THE WEEK IN MINING

Holiday Slightly Reduces Ore Shipments of the Districts

Time Necessary for Proper Development of Rambler-Cariboo—Details of Output and Smelter Receipts

The celebration of Labor Day during the past week somewhat interferred with the ore shipments and in consequence the total is somewhat below the general average for the last seven days.

The bonding of the Golden Bell group at Salmo and the statement that the much talked about Mother Lode group adjoining the bonded property, is once more in the market for bonding offers, the last reported deal having fallen through, are two items of local interest fully dealt with in these columns during the week.

After remaining out of the shipping list for several weeks the Silver King sent 445 tons to the Consolidated smelter during the past week and the rumor of some unusually rich finds at the mine current a while ago, have been revived.

In another week or ten days it is expected that the B. C. Copper company's smelter at Greenwood will be in partial operation and by the end of the month the whole newly rebuilt and enlarged plant will be nearly ready for working full blast again.

Manager Zwicky of the Rambler, who was in the city during the week, while positively confirming the finding of the ore body in the famous long tunnel of the Rambler, added that it will take nearly a year to get the mine properly opened up so as to mine economically and thoroughly. Speculators, who raised visions of immediate dividends and "bulled" the stock accordingly, are responsible for the fluctuations of the shares in the market. It is worthy of note that those who control the property are not offering any stock for sale, being content to await the development of the mine, now that it is known the main ore body has been definitely located.

The Hall Mining & Smelting company appear to have got needed repairs and changes rushed through and the receipts at the smelter this week are about the same as usual. The company say, however, that they are delayed in their work by the dearth of competent workmen available.

The output of the various mines and the receipts at the several smelters for the past week and year to date in detail are appended:

ROSSLAND MINES

Rossland, Sept. 8—The announcement is made that work is to be resumed in a few days on the Mabel, a property which adjoins the Iron Mask. It is owned by an Indiana syndicate which had a force of men at work on it early in the spring.

News from the White Bear continues to be of an encouraging character. Some valuable ore shoots have been uncovered. The management, however, states that it will take several weeks to properly develop them and that only such ore will be sent to the smelter as is taken out in the course of development work.

The chairman of the Le Roi board of directors, Grinke-Drayton of London, England, who has been in Rossland for several weeks, leaves for the old country today. During the time that he has been here Mr. Drayton has been chiefly at the mine and at the Northport smelter, and has expressed himself as being well pleased with the result of his investigations. Though not now actively engaged in business in England, Mr. Drayton was at one time chairman and managing director of one of the largest collieries in Great Britain.

THE COAL OUTPUT

Figures from C. N. P. C. Company's Collieries for Last Week and Month

(Special to The Daily News)

Fernie, Sept. 8—The tonnage from the mines of the C.N.P.C. company was comparatively small this week, which is accounted for by the fact that Monday was labor day, most of the mines were closed down on Thursday owing to an accident to the box car loader, and that No. 2 mine was idle on Friday owing to an accident to the fan. The following is the tonnage for the week ending Sept. 7:

	Tons
Coal Creek	8,783.02
Michel	3,797.11
Total	12,579.13

The tonnage from the mines for the month of August was the largest in the history of the company, and was as follows:

	Tons
Coal Creek	59,089.19
Michel	34,148.18
Total	93,238.17

The shipments of coke for the month of September were:

	Tons
Fernie	10,038.13
Michel	10,742.12

NEW LIFE BOAT TESTED

INTERESTING EXHIBITION GIVEN AT VANCOUVER

BOAT IS TO BE USED ON DANGEROUS WEST COAST

Vancouver, Sept. 8—An interesting exhibition of the life saving work by the government life boat was given this evening at Kitsalano beach. The life boat which was built for service on the west coast of Vancouver island was under the command of Capt. J. C. Voss, who won fame by sailing the Indian dugout canoe Tillicum around the world. For the purposes of the demonstration a barge was rigged up to represent a wreck. From the derelict signals of distress were fired and the life boat was manned, launched and dispatched from shore to the rescue. The shipwrecked sailors were picked up from the wreck and from the water and were brought back to shore. According to the program there was a second act to this exhibition. After the return of the life boat, rockets fired from the wreck gave the signal that there were some more people on board. Then the rocket line equipment was brought into play. Under the light of powerful search lights a rocket line was shot over the wreck and made fast to the mast. The remainder of the supposed shipwrecked crew were then brought to shore in the breeches buoy.

ANOTHER CROOKED BANKER

Troy, Sept. 8—Arthur B. Reefe, receiving teller of the Security Trust company of this city, committed suicide tonight by taking poison. It is alleged that he was short in his accounts $20,000.

ADAMS HELD AS WITNESS

Released on Application of Uncle But at Once Re-arrested

Now Charged With Murder of Lyte Gregory of Denver, in 1904—Prosecution Holds on to Witness

(Special to The Daily News)

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 8.—Steve Adams, held as a witness in the Steunenberg murder case, was today released on a writ of habeas corpus issued before district judge Steart. He was at once arrested on request of the sheriff of Denver, Colo., on a charge of murdering Lyte Gregory in that city on May 15, 1904. He is now held awaiting the arrival of an officer from Colorado.

Adams is the man who was arrested at Haines, Ore., at the time of the arrest of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone in Denver. He was brought here but soon afterwards made a confession in which he gave the state what purported to be the story of a great number of murders and other crimes alleged to have been committed at the instigation of the Western Federation. He is said to have given much information respecting the alleged plot to murder Steunenberg. He desired to remain at the penitentiary until the trials and he has been provided for there ever since. Some months ago his wife arrived and has been near him, working for the warden in the latter's home.

Efforts were made some time ago to reach Adams through his brother, but they were unsuccessful. In December his uncle, a man named John Lillard, of Haines, Ore., had an interview with him. This uncle made the application for his release on habeas corpus, stating that his nephew expressed a desire to be set at liberty. This seemed strange as he had not been held at all, but remained of his own free will. The attorneys appearing in the case were former governor John T. Morrison, retained by Lillard, and Clarence E. Darrow and John A. Nugent, counsel for Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone.

BLACK POPE ELECTED

GERMAN JESUIT SUCCEEDS GENERAL MARTIN.

Rome, Sept. 8.—Franciz Aver Warnse, a German, was today elected general of the society by the congregation of the company of Jesuits, in succession to the late father Martin, who died last May. Following the election, a messenger was immediately despatched to the vatican to inform the pope of the choice, which to become effective requires the papal sanction.

It is learned that two ballots were taken before the final choice was made. At the conclusion of the decisive balloting the announcement that a new general of the order had been chosen was then communicated to the outer world by the ringing of a bell, which was the signal that the meeting was at an end. Thereupon the rector of the college, upon whom had been placed the responsibility of maintaining the seclusion of the conference hall, opened the door of the council chambers. Formal acknowledgement of the election was then first made to him by a secretary. At the same moment, father Alfred Maertins, procurator general of the Jesuits, who had been especially appointed by the congregation, started for the vatican to inform pope Pius of the company's choice. He was received immediately by the pope who expressed great satisfaction over the selection of father Wernse. "He is just the man fitted for the position," said the Pope. He charged father Maertins to take to general Wernse the apostolic benediction and also an affectionate letter of greeting which he wrote to the new general. In the meantime general Wernse was receiving congratulations from members of the order and many others at his own home in the college, where he went immediately after the announcement of the election.

Father Franciz Aver Wernse was born at Rothwell, Wurtemburg, on December 2, 1842, and at the age of 15 years entered the society of which today he was chosen head. In 1883 he received an appointment as professor in the Gregorian university and has been rector of the university since 1904. He is a consulting member of the congregation's ecclesiastic extraordinary affairs and index council, and is recognized as a progressive man and extremely energetic.

