WEEK'S ORE SHIPMENTS

Improved Conditions in Mining Throughout the Kootenays

Past Week Saw Several Important Deals Consummated That Will Make For Increased Ore Output in Future

The pleasing announcement that the Last Chance mine near Sandon, would again be operated extensively, the excellent report of progress at the Ymir mine, combined with continuously increasing activity in the Boundary district, profit making in Rossland, and an unusually heavy ore shipment from the St. Eugene mine, make up the main features of the past week in Kootenay mining circles.

The fear that reorganization would delay active operations at the Last Chance mine, has been dispelled by the announcement that work will be commenced during the first week of next month. The liquidator will obtain the court's permission this week to proceed with the development of the property forthwith, ample funds are in the treasury and the directors state that a campaign of systematic development will be continuously carried on after work starts up. Shipments will be made from time to time but the development of the mine is the chief matter to be taken up at first. Some 25 men will be engaged as fast as places can be secured for them. The mine was closed down in December last pending liquidation and reorganization, and the immediate restarting up of work means much for Sandon.

Manager Hand of the Ymir mine has given a very favorable report of the outlook at this famous property. Since June 6 thirty stamps have been dropping at the mill with good results, and 40 stamps could be used if men could be obtained. At present the daily output of the mill is 90 tons, or 630 tons a week, and this will be increased next month if labor can be got. The manager, while reticent, is evidently well pleased with the way the mine is showing up in the new work, and generally the indications from the property all point one way.

The Boundary district continues to be the scene of ever increasing activity, properties of known great value continue to pass into the hands of people with plenty of capital, who at once set about making arrangements to develop their new holdings, and at the Granby mines and smelter extension and enlargement remain the order of the day. All through the district progress, in mining and in smelting facilities, continues at a rate that is astonishing. The B. C. Copper company has taken up its option on the well known Denora Mines, Ltd., holdings, anticipating the time when the bond given fell due. Preparations are being made to still further develop the newly acquired property.

The purchase by the Consolidated M. & S. Co., of Trail, Rossland and Moyie, of the Snowshoe mine, just announced, will be read with interest by all mining men who have watched closely the turn of events in connection with the property. It is stated that shipments will shortly be commenced from the Snowshoe to the Trail smelter.

Extensive development is being done on the Mother Lode property and the enlargement of the company's smelter at Greenwood is being pushed rapidly along meanwhile. From Greenwood, also, comes the reported finding of very rich mineral specimens.

During the week the St. Eugene shipped 1,264 tons to the Trail smelter, an unusually large output and sufficiently indicative of the good progress being made at this East Kootenay property.

Rossland mines are all doing well and the profits made at the Le Roi, Centre Star and Le Roi No. 2 are stated to run from $30,000 to $50,000 for last month, and promise even better for June.

The week's output from the mines, and the receipts at the several smelters are appended in detail. They call for no special mention this week, but allowing for the temporary close down of the B. C. Copper company's smelter at Greenwood, they are well up to the good average so far maintained this year.

AT THE GRANBY SMELTER

Grand Forks, June 23—Negotiations have been quietly going on during the past few weeks between the Granby company and the men in connection with the request of the machinists and carpenters for a nine hour day. Definite arrangements were concluded this week by which all ten hour men will from Monday next, work for nine hours with no decrease of pay.

It is the intention of the management to close down the works for two days for repairs, probably July 2 and 3. When operations recommence, No. 2 furnace will be enlarged to the same capacity as No. 1 The work will probably be accomplished in 15 days. This will be followed by the enlargement of the other small furnaces as rapidly as possible. The increased furnace capacity necessitates more blast, and two new Jumbo blowers of the No. 10 type will be installed. They will be placed in a blower room which will be built on to the converter blower building, the foundations being almost ready now. Four new motors of 150 horse power each will be placed in commission. To meet the additional appetite of the furnaces three new electric motors have been ordered for the charge cars, also a new duplex pump with a capacity of 750,000 gallons per 24 hours. The third converter stand will be placed in position in the course of three or four days, the foundations having been completed during the past week. Masons are a scarce quantity and several more could be used to good purpose in the general work at the Granby.

WALLACE MOUNTAIN SILVER

Greenwood, June 23—Local interest in the West Fork mines has been greatly increased this week by some fine specimens of ore that have been brought in from that district. It has long been believed that Wallace Mountain would yet yield high values in precious metals, and some recent finds have exceeded the most sanguine expectations.

One of the finest specimens of silver ore ever exhibited in Greenwood was brought in from the Duncan mine, West Fork. It is about the size of a cup, with one side thickly covered with silver resembling silver wire. The specimen is very rich and would run hundreds of dollars to the ton. The Duncan is one of the high grade silver-lead mines of Wallace mountain, and is owned almost exclusively by local parties. Among others interested are Hon. W. S. Fielding, Kenneth Mackenzie, S. E. Belt, B. Snyder, L. E. Rolley, Alf. Lind, Duncan Currie and Thomas Henderson.

The specimen was secured from the winze in the drift some 70 feet from the surface. The ledge from which it was taken is some 23 inches wide and has run $263.64 per ton. The drift is in some 75 feet along the line between the Duncan and the Bounty fraction, now under bond to the owners of the Duncan. The winze is being sunk at a point some 50 feet from the mouth of the drift, and another drift will soon be started lower down the hill to give greater depth.

The ore is a mixture of quartz, galena, zinc blend, iron pyrites, with native silver. A staff of five men has been engaged continuously on development for over a year, and the lead has been tapped at various points by open cuts and shafts for over 1500 feet and shows good values throughout. The assays were all taken from the ordinary samples of ore and the lowest ran $75 per ton, and the average much higher, while the ore now being produced will run over $263 per ton. Considerable ore has been mined and a shipment will be made early in July. It is the intention of the owners to fully develop the property, and with the advent of the railway up the North Fork the value of the mine will be greatly enhanced.

AT THE MOTHER LODE

Greenwood, June 23—At the Mother Lode the work of development is going ahead with remarkable vigor. The four compartment shaft has been sunk to the 460 foot level, and work on the 400 foot level and station and pocket will be commenced soon. The work at the mine is handicapped to some extent by lack of men. Machine men and laborers are both needed. A new bunk house for 60 men will soon be under construction as well as seven new cottages for married men. The houses are being designed and located with a view to providing the workmen with comfortable and homelike residences.

ROSSLAND PROFITS

Le Roi, Centre Star and Le Roi No. 2 All Making Good Money.

Rossland, June 23.—The profits of the Le Roi for the month of May reached the very respectable sum of $50,000. This mine has made a profit of from $30,000 to $50,000 for every month of the present year and a good sized sum must now lie in the treasury, awaiting the time when the directors will declare a dividend.

The Centre Star, although it does not publish monthly statements, is making similar profits, and these will be made manifest to the stockholders of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting company, in the quarterly dividends which that company is distributing among its shareholders.

The Le Roi No. 2 is making larger profits than ever before in its history, which will also appear shortly in dividends.

POUGHKEEPSIE REGATTA

CORNELL WON THE HONORS IN INTERCOLLEGIATE RACES

HEAVY RAIN FALL MARRED AFTERNOON'S SPORTS.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 23.—Cornell again won the honors in the annual regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing association held here this afternoon over the four mile course on the Hudson river. The red and white crews were first in the varsity eight, the open in the intercollegiate championship of the year and the race for varsity fours. Syracuse won the event for freshmen crews, Cornell being second. The races were decided between thunderstorms, a particularly heavy one occurring just before the varsity eights were scheduled to start. The racing shells of several of the crews were so filled with water that it was necessary to have them pumped out and this delayed the sending away until 6.19 this evening. It was the prettiest struggle seen here for some years between Pennsylvania and Syracuse for second place and almost in the last sweep of the oars Pennsylvania forged a few feet ahead and took second place. Between Cornell, Syracure and Pennsylvania the race was a stiff one throughout.

In the four-oared race won by Cornell, Syracuse was second, Columbia third and Pennsylvania last.

In the freshmen race, Syracuse was followed across the line by Cornell, Wisconsin, Columbia and Pennsylvania. Again in this contest the fight for second place was the real struggle of the race. Wisconsin came within three feet of nipping Cornell in the last few yards of the race.

The downpour of rain which preceded the varsity race drenched to the skin the 20,000 people gathered along the shores of the river and on board the Lindon observation train. The shower continued for 45 minutes and at times resembled a cloudburst. Great sheets of rain swept down from the northeast and against it umbrellas and waterproofs were no defence whatever.

SALE OF PATENT MEDICINES

Dominion Regulating Legislation Promised—New C. P. R. Pacific Liners

(Special to The Daily News)

Ottawa, June 23.—The minister of finance has given notice of a bill to amend the National Transcontinental Railway law. It relates to the form of security which the government have exacted—a deposit of $5,000,000 in cash or approved government securities. As government securities were not available the cash was put up. The amendment is to permit the government to accept any securities of undoubted commercial value.

