ROYALTIES IN CANADA

Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York Spend Another Day in Quebec.

Loyally Entertained by Citizens of Historic Town. In Montreal Today.

Quebec, Sept. 17.—The ceremonies of the last day's stay of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York in the ancient capital of Canada included a review of the troops mobilized for their reception, a dinner in the Royal yacht, Ophir, and an illumination the arbor and city. Rain fell almost incessantly during the day and the crowds that gathered early in the morning were speedily dispersed and driven indoors. The luncheon and general reception at Spencerwood, the official residence of the Lieutenant Governor, was concelled as a mark of respect to the dead American President, and further plans for an expression of regret were made, but unavoidably abandoned. The Duke of Cornwall and Lord Minto, Governor General of Canada, decided to be personally represented at Washington. The former designated Commander B. Godfrey Faussett, naval A. D. C. as his representative, but it is discovered that it would be impossible for him to reach there before the departure of the funeral train for Canton, and the idea of sending any one was regretfully given up.

A chill wind swept across the plains of Abraham and cracked the whip with the lines of rain that steadily fell, but the military review was bravely finished. The Duke of Cornwall refused all offers of shelter and rode through the rainy review in his brilliant uniform of honorary colonel of the Seventh Fusileers. Despite the rain the military exhibition was a pretty one. Five thousand fighting men, including a naval contingent of about 800, were massed of the green carpeted plains in sight of the Wolfe monument. There were long lines of scarlet tunics and platoon after platoon of gay colored kilts, with rows of blue and green touched with white and yellow for contrast. A dozen bands played the tunes to which the British army matches, and when the Duke arrived and the picture became a moving one it was at its best. The Duchess of Cornwall was the first of the Royal party to appear. She came from the citadel in a barouche drawn by four horses with mounted postillions and escorted by the Queen's Own Canadian Hussars in smart dark uniforms corded and slashed with yellow. As she smiled her kindly acknowledgement of the enthusiatic reception accorded her she was escorted to a roofed stand in the centre of the field, and a few minutes later the Duke of Cornwall entered the parade ground and escorted by his staff proceeded to inspect the troops.

The review followed, and when it was over the Duke presented medals to 113 Canadians who saw service in South Africa. Some were in the uniforms of their regiments others in civilian attire. At their head came Lieut.-Col. Ernest Turner of Quebec, who got the coveted Victoria Cross for saving the guns at Belfast, the distinguished service order medal for bravery at Vaal River and a sword of honor from his fellow townsmen. Turner was thrice wounded in action and is one of the three Canadians to win the Victoria Cross. The Duke personally complimented each of the soldiers as he handed him his medal. The Royal party returned to the citadel at 1 o'clock and after resting until 5 o'clock went aboard the Ophir. They were escorted to the wharf by a detachment of the Queens Own Hussars, and tonight they give a dinner aboard to a distinguished party.

The harbor and city were brilliantly illuminated and despite the storm the effect was very pretty The warships were out-lined in strings of lights and far up on the heights of the city, lines of incandescent lamps were woven into attractive designs. The names of Wolfe, Montcalm, Jacques Cartier, Champlain and other historical figures were spelled out in letters of lights. The Royal party, accompanied by Lord Minto, Premier Laurier and a large number of Dominion officers, leave at 9.45 o'clock tomorrow for Montreal. They go by the special train which is to carry them throughout their entire tour of Canada and which for comfort and elegance exceeds anything of the kind ever seen here. Special cars were built for the train and every possible luxury has been provided for. The party stops two days at Montreal and then goes to Ottawa.

PREPARING FOR ROYALTY.

Victoria Getting Ready to Entertain Forty-Five Aristocratic Horses.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 17.—The Lieutenant-Governor has received a request to provide for the transportation to and stabling in Victoria during the Royal visit of 31 horses in addition to 14 belonging to the party. The steamer Yosemite will be chartered for the horses, carriages, and grooms, and will leave Vancouver on the evening of the 30th about 8 o'clock, preceding the Empress of India which will bring over the Royal party next morning. The Yosemite will also carry fifteen press representatives from all parts of the world who are accompanying the Duke. Stables for the horses are being erected at the Oak Bay Hotel.

A consignment of $30,000 in gold bricks, representing receipts of dust at the assay office for last week, goes forward to the Seattle mint this evening.