Monseigneur Avers apostolic delegate to Cuba, today was consecrated titular archbishop of Sardis. The ceremony was performed at the castle of cardinal Merry del Val, the pope's secretary of state, assisted by father Kennedy, rector of the American college. The anti-clerical society had prepared to make a demonstration at the function against cardinal Merry del Val and the policy of the vatican, but the police interfered and forced them to hold their meeting in private.

CRANBROOK BLUFF PROMPTLY CALLED.

Editor, The Daily News: It is apparent the Cranbrok lacrosse club desires to play all Canada against the Nelson team. Well and good. We were making arrangements to play other teams during the fair, but have stopped all negotiations and now make the following offer to Cranbrook: The program of the fair calls for two games, one on the afternoon of the 20th and the other on the 21st. The Nelson team, composed of members resident in this city during twelve months, challenges any team the Cranbrook's can place in the field, irrespective of nationality, residence, or any other thing, and will pay the fares and expenses of the "Cranbrook" or other team sent from Cranbrook, and will, further, present each of the "selected" team with a gold medal provided they defeat the Nelson team. In all games this season we have played against teams with imported players; but it appears that Cranbrook wishes to meet us with a team made up of New Westminster and Toronto men and, in order to show that we are just as good and, perhaps, a trifle better than Lethbridge, this offer is made. We have played "home men" during the whole summer, while Cranbrook imported over half of its team. For that reason we asked to have a game between "residents" of the two places. Cranbrook objects. Will they now meet the Nelson lacrosse team?

MAY ATTACK HAVANA

REBELS SAID TO BE SURROUNDING CUBAN CAPITAL

PRESIDENT PALMA ISSUES A CALL FOR CONGRESS.

Havana, Sept. 8.—There are large forces of rebels south and west of Havana and persistant rumors are current that it is their intention to attack the city, aided by rebels within. This is causing extra precautions.

A strong party of rebels is engaged in destroying telegraph lines near Herradura, 30 miles east of the city of Pinar del Rio. An armored train with 350 men and rapid fire guns left Palacios shortly after noon today for Herradura.

President Palma tonight issued a call for a special session of congress to convene September 14 in order to consider the disturbed condition of the country and measures for ending the intolerable situation. The president is weary of the complicated and threatening conditions and is anxious to divide the responsibilities with congress. The principal features in the revolt today were attempts by the western railway to transfer troops toward Pinar del Rio and the advancement of an armored train with machine guns and recruits to the country now occupied by the insurgents. The latter part of these movements is shrouded in mystery as also is the situation of colonel Avalo's forces in Pinar del Rio city, which for the past two days has been surrounded by Pino Guerra's insurgents. Wire communication was repeatedly cut further east tonight and neither the railroad nor the government are able to communicate beyond Paso Real, 22 miles east of Pinar del Rio city. The armored troop train which returned to Palasros, started westward today, and encountered revolutionists but aside from the fact that firing proceeded for some time the result of the engagement is not known. It is thought, however that the troop train got through to Puerto Golp where two more railroad bridges were blown up today and stopped there. Four hundred reinforcements consisting of mounted infantry and rural guards left Havana today to co-operate with the machine gun corps in an endeavor to reach colonel Avalos at Pinar del Rio and another machine gun battery started for Santa Clara on an armored train. The veterans who are searching for a peaceful means of settlement of the difficulties profess that the Santa Clara and Havana insurrectionists are ready to quit and turn against Pino Guerra if he does not show a similar tendency, but Guerra's conduct and especially the attitude of the liberals in Havana who are supposed members and advisers of the revolutionary junta, totally precludes the probability that peace is at hand. A permanent veterans' peace committee was constituted today. The cigar and cigarette manufacturers and the 25,000 men and women employed in those industries in Havana are awakening as the planting time begins to pass to appreciation of the consequences of there being no crop of Pinar del Rio tobacco. The number of persons more or less directly employed in Havana factories with their dependents is estimated to approximate 10,000. The factories exclusively use Pinar del Rio and Havana tobaccos, and the stocks, which are depleted on account of the shortage caused by the rains of last winter, will surely be exhausted next summer.

DAILY TRAIN WRECK

Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 8—Two men were killed and five injured in a head on collision today between two local passenger trains on the B. & O. railroad near Woodlands, 25 miles south of here. The wreck occurred in a fog, the trains coming together on a bridge over Fish creek. The cause is given as misunderstanding of orders. The dead are George Parsons and James Waggle, firemen of the locomotives.

EARL GREY'S DEPARTURE

He Made Many Enquiries About Local Matters Yesterday

Finds Fruit Raising Possibilities Here a Revelation—Kootenay Assured of a Friend at Court

Their excellencies, the governor general and lady Grey and the other members of the vice regal party will leave the city this evening by the 7.15 C. P. R. coast train, taking the up-river steamer at West Robson tonight.

Yesterday, eary Grey, who has practically recovered from his slight indisposition, caused by a feverish cold, took a stroll about the city. He visited the provincial jail, admired the warden's well kept garden, but thought that some change should be made in the way prisoners awaiting trial were treated, expressing the view that some distinction should be made between such men and those undergoing sentence.

His excellency called in at the Fair office and made many enquiries from captain McMorris concerning the coming exhibition. It was noticed incidentally that the governor general wore a 20,000 club button and he is said to have expressed the hope that Nelson's population would have reached the desired figure when he next visited the Kootenays.

During the afternoon his excellency sent for mayor Gillett and one or two other citizens and asked many questions about Nelson and the surrounding country. He confessed to having been greatly impressed by his visit to James Johnstone's fruit ranch, and taking that property as typical of the other fruit ranches in the district, said frankly that the potentialities of the district from an agricultural point of view were a revelation to him, and it is very probable that when his excellency is speaking publicly at the coast on his forthcoming visit there, he will unburden his mind very freely on what he has learned on this subject during his brief stay in this city. It is also not improbable that upon his return to Ottawa, earl Grey may impart his views on many matters of importance, picked up here at first hand, to his duly credited ministers.

The visiting governor general has been at considerable pains to acquire a thorough knowledge of local conditions and from the favorable impression evidently made, Nelson, and the Kootenays, will not lack a friend at court upon the return to Ottawa of the able and distinguished gentleman who has been the city's guest for the past few days.

In enlarging a little upon the few remarks he made in replying to the formal address of welcme presented him by the mayor on Wednesday last, it is understood that his excellency desired to draw attention to his well known imperialist attitude. He is, as he said, an ardent imperialist, not on account of the great size of the empire today but chiefly because he profoundly believes that the empire has been the most potent factor in the history of the world for the spread of justice, righteousness and humanity.

Those who had the honor and pleasure of interviews with earl Grey during his stay here are a unit in crediting him with a keen insight into human affairs, a sincere desire to understand local conditions, and a shrewdness in the art of extracting information not often met with. His excellency is an eminently practical man, but he combines with that virtue a kindly courtesy that set his visitors of yesterday at ease the moment they met him.

Lody Grey and some of the younger members of the party spent most of the day at Bonnington Falls and Slocan Junction yesterday taking in the scenery and fishing.

AN ASSASSIN SENTENCED

WOMAN WHO SHOT GENERAL MIN MUST DIE

SHE TREATED HER WHOLE TRIAL AS A COMEDY

St. Petersburg, Sept. 8—Engineer Feodoroff, director of the great Baltic works, was attacked tonight by workmen and so badly wounded that he died a few hours later.

