United States Fleet Welcomed at Auckland

ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION

PEOPLE OF NEW ZEALAND DO THEIR BEST TO RECEIVE THE VISITORS WITH ALL HONOURS WITHIN THEIR GIFT TO BESTOW.

AUCKLAND, Aug. 8 — Uncle Sam's mighty fleet of battleships is now approaching this port and will steam into the harbor tomorrow for a week's stay, which will be marked by a tremendous demonstration on the part of the officials and people of this British colony. In addition to the $15,000 apprpriated by the local authorities and $25,000 by the New Zealand government, civic bodies and individuals have added thousands to the entertainment fund. All of the decorations are completed and the people are now waiting, on tiptoe of excitement for the beginning of the festivities.

The only thing that may mar the stay of the United States fleet is the discontent of the socialists, who are very strong in New Zealand. They are threatening to hold a demonstration of the unemployed as a protest against the public expenditure incidental to the reception o fthe fleet. Some of the members of the legislature too, are complaining that the visit of the fleet may cause the colonists to place dependence upon the United States rather than on the mother country.

On the whole, however, the stay of the fleet promises to be a joyous occasion.

The British Australasian squadron will be represented during thestay of the American fleet by the Powerful, the Encounter and the Pioneer. The plan of the disposition of the ships has been agreed upon. There will be two lines of vessels in the harbor. The inner line which will reach from a point opposite the Calliope dock nearly to Northcote, will have the three American battleships on either side. The second line will consist of eight American vessels, situated between the longer line and the other side of the harbor.

All stores, houses and public buildings are decorated and numerous social affairs, at which officers will be guests, have been arranged. One of the social features will be a citizens' ball in one of the large public halls.

There is ample water and safe anchorage for the whole of the American fleet in Auckland harbor. In the four miles of water abreast the city, which is almost completely landlocked, there are four miles of deep water, and an anchorage from five fathoms upwards extends for the greater part, at least half a mile wide. Six of the largest vessels could be put in each mile, and with two lines of ships the four miles of water could accommodate some 50 vessels, with an average distance between each set. As none of the larger vessels draw more than 30 feet of water it will probably be found that the largest could be placed where it is proposed to anchor the smallest.

In compliance with the wishes of admiral Sperry the reception committee has decided that no alcoholic beverages would be provided for the use of the men at the various entertainments which are to be extended to them.

In a wireless message received here this morning admiral Sperry, commander in chief of the American fleet, requests that pilots join the four flagships of the fleet on their arrival at the harbor entrance on Sunday morning to facilitate the disposition of the ships at their anchorage.

Although a rifle match between teams of Americans and the dominion volunteers had been arranged as part of the week's entertainment, the ministry cannot allow an armed party to land from the American warships. The premier on being urged to modify the restrictions so that the match might be held, replied that the imperial law prevents the landing of an armed party, the regulations being very stringent.

The book which was printed by the government for presentation to the officers of the American battleship fleet, as a souvenir of their visit here, contains the following greeting, written by the prime minister, sir Joseph G. Ward:

"No visit of foreign warships was ever so welcome as yours today. In receiving the fleet, a sense of kinship stirs our hearts, for we feel that the greatest nation of the west has come to visit us, being the visible embodiment of its might, majesty and dominion. President Roosevelt in every act and word of his life work reflects and voices our national ethics and aspirations. The name 'Roosevelt' in New Zealand, stands for national righteousness and is cherished, honored and revered; the fleet stands for peace, justice and freedom. These are the thoughts and feelings that are stirring our hearts today."

AUKLAND, Aug. 9—Sunday—The American battleship fleet anchored here at 8:40 this morning.

Sixteen vessels, comprising the battleship division of the United States Atlantic fleet, under command of rear admiral Charles S. Sperry, arrived here at 8:40 a. m. today and anchored in columns in the roadstead abreast of the city after a voyage of 33 days from San Francisco, including a stop at Honolulu of six days.

When the warships entered the harbor the usual saluates were exchanged between them and the shore batteries and the Australian flagship Powerful and the cruisers Encounter and Pioneer. Shortly after anchoring admiral Sperry, accompanied by his staff, went ashore and paid his respects to lord Plunkett, the governor of New Zealand. The governor later returned the admiral's visit aboard the flagship Connecticut. Tomorrow will begin a week of ceremonies and festivities, for which the most elaborate preparations have been made, including the reception of the fleet on behalf of the government by the prime minister, the right honorable sir Joseph George Ward, the presentation of various addresses, parade, military reviews, banquets, excursions to near-by points of interest and horse racing and various other sports.

NEWS OF GATEWAY CITY

PREPARATIONS FOR REBUILDING BIG HOTEL

ITALIAN KNIFING CASE BROUGHT INTO COURT

(Special to The Daily News.)

GRAND FORKS, Aug. 8.—Collector of customs R. R. Gilpin has furnished the following report for this port for the month of July: Grand Forks, $2137.71; Phoenix, $1026.66; Carson, $74.47; Cascade, $73.72; making a total for the month of $3112.16.

A car from this city for the Fernie sufferers was made up in this city on Wednesday and Thursday and was sent on its mission. The car contained vegetables, groceries and clothing of all kinds for men, women and children. These articles, according to a message received here by mayor Fripp, was what was needed at the present time. A cash donation is now being taken up here, which will likely amount to $500 or $600, and will be forwarded as soon as the committee who has the matter in hand have canvassed the city.

A. Simpson has purchased the McKie property, situated across the river a short distance from this city. On the property is a six-room house, pump, tank, gasoline engine and complete irrigation plant. This piece of land adjoins that recently purchased by Mr. Simpson from Charles Brown and comprises three acres. It is the intention of Mr. Simpson to plant both places in fruit trees.

Martin Burrell has been appointed by the city council as delegate to the irrigation convention which meets at Vernon next week. Mr. Burrell left this morning for that point, and will likely be joined by F. M. Kerby, who has gone up through the Similkameen country.

On account of the fire this week destroying the Baptist church, the trustees of the Presbyterian church have very kindly placed their church building at the disposal of the Baptists during this month so that they may hold services as usual.

The dominion government at the last session having voted the sum of $5000 for the purchase of a post office site for this city, a petition is at present being circulated among the residents of the city asking that the location be at the corner of Winnipeg avenue and Bridge street. This would be a very good location for a post office and it is hoped that the government will see to it that this piece of property is immediately purchased. The petition has been endorsed by all the business men of the city, as well as a large number of the residents.

F. Hartinger, who was the owner of the Grand Forks hotel, which was destroyed by the fire here, has had plans drawn by D. Shannon, of this city, for a new structure, which it is proposed this time to build of brick with a stone foundation. The building will have a frontage of 66 feet and will be 56 feet in depth. The plans are now before the city board of works for approval, and n[illegible] ow on th[illegible] wo stories high and contain 32 rooms. The specifications call for iron fire escapes and at least one steel stairway will be constructed on the outside of the building of the building as an extra precaution in case of fire, it being Mr. Hartinger's intention to make the hotel as safe as possible, and no expense will be spared to do so. It is expected that the buildings will cost $10,000.

The case of the Italians who were accused of knifing Ed Harrison on Saturday night last has been up before magistrate Cochrane nearly all of this week. Many of the witnesses were foreigners and it was neeessary to have an interpreter. It appears, according to the evidence, that about 20 men were drinking beer at the brewery on the night of the trouble, when two of the Italians started to fight. Harrison endeavored to quiet things by taking one of them outside while the other one was detained inside. Harrison had only been out a few minutes when he returned to the brewery stating that he had been stabbed. One of the other men went out to find the one who had done the work but was unsuccessful, and in coming back found Harrison laying on the ground unconscious. He and two other men immediately carried Harrison to the doctor's office, fearing he was dying, he having two wounds in his head, one of which, however, did not amount to much, but which were bleeding freely. Lorenzzo, the man who was accused of the deed, was given six months by the magistrate, but was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

Messrs. Lannigan and McInnes, freight agent for the western division, and general freight agents respectively of the Canadian Pacific railway, came in with their private car on Thursday. While here they were interviewed by Martin Burrell and James Rooke, representnting the local fruit growers' association. Messrs. Burrell and Rooke asked the railway officials for a readjustment of the freight rates on produce leaving this valley, more especially the urgent need for an adjustment between here and Vancouver, so that the association here could close a contract for the shipment to Australia of 15 carloads. The officials promised the immediate adjustment of the Vancouver rates so as to allow them to close this contract, and also stated that the rates to other points would have their immediate attention. This will mean much to the fruit ranchers of this valley, as every year now is seeing the shipments from this point nearly double themselves over the previous year, and with the line of fruits which are grown in the Kettle valley and reasonable rates ranchers here have no need to fear competition from any where else. Messrs. Lannigan and McInnes went on through to Spokane from here, their car being put on the Great Northern express.