A detachment of "B" battery Royal Horse Artillery, under Capt. Orr, debarked here today and will stay at the Work Point barracks

Right Rev. Bishop Partridge, of Kyoto, Japan, accompanied by Revs. Evans and Trollope were also on board, en route to the convention in San Francisco. Among the other passengers were J. Mellon Chetham, Secretary of the British legation at Tokio, and Elizabeth Skidmore, the authoress.

SUSPECT MURDER.

(SPECIAL TO THE MINER.)

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 17.—Messrs. McLeod, Law, Raper and Swinburg, who were passengers on the steamer Tees, which arrived from the north today say that on the east side of Moresby Island the southermost island of the Queen Charlotte group were found the charred remains of a man whose body evidently had been burned until nothing but the skull and bones were left. From the appearance of the skull and the remains they were those of a young man with high forehead and teeth small and white. Those who discovered the remains believe a murder was committed.

GEISER IS OUT $550.

Rossland, B. C., Sept. 17.—Judgment was given today in the action against Albert Geiser, of Baker City, Oregon, for an infringement of the alien labor act, in bringing several men into Rossland from Oregon under contract to work in the mines here. Defendant was convicted on two charges and fined $500 and $50 respectively. An appeal to the supreme court was immediately taken. The decision in the cases does not affect the Le Roi Mining company nor does it interfere with men applying for work on the company's grounds.

ORIENTAL STEAMERS ARRIVE.

(SPECIAL TO THE MINER.)

Victoria, B. C, Sept. 17.—The S. S. Empress of India arrived today from the Orient, closely followed by the Kamakura Maru, which will reach port tonight. The Empress brought among her passengrs Capt. Orr and 83 gunners of the Royal Horse Artillery who are being returned to England after serivce in China, this being the first time troops have been sent home by this route.

Major General Corbin from Manila, was among the passengers on the Empress, and when the pilots took news of the assassination of Mr. McKinley on board he was prostrated and tears rolled down his cheeks. Other than stating his great grief, for he was a close friend of the murdered President, he declined to talk for publication. He is accompanied by Lieut.-Col. Johnston, A. D. C., and Lieutenant-Commander Burgdorff.

The Empress brought 2,254 tons of general cargo and 2,958 packages of silk.

In the course of a letter from Tien Tsin from a correspondent there, the Hong Kong Press publishes a report that recently Li Hung Chang wrote an insulting letter to Sir Ernest Satow, and as a reproof the British re-occupied the summer palaces. The correspondent says Li Hung Chang, who is ailing, is watched by spies who report every move to the surrounders of the court who are using efforts to displace him.

KILLED BY FALLING ROCK

Robert Hamill, Foreman of the Arlington, at Erie, Killed in a Stope.

He Had Entered the Stope in Front of Other Men as Roof Gave Way.

A serious accident occurred at the Arlington mine yesterday morning by which the foreman, Robert H. Hamill, lost his life and a miner named Bert Porter was severely injured. The day shift go on duty at the Arlington at 8 a. m. Yesterday they were just starting and the foreman went ahead to lay out the work. He and Porter entered a stope which was being opened up, and in which the night force had fired a number of shots before quitting. Some of the men who were but a short distance away in the tunnel, suddenly heard the crash of some rock as it fell on the floor of the stope. Hamill's brother and a man named Ross were on the scene of the accident in a moment, where they saw the two men on the ground, partly covered with rocks which had fallen from the roof. One piece had struck Porter on the back of the head, throwing him forward when a number of other pieces struck him on the back so that he fell to the ground, breaking his jaw and sustaining several severe face wounds and cuts in other parts of the body. Hamill was felled under the shower of rock also, and one mass broke his legs above the knees which were badly crushed, besides inflicting several internal injuries. Both were conscious when reached and magnificent heroism was manifested by Porter in insisting by motions that the rescuers should first help Hamill, who was seen to be terribly hurt. Hamill was carried to the bunk house and Porter walked a distance of over a quarter of a mile. A message was immediately sent to Dr. Duncan of the Ymir hospital, Dr. Reddick of Rossland and H. E. T. Haultain of Nelson, all of whom left for Erie at once.

Hamill died a little after eleven, before the arrival of the doctors. Before his death, which he realized was very near, he asked that he might be buried at Vancouver beside his wife, who died eight years ago. The body was brought to Nelson last evening, accompanied by over forty of the men from the mine. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 3 p. m. from Bunyan's undertaking palors to the depot. The two brothers of the deceased will accompany the body to Vancouver, where their sister resides.

