and sand from entering the school plumbing system to which damage was being done.

Food Needed for Prisoners of War

The regular weekly meeting of the Red Cross society was held at the Y. M.C.A., on Wednesday, the president Mrs. Kilpatrick in the chair.

Business in connection with the garden fete was transacted and all accounts ordered to be paid, and a statement in full given as follows:

Proceeds sale refreshments	$31.80
Ice Cream	14.20
Candy	13.00
Tags	113.05
	$172.05
Expense	20.45
Total	$151.60

The society wishes to thank the following persons for service given toward the success of this worthy cause: J. P. Sutherland, the Mayor and council, Rev. Father McKenzie, the press, R. Howson, Y. M. C. A., Corp. Wood and recruits, George North, C. B. Hume & Co., the city band, the Rex orchestra, the Empress orchestra, W. A. Smythe for piano, the girls who sold tags and all who in any way contributed to the success of this worthy cause.

A letter was read from the prisoners of war department, Canadian Red Cross society, of the urgent need for food for prisoners of war in Germany The society decided to send $25 at once and to endeavor to have the letter published, hoping that someone may decide to send personal donations in the way set forth in the letter.

The letter is as follows:

"The claims of this department of the Red Cross have only recently been brought to our notice, but so urgent are they that call for help should receive widespread response. Parcels of food and other comforts are being sent out from the Canadian Red Cross headquarters in London by Mrs. Rivers Bulkley, who is in charge of the Prisoners of War department. Agents of the American embassy in Berlin are visiting the prison camps and report that undoubtedly the prisoners are regularly receiving the parcels sent. Dr. Dolbey, who was a prisoner of war for over six months and who was recently exchanged, states that "it is imperative that we send as much food as possible to the men in the prison camps," and that "conditions are far worse than we have any idea of." Sergeant Wells, in an uncensored letter smuggled out by an exchanged army medical friend, says: "If it were not for the parcels of food we receive from kind friends in England we would starve," and he attributes his regained health after the amputation of his arm to the food thus sent.

May we appeal to you on behalf of the men who have no friends to supply their needs and who, having fought so bravely, are now condemned to the weary monotony and privations of a German prison camp?

A weekly parcel of food can be sent at $4 or $5 per month, or a fortnightly one for half that amount.

Would you consider "adopting" a prisoner, i.e., providing one of these sums so that a parcel can be sent to him regularly? Prisoners' circles are being formed, ten people combining and giving each ten cents a week and thus collectively "adopting" a prisoner.

Contributions may be sent to the secretary-treasurer or any member of the committee.

Miss Joliffe offered a centre piece each to Red Cross and Soldiers Comfort committee to be raffled for. It was decided to accept the offer and proceed with it.

Mrs. C. B. Hume sent in 20 yards of flannelette.

The following shipment of goods was sent to headquarters: 27 khaki shirts, 23 surgical shirts, 17 night shirts, 185 pair socks, 12 pair wristlets.

The list of work done is as follows: Mrs. S. S. Crowe, Miss V. Crowe, Mrs. J. M. Moran, Mrs. Parry, Mrs. H. Needham, Mrs. H. W. Wood, Mrs. S. Urquhart, Mrs. W. H. Horobin, Mrs. Swaney, Mrs. Hogan, Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. N. R. Brown, Mrs. Jos. T. Farrinloe, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. W. It is stated that the German governor-general of Poland has issued a proclamation forbidding the holding of meetings and the carrying of arms and ordering the closing of shops at 8 o'clock in the evening and the theatres before 9 o'clock. The death penalty is prescribed for anyone communicating with Germany's enemies.

Forty Volunteers Have Enlisted in Nakusp

NAKUSP, B. C., Aug. 27—A great wave of patriotism and recruiting has reached Nakusp since the farewell concert last week to the town boys who left for camp after their furlough. The following have since joined and left for Vernon on Wednesday: Marvin Bowes, E. H. Simpson and Bert Herridge. Already 40 Nakusp men have enlisted either with the Kootenay contingent or with some other regiment, totalling nearly 10 per cent. of the population. Recruiting posters are now displayed around town.

