SHAUGHNESSY NOT ALARMED

C. P. R. Will Remain in Business in West Despite Hill's Invasion.

Discusses Future Electrification of Road in the Mountains—New Transcontinental to Be Named Trans-Canada Limited.

Winnipeg, June 19—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy today in speaking of the real estate situation, said the present quietness in Winnipeg was only natural. It was just what occurred at times in all lines of commercial enterprise and was not serious. There were times when merchants found it difficult to get sufficient money to carry on their business as they wished. The matter would right itself in time.

"Do you expect that your new Soo-Spokane linen will take much of the traffic of the states to the coast away from the other roads across the line?"

A significant smile appeared upon Sir Thomas' face as he replied: "We expect that it will be a factor in the transportation, but there will be so much traffic through the western states that the other roads will hardly notice what we take."

It was the reference to Mr. Hill's denunciation that led sir Thomas to make the remark quoted above. He preferred not to deal with the subject at length.

"What will be the effect on the C.P.R. in the west from the entrance of the Hill lines and the completion of the G.T.P.?'

Again the non-committal smile: "We are still going to remain in business, and will endeavor to get some of the traffic. We're not going to give up."

The crop situation sir Thomas said, he had looked into quite carefully with Mr. Whyte since he had been in Winnipeg. The prospect for the season he considered to be rosy. Their irrigation work along the C.P.R. in Alberta will be pushed along as rapidly as possible this year according to the plans drawn up last year and the large ditches would be considerably extended.

Speaking of the comparative cost of electricity and steam as motive power on the railways, sir Thomas discussed at some length the technical points which would be encountered in the change.

"With the present volume of business," he said, " I think the cost of electricity on the mountain grades at present would be somewhat greater than steam. The condition, however, would be reversed with the great increase in traffic which will come. The generation of the electric power by water will not be a very big item and I think we will have plenty of water power where we will require it. The introduction of electrical power will not do away with the necessity of tunnelling in some of the grades in the mountains. We have already let contracts for some of the work. Of course many of the grades will also be cut down each year."

"Dhat is the outlook for farm labor in the west this year?"

"Well; it is rather early in the season to consider that matter. However, I don't consider there will be any great difficulty this year. We have always got the labor when it was needed. The usual cheap labor excursions will be run from the east this year."

In conclusion sir Thomas said his present trip west was to go over a great deal of business with Mr. Whyte, which would have entailed a tremendous amount of correspondence. They had been discussing the reduction of grades, the general improvement of the road and the securing of needed locomotives and rolling stock. He considered that they would be able to get all the rolling stock and locomotives that was necessary.

Sir Thomas left this afternoon for Minneapolis where he will meet the directors of the Soo line. He then goes to Duluth and over the South Shore line, and back to Montreal over his own road. He expects to be in Montreal again on Sunday.

It is understood that the new tri-weekly transcontinental service which the C.P.R. is putting on, to start on July 2, will be named the Trans-Canada Limited. There was considerable difficulty experienced in securing the name, which was finally inspired in Montreal. There will be no mail and no express cars carried on these trains.

C. P. R. IMPROVEMENTS.

Extensive and Costly Changes to be Made on Vancouver Water Front.

(Special to The Daily News)

Vancouver, June 19.—The World tonight issues a lengthy statement declaring that the C. P. R. is contemplating removing its local station to the east end of the city where it will hereafter locate its freight and passenger terminals. The present depot yards to be devoted to original shipments, the station being used for general offices. The plan is said to include the cancellation of numerous leases on the water front and the filling in and constructing of expensive yards there. It is declared that several lessees have already been served with notice to vacate.

Efforts of your correspondent to confirm these reports this evening were unavailing owing to inability to reach head officials. Men in touch with railway affairs, however, declare that extensive alteration of the C. P. R. water front in the near future, is certain.

William Halliday, whom the police believe to hale from the upper country, this morning, while in a fit of delerium tremens, jumped from the fourth story window of his hotel, breaking through the transom of the kitchen on the ground floor. He died this afternoon in the police station.

ORANGE GRAND LODGE

Annual Session Now in Progress at Vancouver

(Special to The Daily News)

Vancouver, June 19—The annual sessison of the sovereign grand Orange lodge opened in this city this afternoon, with an address of welcome by mayor Bethune. A private session followed and tonight an open meeting was held, addressed by E. T. Essery of London, grand master Sproule, grand chaplain, Walsh, C. Hoken, editor of the Orange Sentinel, Sam Hughes and H. J. Scott.

The reports of officials show that last year was prosperous in membership gains and that the treasury is now in better shape than ever. The Black Preceptory held its session in advance. Grand lodge reports show 12 preceptories instituted this year. J. F. Harper, Hamilton, elected grand master. B. C. Men elected are as follows: J. J. Tulk, Vancouver, associate deputy grand grand master; H. G. Taylor, Vancouver, deputy grand treasurer; D. Gibbard, provincial lecturer; D. C. McLaren, Kamloops, grand censor; W. E. Dunlop, New Westminster, deputy grand censor; J. Wallace, vice-standard bearer; W. H. Dunmore, Vancouver, grand pursuivant.

SLOCAN TRAIN SERVICE

NEW DENVER AND SILVERTON GO ON RECORD AGAIN.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATION TO BE MADE TO VICE-PRESIDENT WHYTE

(Special to The Daily News)

New Denver, June 19.—A mass meeting of the citizens of New Denver and Silverton was held in Hunter's office, Silverton, yesterday afternoon. It was resolved to appeal to vice-president Whyte of the C. P. R. to have our daily service restored and a committee was appointed consisting of William Hunter, William Brandon and J. J. Atherton to be assisted by the secretary to draft resolutions to that effect.

The committee went into the question very thoroughly for representations to Mr. Whyte and has endeavored to show him the great injustice that the country is suffering. The company claims that the reason for the tri-weekly service is the small amount of business offering when as a matter of fact their yards are filled up from one end of the line to the other and the boat though hauling one, sometimes two barges, cannot keep the line clear and there is a rumor that the tug is to be put on to assist. The fact is the company has too much work, not too little. Even the tri-weekly service we are getting is the rnkest kind of a farce. A boat due here at 7:20 arrives at 9 o'clock and on the last trip the boat bringing the Nelson mail arrived at 9 o'clock instead of 3:30.

Of course our citizens are expected to be charmed with this up to date service and no doubt they might be were this the 17th instead of the 20th century.

It increases our pleasure also to realize that the N. & S. railway line was built by the people for the assistance of the Slocan and but for it the C. P. R. would have been completely blocked last winter and many winters previously.

If Mr. Whyte gives no satisfaction it is the intention of the people to take the matter before the railway commission.

SHORTAGE OF ORE CARS

RETARDS SHIPPING OPERATIONS OF LARGE MINES.

C. P. R. BACKWARD IN PROVIDING NEEDED ROLLING STOCK.

(Special to The Daily News)

Phoenix, June 19.—Another shortage of ore dumps is now on in the Boundary, and it is needless to state that it does not facilitate the shipping operations for the several large mines, to any extent. Some months since the C. P. R. when there was crying need for more rolling stock to handle the business then offering put in use some 80 Hart convertible dumps, that had been used in other parts for ballasting operations, the cars having been so arranged that they could be used for ore purposes at some of the mines. This helped things for the time being not a little. Recently, however, these Hart cars have been taken away to other parts of the system, and a few new 40 ton steel dump cars have come in, but not enough to make up the difference, with the result that all the mines feel the shortage. More than a year ago, probably nearer two years ago, the managers of the large shippers here notified the C. P. R. of the probable needs in the future, specifying th eincreased tonnage expectd for sniipping purposes. Notwithstanding this, there are hardly any more ore dumps in commission here now than then. On its own part, the C. P. R. says orders have been placed for more ore dumps, but they are dependent on the manufacturers for delivery.