Hamill was 40 years of age and a widower without children. He was born near Owen Sound, Ontario, where his father and mother are yet living. He came to British Columbia in 1889, and was employed in construction work along the main line of the C. P. R. afterwards being engaged in mining in Cariboo and West Kootenay. He was foreman at the Yellowstone mine for some time and had been with the Arlington for the past seven months. He was greatly liked and respected by all at the time. It was not known last night an to whether an inquest will be deemed necessary by the coroner.

The latest news received of Porter, was that he was doing as well as could be expected. Nothing could be learned as to where his home was except that he was not from Nelson.

MINISTER GETS A NEW SUIT.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 17.—Jos. A. Wildman, a United Brethern minister, was tarred and feathered by a crowd of 100 people last night. Sunday night he rose in a prayer meeting in one of the city churches and exclaimed: "I suppose there have been more lies told from the pulpit of this sacred desk today than was ever known before. While I want to give all honor that is due to Mr. McKinley, still when he was living he was nothing but a political demagogue." At this juncture a number of people became so indignant that they rose and left the church. Yesterday the citizens decided on the above summary action. Wildman has no regular charge.

LAST STAGE OF SAD JOURNEY

Remains of President McKinley Now en Route to His Former Home.

Deeply Impressive Church Service Held at the National Capitol.

Washington, D C., Sept. 17.—All that is mortal of William McKinley is speeding to its last earthly resting place at its beloved home in Canton, and the nation has officially and with state ceremony paid its respect and love to the memory of its stricken chief magistrate. This was almost the closing act of the tragedy which has drenched the world in tears.

Beneath the great white dome of the Capitol funeral services of state were held today over the remains of the dead President The services were conducted in accordance with the rites of the Methodist Episcopal church of which Mr. McKinley was a life long member, consisting only of two hymns, a song, a prayer and address and a benediction that were beautiful and solemnly impressive.

Gathered around the bier were representatives of every phase of American national life, including the last and only surviving ex-President of the United States together with representatives at the Captiol of almost every nation on earth, Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Spain and all the republics to the southward of the United States mingled their tears with those of the American people.

Despite the fact that no attempt had been made to decorate the interior of the rotunda beyond the arrangements made about the catafalque, the assemblage presented a memorable sight. The sombre black attire of hundreds of civilians present was splashed brilliantly with the blue and gold of representatives of army and navy.

As the sweet notes of Mr. McKinley's favorite hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," floated through the rotunda the assembly rose to its feet. Bare heads were bowed and eyes streamed with tears. At the close of the hymn as Rev. Dr. Naylor, presiding elder of Washington, arose to offer prayer, the hush that fell upon the people was profound. Scarcely had the word "Amen" been breathed, when the liquid tone of that sweetly pleading song, "Some Time We'll Understand," went straight to the heart of every auditor. The song was sung by Mrs. Thomas C. Noyes, of this city, and the beautiful refrain was echoed and re-echoed by the double quartette choir. Upon the conclusion of the sermon the audience, as if by prearrangement, joined the choir in singing "Nearer My God to Thee."

Mrs. McKinley, bereft of husband and prostrated by her overwhelming sorrow, did not attend the services at the capitol. It was deemed by those nearest and dearest to her that she should not undergo the ordeal her attendance would entail upon her.

When the remains of the dead President were finally closed from view the cavalry escort was again formed and conveyed them to the special train which is now carrying the body to Canton. The magnificent display of floral offerings, numbering no less than 125 pieces, and making the most remarkable floral tribute ever seen here, were taken to the station from the Capitol in carriages and wagons and placed aboard the special car which had been provided for them. Three sections comprising in all twenty passenger coaches were necessary to accommodate all those who accepted invitations to make the journey to Canton.

London, Sept. 17.—The Admiralty has ordered that the American flag be hoisted at halfmast on all the mainmasts of all warships in port and that the Union Jack and the white ensign be half masted until after the funeral of President McKinley. This is the first occasion when such an order has been issued for the President of a Republic.

Buffalo, Sept. 1.—Leon T. Czolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley, was arraigned before Judge Edward Emery in the county court at 3 o'clock this afternoon on the indictment for murder in the first degree in fatally shooting President McKinley in the Temple of Music, at the Pan-American Exposition on Sept. 6th. Again the stubborn prisoner refused to plead or even to utter a word or sound, and the Hon. Moran L. Lewis, ex-supreme court justice, entered a plea of not guilty. The accused will be tried in the supreme court next Monday morning.

