WELCOMED BY LUMBERMEN

The Duke and Duchess Shoot the Rapids Below Ottawa.

Then Witness the Hardy Woodmen at Work and Play.

Ottawa, Sept. 23.—The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall spent today on the Ottawa river and in the forest lining its banks and were given a complete exhibition of the lumberman's life with all its native picturesqueness.

They shot the timber slides on a raft, lunched in a lumberman's shanty and enjoyed a day's outing that was a complete novelty to them. The Royal party were brought in from Rideau Hall on a specially built electric car and boarded the rafts at Regan street. There were six rafts, each manned by half a dozen rivermen in red shirts and blue jeans, and from the one assigned to the Duke and Duchess flowed the Royal standard. Beside the members of the Royal party, the Governor General and the Countess of Minto, Premier Laurier and Lady Laurier, the representatives of the lumbermen and the newspaper correspondents travelling with the Royal party were the only ones to make the trip. The rafts were floated down the stream and then in succession sent whirling through the slides dropping 45 feet in a quarter of a mile. Every bridge spanning the river was crowded and the banks were lined with people who cheered wildly as the Royal couple floated quickly past on their exhilarating trip. Scores of river craft of every kind waited below the slides and there was a repetition of the cheering at that point. The cribs were quickly collected and the passengers taken off in birch bark canoes.

The whole flotilla then proceeded down the river to Rockliffe Point. A landing was made at the club house of the Ottawa Canoe club, from the verandah of which the Duke and Duchess witnessed the aquatic sports. The lumbermen first gave an exhibition of their skill in handling logs in the water and then a series of log rolling contests took place in which the loosing man was invariably ducked. The river sports closed with an exciting race of war canoes. Seven crews completed and there were 15 men in each canoe. The pace was very fast with a desperate spurt at the finish. The Grand Trunk Boating club, of Montreal, won. The Bitannias, of Ottawa, finished second and the Ottawas, third. The Duke and Duchess were then escorted to Rockliffe park, where in the midst of a heavy growth of hemlock and spruce a model lumberman's shanty had been thrown up. Fifty red shirted woodsmen lined up to receive them and they were shown at once to the shanty. A great open fire burned in the middle of the log walled house and the smiling cook announced that dinner was ready. He offered steaming pork and beans and other staples of bush life and the Duke and Duchess sampled each. A large tent stood next to the shanty and was stocked with the fare of civilization and here the entire party lunched. After lunch the lumbermen gave an exhibition of their woodwork. They attacked a great tree with their axes, felled it, sawed it into lengths and piled it on a sleigh. After that they danced on a rough platform to the scraping of a violin in the hands of one of their number, and sang the songs of the old voyageurs.

When they finished they gathered together and here the Duke thanked them. He said: "The Duchess and I thank you very much. We have seen many interesting things on our way round the world, but none more interesting than this."

William Whistlee, the French Canadian foreman of the camp, replied to the Duke and his speech, stongly marked by the dialect of his race, was highly amusing. It dealt with his own woes and debts and the Duke and Duchess who faced him could not restrain their laughter.

The Duke and Duchess returned to Rideau Hall on the special electric car. Late in the afternoon a delegation representing the ladies of Ottawa called at Rideau Hall and presented the Duchess with a mink cape. Lady Laurier made the presentation and the Duchess in reply expressed her appreciation and thanks.

The reception given by the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall in the senate chamber tonight was the most billiant social affair of the Canadian tour. All the local troops were massed in Parliament square and the entire group of buildings was brilliantly lighted, as were all of the streets in the centre of the Capital. The square and streets were crowded with people anxious for a glimpse at the guests. The senate chamber was splendidly decorated. The Duke and Duchess stood upon the Speaker's throne, and before them stood the members of the former's staff in uniform and the local officers. Aides de camp received the guests and escorted them to the throne for presentation, calling their names as they appeared before the Royal couple. The lights, the colors of the decoration, the gowns of the ladies and the uniforms of the officers made an attractive picture in the stately chamber.