SAD TRAGEDY

Details of the Wreck of the Premier

CUT OFF BY RAGING FIRE

DREADFUL FATE OF SIX OF THE PASSENGERS AND TWO OF THE CREW WHO WERE BURNED TO DEATH—HEROIC BEHAVIOR OF THE CREW.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 8—The steamer Premier, Capt. Stevens of Selkirk, was burned to the water's edge at Warren's Landing, on lake Winnipeg, Thursday morning. Six of the passengers and two of the crew failed to make their escape and were burned to death. The docks, freezers and several buildings in the immediate vicinity were also burned. The fire started in the hold of the boat, near the engine room and gained such rapid headway that escape was cut off for many of those on board. The loss is roughly estimated at $54,000, only partially insured.

The dead are: Mrs. Antoine Couture, Selkirk; Walter Olsen, Gimli, Man.; Miss Mary Povah, Winnipeg; Elmer Jones, son of T. J. Jones, manager of th eDominion Fish company, Selkirk; Osler Overton, Selkirk; Leonard Fryer, Selkirk, all passengers; Gus Weil, St. Boniface, cook; Norman Smith, Selkirk, assistant cook.

The injured are Miss Messer, Norway House, burned on the arm; Miss Isbister, gack nijured by jumping overboard.

The Premier left Selkirk for the north on Monday at 11 p.m. with a crew and passenger list of 38. She reached Warren's Landing Wednesday evening and unloaded her cargo. Capt. Stevens then took on the return cargo, which included $[illegible]0,000 worth of furs. All was in readiness to sail Thursday morning. At 1 o'clock in the morning a fire broke out in the hold near the boilers and before an alarm could be sounded, had cut off escape by the main companionway.

There were about 35 sleeping on board and there were cut off before they had time to dress. A few got away by the gang plank, but others were forced to jump into the tug Irell alongside. Little is known as to how the victims of the tragedy met their deaths. It is supposed, however, that they were cut off in the cabin and were either burned to death or smothered before the flames reached them. Before the steamer could be cut adrift and shoved into the lake, the flames, driven by a heavy wind, caught the docks and in the absence of fire fighting apparatus, it was but a few minutes before the boat was completely destroyed. The trading post of the settlement was saevd and the tug Idelf had a narrow escape.

The first word of the tragedy reached Selkirk last night by the steamer Wolverine, which brought down the surviving passengers and crew of the burned steamer. Jones, Overton and Fryer were three boys, who were on a holiday trip, as was also Miss Povah of Winnipeg.

The Premier was the property of the Dominion Fish company of Selkirk, plying on lake Winnipeg between Selkirk and Warren' sLanding, which is at the extreme end of the lake.

The three little boys, Elmer Jones, Osler Overton and Leonard Fryer of Selkirk, hwo were lost, had been playing about the ship in the evening and had retired to their staterooms early. They were never seen again. Their staterooms were nearest to the funnel of the steamship, where the fire originated, and it is thought likely that they were suffocated before the fire was well started in other portions of the vessel.

Looting by the Indians, was one of the incidents following the catastrophe. The Indians, although every man's help was needed, fled to the woods at the first cry of fire, for the most part. Later, when the stock from the little store owned by th eFish company was freely placed at the disposal of the passengers who had lost everything, the Indians returned and corralled everything in sight.

The escape of Miss Isbister, a nurse of Selkirk, who was bringing two nieces home, was one of the most thrilling incidents. Miss Isbister was on the outside of the steamer, and in trying to assist her nieces, she was delayed in getting away. She finally rushed to the rail, only to find that the tug, which had taken off as many passengers as possible had been compelled to back away from the steamer's side to escape catching fire. Men on the tug called frantically to the woman to jump into the water and after some hesitation she climbed the rail and sprang out. Her foot slipped, however, and she struck the side of the boat. Rebounding, she again struck the rail of the tug and was picked up unconscious. Careful work on the part of the local physician, however, restored her and she will soon be well as ever.

Mrs. Messer, matron of the mission at Norway House, who also was one of the passengers, narrowly escaped as the result of her frantic attempts to save her clothing. She had to be removed from the stateroom, practically by main force and she was severely burned.

Among those who lost everything was a young missionary named McKersie, who was on his way to Toronto after having spent four years in the north. Mr. McKersie had all his clothes and money with him as he intended to take a course in medicine at Toronto to fit him for medical missionary work. He saved nothing but his coat.

The survivors are loud in their praise of the heroic work of the officers of the vessel and the crew. Capt. Stevens was the last person to leave the steamer, he having crawled out in the anchor chains to escape the flames. Those who passed through the disaster are thankful that the fire did not break out some hours later when the vessel was out on the lake.

The life boats were located in the immediate vicinity of the funnel and were among the first fixtures to be consumed.

HAD PERFECT CONTROL

Wright Made a Successful Flight of Over Two Miles

LEMANS, France, Aug. 8 — Wilbur Wright of Dayton, Ohio, made a flight variously computed at from 2 1-2 to 3 1-2 kilometers, with his areoplane this afternoon. The official time was 1 minute 46 seconds. Throughout the flight Mr. Wright had perfect control of the machine.

No attempt was made for a distance record, the only object of the flight being to try out the aeroplane. While flying through the air Wright demonstrated, or so it appears to the spectators, that he was absolute master of the airship. First soaring, then shooting downward, and then mounting again at will, until finally after completing two circles, he came down easily to earth. The performance was greeted with a burst of cheers from a small number of people invited to view the experiment. Wright was warmly congratulated by all the spectators including a few French aeronauts, two Russian army officers and a number of other experts, who styled it as a wonderful exhibition.

Weather conditions for the test were splendid. The sky was blue and without a cloud and a gentle nor[illegible]west breeze was blowing. The aeroplane was mounted on a small single wheeled chariot which ,in turn, was resting on a single rail on the ground. By means of a falling weight, rigged on a beam erected on the ground and connecting with cords running to it, the chariot was started running over the rail and the aeroplane thus having been given a forward movement, suddenly left the chariot and ascended like a bird to a height of about 40 feet, then swerved and turned on its course and sailed up the field. It dipped gracefully up and down, attaining a height of 60 feet and then coming down to between 30 and 40 feet.

Mr. Wright thus twice circled the field and then stopped the motor and brought the aeroplane directly in front of the improvised grand stand which was filled with wildly cheering spectators. The descent was sure and easy and was carried out with great nicety without causing a shock to either the machine or its operators. Afterwards Mr. Wright said to the Associated Press: "I am perfectly satisfied with my first flight. I made one or two little mistakes, but I am confident I will be able to do all I hoped for in later trials, probably next week."

ILLINOIS ELECTIONS

Results So Far Leave Matter Much in Doubt

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Returns from the smaller towns and county precincts in the primary elections in this state came in slowly after the polls closed. In the city of Chicago, Charles Deneen, the present governor, leads Richard Yates for the republican nomination for governor by about 4000.

James Hamilton Lewis was leading the democratic candidates for governor in this county by 10,000.

George Edmond Foss, the present representative in the tenth district, had from the return available at 10 o'clock a plurality of about 6000 votes in Cook county for the republican recommendation for United States senator over Albert J. Hopkins. The democratic party turned out in much smaller forces to the primaries than did the republicans, there being no such bitter fights in their ranks as characterized the contest of the republicans for gubernatorial and for senatorial recommendation to the next legislature. It was evident early tonight that D. B. Stringer, of Lincoln, had been nominated for United States senator. The extreme lenth of the ballot makes returns come in slowly.

Fear of Shortage Shortens Production

SHIPMENTS FOR THE WEEK

CROW'S NEST WILL SOON BE PRODUCING NORMALLY—HEWITT MINE BEGINS SHIPMENTS—WORK PROCEEDING UPON NUGGET MILL.

The shipments for the past week have been slightly under the amount shipped weekly recently, although they are in excess of the average for the year. This has been due to the fear of a possible shortage in coke and also to changes still going on at the Granby smelter. However, the trouble is already over and during this week, it is authoritatively stated shipments of coke will have their normal proportions.

It may be noted that the Hewitt mine is now shipping concentrates and the Nugget is getting ready to mill at the earliest available opportunity and for this purpose is building a mill and putting up a short tramway. Generally speaking there is a stronger feeling among mining people, especially as the metals have recently shown a tendency to rise.