Paris, Sept. 17.—By invitation of General Horace Porter, the U. S. Ambassador, resident and travelling Americans met at his residence today and adopted resolutions on the assassination of President McKinley.

BRAKEMAN INJURED.

Fell From a Red Mountain Train and Loses a Foot.

Dr. R. Reddick arrived in this city from Rossland last evening. He was on the Red Mountain train when an accident occurred to George Naden, a brakeman. It happened just after the train left Sheep creek station and was speeding toward Northport. Attached to the passenger train were several ore cars and Naden was engaged in twisting one of the brakes with a stick, when the stick slipped and he lost his balance and fell to the ground. He cleared the rail and was trying to push himself still farther from the track when his left foot slipped across the metal, the wheels passing over it and cutting it off above the boot top. The conductor, Dr. Reddick and Archie Paterson were in the rear car and saw the man lying near the track and the conductor quickly caused the air brakes to be applied and the train was stopped a few car lengths from where Naden lay. Dr. Reddick took charge of the unfortunate man and with a pair of scissors cut the few shreds of flesh and skin that held the foot to the leg. Naden was taken into the baggage car and the stump was temporarily dressed. He was then sent to Spokane where last evening the leg was amputated. Naden is about 40 years of age and has been a railroad man for 20 years and this is the first time he ever met with an accident.

Northport, Sept. 17.—George Naden, a brakeman, fell off a Red Mountain railway passenger train between this city and Rossland today and sustained such injuries, through the wheels passing over one of his legs, that the limb had to be amputated above the knee. Dr. Reddick, of Rossland, happened to be on board the train and performed the operation a few minutes after the accident ocurred.

He is accompanied by Mrs. Miner and Miss Helen Miner. During his months stay in the Boundary he will inspect the company's mines. He was met at Revelstoke by A. C. Flummerfelt, the assitant general manager. Jay P. Grave, the general manager has arrived here from Spokane.

Colonel N. E. Linsley of Spokane, has been engaged by the Granby smelter to report on the north fork coal fields, recently bonded by the smelter company. He leaves for the coal fields tomorrow.

JAPANESE BOATS.

Victoria, B. C, Sept. 17.—The steamer Kamabura Maru, which arrived tonight, brought news from Japan that the Toy Kisen Kisha has decided to build two ten thousand ton boats to compete with the new liners of the Pacific Mail Steamship Co. News was also given of the launching of the 6,500 ton steamer Iyo Maru for the Nippon Yusen Kaisha line between Japan, Victoria, and Seattle.

Kellogg; Gold Dollar, two and a half miles north of Slocan Junction, by G. O. Tiernay. Certificates of work were issued to L. J. Winslow on Iroquois, J. McEvoy on south fork, and South Fork No. 2.

INTENTIONS OF MR. ROOSEVELT

New President of the United States Will Follow Mr. McKinley's Lines.

A Cabinet Meeting Held Yesterday and all Secretaries Retain Portfolios.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 17.—President Roosevelt at 3 o'clock today convened his first cabinet meeting held in Washington.

At this meeting the President asked the members of Mr. McKinley's cabinet to retain their respective positions throughout his term, and announced that his administration would follow the policy outlined by President McKinley in his Buffalo speech.

After the obsequies over the late President, the cabinet, at President Roosevelt's request assembled, at the residence of Commander Cowles where the President is staying until after the funeral, principally for the purpose of informing the new chief of the state of affairs in their respective departments. The President desired to learn if there were any matters of moment requiring his attention before his departure tonight for Canton. He was assured there was nothing of pressing importance. The President then addressed his advisers collectively as he had previously done individually, requesting them all to retain their respective positions in his cabinet. Mr. Roosevelt expressed the hope and expectation that every member would serve throughout his term for he said, he tendered the appointments as if he had just been elected to the Presidency and was forming an original cabinet. In the present case, however, there was a difference between the present tender and an original offer. Naturally, under the present circumstances, they were not at liberty to decline.

Upon being asked if resignations should be formally presented in the usual manner the President answered that his action at this meeting had precluded the necessity of putting in resignations. The discussion turned upon the policy of the administration and Mr. Roosevelt announced that he regarded the speech of the late President McKinley at Buffalo the day previous to the tragic shooting as outlining the policies to be forwarded by the administration. It cannot be learned at this time whether or not all the members will be willing to serve the full term.