MAGNIER GETS SIX MONTHS.

The Use of Drugs Pleaded in Extenuation of the Offence.

Yesterday morning in chambers before Judge Forin, W. J. Magnier, on the advice of his counsel, S. S. Taylor, pleaded guilty to both charges of which he was accused. The first was for unlawfully keeping in his possession $889, the property of the Second Relief mine, and the second for unlawfully keeping $28 belonging to J. R. Hunnex, remitted to him for the purpose of clearing goods through the customs.

After the prisoner had pleaded guilty, Mr. Taylor stated to the court that at the preliminary hearing it had been brought out on the evidence of Mr. Maughan, accountant of the Great Northern railway and Mr. Thomas, manager of the Great Northern Express, respectively, that the prisoner had been in the employ of the Great Northern for over ten years, having been travelling freight agent and local agent at Sioux Falls, Da. During the entire period he had borne an excellent reputation for honesty. For the last month he has been suffering severely from rheumatism, and under medical advice had been using whiskey and morphine to deaden the pain and induce sleep. The liquor and drug had the effect of disordering his intellect considerably, and while under the influence of them he had committed the crime, as was shown by his coming first to Nelson and then taking train for Vancouver without any attempt at hiding, practically walking into the arms of the law. If it had been a planned attempt he could by crossing the border at Waneta, probably have hidden and escaped. The prisoner also had with him a son of tender years who was dependent on him for support.

Further evidence as to the prisoner's previous good character and as to his not having given the police any trouble whatever while under arrest was given by Mr. W. H. Bullock-Webster.

The judge, taking into consideration the fact of the prisoner's having pleaded guilty and the evidence of his former good behavior, imposed sentences of six month's imprisonment in the jail at Nelson on each indictment, the sentences to run concurrently.

It is understood that his counsel will make application for a ticket-of-leave for Magnier in view of the special features of the case.

SCHLEY INQUIRY

His Navigator and Engineer Testified Before the Court Yesterday.

Heilner's Admission Regarding Naval Deparment Chart.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The part played by the battleship Texas in the naval battle of Santiago on July 31st, 1898, was the basis of the greater part of today's proceedings in the Schley Naval court of inquiry. Of the four witnesses examined during the day, three had been officers on board the Texsa, during the battle, and two of them were new witnesses. These were Commander G. C. Heilner, who was navigator on the Texas and Commander Alex. Bates, who was the chief engineer of that battleship.

The testimony several times during the day was somewhat exciting, especially so when Commander Heilner described the battle and the part the Texas had taken in it. Besides that when the Brooklyn made its loop at the beginning of the battle, it passed across the Texas bow at a distance not to exceed one hundred to one hundred and fifty yards and that at the command of Capt. Philips, the Texas had been brought to a dead stop. Engineer Bates testified that the starboard engines had been stopped and said he thought this also happened to the port engines. Commander Heilner expressed the opinion that three miles had been lost by this move and the fact that part of the machinery was deranged. He said he considered that the Texas was in greater danger when the Brooklyn crossed her bows than at any other time during the battle.

On cross examination Commander Heilner admitted having taken part in the preparation of the official Navy Department chart showing the positions at different times of the ships which had participated in the battle. He said that according to his chart the two ships never were nearer than 600 yards of each other, but he contended the chart was inaccurate and he said he had only consented to it as a compromise. Engineer Bates admitted that the official steam log of the Texas contained no record of the signal to reverse the engines. Commander Schroeder testified concerning the coal supply of the Maassachusetts which he said would have been sufficient for a blockade of from 16 to 20 days.

The day closed with another animated controversy between counsel as to the policy of bringing Admiral Sampson's name into the trial.

TRIAL SCENES AT BUFFALO

Anarchist Czolgosz Maintains Sullen Silence Throughout Proceedings.

Small Time Lost in Preliminaries and Important Medical Evidence Given.