The shipments from the various mines and receipts at the smelters for the past week and year to date were:

A SUCCESSFUL TRIAL

Captain Baldwin's Airship Submits to Tests

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8—Capt. Baldwin has succeeded in fulfilling the first requirement of his contract with the United States government for supplying a dirigible balloon for the signal corps of the army. The board of officers, who inspected the big airship today at Fort Myer, accepted it as far as the construction of the machine is concerned. The other requirements remaining to be fulfilled are in regard to speed and endurance. There was no official speed test today but after the inspection of the balloon Capt. Baldwin made a preliminary endurance trial. A total distance of six miles was made at an average speed of 12 miles an hour. No effort was made at fast time today. The airship was under perfect control. If 20 miles an hour be made with the speed trial and the airship makes a successful endurance trial Capt. Baldwin will receive $6500 for his balloon.

Col. baron Dode, the Russian military attache, was one of the most interested in today's flight. He made a close inspection of Capt. Baldwin's airship with a view of submitting a report to his government.

FERNIE'S UPBUILDING

One of the many difficult problems confronting the citizens of Fernie at the moment over and above the anxious work of providing for the immediate wants of the needy, is the task of rehabilitating the city's public improvements, such as sidewalks, public buildings, cleaning up the streets and carrying on the civic business. In addition it must be remembered that the interest and sinking fund in connection with the public debt of the city must be met, and where is the money to come from? People who have had their homes wiped out, in many cases with no insurance, will not be in a position to pay taxes, for some time to come, at least.

How best can these present liabilities and the future necessary expenditures be met? Every added dollar of debt on top of the crushing blow received will make the yoke just that much harder to bear.

One suggestion, which we believe will meet with very general approval, not only in Fernie but amongst those who are willingly contributing to the city's aid, is that the surplus of the relief fund, that has already been subscribed and is being daily added to, should be placed in the hands of a government or civic commissioner, or a joint one, and expended for the benefit of the entire community, not only for the renewing of necessary civic improvements, but also for the purpose of paying the interest and sinking fund on the one already outstanding indebtedness of the city.

In what more unusually beneficial way could the surplus of this fund supscribed for the purpose of mercy be expended?

When the people, who have been rendered homeless, have been at work for a week or two and have been paid their wages, few will agree to accept the charity at present found necessary to maintain an existence, and to what better use could the surplus of the relief fund, so generously subscribed, be put than to apply it to a purpose that would be a benefit to every person residing in the commonuity. Here's to a bigger and better Fernie, with a helping hand from her host of friends and well wishers.

SANITATION EXCELLENT

NO FEAR OF OUTBREAK OF ANY EPIDEMIC

(Special to The Daily News.)

CRANBROOK, Aug. 8.—The first practical evidence of the strike on the C. P. R. will be brought home to the public by the tie-up of the traffic bound to result from the smash near Lundbreck, Alta., this morning when several cars of the Spokane freight from St. Paul went off the rails and blocked the road. The westbound passenger is posted as nine hours late and may have to be cancelled, as the crew of the wrecking outfit here are on strike and refused to go out to assist. It is doubtful when traffic may be resumed, as a track will have to be built by section hands around the wreck.

The sensational story appearing in the Vancouver Province and other papers of the 5th inst., which reached here yesterday, that Cranbrook was threatened with an outbreak of sickness owing to an almost complete lack of sanitation, was bitterely resented and repudiated over the mayor's name. There is absolutely no tittle of truth existing as a foundation for the suggestion, which comes through a correspondent in Fernie. This morning the doctors report everything satisfactory and not a single case of sickness amongst our refugees.

Mrs. Hall, wife of the Rev. Mr. Hall, of Fernie, who is here with us and one of our most valuable and indefatigable workers, states that our organization and hygenic arrangements are far and away more perfect than those that existed at San Francisco after the great disaster. This lady is doing noble work, through her health is far from being what it should be.

No men remain in the camps this morning save those whose wives or children actually require their presence. There are only about ten of these, the rest having returned to work in Fernie or procured work here. This is certainly better than was anticipated.

THAW'S CREDITORS

Preparing to Block His Bankruptcy Proceedings

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—That a determined effort will be made by some, at least, of Harry K. Thaw's creditors to resist his efforts to have himself adjudged a bankrupt, was indicated today after his creditors had recovered from the confusion into which the first announcement of the beginning of the bankruptcy proceedings in Pittsburg threw them. Attempts to hold off the bankruptcy proceeding indeed, are already under way, according to Daniel O'Reilly, Thaw's counsel in both murder trials, who late today announced that he had decided to institute proceedings through which he hoped to collect the amount of his claim for legal expenses.

O'Reilly announced that he was preparing an application to be presented to the United States court on Monday for a committee of Mr. Thaw's estate and person, on the ground that Thaw is a legally adjudged lunatic and as such has no right to go bankrupt. On obtaining the committee, Mr. O'Reilly says he will sue the committee for the remainder of his claim. According to his statement, this is a matter of $3700 over the $11,000 stated in Thaw's bankruptcy schedule. He asserts that the $11,000 and more that Thaw paid him during the trials was largely expended for Thaw's benefit and under his orders. Others of Thaw's creditors, although expressing surprise that he had disputed their claims, were less definite than Mr. O'Reilly as to their probable procedure. Dr. Britton Evans, one of the alienists, in commenting upon the beginning of bankruptcy proceedings said: "It is a surprise to us. We had no intimation that he would dispute the bills or that he contemplated such a step. All I can say at the present time is that all the bills put in by me were just and moderate for the services rendered. From my knowledge of the case I can say none of the alienists who appeared at the defence overcharged Thaw and that the bills were only a fair compensation for the services they proffered him."

A. Russell Peabody, who is still the personal counsel of Thaw, was one of the creditors who looked at Thaw's move in a different light. Mr. Peabody gave it as his opinion that Thaw's act was a proper one; that all the claims against the young man would be paid when they had "been pared down to proper proportions."

SUMMARY ACTION

Government Prohibit Export of Cedar Logs

(Special to The Daily News.)

VANCOUVER, Aug. 8.—One market for the coast loggers for cedar was cut off today by the summary action of the government rescinding the order made five months ago regarding the export to the Sound. In that time nine to ten million feet has been sent out of the country. The suddenness of the order has caught some loggers with an overstock of cedar on hand.

The Yellow God

By

H. Rider Haggard

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," "The Brethren," Benita," Etc.

(All Rights Reserved.)

"You sent for me, major?" he said, addressing his master, to whom he gave a military salute, for he had been Alan's servant when he was in the army.

"Yes, Jeeki. Miss Barbara here and these gentlemen wish you to tell them all that you know about the Yellow God."

The negro started and rolled his round eyes upwards till the whites of them showed, then began his school-book English.

"That is private subject, major, upon which I should prefer not to discourse before this very public company."

A chorus of remonstrance arose, and one of the Jew gentlemen, approaching Jeeki slipped a couple of sovereigns into his great hand, which he promptly transferred to his pocket without seeming to notice them.

"Jeeki," said Barbara, "don't disappoint us."

"Very well, Miss, I fall in with your wishes. The Yellow God that all these gentlemen worship, quite another god to that of which you desire that I should tell you. You know all about him. My god is of female sex."

At this statement his audience burst into laughter, while Jeeki rolled his eyes and waited till they had finished. "My god," he went on presently, "I mean, gentlemen, the god I used to pray to, for I am good Christian now, has so much more gold that she does not care for any more," and he paused.

"Then what does she care for?" asked someone.

"Blood," answered Jeeki. "She is God of Death. Her name is Little Bonsa or Small Swimming Head; she is wife of Big Bonsa or Great Swimming Head."

Again there was laughter, though less general. For instance, neither sir Robert nor Mr. Champers-Haswell laughed. This merriment seemed to excite Jeeki. At any rate, it caused him to cease his stilted talk and relapse into the strange vernacular that is common to all negroes, tinctured with a racy slang that was all his own.