The cabinet members with the exception of Secretaries Hay and Long, will accompany the remains of the late President to Canton to participate in the funeral ceremonies on Thursday.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 17.—Hon. Abraham Smith, U. S. Consul, has acknowledged the resolution of sympathy with the American people and the family of the late President, forwarded by the local Government, as follows: "I have the honor to ackowledge the receipt of your kind note of the fourteenth instant conveying the deep regret felt by the Hon. James Dunsmuir and the members of the executive council on account of the sad termination of the murderous attempt on the life of our beloved and honored President. I have telegraphed the same to our Government and take the occassion to express my thanks at this demonstration of respect entertained by the officials and people of British Columbia for our stricken chief, their detestation of his assassination, and the kindly feelings shown our bereaved nation."

Hon. Mr. Smith has received from John Hay, secretary of State, dated Washington, Sept. 17, the following: "The affecting expression of sympathy you convey on behalf of Lieutenant-Governor Sir Henri Joli, Premier Dunsmuir, and the people of British Columbia are deeply touching to the people and Government of the United States and voice the deep feeling of brotherliness that mutually inspires the two countries. I beg you to make fitting acknowledgement."

London, Eng., Sept. 17.—The Ecumenical Methodist conference closed its session this afternoon with a memorial service in honor of President McKinley.

RECKLESS JOURNALISM.

In Munsey's Magazine for April there is an article by Edwin Lefevre, entitled "Boom Days in Wall Street." This article gives a graphic description of the stock market at the time of its most intense activity, how the latest and greatest boom of all was started, the men who manipulated it and the far reaching results that followed. In one portion of the article it says, "Professional Wall street invariably 'discounts' events. It lives by foreseeing what is going to happen. It must take time by a long forelock. If it waited until the event actually occurred, everybody would prosper equally, and that would not be conducive to Wall street wealth. Therefore, booms in stock discount booms in trade. To be sure Wall street takes great risks. For example the 'talent' was hard hit by the Venezuelan panic which had not been discounted. Mr. James Keene and Mr. Stephen V. White, two of the boldest and ablest operators that ever lived, went into bankruptcy because at one time in their Wall street careers they mistakenly trusted some of their fellow beings against whom they should have guarded. Their sagacity was unquestioned, their market position was justified by conditions, they should have made fortunes, but they failed to discount the possibility of friends proving false. The lesson cost them millions. It took them years to recover their fortunes. Most of us pay a few hundreds and never learn the lesson well. Similarly the greatest aggregation of individual wealth that ever united for common purpose practically wagered a billion dollars on Mr. McKinley's reelection. Plans involving fully that sum were at stake. The men concerned were extraordinarily intelligent—whence the billion—calm, cool-headed, unsentimental and very well informed. They were so sure that Mr. McKinley would win that they quietly went on about their business and made plans which would in all probability have gone to smash had Mr. Bryan been elected. They did not parade their convictions, because it would not be well to encourage a general feeling of over confidence. They were justified by the event, but they took enormous chances none the less. For who could guarantee that some dismal day in September they might not see in huge type on the front page of the newspapers 'THE PRESIDENT ASSASSINATED,' or read that he was dying of disease or accident. Had such a catastrophe caused the inevitable stock market crash, the philosophrers of the street would have told you that financiers had failed to discount the frailty of human life."

With the actuality of what in April was considered a vague possibility before us the words used by Mr. Lefevre seems almost phophetic. At the same time they show a certain amount of recklessness concerning the possible bad effect of the article on men of the Czolgosz type which should be avoided. It is within the range of possibilities that the idea of slaying the president first came into the head of the assassin on reading the article by Mr. Lefevre, as Munsey's magazine is cheap and has a wide circulation, and may have found its way into the household of the anarchist.

The yellow journals of the United States, too, have for the past two or three years pictured McKinley as the oppressor of the poor and the upholder of the trust and the monopolist; the enemy of the proletariat and the friend of organized capital; as the imperialist who was ready to sacrifice every interest of the country in order to build up a standing army, which it was declared, would be a menace to the liberties of the people; as a politician who desired to acquire new territory for the trusts and combined capital to exploit new schemes in; as one ready to help capital when it had trouble with labor, and who was ever anxious to defeat organized labor when it sought by strike to obtain concessions from employers. Every invective and term of derision possible has been used to influence the masses and to make its members believe that Mr. McKinley was a political and moral monster, dominated wholly by a slavish desire to serve capital and to debase, enslave and oppress the people.