Buffalo, Sept. 23.—Leon F. Czolgosz was placed on trial this morning charged with the murder of Wm. McKinley. He entered a plea of guilty, which was subsequently changed to not guilty by direction of the court. The court convened at 10 o'clock and within two hours eight jurors had been secured. Technicalities were not raised by the examining counsel but it was significant that every man who said he had formed an opinion on the case was excused by the district attorney. Those who acknowledged that they had formed an opinion or stated that they were prejudiced, but admitted that their opinion could be changed by evidence were accepted by each side. Justice Trueman C. White, one of the oldest and most experienced of the supreme court judges, was on the bench. Immediately after the opening of the court and after the prisoner had pleaded, Justices Loren L. Lewis, senior counsel for the defense, announced that, he and his colleagues, former Justices Robert C. Titus and Carleton E. Ladd, were ready to act in behalf of the prisoner. "I thought it best," he said, "for my colleague and myself, that I should say something regarding our presence here, as attorneys for the defendant. At the time my name was suggested I was out of the city and knew nothing of what was transpiring here with reference to the selection of counsel for the defendant. When the circumstances of my selection were told to me, I was extremely reluctant to accept. But the duty had been imposed and I considered it my duty in the light of all the circumstances to defend this man. I ask that no evidence be presented here, that the court will not permit the acceptance of any evidence, unless it would be accepted at the trial of the most meagre criminal in the land."

"I am familiar with these circumstances," said Justice White in reply, "and I wish to say I will give you every assurance that the prisoner will have a fair and impartial trial and that during the progress of the trial he will receive such treatment as the law demands in any criminal case."

The work of securing the jury was then undertaken with a celerity that was amazing. Before the day was over the entire panel had been sworn, the jurors had listened to a description of the Temple of Music where the crime occurred; had seen photographs of the interior of that structure and had been told by three surgeons what had caused the death of the president and the effect of the assassin's shot upon the various organs of the body. They had also learned why the fatal bullet had not been located.

The presentation of the government's case began shortly before 3 o'cock when Assistant District Attorney Miller began with much deliberation to address the jury. He spoke very briefly. "We shall show," said he, "that for some days prior to the shooting this defndant had premeditated the shooting of the president. He knew that on September 6th the president would receive the people in the Temple of Music; that on that day he went to the exposition, got into line with the people and approached the president, that he had a weapon concealed in his hand and as the president extended his hand in kindly greeting, he fired the fatal shot. He fired two shots, in fact. One of them took effect in the abdomen and caused the mortal wound which caused the president's death. That, in brief, is the story we shall show you. Witnesses will tell you this story and I am sure that when you have heard the evidence you will have no difficulty in reaching a verdict of murder in the first degree."

The first witness, Samuel J. Fields, chief engineer of the Pan-American exposition, described the ground floor plan of the Temple of Music and was followed by Percy A. Bliss, a photographer, who presented views of the interior of the building. The remainder of the afternoon was taken up with the testimony of three physicians, two of whom had attended the President during his last hours, while the other performed the autopsy. The latter, Dr. Harvey R. Gaylord, was the first of the three to be called. He described the location of the wounds in the stomach and the direction of the bulle. The cause of death; was attributed to the gunshot wound but fundamentally, he said, it was due to the changes back of the stomach, in the pancreas, caused by the "breaking down" of the material of the pancreas as a result of the passage of the bullet. Dr. Herman Mynter followed and his testimony was of importance, inasmuch as it brought out the fact that the reason why the fatal bullet had not been located at the autopsy, was because of the unwillingness of the president's relatives to have the body further mutilated by their instruments. Dr. Mynter and Dr Mann, who followed, both testified that the primary cause of death was the gunshot wound in the stomach. One effect of this wound was, they said, to cause the gangrene to form in the pancreas, and the spot of poisoned tissue was as large as a silver dollar.

The prisoner, Czolgosz, during the morning, evidenced no interest whatever in the proceedings, but as the testimony was introduced he paid more attention to what was being said, and looked at the various witnesses closely.