If it were not for the Great Northern, which serves the largest shipper—the Granby Consolidated—there would be a most serious congestion on account of lac of ore cars. As it is, even with a larger output now ready to be handled, it will be difficult to get it out and to the smelters unless the C. P. R. shows more enterprise and energy in the future than in the past in supplying the necessary rolling stock in this district.

JUDGE GODDARD TELLS OF FINDING BOMB

Dug it up Out of His Garden After Being Advised by Detective McParland--Wrangle Over Admission of Miners' Magazine Articles---More Interesting Correspondence Submitted by the State---Partner of Counsel for Defense Gave Orchard a Good Character.

(Special to The Daily News)

Boise, Idaho, June 19.—The entire morning session of the court was consumed in hearing argument on the admisibility of the articles from the Miners' Magazine. At the opening of the afternoon session judge Wood said he would admit some of them, but he reserved his decision as a whole until he could have time to examine all the articles offered.

Mrs. Sourad, who kept the house in San Francisco in which Orchard roomed when, as he claimed, he was planning to murder F. W. Bradley, was on the stand during the day and corroborated the statement of Orchard and especially that in which he said he had left his device for testing the pull on the cork of the bottle of acid, exposed in his room.

Justice L. M. Goddard of the Colorado supreme court was on the stand in the afternoon and narrated the story of the finding of the bomb planted at his gate. The bomb was dug up a short time before the arrest of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone. The information of its existence came through McPartland, having been told by Orchard in his confession.

Richardson presented the argument for the defense against the admission of the magazine articles as evidence. He maintained that the articles offered by the state failed to show that the defendant had through these articles contributed any thing that might lead to the murder of governor Steunenberg. He admitted that some of the articles were intemperate in tone, but said that they were nothing more than ordinary newspaper abuse. Mr. Richardson quoted from the record of the case, "The people vs. Spies," and the ruling as to the admission of newspaper articles. In the case of the Miners' Magazine, he said, the articles didn't compare in tone with the violence of the articles admitted as evidence in the Spies case.

Richardson read at length from the evidence in the Spies case the letters from Herr Most to Spies and other violent matter published at the time. Throughout these letters and other matter the introduction of force, dynamite, murder and violence and revolution were recommended. Mr. Richardson pointed out that the letters were printed in anarchistic newspapers, published by the defendants in the famous anarchist trial in Chicago, resulting in convictions and executions. Continuing his argument Mr. Richardson said that in no one of the articles in the Miners' Magizine was there direct or implied connection with the murder of governor Steunenberg. He admitted Haywood's prejudice against Steunenberg because of his course in Idaho, but, "tens of thousands and hundreds of thousands of people in the country condemned or approved the course adopted by Steunenberg," and that those who condemned should not for that reason be held responsible for the governor's murder.

Senator Borah argued for the state that the magazine articles should be admitted because they showed the enmity of an organization of which the defendant, Haywood, and the other defendants, were officers.

He pointed out that the state did not offer the articles as evidence, relying on them to prove the charge of murder, but in order to help the jury in determining among all the circumstances what was the animus of the Western Federation of Miners, of which Haywood is the secretary, and the Miners' Magizine the official organ. Senator Borah without quoting from the articles, said that these articles did advocate force and that they advised the members of the organization to arm themselves with rifles. He maintained that if the evidence of newspaper articles was admitted in the Spies case, the evidence of articles in the Miners' Magazine should be admitted, because in both cases, in the present case not less than in the case tried twenty years ago, it was shown violence was advocated.

After judge Wood had temporarily disposed of the magazine articles, John L. Stearns, general agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, Denver, was called. He was the man who made a contract appointing Orchard under the name of Thomas Hogan as life insurance agent.

Stearns said that the contract with Hogan was made in April, 1905. He met Hogan in the company's office in Denver.

He applied for the position of agent and he told him he must furnish references. He furnished references from Harry Cohen, George A. Pettibone, J. C. Sullivan and Horace N. Hawkins. Witness wrote to each of these asking information respecting Thomas Hogan, and the answers received were identified and admitted in evidence. Mr. Hawkins is the law partner of E. F. Richardson, counsel for the defense, and this reply created both sensation and amusement, Richardson himself being obliged to smile at the good character given by his partner to Harry Orchard. The Hawkins letter follows:

"RICHARDSON & HAWKINS.

"Denver, Colorado, April 8, 1905.

"John L. Stearns, manager Mutual Life Insurance Company, Denver: Dear sir.—With reference to Thomas Hogan, will say that I have known him for a considerable period of time and esteem him in every way as a man of integrity. His habits, so far as I have had occasion to observe, are of the best and in general, I know of nothing whatever detrimental to his character and am glad to recommend him for the position. Yours truly,

"HORACE N. HAWKINS."

Pettibone's answer caused a ripple of laughter in the court room.

The letter follows:

"John L. Stearns, city: Dear sir.—In reply to your letter of 7th in relation to Thomas Hogan. Yes, I am acquainted with him and I am also getting acquainted with you. If any more agents apply to you for positions you would do me a favor by showing them the nearest way to the side walk as I can use all these fellows very handy myself. Yours truly,

"G. A. PETTIBONE."

Richardson moved to strike out all this testimony. Overruled.

Mrs. A. E. Soward of Berkley, California, was next called.

In the fall of 1904 she lived in San Francisco four doors above the Luttford flats where Fred W. Bradley resided. She remembered a man by the name of Barrie who applied for and hired a room at her house in October.

"He remained at my house five or six weeks, I have seen him here in the court room and he is the same man known here as Harry Orchard. I had a little flat and he had a small outside room in about the middle of the flat." I found shavings of lead and wood in his room—in the center of the room. There were also shavings of wood wrapped in a newspaper in the closet."

She said she found some suspicious bottles in the bureau drawers. She told of finding a cork fastened to a screw-eye in the closet door, it was a sort of fish line and attached to it was a cork.

"How about his suit case?"

"I noticed that it was very heavy."

"Did you know of an explosion at the Bradley house?"

"Yes."

The witness said she found the things in his room a day or two before the explosion.

"When did he leave your house?"

"The morning of the explosion."

"When did he settle with you for his room?"

"The night before."

The witness said on cross examination that she was induced to come to Boise by a Pinkerton detective by the name of Wilson. Another detective by the name of Reeves also called on her. She said Wilson had probably called a dozen times and Reeves called about three times.

"Then you had about fifteen calls from Pinkertons before you finally consented to come?"

She testified that she had only received $30 before starting for Boise and her railroad fare.

Reily Harris, of Greely, Colorado, a plumber, was next called.

In 1905 he was located across from Pettibone's store in Denver.

He worked for Mr. Roach. Harris testified that he was in the plumbing shop when the lead casing which Orchard ordered was made. He was in the shop when the casing was made. He said he delivered the casing to Orchard at the Pettibone store in May, 1905, and collected $10.50 for it.

A motion to strike this out was over ruled.