At the annual meeting of the women's auxiliary of the Nakusp hospital a most favorable report was presented by the president, Mrs. W. Herridge, showing some $68 on hand, with heavy expenditures made on behalf of the institution during the past year. The election of officers took place as follows: President Mrs. L. F. McDougald; vice-president, Mrs. E. R. Vipond; secretary-treasurer, Miss Flossie Edwards. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. Herridge, the retiring president, for her services.

The annual picnic of the Methodist church Sunday School was held on the beach north of the town Thursday afternoon. A large number were present.

The first contingent of alien prisoners was taken from Vernon to Edgewood, passing here on Friday, accompanied by a guard. There were 50 in the lot. On arrival at Edgewood they were marched to the internment camp, 10 miles away where they will be employed in road construction.

On Thursday evening a prohibition meeting was held at the Nakusp opera house. R. H. Larue was chairman and R. A. Quance secretary of the meeting. There were 47 present and the resolution recommending prohibition was carried by 36 votes for and 4 against. The speakers were E. W Somers, F. O. Werden, R. A. Quance and J. H. Stevenson. It was decided in view of the financial stringency not to send a delegate to the prohibition convention at the coast next week, but to forward the resolution. A committee composed of E. W. Somers, O. W. Wakelin, E. Johnson, J. H. Stevenson and Mrs. Gregory, was appointed.

The gallant 15th British Hussars were, says the 'Journal' of Paris, stationed in the park of an old castle in Flanders. They were more than a little surprised to find on the trees, when they went to tie up their horses, that the necessary rings were already there. These rings had been fixed there a hundred years ago, on the day after the battle of Waterloo.

Shooting Affray at Okanagan Landing

VERNON, B. C., Aug. 26—Jas. Turner of Okanagan Landing lies at the Vernon Jubilee hospital with his right arm and parts of his neck and chest filled with a charge of shot fired at him last Friday evening by D. C. Reynolds. The affair took place at Okanagan Landing, and is said to have been the climax of a quarrel extending over a lengthy period.

Turner, a man of about 50 years of age, was farming land on shares with Reynolds who owned the property. There had been frequent disputes between them, culminating in an altercation on Friday when it is alleged that Reynolds got out his shotgun and fired upon Turner, inflicting wounds of a serious nature.

Reynolds, who is an old timer here, is generally known as "Friday." He was arrested by chief provincial constable Fraser, and on Saturday appeared before L. Morris, S. M., and was remanded for a week. At one time Turner's condition was considered critical, but he is now thought to be out of danger.

Canadian Club Greets Wife of Ex-President

On Sunday afternoon Mrs. Taft, wife of ex-president Taft, and her sister Miss Herron, Miss Helen Taft, sisters and party, passed through Revelstoke in their private car en route to San Francisco. They were met at the station by a delegation from the Womens Canadian club and presented with a basket of choice mixed fruit and handsome bouquet of flowers with a card attached with the words "grown in Revelstoke. Mrs. Taft expressed keenest appreciation and pleasure at gifts and also her surprise at the quality of the fruit and flowers grown here, and said she had seen nothing finer on her trip across the continent.

The British cabinet is considering recommendations of the commission appointed in June last by the Earl of Selburne to increase the supply of food, especially wheat.

EFFORTS CROWNED WITH SUCCESS

The military guards who will have custody of the alien internment camp in the Revelstoke park have already arrived, and by the beginning of the week aliens will have reached the park and the camp will be in operation.

It will mean much to Revelstoke; and to Mr. R. F. Green, to whose efforts the location of the camp in the Revelstoke park is due, the city owes a debt of gratitude.

Mr. Green, in this matter, has expended time and effort without stint in the service of the city.

He came specially to Revelstoke to discuss the project with the citizens, and in person at Ottawa he urged to the utmost upon both the militia department and the parks department the advisability of establishing the camp.

His efforts at length convinced the government of the feasibility of the project, and his interest has not flagged nor did his efforts slacken until he saw his representations crowned with complete success.

Not every constituency is represented at Ottawa by a member whose zeal in the service of his constituents equals that of Mr. Green, nor are there many members whose persistence and influence with the government could accomplish what Mr. Green has achieved.

