AWFUL DEED OF A DYNAMITER IN RUSSELL SAGE'S OFFICE.

Refused a Private Audience—He Drops a Bag of Dynamite—Human Beings Torn to Pieces and Hurled Through Windows—Death of the Perpetrator — Remarkable News from Chili—The Baltimore's Murdered Sailors—Chauncey M. Depew Talks Politics.

NEW YORK, December 4.—At 12:45 this afternoon, a small shabbily dressed man, apparently about 25 years old, carrying a brown leather hand bag, called at Russell Sage's office on the second floor, 71 Broadway, and asked to see Mr. Sage. W. R. Laidlaw, Sage's clerk, told him that Sage was busy and could not be seen. The man persisted and continued to talk in a loud tone. Sage, who was in the inner office, came out to see what was the matter. He asked the man what he wanted. The man said, "I want a private interview with you." Sage replied that it would be impossible for him to see the man then, but he might possibly do so later on in the day. The man continued to demand a private interview then and there. Sage ordered him to leave the office, on this the man dropped the leather bag and an explosion which shook the entire block instantly followed. Sage was blown across the room and stunned; Laidlaw was also thrown across the office and had one leg badly lacerated. The stranger was tossed against a partition wall and was by far the most severely injured. There were three others in the office, whose names could not be ascertained at the moment; those persons were also injured. The injured men were taken to O'Connor's drug store across the way, where it was found that Sage and Laidlaw, though severely injured, have not received any fatal wounds.

It is known that one of the clerks in Sage's office was blown out through the window. Nearly all the windows on the east end and north side of the building were shattered, and the interior of the building badly wrecked. It is said that two occupants of the building were torn to pieces by the force of the explosion. Sage's face was badly burned, and the hair on his head and face was burned off. He was much excited, but said brokenly:

"A man who gave his name as H. O. Wilson came to my office just now. I never saw him before. He had a carpet bag in his hand and said, 'If you will not give me $1,200,000, I will blow you all to pieces.' I know nothing further except hearing a great explosion."

Sage said that he considered it a deliberate attempt to kill himself and destroy the building. The man insisted upon presenting Sage with his card, but Sage declined to accept it. Sage was completely covered with grime and dust; his clothing was blown into tatters, his hands, face and clothing being covered with blood. Sage's injuries consist of a cut and bruises upon the forehead, while his face and hands are filled with small cuts. Both fire and ambulance calls were at once sent out and in a few minutes after the explosion the building was surrounded by fire engines, ambulances and policemen. The news spread all over town, and every street in the nighborhood was soon thronged by thousands of excited men, and the wildest rumors prevailed.

One bystander who was crossing Broadway just as the explosion occurred said that the shock was so great that men near by fell senseless on the sidewalk. One side of the building then for an instant resembled Niagara Falls. It was a perfect sheet of minute atoms of glass, and in the mass was the figure of the man who was hurled through the window. Then a man, so cut and bleeding as to be unrecognizable, climbed from a safe to a window sill and seemed about to jump, but was prevailed upon to wait.

Jay Gould was down town at the time and on hearing of Russell Sage's injury dispatched his private physician, Dr. A. P. Munn, to his relief. Just as the explosion was heard, special agent Wilbur, who was in the custom house, rushed out of his office bare headed and without stopping, ran up to No. 71 Broadway. This act on his part astonished those about him, and there is a suspicion that he may have had an inkling of what was going to occur, and perhaps had been watching Wilson with a view to his arrest. At first, it was reported that the man who caused the explosion was not killed outright, but was among the injured taken to the Chambers street hospital. Later it was learned he was instantly killed his body, being blown to pieces. The head, however, is sufficiently uninjured to make identification possible. In the office of Russell Sage the safe was blown open and securities scattered over the building and into the streets.

The callers in Sage's office at the time of the explosion were Colonel J. J. Slocum, E. C. Osborn, D. W. Osborn, F. C. Lenzies and B. C. Norton. It is said that Norton was badly injured and that he was taken in an ambulance to St. Vincent hospital. Pieces of several bodies were picked up on the second floor of the building near the scene of the explosion and placed in a net. One of the pieces picked up was a head with the face intact. It was that of a young man with brown hair growing thickly on the head. As both Lenzies and D. W. Osborn are missing it is supposed that their bodies compose a portion of the mangled heap.

The killed are: B. F. Norton, a friend of Sage, was so badly wounded that he died soon after reaching the hospital. Lord, who was blown out of a window and died in O'Connell's drug store, is supposed to be the dynamiter. An unknown man, supposed to be Frank Lenzies, clerk. An unknown woman, supposed to be the typewriter. An unknown man, supposed to be a confederate of the dynamiter. S. C. Calhoun, telegraph operator, whose head was blown entirely off. The injured are: W. R. Laidlaw, Russell Sage's clerk, left leg badly crushed and face and hands bruised and burned; will probably recover. C. W. Osborn, 52 years old, severe injuries about the face and body; condition dangerous. Frank Robertson, 26 years old, broker, cut and bruised about the abdomen, face and hands, will probably die. Russell Sage, contused wound over forehead, hands and face burned and lacerated, not dangerously injured. J. J. Slocum, brother-in-law of Sage and cashier in his office, severely cut about the head and face.

President Harrison's Real Character.

CHICAGO, Ills., December 4.—In an interview, Chauncey M. Depew, touching on politics, said: "There is no division of sentiment in the Republican party as to Blaine. If he becomes a candidate for nomination nothing on earth can prevent his nomination if he desire it. If he does not, President Harrison will be the nominee. As to the present relations between these two gentlemen, I am told by each of them that they perfectly understand each other. The idea fostered by disappointed office seekers that President Harrison was a small man, mentally and physically; cold and narrow; became at one time the accepted belief of seven-tenths of the American people. While Mr. Harrison did not have this in view in taking his trip across the continent yet he accomplished the herculean task of talking to the whole people through the Associated Press at places where he stopped from day to day, so that they might know him better. There is no question that he accomplished this task, better than anyone has ever done before. People saw that they had been misled and there was a universal change of public sentiment.

MORE LIGHT.

A Few More Startling Facts From Valparaiso.

NEW YORK, December 4.—A correspondent in a letter from Chili under date of October 28th, speaks of the renewal of the agitation against Americans, and particularly against Minister Egan. Since the arrival of the New York and other papers to September 20th, the papers of Santiago and Valparaiso have been publishing American press comments. The attack against Admiral Brown is still being kept up and the papers are making much of the despatch from Admiral Viel, former intendente of Valparaiso, to Balmaceda the day after the landing of the troops at Quinteros. In it Admiral Viel informed Balmaceda that Admiral Brown expressed the belief that the congressional troops would not re-embark. At that time the government forces were inclined to believe that the landing of troops at Quinteros was merely a feint, and they intended to re-embark and effect another landing south of Valparaiso. The object in publishing this despatch is to give the impression that Admiral Brown gave the information to Viel in regard to what he had seen on his visit to Quinteros, and expressed an opinion or suggestion in regard to the movements of the troops there, which assisted Balmaceda in arranging his plans to resist the attack. American residents of Chili whose sympathies were with the congressional party during the war, express indignation at the conduct of the Provisional Government in regard to certain matters in which the American Government is interested, and also the hostile attitude of the public towards the United States. Referring to the Baltimore massacre, the correspondent says the attack was brutal and cowardly in the extreme, and it is believed that it was made merely because the men were Americans. There is also good reason to believe that the affair was premeditated. The attack was made not only by sailors of the Chilian warships and boatmen and other rough characters who infest the low saloons along the water front, but also by the police of Valparaiso, who made no effort to stop the disturbance, but joined in the assault upon the American sailors.

SAN FRANCISCO NEWS.