Legislation will be enacted next session on the recommendation of Hon. W. Templeman, minister of inland revenue, to regulate the sale of patent medicines and protect the public against buying fake and injurious goods.

It is believed here that the C. P. R. will put a line of steamers on the Pacific to Australia which will lessen the time of passage three days. The new boats will be equal to the Empress steamers on the Atlantic.

MUTILATED BODIES FOUND

Connellsville, Pa., June 23.—The mutilated bodies of two men, with their heads crushed as if with an axe, were found tonight on the hillside near the Nellie coal mines at Vanderbilt. It is believed the men were murdered.

One body has been identified as that of Thomas Bostey, a miner. The other man is believed to be I. F. Clark, a telegraph operator of this city.

ANTICIPATE A RUPTURE

Constitutional Democrats Prepare Address to Russian Electors

Break With Ministry May Come Any Moment and Parliament be Dis olved--Bialystok Aga n in State of Terror

St. Petersburg, June 23.—The central committee of the constitutional democrats today decided to draw up an address to the country, setting forth their position in the lower house of parliament, especially in justification of their demand for the retirement of the ministry and appealing for the support of parliament.

The address is designed to counteract the activity of the socialist group which is working night and day to undermine the position of the constitutional democrats in the country and to serve also as a platform on which the party can stand in case of a rupture of the administration which many of the more radical of the constitutional democrats now believe cannot come any too soon.

The parliamentary committee which is drafting a code for the inviolability of persons has adopted resolutions for abolishing the law for the expulsion of foreigners from Russia except in time of war unless a law court sentences them to expulsion.

Despatches from Bialystok report that the citizens there are panic stricken owing to unconfirmed rumors that the anti-Jewish outrages are to be revived. There is a general display of ikons and crosses before the houses to protect the inhabitants from attack, patrols are to be seen everywhere and strict martial law is enforced. Three men, two of whom were Christians, were recently shot for failing to obey orders to halt.

In St. Petersburg a sergeant of police was killed last night at Pahlfactory in the turbulent Neva district which is the center of an armed revolutionary organization.

Voronezh, June 23.—The peasants of the village of Krutnyagoky, enraged at the killing of a cow by two soldiers, called a commune meeting, formally condemned the two men to death, and executed the sentence.

Ofa, June 23.—Prince Manviloff, an extensive land proprietor and army officer of the guards, was killed on the street here yesterday. The crime it is supposed was committed for political purposes.

Kertsch, Province of Taurida, Russia, June 23.—A captain of genadrmes, named Sherematieff, was killed on the street here today by revolutionists. His wife, who accompanied him, was seriously wounded.

RECORD 100-YARD DASH

Spokane, June 23.—(Special)—Dan Kelly, of Portland, today won the American amateur championship for the 100-yard dash in 9 3-5 seconds, not only beating the amateur record but equalling the professional record for that distance.

The annual championship meet of the Pacific Northwest association of the American Amateur Athletic union, met in Spokane today, and did splendid work. Portland captured 69 points, Seattle 40, and Spokane 17.

QUEEN HELENA'S PLUCK

ACCOMPANIES THE KING IN SPITE OF ANARCHIST THREATS

SAYS IT IS HER DUTY TO BE AT HER HUSBAND'S SIDE

Rome, June 23.—The recent arrest of several anarchists at Ancona, together with the discovery of bombs and other explosives, which it is believed were to be used in an attempt on the life of king Victor Emmanuel, who will arrive there tomorrow to lay the corner stone of the Maggiore hospital, made the departure of the king for Ancona tonight an interesting event.

Queen Helena insisted on accompanying him. When she was cautioned against making the trip, she said: "I don't believe the danger exists, but the mere idea that it may, makes me feel that it is my duty to be there beside the king."

YMIR BEAR STORY

Foote Had to Put His Best Foot Forward Courageous Canine Killed

(Special to The Daily News)

Ymir, June 23—The country lying between Salmo and Champion along the line of the Nelson & Fort Sheppard railway, is alive with bears. There are so many that they are becoming a great nuisance to the ranchers. Thursday William Foote who is cutting ties at Wilson's, near Meadows, came face to face with a large bald faced bear. Mr. Foote who is a nimrod with a good record, took a rock and threw it at the bear, striking him on the nose. This was too much for Mr. Bear, who at once took after Foote. Mr. Foote, considering discretion the better part of valor, hastily retreated pursued by the bear. On the same ground W. J. Wilson's little boy, accompanied by a fox terrier, went after the cows and came upon a bear. The dog pluckily attacked the animal and was promptly killed, while the bear chased the boy who fortunately reached a place of safety. The tie makers along the line are all working with rifles by their sides as it is not uncommon to run across bears while at work.

Miss Marie Horton of Salmo, who has been attending the normal school at Vancouver was fortunate enough to get honors. This young lady, with three others out of 60 teachers, were the only four to secure honors.

A. Carney of Kaslo, timber inspector, was out on the Salmon river visiting Feeney's and Alexander's pre-emptions, and also inspecting other applications. It seems that certain parties who are ready to make trouble and mischief for others, reported to the government agent at Nelson that the lands above mentioned were not agricultural lands, but timber lands, and Mr. Carney was sent down to make a report. Mr. Carney stated yesterday to a Salmo gentleman that the reports were without foundation, and that the land was not timber, but agricultural land.

CUT HIS SON'S THROAT

WHILE SHAVING HIM DEVELOPED MURDEROUS IMPULSE

FATHER DEAD OF INJURIES SUSTAINED IN CAPTURE.

New York, June 23.—William Herman, a negro, who was held with his son Luther, in jail at Freehold, N.J., as witnesses in a murder case, went raving mad today, seriously wounding his son with a razor, slashed himself and fought the jailers till he received mortal injury.

Herman, while shaving his son, developed a murderous impulse and drove the razor across the boy's throat. Luther managed to break away from his frenzied father when the latter ran to the second tier of cells and began to slash himself about the face and neck. Keeper Sherman and his aides rushed at the man but he kept them at bay with his razor. At last Sherman, after a desperate fight, succeeded in flooring the maniac by heavy blows. His injuries were so serious that he died tonight.

Luther was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

CRANBROOK'S STEAM COYOTE

Fearful Instrument Secured by Fire Brigade to Sound Alarms

(Special to The Daily News)

Cranbrook, June 23—When a man's heart is oppressed with the vastness of the depths of the mountains, or the immensity of the solitude and unspoken mystery of the wide spaces where men die and bleach to mummies beside faithless water holes, the long, quavering howl of the coyote becomes the very voice of the wilderness, suggesting hungry vigils where no man comes, desert feasts on dreadful prey, stealthy pursuit, orgies of blood and rapine under the quiet stars and lonliness unutterable. He is a beast unclean, apart, obscene, the very pariah of pariahs. The bullet—soft nosed for choice—that finds its billet in his dirty body rids the earth of a skulking, slinking marauder, and still, his howl fits his usual environment as fittingly as the voice of Caruso suits grand opera.

Last evening and this morning the air round our city was split and torn to tatters by horrible yells and quivering shrieks. It was the voice of the coyote, all night. A fifty horse power coyote. People stopped their work and marvelled what it could be.

"What in Sam Hill is that" enquired one fellow.

"Search me," answered the other. "Guess it must be come menagerie animals coming in ahead of the circus for Monday. One o' them elephants, maybe. Seems like they was cuttin' a hind leg off him."

"Well," replied the first chap, "why don't they shoot him, 'stead o' havin' him raisin' hell like that"

In a few minutes it turned out that the fire brigade had become possessed of one of those steam caliope whistles and was having it tested on engine 1368 up at the depot. It was being put through its paces and musical scales. The musician who had it in hand said it was not taking its steam properly, but when he had it in proper tune, wrought up to concert pitch, so to speak, he gave it as his view that people would be apt to hear it. There can be no doubt about it.

It is to be used for a fire alarm, as the bell now used for the purpose is found to be of too dulcet a tone of voice, suitable, maybe, for calling people of gentle mold to gentle prayers but not for the wild alarm of fire and the strenuous demand for action. The steam coyote will be fixed on the top of the railway roundhouse and will be operated by steam from the stationary engine at the machine shops. It will have an electric connection with the fire hall from which place it can be thrown into action by touching a switch. When ready for its awful solo it will be calculated to wake the dead and precipitate the final resurrection. Let it be hoped that it will not have to shout its menace to the night too frequently. It will add a new horror to the terror of fire.

WATERWAYS COMMISSION

Washington, June 23—General Ernst of the American contingent of the international waterways commission, has called a meeting of the full commission at Buffalo next Tuesday. The subjects for discussion will be the use of the waters of Rainy Lake river, in Minnesota, by the Minnesota Power company; the diversion of the waters of the St. Lawrence river by an existing power plant at Long Sault, and the proposition to construct another power plant in the same neighborhood, and respecting the amount of water to be diverted by the Chicago drainage canal. The commission will be in session at intervals during the entire summer.