With such false teachings constantly before them is it any wonder that they, perhaps, bore their legitimate fruit and that the hand of the assassin should be lifted successfully against the life of the president. Though Mr. McKinley's whole life was an eloquent refutation of the charges made against him of what weight was this when the mind of a fanatic like Czolgosz was constantly fed and influenced by the deadly and pernicious pabulum furnished by the yellow journals.

Now that the president has perished miserably at the hand of the assassin these journals have taken another tack and have only words of praise for the illustrious dead. It is patent that the time has come when the wild and irresponsible abuse of and villification of public men in the United States should be stopped, and that everywhere more fairness should be shown by the partizan press in criticising the actions of public men. There is a decent limit beyond which no journal should be allowed to go, and a point beyond which they should not be allowed to villify a public officer or an aspirant for a public position. The rule seems to have been that no caricature is too vile nor any limit set to slanderous accusation so long as it was leveled against those of an opposite political faith, till party organs have degenerated into mere vehicles for blackguardism and baseless libels. Decency everywhere calls for a halt to this sort of journalism.

THE WESTERN SPIRIT.

General Manager Clouston of the Bank of Montreal on his return from his trip through the west reported that there were no grumblers in the west. In this remark Mr. Clouston aptly emphasized the difference between the people of the east and the west, as by inference he said that there were grumblers in the east. The west is settled by a hopeful people. They had enterprise enough to leave the more settled portions of the east to try what fortune had in store for them in a new country. They are venturesome and enterprising and not easily discouraged. In the east it is frequently the case if a man makes a failure of an enterprise that bankrupts him he never again makes a serious effort to regain his lost fortune because the opportunities are to a certain extent restricted. In the west men often make a half dozen failures and are busted financially that number of times before they score a success. They keep on trying till fortune favors them because there are more opportunities here for the enterprising than there are in the east where nearly all the avenues in which there is profit are crowded. The east is pessimistic and the west optimistic. In the east a man who has been in Queer street is looked on with suspicion and is frowned upon, but here the disposition is to pat him on the back and say to him "try again, old fellow, better luck next time." In the east what Mother Grundy and the lovers of the conventional say is a power which is not to be despised, but here but little attention is paid to their utterances or opinions, for the west is nothing if not unconventional. Western people sometimes make pilgrimages to their old homes in the east and when they return they declare in the most emphatic terms that nothing would induce them to permanently reside in the east. The freedom to be found in the west has such a charm for them that they feel like fish out of water when elsewhere. In the east civilization has crystallized and every individual has his place and keeps it. There all the land that is valuable is fenced in and trespassers are warned to keep "off the grass" under penalty of the rigors of the law. In the west we all know of broad valleys where the grass in summer and fall waves in the wind like water on the ocean with never a fence or a trespass sign in sight. The western man likes his mountains with the steams running rapidly down their sides on the banks of which there is never a sign warning him that he must not catch fish under penalty of fine and imprisonment. Though every man may not make a fortune here he is under the impression that he will "strike it rich" some day and this hope gives a buoyancy to the spirit and a dash to the ventures which is found totally lacking in the older communities.

It is this wide sense of freedom, the unnumbered opportunities, the greater chances for getting on one's feet after being bowled over by misfortune, the willingness to help and encourage one another, and the ever present hope of making a lucky strike, which make the west the alluring and attractive place that it is to live in.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The London Standard has been saying things about the Munroe doctrine, and after reminding the world that Great Britain is both a North American and South American power, remarks "Europe will never march out of America, North or South, at the bidding of the supporters of the Monroe doctrine. Pan-Americanism in its widest sense is an idle dream."

It is possible that some wire rope tramways are handling ore at four cents per to per mile, but the conditions must be quite exceptional, says the Mining Reporter. An experienced mining engineer informs us that it is his "general rule" to figure on 10 cents per ton mile, when making preliminary estimates. The length of the tramway, the care with which it was erected, the amount of material handled, the type of tramway and many other factors enter into the question of cost of handling ore. When all these are unfavorable the cost may be very high.

At a meeting of the Dominion cabinet a few days since the act to regulate immigration into British Columbia and an act relating to the employment on works of Mongolians carried on under franchise granted to private companies were disallowed. The first act sets up an educational test and had for its object the exclusion of Chinese and Japanese. The second prevented the employment of Mongolians on works which obtained franchises from the legislature. The Provincial government was requested by the Dominion authorities to amend them, but refused to do so. The disallowance was the result of a protest filed by the Japanese consul at London, Eng., with the home government and the disallowance was at the latter's request.