Lively Time With a D. T. Patient—Ravages of the Storm.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 4.—A passenger from Victoria on the Umatilla which arrived yesterday morning, was taken violently ill with delirium tremens and was locked up until he reached shore. When officers came to liberate him they found he had barricaded himself so strongly that it was impossible to open the door. Finally he capitulated and was taken to the home of the inebriates.

WOULD NOT ARGUE.

Judge Darwin, attorney for John White, ex-manager of the Call, on trial for embezzlement, declined to argue the case this morning.

WILD AND WAYWARD.

Rosie Fuller, aged 18, was found on the San Salito ferry on Wednesday evening crying for her mother, and surrounded by three men and a woman. She was separated from the gang and brought to the city in a steam launch, only to lead her protectors a dance all around town and trying to elude them before finally leading them to her home.

FRISCO BULLION RATES.

The following are the bank rates for bullion and exchange in this market: Drafts on sight, New York, per $100, 17½ cents; drafts on New York, telegraphic, 22½ cents; sterling bills on London, sixty bank, 84, 82½ sterling; bills on London, sight, 84, 85½; sterling bills on London, commercial, 848; silver bars per ounce 95½ to 95¾; Mexican dollars 75 to 75½.

CAPSIZED AT SEA.

A despatch received at the Merchants' Exchange last night from Mazatlan, Mex., confirms the report of the loss of the brig Tahiti. The despatch states that the ill-fated brig capsized eight miles south of Manzanillo. Whether anybody on board was saved is not known. A steamer and schooner have gone after the wreck, and if practicable will tow it into Mazatlan.

BLEW A GALE.

Yesterday's storm was one of the most violent experienced here for many years. The sewers were burst, the streets in the outside districts flooded; and there were also many accidents on the bay reported. The shops of the Southern Pacific railway at Sixteenth street, Oakland, are flooded with five feet of water. The damage is not stated though it is expected to be large. Over 300 men are thrown out employment by the flood. Considerable damage was also done to the city hall by the violence of the gale, which blew at the rate of 60 miles an hour.

All Plain Sailing.

Public speakers in this country have a nice, soft, easy time of it on the platform. They can go ahead with their speeches confident that the only attempt at refutation will come from their opponents on the platform, not as in England and Scotland from that bete noir of British politicians the dreaded "hackler." In Scotland the "hackler" is often a shoemaker, blacksmith or stonemason, trades noted for the number of extraordinarily intelligent men they possess, and, without prejudice, especially north of the Tweed. The "hackler" comes prepared with a list of searching questions. Questions that go to the very core of the matter, and which are put in such a way that evasion means disaster; equivocation, disgrace. The only safe plan is to honestly enter into a full and faithful explanation of the point, or if fairly cornered, to say so. Some of the cleverest platform speakers in Great Britain would much rather attempt to harangue the House towards the end of a long sitting than undergo the terrible ordeal of making an election speech in the South of Scotland in a hall containing half a dozen good "hacklers," with their grim, determined Scotch practicality and quiet, orderly behavior.

DOM PEDRO DEAD

BRAZIL'S EXILED EMPEROR PASSES QUIETLY AWAY.

Some of the Great Things He Did for Brazil—Descendant of Three Ancient Royal Houses—The Russell Divorce Case Excites Intense Interest—Crowded Court-Rooms—The Jury Return a Verdict for Respondent, Earl Russell.

PARIS, December 4.—Dom Pedro II (d'Alcantara), the exiled ex-Emperor of Brazil is dead.

Dom Pedro was born at Rio de Janeiro in 1825. On the abdication of Dom Pedro I (his father) in 1831, he succeeded to the throne. He was a man of a very high order of intelligence, and was well-known in Europe, the capitals of which he frequently visited. His majesty did much to develop the resources of his country, which prospered under his rule. The total emancipation of slaves in his dominions was effected in 1888. His wife, who died last year, was Princess Theresa Christina Maria, sister of Francis I, King of Naples. Dom Pedro was a lineal descendant of the houses of Braganza, Bourbon and Hapsburg.

The Wretched Russell Case

LONDON, December, 4.—There is no diminution in the interest in the Russell divorce case. When the proceedings began today the court-room was as crowded as on the previous days. The first witness put on the stand this morning was Dr. Rushworth, the family physician, who testified that the countess suffered from an hysterical affection which had its origin in a spinal malady, the result of injuries sustained by the countess when she was thrown from a cab in a runaway accident. Later in the day the jury in the Russell case returned a verdict for respondent.

CANADIAN NEWS.

Unprecedented Severity of the Weather—A Woman Perishes.

WINNIPEG, Man., December 4.—The heavy snow storm which set in yesterday continued unabated today. More snow has fallen than ever before known here this early in the winter. Trains on the various lines are nearly all cancelled. Mrs. John Peddie perished in the storm last night near Deloraine. Four Canadian Pacific employees were badly scalded tonight by the bursting of a pipe on a switch engine in the yards here. Driver Craig it is feared has received fatal injuries. Argument was heard in the Chisholm appeal case today before the full court. Judgment was reserved.

TOO BOLD A BARRON.

LINDSAY, Ont., December 4.—Barron, the Liberal member of parliament for North Victoria was unseated today for corrupt acts by his agent.

INGRAM KNOCKED OUT.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., December 4.—The election of Ingram, a member of parliament for East Elgin, was today declared void on the grounds of bribery by agents.

SUSPECTED POISONING.

OSHAWA, Ont., December 4.—The death has just occurred here of Colonel James F. Mulligan, well-known to old residents of Winnipeg. He had been ill for some months and as he had always been a strong, active man he suspected he was being poisoned.

BRITISH COLUMBIA COMPETITION

MONTREAL, December 4.—The lumber export trade from this place to South America shows signs of collapsing. During this year only one vessel, carrying 500,000 feet departed for Buenos Ayres. Last year five cargoes, containing in all about 3,860,000 feet, were shipped south, while during the previous year 30 vessels took 23,000,000 feet to South America.

NO MISTAKE THIS TIME.

TORONTO, Ont., December 4.—A cablegram from London says: The Canadian-American footballers who played a draw game with the Royal Arsenal team at Woolwich on Saturday, met the latter in a return match yesterday morning. The visitors were defeated by four goals to nothing.

THE THINSKIN DOWNED.

The jury in the case of E. A. MacDonald against the Toronto News, returned a verdict in favor of the newspaper.

TUPPER'S PATRIOTISM.

CHATHAM, Ont., December 3.—Hon. Mr. Tupper, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, addressed the Young Canadian's Conservative Club here tonight. He maintained that the Canadian farmer was equally as well off as his American neighbor. That Canadians were hostile to Americans he characterised as mere trash. The position of the Canadian Government was that, while friendly with Americans and anxious to trade with them, it would not be held to any arrangement which would detract from the national dignity or do injury to home interests. Canada had without success asked the States again and again to discuss trade arrangements. Their latest plea for not doing so was childish.

Another Chapter.

The Greer case again occupied the attention of the court yesterday. The day was taken up in listening to the concluding arguments of counsel and last evening they were finished. Judgment is reserved.

Westminster the Spot.

The Colonist wants to know if this could be be beaten: On Wednesday the bark Hawthornbank of Glasgow, came into port to be overhauled. She was placed in the dry dock at Esquimalt, and, having been thoroughly examined, scraped and received two coats of paint obtained her certificate to go to sea within 24 hours of the work being commenced. She goes to Tacoma to load. This is remarkable expedition, and it is questioned if anywhere the work could be better or more quickly done. THE LEDGER has no hesitation in saying that if Westminster had a dry dock, ten to one the ship would have been not only repainted, refitted, reprovisioned and ready for sea, but completely unbarnacled in half the time. All the smart people do not live on Vancouver Island.