UNCLE SAM'S SOLDIERS

To be Fitted With Uniforms by Expert London Military Tailor

London, June 23—G. V. Winter, military tailor, is going to the United States under engagement with the American war department, to advise regarding the new active service uniforms. He will be paid $1000 a week.

He is an expert in every kind of military equipment and besides dress has invented and patented a score of military requisites. His son accompanies him as a model. Mr. Winter said in an interview: "The Washington officials have given me a free hand. I hope to design something smart for both branches of the United States army. American army men are smart, but although the material of their uniforms are superior to those of the British soldier, their designs and cut are most unsatisfactory. I understand the officials are anxious to avoid any semblance of German uniforms and wish to copy ours as far as practicable. Their offer was most flattering."

LENGTH OF SHIRTS AN ISSUE

Topeka, June 23—Injected into the state political campaign is the queerest issue of Kansas' many freaks—the length of men's shirts.

Although both the republican and democrat state conventions frowned on it, the length of a shirt is a direct issue in a farm paper leading the movement to organize the farmers into unions. The argument is advanced that if every shirt worn were made one inch longer, the added cloth would consume the entire surplus cotton. Farmers are urged to organize and stand for the demand.

Ryan and Crummer, chairmen, respectively of the democrat and republican committees, declared if this remedy were reversed to equalize matters in case of a shortage of coton, it might become very embarrassing. "I think the farmers should go slow on this proposition," said Ryan.

KETTLE VALLEY LINE EXTENSION

Grand Forks, June 23—About 300 men are now engaged on the Kettle Valley line grade, and more are being added daily. Camps have been established as far north as Niagara, and the work of bombarding the mountain sides has commenced in earnest all along the line. At the camp near the Wayside inn, a good start has been made, about half a mile of the roadbed having been completed.

The work of clearing right of way is now being carried on expeditiously, the stretch across the slough from Frank Miller's ranch to the city having been completed. A party of high officials of the road is expected to arrive in the city from Toronto about July 1.

VESPERS BARRED FROM HENLEY.

Henley, England, June 23.—The regatta stewards today resolved, in view of the action of the American National Association of Amateur Oarsmen regarding the visit of the Vesper crew of Philadelphia to Henley in 1905, that no further entries shall be accepted from the Vespers. Mr. Fletcher, the Oxford coach gave notice of a motion to the effect that no further entries from any American club shall be accepted.

PURE FOOD BILL PASSED.

Washington, June 23.—The so called pure food bill was passed today by the house and the conference report of the railroad rate bill adopted. Nearly the entire day was taken up with the consideration of the pure food bill under the five minute rule and most of the amendments offered were voted down. The pure food bill finally passed by a vote of 242 to 175.

EASTERN LACROSSE

Toronto, June 23—The Tecumseh club beat the Capital lacrosse team today 4-3.

Montreal, June 23—Shamrockk lacrosse team won from the Nationals today 8-3.

New York, June 23—The Crescent A.C. lacrosse team defeated Montreal today by a score of 7-2.

CRITICISM TOO STRONG

Louisville, Ky., June 23.—The Louisville packing plant, owned by the Cudahy Packing company, was closed tonight for an indefinite period because of newspaper criticism and adverse legislation.

"LONG JOE" TOO LONG

London, Ont., June 23—Private "Long Joe" Lawrence of Guelph, very thin and seven feet nine inches tall, who has been attending militia camp, was taken to the hospital last night with appendicitis. It is said there was not a cot long enough to accommodate the patient.

NEW BATTLESHIP LAUNCHED

Glasgow, June 23—The British battleship Agamemnon of 16,000 tons was successfully launched here today and was christened by the countess of Aberdeen. The Agamemnon will have a speed of 18 knots, will carry four 12 inch and ten 9.2 inch guns in her battery.

IRISHMAN IS CHAMPION

Brookline, Mass., June 23—T. F. Keely of Tipperary, Ireland, won the national all round championship of the national amateur athletic union here today with 6274 points. He broke two weight records. John Eredemus of South Bend, Ind., was second with 5064, and Ellery H. Clark of the Boston athletic association, third with 4678 points.

WIN FOR WESTMINSTER

Victoria, June 23—New Westminster won the intermediate lacrosse match this afternoon from Victoria, 6-2.

C. P. R. BUY SNOWSHOE

Latest Important Mining Deal Reported in the Boundary District

Formerly One of Big Shipping Properties of Phoenix Camp Has Been Closed Down for Past Three Years

(Special to The Daily News)

Phoenix, June 23.—Another important deal for a group of prominent Phoenix camp mines is reported here as being about to be completed, the details having already been arranged. The group in question is the Snowshoe, owned by the Snowshoe Gold and Copper Mines, Ltd., a London corporation, and the apparently authentic report is that the group has been sold to the C. P. R. This probably means that it will be taken over by the C. P. R.'s mining company, the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co., of Canada, Ltd., owning and operating the Centre Star, War Eagle and St. Eugene mines and the Trail smelter, and that in due course the Snowshoe ores will be sent to the Trail smelter for treatment, if the long haul of some 125 miles is not too expensive to the C. P. R.

The Earl of Chesterfield is chairman of the Snowshoe company, and George S. Waterlow, vice-chairman. The latter gentleman is now said to be on his way to British Columbia, and is expected shortly in this section, for the purpose of closing up the details of the transfer of the Snowshoe.

For many years the Snowshoe group, situated but five minutes walk from the C. P. R. depot in Phoenix, was one of the most prominent mining properties here. Located in 1891, it was developed by the British Columbia (Rossland and Slocan) Syndicate, Ltd., and taken over by the present owning company ten years later, or in 1901. It shipped altogether over 94,000 tons of ore, largely to the Boundary Falls and Greenwood smelting plants, but in the fall of 1903 was closed down till the company either owned or had an interest in a smelter, the grade of the copper ore being too low to admit of custom treatment. Since then the Snowshoe has not been operated. Altogether there have been over 7000 lineal feet of development work done on the Snowshoe in shafts, tunnels, drifts and raises, the mine having a complete machinery plant, bunk and boarding houses, etc., with ore bins and sidetracks. It is known that two or three large concerns were also after the Snowshoe group of four claims, which adjoin the Granby and Dominion Copper Co. mines, now being extensively operated in that locality.

CANNERS AND TRAY OWNERS

Seriously Alarmed at Prospect of Passage of Sunday Observance Bill

New Westminster, June 23.—The local trap owners are afraid of the American trap men and canners getting ahead of them if the Sunday Observance law is passed, prohibiting fishing of any kind on Sunday.

The federal regulations governing the operation of the traps close the traps at 6 o'clock on Friday night and open them again at 6 o'clock Sunday morning, but a law prohibiting fishing on Sunday would compel them to remain closed until midnight Sunday, or, in other words, the weekly close season would extend over a period of 54 hours, and the cannerymen claim this would be disastrous to the business as the American traps would be open all day Sunday.

The cannerymen and trap men are working hard to prevent the passing of this law.

DUNSMUIR AND THE COLONIST

Victoria, June 23.—Hon. James Dunsmuir, lieutenant governor of British Columbia, who disposed of his interests in the Colonist Printing & Publishing company some time ago, retired from the presidency of the company at Wednesday's meeting of the directors. The stock formerly held by Mr. Dunsmuir has been purchased by a syndicate of residents of Victoria. On his retirment from the presidency of the company, C. E. Pooley was elected to that position.

TO PATROL HUDSON BAY.

St. Johns, Nfld., June 23.—The Canadian government has chartered the Newfoundland sealing steamer Adventure for fishery patrol service in Hudson Bay during the present summer. She starts July 15 with major Moodie and party of mounted police for Fort Churchill, the headquarters in Hudson Bay and will continue to cruise in northern waters until October.

THE HILL INVASION.

"If Mr. Hill, after completing his railway connections, can induce the wholesale dealers of St. Paul and Minneapolis to cut their prices for Canada, then the entire western trade of the dominion will be lost to eastern Canada, if the country itself is not lost to the British empire."

The foregoing remark was made the other day by Mr. William Whyte, second vice-president of the C. P. R. Mr. White is everywhere regarded as one of the most capable railroad men on the American continent, and it may also be said of him, that he enjoys to a peculiar degree the esteem and confidence of the great army of C. P. R. employees. Any utterance of his, therefore, affecting the railway situation in western Canada would ordinarily carry great weight. Heretofore Mr. Whyte has not been regarded as an alarmist and he certainly has never been looked upon as narrow-minded. Yet this remark of his that Canada may be lost to the empire because of Hill"s invasion of the west cannot be regarded otherwise than as the utterance of an alarmist. The inference to be drawn from his remark is that Canadians would quietly submit to being Americanized, that our eastern wholesalers and manufacturers cannot compete against those of St. Paul and Minneapolis, even with the advantage of the customs tariff, and finally that Hill can haul freight at rates impossible for Canadian roads to meet. These are assumptions few Canadians will be prepared to adopt and we fancy Mr. Whyte will have succeeded only in weakening somewhat the great respect his judgment has hitherto been held in by Canadian business men from one end of the dominion to the other.