"You want to hear Yellow God palavar?" he said rapidly. "Very well, I tell you, you cocksure white men who think you know everything, but know nothing at all. My people, people of the Asiki, that mean people of spirits, what you call ghosts and say you no believe in, but always look for behind door, they worship Yellow God. Bonsa Big and Bonsa Little, worship both and call them one; only Little Bonsa on trip to this country just now, and sit and think in city office. Yellow God live long way up a great river, then turn to the left again and go n canoe thorugh swamp where you die of fever, and across lake. Then walk over grasslands and mountains. Then in kloof of the mountains where big black trees make a roof and river fall like thunder. find Asiki and gold house of the Yellow God. All that mountain gold, full of gold, and beneath gold house Yellow God afloat in water. She what you call queen, priestess, live there also, always there, very beautiful woman with face like Yellow God, cruel, cruel! She take a husband every year, and every year he die because she always hunt for right man, but never find him. Oh! no, she no kill him, he kill himself at end of year, glad to get away from Asiki and go to spirits. While he live he have no very good time, plenty to eat, plenty wives fine house, much gold as he likes, only nothing to spend it on, pretty necklace, nice paint for face. But Asika, little bit by little bit, she eat up his spirit. He see too many ghosts. The house where he sleep with dead men who once have his billet, full of ghosts, and every night there come more and sit with him, sit all round him, look at him with great eyes, just like you look at me, till at last when Asika finish eating up his spirit, he go crazy, he howl like man in hell, he throw away all the gold they can give him, and then, sometimes after one week, sometimes after one month, sometimes after one year if he be strong, but never more, he run out at night and jump into canal where Yellow God float, and god get him, while Asiki sit on the bank and laugh, 'cause she hungry for new man to eat up his spirit too."

Jeeki's big voice died away to a whisper and ceased. There was a silence in the room, for even in the shine of the electric light, and through the fumes of champagne, in more than one imagination there rose a vision of that haunted water in which floated the great Yellow God, and of some mad being casting himself to his death beneath the moon, while his beautiful witch wife, who was "hungry for more spirits," sat upon its edge and laughed. Although his language was now commonplace enough, even ludicrous at times, the negro had undoubtedly the art of narration. His auditors felt that he spoke of what he knew, or had seen, that the very recollection of it frightened him, therefore he frightened them.

Barbara broke the silence which she felt to be awkward.

"Why do more ghosts come every night to sit with the queen's husband, Jeeki?" she asked. "Where do they come from?"

"Out of the dead, Miss, dead husbands of Asiki from beginning of the world; what they call Munganas. Also, always they make sacrifice to Yellow God. From far, far away them poor niggers send people to be sacrificed that their house or tribe women get luck. Sometimes they used kings, sometimes great men, sometimes doctors, sometimes women what have twin babies. Also the Asiki bring people what is witches, or have drunk poison stuff, which blacks call muavi, and not been sick, or perhaps son they love best to take curse off their oof. All these come to Yellow God. Then Asiki doctor, they have death-palaver. On night of full moon they beat drum, and drum go, wow! wow! wow! and doctors pick out me, oh! good Lord, they pick out me," and as he said these words he gasped, and with his great hand wiped off the sweat that started from his brow, "but Yellow God no take me that time; no want me, and I escape."

"How??" asked sir Robert.

"With my master, major's uncle, reverend Austin, he who come to try to make Asiki Christian. He snap his fingers, put on small mask of Yellow God which he prig, Little Bonsa herself, that same face which sit in your office now," and he pointed to sir Robert, "like one toad upon a stone. Priests think that god make herself into man, want holiday, take me out into forest to kill me and eat my life. So they let us go by, and we got as though devil kick us—fast, fast, and never see the Asiki any more. But Little Bonsa I bring with me for luck, tell truth I no dare leave her behind, she not stand that; and now she sit in your office and think and think and make magic there. That why you grow so rich, because she know you worship her."

"That's a nice way for a baptized Christian to talk," broke in Barbara again, adding, "but Jeeki, what do you mean when you say that the god did not take you?"

"I mean this, Miss; when victim offered to Big Yellow God, priest-men bring him to edge of canal where the great god float. Then, if Yellow God want him, it turn and swim across water."

"Swim across water! I thought you said it was only a mask of gold."

"I don't know, Miss; perhaps man inside the mask, perhaps spirit. I say it swim across water in the night, always in the night, and lift itself up and look in victim's face. Then priest take him away and kill him, sometime one way sometimes another. Or if he escape and not kill him, all same for that Johnnie, he die in about one year, always die, no one ever live long if Yellow God swim to him and raise up and smile in his face. No matter if it Big Bonsa or Little Bonsa, for they man and wife joined in holy matrimony, and either do trick."

As these words left Jeeki's lips, Alan became aware of some unusual movement on his left, and looking round, saw that Mr. Champers-Haswell, who stood by him, had dropped the cigar which he held to the floor, and, white as a sheet, was swaying to and fro. Indeed, in another instant he would have fallen, had not Alan caught him in his arms and supported him till others came to his assistance, when between them they carried him to a sofa. On their way they passed a table where spirits and soda water were set out, and to his astonishment Alan noticed that sir Robert Aylward, looking little, if at all better than his partner, had helped himself to half a tumblerful of cognac, which he was swallowing in great gulps. Then there was confusion, and someone went to telephone for the doctor, while the deep voice of Jeeki was heard exclaiming:

"That Yellow God at work—oh yes, Little Bonsa on the job. I a Christian man, but no doubt she very powerful fetish, and can do anything she like to them that worship her, and you see, she sit in the office of these gentlemen. 'Spect she make reverend Austin and me bring her to England because she got one eye on firm of Messrs. Aylward & Haswell, London, E. C. Oh, shouldn't wonder at all ,for Bonsa know everything."

"Oh, confound you and your fetish! Be off, you old donkey," almost shouted Alan.

"Major," replied the offended Jeeki, assuming his grand manner and language, "it was not I who wished to narrate this history of bloodstained superstitions of poor African. Musn't blame old Jeeki if they make Christian gents sick as channel steamer."

"Be off," repeated Alan, stamping his foot.

So Jeeki went, but outside the door, as it chanced, he encountered one of the Jew gentlemen, who also appeared to be a little "sick." An idea striking him, he touched his white hair with his finger and said:

"You like Jeeki's pretty story, sir? Well, Jeeki think that if you make little present to him, like your brother there, it please Yellow God very much, and bring you plenty luck."

Then acting upon some unaccustomed impulse, that Jew became exceeding generous. In his pocket was a handful of sovereigns, which he had prepared to stake at bridge. He grasped them all and thrust them into Jeeki's outstretched palm, where they seemed to melt.

"Thank you, sir," said Jeeki. "Now I sure you have plenty luck, just like your grandpa Jacob in Book when he do his brudder in eye."

Goethe's Immortal Tragedy—A Moral Lesson
With
Miss Olga Verne as 'Marguerite'
And a Strong Supporting Metropolitan Company

WHAT BRANDON SAYS:

A Strong Faust.

(The Brandon Daily Times, Thursday, July 23, 1908.)

Probably the finest scenery ever seen on a Brandon stage ravished the eyes of the audience at the Auditorium last evening, when the Porter J. White production of Goethe's masterpiece, "Faust," was presented in a powerful manner.

All that was promised of this favorite company was realised, and all the best conceptions of this great drama were accentuated in last evening's performance.

Of the leading characters, Mephisto, in the person of William Richards, was an artful devil, of alluring personality, who won his objects by the artful presentation of his plans. Faust was Frederick, J. Wilson, of clear voice, fine build, and a winning manner that would command the envy of mortals. Marguerite appeared as the embodiment of charm and innocence, and later of tragedy, in the person of Miss Olga Verne. Miss Verne's voice is of marvellous quality.

The great lesson of sin, expiation, and redemption can hardly be more strikingly shown than in such a presentation of "Faust" as was enjoyed at the Auditorium last night.

WILLIAM FERNIE TALKS

FOUNDER OF PASS TOWN SPEAKS OF THE PAST

SUGGESTS MEANS TO PREVENT ANOTHER DISASTER

"It was founded in the year 1898 and is a coal town, depending almost altogether upon the Crow's Nest Pass coal mines for its existence, although the lumber industry, in the shape of saw mills, etc., etc. has attained very considerable proportions. But, of course, the coal miner from its greatest and most enduring support. And as the first buildings were put up in the month of August, 1898, it is now precisely ten years old.

"It was built upon what is known as the B. C. Southern railway, a branch of the C. P. R., and it is almost needless to say that without this means of communication, this great and important deposit of coal would be practically valueless.

"Fernie's situation is very attractive with the timber all round it, far too close, in point of fact, for safety from the very danger which has now twice overwhelmed it. And indeed, I am, I must confess, surprised that after their first disheartening experience, greater precautions were not taken to avoid it for the future. Nevertheless, it is to be remembered that this fire began upon he other side of the Elk river, which in itself is over one hundred yards wide, and yet it crossed that river, and in a case where the flames will effectually cross so considerable a stream, it is evident that an extremely large area indeed must be thoroughly cleared away about a town in order to prevent all peril from this particular source. It appears that quite half a gale was blowing at the time, and when timber catches fire in such circumstances, nothing, humanely speaking, can arrest its progress.

