THE WAR CRY

OFFICIAL GAZETTE OF THE SALVATION ARMY IN CANADA AND NEWFOUNDLAND

THE INTERESTING SCENES IN CONNECTION WITH THE 25th ANNIVERSARY OF THE ARMY IN VICTORIA, B.C.—(1) HOUSE OF PARLIAMENT FOR BRITISH COLUMBIA. (2) THE CORPS BAND. (3) THE SALVATION ARMY CITADEL. (4) THE HARBOUR (See Page 11)

REMOVAL EN BLOC

It is a crying shame that after expending three and a half millions on the finest Parliament buildings architecturally in Canada, at the provincial capital, Victoria the beautiful, after expending the people's money and brains on a superb library addition which was opened by Royalty, no less, after occupying the same luxurious quarters for many years in absolutely party extravagant enjoyment, the Bowser government should have decided to move to the Empress hotel en bloc, but such appears to be the case. However, we have one solace, the basement area long devoted to the participation of fluid analysis will make a good Assembly hall, especially as most M.P.s are already members of the bar. The exchequer will no doubt be domiciled in the ball room, where nightly revelry can take place unrestrained and unchecked, while the lobbyists dance in attendance on the country members. Dr. Young will no doubt lead the Lancers. Such is the political plight—or flight. Can it be that the C. P. R., long the rail—we mean real—rulers of Canada, have invited the government ot be their guests, or have the B.C. government bought up the C.P. R. as a result of the good work of Sir Richard in London.

We wonder if Mr. Goodroads Taylor, who should be proud of his road work in B.C., had anything to do with the fine asphalt pavement to the Empress hotel.

It is a puzzle! But look at this cut of last week's Toronto War Cry

CONGRATULATIONS

To the editor of the Fernie Mail on the appearance (in both senses) of his first issue; it's A.1. Former Canteen Sergt. Newnham's forefathers wore the mail for old England and he is now filling His Majesty's mail with the Fernie Mail most Liberally for the good of the public at large.

KITCHENER MEMORIAL FUND

The subscriptions received by the Lord Mayor of London for the Kitchener National Memorial fund now totals £60,000. The Lord Mayor yesterday received a letter from the Queen and Queen Alexandra, each enclosing a cheque for £250 as a donation to the fund.

VISITORS TO KOOTENAYS

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Humphrys, of Unity, Sask., passed through Morrissey on Thursday on their way to Nelson, the Lakes, Revelstoke, the Rockies and Nome. They are exploring the big game districts of B.C.

FATAL ACCIDENT

It is with deep regret that we report the death of Ralph Cunningham, of Seattle Wash, the result of an automobile accident near Billings, Mont. Ralph was one of the pioneers of the Boundary country, where he lived with "Barbarian" Brown of South African and paper fame. He was also long associated with Sergt. Percy Goodenrath, editor of the Brazier, the organ of the 16th division, Canadian Scottish, Flanders. Ever cheerful and a great rustler, Ralph (or as he was known to his chums, Romeo) was liked by everyone, and his old-time friends of Greenwood, Spokane, Vancouver and Seattle will be sorry to hear of his death, as is the writer.

WELCOME

Major C. AE. Shaw took the train to Cranbrook on Tuesday last and returned to camp with Mrs. Shaw, who has been visiting old friends in Greenwood on her way from Victoria. It is Mrs. Shaw's first visit to East Kootenay, and she has expressed great delight in the fine scenery around Morrissey camp.

VISITED THE CAMP

Morrissey camp was honored by a visit this week from Major E. Mallandaine, of Creston, B.C., Officer Commanding the 107th East Kootenay Regiment, accompanied by Lt. M. D. McLean, of Fernie, B.C. The Major was pleased to find the camp so prosperous. Morrissey enjoyed royal weather for the occasion.

If you read the advertisements in our last week's paper, you must have noticed the preponderance of Fernie business houses who favored us with their patronage. Just take a look at the ads, now. We swell with pride to four columns; we are "swelling wisibly," growing overnight, through the goodfellowship and business astuteness of busy Fernians. May their shadows never grow less, and may their business increase as the Mention increases, and faster.

Fernie, B.C., is really a remarkable example of the dogged perseverance of the frontier town, the spirit of Western-won't-be-worstedness permeates the local atmosphere of the mountains which, surrounding the fair city, inspire to aspirations of advancement and achievement and rises like a Phoenix from the ashes of hard times.

Fernie may be a coal city, but it is also a city of well-laid streets, magnificent Dominion and Provincial public buildings. Solid brick and concrete business blocks, regal private residences and wonderful flower gardens. In spite of its altitude, 3300 feet above the level of the sea, inspite of the pyramidal snow-capped peaks that tower above the Elk river valley, close to the town, there are as lovely flower gardens there as anywhere in the interior, whose owners are glad to share their blooms with those who are less fortunate. Its Temple of Goodfellowship, lots of it, blocks of it, a townsite of it.