Judge Luther M. Goddard then took the stand. He said that both he and judge Gabbert were on the supreme bench in 1904.

"I will ask you if you were present at the recovering of a bomb at your gate a year ago last spring?"

After objection by the defense had been overruled, the witness answered "yes."

Judge Goddard then told the story of the uncovering of the bomb.

"On February 14, 1906, I noticed for the first time a screw eye in the bottom of the gate. I spoke of the matter to general Wells, who was at my house. He examined it and found a depression in the ground near the gate. He dug down and recovered a rough box, about 18 inches long. The top of the box was about three inches below the level of the ground. There was burlap above the box. We found a rusted wire attached to a cork partly drawn from a tilted vial in the bottom of which was a brownish sediment.

Judge Goddard told of how the box was removed, placed in a grip and taken by himself and Bulkey Wells to the office of detective McParland here. He said the box was wrapped up and the package sealed. He told about how the vial and other small parts were wrapped up, sealed and marked for indentification.

Mr. Borah handed the judge a sealed envelope, the witness identified his signature to this envelope. He was asked to tear open the envelope. He did so and took thereform a small vial which he identified as the one found buried near his gate with the bomb.

The vial was offered in evidence. Another sealed envelope bearing the judge's signature contained the screw eye taken from the gate post, another held a dozen giant caps taken from the bomb, and another the wrapper found enclosing the powder. These were all identified and admitted in evidence.

Judge Goddard said there were forty sticks altogether in the bomb, 37 full sticks and three sticks with the ends cut off to make room for the giant caps and the vial.

"In the summer of 1906 the box containing the powder was taken a mile and a half or so out of Denver. The giant powder sticks were taken out and were exploded all but three sticks."

Mr. Darrow conducted the cross examination, apparently aiming to learn whether some one might not have placed the bomb shortly before the judge found it for the purpose of its being found.

Court then adjourned.

TWELVE BLAST FURNACES

NOW REDUCING ORES OF BOUNDARY MINES.

TWO ADDITIONAL FURNACES BLOWN IN THIS WEEK.

(Special to The Daily News)

Phoenix, June 19.—This week two more blast furnaces have been placed in commission at Boundary smelting plants—one each at Grand Forks and Greenwood, with another soon to be placed in blast at Boundary Falls. There are now twelve blast furnaces at work reducing the ores of the Boundary district mines, the maximum of the three reduction plants being 14 blast furnaces Last Week the district output ran about 4000 tons of ore daily, and from now on it should be over 5000 tons per day.

With the placing of another furnace in commission at the B. C Copper company's plant at Greenwood, is marked the first time that this new smelter has had all its furnaces in operation at the same time. In the past, for one reason or another, fuel troubles, car shortage, etc., it has not been possible to run all three furnaces at once. In the future, however, it is anticipated that the entire batterp will be smelting ore most of the time, reducing from 1500 to 2000 tons each 24 hours, on an average. With the Granby having seven furnaces in blast and another to go as soon as may be, and the Dominion Copper company's plant at Boundary Falls soon to have its third furnace running, the entire 14 furnaces in the Boundary smelters will be in commission, reducing it is expected, some 6000 tons of ore daily, or upwards of 175,000 tons per month.

HEAD TAX INSUFFICIENT.

Ottawa, June 19.—Last month 66 Chinese entered Canada by way of Vancouver, paying $500 each, or a total of $33,000 ,to become residents of the dominion. In addition to these, 45 Chinese who are exempt from the charge, being merchants or returning Chinese, entered, making the total number of arrivals 111.

Two or three session ago parliament raised the Chinese tax from $100 to $500, and for a year afterwards there were very few arrivals from China.

CONDITIONS IN COBALT

INACTIVITY IN STOCKS NOT AFFECTING MINING OPERATIONS.

NON - PRODUCTIVE COMPANIES' SHARES DOOMED.

Cobalt, Ontario, June 19.—Cobalt seems unaffected by the general inactivity recently prevalent in the stock markets of the United States and Canada; indeed, it is only among the broker and speculative elements that one hears of the various Cobalt stocks. The brokers and speculators enjoyed such high revelry of fortune last fall and winter that their present discontent is partially natural. They are not now really pessimistic, and they seem to share the confidence of the community that the mines here will make an excellent showing, regardless of any fluctuations of prices the stock tickers may register in the near future. During the summer last year the camp was occasionally very reasonably enthused over some wonderful outcrops then exposed. The Jacobs strike last summer enthused the camp but did not in the least tend at the time to bull other local stocks. The same was true of a number of rich strikes made on the Nipissing and other properties during the spring and summer. The only effect was to steady or increase a little the prices of the shares of the particular mines making the rich discoveries.

During a short period of last summer Nipissing was actually declinging, while newly discovered veins were there being exposed. At that time the camp was not well known to the investing and speculative public, and but few were then buying Cobalt shares, compared with the host that bought Cobalt shares in the fall. There are now so many investors and speculators observing this field that it is less probable that great strikes will happen during the present summer without accompanying buying orders in sufficient quantity to improve the market.

Some of these Cobalt shares are doomed; they are bound to disappear from the active list because they are issued by companies whose ground is either barren or not productive in the light of smelter prices for everything in the ore except silver. In estmating the present immediate value of a vein here it is only fair to the investor that he should substantially ignore the amount of cobalt, nickel or any other metal than silver shown by the assays. If a mine here fails to pay on its silver production alone it will not pay at all, as a general rule. There is hope in the camp that new smelting enterprises at Toronto Lake and elsewhere may improve the situation and give the ore producers fair prices for other metals as well as silver. Just what relief may come through such new metallurgical enterprises remains to be seen. Some of the old mines will undoubtedly continue to ship their ore to the old smelters plants of Ontario and New Jersey. The old smelters will probably make all necessary concessions to hold some customers. Ontario has frequently shown by its establishment of numerous public utilities more partiality for the policy of public ownership and operation than has ever been manifested in the United States. If the government concludes at any future time that the exactions of the smelters are too oppressive and thereby discouraging to the development of the mineral lands, legislation granting aid to new smelting enterprises within the province for the purpose of insuring such competition as will enable the mines to make a fairly good profit on fairly good ores. The elasticity of the Canadian provincial constitutional system for the control of public agencies would enable this province to own and operate what it cannot control much more quickly than it would be possible for the average American state with its rigid constitutional prohibitions against state aid to private coroporations or the establishment of such enterprises as a smelter by the state.

DISASTROUS BUSH FIRES

BUILDING OF NATIONAL TRANSCONTINENTAL DELAYED.

SUPPLIES AND EQIPMENT OF CONTRACTORS BURNED.

Winnipeg, June 19.—Reports rom the district between Kenora and Fort William, which reached here today, indicate that bush fires are raging with unimpaired vigor and great damage has been done. One contractor for building a section of the national transcontinental from Winnipeg to Superior junction received word that one storehouse north of Vermillion has been destroyed, entailing a loss of $30,00 in supplies and equipment. This is only one of several similar storehouses damaged to late and a number of others are in danger.

J. D. McArthur, Winnipeg, wired today to see whether any stock in his construction camps has been injured, but has not yet been able to get a reply. A number of small lakes which dot the country along the new line are proving of great assistance in fire fighting. The wind has held every day for several days past in one direction and the fire has made rapid progress. With a change of direction the work of fire fighting will be easier. McArthur states that during the past winter he hauled over a million dollars worth of supplies to storehouses now in danger. These include four hundred thousand dollars worth of dynamite, the largest order ever placed by one contractor. Should the fire get to these storehouses the result will be disastrous as there are no summer trails through a large part of the country by which they could be replaced. The line from Superior junction to Fort William is also in danger of destruction. Much of the embankment has been constructed of muck form the muskegs through which it runs and this will burn readily. These sections are being carefully watched, as their destruction would setback the work for several months.