The court martial which tried Senide Konopliankovo, the woman who assassinated general Min on Aug. 26 at Peterhoff, today sentenced her to be hanged. She maintained her composure and smiled on receiving the sentence, which is to be subject to a commutation by order of duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch, commander of the Guards corps.

The woman, who was represented only by an army captain, detailed as her counsel, obstinately refused to rise at the opening of court and did so only when threatened with the use of force. She declined to plead saying that she regarded the trial as a mere comedy. The trial lasted scarcely an hour. The only witnesses examined were three officers of gendarmes who were on the platform at Peterhof at the time general Min was assassinated.

The ministry of finance is perfecting measures for absorbing the script by the land banks n payment for private estates acquired in accordance with the agrarian program, so as to prevent too great a depreciation by the sudden flooding of the market, and has decided to authorize the investment therein of funds accumulated in the government's hands for pensions, barrack construction, etc. The purchase of script by insurance companies, which are required to invest a part of their reserve in government securities, is authorized. The report that the government is seeking to induce foreign investment in the land script is denied at the ministry of finance. In addition to the sale of crown appanage lands hitherto announced, the government has found it possible to distribute a portion of the state lands held by the government which consist largely of forest reserves. A further measure of relief will be the lowering of the interest on arrears of payments on lands previously purchased by peasants through the state banks. The difference will be charged to the state treasury.

Riga, Sept. 8 — Three policemen were wounded, one fatally, by a bomb today, thrown at a street railroad car. A patrol of troops was called and fired a volley into the crowd which assembled, wounding one man mortally and three slightly. A group of five revolutionists armed with automatic pistols were halted today in the center of the city by a policeman who ordered them to throw up their hands. They did not comply and the lone policemun began exchanging shots with them. He killed one of the revolutionists, wounded another and arrested two. One escaped.

ARMORY FOR FERNIE

MILITIAMEN HOPE TO HAVE IT FOR WINTER DRILL.

(Special to The Daily News)

Fernie, Sept. 8.—The prospects for the erection of the much desired armory for the accommodation of the Kootenay Rifles has been advanced another step toward fulfilment by the selection of a site in the new annex on Victoria avenue by government agent Armstrong. W. R. Ross, member of the local legislature has secured from that body the promise of the land on which to build and it is confidently expected that the militia department at Ottawa will now proceed with the construction of the building so that it will be in readiness for the winter drill season.

The Electric Light & Power company have completed their new dam which is situated some distance above Coal Creek mines, and now a bountiful supply of water is assured to the citizens of Fernie to meet all requirements.

Miss Rockfort, daughter of major Cowper Rockfort, late H. M. 81st regiment, has left for England, where she will be the guest for the winter of baron and baroness Crawshay, of Sevenoaks, Kent. Her charming personality, musical attainments and rare mental gifts have made her a host of friends during her all too short visit here. Miss Rockfort will be married in the spring to Mr. Arthur Covery, acting resident, Kontogora, West Africa.

Mrs. McEvoy, wife of James McEvoy, chief engineer of the C. N. P. C. Co., has left for Ottawa, accompanied by her little daughter, and expects to be absent for two months. During her absence her residence in the park will be thoroughly renovated and enlarged

CANADIAN FINANCES

Revenue Shows a Big Increase Over Summer of Last Year

(Special to The Daily News)

Ottawa, Sept. 8—The financial statement of the dominion shows a revenue of $13,390,416 for August and July, an increase of $1,755,005 over the same period of last year. There was an increase in expenditure of a million and a quarter, and a decrease in capital expenditure of $380,000.

On account of the anticipated increase in customs duties in Australia, Ross, Canada's commercial agent, writes that very few orders are going forward for agricultural implements and machinery, except from Australia branches of oversea manufacturing houses. Owing to premature disclosures, he says the government has determined to increase the duties from 7 1-2 to 12 per cent above the rates hitherto ruling on nearly every line of agricultural implements and machinery. In some instances, minor lines formerly free have been made dutiable.

TALKED THE BATTLE O'ER

University Crews Dined After Yesterday's Big Contest

Putney, England, Sept. 8.—English experts, in commenting upon the defeat of Harvard's crew by Cambridge in today's race over the Putney-Mortlake course, say there is but one explanation for the result, that of superiority of the English oarsmanship and of the English stroke. Harvard, the experts declare, was one of the finest crews physically ever seen on the river, but they were unable to overcome the training which English oarsmen receive from childhood. The Cambridge crew, too, had in Stuart the advantage of one of the best strokes England has produced. They also, of course, had the advantage of choice of sides, but those who know the river best say that this was little in their favor, with tide and wind as they were today.

The crowd which lined the Thames' banks from Putney to Mortlake, and was massed on bridges, roofs and balconies, and weighed down the boughs of trees, was a record one for recent years. To estimate the number of persons who witnessed the contest would be impossible, but they stretched in unbroken strings for four and one-half miles on either side of the river with the great masses at the points of greatest vantage.

As the Cambridge crew crossed the line winners of the race, the Harvards for the moment were forgotten in the enthusiasm, but when the two crews were seen on shore and an enthusiastic Harvard man gave his college yell, cheer after cheer resounded for the visitors, who, by their sportsman-like behavior have made a splendid impression in English rowing circles. The excitement culminated when the crews returned to their boat houses. From both sides of the river roar after roar went up and while the enthusiasm for the Cambridge men was intense, the Americans also were generously cheered. The boat houses were separated by a small lawn fenced off from the tow-path and the crowd in its enthusiasm and despite the efforts of the foot and mounted police, forced down this fence, sweeping away the line of police, in order to get near the oarsmen. Several spectators and half a dozen women fainted during the crush, and were taken into the club house where they were attended. Further disaster was averted by the efforts of the Harvard and Cambridge crews, who set up the fence and held it until the police drove back the crowd. Still another reception awaited the victors and vanquished as they returned down the river by steamer, but at Putney, the climax was reached, when the crowd cheered until fatigue compelled them to desist. The crews dined together tonight. Colonel Willan, who rowed against Harvard in the Oxford four in 1869, presided, with captain Filley on his right, and president Goldsmith, of the Cambridge boat club, on his left, and ambassador Reid and other distinguished guests surrounding him. Colonel Willan proposed the health of king Edward and president Roosevelt, and said that while he was not altogether sure that the latter would be contented with the result of today's race, he was sure the president would be satisfied with the way the sons of Harvard had borne themselves under defeat. He promised the Cambridge crew a warm welcome in America, should they decide to go over there for a return race. Colonel Willan, in proposing a toast to the crews, pointed out that the race was rowed on the anniversary of the foundation of Harvard collage, and that it was close to 37 years since he had raced against the American university. At the dinner following the race in 1869, colonel Willan said Charles Dickens was one of the speakers and Dickens predicted that there would be other contests, and that Harvard would win. Harvard had not succeeded this time, but he warned English oarsmen that Harvard was dangerous. All acknowledged that Harvard got the worst of the start, but once they got away, they rowed a plucky race the whole way, and Cambridge had to row their best to win. He considered the improvement of Harvard over previous visiting American crews was the result of partially adopting the English stroke, Harvard had not yet got it entirely, but nearly so.

Captain Goldsmith said he was never so glad as when the winning post was passed, as his men had rowed their hardest. He hoped to keep the crew together to go to the United States for a return race with Harvard.

Captain Filley, replying for the American oarsmen, said: "There is no question that the best crew won. We have nothing to say to the contrary. Had the race been rowed from Mortlake to Putney, instead of as it was, the result would have been the same. I'm sorry we did not give them a better race."