The probable duration of the trial, it is believed, can be placed at two full days. When District Attorney Penney was asked by Justice White at noon as to the time he would take in the presentation of his case, he declared that he would conclude by Tuesday noon. Judge Titus for the defense, was non-committal, however, and merely replied, "That depends upon the turn things take." It is not probable that any defense will be put in, owing to the character of the prisoner and his refusal to help his attorneys in any way to procure evidence which they could use in his favor. The idea of an attempt to enter the question of his sanity is not thought of. In view of the reports of the two alienists who have recently examined him and there is ground for belief that the trial will be concluded with a session of but one day more.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A HUNTSMAN

Dan Rice Frightfully Lacerated by a Bear on Milford Creek.

Taken by Surprise, He Had Evidently no Chance in the Struggle.

On Wednesday last Dan Rice, a prospector and hunter, and Gus Adams, of the Adams house, Kaslo, left that city on a hunting trip. Rice was armed with a Winchester magazine rifle, and Adams with a shot gun. They rowed up the lake as far as the mouth of Milford creek, where they landed and travelled on foot to a cabin which is about five miles from the lake. At the cabin they separated, Adams going up the valley in search of grouse, while Rice headed over the ridge, hoping to find a bear. They arranged to meet at the cabin at night, and at the appointed time Adams returned, but could see no signs of the other. He fired the shotgun off a couple of times, and shouted, but received no answer. Thinking that Rice had been delayed he piled up a huge bonfire, which he kept up for several hours to guide the other to the camp. He at last turned in, concluding that Rice must have made camp some distance away.

In the morning there was still no signs of the missing man, and becoming alarmed, Adams followed the route that the other had spoken of and walked all day, firing the gun at intervals at first but later becoming convinced that something had happened to the missing man, settled down to a systematic search of the ground for something that would expain the mystery. When night came he returned to the cabin. Saturday morning he continued the search, but in the afternoon returned to Kaslo for assistance. A party composed of Dan McPhail, Henry Cody and Ole Anderson rowed back with him to Milford creek, and by the light of lanterns made their way up to the cabin, where they camped over night. In the morning at daybreak they were joined by another party who had left Kaslo at 2 o'clock composed of seven more men.

The ten men then separated each taking a different line, and the mountain side where Rice said he was going was gone over all day long, but all no trace was found. Next morning, however, when the search was renewed, about 9 o'clock one of them suddenly came upon the remains of poor Rice. From the signs present it seemed as if Rice had been walking along a fallen tree, through thick bushes, which had evidently concealed a bear which had struck him on the back as he passed, breaking his back. It had then torn his face completely off, broken both arms, and bitten through one shoulder. His rifle lay beside him untouched, loaded and with the magazine full. The trigger was not cocked, showing that he must have been taken completely by surprise, although a first class, experienced hunter.

The rescuing party was called together and on a rough stretcher, made with two poles and some rope, the body was carried to the lake through the rough and trackless country through which Milford creek flows. So rough was the way that for a considerable distance the party had to wade along the bed of the creek to make any progress with their burden. When the lake was reached it was found that a heavy sea was running. Great difficulty was experienced in launching the boat, and in making any headway, but after a couple of miles of water had been covered, the tug Red Star, in which Capt. Conway had started out with another party of searcheers from Kaslo, was met, which took the boats in tow and quickly brought them to Kaslo, where the funeral will be held.

Nothing is known as to where Rice's relatives, if he had any, reside, although personally he was well known around Kaslo. He was about thirty years of age and had spent a number of years in the mountains of the Kootenays.

DISPLAYS OF LOYALTY.

Their Royal Highnesses, the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, are being accorded magnificent welcomes at the cities which they have so far visited. The warmth of the welcome is not shown so much in the formal functions held in their honor, as in the spontaneous enthusiasm shown by the people who gather along the streets and cheer the distinguished guests as they are driven under arches and along routes which have been gaily decorated in their honor. There is no mistaking the fact that the people feel honored by the visit of the heir aparent and his consort and are determined to show that feeling.