The city council has already expressed officially its appreciation of Mr. Green's services; the board of trade, at whose solicitation Mr. Green acted, will doubtless in due course, take similar action, and the resolutions of thanks will have the concurrence of every citizen, irrespective of political inclinations.

HONOR WELL DESERVED

The sudden outburst of criticism of Lord Kitchener was speedily followed by the bestowal upon him of the Order of the Garter.

Thus did the King and the British government express confidence in the secretary of state for war, their sense of appreciation of his services to the empire, and disapproval of the unworthy attacks to which he had been subjected.

Notwithstanding the political "truce," partizanship has not hesitated to make the head of the militia department in Canada the subject of malicious attack.

Every petty graft that has occurred in the equipment of the Canadian forces has been magnified and used by Liberals who value party more than country as a weapon to injure the reputation of Canada's war minister, at a time when he was straining every effort to enable the Dominion to successfully grapple with the crisis confronting it.

These attacks have been followed by the conferring upon Major Gen. Sam Hughes of the Order of the Bath.

Thus, as in Lord Kitchener's case, do the King and the Imperial government express confidence in Canada's war minister, their sense of appreciation of his services to the empire, and disapproval of the unworthy attacks to which he has been subjected.

OF SOLID ADVANTAGE

The alien internment camp in the Revelstoke park will be of substantial value to the city of Revelstoke.

The construction of the necessary buildings, the installation of the water supply, and other operations, have already afforded considerable employment and have involved expenditures in the city, especially valuable at a time when war conditions have caused a slackening in business and industry. The occupation of the camp will entail the location in close proximity to the city of an additionional population of some three hundred persons. For this population food and equipment will be daily required. A steady stimulation will be given to the business interests of the city, while the task of guarding the camp will offer opportunities for employment for those who may desire to take advantage of them.

The extension of the automobile road, which will be accomplished as a result of the camp, will also be of immense importance to the city. The completion of the road means the establishment of Revelstoke as a great tourist centre, with illimitable possibilities of advantage from the tourist traffic. It also involves the certainty of further development of the park, with the need for labor which that development will entail.

The alien internment camp is a boon in the advantages of which every class of the community will share.

The purchase and despatch of supplies for all military guards between Kamloops and Field will be made in Revelstoke. This will be another source of wealth to the city and will increase the stimulus to business which the internment camp will cause

INCREASE IN BUILDING.

Montreal Journal of Commerce—During May building permits in forty cities throughout the Dominion totalled $4,281,000, a decrease of $8,387,000 from the corresponding month in 1914. For the five months of the year Montreal leads all Canadian cities, with total permits valued at $2,374,000, a decrease of $4,183,000, as compared with the corresponding period last year. The building trade will probably be the last to show the effect of improved conditions, but it is reasonable to expect that an improvement will take place before very long.

KITCHENER IS NOT ASLEEP

Toronto Telegram—Analogies of the war may be inapplicable to a conflict that has attained the magnitude of the present struggle.

Boers were preparing to meet the advance of French at Colesberg when they were suddenly overwhelmed by a Roberts-Kitchener movement of troop at an entirely unexpected point in the Boer line of defence.

Surprise for the Germans in 1915 is not as easily planned and delivered as was a surprise for the Boers in 1900. But the prolonged inaction of the allies is preliminary to some big movement that Joffre, Kitchener and French have planned in conjunction with the strategists of Russia and Italy.

CONDEMNS MALICIOUS ATTACKS

Toronto Globe—It is a clear proof of malice on the part of the proprietor of the London Times when that once great journal makes General Hamilton's complete narrative of the Dardanelles campaign to date the occasion of a revival of the attack on those who sent out the first expedition. There is no other explanation adequate to accounting for such a recurrence to past mistakes at such a time. There was no apposite moral to be drawn from the citation of a plan of campaign that had been abandoned,and had been replaced by one that is reasonably successful. Obstinate persistence on a wrong line is properly censurable so long as it is maintained; when no fault is to be found with a new line, persistence in reminiscent denunciation can have no other effect than to dishearten the nation and gratify its foes.