Mr. Lehmann, in proposing the health of the chairman, said he had never seen a more gallant contest.

EARL GREY'S IMPERIALISM

While Earl Grey (whose extended stay in Nelson, by the way, is an honor conferred upon this city as welcome as it was unexpected) is, according to his own statement, an "ardent imperialist" because he believes the extension of the imperial sway and power serves but to fling wider the marches of justice and righteousness, he can in no sense be said to belong to the jingo school of British public leaders. His words are always carefully weighed, his perceptive faculties are keen, his deductions are generally sound and he has already learned to study the deeper problems of Canadian national life and development far more sympathetically than many of his predecessors did. There have been those who have come to the dominion bearing the same honorable commission now confided to his excellency, who have not understood the peculiar currents of Canadian loyalty and who have entirely misinterpreted the apparent political paradox resulting from a serious, deep-seated devotion to the British crown and British connection contending with an equally serious and deep-seated desire to first secure local responsible government, and then to develop it to the logical limits prepared by the spirit of freedom, tolerance and trust which form the basis of the whole British constitutional fabric. Lord Metcalfe failed utterly to catch the true import of the struggle so vigorously carried on by Baldwin and Lafontaine, and in his mistaken zeal he interpreted the growth of the national spirit in Canada as a movement inimical to imperial sovereignty. Lord Elgin's shrewder eyes in subsequent years saw the error Metcalfe had committed, and with a patient, statesmanlike bearing he withstood the wrath and abuse of the ultra-loyal clerical and military parties while he directed the changes consequent upon the readjustment of constitutional responsibilities, which were then going on.

The same spirit which animated lord Elgin, half a century ago, is characteristic today of earl Grey, and is reflected clearly in the speeches he makes from time to time as he appears before influential public and semi-public bodies in the chief centres of Canada. In an address delivered at Quebec recently on the occasion of the visit of the battleship Dominion, he seized the opportunity to interpret in well selected language the true loyalty of the Canadian people and their feelings on the subject of aid to the imperial navy. Ever since the time of the Trent affair, in the days just prior to confederation, when the home government, viewing with alarm the defenceless position of the Canadas, of Nova Scotia and of New Brunswick, urged federal union upon the North American colonies as a means to greater security, Downing street has continued to press the importance of contributions, either direct or indirect, to the defensive forces of the empire. Under this impetus, federated Canada early undertook the establishment of a national militia and the prepartion of well supplied militry stores, on the condition that the imperial government should fortify and man Quebec. But in later years struggling under the heavy burden of territorial extension, the construction of railways, the opening of roads and canals, and an extended period of economic depression, the dominion was not quite so prompt to respond to the suggestions that came from London; and hence, in time, the impression gained ground that Canada was not willing to bear her fair share in the task of defending and protecting the empire.

Through all the negotiations and debates that have followed, Canadian statesmen have acquitted themselves with dignity and credit. They have been misunderstood and misrepresented, but not once have they stepped aside from the clear cut line they had laid out for themselves. Always loyal, always viewing with real alarm any proposal calculated to weaken the imperial bond or sever the ties that held the fairest colony of Britain under the folds of the old red crossed flag, they have steadily refused to force the country beyond her strength and have gone on with their work confident in the belief that time would justify their course and prove their policy of territorial development more truly an empire building policy than one draining the treasury for the support of troops and the construction of war vessels could possibly be.

By no one has this policy, so inherently susceptible to misunderstanding and so little calculated to appeal to the imagination of imperialists, been more fairly interpreted than by earl Grey. In the governor general's address at Quebec, he took occasion to review the subject, and the words he then uttered are worthy of preservation, for they indicate a growing desire on the part of imperial statesmen (amongst whom earl Grey ranks high) to view colonial problems from the colonial as well as from the imperial point of view and to promote the larger by a sympathetic consideration of the minor interests involved.

"I trust," said earl Grey, "it will not be considered that there was any covert allusion in my statement that the people of the United Kingdom pay for his majesty's ship the Dominion, while the contribution of Canada to this battleship is confined to providing the captain and the name. That was very far from being my intention. Nothing has pleased me more since I became governor-general than the evidence which is continually reaching me from every side of the desire of self-respecting Canadians to contribute their share to the support of the common imperial burden. I am aware that to some the idea is well-nigh intolerable that the old mother should be allowed to carry for a single day for Canada a load which Canada may be able to carry herself. I rejoice whenever I come across this manly, honorable, self respecting sentiment, which is characteristic of Britons all the world over and worthy of Canada.

"But I would point out to those who are impatient to give their assistance to the British navy in some more direct and visible form than is at present considered desirable, that the first duty of Canada to the empire of which she is every day becoming a more important part is to make herself strong, and when I see works postponed for prudential financial reasons, which I believe to be required to perfect your system of transportation east and west and to make Canada an even more important link in the chain of empire than she at present is, then I say there is other work to be performed which may be of even greater importance than immediate contribution to the fleet. And I feel satisfied from the existence of that healthy, manly, self-respecting spirit which revolts from the idea of being a parasite on the trunk of empire, and which I have encountered on every side, that I am right in believing that Canada may be safely relied upon as soon as the times are ripe to do her duty, aye and more than her duty, towards the fleet which protects her commerce and which surrounds her as with a wall and guards her as with a moat against the envy of less happy lands."

SOUTH AFRICA'S REAL DANGER

The London Times, in a despatch from Johannesburg, gives a summary of a remarkable article recently appearing in the Johannesburg Star, and purporting to be written by a British South African "mechanic." It attempts to analyze the population of the Orange River colony, dividing the people into (1) British settlers; (2) "khaki" Boers—that is Boers who surrendered early, National Scouts, and other who have assisted the British government; and (3) "Echte Vaderlanders," patriots or "bitterenders"—in other words, Boers who fought to the last. The social gulf, he says, dividing the three classes is as great as the political.

But the feature of the article does not lie in this clasification, nor in the attempt the "mechanic" makes to use it as an argument against the autonomy proposals of the British liberal ministry; for, though told in a somewhat new style it is merey a repetition of the old and only too well founded story that the burdens of the British settlers, already heavy, will be increased and made almost insupportable by the passage of the projected legislation inimical to their interests. It is true that "mechanic" reveals an extremely unhappy state of affairs both when he says that the Boers openly boast that "they themselves got their land by the morgen, but have made the English pay for it by the inch," and when he further asserts that there is no real sympathy on the part of the settlers for the "khaki" Boer, who, on the other hand, is regarded by the "patriots" as a political and social leper. Even if the two former combined forces, "mechanic" says, they would still be in a hopeless minority, and responsible government, therefore, would mean the rule of the "patriots." But this in itself is no reason for withholding it, provided that the Boers could conceivably be regarded as loyal to the British crown and empire.

Unfortunately, it is this very loyalty that is questioned, and questioned with such circumstantial arguments as to bear the very impress of sincerity and truth. The writer proceeds to record a recent personal experience on this point throwing a luminous and significant light on the peculiar mixture of hostility and superstition which makes up the attitude of the back-veld Boer towards the present regime. The great Bloemfontein flood is popularly held to be "a curse from God brought by the British." The scientific operations of the present government against locusts and other pests are condemned as impious attempts to fly in the face of the Almighty. Children are being taught to regard the term Englishman as synonymous with everything that is dishonorable, unjust, and oppressive. British and pro-British are all marked down against the "good times" that are coming. But worst of all, "mechanic" points out in conclusion that the surrounding native population, which is ignorant of the exact meaning of self-government, is still watching events very closely. The natives realize that the British have conquered the Boers and are ruling the country now. If the Boers suddenly resume government the natives will certainly look on it as a sign of weakness, to the detriment of the British prestige throughout South Africa.