Take the welcome that was accorded the Duke and Duchess at Montreal as an example. From Quebec to Montreal was a continual triumphal journey the train hurrying swiftly by gaily decorated stations and gathering of people cheering at almost every country crossing. On arriving at Montreal every possible standing place was occupied by citizens, their wives, daughters and sons. It was there that Mayor Prefontaine read his address of welcome.

In this he welcomed their Royal Highnesses to the city on behalf of the mayor, the council and the citizens of Montreal with a full appreciation of the graciousness of the visit. Twice already, he said, it had been his privilege to welcome the Duke when he was an active officer of the North American and West Indian squadron The mayor then told how the Prince, the Duke's father, had visited Montreal in 1860, on the occasion of the opening of the Victoria bridge, and that time had but further developed the passionate loyalty which was so conspicuously upon the occasion of that ever memorable visit. Then he told how in Montreal, the commercial metropolis of Canada, two great races mingle to form one happy, harmonious, community. In glowing language he told how the English speaking and the French speaking Canadians had shed their blood on the thirsty veldts of South Africa in defense of the empire and that actuated by a devoted affection for our King and a common country he begged His Royal Highnesses to assure His Majesty of the devotion of the people of Montreal. In concluson the Mayor expressed regret for the death of the much beloved Queen Victoria.

The Duke made fitting and feeling reply in which he said that the address had touched the hearts of himself and the Duchess. He deeply appreciated the expression of royal devotion to the throne and the person of his dear father, the King. The allusion to the visit of his father recalled words uttered by his grandfather in speaking of the simultaneous visit of the Prince of Wales in Canada, when he was about to open the celebrated Victoria bridge, and of Prince Alfred at Capetown, to lay the foundation of the breakwater in Table Bay, when the Prince Consort said: "What vast consideration as regards our own country are brought to our mind by this simple fact; what present greatness; what past history; what future hopes and how important and benificent is the part given to the Royal family of England to act in the development of the distant and rising countries, who recognize in the British crown and their allegiance to it their supreme bond of union with the Mother Country and with each other."

Continuing the Duke said he was gratified to hear, in the commercial metropolis of Canada, that two great races formed one happy and united community and that they joyously accepted the obligation of proud membership in the British empire. Notable proof of ths had been shown in South Africa and elsewhere. The sympathetic allusion to the late beloved Queen, he said, were in harmony with the sounds of genuine mourning which he and the Duchess had heard in their journey throughout the empire. Her heart, he declared, was always drawn toward Canada, which was associated with the lives of several of the members of her family and with her father's memory.

At the conclusion of the address the medals were presented to the members of the Canadian contingents for services in South Africa and a procession was then formed and moved through the principal streets and it was here that the popular enthusiasm reached its fullest height. It was a spontaneous outburst of popular enthusiasm the like of which has propably never before been witnessed in Montreal.

The receptions which are to follow at Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Victoria and elsewhere will be replicas of the the ovations at Montreal and Quebec. It will be the most memorable visit and transcontinental trip ever made in Canada. There are only two other personages in the world who could excite the enthusiastic loyalty of the people of Canada to greater heights by a visit and they are King Edward and Queen Alexandra. The spontaniety, the wamth, and the deep devotion shown for the Duke and Duchess reveals the great depth of the loyalty which the people of Canada have for their rulers and how strongly they revere the empire and its institutions. It is a great object lesson and must show those few people in the United States, who have been prating about the annexation of Canada to the United States, that there is no sentiment that is worthy of the slightest consideration favorable to such a measure in the big Dominion of Canada. The receptions also reveal how strong the imperial feeling is, as it has grown to such strength that it is a part of the very fibre of the people. Their Royal Highnesses when they return to Great Britian can inform the King that he has no more loyal subjects in all the vast empire than the people of the Dominion of Canada.

A GLARING MISSTATEMENT.

