CANNOT SUPPORT CURTIS

G. O. Buchanan, One of the Most Prominent Liberals in Kootenay, Addresses Letter to Press Regarding the Present Campaign —Gives His Reasons for Decision

KASLO, B. C., Nov. 5—The Kaslo Kootenaian publishes in yesterday's issue, the following letter from G. O. Buchanan, Dominion lead bounty commissioner:

"Editor Kootenaian,—In your issue of October 15th, there appeared a report of a meeting in Kaslo addressed by Mr. Smith Curtis. In your account special mention is made of a furious attack made by the speaker upon some person not named, whom he describes as having circulated slanders against his personal character. By enquiry of his campaign committee I find that the person attacked was myself. It is a fact that since Mr. Curtis was nominated I have heard from many respectable and responsible persons stories most discreditable to him. I have brought some of these to the notice of his campaign managers and himself, notifying them that it was impossible for me to vote for a man against whom such things were alleged unless the matters were investigated and shown to be without foundation. I write this now to say that if Mr. Curtis has stated or implied that I have invented or exaggerated any of the injurious reports current in regard to him, he has stated a falsehood. "(Signed) G. O. BUCHANAN."

WITH THE NON-UNIONISTS

WHERE SMITH CURTIS STOOD ONLY A FEW YEARS AGO

ATTENDED THE EDMUND KIRBY EXCURSION TO NELSON

ROSSLAND, Nov. 5—Smith Curtis' friendship for organized labor is demonstrated by a glance at the files of the Rossland Miner, which show, for example, that he was one of those who accompanied Barney Macdonald and Edmund B. Kirby's famous non-union excursion from Rossland to Nelson on Thursday, Sept. 19, 1902, reads as follows: "Non-union excursion to Nelson —His worship mayor Clute was along —Smith Curtis, M. L. A., was an enthusiastic member of the contingent, wearing the badge of the day."

TO CURE CONSUMPTION

Prof. Lannelongue Has Evolved a New Treatment.

PARIS, Nov. 5—Professor Lannelongue has communicated to the Academy of Sciences the results of the researches which he has been making for the past three years into the treatment of tuberculosis. With a caution worthy of praise, he has awaited the conclusion of four well-known medical men, who have been experimenting with his method on children and adult patients, both in the Paris hospitals and at the sanatorium of Augicourt. In the course of an interview Professor Lannelongue explains that the serum which he employs is derived from horses or donkeys which have been submitted to the action of a toxin extracted from tuberculous matter by treatment in water, followed by precipitation by acetic acid, and redissolution in carbonate of soda. The serum used in the treatment of human beings is exclusively derived from donkeys, the doses varying from five cubic centimetres to 10 and 15 cubic centimetres a week. Very remarkable results have been obtained in cases of tuberculosis, even in the third stage. One of the medical men reports that in 18 cases the serum appears to have had a satisfactory effect. Of ten patients in the second stage, all were either partially or entirely cured. A tenth died suddenly after an improvement in health. The serum does not give rise to fever. The director of the Augicourt sanatorium similarly affirms that the serum gives excellent results.

A BRITISH FLEET

May Tour the World in the Near Future.

LONDON, Nov. 5—It has been said that following the successful manoeuvres of the United States navy, the British admiralty is planning to send a fleet of warships around the world. Officials of the admiralty were questioned this evening but all they would say was "there is no information we can give you on the matter."

The statement, however, would seem to support the intimation that such a tour has been suggested but under the present conditions in Europe, it is not thought at all probable that the admiralty would despatch a fleet in any way comparable to the United States battleship fleet. There is a possibility that the squadron under Sir Percy Scott which is at present in South Africa and which has been expected to visit South America may be brought home by way of the far east and the Suez canal.

An Old Account.

WALKERTON, Nov. 5—Twenty years ago, when Walkerton was being staked out for a city, the late George Gould thought he would beautify a portion of the West Ward with twenty-one maple trees. According to an old by-law, which is still in force, he was entitled to 25c for each tree planted. Being in easy circumstances, he never billed the town for the amount. The trees, however, grew. Mr. Gould died, and the matter was almost lost track of. Fortune was not as kind as formerly to his aged widow, and she felt the need of this uncollected money. She, therefore, billed the town, and, although the statute of limitations voided her claim, yet the councillors decided not to screen themselves behind the law, and generously paid the account, which amounted to $5.