Here is a novel and yet an apparently sound argument against the program proposed by the Campbell-Bannerman ministry. It is no idle clap trap about suspected loyalty, reward for rebellion and injustice to British settlers such as is the stock in trade of the political antagonists of the liberal party. It is a logical contention, based on keen observation, which will appeal to reason rather than passion; it indicates a real and serious danger, not to the financial interests of a few, but to the peace of the empire; it forms an indictment that requires attention; and it contributes a ringing warning to the imperial legislators—unhappily urged on by a desire to make their ministerial program consistent with their pre-ministerial pronouncements—to go slow and to carefully measure the probable effect of hasty and undue liberality to an unreliable element of the community before they take the step they have in contemplation.

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS.

The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy Now Facts of Science.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots, need be bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the root; and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland Block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. FASHIONS FOR FALL AND WINTER 1906-07

THE grotesqueness and eminacy which characterised men's clothes during the two seasons just passed have been relegated to the limbo of bad form, and the deformingly broad built-up coat shoulders, the effeminate bottom flare of sacks, the attenuated cutaway of waistcoats, and the extravagant peg toppiness of trousers, will no longer distress the eye of the artist and disgust the man of sense.

In place of these absurdities we shall have, during the incoming Fall and Winter season, coats shaped to suggest the figure of the wearer, instead of making it appear a monstrosity, waistcoats less suggestive of the weeping willow and trousers that will not grossly slander the masculine form below the waist.

The stylish goods for the Fall season show great variety; checks, stripes and fine cheviott vie with each other in popularity.

Taylor and McQuarrie are showing everything that is new and cordially invite an inspection of their new Fall Importations.

HEAVY WHEAT SHIPMENTS.

Winnipeg, Sept. 8 — The shipments of wheat during the last two or three weeks have ben exceptionally heavy, the total amount being much in excess of prvious years. Yesterday 371,000 bushels of wheat and 7,000 bushels of other grains were marketed at points along the C. P. R. The total number of bushels of wheat marketed up to date is 1,240,000 bushels, and of other grains 27,000. At this time last year only 54,000 bushels of wheat and 6,000 of other grains had been marketer. The enormous increase in the early shipments this year is accountel for by the early harvest in Manitoba caused by the very hot weather experienced during the summer.

NEW YORK FASHION LETTER

New York, Sept 8—As the autumn comes on there is always a time when our dressing is most difficult; the season is too warm and too early to put on anything that savors of winter, and yet, the summer clothes are often too cool and in a decidedly frayed condition. Therefore the question arises, how to be suitably and becomingly dressed during this "between" season.

It is necessary, perhaps, after so much travelling and moving about during the summer to have a new street dress for the morning, not too heavy in weight and yet one that with an extra warm blouse and furs would serve on those warm days that came upon us even in the midst of winter. Such a costume was developed from satin cloth by a pony jacket suit, which is one of the latest examples of that style. Box shaping characterized the front and wide tucks at each side of the closing are stitched to the lower edge. The back is semi-fitting, showing a tendency to a closer shaping at the waist line, this result being obtained by side, back seams that extend from the shoulders and have inverted plaits below the waist line. The edges of the front meet in closing and the narrow space between the tucks displays clustered buttons or ornaments of braid in simulated vest effect, and the fastening is invisibly made. A flat collar outlines the neck, while coat sleeves are supplied and adjusted into armholes with gathers; they are sufficiently wide at the top to suggest the present favor for broad shoulder effects, and wide turn back cuffs are their finish at the elbow. The skirt is one of the circular two piece models so fashionable just now, and has the seam in the center front and back over an inverted plait. About the sides are three nuns folds laid about six inches apart. The only further decoration is the machine stitching. This costume would make up prettily in blue mohair with a touch of red in the collar and cuffs, and worn with a blue hat adorned with blue velvet and wings. The blouse to be worn with it was of blue and red plaid, which sounds crude, I know, but was by its pattern very pretty, and finished with one of the new French turn overs and a bright tie.

Possibly one of the corselet skirts, made from some of the thin goods in vogue with inverted plaits on the gores, is a legacy from the summer. This can be ripped apart, cleaned and remade. An example of such a gown was in tan voile and seemed to have lightened in the process of cleaning, but the owner put it through a bath of strong coffee from which it emerged as good as new. The old lining of brown silk cracked too badly to be used again, so a lining of nearsilk was considered good enough for this made over dress which was recut with some slight changes into a plain gored skirt and over each seam was a strap of green and brown silk dotted with red. The bottom was lengthened by a new piece which had gone through the same process as the dress to give it the same color, and machine stitching was used as a finish. The top of the waist was cut off at the waist line, finished with a belt under a silk girdle. The waist blouse was made of green lining silk and a very narrow bertha outlined it; the back was in one piece, the fulness of which was confined by gathers under the belt. The little bolero was relined, decorated about the bottom, front, and neck by an applied fancy portion of silk completed with machine stitching. The sleeves were left short and finished with silk cuffs that matched the applied part in the body. The hat that had been worn with this costume was of brown straw, which was now cleaned, trimmed with a brown ruche in the back and green foliage and red berries, and a green velvet band. The gloves were brown glacee, and the Oxford ties and stockings were of the same color.

A green silk poplin of a beautiful shade and fine texture, but old fashioned in cut, was used as a foundation of an afternoon costume. The dress was ripped up, then sent to the cleaners, as the goods and the color is a particularly hard handling for the amateur cleaner. In order to make it by any of the new models some piecing had to be done, but was accomplished so cleverly that under the black veiling upper dress it was not at all noticeable. The outer skirt is nine-gored. The fulness at the hips is disposed in tucks or shirrings to yoke depth, or may be collected in gathers. The upper edge is finished with a band. Below flounce depth the skirt is laid in three nun's tucks and the lower edge is finished with a hem. In the waist the full fronts and backs of the material are tucked at the shoulder seams and the fulness at the waist line disposed in shirrings. The V shaped yoke is fitted by shoulder seams. A standing collar finishes the neck edge and a shirred girdle completes the lower part of the garment. The sleeve may be made in full or elbow length andconsists of a two pieced close fitting undersleeve and a one piece puff finished with a wide cuffs.

For several years there had lain wrapped in tissue paper a black velvet long jacket made with a yoke and Watteau back; and from this for evenings was constructed a very presentable empire style coat. The coat was seamed at the center, and has two plaits on each side of the front, the fulness below being pressed in a deep plait to the lower edge, and the closing is inconspicuously made at the center, or the edge may be turned back in revers. A stole facing seamed at the center of the back follows the neck and front edges. One seam is used in shaping the sleeves, for which long, three-quarter and shorter lengths are allowed. The band finishing the lower edge is in pointed outline, and the frills are discretionary. The yoke was simulated by a lay over of hand made point lace and the lining was of white China silk.

A skirt to wear with this was constructed with three pieces in Rajah silk, the full back section was arranged in a triple box plait, and two circular portions with clusters of plaits laid at regular intervals, all of which may be stitched to yoke depth. A seam in the front in Duchess style connects the two side sections and adds to the appearance of the skirt. Machine stitching completes the costume. A blouse of China silk and lace would be pretty to accompany the costume and a black braid silk hat trimmed with short plumes and silver buckles could be added.

A very dressy toilette of grey voile was shown with a yoke and vest extension of all over lace and long cuffs of the same. The fronts of the material have pointed extensions that button across the vest in a very stylish manner. There are three tucks on each side of the yoke at the shoulder seams and stitched down for a short distance. The back of the waist is in one piece below the yoke and has its slight fulness gathered into the belt. The sleeves have stylish upper portions of the silk and long fitted cuffs of the lace. The skirt is cut with seven gores and has kilted portions inserted between the gores and an inverted plait in the back.