Commenting upon Mr. Whytes statement, the Toronto News says:

Suppost Mr. Hill were able to induce the dealers of Minneapolis and St. Paul to cut their rates so as to get the Canadian trade—a doubtful condition. There is a customs tariff in Canada, and it would be a peculiar thing if Canadian manufacturers would not be able to meet the prices of competitors so burdened. But if not, we do not see why the purchase of goods from the United States would change the people of the western provinces into Americans. So far as we are aware the inhabitants of Windsor are none the less loyal to Canada because they buy large quantities of goods in Detroit, and, let us whisper it, smuggle them across the river. They have no quarrel with the Americans. Most of them have brothers, sisters and other near relatives across the line, yet they are fervent Canadians who would resist any movement towards annexation. We have reason to believe that the American farmers who came to Canada two years ago and prospered are rapidly being Canadianized. Give them five years more of contentment and prosperity and they will be to the manner born.

The fact of the matter is, that Mr. Hills railway policy has one object, to make money for Mr. Hill. If he can provide cheap railway facilities for a portion of western Canada hitherto unsupplied, his coming will be an admirable thing for the country. His line will do no more towards the "Americanization" of the west than the Michigran Central railway did for the southwestern peninsula of Ontario.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Victoria Colonist is becoming quite hysterical these days in its denunciations of the liberal press. It is hurling charges of mendacity and slander at every newspaper that dares to question the absolute perfection of the McBride government. The course the Colonist is pursuing indicates that it relies entirely upon the notoriously short memory of the public. We would advise our contemporary not to protest so much. If too, the Colonist would reperuse the evidence taken under oath at the Kaien island enquiry it might find it advisable to retract its statement concerning Hon. R. F. Green's testimony. This evidence, according to a promise made by the premier, is shortly to be placed in the hands of the electors, and as British Columbia electors can read they may be forced to the conclusion that the Colonist either sought to wilfully deceive them or did not know what it was talking about when it said that Hon. R. F. Green did not admit discussing alleged executive council secrets with outsiders.

We publish today an article contributed to the London Times by a special correspondent as the result of a visit paid to San Francisco after the awful disasters of earthquake and fire had destroyed that once beautiful city. The article is written from a point of view too apt to be ignored in a catastrophe of this description and after the stories we have been reading recently of packing house horrors and other evidences of man's inhumanity to man, it is very refreshing to get this picture of the essential goodness of human nature.

Hon. H. R. Emmerson's stand with regard to the regulation of express companies' charges will be generally approved. There is no good reason why rates on express packages should not be as much a subject of control by the Railway Commission as goods sent in bulk by freight. The attempt of the express companies to evade dominion control on the plea that the provincial authorities should exercise supervision of the express business has fortunately been set aside by a ruling of the department of justice. The contention was obviously absurd for the express business is largely inter-provincial and one province could not have effectively exercised control over business originating in another. Mr. Emmerson is doing good work in several directions and he bids fair to establish an enviable reputation as minister of railways and canals.

COMING CHAMPIONS

The "Whites" Junior Lacrosse Team Has Winning Streak—Beat "Greens."

In a game brilliant with team work that would not have disgraced a senior team, the "Whites" put it all over the "Greens" at the recreation grounds yesterday afternoon to the tune of six goals to two. The little fellows in the white sweaters are putting up a grand game and if they stick together long enough they will be a great credit to the city. They decisively defeated the "Reds" on Thursday afternoon, and yesterday continued their successes and are already swamped with challenges. President Wells of the lacrosse club officiated as referee.

The boys are putting up such a good game that they are really entitled to recognition during the Dominion Day celebration sports. Should the committee have any open time they should arrange a game for a local junior team against a junior team from some nearby point. It is from these boys that the senior team of Nelson must some day be recruited. New Westminster has followed the plan of encouraging the youngsters and all over Canada people know the result. Cornwall was another instance until recently, when they started importing professional players.

S. S. TAYLOR AND THE BENCHERS.

John Elliot Writes to Explain Reason of Delay in the Case.

Editor, The Daily News,—My attention has been drawn to a recent issue of your paper containing a long statement by Mr. S. S. Taylor and an editorial regarding the Benchers' decision in this case, from which it appears to me that more light is desired by the party most concerned and yourself, and it is only fair that the true position should be understood.

The affair first came to the attention of the governing body of the Law Society, through a letter written by Mr. Taylor to the secretary, which some considered as a request for them to act, and the delay occurred because we were then advised that an appeal was being taken to the supreme court of Canada, and there was also some doubt as to whether the Benchers or the attorney general should deal with the matter, so it was allowed to remain in abeyance until it was learnt from Mr. Taylor that no appeal had been taken. The law reports of this province contain all the other facts and I would suggest that you publish all the judgments. As to the number of Benchers who agree in the result perhaps Mr. Taylor will inform you after he inquires. Whether the law society, the medical council, and other similar associations should exist in the public interest, may be a question on which different views obtain, but don't you think Mr. Editor, that you should obtain information from a disinterested quarter before writing about any matter as a critic, if you did write the article. In any event, I think you will agree that no one who shirks what he believes to be his duty should accept official or semi-official positions. JOHN ELLIOT.

KASLO TUMBLES IN BASEBALL

Nelson Juniors Take Revenge For Beating in Kaslo a Week Ago

The Nelson junior baseball team went up to Kaslo a few days ago and met with a surprise when the Kaslo boys beat them in a close game. On their return they said but little and took to steady practice. Yesterday afternoon the Kaslo bunch hit town with big broad smiles of anticipation as to what they were going to do to the city nine.

The visitors were a heavier and slightly older team than the city boys but the game was close and exciting. When the dust had cleared away the score card showed that the youngsters were on top with the score 19 runs to 16. W. Ebbs pitched a steady game for the home team and was well caught by Bard. They received excellent support in the field.

The local boys have regained confidence in themselves and last night they were proudly displaying their colors. No need now to take the back streets. They will line up against Trail during the celebration next month and are prepared to "do things."

The lineup yesterday was as follows:

Kaslo		Nelson
R. McKinley	catcher	R. Bard
E. Hembroff	pitcher	W. Ebbs
A. Brown	1st base	T. Stevens
H. Harton	2nd base	R. Swartz

SECOND AFTER TRINITY

THOSE WHO WERE BIDDEN TO THE FEAST AND REFUSED

SERVICES ANNOUNCED TODAY IN NELSON CHURCHES

In the gospel for today, the second Sunday after Trinity, is told the well known story of the fate of those bidden guests to the great feast—the acceptance of Christ—and who for typical excuses, which have come down the centuries, refused the invitation. "I have bought a piece of land and I must needs go and see it; I pray thee have me excused," begs the first. "I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to prove them; I pray thee have me excused," said another, while a third said: "I have married a wife and therefore I cannot come." The answer to those who deliberately reject the gracious invitation is contained in the closing sentence: "For I say unto you that none of those men which were bidden shall taste of my supper."

The services announced for today in the churches of Nelson are as follows:

Anglican—St. Saviour's church, corner of Ward and Silica Sts. Second Sunday after Trinity; holy communion, 8 a. m.; morning prayer and holy communion, 11; children's service, 2:30 p.m.; evensong, 7:30. Rev. F. H. Graham, rector.

Catholic—Church of Mary Immaculate, corner of Ward and Mill streets. Low mass, 8 a.m.; high mass, 10:30 a.m.; evening service, 7:30. Rev. Father Althoff, priest.

Salvation Army—Barracks on Victoria street, west of Josephine. Special services will be held today. Knee drill, 7 a.m.; holiness meeting, 11 a.m.; a praise meeting at 3 p.m.; Salvation meeting, 8 p.m.

Baptist church—Stanley street, near Mill. Morning service, 11 a.m.; evening service, at 7:30; Sunday school, 12:15 p.m.; Rev. E. H. Shanks, pastor.

Presbyterian church—St. Paul's, corner of Victoria and Kootenay streets. Morning service, 11 a. m.; Sunday school, 12:30 p.m.; evening service, 7:30 p.m.; Rev. J. T. Ferguson, pastor.

Methodist church—Corner Silica and Josephine streets. Morning service, 11 a.m.; and pastor's bible class, 2:30 p.m. Strangeds and visitors very heartily welcomed. Rev. R. N. Powell, pastor. Morning topic, "The Value of Soul Health"; evening subject "Bequeathed to the Devil."

HOW TO BREAK UP A COLD

It may be a surprise to many to learn that a severe cold can be completely broken up in one or two days' time. The first symptoms of a cold are a dry, loud cough, a profuse watery discharge from the nose, and a thin white coating on the tongue. When Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is taken every hour on the first appearance of these symptoms, it counteracts the effect of the cold and restores the system to a healthy condition within a day or two. MAHARA'S MINSTRELS

A great act is that done by count De Robeo on a unicycle and he will be here with Frank Mahara's Minstrels tomorrow, Monday, night. This is count DeRobeo's first appearance in America, and although he has many imitators he has never had an equal in his line. Manager Frank Mahara has added many new features to his popular organization since last season and, judging from the flattering press comments on the show wherever it has appeared, he must have a wonderful show and it is expected that the theatre will be filled to the doors on the night of his appearance here. Mahara's band will give a parade at noon and a concert in front of the theatre at 7:30 p.m.