TRAMWAY PAYS

B. C. Electric Railway Made Good Profits Last Year.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 5—A special cable from London today contains the interesting information that at the meeting of the London board of the British Columbia Electric Railway company, held on Tuesday, it was announced that for the financial year ending June 30, the company earned a profit of £157,704. This permits of the declaration of a dividend of 8 per cent. on deferred ordinary stock.

The stock of the company is divided into different classes. First, there is the 5 per cent. perpetual stock, entitled to a cumulative preferential dividend of 5 per cent. per annum; then there is the preferred ordinary, entitled to a non-cumulative dividend of 5 per cent. per annum; and, lastly, the deferred ordinary has received a minimum of 7 per cent. in any year, the preferred and deferred ordinary stocks rank rateably for any further profits which may be divided. This means that the preferred ordinary will this year draw 7 per cent. instead of 5 per cent.

ILLEGAL SENTENCE

Technical Objection Raised in New York Murder Case.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—James Blankmeyer, was today sentenced by judge Foster to "not less than twenty years nor more than his natural life" in state prison, for murder in the second degree to which he had pleaded guilty.

Former assistant district attorney Train, counsel for the prisoner stated that he will appeal the case on the ground that the sentence is illegal and void, as violating a statute providing that all sentences shall be so ordered by a judge that the prisoner's discharge shall be between May and November.

"This is a mandatory law," said judge Foster, "and I agree with counsel for defendant, in that he says the sentence is illegal, but there is no other course for me to take."

Blankmeyer pleaded guilty to shooting his wife and mother-in-law, the latter of whom died.

SOCIALIST VOTE

Total for Debs Will Not Exceed 500,000 —A Falling Off.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5—The socialist votes in Tuesday's election showed a great falling off from the record in 1904 in the three principal cities of the country in which the socialists are strongest.

Chicago, socialists who polled 45,000 votes in 1904, were given less than 19,000 votes in the police returns and the most sanguine do not expect that the revised totals will exceed 21,000 votes for Mr. Debs.

Cincinnati and Cleveland, listed as strong socialist centres. The total vote for Mr. Debs it is estimated will not exceed 500,000 in place of 1,000,000 which was predicted by enthusiastic socialists.

Is Still Insane.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—The application of John Armstrong Chandler (or Chaloner as he formally called himself) to the supreme court to set aside the finding of a jury which adjudged him insane eleven years ago and committed to Bloomingdale, was dismissed today. He was at one time the husband of Amelie Rives, the writer, from whom he was divorced.

From Prison to Pension.

LONDON, Nov. 5—The public agitation following the harsh sentence of seven days' imprisonment on John Lee, of Isleworth, for stealing six-pennyworth of plums, has brought him material aid. In fact he has the distinction of being the first man to receive an old-age pension of 5s a week, though not from the government.

Lee is seventy-five years of age.

A lady, who desires to remain anonymous, has now undertaken to provide Lee with a pension of 5s a week for the remainder of his life, and Mr. Boswell received a check for the first quarter's payment yesterday. It will be paid to Lee 5s every week.

FREE FIGHT

Members of Ecuadorin Congress Have Riotous Scene.

QUITO, Ecuador, Nov. 5—The extraordinary session of the Ecuadorin congress has just been concluded, with riotous scenes that ended in a serious fight. A number of ministers, particularly the minister of finance were warmly attacked by the minority in the house, who accused them of being participants in extensive frauds. The supporters of the government retaliated by assaulting the minority deputies while they were leaving the congress, many of whom were wounded in the encounter.

MORSE AND CURTIS

Both Found Guilty in New York Yesterday.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—That the wait for a verdict in the trial of Chas. W. Morse and Alfred Curtis, the bankers, will be a long one became certain at 11.30 this forenoon when, after nearly 20 hours of deliberation, the jury came into the court and asked for further instructions on pointes of law involved.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Chas. W. Morse and Alfred Curtis, who were on trial for violating the national banking laws, were found guilty today. The jury recommended clemency in behalf of Mr. Curtis.

HALIFAX FIRE

Hard Battle Against Flames—Four Firemen Injured.

HALIFAX, Nov. 5.—For three hours this evening the entire city fire fighting apparatus was battling with flames in Black Brothers' four storey brick building on Water street, and it looked for a time as if the entire block, including Pickford & Black's steamship warehouses, would be swept away. The fire started in a room on the top floor of the building in which a large quantity of pressed hay was stored, and the smoke was so dense that it was some time before the flames could be checked. Four firemen were injured and had to be removed. The building was occupied by the offices of the M. E. Keefe company and G. C. Cook, fruit importers.

A Dramatic Incident.