Plaiting is to be used largely during the fall and for thin goods no arrangement could be better, but remember that it is adapted to the short skirt only, for on a long skirt that has to be lifted constantly, the plaits lose their shape, which should fall in straight, graseful lines.

Ribbons still continue popular as a trimming.

CATHERINE MANN-PAYZANT.

STOCKS FOR THE WEEK

BUSINESS WAS BRISK AND THE TONE OF MARKET HEALTHY

BRITISH COLUMBIA SHARES ARE FREELY DEALT IN

(Reported by E. E. Mignton & Co.)

The stock market for the week just ended was very satisfactory, tradings being brisk and business generally having a very healthy tone. In contrast to last week's sensational market the business was better in stocks, with no one securky predominating. Shares of British Columbia and Alberta are dealt in freely and are ing great demand on the Spokane market, and it might be said, take first rank as the most popular of the shares traded in on that exchange. Eastern exchanges have been rather duller than of late though the shares of the Rossland camp are favorites there.

North Star continues its steady advance and the predictions made some few weeks ago relative to the stock reaching fifty cents a share seem about to be realized. Sullivan remains firm unchanged with a large demand. No break in the price is now expected. Dominion Copper fluctuated a few points up and down each day, but remained very firm and another marked advance is again expected shortly. Referendum and Forty-Nine Creek show a weakness with large blocks offered, thus bringing the price down several points. Lardeau Mines weakened and this weakening is expected to continue, several large holders of the stock offering the shares at reduced prices. Rambler-Cariboo is again exhibiting strength and is becoming active. While another sharp advance is unexpected still a steady upward tendency is noticeable and it is likely to continue. Monte Cristo, Novelty, Virginia, and Giant remain unchanged with no business offered. La Plata continues very firm with a steady demand which cannot be met.

Canadian Smelters, Canadian Goldfields, Denoro Mines, Pingree Mines and Western Oil continue firm and unchanged.

Folowing are the approximate quotations for the week ending yesterday:

New York, Sept. 8—Bradstreet's today says: "General trade in Canada shows more life to draw buyers to the large centers. Reports as to summer trade are favorable, but unsold stocks of last winter's goods at retail are a feature to be reckoned with. Despite this all trade is expected to be heavy. Advices point to a Northwest wheat crop of 92,000,000 bushels.

Toronto reports a record trade for the season in millinery at wholesale. Builders' hardware is active in all markets. Montreal reports export demand for dairy product brisk. Boot and shoe manufacturers have advanced prices 20 per cent. Unusual activity is reported at Winnipeg. Collections are expected to improve as the crop begins to move. After a very active month, wholesale in British Columbia is quieter. Industry is active, export business in lumber is large and collections are good. Failures number 14, as against 13 last wek and 25 in this week last year.

The following are the bank clearings as compiled by Bradstreet's for the week ending Sept. 6, showing percentages of increase and decrease as compared with the corresponding week last year:

Minard's Liniment Cures Garget in Cows

PAIN FROM BURN PROMPTLY RELIEVED BY CHAMBERLAIN'S PAIN BALM

A little child of Michael Strauss of Vernon Conn. was recently in great pain from a burn on the hand and as cold applications only increased the inflammation, Mr. Strauss came to Mr. James N. Nichols, a local merchant, for something to stop the pain. Mr. Nichols says: "I advised him to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm and the first application drew out the inflammation and gave immediate relief. I have used this liniment myself and recommended it very ofte nfor cuts, burns, strains and lame back, and have never known it to disappoint." For sale by all druggists and dealers.

When the Liver is out of Order

When a person is bilious, the liver is not giving up enough bile to move the bowels regularly—and some of the bile is being absorbed by the blood. In other words, the liver is in a weakened, unhealthy condition.

Now, purgatives don't act on the liver at all. They merely irritate the bowels, and afford only temporary relief. But FRUIT-A-TIVES are the one true LIVER TONIC. They act directly on the liver—strengthen and invigorate this vital organ—and put it in a normal, healthy condition.

FRUIT-A-TIVES also stimulate the glands of the skin—and regulate the kidneys and sweeten the stomach. When skin, liver and kidneys are normally healthy, there can be no biliousness, no constipation, no kidney trouble, no impure blood, no headaches.

No other medicine known to science is so reliable and so effective in curing Biliousness as these fruit liver tablets.

FRUIT-A-TIVES are fruit juices with tonics added—and are free from alcohol and dangerous drugs. 50c. a box or 6 for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price, if your druggist does not handle them.

Synopsis of Regulations governing the Disposal of Dominion Lands Within the Railway Belt in the Province of British Columbia.

A license to cut timber can be acquired only at public competition. A rental of $5 per square mile is charged for all timber berths, excepting those situated west of Yale, for which the rental is at the rate of 5 cents per acre per annum.

Sawn lumber, 50 cents per thousand feet B. M.

Railway ties, 8 and 9 feet long, 1 1-8 and 1 3-4 cents each.

Shingle bolts, 25 cents a cord.

All other products, 5 per cent. on the sales.

A license is issued so soon as a berth is granted, but in unsurveyed territory no timber can be cut on a berth until the licensee has made a survey thereof.

Permits to cut timber are also granted at public competition, except in the case of actual settlers, who require the timber for their own use.

Settlers and others may also obtain permits to cut up 100 cords of wood for sale without competition.

The dues payable under a permit are $1.50 per thousand feet B.M., for square timber and sawlogs of any wood except oak; from 1-3 to 1 1-3 cents per lineal foot for building logs; from 12 1-2 to 25 cents per cord for wood; 1 cent for fence posts; 3 cents for railway ties, and 50 cents per cord on shingle bolts.

Leases for grazing purposes are issued for a term of 21 years at a rental of [illegible] cents per acre per annum.

Coal lands may be purchased at $10 per acre for soft coal and $20 for anthracite. Not more than 320 acres may be acquired by one individual or company.

Royalty at the rate of 10 cents per ton of 2,000 pounds is collected on the gross output.

Entries for land for homestead purposes may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land to be taken is situated, or if the homesteader desires, he may, on application to the minister of the interior at Ottawa, the commissioner of immigration at Winnipeg, or the local agent for the district within which the land is situated, receive authority for some one to make entry for him.

A fee of $10 is charged for a homestead entry.

A settler who has received an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

It is the practice of the department to require a settler to bring 15 acres under cultivation, but if he prefers he may substitute stock; and 20 head of cattle, to be actually his own property, with buildings for their accommodation, will be accepted instead of the cultivation.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of the Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of the Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of the Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for a patent should be made at the end of three years before the local agent, sub-agent or a homestead inspector.

Before making an application for a patent, the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa, of his intention to do so.

Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

NOTICE

Whereas, at the Last Chance and Surprise mines, Chinese kitchen help is at present empoyled, to the exclusion of White labor.

Therefore, be it resolved that this organization, Sandon Miners' union No. 81 of the W. F. of M. reaffirming its opposition to the employment of Orientals within its jurisdiction, strongly condemns the position taken by the management of the properties in question, and counsels workingmen everywhere and those favorably disposed toward organized labor to be governed by this action.

OLD TEA DRINKERS

Are usually very particular about their favorite beverage. They don't want one grade this week and another the next. The flavor and strength must always be the same.

Blue Ribbon TEA

Is a great favorite with these particular tea drinkers. They find it richly flavored, fragrant, of sufficient strength, and always the same.