GRAND LODGE A. F. & A. M.

Victoria, June 23.—Grand lodge, A. F. & A. M., concluded yesterday with the installation of officers, and the appointed officers. Vancouver made a good fight for the next meeting of the grand lodge, but oddly enough Vernon, with which city Vancouver recently locked horns for the Methodist conference, was again successful. Immediately after his installation the new grand master gave out the appointed officers.

The following R. W. district grand masters were appointed in the persons of Wm. Gidley, Duncans, No. 1; S. C. Sykes, Vancouver, No. 2; J. W. Devlin, Golden, No. 3; James Stone, Barkerville, No. 4; J. M. Rudd, Nanaimo, No. 5; H. McPherson, Trout Lake, No. 6; George E. Day, Phoenix, No. 7; J. D. McBride, Cranbrook, No. 8; John Highman, Vernon, No. 9.

According to returns, Cascade lodge of Vancouver has the largest membership, it being two hundred and sixty of December 31 last. Mount Hermon of Vancouver, comes next with two hundred and twenty-three, the two next positions, third and fourth, coming to Victoria. Victoria Columbia lodge, No. 1, the oldest in the province ,boasts a hundred and ninety-one members, and Vancouver Quadro No. 2. has a hundred and sixty-three.

STOCKS FOR THE WEEK

INCREASED DEMAND FOR BRITISH COLUMBIA SHARES

ACTIVE TRADING IN THE EAST IS A DISTINCTIVE FEATURE

(Reported by Sharp & Irvine)

There has been a marked increase in the demand for British Columbia and Alberta stocks. The leaders for the past week were La Plata Mines, Pathfinder, Eureka Copper and International Coal. We are told by a prominent firm of eastern brokers that Nelson is regarded as headquarters for these stocks, and it is estimated that there are more shares handled in Nelson at the present time than any other city in British Columbia. The Spokane Brokerage association reports business as particularly active in Coeur d'Alene and British Columbia stocks, something over 30,000 shares having changed hands at their morning session on Friday.

Members of the Montreal and Toronto exchanges continue to think Consolidated Mining & Smelting one of the best mining stocks in our district today. The stock has been much firmer during the week and is selling at the best price it has ever reached. At a recent meeting of the company James Cronin of Moyie and J. C. Hodgeson of Montreal were elected directors of the company.

La Plata Mines continues very active, large buying orders coming from eastern Canada. It is understood that results from the new concentrator have been most satisfactory, and it would seem now that La Plata shares should be favorably thought of by investors.

Rambler-Cariboo has been in good demand, prices having advanced several points during the week.

All copper shares held very firm although the volume of business has not been as large locally during the last week as it was the previous one.

Coal and Oil stocks have been quiet, with very few shares changing hands and prices have remained practically the same.

Among the industrials the wireless stocks are the favorites. Canadian Marconi and DeForest, common, are being traded in more than any other stocks of this kind. Local brokers report a good business in both these popular securities.

The following prices are approximate quotations for the week ending yesterday:

	Asked	Bid
Alaskan Central	$ 5.50	$ 4.50
American Boy	.1¼	.1

HOME MAUNFACTURED JEWELRY

A Local Shop With a Thorough Equipment—Rings, Brooches and all Kinds of Jewelry Made in Nelson

Citizens of Nelson have good reason to be proud of their city, even though it were only for the reason that the stores in this city compare favorably with those in cities of double her population. It is safe to say that in no other city in Canada of the same size will there be found such excellent mercantile establishments. The merchants themselves realize this and are proud of their establishments.

Yesterday afternoon a Daily News representative dropped into the jewelry store of J. O. Patenaude, on Baker street and was shown through the establishment by the proprietor. A visit was first made to the jewelry manufacturing department which is located in a separate building at the rear of the store. On entering three workmen were found busy with their duties and everything showed neatness and order. C. L. Wales who was for many years with the well known firm of Challoner & Mitchell of Victoria, is the foreman of this department and explained very thoroughly the different machinery and its uses. There were polishing machines, sand machines for putting on the soft finish on the precious metals, power for which is furnished by a modern air compressor; furnaces for melting gold and silver with a capacity of 200 ounces; heavy shears for cutting gold and silver; ring benders; wire draw bench; rolling mill for shaping the metals; jeweler's turning lathes, and other machinery too numerous to mention.

Every foot of room in the large shop is used to the best advantage. A small room is used for acid coloring. A rather unique arrangement is used to save the gold dust from the work benches. Every bit of the floor sweepings is put through this machine, and the result is that an average of $25 per month is saved in this manner.

The engraving department is under the charge of J. Wadds and he is an artist in his class. Mr. Wadds was busy on some cups for the rowing club regata and was turning out some excellent work. The writer was shown some medals which had just been finished for the convent and they were of beautiful design and workmanship.

The proprietor looks after the optical department himself and has a full equipment for grinding his own lenses, drilling them and in fact, doing all the work that could be done in any large establishment. A full stock of frames, stock lenses, etc., is carried in the store.

The store itself is well known to the people of this city and its stock is very complete. The watch repairing department is under the supervision of A. T. Noxon, and expert, and this department is one of the most thoroughly equipped in the province, and its efficiency has often been demonstrated.

Mr. Patenaude is a great believer in office and store system and he has the very latest cash register, check lists, etc. Moreover he does not forget that publicity brings business and is a firm believer in judicious advertising and carries a regular space on the back page of this paper. The writer has visited jewelry stores and factories in many cities and while there are many larger than the one just described, there are few that are more complete.

UNKNOWN FRIENDS

There are many people who have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with splendid results, but who are unknown because they have hesitated to give a testimonial of their experience for publication. These people, however, are none the less friends of the remedy. They have done much toward making it a household word by their personal recommendations to friends and neighbors. It is a good medicine to have in the house and is widely known for its cures of diarrhoea and all forms of bowel trouble. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

FRUIT

The Fruit Season is here. Are you preparing to put up your stock of preserved fruits? If you are you must know how unpleasant it is to work over a hot range all day during the hot weather. And then you have trouble in getting just the right temperature with that old range. Now if you use gas there is no unnecessary heat and you can regulate the heat to a nicety. You can cook the fruit quickly or allow it to cook slowly just as you desire. The ideal way of cooking is with gas. There is no dirt and no trouble. No worry about wood or coal. Strike a match and your fire is ready. We can instal a gas range in your home at a small cost. Ring up.

GOOD IN HUMAN NATURE

LESSON OF THE SAN FRANCISCO DISASTER.

LONDON TIMES' CORRESPONDENT'S OBSERVATIONS.

After a visit to a strange place there is always one memory, one impression, that is found to be more vivid than all the rest. We often discover that it is not the things we went to look at that have affected us most strongly, but that in the queerest manner some little out-of-the-way incident has left a lasting impression, and that this incident is ever associated in our minds with that particular place. When I think of my visit to San Francisco I always begin recalling a certain scene. It is not of the wreck of a once splendid city that I think, though, one would suppose, that sight, the most wonderful and awful in the world today, should have burned itself in the memory like the presence of death; it is not of the destruction wrought by the earthquake in Palo Alta and Santa Rosa, the beautiful university buildings thrown to the ground, the labor of many artists and craftsmen turned into nothingness; it is not of the camps of the refugees, the quick justice of martial law, the motor cars carrying officers and nurses, the long lines of applicants for relief.

No, it is not of scenes such as these, nor of anything like them, that I think. It is of the back parlor of a wooden cottage in Oakland, a rose-covered home standing in its half-acre of garden such as even the very poor on the Pacific slope can possess. The cottage belongs to a brother and sister, neither of them more than 20 years old, the boy a clerk in a railroad office, the girl a typewriter for a lawyer in Oakland.

Around the table in the little lamplit room are a dozen persons. They include three girls who were employed in a telephone exchange in San Francisco, a couple of shop assistants, a waitress from a burned out "quick lunch' counter, and three or four old women. They are all without employment and without means, and all are being supported by the railway clerk and his sister. It is a Sunday evening, and the pretty, golden-haired mistress of the house has spent the afternoon cooking dinner. She is very proud of her "chile con carnie" and refused to allow any one to help her at the work. Now she is waiting on her guests, pouring out the claret from a big basket-covered demijohn, running every other minute to the kitchen to see that nothing is spoiling, and all the while keeping up a continual cheerful chatter.

Every person sitting at that table has suffered more or less from the earthquake and fire. Most of them have lost everything—home, furniture, and clothing, as well as employment—but each is talking and laughing merrily. It is only by watching narrowly that one can detect the nervous strain under which, they are all suffering—the quick start every now and then, the sometimes hysterical laughter, and, above all, the continual recurrence of the earthquake as a topic of conversation. San Franciscans can think and talk of nothing else. However a discussion may begin, within a minute it develops into the recital of experiences and anecdotes of the terrible morning of April 18.