"Why, in this city and in much less perilous surroundings, I have seen blazing shingles carried 100 yards; and more. This fire crossed the river, and did it with the greatest ease too.

"A claim for 5,000 population was made for Fernie this last year, but when I left it, seven years ago, it had about 2,000 inhabitants. It grew very slowly at the outset, and while a good many of its people are either railroad men or employed in the lumber mills, the great majority earn their living in the coal mines and in the coke ovens. This is the second time that it has been destroyed by fire, but I cannot give the exact date of the other conflagration. It however occurred some four or five years ago and was due to the same cause, the firing of dried brush and timber, which through the gross carelessness of those who are engaged in lumbering operations, are left in the woods to give rise, as has been so frequently the case in the history of this province, to disasters of the most poignant and serious description.

"I will tell you plainly where the trouble lies, and the government should at the very earliest possible moment take steps to put an effectual stop to these practices, as far as this can be accomplished by departmental regulations, and interference. The lumbermen go into the woods and fell the trees, and after they have removed what they wish to turn into merchanable lumber they leave the butts and tops and branches to dry out and become a constant source of danger to the standing timber and to the community. And when, through any cause, and most frequently this is due to carelessness, these large clumps of woodland debris catch fire, the heat that is thrown off rapidly becomes so extraordinarily intense that no one can possibly endure it at any reasonable distance, and in view of all these dangers that are perpetually threatened, of the terrible calamities which have so often been caused in the loss of lives and property, both in the form of building and of the most valuable kinds of timber, the government should have inserted in every timber license a clause absolutely compelling the lumbermen to burn up every spring all this dangerous waste materials, and prescribing heavy penalties for leaving it to lie scattered abroad in the woods to become a menace of the most terrible character.

"This carelessness is undoubtedly the main cause of one-half of the big fires throughout the country, and once a fire like that gets started it cannot be stopped until it practically burns itself out. Lightning very often gives rise to these most disastrous conflagrations, and I am not making this statement on mere conjecture, for in a number of instances I have myself seen lightning strike a tree, whence shortly afterwards I have noticed flames appear.

"I don't of course know how this disaster actually began, but to ascribe it to the machinations of Black Hands among the Italian element in Fernie's population is in my opinion going rather far afield. It is much more likely due to mere carelessness. A number of men are engaged in the lumber camps, and one of these persons is always liable at any time to drop a match and start a fire among this dry brush, which in so many places in the timber is laying scattered around without let or hindrance.

"When Fernie was rebuilt brick and cement structures were put up. I do not know how many of this class were erected, for I have not been in the town for some years, but the walls of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal company's offices were built with cement, and I believe that these have not been destroyed. They however, in addition to this fact occupied a very advantageous situation, being located in a wide open space, near no other structures, and consequently standing a much better chance of being saved from destruction than any of the others.

"I was the original locator of this coal, and the town was named after me, and I am still connected, although not in any large way, with the Crow's Nest Pass Coal company as a shareholder.

"I cannot say that I was the actual discoverer of the deposit, for we all knew many years before the date when I filed my location that coal was to be found in this part of the country, but no one knew what its real value was until I went in there, and located the mine. It is what is called semi-anthracite. Some years ago it was tried in the British warships at Esquimalt, but as we could not possibly supply it to the fleet at the same price for which the best Welsh steam coal could be laid down at this port we were forced to abandon altogether the idea of entering into a contract with the British admiralty, although I really belive that if we were now confronted with the same situation which existed at that time, i. e., if the British navy were represented in our waters, we could very advantageously meet their requirements in this particular.

CATHOLIC FEDERATION

Hundreds of Clergy and Laymen Meet in Boston Today

BOSTON, Aug. 8—Boston today welcomed hundreds of prominent Catholic clergy and laymen who will take part in the seventh national convention of the American federation of Catholic societies. The sessions will begin tomorrow and continue through the three following days. Every tate of the union and Canadian province will be represented. Previous conventions of the federation have been held in Chicago, Atlantic City, Detroit, New Orleans, Buffalo and Indianapolis.

Among the questions to come before the convention will be included such issues as divorce, socialism, observance of the Lord's day, indecent advertisements and an indecent stage, Christian education, the missions, at home and abroad; the Catholic press and the spread of Catholic literature, improving the condition of immigrants and approving the enactment of laws to prohibit child labor.

Among the reforms which the federation claims to have accomplished during the seven years of its existence, to which its national officials point, are the repeal of the Cuban marriage law, bettering of conditions in the Philippine islands, appointment of Catholics on the Indian and Philippine commissions, securing permission for the celebration of masses in the navy yards, and public institutions, appointment of Catholic army chaplains, assistance to Catholic Indian schools and negro missions, introduction of Catholic books into public libraries, establishment of friendly relations between societies of different nationalities, revision of histories and books of reference prejudicial to the Catholic church, restoration of rations to Catholic Indian scholars, the defeat of the Bard amendment affecting the rights of Catholic Indians and the inauguration of a crusade against immoral literature.

More than two million Catholics, men and women are now enrolled in the American federation of Catholic societies and parishes. As the plan of organization is laid down along lines of perfect system, the roll of membership is constantly growing, as parish after parish in every diocese of the union is joined in affiliation.

The units of federation are parishes and Catholic societies. The term parish includes every adult member of the congregation, Holy Name societies, sodalities and other societies of a strictly parochial or religious nature. Under the unit of societies are grouped all Catholic fraternal organizations, temperance societies, literary unions and societies, Catholic young men's associations and similar organizations not of a strictly parochial or religious nature.

The movement for a crusade against what the federation calls "evil literature" will receive strong impetus through the attention it will receive at the convention.

The convention will open on Sunday with the celebration of mass in the cathedral of the Holy Cross, when the sermon of welcome to the delegates will be preached by archbishop O'Connell. There will be a requiem mass at 8:30 Monday morning at the Church of the Immaculate conception for the deceased members of the federation.

Attendance at the sessions of the convention which will be opened at 2 p.m. Monday in Symphony hall, will be restricted to the properly accredited delegates.

If You've Been Using "Cheap" Tea

The rich, full flavor of Blue Ribbon Tea will be a delightful surprise to you.

No 25c or 30c tea has a flavor to compare with it. The choice leaf used in blending Blue Ribbon Tea costs too much to sell at any such price.

And as so much less is required to the cup, BLUE RIBBON TEA is REALLY THE MOST ECONOMICAL, as well as the best.

A pound of Blue Ribbon will make over 200 cups, rich and strong, so it costs less than 1-4c per cup.

NEW YORK FASHION LETTER

NEW YORK Aug. 8—Owing to the innovation of the directoire costume, the skirt has become the most talked of part of feminine dress. Last autumn, M. Paquin of Paris, now dead, inaugurated the new movement by creating a limp close fitting skirt that actually revealed the figure. Some women immediately began to cry out against it. The crusade for and against the sheath gown has now become international in extent. In England queen Alexandra has banished the new mode from police society by the frown of her displeasure. In this country, however, the mode is slowly gaining favor, although it is at present worn by society women only in a modified form.

While the real Greek costume is one of clinging folds and graceful lines, the faddists of fashionable Paris have followed not so much the classic model as the modifications or extremes of it as created by the ladies of the first empire.

While it is not likely that the American woman will ever attempt any such extreme as Paris, there is no doubt that for some occasions the sheath skirt has already made a place for itself.

One of the fabrics liked for these new skirts is satin or those soft materials that have the qualities for good draping. It must not be too stiff, yet keep its folds; it must not flare too easily, but cling to the figure, and adjust itself easily to long lines. These new satins are chiffon in weight, and nothing like in weight or stiffness the Duchess satins, which are perhaps, only fit for a wedding gown or reception gown for a matron. The satin of our grandmothers' days is seldom seen now.

A biscuit colored satin had a tunic drapery, a soft girdle with scarf ends, and was embroidered down the opening of the tunic. Buttons, satin covered and embroidered and loops of crochetted satin floss formed the button holes and were also used for trimmings. The waist accompaniment was a surplice bodice and yoke with long sleeves of filet lace. When intended for carriage wear or calling costume, many of these gowns are supplied with a coat of some sort.

One of the first skirts, and indeed whole costumes, is the one to be worn on the street. An excellent model for such a purpose was a seventeen gored flare skirt, which has a sheath like adjustment about the hips, but flares slightly below the knee. A feature is the joining of these many gores with tuck seams which are made by the edge of each gore being turned under and lapped on the next gore and flatly stitched. The effect is that of tucks that flare slightly towards the lower edge. A band of trimming was applied in tunic effect meeting a narrow band of trimming at each side of the front gore, which extends almost to the foot of the skirt and slopes upward toward the back. The back closing is made under an inverted pleat. Blue chiffon serge was the material chosen, trimmed with bands of black satin.