MINING AND THE WAR.

Vancouver Sun—In spite of the unexampled difficulties which the mineral industry had to face during the last half of 1914 the reports for that year show a mineral production of a total value of $31,800,000 for this province. The war spread so much desolation among the metal markets of the world that gold alone had a stable value. The markets for the other metal produced in British Columbia were temporarily destroyed and the production of these metals in the province were either stopped or much curtailed. If the metal prices of 1913 had been maintained during 1914 and applied to the output of last year, this output would have been valued at about one million and a half dollars greater than it appears. This would bring it less than two and a half millions below the value of the 1913 mineral production.

The decrease in value of 1914 is not due to smaller production as much as it is to lower prices. For example, the average market value of silver in 1914 was about 4.9 cents an ounce lower than in 1913. Copper was 2.27 cents a pound lower; lead, 0.5 cents a pound lower; zinc, 0.45 cents a pound lower.

STORIES OF A MILITARY HOSPITAL

COAXING THE CRAZY ONES

(By Harold Begbie, in the 'Daily Chronicle,' London)

Among the Sisters at this hospital is a little lady so delicate in look and so exceedingly gentle in manner that you might well doubt her ability to manage even four or five nurses. But it is this Sister to whose care the mutinous, the maddened, and the nerve broken soldier is committed; it is she, of all other people in the hospital, men or women, who can soonest and most effectively minister to a mind diseased. I am not quite sure whether she could be called a genius. But I am perfectly sure that many soldiers regard her as an angel She is small and birdlike, a brunette, with a bright complexion, large shining eyes, and the gentlest of smiling mouths. Her natural prettiness has become spiritual beauty in a life of absolute devotion to the sick and the sorrowful.

One afternoon we sat together in the shade of cedar trees on the green lawn outside the officers' mess, and she told me about some of her intractable patients. 'The worst of all the nervous cases,' she said to me, 'were those which came to us after the great retreat from Mons. I had one man under my charge, a splendid gunner, who would start up at the sound of a motor-bicycle in the distance and declare it was a Zeppelin. His obsession was the most pathetic thing imaginable. He declared that he was still on the retreat, and yet all through his ravings of horror and death he was looking for his wife and child. He made you feel the noise and rush of a great army's retreat, but through it all there sounded his piteous cry to his wife and child, asking them were they were, calling upon them to answer him. It was heartbreaking, the poor fellow's agony of anxiety for his wife aod his child.' She paused, and said slowly, 'Some men who were on the retreat from Mons will never be off it as long as they live.'

SOME DIFFICULT CASES.

'I can understand,' I said, 'that you should be able to handle nervous cases, such as this, but I don't understand how you manage the violent and the brutal.'

She smiled. 'It is very difficult,' she said, 'in some cases very difficult indeed, but except in the case of the insane it is not impossible. Of course we have the Colonel's power at the back of us. He is a very kind man, as I daresay you know; but he is very strict, and has no mercy for the insubordinate. We had a man sent to us once who could not be managed anywhere else. He was frightfully strong. I have seldom seen anyone so fierce and sullen. He refused to obey any orders. He said he would do whatever he liked. Nothing that I said to him had any effect. He was the black sheep of his regiment, was in great disgrace, and sulked like a bear. Well, the Colonel came around and spoke to him. He told the man he would either obey orders or be punished. The man was extremely insolent. The Colonel picked up his diet sheet, glanced at it, and said, 'Too heating; bread and water.' You are not allowed to punish a man by a bread and water diet; but, of course, the Colonel can order any diet he chooses from a medical point of view. To cut a long story short, the Colonel had to remove this man to an isolation ward; but he steadily refused to eat bread and drink water. I used to go and sit with him, trying to get at his reason. I found out for one thing, that he was in the greatest fear that his sister would learn of his disgrace. Then I discovered that he was fond of card tricks. Well, what with talking to him about his sister and getting him to show me some of his card tricks, we were soon very good friends. I found out, too, that he was clever at writing, and when I got him back in the ward he kept a newspaper in which he satirised the various styles of daily journalism. Everybody got to like him. He apologized the the Colonel, became quite friendly and useful in the ward, and was most unwilling to leave us.'