It is claimed that the Federal and Imperial authorities will now deal with the question and that the province will before long be freed from the evil of unrestricted Oriental immigration. The relief, it is claimed, will come through the action of the Australian parliament which is now considering the question of the absolute prohibition of Oriental immigration. The act, if adopted by the Australians, will be acted on by the Imperial government, and indirectly will have its effect the same question here. The Australians are in earnest as to absolute Mongolian exclusion and the home government can scarcely deny them what they want. If Australia is allowed to exclude Mongolians the same right can scarcely be withheld from Canada.

THE CITY

The Salvation Army band returned from Spokane last evening.

A general meeting of the Boat club has been called for tomorrow (Thursday) night at 8.30 o'clock. Matters of importance in connection with preparations for next year's big regatta will be discussed and it is to be hoped that the club will be supported by the whole city in their efforts to surprise the coast sportsmen with what can be done in Nelson All in any way interested in the welfare or future of the club are cordially invited to attend this general meeting which will be open to all suggestions calculated to promote its welfare.

Monday evening a little before 7 o'clock a teamster was driving in a heavy delivery wagon down Hall street to the city wharf. A number of freight cars were standing on the south track at the east side of the street, hiding the Nelson & Fort Sheppard train which was rapidly approaching. Fortunately for the teamster he was driving quickly for the cowcatcher of the engine grazed the end of the cart. If he had been one second later nothing could have saved him, as the train was travelling at a considerable rate of speed. The approach to the wharf is frequently very dangerous, as with the noise of the sawmill and electric cars and a freight train hiding the farther track from view it is very difficult to tell when a train is coming.

Three days ago some of the crew of the Kokanee were engaged in cleaning up the boat when they observved a large hornets' nest which had been built under the guard plank near the stern. How long it had been there it was impossible to say, but as it appeared to be untenanted it was taken on board and placed in the purser's office, the precaution having been taken to first stuff the entrance with cotton batting. Yesterday afternoon the head of a very angry looking black hornet was thrust through the side of th nest and the owner emerged to be instantly killed. When three or four more followed the nest was thought an undesirable acquisition and was accordingly thrown overboard. If the hornets had not been noticed at the time the purser would probably have had some interesting adventures to narrate this morning.

A HOME CONCERN.

C. A. Lett, managing director of the Century Life Insurance company, of Vancouver, B. C., is in the city looking after the interests of his company in the way of disposing of the stock. The authorized capital of the company is $500,000 of which $250,000 is offered for subscription in shares of $100 each. The proposition should be an alluring one for the reason that the company is organizd with Provincial capital and is to all intents and purposes a home concern. At present all of the money disbursed for life insurance in British Columbia, which amounts to about $750,000 a year, goes to eastern, British and American companies. The money paid into the Century company will be invested at home and the profits will go to the British Columbia shareholders, after the policy holders have been given their profits. The purchase of a few shares of stock in the Century must prove a good investment as the people of the province, famed for their patriotism to home institutions, are sure to give the company a loyal and hearty support. The directorate is composed of the leading and most influential men of the province who would not lend their names to an enterprise of doubtful reputation. Mr. Lett has devoted nearly all of his life to the life insurance business and is considered one of the ablest men in his line on the coast. He has been here for the past two days and leaves this evening for Fernie.

THE CITY

A new fruit store has been opened on Baker street west of Ward.

A furnished house with lot, belonging to Mary M. Langridge was sold yesterday to J. W. Nunn, the deal being put through by R. W. Day.

At the police court yesterday the case of the two Chinamen who were arrested for fighting at the corner of Front and Josephine, was again adjourned. Jim will receive sentence on the opening of the court this morning, his part of the affair having been heard yesterday although judgment was deferred.

Saturday the tax notice for the current year were sent out from the city hall, and although there is no extra charge made for non-payment until after the last of December, yet by Monday night there had been over thirty receipts made out, and yesterday a considerable number more of the citizens who pay taxes came in to settle up. Last year there was not a single payment made until some weeks after the issue of the notices.

At the ranch of O. Newling across the river from Nelson may be seen an example of what can be done in the way of fruit growing in this vicinity. Pear, peach and apple trees are laden down with luscious fruit, many of the trees requiring to have every branch of any size supported by props from the ground to prevent the load of fruit from breaking them down. Apricot trees, although blossoming and growing well, have not brought enough fruit to maturity to make them worth planting. Currants, raspberries, blackberries, and stawberries grow in large quantities and as to quality could not be beaten anywhere. Cherries, especially the black oxheart trees, bore profusely a large and finely flavored fruit earlier in the season. Melons, citrons, tomatoes and vegetable marrow grew well. The ranch is watered by irrigating ditches, fed from a small stream coming down the mountain side and conveyed to every part of the grounds.