PARIS, Nv. 5—A dramatic incident occurred in the Palace of Justice at Besiers in the middle of a thunderstorm recently. A witness whose veracity had been questioned by the judge lifted his hand and exclaimed: "May I be struck by lightning if I am not telling the truth!" The words were hardly out of his mouth before lightning struck the building, and the witness fell on the floor in an agony of fear. He was unhurt, and, rising to his feet, he confessed himself guilty of the crime of which he had just accused another man.

Canadian Trustees.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—At a meeting of the trustees of the Mackay companies held today R. Meredith, of the Bank of Montreal, Montreal, was elected a trustee. In view of the large holding of the Mackay companies shares preferred and common held throughout Canada it was felt that Montreal should be represented on the board of trustees. The Mackay companies have now two representatives in Canada, Mr. Meredith and R. A. Smith, of the firm of Osler and Hammond, Toronto.

CASA BLANCA

Germany and France May Go to War

NEITHER WILL GIVE WAY

GREAT UNREST EXISTS IN BOTH COUNTRIES OVER SITUATION—GERMANY SEEKS TO DIVERT ATTENTION FROM EMPEROR'S INTERVIEW.

BERLIN, Nov. 5—The relations between France and Germany are again disturbed through Germany's seeking from the French government the release of the Germans who deserted from the foreign legion at Casa Blanca and additional satisfaction for an alleged assault made upon a subordinate officer of the German consulate at that place.

The French foreign office wishes to submit the matter to arbitration and the French ambassador is endeavoring to reach an agreement with the German foreign office to this end, but so far without success. Several of last evening's papers took up the subject and declared that it is now necessary for Germany to insist upon her rights.

PARIS, Nov. 5—While it is not believed in official circles that Germany will make the Casa Blanca incident the subject of an ultimatum, a considerable disquiet exists here and the opinion continues that Germany is seeking to inflict diplomatic humiliation upon France as a diversion from the situation arising at home from the publication of emperor William's now famous interview. The incident in question arises from the desertion from the foreign legion of the French army of a number of German subjects and their prosecution by the German authorities at Casa Blanca. This time, however, France is determined to stand firm. Paul Cambon, the French ambassador at Berlin has been instructed to notify Germany that France maintains her view that the whole question should be arbitrated, and that in the meanwhile she declines to release the deserters, to reprimand the officers concerned, or to exchange regrets with Germany. At the same time the chances are that St. Petersburg and London have been informed of the exact situation. Premier Clemenceau declared today that he was ready to go before the chamber of deputies on the issue, and resign if he were not upheld. The press of Europe, of every shade of opinion, with singular unanimity, voices the approval of the government's act and declares that a backdown would be equal to the moral end of France.

PARIS, Nov. 5—The Temps is of the opinion that the present situation in Europe makes it absolutely impossible for Germany to risk an armed conflict. "It would be a crowning imprudence," this paper says, "for prince von Buelow to risk a war when Austria-Hungary is absorbed in the near east, when the Balkan states are ready to close the German roads to the eastward and when Russia, aroused by a wave of Slavism is prepared to seek a national revenge. France, morally and from a military point of view, is capable of defending her dignity; Great Britain is undisputed mistress of the sea and Italy is less and less disposed to sacrifice herself in the cause of another state." In conclusion the Temps advises the government to publish the French case to the world.

BERLIN, Nov. 5—The view point of Germany in the Casa Blanca difficulty was explained officially by the foreign office this morning with the express desire that it be cabled to America in order to clear up any existing doubt. "All we demand," said an official of the foreign office, "is a simple expression of regret from France for the violence against the German consular officials at Casa Blanca, and unless this is forthcoming there would be no use of conducting further negotiations. Concerning the other points of difference we are prepared to arbitrate.

PARIS, Nov. 5—An extraordinary session of the cabinet was held at noon today and the decision not to accede to German demands was unanimously ratified.

BERLIN, Nov. 5—The German newspapers which hitherto have been almost silent upon the recent phases of the Casa Blanca incident, have suddenly placed this question in the position of the first importance. The controversy is treated as being extremely disquieting and involving the national honor. Public feeling is appealed to by various influential journals in the provinces as well as by those in Berlin. The summoning of the foreign office subdivision of the Bundesrath, the federal council, which is of rare occurrence, is required under the constitution. The government's communication regarding the state of negotiations between France and Germany is considered to indicate that the present situation is serious.