A Musical Evening.

The audience at the promenade concert in the opera house last night was a good one, considering the weather and the counter attractions. Those who did not attend certainly missed a very fine little concert, for seldom has the Artillery Band played so well. The pieces selected showed appreciation of popular taste. There were rollicking excerpts from the light operas; a five minutes' reminiscence of Donizetti, just a few bars with Flotow and half a page of Verdi's sweetest. And judiciously mingled were popular airs with variations that compelled one to hum the said airs in sympathy. There is a very general hope expressed that the directorate of the band will not take last night as a specimen of what they may expect on a fine night. There would be great regret among the music-loving public of Westminster if the idea of the fortnightly concert were abandoned. The improvement made by the band was very favorably commented on last night. They certainly play with much more confidence and elegance than they did at their last concert; probably the effect of sedulous practice. The concert on Friday week, THE LEDGER has no hesitation in predicting, will be given to a bumper house.

CAN YOU COOK?

If You Want to Learn Attend Miss Goodacre's Lectures.

Miss M. V. H. Goodacre, graduate of the London, England, college of cookery, on Monday evening at 7:30 will begin a series of lectures on cooking in the Wintemute building, Columbia street. The lectures will continue for seven or eight successive evenings, (Sunday excepted.) Miss Goodacre will cook with Jewel gas ranges, manufactured by Clark & Co., of Chicago. These ranges are of new design, and have never yet been used on the Pacific coast. With them an "even" heat may be secured, and the cooking much improved. There are two different kinds of ranges which Miss Goodacre will operate. One is called a duplex and has three burners on the top and five in the oven. The top burners are used for heating saucepans etc. The heat may be regulated by a screw which moderates the supply of gas. The oven is divided into two sections. The lower section is for boiling, and is heated by two lower burners. The upper section is for broiling, roasting and toasting which is done by deflected, or top heat from three upper burners. There is no burning, smell or smoke, and the range is only 32 inches high and 20 inches wide. The other range is of a similar design; and is so constructed that pastry, and a thanksgiving turkey, or a roast of beef or mutton may be cooked at the same time.

Miss Goodacre, having concluded her course of lectures will take pupils. This chance is a good one for young ladies who not understanding the noble art of cooking do not wish to give their future husbands dyspepsia. The married men of Westminster are staunch supporters of Miss Goodacre. An old gentleman, who has spent twenty years of marital life, told that lady yesterday that she could rally upon his support. He had two daughters, and he would have them both take the lessons. He pitied the digestive organs of young married men, and would not permit his future son-in-law to undergo his experience. Miss Goodacre believes that she can introduce these ranges in the city. The Westminster Gas Company has decided to cut down its rate from $3 to $2 per 1000 feet of gas, for all who use these ranges.

PUNCH V. THE CITY.

Plaintiff Gets a Decree of Perpetual Injunction and Costs.

VICTORIA, B. C., December 4.—In the case of Punch v. New Westminster, judgment was given today in favor of plaintiff with costs. A decree for a perpetual injunction against the city's paying for the wharf on the south side of the river was granted.

Association Football.

There will be an interesting Association football match at Queen's Park this afternoon. The first eleven of the club will play the next fifteen. The players are getting into good condition for their struggle next Saturday with the Victorians, which is sure to be a hard one. Strong hopes are entertained by the Westminster Association men that the beautiful silver challenge cup will remain in their keeping when the season finishes. This can only be done, however, by faithful attention to practice, something the other clubs are by no means neglecting. There should be a grand rally at the park this afternoon.

Successfully Established.

A meeting was held last night in Messrs. Woods & Gamble's office for the purpose of forming a branch of the Canadian Mutual Loan and Investment Company in Westminster. The following directors were elected: Messrs. John Campbell, David Robson, J. W. Corbett, Hugh Gordon, Wallace Law, T. E. Julian, William Currie, A. E. Woods, S. H. Flint. The following stockholders were also appointed: Ald. M. Sinclair, president; A. O. Campbell, vice; A. J. Patterson, secretary-treasurer; McPhillips & Williams, solicitors; Charles E. Woods, valuator. The provincial agents are Messrs. Patterson and Williams. The objects of the society are for the safe investment of small capital and the lending of money to the members on more advantageous terms than could be obtained through other means. It is a national company and can therefore place its loans without loss of time. The company does not deal in real estate or engage in any speculation. The advantages offered deserve the attention of all who wish to invest savings with security.

The Wealthy Dead.

EDITOR MORNING LEDGER: Sir,—Your note at the foot of my letter in your number of this date says that I have "unintentionally" exaggerated the amounts left by the millionaires to whom I "refer." Now, I beg to say that my authority for the £25,000,000, sterling, that the late Samuel Jones Loyd—Lord Overstone, the great London banker, was worth in 1865, or 1866 when he sold the good will of his bank for £1,500,000, sterling, to the London and Westminster bank is, the London Times; for the time being, and, I know, that the will of the late Mr. Crawshay, Cyfarthfa Castle, South Wales, was proved for about £12,000,000, sterling, and that the will of the late Mr. Thomas Brassey, father of Lord Brassey, who was a farmer and railway contractor, and a partner of Sir Samuel Morton Peto, Bart. and of Mr. Betts, was proved for about £12,000,000, sterling. There is no exaggeration whatever as far as the aforesaid amounts are concerned, for I have seen the amounts in print more than once. Of course, every reader will understand, that the other amounts are "guesses" of mine. I still think that I have guessed near the mark, as it is well known that when wills are proved in England the property is hardly ever valued at more than about two-thirds of the value in order to save the probate duty payable to the government.

PROGRESS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

It is astonishing how prone is poor humanity, when for a time living amid the huzzas of the crowd, to come to the conclusion that to the world it is indispensable. This curious fact is pointedly illustrated by the tone of the Mayor's remarks at every public meeting since the present municipal election campaign began. He is astounded that objection should be made to his choice of a man to succeed him in the office of mayor. At the meeting last night he scolded the audience at a great rate. How, he said in effect, are you to expect good men to accept these offices if you will not be guided by their advice? He had simply made the error, which is indeed not infrequently made, if believing his own opinion superior to that of the whole people, and that no matter whom the people might be inclined to nominate, his nomination of a successor should take precedence and over-ride all opposition. Why, he said, we put Mr. WALKER in the field before anyone else was out, and you should not therefore object to him! "'Tis holy sport," says a line in SHAKESPEARE, "to be a little vain," and perhaps this is true, but to be completely wrapped up and blinded by vanity is most deplorable. No man, however, eminent, should forget that he is not altogether indispensable, that the world might be able to wiggle along without him. And then how slightly a man is considered when out of the way.

"Imperial Cæsar, dead and turned to clay, Might stop a hole to keep the wind away."

It is useless to rail at fate, Mr. BROWN has been telling the people every time he has been on his legs recently, how many nails he has driven into his coffin by his attention to the city's interests. He told the audience last night that he had driven "whole lots" of them in. But this iteration is getting, to say the least, tiresome. It makes the crowd feel as though they were in some degree murderers, and that is unpleasant. They get inclined to retort that they didn't ask him to, and don't want anybody to drive nails in their coffins on their account. Besides, the public at length begin to question whether it is exactly a mark of modest worth to be continually alluding to one's own devotion by adverting to the gruesome subject of the coffin nails they have driven. It uncomfortably reminds them of the saying that the woman who is ever prating of her virtues is much to be suspected in the practice of them. It is indeed high time the mayor were "called down" on this coffin nail business. Besides, screws are generally used now, anyway.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Vancouver City Council has just been strengthening its Licensing Bylaw. No license is hereafter to be granted within 100 yards of any church, hospital or school, and saloon licenses are to cost $500 instead of $400 as heretofore. This high license fee is believed to afford some guarantee of respectable ownership and efficient control.