Historically Fernie is not very old, being founded in 1898 as the result of the discovery of the Coal Creek mines, before the advent of the C.P. R. in the Crow's Nest pass, which advent was the crowning point in the making of a coal centre in East Kootenay.

Up to the year of the dreadful fire that devastated the entire business section of the then wooden city, the place had the dusky appearance of the average coal town. However, since the fire of 1908, the frame buildings have been replaced by really metropolitan structures and it is now a business centre to be proud of.

Situated 198 miles east of Nelson, 105 miles west of Macleod, Alberta, and only six hours from Spokane, in the heart of the best big game hunting section of the Kootenays, Fernie not only gives employment to over 3500(?) miners in its adjacent coal mines and rows of coke ovens, but affords ground for the hunter and trapper, the Alpine club climber and the artist that is hard to better. Fernie park of 188 acres is yet young, but is fully able to meet the requirements of the many summer pleasure and picnic parties, while the rocky peaks(Hosmer Mt., Crow's Nest Mt., The Three Sisters, and their mountainous relations in the Lizard Range) are a lasting joy to the eye and a solace to the sorrowful.

Here the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. employs many men, as also at Michel, and every facility for rescusitation is supplied at the life-saving station on the M. F. & M. line that takes the miners from their Fernie homes to the mines each morning.

The Elk Lumber Co. does a huge business in the Kootenays and Alberta. The Kootenay Telephone Lines, Limited, make it possible to speak with friends and creditors near and far, including points on the Government system in Alberta; also run the water supply from Fairy creek, where there is a 300,000 gallon reservoir 180 feet above the city with a pressure of 100 pounds. The City hall, presided over by Mayor T. Uphill, is a very artistic building and cost $20,000. The Public Schools cost $47,000, government buildings $15,000 and the park $15,000. This does not look like a village. There are three sawmills, an up-to-date brewery (Fernie-Fort Steele Brewing Co. in a $5,000,000 building), a first-class foundry, brick yards with a daily capacity of 30,000, three theatres, a curling and a skating rink, where many good games of hockey have been witnessed, three kanks, three papers (two weekly), and the "Mention,.' public and high schools, several wholesale establishments, 5,000 population and the following churches: Anglician, Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, Catholic and the hard-working Salvation Army, Over twelve lodges and trade unions hold their regular weekly meetings here. To sum up, Fernie figures as A.1., and long may she do so.

THE MENTIONER

It is mention'd in Morrissey:

That the mines at Morrissey are not working this week.

That the new flag at the Quarters is ten feet long.

That a foolish fathead flew his fluttering flag falsely; fortunately few flappers figured in the festivities.

That it was the BOY, not the BUGLE.

That a peculiar person, who pushes out Perri-shable parcels to Rigg out and enDow plain people, wishes he was an outlaw with a posse after him. This is a future possibility and should be under "Coming Events."

That our local Esculapius, whose piscatorial exploits have been the wonder and delight of Morrissey, has taken his departure for the coast on a well-earned(?) holiday. The gallant linseed Lancer is an ardent worshipper at the shrines of both Venus and Bacchus (no disrespect to our popular and resident officer) and on that account will be received with open arms by the fair daughters of the terminal city, and alarms of their CHAPerons.

That when the 107th formed 4444 they get 8 a good 3 of 9 and played "7-up" as an Aide 2 digestion. Numerically they are not O.K. (would-be recruits read this) this year of grace 1916. 1 would imagine they were all 6666 and 7777, but they can "Right about TURN" as well as any veterans of 1815 at 5 p.m.

Editor "The Morrissey Mention,"

Dear Sir:—I beg to acknowledge your letter of the 17th inst. asking if it is necessary or not for a member of the active militia to secure a game licence before the shooting season commences. I beg to refer to "Game Act" 1914, sec. 24, which reads as follows:

(a) "To a resident, and to any officer or man of His Majesty's Army or Navy or of the Canadian Militia on duty in the Province, to carry firearms and to hunt game birds and deer but not entitling him to hunt or trap any other game, and the fee for such licence and accompanying badge shall be two dollars and fifty cents: Provided that such licence may be issued to a farmer or to any member of his family, in respect only of hunting on the land on which they permanently reside or the land contiguous thereto:

(b) "To a resident, and to any officer and man of His Majesty's Army or Navy or of the Canadian Militia on duty in the Province, to carry firearms and to hunt big game and game birds, but not to trap, and the fee for such licence and accompanying badge shall be five dollars."

Yours truly,
R. Hewat,
Government Agent.

To the Editor,
"The Morrissey Mention."

Dear Sir:—I would be much obliged if you would inform me f it is necessary or not for a member of the Active Militia to secure a licence before the shooting season commences.

A great many seem to think that such is necessary, and others hold that that is not the case.

It will be interesting for us to know, at a time when politicians are looking after the soldier's vote, if any of them have taken time to think that a member of the Active Militia, who, in most cases, leaves a good job and is obliged to neglect his own business in order to do his duty, is entitled to a little privilege in this respect.