BREAD DYSPEPSIA

Bread dyspepsia is common. It effects the bowels because white bread is nearly all starch, and starch is digested in the intestines, not in the stomach proper.

Up under the shell of the wheat berry Nature has provided a curious deposit which is turned into diastase when it is subjected to the saliva and to the pancreatic juices in the human intestines. This diastase is absolutely necessary to digest starch and turn it into grape-sugar, which is the next form; but that part of the wheat berry makes dark flour, and the modern miller cannot readily sell dark flour, so nature's valuable digestor is thrown out and the human system must handle the starch as best it can, without the help that Nature intended. Small wonder that appendicitis, peritonitis, constipation, and all sorts of trouble exist, when we go so contrary to Nature's law. The food experts that perfected Grape-Nuts Food, knowing these facts, made use, in their experiments of the entire wheat and barley, including all the parts, and subjected them to moisture, and long continued warmth, which allows time and the proper conditions for developing the diastase, outside of the human body.

In this way the starchy part is transformed into grape-sugar in a perfectly natural manner, without the use of chemicals or any outside ingredients. The little sparkling crystals of grape-sugar can be seen on the pieces of Grape-Nuts. This food therefore is naturally pre-digested and its use in place of bread will quickly correct the troubles that have been brought about by the too free use of starch in the food, and that is very common in the human race today. The effect of eating Grape-Nuts ten days or two weeks and the discontinuance of ordinary white bread, is very marked. The user will gain rapidly in strength and physical and mental health.

The tug Surprise brought in a barge loaded with lumber from Pilot Bay yesterday.

The fine weather yesterday caused a rapid improvement in the boat house business, the lake being well patronized all day.

A meeting of the Nelson Rifle Association was held last night at the office of the West Transfer Co., when a team of ten men was selected to go to Rossland on Sunday to shoot in the rifle match which is to be held Monday. It was decided to hold a two days' meet at Nelson on October 14th and 15th and committees were appointed to look after the arrangements. It will be the second annual meet of the Nelson Rifle Association and teams from several outside points are expected to take part.

Travellers on the C. & W. between Nelson and Robson state that the grade between the points mentioned has been greatly improved of late. From Slocan Junction to Robson there is now but one bridge left, that over the Slocan river, all the rest having been filled in. Robson seems likely to be utterly sidetracked, Castlegar, where the bridge is being built across the Columbia, becoming the favored point. Workmen are now engaged in pulling down the small station that was erected at the latter point and it is said that the C. P. R. will immediately proceed with the construction of a large depot and hotel. The swinging section of the bridge has arrived from the bridge works and is now being placed in position. A number of ranchers have taken up land lately along the banks of the Kootenay near Robson and are actively engaged in clearing and preparing for next season.

There are no labor troubles in Nelson but Queen Studio photos are striking.

WHERE ARE WE AT.

The Nelson civic authorities are wondering at present as to how it is possible to get an answer from the Provincial government to several letters and telegrams that have been sent not only to the heads of departments but also to the premier on matters of material importance to the city. Before the present government came into office the city applied to the legislature for a deed of the foreshore of the lake from Ward street to the eastern limits of the city to the old cemetery grounds, and also to the land on the bluff back of the hospital, called by courtesy a park. The late government in response to this promised that an order in council would be made deeding the portions asked for to the city. Since then not the slightest attention has been paid by the government to any communications from the city on the subject, and not even sending an acknowledgement that the letters had been received. In the last letter of the mayor to the premier he asked as to what mode of procedure was necessary in writing to any of the heads of the departments at Victoria to ensure a reply, but no answer was vouchsafed to this, nor to telegrams sent asking if the letters had been received. The city also had staked land for a power site down the river, and although all necessary formalities were gone through, nothing was done at Victoria in the matter and the city's hands were practically tied. At the meeting of the council Monday evening the mayor related the means that had been used, but without avail, to secure recognition from the government.

Along the lake shore are a number of squatters who are building shacks on and which eventually is sure to belong to the city, and the longer the grant is withheld, the greater will be the difficulties confronting the city when it is made out, to say nothing of the hardships entitled on those who have built on the land. Where the old cemetery was, a very pretty park could be made at a very slight expense, but as long as it belongs to the province nothing can be done.