The decision of the governor of Tennessee to enforce the vile system of convict contract labor in the mines at any cost is likely to lead to bloodshed, the free workers of the state being determined to resist the system, legalized though it is by a statute worthy of the dark ages. Armed stockades are now being set up to enforce this convict slave system in this strangely ruled free state.

Good news is to hand for the nickel mine owners and workers of Algoma, the United States naval department having now ordered that all future naval armor plating shall be made of that metal. This will mean a large early demand for nickel at good prices. Other nations too will probably follow the example now set by the United States, and make still heavier requisitions on the Canadian nickel supply.

The present Emperor of Germany is a man of great capacity, many duties and as many resources. He is even ready on occasion to conduct public worship, as he did the other day on the Imperial yacht. He then also preached or rather read an excellent sermon, not however his own but apparently openly acknowledged as another's. The report nevertheless spread far and wide that the emperor had shown his versatility by writing and preaching a sermon.

The awful dynamite explosion in New York caused apparently by socialist miscreants, is likely—following as it does similar threats of renewed mischief in Chicago—to cause American public opinion to insist upon the adoption of the strongest measures to keep under the dangerous element, now so prominent in the large cities of "the States." The would-be Chicago dynamiters will after this assuredly receive short shrift, if they make any further threats.

There is much to be said for the election of aldermen by the voters of the whole of a city instead of as now by a far small ward divisions. Men of broad views, acceptable as representatives of the whole community, would then more frequently come forward. The one danger of the change would lie in the possibility of the neglect of certain localities by elected aldermen, possibly not failing directly from them. This risk would however be minimised by an active public opinion asserting itself through the press and otherwise.

The Toronto Mail states that the Hon. Mr. BOWELL will probably take steps very shortly, by closely controlling and where possible reducing working expenditure, to replace the present yearly deficits on the Dominion Government railways by surpluses that will at least pay something towards the interest on construction outlay. Last year, the Inter-colonial and other Government railways failed by $653,000 to meet current expenses, whilst they should earn annually $1,710,000 in order to pay a modest 3 per cent on the $57,000,000 expended on their construction. This return they will possibly never make under departmental management, but it is hoped that they may at least some day do more than cover working expenses, instead of as now incurring yearly deficits on these.

own fiercely contested general election have no doubt wondered at the simultaneous quietude in Vancouver. This however is explained by the fact that the nomination and election there take place next month, not as here during the present one. The men of Vancouver are therefore only just beginning to move in the matter, a new candidate for the next mayoralty being announced in Dr. CARROLL, now an alderman of two years' standing. It is somewhat doubtful whether Mayor OPPENHEIMER will again stand though the World strongly urges him to do so, deeming no other Vancouver citizen eligible at this juncture. It seems in any case likely that Dr. CARROLL will be opposed, and it is certain that those of the leper releasing aldermen who stand for re-election will find sturdy antagonists.

The movement for the unification of the Anglican Episcopal dioceses of Canada and Newfoundland under a British North American synod is making headway steadily, the more important dioceses in east Canada having already generally approved the scheme, several of them so resolving only last month. This movement, following the course already adopted with satisfactory results by the Presbyterian and Methodist communities, is now likely to be fully matured by the year 1893 at the latest. The Anglican churches throughout the Dominion are already of course one in their loyalty to doctrine liturgy and general system of church government, but their further unification would enable the Episcopal church throughout Canada to speak out effectively as one body when necessary on religious and social issues of national concern.

A correspondent in our evening contemporary, writing over the nom de plume of "A Disinterested Witness," makes the following remarks: "I saw a good deal of horrid nonsense published on this continent, but anything to equal Walker's essay on reform has not appeared in print since the keen, well-educated critic who edits THE LEDGER presented us with those samples of rigmarole called 'Beauty's Balance.'" We must conclude that "A Disinterested Witness" has really never read "Beauty's Balance," or that his literary acumen is deficient, for the excellence of the literature of those articles will scarcely be questioned by any competent critic, and an evidence of this is to be found in the fact that some of those sketches are shortly to be reproduced in the pages of an eastern magazine of high standing. The lady who wrote "Beauty's Balance" has contributed not a few articles to some of the leading literary publications of America, and she will not, therefore, be much disturbed by the loose reference that "A D. W." makes to her work. She is indeed a lady of very considerable attainments in the field of polite literature.

Chief Justice Begbie's Opinion.

The Times says that in the course of the argument at the sitting of the royal commission on Thursday, the chief justice made a remark which gives his idea of the university project better than the most exhaustive interview. The question being discussed was extravagance in the expenditure of civic funds, and the chief justice interpolated the remark that the $50,000 the city intended to raise for a university could be applied to streets, for instituting a university in this province just at present was like putting a fifth wheel to a carriage.

Answer to Correspondent.

"ENQUIRER" — The Transvaal was annexed in 1877, during the last administration of the Earl of Beaconsfield. Mr. Gladstone came into office in April, 1880, and the Transvaal war broke out on the 16th December following. Mr. Gladstone's ministry was therefore responsible for the beginning and subsequent conduct of the war, which was brought to an end in the following year by the well known treaty recognising the Boer Republic. The facts, as above stated, will be found by our correspondent in more detail in Whitaker's Almanac for 1891, under the several headings "Transvaal" and "British administration since 1763." This information and the means of its verification will probably meet the requirements of "Enquirer" and his friend.—[ED.]

Will Have His Fling.

The last number of the Illustrated American says: "James Gordon Bennett contemplates a trip across the Pacific in his yacht Namouna. He will join it at Vancouver and set sail. Mr. Bennett should be watched. He is a bold, venturesome, dashing sprig of American manhood, and there is no telling what his pluck will be when out of sight of land. They will not be what anybody expects, as Mr. Bennett hates 'a rut' and loves surprises. Whether he will sail northward and poach on the sealing ground, or sail to the southwest and elope with the dusky queen of the Sandwich Islands, is a question; but that he will cause a 'shake-up' somewhere is beyond all doubt. A Scotchman in head, a Frenchman at heart and an American otherwise, Mr. Bennett is a dangerous and explosive anatomy to loose on the placid Pacific."

Joseph Lutz, an old man, a resident of Volger's Cove, N. S., crept into his son's room, razor in hand, with the intention of murdering him. The son jumped out of bed and threw his father down stairs. The old man then cut his own throat. A doctor was summoned, the wound sewed up, and his life saved.

McKenzie Street Loan Bylaw, 1891.

A Bylaw to raise by loan the sum of $11,000 for the purpose of purchasing part of lot 22, in block 13, for widening McKenzie Street, in the City of New Westminster.

Whereas it is expedient that McKenzie Street, in the City of New Westminster, should be widened to the extent of eleven feet, between Columbia Street and Clarkson Street;

And whereas it has been ascertained that the land required for the widening of said street can be procured for the sum of $9,250, and it will require the sum of $750 in addition to pay the cost of the land of the arbitrators in respect to said expropriation and the expense of making said street;

And whereas it is provided by the "McKenzie Street Expropriation Bylaw, 1891," that one-third of the cost of the expropriation of the said land shall be provided for by a special rate to be levied upon the lots or part of lots fronting or abutting on the said street, and the balance by the general rate;

And whereas for the purpose of raising the said sum of $11,000 it will be necessary to issue debentures for that amount;

And whereas for the payment of interest and creating a sinking fund for payment of the said debentures it will be necessary to raise the sum of $770 by special rate in each year;

And whereas the amount of the whole taxable property in the said city, according to the last revised assessment roll is the sum of $3,267,530;

And whereas the total amount of the existing debt of the said city is $93,500;

And whereas for the purpose of raising the said yearly sum of $770 an equal special rate of three-twentieths of one mill in the dollar will be required;

Therefore the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of New Westminster in Council assembled enact as follows:

1. It shall be lawful for the Mayor of the said city to raise by loan from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate, who may be willing to advance the same upon the credit of the debentures hereinafter mentioned, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of $11,000.