KOENIGSBURG, Germany, Nov. 5—The Allemeine Zeitung, the principal national liberal organ of the eastern provinces, publishes a semi-official note as follows:

"There is good reason to believe that the Franco-German discussion of the Casa Blanca affair is sharpening and soon will become an open conflict. The negotiations certainly still are proceeding but German patience must sometime reach its limit. If France in the meantime does not decide to yield to moderate German demands, then Germany will be compelled to speak more plainly. The foreign affairs committee of the federal council which will meet on Saturday will have to decide how this is to be done.

PRINCE RUPERT

Ideal Winter Weather Work for 500 Men is Likely.

(Special Correspondence)

PRINCE RUPERT, Nov. 1—It is claimed from non-official sources that before the end of the present month contracts for the planking of the streets of Prince Rupert will have been let and fully 500 men will find employment, the lowest wages to be paid being $3 per day. Unlike other public works of this kind there will be no contractors' boarding houses and the men employed on the works can board anywhere in the town.

A most novel state of affairs exists in Prince Rupert in the fish industry. Although within 20 miles of the most extensive halibut banks in the whole world, not a fish can be had in Prince Rupert for love or money as all the fishermen for the past two weeks have been taking a well earned holiday.

For the past week the residents of Prince Rupert have been enjoying ideal clear winter weather with the mercury ranging around zero. In consequence of this weather and the recent fall of snow, deer hunting is the chief pastime and now venison is very plentiful in town.

Word has reached here from Goose bay, some 80 miles north of Prince Rupert, to the effect that great mining activity now exists in that camp. One mine, under the management of a Mr. Rogers, is now working 80 men. A recent discovery of a ledge of four feet of copper ore has created great excitement and in consequence mining men and prospectors are flocking to Goose bay. From present indications this will be the leading mining camp on the north Pacific coast.

Over 100 people arrived on the Transit last Thursday and most of them will remain here with expectations of getting employment on the planking of the streets as soon as the contract is let.

Prince Rupert can now boast of a place of amusement as L. Roy of the Dominion club has opened up a moving picture show in his new club premises in Knoxville. This is the first place of amusement in this northern point.

NEWFOUNDLAND FIGHT

GOVERNMENT AND OPPOSITION NEARLY EQUAL

ELEVEN SEATS HAVE YET TO BE HEARD FROM

ST. JOHN'S Nfld., Nov. 5—Two more districts, Trinity and Placentia, sent in their returns for Monday's election today and these results bring the total number of seats retained by the premier, sir Robert Bond, up to 13, while his opponent, sir Edward Morris, head of the people's party, has captured 12. Returns are not yet complete for 11 out of the 36 seats in the next colonial legislature.

HALIFAX, Nov. 5—Whether the Bond government has been sustained in Newfoundland is not yet known. From present indications the election is very close but not until tomorrow night at the earliest, will the result be known. Owing o the cumbersome methods of counting the returns it will likely be Friday or Saturday before the complete results of Monday's voting will be arrived at. A better showing was made by the government today.

Tuesday night the opposition were in possession of eight seats while the government had but three. Returns today gave the opposition three more while the government got five.

Thirteen more seats remain to be decied. The government's wins today were St. John's East, where Kent, Shea and Dwyer are returned by majorities of 900 to 500. St. John's West has probably elected sir Edward Morin, leader of the opposition and his colleagues Bennett and Kennedy. They have a big lead at the last bulletin. In Placentia Jackman, Sullivan and Davis, government candidates, have leads on every bulletin, while in Trinity, Cushue and Mills, government, and Watson, opposition are leading.

MADE A BLUNDER

China Resents Visit of Part of American War Fleet.

PEKIN, Nov. 5—The United States squadron has left Amoy, still the matter of their presence at this port has not been more than mentioned in Pekin. Officials are silent but the impression of general humiliation over the fact that only a squadron came instead of the whole fleet, cannot be concealed. The meagreness of the reply of the foreign board to admiral Sperrys' message of congratulations on the birthday of the dowager empress, has attracted attention and it is clear that the throne has been indifferent to the whole affair. There are people also who point to the fact that Amoy has had a severe storm, while the weather in the north has been beautiful and clear, as an evidence of the mistake of the authorities in selecting Amoy as a port of call. It is generally realized and declared in Pekin that the coming of the squadron and not the main fleet will have an unfortunate effect upon present relations.

The principal British newspaper in China, in an unfriendly editorial article today approves of the sending of a squadron instead of the whole fleet and it refers to America's gambit in opening a commercial lottery after returning an indemnity to which she was not entitled. The paper gives various reasons why the fleet should not have come, saying among other things that China would have misinterpreted a visit from all the vessels and that the presence of the entire fleet would have shown lack of consideration of British sensibility.