Sault Ste. Marie, June 19.—More serious reports come from the woods today regarding the forest fires. Although rain fell last night the fires were not checked. It is reported from Webbwood that three men were burned to death near there. Many miles of forest along the Algoma Central have been burned, and the flames seem to be increasing in spite of the light rains. Thousands of dollars worth of timber have been destroyed in the Georgian bay district also and many operators have lost all their supplies. Destructive fires are burning on the Michigan side. Unless heavy rain falls at once the fires may burn for days.

MUTINY AT KIEV

Details of Serious Uprising Which Have Escaped Censor's Pencil.

Military Disturbances Have Broken Out in Other Parts of Russia and Labor Troubles Add to Chaotic Conditions.

St. Petersburg, June 19—Details of the mutiny of sappers at Kiev shows that it was only suppressed after a bloody engagement at midnight June 18, between the mutineers and the local troops. About 70 men were killed or wounded.

Kiev is one of the cities where revolutionary ideas have made the greatest inroads upon the army and the revolutionary military organization is most powerful, counting among its members dozens of officers. The mutiny was planned to coincide with a political strike as a reply to the dissolution of the douma, involving the railroads, telegraphs and mails.

In several of the southern provinces arrangements for the strike had been making for months under the leadership of an experienced organizer, M. Leskotj, who was a member of the first parliament. The decision of the revolutionary staff here to refrain from demonstrations was disobeyed by the hot headed sappers. At midnight on June 17, five hundred men at a given signal left their beds, disarmed the sentries, hurriedly dressed, obtained possession of their rifles and broke into the armory, securing a number of load cartridges and then marched to the camp square where they fired a volley in the air. The officer in charge, Capt. Akuloff, ran out and addressed the mutineers, persuading them to disperse; he then called out another battalion, drew up the men and led a charge on the mutineers ordering them to surrender. Upon their refusing to do so Capt. Akuloff ordered the troops to fire and fell dead himself at the first volley.

The fighting continued for several minutes, half a dozen soldiers were killed and about 60 wounded. Finally the mutineers, who had no officers, no leaders and no plans, wavered and fled. Two hundred and fifty were captured, but 193 eluded pursuers and hid in the city.

The mutiny at Kiev was arranged by Shefohenko, a revolutionist of good family, who entered the army as a volunteer for the purpose of undermining discipline and won over many of his comrades, but when he raised the standard of revolt they were frightened and the little band of ringleaders were overpowered. Three bombs were found in Shefohenko's tent. All the mutineers will be tried by court martial.

The workmen employed in a big factory at Kiev struck after the mutiny but they have not yet been joined by employees of other factories. General Sukhmminoff, the commander of Kiev, is taking the most energetic measures to arrest the fugitives and the leaders of the movement. Hundreds of houses have been searched and 93 citizens have been arrested, among them being officials of the railways and telegraph service and the editors of newspapers. Numerous other arrests were made in Kiev and a number of bombs were found but order is now restored. The city is in the hands of the military.

The Novoe Vremya demands that the government use the iron hand in dealing with such mutinies and mete out immediate and impressive punishment. It attributes the sedition in the army first to the corruption of the soldiers in the Japanese prisons, second to the presence of Jews in the army and third to the leniency hitherto shown by the military authorities. But the paper claims the propaganda has made but slight progress.

Military troubles have also broken out among the troops of the third infantry division, stationed at Kaluga. General Orloff, the suppressor of the insurrection in the Baltic provinces and regarded as one of the most energetic officers in the Russian service, left St. Petersburg hurriedly last night after the receipt of a cipher telegram to take charge of the garrison at Kaluga. No information is available as to the nture of the trouble; a strict censorship is in force. All incoming press despatches of the Associated Press from Kiev detailing the mutiny there were turned over to the censor and held up for from 12 to 24 hours before they were delivered.

The workers of Moscow are also becoming restless and the commandant of that city has brought up companies of infantry into the place to overawe the men. Several big meetings of workmen in the Moscow suburbs have been broken up.

Wholesale arrests and perquisitions continue in St. Petersburg. The preparation of the registration lists for the election of the new parliament have already begun.

EMBARRASSMENTS OF PROSPERITY

Frederic Nicholls, the president and general manager of the Electrical Development company of Ontario, and one of the leaders in the largest and most successful financial undertakings in Canada, is visiting London. Because of his standing in Canadian finance and his intimate acquaintance with the industrial growth of the dominion, he was interviewed by a representative of the London Financier.

And how fares the dominion now? he was asked.

"At the present time," said Mr. Nicholls, "Canada is suffering from over-prosperity."

"That," remarked the interviewer, "is not exactly a distressing malady. One almost wishes the complaint were catching—that it might become epidemic."

"I mean," Mr. Nicholls continued, "that the growth of the country's material prosperity has been so rapid and so great that the existing organizations are scarcely able to keep pace with the national progress. Let me give an illustration. It is an homely one, but when the train of thought it suggests is followed up it has impressive significance. Already this year about 150,000 immigrants have entered Canada. Is the economic import of that influx to a young country quite understood? Assume that each of these immigrants requires two pairs of boots each year, Canadian manufacturers in that department of industry will have to provide 300,000 more pairs than hitherto—irrespective of the population's natural growth. Last year we had 200,000 immigrants, representing, for the purpose of my illustration, 400,000 pairs of boots and shoes. Thus, in less than two years the influx of newcomers to Canada means that the output of our boot and shoe manufacturers must increase by 700,000 pairs—superadded to the growing requirement of the population's natural increase.

"Boots, of course, are but an item of the settler's needs. Even in the genial Canadian summer he wants something more than boots to complete his happiness and comfort. He wants clothes, a dwelling house, furniture, domestic supplies, and the reasonable luxuries of an up-to-date civilization. Thus, he is a new customer for many industries. Moreover, the aggregate requirements of the new-comers mean more business for the railway companies. Already we have travelled a long way on the immigrant's two pairs of boots, but we are not at the end of our journey till we have reached the banks. For the banks have to provide the money that is needed to cope with the increased demands of immigration on the existing industrial and transport resources of Canada.

"So greatly have the demands of merchants and manufacturers grown by reason of the country's rapid settlement and increasing prosperity that there has been little left for call-money. That mainly explains the recent artificial depreciation of market securities. But another factor also, to some extent, accounts for the seeming paradox. Owing to the exceptional winter Canada has experienced, the money lent on the growing crop last year has been tied up for an unusually long period, and that has accentuated an unprecedented demand for capital in the interests of industrial development.

"Now you see the point of my remark when I said that Canada was suffering from a plethora of prosperity."

"But that," said the interviewer, "is in the last degree unlikely to stall off the British investor. In the existence of the pleasing stress you speak of he sees his opportunity."

"Canada at the present time," said Mr. Nicholls, "offers the investor the best opportunity in the world to come in for his own advantage. It is no chimerical chance that Canada offers. The country is young, vigorous, expansive and wonderfully rich in natural resources. Capital invested in companies that are meeting the rapidly growing demands of the dominion is bound, therefore, to secure a satisfactory return."