2. It shall be lawful for the said Mayor to cause any number of debentures to be made for such sums of money as may be required, but not for less than $100 each, such debentures to be sealed with the seal of the Corporation, signed by the Mayor and countersigned by the Treasurer of the said city.

3. The said debentures shall bear date the 1st day of January, 1892, and shall be made payable in fifty years at furthest from the said date, and the same not to be payable in any place or places other than shall be agreed upon between the purchaser or purchasers thereof and the said Mayor, and the said debentures shall have attached to them coupons for the payment of interest.

4. The said debentures shall bear interest at the rate of five per centum per annum from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half-yearly on the first days of January and July in each and every year.

5. For the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said debentures, and for the payment of the interest thereon, an equal annual special rate of three-twentieths of one mill in the dollar shall be levied and collected, in addition to all other rates, in each year upon all the ratable property in the said city during the currency of the said debentures or any of them.

6. All moneys arising from the said rate beyond the amount required for the payment of interest upon the said debentures, may be invested from time to time as the Trustees in that behalf may deem fit, for the purpose of creating a sinking fund for the redemption of the said debentures as they respectively become due, without prejudice to any of the powers conferred upon the said Council by the act of incorporation.

9. This bylaw shall come into force on the 31st day of December, 1891.

10. This bylaw, before the final passing thereof, shall receive the assent of the electors of the city in the manner provided in the "New Westminster Act, 1886," and Amending Act.

11. This bylaw may be cited as the "McKenzie Street Loan Bylaw, 1891."

NOTICE.

Take notice that the above is a true copy of the proposed bylaw which will be taken into consideration by the Municipal Council of the City of New Westminster after one month from the first publication thereof in the Ledger newspaper, which first publication took place on the 11th day of Nov., 1891, and that a vote of the electors of the city will be taken on said proposed bylaw on the 11th day of Dec., 1891, between the hours of 9 o'clock a. m. and 5 o'clock p. m., at the following places, namely: In Ward No. 1, at the house of Frank Davis, No. 108, Sixth avenue, in said Ward; in Ward No. 2, at the office of the late Dominion Sawmill Co., Columbia street, in said Ward; in Ward No. 3, at the City Hall, in said Ward; in Ward No. 4, at the residence of Geo. WRATH AND ORATORY

The West End Meeting Last Night a Warm One.

J. C. BROWN LOSES HIS TEMPER.

The Candidates State Their Several Cases Clearly.

Ald. Walker's meeting in the west end school house last night was attended by one hundred persons. The school room, in which the meeting was held, was badly lighted, and economy on fuel was the order of the evening.

On the motion of Ald. Walker, Mr. William Howay was moved to the chair. He asked the audience to keep up the west end reputation for fair play, and orderliness. He would permit no unseemly conduct and he wanted every speaker to have the best of British fair play (hear, hear), and would tolerate no interruptions.

Ald. Walker first ascended the platform, and folded his arms in Hamlet-like style. He would first explain the reasons of the small appropriations for Ward 1, or rather improvements that had been made in that ward during the year. The extension of Columbia street westward to the city limits, which was calculated to develop Ward 1, had been unavoidably delayed. The delay has been chiefly caused by the negotiations with the C. P. R. with regard to the proposed removal of their depot yards into the ward. It was hoped that this would take place in the summer, and would be the commencement of an extension to English Bay which would enable the Canadian Pacific to run their main line through Westminster and thus save the expense of their special branch service. Since the council heard definitely from the company that they were not prepared to do this, no time had been lost by the council in pushing forward the extension of Columbia street. This scheme included the connection of all the streets running to the river with Columbia street so that the traffic from the city to the ward could reach any part of the ward on a good level road with only one rise therefrom. For this purpose the $5,000 voted by the council and passed by the taxpayers was destined by Ald. Smithers who represented the ward in the board of works, and himself. There yet remained $4,500 to the credit of ward 1, and it would be one of his chief endeavors, if elected, to cooperate with the new aldermen and see that this money was spent in the ward, and also that the ward got its own share of the appropriation for 1892. The speaker said he would do away, as much as possible, with the property qualification for voting. The nearer they got to universal suffrage the better. Every man at full age should have power to vote for mayor and aldermen. He believed in government for the people, and by the people. He was also very sorry it cost such a lot of money every time a bylaw had to be voted upon. It would cost $200 to ascertain the sentiment of the electorate on the McKenzie street widening bylaw. The speaker believed in a simple and more economical method of ascertaining the views of the people. The provincial school act was unjust. The school board should be elective. The government had no just right to appoint men to spend other people's money. Charles I had lost his head because he had taxed the people without representation. This monarch had levied shipmoney, and without the consent of his subjects. The British Columbia Government was doing a similar act in the school law. They were carrying out Charles First's foolish policy. The speaker would amend the school law if it lay in his power. Mr. Townsend had issued an address, and why? Mr. Townsend himself had said that he (Townsend) had issued an address because the evening paper compelled him (laughter). The speaker feared neither morning nor evening paper. Mr. Townsend's address was headed "Oh that mine enemy would write a book" (laughter). What did the heading refer to? Did it give a back-stab (hisses)? The speaker then read an extract from the conclusion of Mr. Townsend's address, and said there was an imputation in it upon Mayor Brown and Mr. Robson, the city clerk. He (the speaker) would let Mr. Brown take care of himself (laughter). But would say on behalf of Mr. Robson that that gentleman was ever assiduous in the discharge of his duties. Mr. Robson had enough work of his own without attending to Mayor Brown's as the address of Mr. Townsend would lead them to believe Mr. Robson did. (Cheers.) The speaker advocated the establishment of branch libraries in the West End and at Sapperton. He thought this could be done when the library bylaw had been passed. The speaker also wished to draw their attention to a source of great trouble, the Indian chicks. He would have them removed, and would order the Indians to go to their reserves. There was also something else that he could not refer to openly. He would designate them, "as places in the swamp." He had done his utmost with the chief of police to get these places attended to. But he was only one of five police commissioners. Upon two occasions the speaker had personally requested the chief of police to take steps. Why these steps had not been taken he could not tell. Possibly the chief of police could. The speaker concluded his address by asking those present for their support. He wanted every man to vote for the candidate he thought would best represent the city.

Here a gentleman in the audience stood up and asked Ald. Walker to explain why he had done nothing for ward No. 1, and also wanted to know why a three-plank sidewalk had not been built from Levi's hotel to the mills.

Ald. Walker threw the blame for ward improvements on the shoulders of Ald. Smithers, the other representative of Ward 1. Ald. Smithers, he said, sat on the board of works for Ward 1, and it was that gentleman's duty to attend to the interests of that ward.

A Voice—But you are not telling us about the three-plank sidewalk.

Ald. Walker—I don't know about it. I do know that Mr. Levi is one of my supporters. (Laughter.)

Rev. Mr. Haddon—How about the $4,500 to the credit of Ward 1, and why are not the streets open in this ward?

Ald. Walker—The statement came from the board of works that there were "no funds." These things were referred to the board of works. I could not do everything.

Rev. Mr. Haddon—But it is stated that you never asked for anything during the year for Ward No. 1. If there are funds why not comply with the request of the people for streets? There are twelve houses in this ward that have not got a thoroughfare. Is it not doing these people a wrong? (Cheers.)

Ald. Walker—All these matters were always referred to the board of works to report to the council, and sometimes they got no further. (Laughter.)