With this skirt was worn on Eton having rounded fronts, back and sides on the lower edges, while the edges, bands on the cuffs, seams and collar were decorated with bands of black satin.

Of course, it is not every woman, in particular the short woman, who can wear a skirt with any crosswise trimming, not even the tunic effect; and for such a one there is a three piece skirt that closes in the front on the left side of the front gore. The sides of circular cut fall in soft full lines, while the front, narrow gore lies flat and smooth from belt to foot. The closing is made with four covered buttons and button hole loops of silk, and the same closing is used on the jumper, the right front of which fastens over the left.

For dressy wear is a skirt having the tunic or over drapery as its prominent feature and a soft draped waist or one in surplice style. The under skirt is seven gored with the sheath like fit at the top and moderate fullness at the lower edge, with a sweep length. The tunic is applied from the side back seams, is cut open and caught up on the left side. The bodice is empire in effect with lace yoke and sleeves.

For walking, street wear generally, for business or sports, the American woman is faithful to plaited, plain gored or circular skirts, according to the material used. For wool goods and silks, one sees many plaited skirts, the plain gored and circular makes are oftener used for linens, ducks, piques and crash; for when a dress must visit the washtub occasionally plaits are the hardest things to iron and still keep in good shape. Nevertheless, the modes are interchangeable among the different fabrics according to the taste of the wearer.

For street wear or travelling no material has had a greater vogue than pongee and one sees many skirts and coat suits in colors as well as the natural tint. All the pongee fabrics are liked for such utility wear.

A linen suit is almost a necessity to the going away wardrobe and for day wear nothing is its equal when made of the heavier weight in the fashionable skirt of circular cut and long coat. Large flat buttons should decorate the coat.

For the afternoon a white suit of fine sheer linen could be used, made with a tunic effect or a many gored beading and one of the smart little coatees so popular just now. Such suits are embroidered and come at high prices. Coat and skirt suits are embroidered by hand with a design running around the skirt. The coat lapels and cuffs are heavily worked upon with designs upon the shoulders. The woman who can do this work herself is fortunate. A novel idea is the embroidery over a color such as biscuit colored linen worked in white upon a very pale blue taffeta underneath.

Many an old white gown may be renewed by the alteration of the sleeves and new trimmings, in fact it is thus that many a very fashionable woman renews the age of a gown.

Stripes in two tones of grey or white and exquisitely blended into each other are very chic for outing suits.

For morning wear the shepherd's check in various colors is much liked and in cotton voile is very cool and dainty.

RICH STRIKE ON NUGGET

ORE RUNNING MANY HUNDRED DOLLARS IS FOUND

SAID TO BE RICHEST DISCOVERED IN A RICH MINE

Word was received last night by George Wells that a strike of very rich ore has been made upon the Nugget mine on the 250-foot level, where ore going several hundred dollars a ton has been uncovered. The ore is richer than anything yet found in the mine, which is saying a good deal, as the smelter returns from Trail from the beginning of this year and of last will show.

The mine is being developed at present by a crusscut, No. 3, to the ledge, which has been struck and which is now being drifted upon at a point 100 feet deeper than the upper workings, which are 125 feet below the surface showing. This strike, at such a point means many additional thousands of tons to the reserves of the property. As the strike has been made much sooner than was expected this means either that the shoot is longer than was estimated or that a new shoot has been discovered. Naturally the Nugget people are very much elated over the news, which was only brought in last night by J. L. Warner, coming in from the mine.

WHAT IT COST

Thaw's Indebtedness Over Trial Will Total Over $700,000

POUGHKEEPSIE, Aug. 8.—Harry K. Thaw made the following statement this morning in further explanation of the schedules appearing in his petition in bankruptcy filled in Pittsburg yesterday:

"The item at the foot of the column giving amounts paid lawyers and alienists for expenses, marked cash in bank, is money in the bank that I have not turned over to the receiver in bankruptcy for the equal benefit of all concerned."

The sum of $438,500 is represented as having been paid out by Thaw in connection with his trials, but this amount includes $191,500 borrowed on a note from his mother, Mrs. Wm. Thaw, which amount appears in the schedule of the liabilities. The sums he has paid and the claims, many of which Thaw says are exaggerated, will total over $700,000

The order of reference in the Thaw bankruptcy case of Harry K. Thaw, sending to W. R. Blair, referee in bankruptcy for further proceedings, was made by W. T. Lindsay, clerk of the United States district court today. Referee Blair is now absent from the city but will return on Monday. There was considerable speculation here today as to how Thaw would be able to visit the city. According to a provision in the bankruptcy laws Thaw will be required to attend the meeting of his creditors before the referee in this district, as a bankrupt. The petition for his discharge from bankruptcy must be made within a year unless additional time be granted. Roger O'Mara, the Pittsburg detective, who last night was appointed receiver for Thaw, will hold a conference some time today with Stone & Stone, local counsel for Thaw.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—"There is no intention on the part of Thaw to defraud any of his creditors," said A. Russell Peabody today. Mr. Peabody is still personal counsel for Thaw and with Clifford Wharbridge is named as one of the claimants in the case. Peabody added: "Every one will be paid what is coming to them. Some of the claims Thaw thinks are a bit exorbitant, or the claimants have placed exaggerated value on their services. When these claims have been pared down to proper proportions Thaw means to pay them. I have no doubt that Thaw's going into bankruptcy was a surprise to some of those who remained unpaid, but it appears to have been the only proper thing to do under the circumstances."

WOMAN'S POWER

The healthy woman; strong mentally and physically, whose ambition and magnetic influence urge men to deeds of grandeur and heroism; such women are all-powerful.

Weak, sick and ailing women have little ambition; their own troubles occupy all their thoughts. They dwell upon their pains, suffer from nervousness and headaches; often are extremely melancholy, and avoid society. For thirty years

Mrs. John Scott, 489 Grand Trunk St., Montreal, writes Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was very much run down in health from a female trouble, was thin, nervous, very weak, and suffered from bearing down pains. Indeed I did not care whether I lived or died.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me of all my troubles. I gained in flesh, and am free from backache, female trouble, sick headaches, and nervousness.

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice.

OGILVIE'S CROP REPORT

WEATHER HAS BEEN FAVORABLE ON THE WHOLE

CUTTING OF THE HARVEST WILL BE GENERAL THIS WEEK

WINNIPEG, Aug. 8.—The Ogilvie Flour mills give the following review of the progress of the crops during the past week:

The weather has been moderate and quite favorable on the whole; good showers have fallen in districts where they have materially assisted in filling. Cutting of wheat has been going on all week in different localities, particularly in the southwest. The amount of cutting is increasing daily, and towards the end of the coming week it should be general. The yields in the fall wheat districts in southern Alberta are running good, as high as 45 bushels per acre being reported. From the spring wheat districts, reports are generally of a favorable character, and still indicate a crop of a very satisfactory quantity and good milling quality.

IMPERIAL COMMITTEE

Fund for Count Zeppelin Will Nearly Reach Half a Million

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—Crown prince Frederick William has accepted the presidency of the imperial committee which is raising a fund for Count Zeppelin, the airship inventor. Various estimates have been made of the total of the country's subscription to the fund, but it is impossible to place the amount. It is apparent, however, that $400,000 has been raised. The Krupp family donated $20,000.

NELSON NEWS OF THE DAY

The Kettle Valley Irrigation Company have applied for and have been given space at the Nelson fair for a special display of fruits raised on irrigated lands.

"Faust" is the attraction at the opera house tomorrow evening, produced by the Porter J. White Co., which is said to be amongst the best Faust companies on the road today.

Work will begin tomorrow on the sidewalk between Josephine and Hall streets. The planking will not be removed from the sidewalk when completed for about seven or eight days, in order to give it an opportunity of settling properly.

Old residents aver that the present hot spell is longer in duration than any for many years past. Despite that fact there have been no warm nights, the warmest recorded being 62 while the average is about 63. The cool nights with the warm days is that which makes the beauty of the climate of the Kootenays.

A large collection of wearing apparel was received at the Publicity Bureau yesterday afternoon from various contributors, and will be forwarded to Fernie on Monday. Secretary Beeston is of the opinion that until further notified by the Fernie relief committee, contributions for the time being, do not appear necessary.