THE WHITE CITY.

Will Be Revived in 1909—Name May Be Changed.

LONDON, Nov. 5—There can be no doubt that the White City will be revived in 1909. It has been decided to call together a fresh committee, which is likely to contain German and American as well as French and British members. The probable scope of next year's exhibition is indicated by the suggestion that the name should be "International and Colonial" or "Foreign and Colonial." The director general will be Mr. Imre Kiralfy.

Should there be a deficit when the auditing of the accounts is complete, which, thanks to the crowds and weather of the past three months, now seems very unlikely, the scheme for a new exhibition provides that the guarantors wil escape any loss. Consular reports show that the movement towards a new exhibition is stimulated by the satisfactory reports which have been made regarding the success of the White City.

HOW COUNTRY IS ROBBED

Extraordinary Evidence is Given by Government Contractor at the Marine and Fisheries Department Inquiry Being Held by Mr. Justice Cassels

QUEBEC, Nov. 5—At the enquiry into the affairs of the marine department by judge Cassels yesterday afternoon J. J. Murphy, cement, building and lumber merchant, Quebec, said he never made any tender for supplies to the government, but according to his books from 1904 to March 1908 was favored by J. U. Gregory, marine agent, with orders for cement and lumber amounting to $45,429.48 and in order to get spot cash he drew on Gregory, or got Gregory's check by paying him a commission of 5 per cent. In all, he had paid Gregory $3,803.48 not to get trade, but to get his money right away instead of waiting four or five months for it. He also had to pay some gratuities to other members of Gregory's staff. Mr. Murphy said he used to charge the department not only the retail price but at least 10 per cent. on regular retail prices. The commission he paid Gregary was added to the price charged the government.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5—A dispatch to the Tribune from Denver says that a monster petition to be circulated among the women of America and then submitted to president-elect Taft, is the immediate plan of the National American Women's Suffrage association. The announcement of this fact was made yesterday by Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the association. A special appeal was made to the Colorado women to assist in the movement by securing the signatures of every woman in the state.

Mr. Taft has often said he was willing the women of America should have the right of franchise if they desired it. The president said: "Now is the time to give him an opportunity to show what he meant by this statement."

The motion ends—"Whereas the attitude of the president has been treasonable to the country, false and recreant to the league, the office be declared vacant, and that we now nominate and elect a new president."

MISS PANKHURST ACTS AS LAWYER FOR THEM

AFTERMATH OF PARLIAMENTARY RAID IN COURT

The London papers give interesting accounts of the proceedings in Bow St. police court when Mrs. Pankhurst, Miss Christable Pankhurst and Mrs. Drummond were brought before magistrate Bennett in connection with the disturbances raised at the house of commons as the result of the suffragettes advertising a raid.

Superintendent Wells, of the "A" division, an officer of a genial humor, related his various conversations with the leaders of the union. On the first occasion on which he saw them at the office in Clement's Inn, Oct. 2:

"I pointed out to Mrs. Pankhurst and her daughter," said the superintenrent, "the very great danger of bringing so large a concourse of persons into the vicinity of the parliament, and told them, and told them it would certainly lead to grave disorders, and probably serious accident."

IN A GENERAL'S UNIFORM.

On Sunday, in Trafalgar square, he saw Mrs. Drummond first. He knew her quite well, and she wore a special costume—a general's uniform, added the witness, amidst laughter. She handed him some bills and distributed others. These invited the public to help the women to "rush" the house of parliament on Tuesday.

As a result of these handbills and speeches on Sunday, said the witness, a very large demonstration took place on Tuesday evening in the vicinity of parliament and of Caxton Hall. Scenes of disorder occurred, leading to the arrest of thirty-seven people. The traffic was fully disorganized for four hours, and for three hous there was great disorder. At ten o'clock, assisted by mounted police, he had to clear the streets. A very large body of police were on duty, and some seven or eight sergeants and constables were injured. Ten persons were treated at Westminster hospital. All this disorder, witness added, took place after 7.30 o'clock, the advertised time of the demonstration.

WAS MR. LLOYD-GEORGE THERE?

When Miss Pankhurst rose to cross-examine her chief anxiety seemed to be to clear the defendants from any imputation of bad faith in their dealings with the police, and the superintendent admitted that they had not given any undertaking in actual words to appear in answer to the summonses, though, he was under the impression that they meant to come. The crowd in Trafalgar square was quite orderly and respectable, he agreed.

Miss Pankhurst—"Are you aware that any member of the government was there?"