The London Times is usually well informed, but occasionally it makes glaring mistakes when speaking of Canada. The Colonial editor in a recent issue of the Times explained to the British public that the reason why British immigrants go to the United States rather than to Canada is because the temperate zone is best suited to British subjects. By inference at least the Times solemnly tells the British people that Canada is in the frigid zone and is, therefore, too cold to make a suitable home for tes emigrating from Great Britain. This is an unwarranted display of ignorance. London is about in the same latitude as the southern part of Hudson's Bay, and 90 per cent of the people of Canada live considerably south of England. Newfoundland, even, lies further to the south than the United Kingdom One has to go to the Yukon to find any settled portion of the Dominion further north than Scotland. It does seem as though the Thunderer should be more careful of its statements, as such an article as this and such poems as "Our Lady of the Snows," by Kipling, are calculated to keep the British people from coming to Canada. A country where grapes, watermelons and all of the smaller fruits grow to perfection, which grows wheat that commands the best price on account of its superior quality, that has many square miles that are the garden spots of the continent, should not be set down as being in the frigid zone.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Cranbrook Herald recently printed an interesting item about Mr George Goldie, of the government office at Fort Steele, who recently paid Cranbrook a visit. It stated that Mr. Goldie saw for the first time in 14 years, an electric light, a railway track and passenger train. It was 14 years since he first went to East Kootenays and then he located at Windermere as mining recorder. A year since he was transferred to the government office at Fort Steele. During that time the only illuminants he had used were coal oil and candles and he had not seen a railway or a passenger train. He gazed, therefore, at the electric lights with considerable curiousity and was almost awed when the passenger train came rapidly into the Cranbrook depot.

The London Outlook, discussing the retirement of Lord Salisbury, says: "When that day does come out national life will have lost its greatest figure for there is no other man who stands upon the same plane His authority is personal, that of others rises from the power of the official position they occupy. When he speaks, Europe has accustomed itself to listen. There are others who provoke resentment or excite criticism, but Lord Salisbury always receives the rare, compliment of attention. Though above all things practical in action, he has shown himself the most thoughtful of all English Foreign Ministers, by no means the greatest, but the most philosophical in his exposition of international affairs. There has been nothing swift, splendid or sustained about his policy (he laughed once at the 'empty rhetoric' of Channing's most famous phrase; but for dispassionate wisdom, for the patient handling of difficult problems, for his constant pursuit of pacific settlemens, his record will stand very high."

Florence Hot Blast

Our New Idea Deflector Fire Pot greatly increases the heating capacity of the stove, and in connection with the deflector ring forces the heat to the floor. The base is hot, the floor being warmer than with a base burner.

The Hot Blast Attachment takes in the cold air through a duct at the rear of the fire pot, the heated air being discharged in a circle at the top of fire pot, over fire, thus consuming all the gases and products of combustion. It can be operated in connection with the front draft door, or independently, by a screw register in the rear of base, insuring complete control of the stove with nearly perfect combustion.

The large Hot Air Circulating Flue on the back takes the cold air from the floor and ejects it, intensely heated, through the top adding greatly to the heating capacity.

Where the stove is operated according to directions we guarantee it to consume all the gas contained in soft coal, thus deriving the benefit of all the heat in the fuel consumed, causing a truly remarkable saving of fuel over any other stove on the market. The stove will hold fire from 24 to 48 hours without attention.

IN THE COUNTY COURT OF KOOTENAY

HOLDEN AT NELSON

Between Henry Hey, plaintiff, judgment creditor, and John Harold Beley and Harry Lockwood, defendants, judgment debtors.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to an order of this court dated the 16th day of September, 1901, under and by virtue of the "Judgment Act' and Amending acts, sealed tenders for the purchase of Lot 4311 (Four thousand and three hundred and eleven) Group One (1), Kootenay District British Columbia according to the official plan or survey of said district, being the property of the above named judgment debters, will be received by me at my office at the Court House, Nelson, British Columbia, up to and until the second day of October, A. D., 1901, at 12 o'clock noon to satisfy the judgment obtained in this action by the above named plaintiff judgment creditor against the above named defendants, judgment debtors, on the 20th day of June, 1901, for the sum of $363.90 for debt and taxed costs together with interest thereon from the said 20th day of June, 1901, at the rate of 5 per cent (five per centum) per annum, and also together with the costs of sale and all other costs incidental thereto incurred subsequent to said date. The charges appearing on the Register against said lands are as follows:

1901—20th June, 1901, 2.45 p. m Registration of judgment Henry Hey, plaintiff, versus John Harold Beley and Harry Lockwood for $363.90.