THE MOTHERS OF SOLDIERS

There was a man in the hospital suffering from suicidal mania. The little Sister used to say to him, 'Promise me not to do it here; wait till you leave us. It would upset me terribly if you were to do it here, and I should get into dreadful trouble. Now listen to me. If you solemnly promise me not to do it in here I'll make a nice hot cup of tea, and we'll sit down together and have a good long chat over it.' Over that cup of tea they became confidential friends.

Some of the worst cases are brought to reason by pure sentiment. 'You'd be surprised,' she told me, 'how many of the men come in here with their pockets full of family photographs. It helps me immensely when I can get even the worst of men to talk to me about his mother or his sisters. You can often get quickest to the reason through the heart, if your sympathy is genuine. It's no use pretending to be sympathetic. You must really like your wild-devil and be really and truly anxious to help him. How the mothers and sisters help us, without knowing it!'

The little Sister speaks with enthusiasm of the mothers of soldiers. 'The Colonel paid the fare of a mother to come all the way from Aberdeen to see her son, who had lost an eye. Someone said to the little old woman, 'It's his right eye, so he won't have to go back to the front.' 'That's no comfort to me,' replied the Scotswoman; 'I want all my sons to be at the front, if that's where their country needs them most.' Have you heard, by the way, that an old lady living just outside the hospital takes in friends of the wounded, and makes no charge at all for their entertainment? That's her contribution to the war. She kept the girl of the nice Shropshire boy who had lost both hands and one eye for a whole week; she was like a mother to her. Most of these guests come from far away places, and the old lady generally arranges to take a party into London once a week to show them the sights. How kind people are and how this war has shown us the heart of the English people! Everyone is helping.'

IN THE EYE WARD

In the eye ward, which is this Sister's real charge, there is a very pleasant looking man some 30 years of age, clean, respectable, cheerful and intelligent, who spends the greater part of his time at needlework, the other patients looking on with their one eye each, smiling and admiring. This man's story is a tragic one. He was in the retreat from Mons, and during that retreat his wife died in giving birth to a child. For two months he was missing and heard nothing of this loss. Then he was wounded, losing one of his eyes. When he got home it was to discover, three months after her death, that he had lost his wife. Further inquiry brought him the hideous news that his wife's people had sold up his home and dissipated the money. Such was the welcome received in England by as straight and honest a man as ever fought for her. Happily he encountered such friendship and affection in the hospital...few of the patients are more liked and respected—and now he is looking forward to the day when he will begin life over again with his baby girl for companion.

'They are wonderful men, our soldiers,' said the little Sister. 'To a woman, of course, they seem like children, and to treat them as children is the best way of managing them. Some are good children, some are naughty children, and some are very wicked children; but all of them are tremendously brave, and most of them have hearts that respond to affection. We have got a Canadian boy in here whose face was so knocked about by a shell that I almost fainted when I first saw the bandaged removed. Do you know what his great anxiety is, what worries him more than anything else? His horse! He is always wondering who is looking after it.'

And she told me of a man, 'very ugly, but an awfully good sort,' who is more loved than anybody else because his whole day is spent in doing things for the other patients. He is the neatest of the patients, the best behaved, and the most careful to give no trouble; but his real attraction, felt by all, is his simple, constant and unobtrusive desire to be of service to other people. Nothing is ever too much trouble for him.

Finally she told me this story. A young man was talking to a group of wounded soldiers, explaining why he had not gone with his Territorial regiment to the front. I didn't go,' he said, 'simply because the battalion was such a rough lot.' One of the wounded soldiers said to him, very quietly and with a desire rather to enlighten than to rebuke, 'My lad, there are no rough lots at the front.'

Such is the refining force of devlish war.

The latest official reports regarding the harvest show that Italy needs 2,640,000,000 pounds of grain for her consumption until next year. Most of this grain, it is understood, will be purchased in America.