Ensign and Mrs. Sainsbury, who have been in charge of the Salvation Army work in Nelson for the past year will conduct their farewell meeting tonight at 8 p. m. in the Salvation Army barracks, Victoria street. Mr. and Mrs. Sainsbury have made a wide circle of friends during their stay in Nelson ,and wish to thank them one and all for the many kindnesses they have extended. Adjutant and Mrs. Goslang will succeed ensign and Mrs. Sainsbury at this post.

See the magnificent and bewildering scenery in Porter J. White's big production of "Faust" at the opera house next Monday.

The person who took the brass regulator weight from R. H. Ewert's store on Thursday afternoon will be given until 6 o'clock this evening to return same and avoid trouble. 91-1t

The "Merry Widow Hat" card is the latest in post cards, at W. G. Thomson's bookstore. They comprise a series of very clever skits on the Merry Widow hat, and furnish an excellent means of conveying to our lady friends in a delicate, yet pointed way, our sentiments regarding this latest freak of fashion. They are very artistically gotten up, and sell for 5 cents each of 25 cents for 6. 92-2t

Diarrhoea Cured

"My father has for years been troubled with diarrhoea, and tried every means possible to effect a cure, without avail," writes John H. Zirkle of Philippi, W. Va. "He saw Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy advertised in the Philippi Republican and decided to try it. The result is one bottle cured him and he has not suffered with the disease for eighteen months. Before taking this remedy he was a constant sufferer. He is now sound and well, and although sixty years old, can do as much work as a young man." Sold by all druggists and dealers.

PRODUCTION OF FAUST

Porter J. White and an Excellent Company Tomorrow Evening

The beginning of the fifth act shows us Faust and Mephisto follfully climbing the steep rocks and yawning chasms of the peak of the Brocken, in the Hartz Mountains, where, according to the German legend, the witches and warlocks meet on Walpurgis night (the thirteenth of April) to hold their yearly festivities. The night grows darker and darker; the moon is in its last quarter and gives but little light. They climb higher and higher; the trees and rocks and sitant cliffs take on wondrously fantastic shapes in the dim light of the dying moon; only the hotting of owls and the far away cry of the lonely night-hawk breaks the solemn stillness; strange shapes crawl to and fro, and weird snake-like forms seem to writhe and try to clasp the wanderers in their horrible embrace. At midnight a mighty tempest rises and the witches gather from far and near to their unholy festival. During the truly horrifying "Punishment of evil," and the curtain falls with the terror-stricken Faust writhing in the Evil One's grasp. A perfect storm of electric fire descends, amid which the imps and witches are seen reveling in their fiendish merriment. The production will be seen here at the opera house tomorrow evening.

A Faithful Friend

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since it was first introduced to the public in 1872, and have never found one instance where a cure was not speedily effected by its use. I have been a commercial traveler for eighteen years, and never start out on a trip without this, my faithful friend," says H. S. Nichols of Oakland, Indian Territory. When a man has used a remedy for thirty-five years he knows its value and is competent to speak of it. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

MACEDONIAN REFORMS

Scheme Drawn Up by Russia and Approved by Great Britain

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 8.—The foreign office has sent to the Russian diplomatic representatives abroad copies of the scheme for Macedonian reform as drawn up by Russia and fully approved by Great Britain.

The documents are accompanied by a communication to the various powers setting forth that the project is forwarded to them only for their information, insomuch, as in the opinion of Russia, the powers should, in view of recent events in Turkey, defer any action which might be considered to show distrust of the sultan and the Ottaman government in the present work of reform.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The British government for reasons, similar to those set forth in the Russian circular to the powers on the Macedonian situation, has decided to adopt an identical course of action regarding its own proposed reforms.

FRENZIED MOB

Fought Police in an Effort to Lynch a Child Assaulter

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—A frenzied mob of foreigners fought a detail of police last night in an effort to lynch Joseph Green for an attack on Nellie Wiener, a 3-year-old girl. Mrs. Wiener, the mother of the child, incited the mob and led them to a barber shop where Green had taken refuge. Green held an open razor and refused to submit to arrest. Then one of the policemen felled him with a club and he was dragged to a patrol wagon the crowd fought hard to get hold of him, but the prisoner was finally landed in a police station.

CANADA'S WARNING

Russians Told We Do Not Want Unskilled Labor Here

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 8.—The foreign office has received from the Canadian government a warning against the emigration of unskilled laborers to Canada. There are openings in Canada for females and skilled farm hands, financially able to purchase and lease land, but there is no work to be had on the railroads.

RAIN GREATLY NEEDED

FOREST FIRES STILL RAGING ON FERNIE HILLS

GOOD PROGRESS BEING MADE IN BUILDING

(Special to The Daily News.)

FERNIE, Aug. 8.—Good progress has been made in building operations and tonight the city does not present the desolate appearance it has done for the last week. The relief organization was remodelled at a meeting held this morning, when it was decided that everything in connection with the work of relief should be entrusted to a committee of 10, to be selected by mayor Tuttle. The change will greatly simplify the carrying out of relief measures and prevent a great deal of unnecessary confusion. F. W. Peters, assistant vice president of the C. P. R., arrived in town by the delayed C. P. R. express from Winnipeg tonight and the transportation complications will come up for adjustment

Work in connection with the rebuilding of the slack bins used in connection with the coke ovens is progressing rapidly and the coke ovens will be producing again in two weeks. The weather is tterrifically hot and there is no indication of much-needed rain at present. Heavy showers would be welcome to clear away the smoke and extinguish the bush fires which are still raging in the mountains. The low lands near the river are still too hot to permit a systematic search being made for possible victims of the late disaster.

Two or three cases of stealing were reported to the police today and stringent measures will be adopted by the authorities to prevent any outbreak of crime. Insurance adjusters are busily engaged in estimating the fire losses, but it will be some time before their labors are concluded. Provisions and clothing are still arriving by every train and, for the present, at any rate, no one will feel the pinch of poverty.

UNABLE TO FIND WORK

SUICIDE'S BODY STOPS TRAIN NEAR NEW YORK

AN EMPTY PAY ENVELOPE TELLS THE TALE

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Unable to find work, Robert M. Miller, a carpenter, tied a rope to a bridge over the railroad tracks in the Bronx Borough today, placed the noose around his neck and jumped from the bridge.

His suspended body hung in the pathway of northbound trains and an early freight train was stopped by it after the engineer had whistled several times for the man, whom the engineer supposed to be alive, to get out of the way.

In Miller's pocket was an empty pay envelope on which was written: "Your services are no longer required." Miller had notified his landlady that he was going to kill himself because he could find no work.

M'FARLAND'S VICTORY

Battered Brook and Chased Him Across the Ring

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8.—Packey McFarland won last night from Phil Brook in the seventh round. There was no knockout. The referee stopped the fight and gave McFarland the victory when Brook was in the last stages of distress, having been beaten through the ropes and chased across the ring with a rain of blows on his bleeding face.

BEST CANADIAN TEAM

BISLEY MEN BRING BACK GRAND AGGREGATE

MAKE THE HIGHEST PERCENTAGE EVER OBTAINED

MONTREAL, Aug. 8—The Canadian Bisley team arrived in Montreal last night on the Allan liner Victorian, from what they considered to have been a most successful participation in the great empire rifle meet that a Canadian team has ever joined in.

Although the Canadians failed to land the King's prize, they brought back with them the Grand Aggregate, which is recognized by riflemen as the greatest prize of the whole meet, and which was won by Pte. Morris of Bowmanville.

Though the Canadian team did not make any other special wins, they made a higher percentage than any team that has ever gone from the dominion and came back satisfied with their work, the only fly in the ointment being the peculiar contretemps which barred Lieut. Spittal's bold bid for the King's prize. As to this there are varying opinions but none on the point that the range officer who interfered with him when he was shooting in the final at 1000 yards, was at least untactful in manner, while he followed his action up by bringing in two other range officers to watch Spittal for his concluding shots.

Spittal is still highly indignant over the incident, but his fellow shots recognize that the range officer was bound to make some move since protest had been registered by marksmen from the West Indies as to his methods of shooting.

ROME, Aug. 8.—Cardinal Gibbons had so much improved this morning from his recent indisposition that he was able to go to the vatican and call on the pope. The pontiff congratulated his eminence in looking so well, in spite of his illness.

Roosevelt's Responsibility

OYSTER BAY, Aug. 8.—President Roosevelt in a statement issued late today made it clear that the entire responsibility was his for the issuance of the original order discharging the battalion of negro soldiers for alleged participation in the Brownvill, Texas, rioting and the refusal for the suspension of that order.