Mr. James Cunningham said that the statement of Ald. Walker's—that there was between $4,000 and $5,000 in the city treasury to the credit of Ward 1, and that at the same time the ratepayers were sending in petitions requesting to have work done, seemed to clash a little. (Cheers.) The speaker had property on the Thorne road, and had driven up there the other day to visit it. But there was no road or sidewalk and he had found it very difficult to take a look around. The speaker had said then that his time of reckoning would come; it was here tonight (laughter.) The speaker sympathized with Ald. Walker, and perhaps might need Ald. Walker's sympathy some day (laughter). Mr. Cunningham had property in the ward. He did not speculate in property. When he bought he stuck to what he purchased, and did not buy lots for making money on, (laughter and shouts of oh! oh!). The speaker hoped Ald. Walker would try to obtain what money he could for Ward 1 between the present time and the end of the municipal year.

Ald. Walker—I will do whatever I can.

Mr. Cunningham said it seemed to him that the mayor's chair was a long way ahead; it appeared miles off. (Laughter.) But the speaker believed that with their aid he would get there. Without their aid he could do nothing. They saw by the evening paper that he was required to render an account of his character. The publishers of the Columbian were like men who went about digging up corpses. They wanted to dig up the speaker's corpse out of his political grave, and see from what disease he had died politically. (Laughter.) He had not died of any disease. He had committed political suicide. He would tell the audience the account of his political life. He had been a merchant, kept a large store and the government had been customers of his before he entered political life. After he was elected a few purchases had been made at his store by the government. It was at that time that there was a great outcry against "boodling" in the House of Commons. The speaker's name was brought up. He had spoken to the Hon. Mr. McKenzie and Hon. Mr. Blake, and Mr. Blake had told him if he (the speaker) had violated the Independence of Parliament Act, he had done so innocently. The speaker nevertheless resigned his seat. And, when he returned to New Westminster, he had found that Mayor Brown, who then ran The Herald newspaper, had "worked up" the affair to white heat. And again another inducement that had led the speaker to abandon political life, was that he was eternally annoyed by seekers for public positions, and among them Mayor Brown's friends (laughter). The speaker could not stand it any longer. The Columbian and Mayor Brown were now trying to politically dig up the speaker. But he would leave it to his fellow-countrymen, whether they would permit these persons to do so. It was a question of character. A man might have money and houses, and everything else, but if miscreants took away his character it was proper that he rise in his manhood and defend himself. (Cheers.) The speaker hoped that the gentlemen present would show those men who had no principle that they could not trample him in the dust. (Cheers.) The speaker had been mayor of the city twice; member of the city council; and he was confident that he was able to fill the mayor's chair again. He favored the electric light, the ferry and the waterworks. It was proper that they should be supported. He would not cut down wages as had been stated. He would dispense with the services of paid firemen and go back again to the old Hyack days. They could do it with safety when they had the waterworks. The speaker would also retrench in the police department. A thousand dollars monthly was too much. There could be considerable economy in this branch. He would borrow no more money except for drainage, and he would go in for paying off the debt. The speaker was not willing that the taxation should exceed its present limit, 1½ per cent. It was now somewhat exorbitant.

A voice—Did you think these prices exorbitant when you sold stoves? (Laughter.)

Mr. Cunningham—Did you ever buy a stove from me? If I have sold you a stove and you think it is not worth the money come up and I will make a rebate. If you find a man in British Columbia that I have charged 10 cents too much I will give him $10.

The same voice—You told me a lie a fortnight ago.

Voices—Put the fellow out.

Mr. Cunningham then concluded his address, asking all who had votes to turn out on election day, and poll them for the best man.

Mayor Brown sprang to his feet as Mr. Cunningham was leaving the platform.

"Stay, Mr. Cunningham," he shouted. "I want you to answer me a few questions."

Mr. Cunningham waved his arm and said "I will have nothing to do with you."

Mayor Brown turned round to the audience and said: "You see, my friends, Mr. Cunningham is afraid of my questions. But I will have a chance later."

Mr. Cunningham—Mr. Brown has been digging me out of my grave, my friends. I do declare that he is affected with political blood-poisoning. (Cheers and laughter.)

Mr. Townsend said he wanted to correct a false impression. Messrs. Woods & Gamble had only acted as brokers in the case of the letter the speaker had referred to in the opera house, and which letter dealt with the proposed purchase of electric light shares. The matter was simply reduced down to suit the family clique (laughter). Ald. Walker had used a little of Mayor Brown's faculty of juggling with words (hisses). The leader in the Columbian tonight was written on the speaker's address. And anyone who knew Mayor Brown could see that gentleman sticking out of it (laughter). He had published an address not because the Columbian had demanded him to do so, but because they had insisted that it was right that he did so. Mayor Brown had the faculty of construing and misconstruing; got the audience following him, and made them believe what they don't want to believe. (Laughter.) At the Sapperton meeting Mayor Brown had said that they did not look out of the present council for the future mayor. Mayor Brown had said they brought out Ald. Walker. And Ald. Walker said he had not been brought out.

Mayor Brown rose but the chairman ruled that Mr. Townsend had the floor.

Mr. Townsend.—Mayor Brown was a clever politician, and when he could not be the power on the throne he thought he would be the power behind the throne. Ald. Walker was to be mayor and Mayor Brown was to get one of his clique in each ward, and was himself to run for Ward 4. Mayor Brown would have more power on the floor of the council chamber than in the chair. It was a very good business arrangement (hear, hear, and laughter). He would show Mayor Brown that there was some one in Westminster who had a little brains beside him. Ald. Walker had posed as a highly cultivated literary genius. (Laughter.) If Walker had not Brown behind him Walker would not be knee high to a grasshopper. (Prolonged laughter.) Mayor Brown had done some good things. It was the speaker's policy always to give the devil his due; and he would not detract from Mayor Brown's merit. (Roars of laughter.) The speaker thought the school act should at once be amended.

Mayor Brown explained that he had worked hard against the passage of the present school act, but it was of no avail, as it was a government measure, and it was a case of "thumbs down" (laughter). The speaker thought that the duty of looking after the interests of Ward 1 in the council, in the line of ward improvements, devolved upon Ald. Smithers, as that gentleman was a member of the board of works. The electric light was costing the city $5,000 yearly, but when the new dynamo was working, the private lighting would fully pay for the public lighting. The present light service could not be obtained from a private corporation under $13,500, and this was an annual saving of $8,500. It was queer that when he (the speaker) had ran a newspaper, and whenever a good article appeared therein Brown had always got someone else to write it; but now he was out of the newspaper business Brown wrote all the "leaders." The same at the council. Any good measure Brown could not have accomplished; but at a bad one he was always deemed the parent. The speaker denied that he had ever accused Mr. Cunningham when he (the speaker) edited the Herald, and offered to submit the matter to a committee of three gentlemen for proof. Mr. Cunningham had endeavored to create a false impression regarding his (Cunningham's) political career. Mr. Cunningham had "knowingly" violated the independence of parliament act. Mr. Cunningham had sold large quantities of goods to the government and Mr. Cunningham was obliged to commit political suicide to prevent political execution. (Laughter.) Mr. Cunningham had called the speaker a miscreant. He would ask them who was the miscreant? The speaker then read from a letter of Mr. Lenahan, the Indian agent, in which Mr. Lenahan stated that he had submitted estimates for goods to three hardware firms and that Cunningham's cut rate had saved the government hundreds of dollars. Mr. Cunningham had opposed the electric light and the ferry and he could not deny it. Mr. Brown continued ten minutes more attacking Mr. Cunningham, and then took his seat.