As it always comes from the same plantations, the flavor does not vary from time to time, but will be found exactly the same in every package.

By using Blue Ribbon Tea for a time you can easily test this for yourself. Any grocer can supply you.

OF INTEREST TO MINERS

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

R. McI., Sandon, B. C.—The grayish white crystals intermixed with the galena you submit for examination, are cerussite crystals. Cerussite is a carbonate of lead, which pure, carries nearly 84 per cent lead, so you will quite see that instead of being a detriment to your ore it is a mineral that will considerably increase its lead contents. Regarding any silver contents it may carry, it is impossible to state without having the sample assayed. The fee for a silver assay will be $1.00

T. C. M.—No. 1 sample is a fairly good specimen of limonite (an oxide of iron), but there is rather too much sandstone associated with it to make it of any commercial value. No. 2 is a sandstone. No. 3 has limonite on the upper side, sandstone on the lower or No. 2 side.

G. M., Slocan—Your sample is a decomposed sulphide of iron, part of it being ovidized into the form of melantorite or sulphate of iron, this being the greenish part; the other, the blackish-brown mineral, being in the form of an oxide, or oxy-sulphide of iron.

J. W., Slocan City—Your letter with the enclosed postal note has been received. Also the samples which you sent by express. No. 1 is secondary quartz stained brown by the action of the iron present. There is also a considerable amount of iron and zinc oxides in the sample as well as some pyrites and blende. No. 2 is a silicious ore with a certain amount of calcite present. The crystals on the upper side are secondary quartz crystals. It will probably carry small values in gold and silver. Your No. 1 sample is being assayed as requested and will probably be ready on Tuesday next; in the meantime it would be advisable for you to send us your name, as we do not publish the results of assays in this column, and the postoffice authorities will not deliver letters addressed by the initials only.

J. K., McGuigan, B.C.—As you will no doubt have noticed, your No. 1 sample (float) is galena, coated with some oxidized matter. No. 2 has every appearance of having been made by mechanical means, that it is appears to have been rolled up into this shape by some man. It is a conglomeration of talc, slate, chlorite and some silicious rock, with here and there specks of galena and pyrite.

G. W. C., Phoenix, B.C.—Write to the secretary of the Nelson A. & I. association, Nelson. He will send you entry forms, etc. Several of the prizes offered for mineral displays are already on exhibition in Nelson and they are well worth the time and trouble you may take should you manage to win one.

Mrs. A., Cranbrook, B.C.—Your No. 1 sample is an ordinary slate rock. No. 2 and 3 are similar only stained brownish with iron. No. 4 is talc. None of these samples will contain any commercial values, so cannot advise you to have them assayed for any particular metal.

P.R., Nicola, B.C.—The sample you submit for examination is a variety of brown coal or lignite. It is impossible to give you any definite reply as to its qualities without having an analysis made of the sample. For this a fee of $6 is charged, and your sample will be kept ten days awaiting a reply from you. It would be better to send a larger sample if possible, if not this one will do.

W. S., Aspen Grove, B.C.—Your No. 1 sample contains pyrrhotite and blende in quarty. No. 2 is nearly all blende with a little pyrrhotie. No. 3 is similar to No. 1. No. 4 mainly composed of an altered schist with some pyrrhotite.

L. L., Nelson, B. C.—Your sample is quartz carrying arsenical pyrites. It is impossible to state whether it will carry gold and silver as you do not give any particulars as to the district from which it is obtained, but most likely it will carry both metals in greater or less quantities.

J. P., Molson—Your letter was received early in the week, together with samples and fees. A private reply has already been sent you.

C. P., Kaslo, B.C.—The green stain in your rock is probably due to the leaching out of the copper present in the grey copper, of which some is noticeable in your sample. Have it assayed for silver and gold.

J. R. C., Sandon B.C.—Your rock is of a chloritic nature. The green color present is not due to copper, but to ferrous iron. You might have it assayed for silver, but it is very doubtful whether it will contain any commercial values.

H. R., Ferguson, B. C.,—Your specimen is a piece of Jamesonite. This is a sulphide of lead and antimony. Have it assayed for silver and lead. Your sample will be held ten days to see if you would like it assayed; the fee will be $1.50.

L. B., Trout Lake, B.C.—We fail to see any indications of free gold in your sample. There is a little copper pyrites, as well as some pyrrhotite, nothing more.

M.S.C., Kaslo, and F. H. Salmo—Your replies will be published in next Sunday's issue as they require considerable time and attention being paid to them. Your letters did not arrive in time for it to be given this week.

T.L., Fernie, B. C.—Nos. 1 and 3 are hematite (red); have both assayed for iron; No. 2 being powdered it is impossible to give an opinion upon.

CAMBRIDGE CREW WON

FIRST CONTEST OF THE KIND IN THIRTY-SEVEN YEARS.

Putney, Eng., Sept. 8.—After one of the greatest tussles ever witnessed in the annals of British rowing—one that aroused international interest to a higher fever heat than any similar contest since the historic struggle of 1869 between crews representing the same two universities—Cambridge won today's race from Harvard by two full lengths.

The weather conditions were ideal when Harvard and Cambridge turned out early in the day for a few brief practice starts before their final appearance for the race over the championship course from Putney to Mortlake. The sky was cloudless, a light haze hanging over the river. The breeze was from the south west and although against the racers it was very light in the early hours of the day.

The excitement over the contest prevailed throughout provincial centers and even most of the sporting communities on the continent, judging from the telegrams asking for early and full stories. With Stars and Stripes and Harvard crimson conspicuous everywhere, the crowds began moving towards the river early in the day, the railroads running specials and every available train line being taxed to its utmost capacity. Early in the afternoon the green banks of the river were lined with people to an extent which promised the greatest throng ever witnessed at a boat race here. Although naturally the light colors of Cambridge predominated, the Harvard crimson ran them close, while numerous contingents of young enthusiasts, unable to make up their minds as to which would win, had donned rosettes of ribbons combining the blue of Cambridge and Harvard's crimson. The members of the American colony in London, and hosts of American visitors to the city, were early in the field, taking up points of vantage from which to enliven the American crew, with Harvard's college yell. The majority of the expert opinions gave the final verdict in favor of Cambridge. The Cambridge stock was up to as high as 130 to 80, but most of the betting was done at nearer even figures.

As the afternoon advanced, crowds gathered at the starting point and stretched along the river banks as far as the eye could reach. The throngs were wholly cosmopolitan, and cheered with their usual enthusiasm the appearances of either the crimson or the blue. The breeze freshened some, when the time for starting the race approached.

As the challengers, the Harvard crew took the water first and the Cambridge men closely followed their example. The two boats quickly got into position and R. C. Lehman, the starter and umpire, administered the usual caution and a moment later, at 4.28 p.m., a pistol shot sent the two racing shells away to an admirable start.

"They are off" was the yell that echoed from Putney bridge to Craven Cottage when the signal shot was fired and like some huge and many-legged monsters the two shells broke from their leash and began their wearisome struggle for victory against more than four miles of current, toward Mortlake, beyond which the finish line is located.