The death is reported at the age of 73 years in Rochester, N. Y., of George F. Loder, known throughout the United States as the Father of the Mystic Shrine, he being Imperial Potentate Emeritus of the Order. The Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine is one of the oldest of the fraternal orders. It was founded at Mecca, Arabia, in the year of Hegira 25. Although it is not a Masonic body, only thirty-second degree Masons of the Scottish Rite or Knight Templars can become members. The branch in the United States is governed by a body known as the Imperial Council. There are 85 temples of the order in America, and the membership is over 8,000.

The official organ of the General Federation of Trade Unions of Germany states that as a result of the British blockade the average German workman's family last May had to expend about $9 weekly for food, as compared with about $6 in May of 1914.

The death is reported in London of Miss Matilda Tennyson, last surviving sister of Lord Tennyson, the Poet Laureate. She was born in 1817 in Somersby, Lincolnshire, and was eight years younger than the poet. Miss Tennyson's father was rector of the church in that village for many years, and she was born and lived in the rectory of the church until her father died, when she removed to London.

Rev. C. A. Procunier has received a letter from Shorncliffe, England from his son, C. Procunier, who says: "Things look a good deal more serious here than they did at home. Roy Smythe has received a picture postcard from Folkstone, Eng., from Fred McMahon in which he says: 'Arrived yesterday noon from Plymouth. Tomorrow is a bank holiday so that means a rest for us. "Nothing in it—positively." This was Sir Richard McBride's emphatic reply when told that the Sun newspaper of Vancouver had a first page story with "scare" headlines to the effect that the premier had decided to dissolve the legislature at once and appeal to the electorate. The Sun fixed Wednesday, October 6, as the date for the election.

Child is Drowned in Lake at Kaslo

KASLO, B. C., Aug. 27—Sydney, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Peterson, was the victim of a drowning accident here at 2.45 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Peterson, who lives out of town on the southeast side, brought her three children, Sydney, Robert and Erick, into town, where she was the guest of Mrs. Wagstaff. Sydney, who is aged nine years went bathing with George Wagstaff. Neither of the lads could swim. They were in water that reached to the breast of the Peterson boy, but at this point the bottom became very steep and the lad stepped into deep water. George Wagstaff, aged 11, waded out to his help, but could not reach the boy who by this time had gone down and come up again. With remarkable presence of mind he ran to a bay nearby where Hazel Whitaker and some other girls were bathing and got a lifebelt from the girls. Fastening it around his body he swam out over the spot where his comrade had sunk. In the meantime the girls went to the old Canadian Pacific Railway wharf where a number of boys were swimming. Some of the boys went to the spot and others spread the news around town, and in a very short time about 200 men and women were on the beach. In boats and launches, with a great variety of grapnels, they dragged the bottom of the lake without result. At 10 p.m., the body was recovered. The boy's father was telegraphed for at Sandon.

Two weeks ago George Wagstaff came near drowning in Sawmill Bay, where he got beyond his depth. O. E. Desmond had just put his coat off to jump in to the rescue when Ralph Garland, aged 13, saved the boy.

Lynx Claws Man Then Runs Away

CASCADE, B. C., Aug. 27—As Walter Rollins was returning to his home about 6.30 o'clock on Sunday evening at a point just over the line from Cascade and in the Deep Creek district, he was attacked by a large lynx which leaped upon his back without warning from a log about eight feet above the path. Rollins states that the weight of the animal and the force with which its body struck him caused him to stagger a few steps and fall on his face. After inflicting several severe scratches and wounds about his shoulders, Rollins states that the lynx suddenly left him and bounded away among the trees. It is supposed that the animal was a female and had her young somewhere near by. Mr. Rollins' injuries are not serious.

The government of India has been obliged to adopt more drastic measures in the treatment of alien enemies throughout the empire, and a statement describing in detail the measures for internment, surveillance and registration hitherto applied to alien enemies in India, has been issued by the government. It states that the prolongation of the war and the bitterness aroused by German savagery have now altered the position besides adding to the continued strain of supervision. It has accordingly been decided, with the approval of the secretary of state for India, to repatriate all women, children and men of non-military age as soon as the necessary arrangements can be carried out.