Mr. Scoullar was then loudly called for by the audience and on coming forward was received with great applause. He said he was pained to see the previous speaker exhibit such malignity in going back into the dusty records of the past to discover something nasty to say of his opponent Mr. Cunningham, whom he had as much as said he would leave no means tried to defeat in the present contest or perish in the attempt. "God knows," said the speaker, "we all have our faults, and few would be found blameless in any walk of life." But if the mayor was so anxious for history he (the speaker) would let him have history. Mr. Brown, it was well known, had proved himself an utter failure as a newspaper publisher, and so anxious was he to get himself comfortably shelved in the pay of the government, that when his unfortunate predecessor in the postmastership had committed suicide by shooting himself, he, the man who now sought to pose before the audience as one incorruptible and of god-like attributes, had such lacking of the ordinary qualities of humanity, that he had actually applied to the government for the poor suicide's berth in the postoffice before the brain of the unfortunate one had ceased to quiver in his skull (cries of "shame, shame"). This was a fact that was well known, and the chairman would vouch for it (sensation). And yet this man came to this meeting with the mouldy records of his defunct newspaper to asperse the character of decent citizens. It was a most shameful spectacle, and showed him to be one of the worst hypocrits in the country. (Loud applause and uproar). Mr. Scoullar then went on for some time with a vigorous defence of his administration of the board of works department, and concluded with a scathing reference to the humiliating position in which Alderman Walker had allowed himself to be placed as the Jack who had bobbed up when Mr. Brown pulled the string. (Loud applause).

Mayor Brown rushed to the platform pale with passion and began to gesticulate while the audience cried "Time, time, sit down," etc. The chairman interfered and the speaker went on to explain why he had been so hasty in asking for the suicide's berth. Just at that time he had been told that Mr. John Robson had telegraphed to his brother David, who was then in the east, to bring out a newspaper plant and start an opposition paper to the one then being conducted by Mr. Brown. He (the speaker) was advised that if Mr. Robson's paper was started one of them would fail, and he was advised by his friends to sell out his paper to Mr. Robson, and apply for the postoffice. He determined to follow this advice, and so he had to be very hasty in applying for the position as postmaster (loud laughter).

At this moment Mr. Scoullar came forward to make some statement, when Mr. Brown completely lost his temper and shouted at the top of his voice that Mr. Scoullar and some of the rest of them had been trying to sell the city, that they were now maligning him, and that THE LEDGER had been the chief instrument for their purpose. (Jeers and uproar.)

The chairman called the meeting to order, and someone moved an adjournment which was declared carried by the chairman rising and leaving his place.

"Oh That Mine Enemy Would Write a Book!"

TO THE RATEPAYERS OF NEW WESTMINSTER: In spite of my repeatedly expressed determination not to use the newspapers in this campaign the Columbian has, by its articles, forced me to Write.

As to its reference to supporters subscribing to election expenses. I have never received, nor do I wish for anyone to subscribe, a ten cent piece towards mine.

It demands as a public Right that I place my signature under an expression of my policy. I fear no man, and am always ready to do what is right—my past record is proof of that—and I consider I have stronger claims on the ratepayers than Ald. Walker.

My Policy—A strict adherence to the progressive policy inaugurated by the Council of 1891.

Economy in everything that would not detract from the efficiency of the public service.

A determination to act strictly within the limit of the powers granted in our Charter and avoid, if possible, litigation; thus saving the money for public improvements.

As our Water and Light systems will soon become reproductive, I would oppose borrowing any more money except enough to start the sewerage system, which is imperative. I would make that loan as small as possible to cover present requirements, and continue the system in after years out of the general revenue, which will keep increasing.

To try either to secure necessary amendments in our present Charter, or abolish the Charter and work under the provisions of the General Municipalities Act.

I would take every means in my power to keep down taxation.

Having no other business, I should give my whole time and attention to the duties of the office, and by constant attendance during business hours give the City Clerk time to attend to his clerical work instead of doing that of the Mayor.

If returned I will prove that I offer you no Lip Service.

The Irving brought down 561 bales hay, 42 hogs, 150 packages canned fruit, 21 cases honey. There were also 29 passengers.

Beautiful views of the city and views in book form at Thompson's studio. *

Whispers are floating around that the old rifle company may be resuscitated under entirely new management some of these fine days.

When you want a first-class hack call up the Crown stables; telephone No. 45. *

In the police court yesterday morning Ellis Saunders was fined $10 for drunkenness; E. Dallanger, charged with a like offence, paid $2.50.

For a good horse and buggy go to the Crown Stables. A. E. Clarke, proprietor. *

Messrs. Beaton & Ireland have been awarded the contract for clearing those lots on Third avenue for which tenders were called in THE LEADER by Mr. C. R. Townley.

A. McDonald, charged with vagrancy, in the district court, pleaded guilty. He was given two hours to get out of town or six months in jail. He "footed" it pretty lively.

Ducks, grouse and all kinds of game at the New Grotto Restaurant, open day and night. *

A new door has been cut in the front of the old drill shed. There is no immediate danger of the building falling in, although the battery does that regularly twice a week.

The Bonanza! The Bonanza! Remember the Bonanza Restaurant on Front street. *

The Empress of China brought as part of her cargo a large quantity of Japanese oranges, the first of the new crop, which will be welcome as the Californian fruit is not yet ready for market.

Fresh oysters in any style at the New Grotto. Try a stew tonight. You'll never regret it. *

"Our Boys" will be presented at the opera house in January by the Amateur Dramatic Society. It is probable that this society will play in Vancouver under the auspices of the Women's hospital.

Comfortable cottage to rent with orchard; six rooms; choice locality. Apply M. Gray, Russell House. *

At the court of revision of the Dominion voters' list, held in the city hall yesterday morning, several names were added to the list. Mr. Armstrong, the revising barrister, had only an hour's work.

Cold weather has set in and you will find a splendid assortment of heating stoves at Cunningham Bros. *

Snow began to fall last evening about 6:30, and there were symptoms of quite a heavy fall. But the symptoms didn't work just right, and the rest of the snow will be along some time before Christmas.

Have you seen the new Xmas cards. Picturesque New Westminster on sale at Thompson's studio and the book stores.*

The second of the U. S. S. Co's. new steel steamers will be launched this morning at 10 o'clock at False Creek, Vancouver. She is to be named the Capilano. The one remaining is to be christened the Coquitlam.

For Sale—The fine steam tug "Clara Young" and two first-class 70-ton scows. Will be sold cheap. S. T. Mackintosh & Co. *

At the Junction depot yesterday a hog was run over and cut completely in two. A short time after, a number of magpies from the adjoining woods alighted on the carcase and seemed to enjoy the feast of pork immensely.

Cottage to rent, $14 per month, five rooms, on Pelham street. Apply at once, George Gray, fruit store, Douglas street. *

The through trip, via the electric tramway, between Vancouver and Westminster, will soon be made in 45 minutes. New motors have been ordered. Additional cars are also to be ordered to meet the rapidly growing patronage.

Silver Star Stove Polish. No dust, no dirt, no smell. Every housekeeper should have it. At Corbett & Cliff's, opposite the Opera House. *

The British Columbia branch of the Dominion Alliance is calling upon all churches, Y. M. C. A.'s, W. C. T. U.'s, lodges, councils, divisions, Rechabites, etc., to attend the regular annual session in Good Templars' Hall, Cordova street, Vancouver, on Wednesday, December 16th, at 10 a. m.

The Magic Fire Kindler dispenses altogether with the use of kindling. It is cheap, clean, safe and always ready for use. For sale by all grocers. *

Five cars of cattle and one of horses arrived and were unloaded at the C. P. R. stockyards last night. The stock came from the interior. The cattle are for the British Columbia Cattle Company, the horses for the Victoria Transfer Company. A lot of Vancouver cattle came here by mistake on the same train.