Commenting on the latest phase of the better terms question, the Vancouver News-Advertiser, conservative, says: "If the provincial interests are to be served in the most effective way, the question must be dealt with as one entirely outside of party politics. It was so regarded in the provincial legislature, in the inter-provincial conference and in the dominion parliament. To be consistent in holding that view, conservatives must refrain from charging that sir Wilfrid Laurier has been the cause of the province's failure to obtain what it sought. If anyone can be held responsible it must be the inter-provincial conference which decided what the extra sum granted to British Columbia should be. It is not difficult to understand why the various provincial premiers were not willing to give more liberal recognition of our claims. They had to consider what would be the attitude of their respective legislatures and electorates on the subject. If the matter was referred to them at all, we do not see how sir Wilfrid Laurier could refuse to abide by their decision. From what passed in the dominion parliament, we must assume that Mr. Borden would have acted as sir Wilfrid Laurier has done, had he been in power. It cannot be wise, therefore, if we hope to succeed ultimately in our claim, to attack sir Wilfrid Laurier and throw the matter into the arena of party politics, or although we are opposed to his policy we think such a course is unfair to sir Wilfrid Laurier."

IN BISHOP'S HONOR

Entertainment at Fernie in Honor of Bishop Dontenwill
(Special to The Daily News)

Fernie, June 19—A most successful and pleasing entertainment was given in the opera house last night in honor of his lordship bishop Dontenwill and the esteem in which he and his local clergy are held in the district was evinced by the large audience that was present at the performance, the building being filled to the doors. W. R. Ross, M.P.P., opened the meeting with a few well chosen remarks to welcome and expressed the pleasure of the citizens of Fernie in tndering this reception to his lordship and expressed the hope that his visits would be more frequent in future and assured him of a hearty welcome on all occasions. The program, which consisted of two parts, was carried through without a hitch and reflected the greatest credit on Mrs. Berridge and her assistants who had worked unceasingly in training the children and securing talent for the event and their efforts were certainly crowned with success. At the close of the entertainment, the bishop, in his usual happy vein, thanked the people of Fernie for the hearty wlcome they had tendered him the pleasurable evening he had spnt and trusted that he would soon have the opportunity of again visiting this parish again. The concert closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

His lordship left for Cranbrook this morning.

SHAKESPEARE STYLE

To advertise or not to advertise; that is the question.
Whether 'tis wiser in a man to suffer
The wants and worries of an unprofitable business.
Or—to sling some ink into a telling ad.
And make things hum. To 'droop—to sleep—
Perchance to dream of dollars when the miller's bill
Just hangs fire and all the babies in the house
Are crying loud for frocks—when a few words
About the values of your wares would make your stores
The marts of all the people in this town and change
These antique-laden shelves into a silver stream
And boost your bank accounts. This surely is
A consummation devoutly to be wished for.
Then,
Let us advertise and keep on advertising.
To grunt and sweat under a dreary life
But that the dread of something not to eat
Makes us keep hustling. The lack of advertising Explains the weary routine of our days and the game
Of checkers in the back store. Let us shuffle off
Old fashioned methods and attune our ways
Like unto those of shrewd players of the game.
And enterprises of great pith and moment,
In this respect will no longer turn awry—but
Be what they were meant to be—a source
Of affluence for us and our posterity.
Then,
Let us start advertising and keep on advertising.

WOULD LIVE BY FRAUD

BURRELL'S BAD RECORD FOR PAST FEW MONTHS

SHOULD BE GIVEN AMPLE TIME TO REFORM

William Burrell, the man who will appear this morning before his honor the county court judge on two charges of obtaining money under false pretenses, has an unenviable record of late, has made himself a nuisance to the public and caused the police, local and provincial, end ess trouble. The pending charges against Burrell are in themselves of a not very serious character provided they were isolated instances and done whilst the man was under the influence of liquor, and also providing that otherwise the accused was a man of fairly good character. He is charged with cashing two checks on the local branch of the bank of Commerce, when as a fact he had no account with the bank of Commerce, or any other bank. Western people are proverbially easy going in the matter of cashing checks and as a rule their generosity in this respect is not often abused but Burrell, from his past record, is apparently determined to beat everyone in sight so long as he is left at large.

On June 22, 1906 he was convicted at Greenwood on obtaining money by false pretenses an dgiven 60 days in the Nelson jail by the then county court judge, now Mr. Justice Clement. On January 19 of this year he was again convicted of obtaining money under false pretenses at Arrowhead by justices of the peace Blyth and Donovan and sent to jail here for three months.

It is also charged against him that while working as a teamster here last year he was given $20 to pay over to a customer, that he "appropriated" half of the amount, paying the customer only $10, and later claiming that his shack had been broken into and the other $10 stolen. The police investigated the shack story and promptly told Burrell that he must have broken into his own shack. No prosecution followed.

Recently Burrell worked the check racket at Ainsworth and will face two charges for this today. While in Nelson he tried to induce the Office saloon people to cash a $4 check and also quarrelled with the proprietor of the Hume hotel because that astute individual declined to give him good money in exchange for one of his worthless checks. He also went to the Silver King hotel and put up a check for $72, getting $1 on it and spending the night in the house on credit. It is said he claimed this check lacked another signature, the man being out of town. The provincial police have this valuable document in their possession and the Silver King people are out a little on the transaction.

Whilst here Burrell boarded the S. F. and N. morning train and took a ticket to the mountain station where the conductor promptly fired him, but he found time during the short trip to bother Barney Archibald for money until Mr. Archibald put him out of the car. He engaged to work for Mr. Bell at Salmo, but disappeared and turned up at Beasley. Then he went to a store at Slocan Junction and ordered $100 worth of groceries from Mrs. Humphrey, saying he was buying them for surveyor Green's party. The goods were put up but before Burrell could send for them the police captured him at Castlegar.

Burrell appears to be just a petty thief, determined to get only small amounts by fraud at present. He has imitators. It would appear that it would be a kindness to the man to impress on him the error of his methods before he develops and goes into business on a larger scale. He should be given ample time to ponder over the situation, possibly he might reform and be a decent citizen.

MASTERSON LEAVING YMIR

Pioneer Resident Sells out to Pat Daly and Jim Bremner

(Special to The Daily News)

Ymir, June 19—J. W. Masterson of the Ymir hotel has sold his business to Patrick Daly and James B. Bremner, both of Ymir. Mr. Masterson, who is a pioneer of Ymir came here in 1897 and has always been closely related with Ymir's growth, during the time that he was in business he amassed a handsome competence and is now retiring from business. Mr. Masterson will probably make Spokane his home after July 15. The purchasers of the property are both widely known in this district and are bound to secure their share of the hotel business of Ymir.

Isabelle Reith of Waneta was married on June 12 to elder Robert Greaves. The ceremony was performed by an elder of the Seventh Day Adventist church at Walla Walla. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present. The bride is a well known young lady in this district having the honor of being the first teacher at Waneta.

The night service on the Nelson and Fort Sheppard railway is not as bad as was first painted. A person can go to Nelson on the freight and reach home at midnight which is away ahead of staying over at Nelson for a night. Passengers for Spokane can take the sleeper here and wake up in Spokane, doing away with the previous tiresome day journey. The car situation along the line is becoming desperate, cars are harder to secure than snow in August. Some of the shippers are contemplating placing the matter before the railway commission at Ottawa to see if a remedy cannot be found.