"Well, I saved by Easter hat, anyway," remarks one of the telephone girls, "and Kitty's lent me her white dress, so I guess I'll go and hunt a job tomorrow. If I can't do nothin' else I can be a chambermaid in a hotel."

"And Kitty found me a waist and skirt," says the "quick lunch" waitress. "They're lookin' for help at Thompson's, and I'm going there bright and early."

So it seems that Kitty is providing clothing for the refugees as well as shelter and food. How can she and her brother manage on their modest salaries to do so much for others? It must mean many a sacrifice, many a plan given up, many debts and future troubles. Yet there is no self-consciousness in their charity, no idea on their part that they are doing any more than their duty. And what they are doing, thousands of families in Oakland, Alameda, Fruitvale, Berkeley, all the towns along the bay are doing also. One hears of cottages in which 20 or 30 refugees are being sheltered, of larger houses in which 50 persons are cared for. Organized charity is doing much for the San Francisco sufferers, but it is individual charity that has done the most for them—the charity that asks no questions, makes no calculation and comparisons, waits not for appeal for aid, but finds the naked and the homeless and the hungry and feeds and shelters and clothes them.

It is a noble, inspiring example that the warm hearted, impulsive people of the Pacific coast have set for the rest of the world. One has often heard prophecies of what would happen were a great city destroyed and all classes involved in common ruin. Now such an event has come to pass, but, instead of the despair and licence, the reign of anarchy and terror that were expected, we have found cheerfulness amid hardship, order, mutual helpfulness, brave confidence in the future. At San Francisco humanity has vindicated itself.

Even the advertisement pages of the newspapers published in Oakland after the catastrophe exhibited the universal desire of those who still had homes to aid those who were homeless.

And in a half-hour's walk in Oakland, in the refugees' camps, in the burned or unburned part of San Francisco, the most bitter misanthrope with eyes to see and ears to hear must have found cause to think better of the human race. In Broadway, Oakland, the portico of a theatre was used as the headquarters of the theatrical relief fund. I saw a shabby little soubrette leading a child six years old dressed in what seemed to have been a couple of sacks. "I've come to return that ticket to Portland," said the girl. "I ain't going home yet. I found her (pointing to the child) crying on the street, and I'm going to try and find her people for her."

In Oakland's only first class restaurant I heard a man ask for employment. "I was a waiter in the Palace hotel he said. The proprietor was sympathetic, but he could do nothing. "I have already engaged twice as many waiters as I need," he told the applicant. The man started to go out. "I don't know what is going to become of my wife and children," he remarked. One of the waiters overheard him. He took off his apron and handed it to the man from San Francisco, "Here, take my place," he said. "And you can collect what's coming to me this evening. I'm a single man and have friends who will put me up till I get another job. I guess you're worse off than I am."

In the Western Union company's office in Oakland was an English tourist who was penniless as the result of his inability to obtain cash on his letter of credit. He knew no one in America and had written a telegram asking a bank in London to wire him money immediately. He asked permission to send the telegram "collect." It was impossible, the manager said. "Collect" telegrams were accepted for any part of the United States, but the company drew the line there. The Englishman was in despair. "What can I do" he said, and told the manager his plight. "Well," said the manager, "all that I can suggest is that I pay the charge out of my own pocket and that you return it when you get your money."

Were San Francisco never to be rebuilt, were the city to remain as it is now, a desert of twisted iron and crumbled stone and brick, the catastrophe of April 18 would nevertheless be an event to look back upon without regret. For it has taught a lesson, a lesson that is good for us to learn anew—the lesson that human nature, behind all the repressions and pretences of modern civilization, behind intense struggle, and sordid individualism, remains at heart generous and kind and true. It has taught us again the lesson of the fellowship of human life.

WHAT Fruit-a-tives ARE

OR "FRUIT LIVER TABLETS"

Fruit-a-tives are the marvels of modern medicine. They have accomplished more actual cures—done more good to more people—than any other medicine ever introduced in Canada for the time they have been on sale.

Fruit-a-tives are fruit juices. They are nature's cure for

—CONSTIPATION
—BILIOUSNESS
—BAD STOMACH
—HEADACHES
—IMPURE BLOOD
—SKIN DISEASES
—KIDNEY TROUBLE
—RHEUMATISM
—IRRITATED HEART

Fruit-a-tives are the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes. These juices are concentrated—and by a secret process, the juices are combined in a peculiar manner. This new combination is much more active medicinally than fresh juices—yet so perfect is the union that Fruit-a-tives act on the system as if they were in truth a natural fruit, medicinally stronger than any other known fruit.

To this combination of fruit juices, tonics and internal antiseptics are added, and the whole made into tablets.

These are Fruit-a-tives—sold everywhere for 50c a box or 6 boxes for $2.50.

OF INTEREST TO MINERS

Tin is the subject of the article in the more prominent metals group which we publish today. It is a subject that is of great interest to a number of people in British Columbia, if we take into account the number of requests we have had for an article upon the subject, and it would have been published earlier only it was thought advisable to give other metals that had a more general interest to the majority of our readers. As stated in the article tin has not been found in any quantity in this country, but an occasional trace of it is found in some of the rarer ores. Should it ever be found in payable quantities, it will be agreat help to the mining industry of the country and at the same time will probably make the fortune of the lucky finder. Some few months ago it was reported to have been found near Granite but as to the correctness of this The Daily News is unable to state.

Should any of our readers have any mineral that they have reason to believe answers the description given in this article, send it in and it will be carefully examined, and results published in the correspondence column.

TIN

Though widely distributed geographically, commercial supplies of tin are obtained from restricted areas. From the remotest of times tin has been produced in Cornwall, England. H. H. Harris, an authority upon tin ores in a recent article in one of the London papers, states "that the tin used in the days of Moses (for which there is a Hebrew word) came without doubt from Cornwall."

From this it will be gathered that before Great Britain was known of in the world's history tin was certainly produced there. We have data for the fact that prior to Julius Ceasar the Phoenicians traded with the natives of Cornwall exchanging "brilliant Tyrian dyed stuffs" for their tin. In the days we mention tin was one of the most expensive luxuries being rarely seen anywhere excepting in king's houses. In Cornwall, especially amongst the miners, superstition is prevalent. The old time miners, as well as many of those of the present day, say that they have heard the "nuggies"—supernatural beings who are supposed to form the crystals in the bowels of the earth—working in their parlors. Whatever value may be attached to this superstition, tinkling sounds are most welcome to the miners working in the Cornish mines, as they usually indicate that rich deposits of tin ore are to be found in a nearby cavity or "parlor."

During the last half century mining operations in Cornwall have deteriorated greatly, but within the last year or so things have brightened up, the market has strengthened—things are beginning to boom again, and "Cousin Jack" as the Cornish miner is called all over the world, is beginning to smile again.

The price of tin on the London market is somewhere in the neighborhood of £170, or a little over two cents an ounce, and it is continually raising owing to the constant and increasing demand for it. Practically speaking all the world's supply of tin comes from the Cornish mines, Australia, the Malay peninsula, and the Island of Banca. The Cornish mines already mentioned. In Australia it is found in New South Wales, the deposits extending over an area of 8500 square miles; it is also found in Queensland and Victoria. The greatest producing mines at the present time are in the Malay states, though the quality of tin produced there is not equal to the Cornish. Tin obtained from this district is known on the market as "Straits tin."

This metal has been found in several places in America but not in sufficient quantities to make it pay working expenses. The chief finds in the states being in California at the Cajolco mine, where some 6000 tons of ore were taken out a few years ago running about 2 per cent in tin. At the Harney Peak mines in South Dakota tin was stated to be found in great quantities, but after expending great quantities of money on the mines they were closed down after producing about 10 tons of pig tin; the ore from which this was obtained averaging about 1.3 per cent tin. It has also been found in Montana and Idaho. As far as British Columbia is concerned it has several times been reported to have been found but upon examination of the properties it was proved to be incorrect.

There are practically only two known ores of tin the oxide from which all the metal of commerce is obtained, and a sulphide which is very rare. Tin has also been found to exist in combination with some of the rarer metals, but we do not propose to go into those in this article.

CASSITERITE is the oxide of tin and occurs in three different forms; the ordinary or "tin stone" is found either in crystals or massive; this is the ore that is found usually in "lode" mining; "wood tin" is another form of this mineral found in lode mining, it usually occurs in grape like shopes, concentric structure, and radiated fibrous internally although very compact; "stream tin" is this mineral in the form of sand as it occurs along the beds of streams or in the gravel of the adjoining districts. It has been derived from the wear and decomposition of the rocks carrying tin ore. Cassiterite varies in color from white to grey, yellow, red brown and black. The last two colors being those in which it is usually found. Its streak varies with its color sometimes white or brown. It has an imperfect cleavage, with an uneven fracture. Its luster is usually adamantine, when in crystals it is splendent. When pure it contains 78.6 per cent tin, but there is usually more or less iron present with it. It is only slightly acted upon by acids, and will stand great heat without decomposition.