The nose of the light blue boat immediately showed to the front, the drive being strong and the recovery prompt, with slightly quickening pace, while Harvard reduced theirs. The light blue's stroke had gained a further advantage of a lead at the start, the Americans showed no signs of being disturbed. They kept up a steady pull at the rate of about 35 stokes to the minute which suits the crew. More than a length separated the boats at Craven Slip, but on reaching the mile post, the bend of the river on the Surrey side gave the Cambridge boat a great advantage. A head wind sent the tide rolling down this reach making a broken sea of which the Americans got the full brunt, while the English were sheltered by the river bank on the Surrey side. By the time the boats reached the Crab Tree, about a mile and a half from the start, Stuart, the Cambridge stroke, had taken his boat over two lengths to the front. The Harvard stroke, Filley, at this point called on his men for a greater effort and they responded quickly. The quickened stroke soon told, the daylight between the boats was sensibly lessened, and when the Cambridge shell shot by Hammersmith bridge, the Englishmen were barely a length and a quarter ahead.

Pushing on past the lead mills, where both boats were doing 37 strokes, Cambridge increased their lead and appeared to be rowing well within themselves. As the boats turned the bend and entered rougher water, Harvard again spurted. A magnificent effort sent the American boat up to its opponent foot by foot.

Off the Doves, although Harvard lost ground through wide steering, Stuart kept up his steady stroke. At Chiswick the Enlishmen coxwain shook up his crew and they began to pull away from Harvard. At the three mile post, Cambridge was over two lengths in front and on reaching the Devonshire meadows was two and a half to three lengths ahead and the race was practically over.

The scene on the banks of the river was amazing. Americans and Englishmen vied with each other in cheering their champions while the din of the accompanying squadron of steamers was deafening. Harvard, however, spurted again, gaining a length, but it was too late to retrieve the fortunes of the day and the Cambridge men passed the winning post easy victors of a gallant race by two lengths. Time 19 minutes, 16 seconds.

The race, as stated above, was over the famous old Putney-Mortlake course, on the Thames, a narrow winding waterway four and three-eighths miles in length. It was the first dual inter-collegiate race rowed between American and English crews in thirty-seven years. In 1869 Harvard sent a four to Putney to meet Oxford in a dual contest. The English crew was victorious by nearly four lengths. Today's race was the first between British and American university eights and apparently has opened the way for many similar contests in the future. Interest in the rowing even has been heightened by the fact that Harvard's crew earned a decisive victory over Yale at New London in June last, while Cambridge was this year's winner of the race with Oxford.

In the race, the two crews were representative of the best college rowing talent of the two countries and the result has been awaited with the liveliest interest. The Harvard eight is admitted to be one of the best aggregations of college oarsmen ever seen in an American shell and every follower of the sport has been confident that in the international struggle on the Thames, America's rowing strength would be typically represented in the Harvard boat. The race was brought about through the efforts of R. C. Lehman, a member of parliament, who was instructor to the Harvard crews for two years, his last visit to Harvard being in 1898. It was agreed that the two crews should be as nearly as possible the same as those which raced against Yale and Oxford respectively.

At Putney bridge, where the race started, the river is about one hundred yards wide, with the boathouses of several of the Thames rowing clubs, including that of the famous Leanders, on the left bank and the palace of the bishop of London on the right. For a stretch of nearly a mile the river is straight and then comes the first turn at Craven Point. Then comes another curve at Dung wharf, followed with another straight stretch to Hammersmith bridge, where the sharp horseshoe curve begins, which continues to Chiswick. Then comes a slight double curve to the Barnes railroad bridges, where the last sharp curve of the course begins, which continues to the finishing line beyond Mortlake.

The two crews at today's race were made up as follows: Cambridge—bow, G. D. Cochrane; No. 2, H. F. Benham; No. 3, H. M. Goldsmith; No. 4, M. Donaldson; No. 5, B. C. ohnstone; No. 6, R. V. Powell; No. 7, E. W. Powell, stroke D. C. Stuart; coxswain, A. G. L. Hunt.

Harvard—Bow, R. M. Tappan; No. 2, S. W. Fish; No. 3, C. Morgan; No. 4, G. Glass; No. 5, J. Richardson; No. 6, R. L. Bacon; No. 7, D A. Newhall; stroke, O. D. Filley, coxswain, F. M. Blagden.

The newspapers this morning devoted many columns to the Harvard-Cambridge race, giving their readers all the information possible on every point of interest, the opinions of leading oarsmen relative to the outcome of the contest, the pictures of the crews, and altogether did their utmost to make the occasion a great success. All of them admitted that the race was an important one, but the majority backed the Cambridge crew to win. The Tribune declared that it desired to see the race an annual fixture. The soul of sport was stirred to its very depths by the race. It was for no medal, cup or trophy; the whole sweetness of the fight was in mere honor's sake. Sporting Life declared that the contest would decide the question of supremacy of the English and American styles of rowing, and strongly advocated making the contest at least biennial. "We must not always expect the American crews to come to England," the journal added. "There is sound truth in the climatic theory and it is neither just nor sportsmanlike for all the races to be rowed in England. Oxford and Cambridge must emulate their athletic confreres and visit America in turn."

STRIKE ON LITTLE BEAR.

(Special to The Daily News)

Slocan, Sept. 8.—A strike of good ore has been made on the Little Bear, one of the Bear group which judge Harmon and other New Denver parties have under lease and bond.

Ore has also been encountered in the shaft now being sunk on the Riconalibi (Speculator) mine, under the Arlington management.

Manager Dubois, of the Arlington mine, is in Seattle, having been summoned there by the serious illness of his wife, who has typhoid fever.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Noble, of Pittsburg, Pa., arrived in Slocan on Monday, and the following day drove up to the Ottawa mine, of which Mr. Noble is owner. They spent several days at the mine and were delighted with the magnificent scenery and pure air of the silvery Slocan.

Mrs. Joseph Low has gone to Cody, where she will remain several weeks, the guest of Mrs. McAllister.

Edmund and Fred Lavall have gone to Spokane, having secured positions there.

A heavy pall of smake has hung about Slocan all week and a logger brought the news to town that the forest fires were playing havoc with Koch's and Winlaw's timber near Koch's siding and Winlaw's. A refreshing shower last night somewhat relieved the oppressive, smoky atmosphere.

Some of the local gardens contain fruit trees which are marvels of beauty and productiveness many being propped all around to keep them from breaking beneath the masses of fruit. The plum trees, especially at a little distance, seem covered with a purple mantle.

Miss Effie McVicar is now assistant at the postoffice, Miss McMillan having resigned, as she is soon to be married.

Monthly Meeting Held Last night—Endowment Question

The attendance at the University club meeting last night was not a very large one. As the president, Dr. Arthur, was at Creston, Rev. J. T. Ferguson occupied the chair.

The greater portion of the evening was taken up with the presentation and discussion of the report of the committee appointed to consider ways and means of getting the university question thoroughly aired throughout the province. To the resolution adopted at the June meeting the following clause was added: "The Nelson university club suggests as an endowment, 5 per cent of the public domain, 5 per cent of the revenue therefrom, or 2 1-2 per cent of each."

Replies received from Rev. S. J. Thompson, chairman of the educational committee of the Methodist conference; secretary F. M. Cowperthwaite of the Vancouver graduates' association, and Dr. W. J. McGuigan, secretary of the McGill graduates' union, Vancouver, to the communication issued by the club in July last, were read to the meeting.

The first two promised co-operation as asked and Dr. McGuigan stated that the McGill graduates' union would not meet until January, when it would be too late to take action.

The reading of R. J. Clark's paper on "Penalties of National Prosperity" was postponed until the October meeting. The meeting then adjourned.

MOROCCAN TROUBLE EXAGGERATED

Paris, Sept. 8—In well informed circles here the reports of the revolution at Magador, Morocco, are regarded as being greatly exaggerated, as official confirmation of the trouble there has not been received. One of the foremost diplomats in Paris stated fo the Associated Press today that disturbances in Morocco had been continuous for many years past owing to the jealousies of local chieftans.