DO NOT NEGLECT THE CHILDREN

At this season of the year the first unnatural weakness of the child's bowels should have immediate attention. The best thing that can be given is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy followed by castor oil as directed with each bottle of the remedy. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

Kootenay Fruit Lands

Burton City and Fire Valley Fruit and Farm Lands are the best sellers now.

15 months ago I purchased from original locators about 5000 acres of Fruit Lands near Burton City. Since then I have been getting the titles and having them subdivided into 10, 15 and 20 acre blocks. One month ago I began to advertise them and have disposed of nine 15 acre blocks and twenty-one 20 ac. blocks, averaging more than one block per day.

The reasons why Burton City lands sell so readily are as follows:

1—The land has a good surface loam with a clay subsoil.

2—It is free from stones.

3—It is nearly level and has a gentle slope, none of it being more than 100 feet above the lake.

4—The public know I can furnish a good title at once.

5—They know I have had a wide experience in fruit lands and am prepared to prove any statements mentioned here.

6—Because I am a practical fruit grower, having over 2500 fruit trees on my home farm, and buyers get the benefit of my experience.

7—I am also prepared to clear land, plant it and care for it until such time as my customers are prepared to take it over.

ABUNDANT FRUIT LANDS

SETTLEMENT AROUND CASTLEGAR—HOTEL TO BE BUILT

DOG CREEK SETTLEMENT A FAVORED LOCALITY

The conditions of fruit raising are widely differing in the Kootenay and the Okanagan. There grass land, cleared by nature, can be purchased. Steep slopes are rare, stones are infrequent. Cultivation is in consequence an easy matter. Clearing has not to be encountered. On the other hand the soil is mostly clay and there is so little rain once the summer starts that irrigation is a necessity. The famous Coldstream ranch, near Vernon, is building an irrigation ditch several miles long, 14 feet wide and five feet in depth, to help out its fruit trees. Early summer frosts have also to be reckoned with while settlers along the valleys, the Shuswap and Spillumacheen valleys stretching for 50 miles southeast of Vernon, are shut in during the long and cold winters by the heavy snowfall.

In the Kootenay the main lakes and rivers are never frozen over and in consequence there is always accessibility. The valleys are short and nowhere more than a few miles from lake or rail transportation. Irrigation is not wanted although desirable in some years for garden produc. On the other hand clearing is often an arduous undertaking, costing from a few to $100 and $125 per acre. The slopes are often steep and the grave contains quite large boulders, presenting untoward difficulties in plowing between the rows of trees. But just as long as the slope is not too steep for the retention of the soil fruit can be grown which, as experience has shown, will bear away the palm from any fruit district in Canada and the height of that sloope above sea level may probably be very much greater than is just now generally credited. Two instances will illustrate this: A. Rossland at a height of close to 3000 feet above sea level, is a tenacre fruit ranch some seven or eight years old, which is yielding already a fair income to its owner. Within three miles of Nelson on the lake shore is an orchard of about the same age, planted on a rock bestrewn slope next to a stone quarry, which is returning to its proprietor a very good income each year.

It would be impossible in the necessarily confined limits of a newspaper article to describe anything like the whole of a highly interesting and potentially rich fruit country such as west Kootenay and in the following paragraphs attention has only been given to that country which lies between Nelson and Vernon, particularly along the lower Arrow lake and Fire valley. Leaving Nelson bound westward on that is destined before long to become the main line of the C.P.R. to the coast, the traveller is taken down 30 miles along the outlet to the west arm of Kootenay lake, the Kootenay river, to its confluence with the Columbia. This country is rapidly being settled up along its entire length and apples and pears, cherries and plums, are taking the place of tamarack and pine, alder and beech. At Robson is reached Arrow lake, at its southern end, the natural gateway to the whole of the country above. At Robson, Castlegar junction, trains meet for Nelson, Rossland and the boundary, while a steamer service runs 90 miles up Arrow lakes to Arrowhead. The lake, of a varying width of from one to three miles, here runs for a distance of about 20 miles east and west.

At the very entrance of this beautiful country are some splendid fruit lands. These lie on either side of the entrance to the lake, contiguous to both east and West Robson. The lie of the country here is in a good many respects alike to Nelson. In both cases the country opens directly to the south and in both cases the valley turns abruptly to the west and east. Hence the south winds are deflected up the Kootenay river on the one hand and up the Arrow lakes on the other.

Round Castlegar there are quite a number of settlers and being an important junction there are quite a number of through travellers. Hence an hotel is projected to be built at an early date. This is the more imperative inasmuch as quite a colony is growing up on the northern bank where there stretches some two or three miles of low land from a quarter to a half mile back to the first bench which rises above some 200 to 300 feet. This bench is also quite extensive and is succeeded by a shorter bench of a considerably higher elevation running out to the westward, and running into the bench land up at Falls creek to the east.

So far 38 families have taken up locations along this country; all on the lake front, the holdings running from 9 to 22 acres. Parts of this is steep but having a southern exposure it is expected that peaches and grapes will be successfully grown on the steeper acclivities and the usual fruit on the lake land and benches. A good deal of clearing is being done and a combined school house and church is in course of erection, the first of its kind in this new country. Up Falls creek, bench land with the characteristic deep gravelly soil, extends back for several miles without running to heights which will preclude successful arboriculture. There is thus the nucleus already of a fairly large fruit growing community. While the land is more easily cleared on the northern side, yet on both sides there is sufficient commercial timber to justify the existence of a sawmill at Westley, about 2 1-2 miles above West Robson on the southern shore of the lake. Below this point along the Columbia river and up the numerous valleys on either side, right down to the international boundary line at Waneta, 40 miles below, there is much available land not only on the river bank but terracing back into the high mountains on either side.

Continuing up the lake, after passing Westley, there is not much available land on either side, the mountains coming too abruptly into the lake. There are patches here and there along under the railway running over the Gold range westward into the Boundary country on the eventual coast route and also others on the other side, but there is no ground of any extent until Deer Park is reached, 15 miles away. Here there is a large extent of country, gently sloping into the interior and settlers have tagen up places here and there. On the opposite side, just where the lake turns north for its main stretch, lies the deserted town of Brooklyn, built in the days of the construction of the railway already referred to. This lies at the entrance of a broad and fertile valley which slopes back from the shore of the lake for several miles to the railway behind, leaving the lake at a point 1000 feet or more above it. Brooklyn townsite has been acquired by a company and a colony is to be introduced here this fall and next spring. Probably more than 1000 acres will be found tillable here and as about seven acres in fruit is all a man can well look after and then not if berries are also grown, there is room for a good sized settlement.

A few miles above, on the same side of the lake, the west, is Dog creek valley, which runs back for a considerable distance in a particularly well sheltered position, the north fork slopes fully exposed to the sun while tre south fork descends so gently with so little of an acclivity behind that the morning and the afternoon sun as well as its midday reach every field and orchard. Here is to be settled during the next month or so a colony of Mennonites from Manitoba and here will be grown in the sheltered position and against the sunny rocks grapes and peaches. The valley is of considerable extent, the largest on lower Arrow lake with the exception of Fire valley.

Passing up above Dog creek the mountains are again steep with often precipitous slopes. Here and there for the next 15 or 20 miles are terraces and lands along the shore but with the exception of upland pasturage, which can occasionally be found, there is no farming land of any size.