Hoping you will answer this.
I am, dear sir,
Yours truly,
"A. Ranker."

THE C. A. S. C.

You may think of things heroic and of fighting men and fame,
And mention famous regiments and speak of each by name.
You forget they need supplying with food and things galore,
This is the work of willing hands
The Army Service Corps
You never see their health drunk, and seldom hear them cheered,
In brilliant feats of victory their names have not appeared,
But though those famous regiments with Huns could wipe the floor
They'd sure be in a mess without the Army Service Corps.
See the drivers loading, ankle deep in mud and slush,
Using language that would make a London cabby blush.
Clothes wet through before they start, fingers numbed harness hard.
After a hard day's work, perhaps last night on guard.
They're ready at last in column or route, "walk march" the captain cries,
And off they go as willing a lot as ever met your eyes.
It's dark; they can't see where they are going, they must follow the rumble,
Their wagons get stuck in the mud and muck, but you never hear them grumble.
Bullets whiz past left and right, shells go screaming by,
And the Maxims patter that awful chatter, and the star shell lights up the sky;
Wagons unloaded without a sound, save for the noise of guns;
But the lads have food for another day, for the fight with the Kultured Huns.
—Montreal Star.

It is mentioned in Camp that:

That half the Union Jack on the Fernie post office is mast high this mourning.

That some seats are sadly needed at Swinton station, G.N.R.

That the snow that fell on Friday night on the adjacent peaks was not hurt.

That ice cream am off.

That "Officer 666' has a commission to play Fernie, B.C., Aug. 25th.

That it pays to advertise. The tent tenant got nightcap. Many thanks.

That a Mulligan club is about to be formed. Camp and other chickens and all rabbits take notice.

That Nurse Perry will establish a Creche for Sunday visitors.

That Pro or no hibition, the camp went dry on Thursday last when a pipe went on the bust.

That some people, who shall be nameless, reFER NIEedlessly to the fairly frequent trips of the Mentioner to Fernie.

That the top of the C.A.S.C light transport leaks.

That Mrs. Whalley and Mrs. Simpson returned from a shopping visit to Fernie last week with SOME parcels.

That if the children were kept at home between meals and before dark it would not be necessary to hold examinations in the school holidays.

That this was NOT overheard: Halt! Lame! Blind! As you were, before you read the Morrissey Mention.

That I F Piquets in camp were as keen for biz as I. F. Pickett is for insurance, they would insure themselves a better time and less of it.

Sergt. A. Yates, 54th C.E.F., returned from England today—from Bramshott. He was bandmaster.

A Chivalrous Enemy

New York Telegram—Warm praise is given by the British troops and press to the Third Prussian Guard for its heroic defense of Ovillers. The men had long been in a hopeless position. They were living in a charnel house, strewn with dead comrades and wounded, delirious for lack of drink. Human nature could no longer make resistance, and at last the officers raised the signal of surrender and came over with 140 men. The fighting had been savage. But now, when all was ended, the last of the German garrison received the honors of war, and, says the London Daily Telegraph correspondent, "none of our soldiers deny them the respect due to great courage." Prussian militarists can go on chanting their hymn of hate and guttural spoken orators at banquets here can insult others present by insisting there is no such thing as an Anglo-Saxon race, but there is, and when these brave men stood face to face it was proven. "Kaiser and Junker, Lord and Lut, what is bred in the bone must surely come out." And it does. From the one race Chivalry, from the other the appalling thing called Kultur.

Wellington and Kitchener

London Chronicle—No one now remembers the journalists and politicians who traduced the Duke of Wellington during the uphill Peninsula years. Between Lord Kitchener and the Iron Duke there was very much in common besides the "iron-ness." In both characters the key-note was the service of the State. Both esteemed patience and preparation as the cardinal military virtues. Both had certain genuine gifts of statesmanship; and here Lord Kitchener, with Fashoda and Vereeniging to his credit besides his last great work in Egypt, perhaps showed the abler of the two. But the Iron Duke died forty years after his last victory in extreme old age; Lord Kitchener has been taken by a premature fate before the close of the war, which he has so profoundly influenced, and before witnessing the full fruit of his own special contribution to it.

No Time to Talk Peace

London Daily News—The time for fixing details will only come when at least one party is ready, in a considerable degree, to conclude its opponent's terms. Neither party is ready for this at present. Germany, as speaking through the mouth of the Imperial Chancellor, is ready for peace on her own terms; and she would like the neutral world to think the Allies wicked and bellicose people for preferring to continue the war. But so far as we can observe, no neutral statesman is taken in by the pretence. As for the Allies, they have at the present moment only two alternatives—to surrender or fight. And no serious body of opinion in any of the Allied countries prefers surrender. Certainly it would be an amazing thing in the circumstances if Great Britain did.

The Mention goes everywhere and everywhere else.