Witness—"I don't know whether I should answer that question."

Miss Pankhurst—"I think it has a bearing on the case."

Witness—"I saw one."

Miss Pankhurst—"Did you see Mr. Lloyd-George?"

The magistrate—"I think you must be satisfied with the answer that he saw one."

Miss Pankhurst—"At a later stage I shall have to require the present of Mr. Llody-George as one of our witnesses. (To witness)—Did we incite the people to do personal violence or damage to property? You did what I complain of—you brought a disorderly crowd to the neighborhood of parliament."

"What do you understand by the word 'rush'?—To make an improper entry."

Miss Pankhurst—"It would not necessarily mean that a great deal of violence should be used or weapons carried."

DIDN'T READ THE PAPERS.

Replying to further questions, the superintendent said he did not hear the speeches made by Mr. John Burns at the time of the Trafalgar square riots.

Miss Pankhurst—"The law breaker is now sitting in judgment upon others who have done far less than he did himself." (To witness)—Were you in Trafalgar square where Mr. Will Thorne, M. P., made a speech on the question of unemployment?" "No."

"Did you hear him call upon the people to rush' the bakers' shops?" "It was reported to me."

'Doesn't it occur to you that his action is more reprehensible than ours?" "It has occurred to me that he might be prosecuted the same as you are."

"You have seen Mr. Gladstone's statement to the effect that the police are responsible for these proceedings?" "No; you have kept me so busily engaged that I have not had time to read the papers." (Laughter.)

Miss Pankhurst—"I tender you our most humble apologies, but we are really not responsible. Can you tell me whether Mr. Gladstone and other members of the government were consulted before these proceedings were taxn?" "I cannot."

"Can you tell me whether anything has been determined as to the length of the sentences to be imposed upon us?" "No."

"Are you aware that in a London drawing-room Mr. Horace Smith asserted that in sentencing one of our colleagues imprisonment he was only doing what he had been told to do?". "No."

"And I suppose that you have not had time to read the morning papers, and you have not seen an article in the Daily Chronicle—which appears to me to be contempt of court—calling upon the magistrate to give us a drastic punishment?" "I have not seen it."

Mrs. Pankhurst (cross-examining)—"You have recognized that this is a political movement with a political object?" "Yes—but not in inciting to riot."

Mrs. Drummond (cross-examining)—"You recognize that this is a political movement?"

Witness—"Yes; you want something that you can't get."

Mrs. Drummond—"I should like to ask Mr. Wells if he roesn't think we are going to get it?" "I cannot answer that."

TOOK THE SUFFRAGISTS' WORD.

In further corss-examination witness admitted that he might be mistaken in thinking that the defendants promised to appear in answer to the summonses. He had always regarded the suffragists' word as reliable. Unless the defendants had been very much disguised they would never have got to the meeting at Caxton Hall on Tuesday evening. It had not occurred to witness that by breaking the law the suffragists might become law-makers as Mr. John Burns had done.

Miss Pankhurst—"Do yau remember the speech made by Mr. Lloyd-George in Swansea the other day? He incited his supporters there to fling the women out ruthlessly. Don't you agree with me that that was incitement to violence?"

Witness—"I cannot express an opinion."

Inspector Shepherd gave formal evidence as to the defendants being present at Queen's Hall on Monday afternoon at the time originally fixed for the hearing of the summonses against them.

This was the case for the prosecution, and Miss Pankhurst again applied for an adjournment, which was granted, the magistrate offering to accept bail in two sureties of £50 for each of the defendants.

Mrs. Pankhurst—"You can take our be no difficulty about that."

Mrs. Parkhurst—"You can take our word."

The magistrate—"I must have bail as well."

Miss Pankhurst—"Very well, you have both." (Laughter.)

BRYAN'S VIEW

Rejected Candidate Hopes Still to be of Use to State.

LINCOLN, Nov. 5—While not caring to discuss at this time the political effect of democratic victory in his home or analyze the cause, William Jennings Bryan, in an informal talk to a number of friends who called on him, expressed his pleasure at the result in Nebraska and the satisfaction afforded to learn of the election of so many of his political and personal friends. A delegation numbering nearly one hundred from Lincoln visited Mr. Bryan at Fairview to express to him their confidence and devotion and to assure him that such was the sentiment of a majority of the people of this city and state.