About 15 miles below the Narrows which separate Upper and Lower Arrow lakes, again kind is available for cultivation and eevnt at this early period in the opening of the Arrow lake to fruit cultivation there are settlers every mile or so on the west and east sides of the lake right up to the Narrows. Nearly opposite to the southern entrance of Fire valley is a considerable extent of country at the mouth of Long creek, on the east side of the lake. Indeed land can be found along the lake shore and on the benches above, right into Burton in the middle of the Narrows. This is also true of the country on the opposite side where low foothills divide the valley of the Inonocian, commonly known as Fire valley, from the valley of the Columbia.

To the east of the eastern slope of lower Arrow lake is piled up confusedly the Little Slocan. Here are mountains running up to 9000 feet in height, the Valhalla group, where are to be found glaciers innumerable, the mountains separated by deep gorges, the valleys roaring with uncounted falls, the whole one of the wildest spots in Kootenay, the home of the grizzly, the cinnamon and the black bear, while the white tail, the black tail and the mule deer abound, and the goat is to be shot by the practised hunter. The country is almost inaccessible, has never been thoroughly explored, even for mineral and terminates only in the valley of the Slocan nearly midway between the Arrow and Kootenay lakes.

The lake extends to nearly 100 miles above Fire Valley and as its conditions are as described it is understandable enough which the C.P.R. is reluctant to abandon this route from the coast in favor of the alternative Slocan country, realizing that a great country is now being opened and that there will be much freight available, much passenger traffic forthcoming in the days that are to come. On the other hand it is also as evident that no man should make a purchase of lands without seeing them for himself. For lake frontage may mean a gentle slope worth, even now $100 or more an acre, or it may mean a precipitous bluff on which even a goat would find it hard to maintain a foothold, surmounted, not by a bench or terrace but by a slope which, when bared of trees, would be washed clear of soil by the melting of the snows.

SUNSHINE FURNACE

BURNS COAL OR WOOD

The Sunshine is a good, "all round" furnace. Burns with equal facility, either coal or wood. Coke, too, if you prefer it.

And so perfect is the combustion of the Sunshine that it extracts every unit of heat from the fuel.

What's left in the ash-pan is not worth sifting.

Sunshine consumes less fuel, too. Because its perfect system of dampers prevent the escape of the hot air up the chimney—compels it to come out through the registers.

You pay for heating the inside—not the outside—of your house when you buy the Sunshine.

If your local dealer does not handle this most economical furnace write direct to us for FREE BOOKLET.

NELSON'S NEWS OF THE DAY

Recent development work has exposed unusually rich copper ore bodies at the Pingree on 49-Creek.

The annual examinations are now in progress at St. Joseph's school and among other prizes seven gold medals are being competed for.

Shoppers and citizens generally are reminded of the weekly business half holiday today and that the majority of the retail stores close at the noon hour for the rest of the day.

His lordship bishop Dontenwill of New Westminster will arrive in the city this evening from East Kootenay and will remain here until Tuesday next, being present at the services in the church of Mary Immaculate next Sunday.

There will be a parade of No. 2 Co. for drill at the armory tomorrow evening and in view of the approaching annual inspection, which will be held on the night of July 9 by Col. Holmes, the officer commanding the company desires a full turnout tomorrow evening.

The regular monthly meeting of the board of school trustees will be held at 9:30 this morning in the office of the secretary, Dr. E. C. Arthur. In view of the stand taken by the mayor and city council regarding the sale of the school debentures, it will be interesting to note how the trustees will handle the situation.

Captain Lorne Stewart, commanding No. 2 Co. R.M.R., yesterday received a wire from the deputy minister of militia stating that the department of justice were instructed on May 25 to convey the property selected for a rifle range at Nelson, to the crown. The wire further confirmed the matter and captain Stewart has no doubt but that the necessary documents will shortly be obtained. As already stated the range consists of some 85 acres on Cottonwood creek flats, secured by the department from the C.P.R. at a cost of $4000.

The pupils of St. Joseph's school are introducing into their concert in the opera house on the 26th, a new song, "Canada, Dear Homeland," also a great variety of new action songs, humorous choruses and dialogues. The young performers have already made a name for themselves and are sure to be greeted by a full house.

At the mining recorder's office on June 19, certificates of work were issued to Ovid Paulin on the Bonanza, Sunrise and Commodore, the two former to apply on the latter, and to S. L. Meyers for A. B. Cooper, on the Little Lucky, to apply on the Good Hope. John Scatey recorded the location of the Liquidator on Hidden Creek.

Yesterday afternoon Rev. J. T. Ferguson held a brief funeral service at the Standard Furniture company's undertaking parlors over the remains of the late Mrs. J. R. Campbell, who died at the home of R. S. Wright on Monday afternoon last. After the service the remains were placed on the C.P.R. evening express and left last night, accompanied by Mr. Campbell, for Tacoma, via Sumas Junction. The interment will take place at Tacoma.

W. B. Sherman, lessee of the local opera house, has purchased the Auditorium rink at Calgary and three adjoining lots. It is his intention to build an addition in at the back, 50x100 feet for dancing and it will also be used as a big stage for any large production. The auditorium part will be fitted up for roller skating and for any entertainment. It will seat about 2500 people. The transfer price, including lots, was $14,000 and Mr. Sherman says he will spend $8000 more in fitting the rink up. He also has a three years' lease on the Alberta rink for the summer months.

What is fairly claimed to be the finest rainbow trout ever caught in local waters was displayed in The Daily News office last night by its captor, E. Meyers, warehouseman for the Ashdown Hardware company. Mr. Meyer had A. Nunn of A. Macdonald and company's staff with him in the boat and was trolling off the C.P.R. dock just as darkness set in when the rainbow tackled the bait and after a hard fight, the big fish was safely landed. The fish weighed exactly eight pounds. Has it ever been beaten An expert declared last night that it was the biggest rainbow he had ever seen.

Two Indians appeared before the police magistrate yesterday charged with consumption of firewater. They were each fined $5 and costs. They were urged to confess how they obtained the liquor but with Indian stolidity, declined to say a word. The police are not of the opinion that any retailer of liquor is to blame, but rather that some conscienceless but hard up individual, who for a paltry consideration acted as a go between.

The provincial police would like sme information concerning the "Wagner Conservatory of Music," and also L. Schmidt and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bynes, who were recently quartered in the Griffin block, Baker street. It is alleged that these people advertised extensively offering to teach the mandolin, violin, etc., and incidentally the pupils were asked to purchase a mandolin, the instrument and the "lessons" to cost $25, less 10 per cent discount. There were quite a number who bit at this tempting offer but the "lessons" never came off. The conservatory is now closed and the proprietors' present address is unknown. As one victim put it yesterday: "It seems to me to have ben a pretty little scheme to sell $5 mandolins for $22.50."

H. L. Lindsay has a new boat on the stocks at his boathouse. She is a launch 35 feet over all and will be fitted with a 15-h.p. heavy duty Truscott engine. The boat is built on the Aruscott model and when launched will be a creditable acquisition to the local fleet.

Storekeepers are very specially requested by the decoration committee of the Dominion day celebration authorities, to make an extra effort at decorating this year. Flags are not expensive and bunting should be displayed freely on July 1 and 2.

The following have been elected to office for the ensuing term by the local Industrial Workers of the World: President A. Elliott; vice-president, H. Crosby; conductor, F. Hood; warden, P. McNaughton; recording secretary, E. Watson; financial secretary, H. H. Avery, jr.; treasurer, A. McDougal.