Steamer Delaware will resume her regular trips from Mathers & Milligan's wharf to Chilliwack and way ports on Friday morning, December 4th. *

Mr. Townsend tells us he made a mistake in his speech on Wednesday evening when he said the city newspapers last year had each charged him $45 for a small election advertisement; the sum mentioned was the total sum charged by both papers, each bill being a little over $22, and they were each made up of a number of items.

Remember Cunningham's committee meeting tonight. Ratepayers who wish the affairs of this city conducted on business principles should attend. *

The police have been informed that some mischievous boys have broken a number of window panes in several new unoccupied cottages on the North Arm road. If any of those young scamps are caught, an example will be made that will put a stop to such pranks for a long time. The police are keeping strict watch of the spot.

It is a genuine pleasure to use Silver Star Stove Polish. No dust, no dirt, no smell, no labor. It polishes almost instantly. Try it. Corbett & Cliff, opposite the Opera House. *

Mr. N. H. Stevens, a member of the well known firm of Campbell & Stevens, whose extensive flouring mills are located at Chatham, Ont., is in the city, being on a trip through to Southern California. He is accompanied by his brother Dr. Rollin H. Stevens of Detroit, who has some notion of taking up his permanent abode in this Province.

The Magic Fire Kindler for lighting fire is now rapidly replacing the old system of pitchwood, chips, paper, coal oil and kindling of any other kind. Your grocer will supply you with a free sample. Do not fail to try it. *

They can do a number of things well over on the Sound, but they cannot build steamboats a little bit. The mistakes in the construction of the steamer Victorian cost Superintendent Troupe his position, and the faulty construction of the City of Seattle may cost Superintendent Jackson his position. Both of these boats cost a quarter of a million dollars each. The Seattle shakes too much, her engines not being balanced.

Than the Oriental Hotel, Vancouver, there is not a pleasanter place in the Terminal City to stop at. There are 150 spacious and well ventilated rooms. Electric light supplied from a plant on the premises, and the house is provided with its own fire brigade. Free bus to and from the railway depot and Tramway line. Rates $1 to $1.50 per day. Take a look in at the Oriental next day you are in Vancouver. Crane & Thomas proprietors, 236 Water street, and 321 Cordova street. *

THE THREE WORTHY CITIZENS

Who are Aspiring for Mayoralty Honors

Will doubtless have hosts of friends vote for them, but the vast multitude who will take advantage of S. J. Thompson's special holiday offer will far outnumber them.

With every dozen cabinet photos you will receive 32 miniatures. Just think of it, 32 photos of yourself for nothing, and every one will be a perfect likeness. But this is not all. During the month of December the price of photos will be reduced. This is a chance of a lifetime. First-class work at reduced prices and 32 miniatures thrown in. Remember Thompson's photos are the best in the Province. *

Special Notice.

For sale lots 12, 13 and 14, block 13, New Westminster City, with all buildings and improvements; 66 feet on Clarkson, 165 on Mary street and 132 feet on Carnarvon street. One-quarter cash, balance 1, 2 and 3 years at 8 per cent. The best offer in the market.—T. J. TRAPP. *

Change of Service.

It is reported that the C. P. R. intend to return to the passenger service between here and Vancouver as it existed before the present change took place. Also that the fares are to be reduced to a level with those of the tramway company. These changes to occur before Christmas.

Another Fall From Grace.

The mayor of Seattle, Mr. Harry White, without a moment's notice has suddenly resigned—through ill health he says—but as the Telegraph hints probably through the ill health of the the municipal treasury. Boodle is broadly hinted at and one of the aldermen says exposures will follow. Municipal matters have been much mixed in Seattle of late. Nobody knew who was mayor, but if the boodling matter referred to turns out as expected there will be no doubt about it. How different it is in Westminster. There can be no question as to who this city's mayor has been for the past year, and if things go as they couldn't go at the elections his ready hand will still manipulate the strings attached to his marionette, that "promising young man," the top of whose head has been proved to be not level, although he has written a book.

Clever Arrest.

The chief of police of Port Moody was in the city yesterday looking for Pie-faced Pete, a tramp, who a day or two ago stole some prize rotten oranges off a sour apple tree in his worship the mayor of Moody's hot-house. The chief was armed with a photograph of Peter besides a pine root club and cast iron bracelets. He spotted his man buying stamps in the postoffice and exhibited consummate skill in capturing him. The chief hid behind the door until Peter came out pushing the stamps into his oxidised silver cigar case. When close enough the chief sprang out and said in unmistakable tones, "Hallo, Pete, the jig is up, my lad; throw up your forepaws or I'll club the whole top of your head off." Peter remarked, "I don't want no bloomin' cop a disarrangin' of my coiffure, so I ups wi' my dukes." The chief is to be congratulated on his splendid exhibition of detective skill and indomitable courage and a lot of other things for which see small bills. The pair after chipping in together bought a copy of the evening paper containing a full account of the affair, and then "hoofed it" out to the Port. This man has a bad character, and was, no doubt, up to no good in Westminster. His arrest therefore will not be regretted by anyone.

BITTEN BY A SPIDER.

John Odeau, age 25, an employee of T. Gauthier, of Douglas Island, near Maple Ridge, bitten by a venomous black spider on Thursday night, is now suffering from blood poisoning. Odeau says that he was awakened at midnight by a sensation as if a needle were piercing his left upper lip. He placed his hand on the painful spot and killed a spider. He fell asleep again, and when he awoke in the morning, the left side of his face was swoollen and turning black. He searched for the insect, and found that it was a venomous black spider. Odeau forthwith repaired to this city, was examined by a physician who pronounced the trouble blood poisoning. Had he delayed another 24 hours his life might have been in danger. As it is, the utmost care has to be taken with the patient who will not be able to return to his home for several days.

Prof. Seward's Work.

The work of Prof. F. D. Seward, the celebrated scientific optician of New York, has been a grand success and will be a lasting benefit to the many citizens of this city who have had their eyesight attended to by this eminent optician during the eight weeks of his stay among us. In addition to the adopting of glasses to ordinary near-sighted, far-sighted and old-sighted eyes, and the adjusting of artificial eyes, cataract lenses, &c., &c., Prof. Seward has succeeded in correcting a large number of compound asligmatic eyes, a work never before accomplished in British Columbia and for this work alone the Professor will be remembered by a grateful people for years to come.

Among those who have called recently to have glasses adjusted are Mr. G. E. Corbould, M. P., Mayor Brown, M. P. P., Mr. Peter Grant, Dr. H. M. Cooper, Rev. E. Robson, Mr. J. S. Clute, Collector of Customs; Mr. C. G. Major, and many others equally well known.

The Professor expects to finish the work now on hand in about ten days and will then take his departure from British Columbia, stopping for a short time at the principal cities on the Sound en route to his home in New York. A record of the test made in each case is kept on file so that the glasses can be duplicated in case of accident or loss at any time in the future by addressing Prof. F. D. Seward, P. O. Box 3567, or No. 11 Maiden Lane, New York City.

During the remaining ten days Prof. Seward's office at the Queen's Hotel will remain open until 8 p. m., in order to accommodate any who cannot call during the day. *

A Pointer to the Public.

District Lot No. 28 lies immediately adjoining the city limits. The continuation of Mary Street goes directly through it, and the Electric Tramway will in a couple of months be running its cars every hour of the day through the centre of this property. The lot (No. 28) is composed of 128 acres of land as level as a table. Contracts have been let to clear and grub the ground, and leave it in perfect condition for building purposes. Already six citizens have decided to erect handsome residences there, ragging in price from $4,000 to $7,000 each. The whole of this splendid piece of property (except some limited portions already disposed of) will be put on the market in a few weeks. One great advantage in buying a lot and erecting a residence on this property is that the owner will avoid heavy municipal taxation. Make a note of it, and wait till the property is put on the market before buying *