E. T. H. SIMPKINS,
Registrar.

Dated this 17th day of September, A. D, 1901.

THE POSTOFFICE TROUBLE.

Further Progress Made Toward a Settlement of Differences.

Some progress was made toward a statement of the matters in dispute between the contractor for the postoffice building and Architect James A. Macdonald, by the arrival yesterday of Contractor LeMoine, a member of the contracting firm.

The first difference occurred with the stone for the water table course of the building which the specifications required to be chiselled, but the foreman on the work, Louis Daviaux, thought that such was not necessary and went ahead with bush hammered stone. The architect then declined to pass estimates for the work and the crisis was brought on. Mr. LeMoine has stated that he had permission from the chief architect of the department of public works to put in bush hammered work on all but the molded surfaces and the cornices; he is, however, willing to chisel all but the water table and the inside of the porch. Mr. Macdonald does not feel justified in passing the cheaper work without specific instructions to that effect from the chief architect and the matter was laid before that official by telegraph yesterday. No reply has yet been received. If this reference does not settle the differences existing William Henderson, resident architect in British Columbia for the public works department, will come to Nelson about October 5th and give a decision.

The dressing of the stone is a matter of some importance. Those familiar with stone work state that bush hammered stone leave crevices which are sure to fill with washings from the chipped surface and organic matter. Moss is sure to grow and the building soon has an old appearance. The difference of cost of the two kinds of work on a building of the size that the postoffice will be is estimated at $1,000 more for chiselling than bush hammering.

THEOSOPHY AND SOCIALISM.

Right Thought Necessary to Ideal Social Conditions.

At the meeting of the Nelson Socialistic Educational club on Sunday last the subjects of "Theosophy and Socialism" were introduced by F. W. Pettit. The speaker while admitting that the ethical teachings of theosophy and socialism were identical and that both were working for the amelioration of the condition of humanity, drew attention to the two great Eastern doctrines of Reincarnation and Karma as factors in the solution of social issues. In the light of these two fundamental teachings it was pointed out that, inasmuch as man is the maker of his own destiny, it is certain that so long as there is such a wide divergence in the mental condition of mankind, and, action on this plane being the crystallization of thought, it follows that a right condition of thought is essential to the consummation of socialistic ideals. The larger brotherhood, inculcated by theosophy, and embodied well in the statement, "Not be ye as brothers, but ye are brothers," has in itself the germ of true socialism, for once realized by man in his higher nature and consequently lived up to, the unnatural social conditions which prevail will fade away and the dawn of a better day be at hand.

FROM THE GAZETTE.

School Children to Have a Vacation—Incorporation.

The last issue of the British Columbia Gazette contains the following announcements:

The council of public instruction has been pleased to declare that on the occasion of the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, Monday, September 30th, shall be observed as a holiday in all public schools on the mainland and Tuesday and Wednesday, October 1 and 2, be observed as holidays on Vancouver and adjacent island in order to give the children of the province an opportunity of seeing their Royal Highnesses.

A certificate of incorporation has been issued to the Rockland Copper Company, limited, with a capital of $2,000,000 divided into $1 share. The object is to carry on a general mining business.

By a Dominion order in council in a report dated July 18, 1901, from the minister of the interior, submitting that by order in council, dated January 19, 1899, the regulations to cut timber in Manitoba, the Northwest Territories and the railway belt in the province of British Columbia, were amended so as to permit the owners of timber berths in the railway belt to sell the timber thereon to mill owners, the regulations having previously provided that the timber must be manufactured at the sawmill of the license to be operated at the berth. There is therefore no provision in the regulations, as they exist at present, to prevent the exportation of logs cut on Dominion lands in the railway belt in the province of British Columbia. The minister, therefore, recommends that the regulations be again amended so as to provide that all timber cut on berths in the railway belt in British Columbia shall be manufactured within the limits of the Dominion.