Mr. Bryan in responding, said:

"I am highly gratified over the results in this state. The national defeat has not been such a disappointment when we have had so many thousands to console us. I hope I have convinced my friends that running for office has only been an incident to my work. My heart has never been set on holding office but I wanted to do certain work and it looked as though the presidency might offer the opportunity to do that work. In private life I can have the chance to do something. One is not required to hold office in order to do big things, one is simply required to do the best things within his reach and that much is within the reach of each of us.

"Personally I shall find as much joy being out of office, if the returns show I must be, as I would be in office. I hope still to be of influence to bring about needed reforms. I appreciate the loyalty of the people near us, it has been the greatest comfort that the election has given us. The fact that those among whom we live have shown this confidence we appreciate more than I can tell you. It has been very kind of you to come out here and visit us this day."

DOCTORS ASTONISHED

Lowell Woman Who Sleeps for Days and Days.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 5—Miss Louisa Pietta who has at various times astonished physicians by her long slumbers is again asleep. She has not been awake for five days. Her last long sleep was from June 5 to June 29 and on various other occasions she has slept from one to three weeks without waking. Physicians are at a loss to explain the cause of the peculiar malady. She seems to suffer no ill-health from her long sleeps and when she awakes she is under the impression that she has slept but a single night.

HIS LAST WORDS

Aeronaut Killed in Balloon Ascension Yesterday.

PRINCETON, Ill., Nov. 5—Professor W. G. Kramer of St. Louis was dashed against the chimney of the Methodist church here yesterday and killed, while making balloon ascensions at the Farmers' fair. Glen Madden, a 17-year-old boy, who was standing near the chimney was struck by a brick falling from the chimney which was wrecked by the balloon, his skull was fractured and he may die. A strong wind was blowing and efforts were made to persuade the aeronaut not to attempt an ascension. In reply he said: "I will make the jump today if I should break my neck doing it." These were the last words he spoke as he left the earth. When the ropes were loosened the balloon shot upward and before professor Kramer could unfasten the rope which held his parachute to the balloon he was hurled against the chimney. His chest was crushed by the blow. The balloon bounded along on the roofs and collided with the steeple dragging the unconscious balloonist after it. The rope which held the balloonist then broke and he fell to the roof of the church, rolled to the edge and plunged to the ground thirty feet below.

BURIED FROM THE WORLD

THIBETAN MONKS IMMUNE THEMSELVES IN CAVES

SELF-MORTIFICATION OF AN APPALLING KIND

Sven Hedin, writing in Harper's magazine for September, says:—Once in Thibet we passed two young lamas from Kham. They did not walk like ordinary pilgrims, but literally measured off the distance with their own bodies. Lying down full length on the ground, they would join their hands over their heads and read a prayer, then make a mark on the road, arise, join their hands together again over their heads, and, muttering a prayer, take a few steps forward to the mark, to fall full length once again and repeat the entire ceremony all the way round the mountain. Performed in this manner by "prostration," the journey took twenty days. The two lamas we saw had only done about half the distance, and they contemplated doing the whole journey twice. One of them was to return there after having completed his duty as a pilgrim. The other—he was barely twenty years old—was to pass the remainder of his earthly life in a dark grotto on the banks of the Upper Tsangpo.

Few forms of self-mortification are of such value as this life spent in the dark, this absolute separation from the world, from one's fellowmen and the light of the sun. In Linga-gunpa I obtained much valuable information regarding this curious custom. In the prayer grotto at that place—a little stone hut at the foot of a cliff—was then a lama who had already been immured for three years. No one knew him, no one knew whence he came nor what his name was, and even were one to know his name it was forbidden to mention it before human beings.

But they told me that the day he went into the grotto he was followed in most solemn procession by all the red monks of the monastery, and when all the ceremonies prescribed in the holy books had been gone through, the narrow entrance into the grotto had been closed up again.

We were standing outside it. I asked the head lama whether he could hear us talk. He replied, "Oh, no; he can neither hear nor see. He is sunk night and day in profound meditation." "How do you know that he is alive?" "The food (tsamba) which is passed in to him once a day through an underground passage is eaten up by the morning; but should we find the dish untouched one morning, then we should understand that he had died." A stream runs through the cave in the daytime; by this means he gets water.

How wonderful! For days and weeks I could not drive the picture of this lama out of my mind. Never to hear a human voice, never get a glimpse of the sun, never to see the difference between night and day, only to know of the approach of winter by the lowering of the temperature.

I pictured to myself the day when he was entombed in the case. He sat there alone and watched them fill up the opening with blocks of stone—the light growing continually less, till finally only a tiny little hole was left. Through this he took his last farewell of the sun, and when that too was finally closed up he remained in complete and utter darkness; since that time three years had now elapsed. In another temple like Ligna absolutely unknown by Europeans, a lama had lived immured in this manner for sixty-nine years!