Cassiterite usually occurs in veins traversing granite gneiss, mica schists or porphyry; also in finely reticulated veins forming the ore deposits, or simply impregnating the enclosing rocks. The commonly associated minerals are quartz, wolframite, scheelite, pyrite, etc.

STANNITE, the sulphide of tin, is a steel gray colored mineral containing about 27.5 per cent tin, and about 30 per cent copper. It is a mineral that is rarely found, and has no part in the production of the tin of commerce.

CORRESPONDENCE.

T. McD., Greenwood, B. C.—The black mineral you submit for examination is obsidium or volcanic glass. It is very common in countries or districts which owe their origin to volcanic action. Great quantities are found in the southern states and in Italy. It has no commercial value.

J. G., Marysville, B. C.—No. 1 sample is quartz with a little copper pyrites present. No. 2 quartz and iron pyrites. No. 3 is pyrrhotite. The fee for gold assays will be $1.00 in each instance, and we will hold your sample 14 days to hear from you.

A. McM., Ymir—Your sample is specular hematite; see last Sunday's issue for full particulars of this mineral.

A. P. B., Kamloops.—The reddish coloring in your quartz is not cinnabar. It is due to the oxidazation of iron present in it. Probably it has no commercial value.

G. B.—No. 1 is graphitic schist, no value. No. 2 is apparently celestite or suphate of strontium. We would advise your having this analyzed if you have any quantity of it.

E. R., Grand Forks.—To make your location valid, you must discover ore in place. You will then put a "discovery" or legal post as near as possible to the point of discovery. Besides this you are obliged by law to place two other posts, No. 1 and No. 2. These you will place along the outcrop of the vein as near as you can judge. They must not be more than 1500 feet part. Your No. 1 post must have written or cut on it "Initial Post." then state the direction of your No. 2 post, and the distance on each side of the discovery post. You will then blaze the trees in a line to your No. 2 post so that the direction can be plainly seen. Your No. 1 post is the most important as it is from there that the surveyor commences and if necessary he will move you No. 2 post in, that is if you have gone over the 1500 feet allowed.

NEW YORK FASHION LETTER

New York, June 23.—There are so many pleasures and sports at the country and summer resorts, so many excursions, picnics, drives, parties and games, that in this letter we must consider a very varied outfit if our girl is to go well prepared for her summer outing, with a mind free from doubt, conscious of her own good appearance.

A pretty travelling costume was noted the other day in the Grand Central station. Shadow checked linen in grey which resembled in weave the Burlinghams was the material used. The skirt was a four-gored model with an inverted plait, back and front, and around the hem were four rows of stitching. The coat was a pony jacket of military cut the back of which hung loosely from the notched turned-over collar, and depended for its fitting on the curved underarm seams. The loose double breated fronts were ornamented with hip pockets and two rows of three dull silver buttons. The sleeves were long and loose and full at the shoulders, and like the rest of the suit finished with machine stitching. The hat was a "Peter Pan" in grey chip trimmed with a grey chiffon scarf, and an underbrim ruching, while two grey and blue wings rose from the left side. With it was worn a long thin chiffon veil brought round under the chin. The gloves were of grey silk and the ivory handled parasol was covered with the same material as the dress.

The shirt waist worn with this costume was a dainty affair fastened in the back. The material was white silk embroidered in blue, while the yoke, collar, and long cuffs were of heavy white lace insertion fagotted together with blue silk. The waist bloused slightly at the belt line and extra fulness was arranged for on the shoulders by three tucks between the yoke and the puff that formed the upper part of the sleeve. This waist would be pretty also if made of blue linen, embroidered in cream silk with the yoke and cuffs in cream lace, and a blue girdle to complete the costume.

Close beside this dress just described was an Eton costume of grass linen trimmed with medallions and edging in heavy cream embroidery worn over a blouse of embroidered cream batiste. The skirt had five gores with inverted plaits in the front sides and back stitched down for about five inches below the belt. On each of the broad panels formed by the gores and plaits were three insets of the lace medallions, two below and one above. The Eton is cut square at the neck to show the blouse beneath, has curved fronts that almost touch and are extended down the front in points that reach below the waist line. The edges were finished with lace, and three medallion insets give a further decoration, arranged in the same manner as those on the skirt. Puff sleeves, very full at the shoulders have aturned-back cuff edged with lace. The blouse is extremely simple in cut and finish, made with a high collar, tucks on the shoulders stitched to yoke depth, and bishop sleeves finished with stitch tucked cuffs. The hat was a cream-tinted hairbraid twisted into a turban looking shape, trimmed with black velcet loops and black quills. A black parasol and black gloves completed the costume.

In case a wool dress is desired for travelling, both of these models are well adapted to the heavier goods. Any one of the popular checks would make up in a pleasing manner after the first style, while voiles, chiffon, mohairs, etc., would be most suitable for the second model. But, for the warm weather the cooler dresses are much more liked for travelling purposes. A pretty suit intended for a young woman going to Seattle was developed from blue challis covered with pin dots, by the second model, and the lace insets dyed blue, were lined with red silk, a turban of blue, black and red straw, self-trimmed, was used, to which was added a black umbrella and gloves and a tan raincoat.

A dainty morning dress could be developed from blue and white striped lawn The skirt has a five gored upper portion reaching to the knees, the fulness of which is disposed of by tucks about the hips; the skirt is lengthened by a gathered flounce, headed and finished at the bottom by graduated tucks. The unlined shirt-waist has three plaits laid at the shoulders and extended to the belt both back and front. The low rolling collar, cuffs and front piece at the closing, made with pearl buttons and button holes, is of white eyelet and embroidery. The sleeves are elbow puffs, and the tie and belt are of blue silk. But several ties and belts should be provided.

A white silk embroidered organdy, pretty for evening wear, has also a two piece skirt, the upper portion being tucked in groups of three, lengthwise over the hips; and at the knees lengthened by a second full section laid on by tiny up and down tucks stitched for about four inches and then allowed to flare. Above this is a heading of white insertion, while above the hem are three rows of the same. The waist closes in the back, is made with short sleeves, and with no lining. Tucks on the shoulders give the necessary fulness to the waist which is further ornamented with a pointed yoke, back and front, and a high collar of white Valenciennes lace. The sleeves are finished with lace cuffs and ruffles, while a white silk belt holds the slight blousing in place. Underslips, with belt and long ends in colors would give this costume some pleasing changes. The same model was used for a grey silk with fine Irish crochet substituted for the Valenciennes, and instead of the yoke the neck was cut out and a fine chemisette worn, whole the wide turned-back pointed cuffs were of tucked chiffon and the belt was formed of rowns of the insertion. A silk belt might also be worn with this costume. This gown was used for a swell garden party given in honor of the bride who wore the costume described. The hat turned up in the back in deep dents, was broad over the face and trimmed with maline and pink roses.

One or two linen dresses would be a satisfactory addition to the summer outfit, and so fashionable has the linen dress become that no wardrobe is quite complete without several of them. One, the heavier, would better be made in a jacket suit, which has a rather novel effect in the yoke and plastron front outlined with a heavy Irish edging which also trims the turned-back cuffs and shawl collar. The jacket closes invisibly by means of hooks and eyes at the front; and the sleeves are gathered full at the shoulders and finishel at the elbow with a cuff. The skirt is in three pieces having a broad front and two back gores with the closing at the back.

Do not forget that nothing is so serviceable in a long coat as one made of black silk. It will be found invaluable as an evening wrap, a draving coat or any other occasion. All the underskirts worn with light dresses must be fitted with great care so there is not a crease about the hips.

Use white shoes and stockings with the white dresses or those having a large proportion of white on them. Those worn with colored dresses, such as tan or grey, should have tops at least, to match the gown, while with a black dress patent leather Oxfords or Gibson ties should be worn.

CATHERINE MANN-PAYZANT

AT KICKING HORSE PASS

MONUMENT ERECTED IN HONOR OF SIR JAMES HECTOR

NEAR POINT WHERE IN 1858 HE WAS KICKED BY HIS HORSE

At Laggan, near the entrance of the Kicking Horse Pass, has just been erected a monument to sir James Hector, the discoverer of that gap in the Rocky mountains. It is the offering of geographers, geologists and other men of science in Canada and the United States, to whose contributions have been added those of men connected with the railway for which that pass affords a route. Standing at the opening of the defile he was the first to thread, and within sight of travellers on the passing trains of the C. P. R., the monument is located exactly where it ought to be, and is said to be in every way suitable. It is decribed as a beautiful and enduring product of the stone-worker's art. The material out of which it is made is a large-grain granite hewn from quarries in the Cascades range, a stone which the cutters and polishers can fashion to their taste, but which time and weather can scarcely crumble.