The by-laws and rules made by the British Columbia Board of Dental examiners are published and provide that the board shall meet annually at the time and place of the B. C. Dental association, or at other such time and place as the board shall agree upon to conduct the examination of applicants. All students shall be required to be registered for a term of three years to a duly licensed practitioner, and a proper form of indenture shall be duly registered with the secretary of the board. All candidates are required to obtain not less than 50 per cent on any one subject and not less than 70 per cent. of the whole examination. A fee of $2.50 will be charged for registration of students. A fee of $30 shall be charged for all examinations. In cases where candidates are successful no additional charge will be made for certificates. In cases where candidates are not successful the fee of $30 will be retained to pay the expense of examination.

A REWARD OFFERED.

Government Agent McMynn has offered a reward of $250 for evidence that will convict the robbers, or any of them, who on the night of the 3rd instant robbed Fred Kaiser and other persons in the Commercial hotel, Eholt, of money and jewelry valued at about $2,000. So far as is known, the police have not succeeded in finding any clue to the identity of the robbers.

THOUSANDS SENT INTO EXILE.

Every year a large number of poor sufferers whose lungs are sore and racked with coughs are urged to go to another climate. But this is costly and not always sure. Don't be an exile when Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption will cure you at home. It's the most infallible medicine for Coughs, Colds, and all Throat and Lung diseases on earth. The first dose brings relief. Astounding cures result from persistent use. Trial bottle free at Canada Drug & Book Co. Price 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

BRAIN-FOOD NONSENSE.

Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authorities. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for brain, another for muscles, and still another for bones. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body, but it will sustain every other part. Yet, however good your food may be, its nutriment is destroyed by indigestion or dypepsia. You must prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A few doses aids digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get Dr. C. G. Green's reliable remedies at W. F. Teetzel & Co.'s. Get Green's Special Almanac.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING.

The Fire Department Still in Need of a Suitable Horse.

A meeting of the city council was held last evening. Owing to the absence of Mayor Fletcher, the chair was filled by Ald. Hamilton. Besides the chairman, Aldermen Selous, Gillette, Paterson and Madden were present.

The balance of the first estimate on the high school building, $592, was ordered paid, having been forwarded to the city by the provincial government, together with the half of the estimate that had been advanced by the city to the trustees. The following accounts were then read and approved: Payroll, street, $1 .75; electric light construction, $30; waterworks construction, $129.50; sewers, $94.75; streets, $168.80.

A letter from the secretary of the Kootenay Lake General hospital, calling attention to the fact that the city had not yet issued a check for the balance of the sum that had been voted to the hospital in March, was then placed before the board, and on motion of Alderman Gillette, seconded by Alderman Selous, it was decided to issue a check for $500, the remaining balance of $500 to be paid later.

The addition to by-law No. 109, which was framed to do away with the practice of Chinamen carrying slops about the public streets in pails and open vessels and which had come up for its third reading at the last meeting of the council, was put to a vote and unanimously carried.

An invitation to the mayor and council from the New Westminster corporation to attend the fair at that city was read and the city clerk was directed to suitably acknowledge its receipt.

Fire Chief Lillie then appeared before the council to report that the new horse for the fire brigade that has been purchased by Mayor Fletcher was unfit for work. This matter was left over for his worship to attend to.

The reading of the tenders for the new city wharf was also held over till the next meeting.

PREFERS PARTY LINES.

J. A. Mara formerly membr of parliament for Yale-Kootenay-Cariboo, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Mara is of opinion that the days of party lines in the provincial legislature are near at hand and that it would be preferable to the personal government system that has prevailed in recent years. No one can doubt Mr. Mara's staunch fealty to the Conservative party yet he considers that a strong Liberal government would be more beneficial to the province than wavering parties that there have been in the past.