The funeral of the late James A. Kelley will take place from the family residence, Fairview, this afternoon at 2:30. Nelson lodge No. 23 A.F. and A.M. has charge of the arrangements. Members of the lodge and visiting brethren will assemble at the lodge room at 1:30 this afternoon and will take the 2:20 street car to Fairview. Rev. J. T. Ferguson will conduct a funeral service at the house.

The local lacrosse players are hard at practice every evening and the prospects for good, fast games on July 1 and 2 are getting better every day. Such old standbys as "Dud" Blackwood and Joe Thompson are to be seen on the field and with steady practice between now and the 1st, Canada's national game should hold its own as the banner attraction to all Nelson's celebration.

EVERY MAN HIS OWN DOCTOR

The average man cannot afford to employ a physician for every slight ailment or injury that may occur in his family, nor can he afford to neglect them, as so slight an injury as the scratch of a pin has been known to cause the loss of a limb. Hence every man must from necessity be his own doctor for this class of ailments, Success often depends upon prompt treatment, which can only be had when suitable medicines are kept at hand. Chamberlain's Remedies have been in the market for many years and enjoy a good reputation.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints.

Chamberlains Cough Remedy for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm, an antiseptic liniment for cuts, bruises, burns, sprains, swellings, lame back and rheumatic pains.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, for constipation, biliousness and stomach troubles.

Chamberlain's Salve for diseases of the skin.

One bottle of each of these five preparations costs but $1.25. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

ASCOT RACES

Ascot, June 19—King Edward and queen Alexandra again attended the race meeting here today riding to the course from Windsor in a motor car instead of in state procession as yesterday. The weather was fair. In the race for the visitors' handicap of 300 sovereigns for three years olds and upwards, a mile and a half, Banasa won first, Marlow second and Bookhampton's Pride third. Ten horses started.

The royal hunt cup, a piece of silver, valued at 300 sovereigns, with 1500 sovereigns added to a sweepstake of 20 sovereigns each for three year olds and upwards, of seven furlongs and 166 yards, was won by Lally; Andover second and Mafua third. Twenty four horses ran. The result was a surprise. The duke of Devonshire's Hillsprite was expected to win. Lally, owned by M. B. Purefoy and ridden by Hewlit, the Australian jockey, won by half a length. Three lengths separated second and third horses. The betting was 100 to 6 against Lally; 6 to 1 against Andover, and 21 to 1 against Mafua.

FUNERAL NOTICE

Members of Nelson lodge No. 23 A.F. and A.M., and visiting brethren are requested to assemble at the lodge room at 1:30 this afternoon for the purpose of attending the funeral of the late James A. Kelley. The 2:20 car wil be taken to Fairview.

NELSON'S NEWS OF THE DAY

Born, on Wednesday, June 19, to the wife of Fred Chapman of Fairview, a son.

C. A. Crosbie, Vancouver, inspector for the Royal bank, and Mrs. Crosbie, are at the Strathcona.

The hottest 12 hours of the season so far closed at midnight. The highest temperature was 85 and the lowest 50.

The 20,000 club's excursion to Procter tonight on the Kuskanook is the chief event set down for today's half holiday.

The S. F. and N. train from the south due here at 1:55 this morning, from some unaccountable cause did not arrive. It may reach here during today. The outbound train left on time at 12:30 a.m.

Any persons having articles suitable for the district exhibit to be made at Winnipeg and the other western fairs, are urged to promptly forward same to the members of the exhibit committee, viz., F. A. Starkey or J. M. Lay, or any real estate agent, or to the secretary of the 20,000 club.

John A. Turner left for Victoria last night. As already stated he has disposed of his former residence to Rev. F. H. Graham, who will take possession in September and has also sold the residence now occupied by George Johnstone, at the corner of Hall and Silica streets, to Mike Scully.

The Trail cricketers will be here for the Dominion day celebration. They will play the Nelson 11 on the afternoon of July 1 and on the morning of July 2. The Trail men handily defeated Rossland the other day and a really good match is looked for here. Vernon will come here at Fair time in place of next month and Nelson will play against Vernon at the Victoria cricket tournament in August.

City electrician Smith had his hands full yesterday fire fighting and doing his utmost to keep up thhe city plant's power line. A settler's clearing fire started about a mile down the Granite road yesterday caused all kinds of trouble and during the afternoon burned down the W. K. P. and L. company's line for some distance. The city plant promptly took over the Hall Mines smelter and kept that plant running until repairs could be made on the company's line. The city's line has been kept fairly clear of brush, but along the company's line brush heaps had been piled up and these caught fire. As only 50 feet separate the city's and the company's lines the heat from these burning brush heaps, set fire to the city's poles and for some hours last night it was only with difficulty that the city line was kept intact. Mr. Smith said that the wires were hanging very lightly on some half dozen poles around midnight, but by that time the company's repairs were nearly made and the difficulty was tided over. Settlers are very much wanted, but their clearing fires should be controlled so as not to put a whole city in darkness.

TONIGHT'S EXCURSION

PLEASANT SAIL TO PROCTER ON THE KUSKANOOK

CITY BAND AND ORCHESTRA TO BE IN ATTENDANCE

The present spell of warm weather should ensure the success of the 20,000 club's outing to Procter this evening on the palace steamer Kuskanook.

A trip up the arm to Procter in the cool of the evening and a dance at the Outlet hotel should offer a good inducement to Nelson's pleasure loving public.

The city band and orchestra have very kindly volunteered their services gratuitously for the occasion, so that good music going and returning as well as for the dance is assured.

The Kuskanook will leave the city wharf at 7:30 this evening and will leave Procter on the return trip at 11 o'clock.

The excursion is the first of a series organized to supply funds for the club's work in advertising the resources of the city and district and it is hoped that the public will heartily support the club's organized effort.

The committee has spared no pains in arranging this evening's outing and all the details have been well looked after.

Nelson people who enlarge to visitors on the great advantages to be obtained by living in a "lake" city should take in the trip tonight and note how rapidly the ranches are coming to the front along the Arm between the city and Procter.

MASTERSON LEAVING YMIR

Pioneer Resident Sells out to Pat Daly and Jim Bremner

Ymir, June 19—J. W. Masterson of the Ymir hotel has sold his business to Patrick Daly and James B. Bremner, both of Ymir. Mr. Masterson, who is a pioneer of Ymir came here in 1897 and has always been closely related with Ymir's growth, during the time that he was in business he amassed a handsome competence and is now retiring from business. Mr. Masterson will probably make Spokane his home after July 15. The purchasers of the property are both widely known in this district and are bound to secure their share of the hotel business of Ymir.

Isabelle Reith of Waneta was married on June 12 to elder Robert Greaves. The ceremony was performed by an elder of the Seventh Day Adventist church at Walla Walla. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present. The bride is a well known young lady in this district having the honor of being the first teacher at Waneta.

The night service on the Nelson and Fort Sheppard railway is not as bad as was first painted. A person can go to Nelson on the freight and reach home at midnight which is away ahead of staying over at Nelson for a night. Passengers for Spokane can take the sleeper here and wake up in Spokane, doing away with the previous tiresome day journey. The car situation along the line is becoming desperate, cars are harder to secure than snow in August. Some of the shippers are contemplating placing the matter before the railway commission at Ottawa to see if a remedy cannot be found.