It is unusual to pay such a mark of honor to a distinguished man in his lifetime, but there was a particular reason for not waiting until sir James Hector should pass away. He was in Canada three years ago, and strange to say, the region which had been the scene of his hardships and achievements of nearly half a century earlier became a place of affliction for him. His son Douglas, a young man of 26, who had come with him on this visit, fell ill and died in the hospital at Revelstoke. It was a heavy blow. To this trip the aged explorer had no doubt looked forward with keen happiness. A swift and pleasant railway journey with his son across a continent he had painfully traversed 20 years before that son was born, and before the building of that railway was begun, must have promised him rare enjoyment. The natural grief he would in any case have felt at the loss of his son must have been intensified by the circumstances. This bereavement was made the occasion for the rearing of the monument, which stands to the memory of the son as well as of the father. It is a token both of gratitude for sir James Hector's services and of sympathy in his sorrow.

Nowhere is there a better account of sir James Hector's services than in "The Selkirk Range," a book published by the department of the interior, the author being A. O. Wheeler, F.R.G.S., topographer of the department. In that work is given an account of the Palliser expedition, sent out to British North America in 1857 to make a study of the interior and to report as to the advisability of building a transcontinental railway through British territory. The geologist of the party was Dr. Hector, now sir James Hector, who in after years and until quite recently was head of the geological survey of New Zealand. The field work of the party, which was acting under royal commission, covered a period of three years and extended over a great stretch of country, including most of the present dominion south of the Arctic slope, and between the great lakes and the Pacific ocean. Captain Palliser's map was the first detailed one that was ever prepared of any part of the Rocky mountains. It is interesting to recall that in his report of 1863 captain Palliser disapproved the idea of a transcontinental railway. He said in part: "I therefore cannot recommend the imperial government to countenance or lend support to any scheme for constructing, or, it may be said, forcing a thoroughfare by this line of route, either by land or water, as there would be no immediate advantage commensurate with the required sacrifice of capital; nor can I advise such heavy expenditure as would necessarily attend the construction of an exclusively British line of road between Canada and the Red River settlement." Canada, of course, at that time was made up of what are today the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

Captain Palliser was a topographer, not a statesman. He could not look a half century into the future to see the political map that has been made there on the basis of his physiographic map. Less than half a generation after he wrote, the construction of the C.P.R. was in progress, and its lines cover largely the route swept by the Palliser expedition. In one important respect it seemed destined to follow a route the Palliser expedition had not explored. From both sides construction was directed towards the Yellowhead Pass. In 1880 the project of the road was transferred by the government to the present Canadian Pacific railway company, and the Kicking Horse Pass was eventually selected. Some twenty-two years before (1858) Dr. Hector had discovered it. Unlike most of the mountain ways, it seemed to have been unknown to the Indians. Ascending Bow river to a point near Castle mountain, he reached the headwaters of the Vermillion, which he traced to its confluence with the Kootenay. The latter he ascended to the divide between it and the Beaberfoot, down which he came to its junction with the Kicking Horse. Near that point Dr. Hector was kicked by a pack horse and laid up a day. The incident gave its name to the stream up which he made his way back over the summit of the main chain, thereby becoming the discoverer of the pass now called by the same name as the river, though it is also known as the Hector Pass, as one of the peaks of the Rockies is known as Hector mountain. The explorer would have rested longer to recover from the effects of the horse kick but that he and his party were on the point of starvation. Game was scarce or it kept to the higher altitudes, whither the party had not time to follow it.

PLAN TO RESTORE LIFE

Cincinnati Doctor Would Experiment on Life Term Convicts

Cincinnati, June 23—Dr. B. Merrill Ricketts, whose paper on the restoration of life by compression of the heart after it has ceased beating, read at the meeting of the American medical association in Boston on June 6, created a sensation, consented to talk on the subject this evening. He says a person who had been dead 20 minutes was brought back to life by manipulation of the heart.

"The heart has actually been stimulated to action one or two days after death," said the doctor, "yet one or two minutes after the cessation of the heart is time enough to justify a physician in opening the chest and squeezing the heart, much as one would a sponge, to renew its action.

"The class of cases in which this manipulation of the heart to renew life is especially applicable, is where ether or chloroform has been administered, where there has been an inhalation of illuminating or or other such gas, in cases of shock from fright, injury or surgical operation, drowning, electrocution, strangulation, loss of blood or probably in many cases of disease or the administration of drugs.

"Results in all cases are influenced by prompt and skilled attention, the quantity of blood lost, time and the cause of the suspended heart action, mutilation of the body and general care. We have taken 25 dogs and chloroformed them until the heart ceased to beat. Then the chest was opened and the heart taken in the hand and squeezed about 60 times to the minute. In about 75 per cent of the animals the heart was made to beat again."

Dr. Ricketts will probably find himself the subject of much discussion for his urgent plea that criminals condemned to death or ten years or more of imprisonment be offered the choice of commutation if they announce themselves willing subjects for experiments of this sort. He says: "We know of 60 prisoners in the penitentiaries who are life prisoners, who are willing to be electrocuted and so experimented on provided that if resusciated their freedom will be given them."

Summing up, Dr. Rickets says that the total number of men operated upon for cardiac stimulation is 39, and of these 12 recovered permanently, and in 19 of the cases the heart beat from one minute to 24 hours before death finally came. The heart has been made to beat as long as two and a half hours after the first cessation of its pulsations. The longest time on record of cessation of the heart after which it was restored or re-established permanently is 20 minutes.

As the weather gets hotter this is what we hear repeated many times a day and we never fail to respond to the call at once.

Balbriggan at 50c, 75c and $1 per garment.

Ribbed Cotton, 50c to $1 per garment.

Natural Wool, $1.00 to $2.50 per garment.

Its our variety of underwear materials, coupled to our reasonable prices, that bring us such a large underwear business.

NELSON'S NEWS OF THE DAY

Replies to want ads are being held at this office for "Boat" and "Logger."

P. Bernard of the staff of the Canadian Metal company, left for Paris yesterday.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the city council will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

Mrs Harry Bird, holder of ticket No. 25 won the china tea set raffled at the French booth at Kirmess, and Jim McDonald, with ticket No. 11, won the hand painted plate.

W. H. Danby, a well known mining man of Rossland, and a keen collector of butterflies, moths and bugs of all sorts, is spending a week's vacation in the city gathering rare specimens.

At the police court yesterday morning A. H. Vogel, who has been causing the police some trouble lately, was fined $10 and costs, or 60 days in gaol, on a charge of vagrancy. Vogle took the 60 days.

Miss McCandlish has a long lead in the 20,000 club popularity contest. The count last evening showed the standing of the contestants as follows: Miss McCandlish, 3630; Miss Cameron, 2654. The contest terminates this week.

The members of Nelson lodge No. 23, A.F. & A.M. will meet at their lodge room this evening at 7 o'clock and proceed in a body to divine service in St. Saviour's church. Visiting brethren are cordially invited to join in the parade.

Weather permitting this afternoon the city band will give its regular free open air concert in the old tramway park from 3 to 5 o'clock. Both street cars will be run during the afternoon and there will probably be a large attendance.

Rev. S. W. Mackinnon will take both services at the Baptist church today and Miss Cooling will sing a solo from the Holy City. The Baptist tent mission closed a successful visit to Kaslo on Friday and will open a mission at Trail this week.

The wool guessing contest at the Welsh booth at Kirmess, for which two prizes were offered, one for gentlemen and the other for ladies, resulted in C. W. Busk carrying off the men's prize and Mrs. T. G. Procter winning the one for ladies. The length of the skein of wool was 141 yards.

L. Paul Staes of Liege, Belgium, is at present visiting the city. Mr. Staes represents Belgian capitalists who became deeply interested in the mineral possibilities of this section from seeing the ore sent over from here to the recent exhibition at Liege. Mr. Staes brought letters of introduction to J. L. Buchan of the bank of Commerce and is being well looked after while here. He will make a trip through the Kootenays and obtain all available information at first hand to take back with him.

T. B. May, who sold out his barber shop business three months ago and started out on a pleasure trip to England, returned to the city last evening after covering over 12,000 miles of a journey. Mr. May will remain in the city for some time. He declares that he is tired of travelling but enjoyed his vacation immensely.

The grand stand for the gun club's tournament on July 2 and 3 has been completed and at the weekly shoot yesterday the new electrical traps were used very successfully for the first time. The following scores were made during the afternoon's shooting at 25 birds in each instance: No. 1—Irwin, 15; Young, 8; Ward, 8; No. 2—Blackwood, 22; Ink, 16; Snyder, 20; Hunter, 9. No. 3—Young, 10; Irwin, 13; Bishop, 15; Ward, 10. No. 4—Enyder, 16; Ink, 18; Blackwood, 22; Hunter, 9. No. 5—Snyder, 15; Ward, 14.

Messrs. The J. H. Ashdown Hardware Co., Ltd.,

After considering the matter of roofing for the buildings in connection with the new power plant for the city of Nelson, I have decided that the Malthoid Roofing is the best and only roofing to meet all the conditions contingent upon the situation and elements to which these buildings are subjected, as this roofing not only is fireproof, but will withstand dampness and heat. Yours truly,

W. G. GILLETT, Mayor.