Vote of Thanks

To mayor Fink and the relief committee of Cranbrook:

On behalf of the citizens of Fernie who have been so lovingly and carefully protected and provided for by the citizens of Cranbrook during this awful calamity which has befallen our city and homes, we, the undersigned committee, desire to express to you and through you to your generous people our most grateful and heartfelt thanks for all that you have done. Such an outflow of sympathy and help must be experienced to be credited. Your organization, your generosity, your patience, and good will have broken the black clouds that overshadowed us and helped us to look on the brighter side of our experience.

The memory of your kindness will ever keep in our hearts a tender feeling for you and continually inspire the prayer that nothing but prosperity may be your lot in life, both as a city and a people. (Signed:)

JAMES McKEE,

REV. I. W. WILLIAMSON.

Alex. McDermot, Jas. Ryan, W. Wilmot and T. M. Roberts all did splendid work on the committee.

Great Work

David Elmer, Mr. and Mrs. Cook, Mrs. A. C. Bowness, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Pasta and Mrs. J. H. King, have the thanks of the whole community for the way in which they handled the clothing department of the relief committee. Mrs. Keay also did splendid service along the same lines among the tents. Mrs. Baker took charge of the wash tent and saw that all babies were properly bathed and this matter was one that probably saved much sickness.—Cranbrook Herald.

CONVICTED OF GRAFTING

TWO LONDON ALDERMEN ARE THE CULPRITS

COUNT TOLSTOI MAKES ANOTHER PROTEST

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Two municipal officers of Mile End parish, charged with grafting, were convicted last night, the trial lasting two months. In both cases the amount was small, but the case excited the greatest interest because such charges are unusual in England.

Thirty lawyers were engaged and the cost of the trial is estimated at thirty thousand dollars.

Count Tolstoi sends the English newspapers a strong protest which is printed this morning against what he terms the revolting injustice, cruelty and amazing stupidity of the Russian government, which has prosecuted and punished the distributors of his books, instead of prosecuting him, the author. Count Tolstoi declares he never will cease writing, that in fact he cannot cease, because he is fulfilling the will of God, as he understands it.

WANTS NEW CURRENCY

Thorough Change Is Demanded for Entire System

Canada is now more than ready for clean currency, says the Toronto World. The dirty bills and defaced coins which are circulating among the people of this country add no credit to the good name of the domion. If sanitary considerations do not suggest something better, then pride of country should rise to the occasion.

Canada has probably the most disreputable medium of exchange of any nation which pretends to civilization. In this the government itself is the chief offender and has been during the changing administrations since confederation. Dominion dollar and two dollar notes are permitted to circulate until they reek with dirt and scarcely conform in size to the newer notes with which they are counted from time to time.

It is where silver is used in greatest quantities, however, that the debauching of the currency is most noticeable, plugged half dollars, flattened dimes, worn quarters and crumpled five cent pieces are shoved on in the channels of business. The church collection plates and street railway boxes have become receptacles for much of the smallest of it. The plugged half dollar given in change by one street car conductor to a passenger, is refused by the company's man on another car. So long as defaced money was accepted freely, it caused no embarrassment. It was simply unsightly. In the larger centers all that is changing. People will not accept defaced money—if they know it. It is a positive handicap to business and a constant jar to the self respect of the man who tries to pass it along. In the meantime there is laxity at many of the gateways to tourist travel from the south. The result is the infusion of a great amount of United States currency into Canadian trade channels, which may or may not be objectionable, according to the point of view, but which also brings along a deluge of defaced United States coin and this cannot be circulated south of the line. It is the business of the banks and the government to purge the currency of the nation.

The design of Canada's silver money is commonplace. It lacks distinctiveness and it is wanting in Canadian sentiment There is plenty of material upon which to base a design which means more and looks better than the present issue. The beaver, maple leaf and shield of the provinces, the flag and many other things might be made to play a part in a new design.

Tolstoi Is Indisposed

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 8.—Count Leo Tolstoi is again indisposed because of his habitual disregard of theelementary rules of health. He has suffered considerable pain but he is now a little better.

NELSON NEWS OF THE DAY

The temperature yesterday ranged between 88 and 50 degrees.

The balance of the total subscriptions collected to date for the Fernie relief fund is $4,532.20.

The pictures of Fernie and Michel, reproduced in this issue of The Daily News were kindly lent by W. Turner, and were taken by himself last winter.

The city band rendered some excellent selections of music last evening which were much admired by the large number of its hearers.

In the football match last evening between the Nelson United and a scratch team of local players the United were victorious by a score of 3 to 0.

Merchants on the south side of Baker street between Josephine and Ward beg to assure their customers that walks are provided to each store door and that they are as absolutely welcome as ever.

Edgar Mason is leaving for Seattle this morning to attend the convention of Eagles as a representative of the Nelson lodge. He goes by way of Vancouver and Victoria.

Up to the time of The Daily News going to press the Crow boat had not reached the city although it is said to have left Kootenay Landing. The delay was caused by a wreck somewhere near Lacombe, Alta.

James Beckett, who has elected for speedy trial on a charge of assault on a young girl, is still suffering from delirium tremens. If he has recovered sufficiently he will be arraigned before judge Wilson either tomorrow or some other day that the judge sees fit to set.

The Baptist and Methodist services will be held jointly today in the Methodist church, the Rev. A. N. Frith officiating. The morning subject will be "Strength," and the evening topic "A Typical Cure." The children of the Sunday schools will meet in their respective churches.

According to reports received on all hands by visitors to Cranbrook it would appear that the organization for relief there is so perfect, as to arrangement and as to sanitation that only most laudatory comment is made. Fears of the outbreak of an epidemic would therefore seem needless.

There will be an open air concert on Thursday evening next at 8 o'clock. The object is the raising of funds for the enlargement of the school at Willow Point in order to give sufficient accommodation to permit of the holding of services by ministers of the different denominations.

There was a meeting of the Fruit Growers' Association yesterday afternoon when the question of the prices received for strawberries during the recent season was gone into. While the amount which will probably be realized is less than that which might have been expected under ordinary circumstances it is largely in advance of that obtained last year, according to the statements made by some of those who attended and on the whole the Fruit Growers are to be congratulated upon the success which has attended their efforts in the past.

There was a good shoot of the Nelson gun club yesterday afternoon, some very fair scores having been made. Practicing is the more especially now in order since it is the intention to send representatives of the Nelson club down to the big shoot at Anaconda nex month. At 50 birds the scores were as follows: Bishop, 44; Ink, 42; Ward, 41; G. Johnson, 41; Blackwood, 38; A. Johnson, 32; Tierney, 24; McLeod, 22.

"Blake" Wilson of Nelson, says the Prince Rupert Empire, manager in Kootenay for P. Burns & Co., Limited, better known as the meat trust, is in Prince Rupert. P. Burns & Co. has the contract for supplying fresh meat to the contractors building the Pacific end of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway. The slaughtering is done at Port Essington, and the meat distributed from that point, as it is more central than Prince Rupert.

Sinn Fein envoys from Ireland are coming to tour the United States immediately after the presidential elections and push the movement in this country.

Earthquake in Algeria

CONSTANTINE, Algeria, Aug. 8.—A new earthquake shock was felt last night and caused a panic. Several buildings damaged by a previous shock were shaken down. The falling of a ceiling in thehouse of an European resident injured several children. Two or three slight shocks were felt this morning but no casualties have been reported.

AIRSHIP FUND

Kaiser Wilhelm Contributes to New Zeppelin Balloon

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—Emperor William has given $2,500 to the fund to enable count Zeppelin to construct another airship. While riding in the Tiergartes this afternoon his majesty met herr R. Rathenau, general manager of the General Electric company to whom he expressed himself as deeply moved at the news of the Zeppelin catastrophe and delighted with the generous contributions made in all parts of the empire representing as they did the national feeling.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE ELECTION

Bad Forest Fire Started But Got Under Control

(Special to The Daily News.)

YMIR, Aug. 8—With Edward Peters as chairman and A. C. O'Neill as secretary, the election of two school trustees took place today. Over 40 votes were cast and the following results obtained: Roger Clarkson, 25; A. B. Buckworth, 25; W. C. Forrester, 21. The chairman gave his casting vote in favor of A. B. Buckworth, so that Mr. Buckworth was elected for the three year and Mr. Clarkson for the two year term.

The freight train going north yesterday afternoon started a bad fire near the Gold Cup mill, some five miles north of Ymir, but with the aid of the railway, Clarkson Bros., and the fire warden, assisted by the section crew, the fire was got under control.