HALLEY COMET COMING

SEVENTY-FIVE YEAR VISITOR VISIBLE NEXT MONTH

IS RACING THROUGH SPACE TOWARD THE EARTH

After an absence of seventy-five years Halley's comet (so named after the astronomer who determined its orbit) is on a return trip.

This month it will be unusually faint and will then probably only be discovered with the aid of the camera.

After October, 1909, the comet will probably be visible to the unaided eye. Even now it is nearer to us than Saturn and is rushing forward at the rate of 520 miles a minute. After it passes Jupiter, the next planet on its way, the speed will increase to 783 miles a minute. It will then plunge through the zone of asteroids or tiny planets which wander between Jupiter and Mars. Woe to any small asteroid it may encounter on the way, but worse still for the comet should it crash head head on in its mad careet into the giant planet Jupiter, the great disturber of comets.

It is a well known fact that the giant planet has a way of annexing comets and even tiny asteroids which may happen to drift his way in a most unprincipled fashion. Suspicions have been aroused concerning two new moons acquired of late years, which doubtless were once members of the asteroid family. Jupiter has been gravely accused by some learned astronomers of exerting his mighty influences on the helpless worldlets and adding them to his own family circle. Not only that but he has reached out for passing comets, and captured no less than thirty which are now recognized and spoken of as Jupiter's "family" of comets.

After passing Jupiter, the asteroids and Mars the comet will increase its speed to 1284 miles a minute, dashing onward past our planet at the increased rate of 1548 miles a minute, and rushing frantically around the sun as though to escape its intense heat at the rate of 1878 miles a minute. By that time it will have reached the limit of the pace that kills, for an increase in speed of about 17 miles a minute would end disastrously. The comet would be drawn along a path so changed in direction that we would never see it again.

On May 2nd, 1910, or one day before the comet makes its nearest approach to the sun, it will pass Venus.

On June 12th, 1910, the comet will pass within five to ten million miles of the earth's orbit, and then gradually recede into space, after making its obeisance to its mighty ruler, the sun. As it recedes the comet's pace will decrease, as though worn out by the stupendous efforts already made. Passing by Neptune, its speed will have slowed down to sixty-five miles a minute, and by this time it has reached its greatest distance from the sun it will have declined to the rate of thirty-nine miles a minute.

It is impossible to say anything regarding the position of the comet in the sky as observable from the earth until certain computations have been made. A prize has been offered by the German Astronomocial society, of 1000 marks for the most exact calculation, and when it is made we shall know exactly where to look for the comet.

As to the appearance of the comet on its return, it depends entirely upon its position with regard to the earth and sun. If the earth happens to be near the comet about the time of its passage round the sun, when the comet's light is necessarily greatest and the train most extended, then we shall have a splendid view of the glorious spectacle. At its return in 1759 the comet had a train fifty degrees in length, and was best seen in the southern hemisphere. That is, the train of the comet extended to a distance equivalent to a little more than half the way from the zenith to the horizon.

At its next return, in 1835, it was somewhat shorn of its splendor, for its train was but fifteen degrees in length. How the comet will look on its next return it is impossible to conjecture, but it is to be hoped that it will treat us to a display worthy of its former reputation.

ARCHDUKE FERDINAND OF AUSTRIA STIRS UP TROUBLE

RESPONSIBLE FOR MUCH OF PRESENT EUROPEAN UNREST

VIENNA, Nov. 5—While annoyance has been aroused in England, France and Russia with regard to Austro-Hungarian diplomacy, on account of the unexpected way in which the conditions of the Berlin treaty have been disregarded, the man who is at the heart of the matter and is the spiritus rector of the Vienna foreign office, remains in obscurity, and is surrounded by that mystery which is his chief desire and also the source of his power. The archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir to the Austro-Hungarian dominions, is this man behind the scenes; he is responsible for everything that has been going on lately in Austro-Hungarian foreign affairs.

The archduke rarely appears in public; he detests publicity. His character in that respect reminds one of Charles V., the great Spanish Hapsburg. He has no more respect for the usual standing rules of international relations than he has for the aspirations of his countrymen. He has no interest whatever in popular movements or ambitions. The people are altogether beneath him. Neither is there any love between him and the aged emperor Franz Josef, but owing to the family laws of the Hapsburg dynasty, the emperor is forced not only to listen to what archduke Franz Ferdinand says, but he is also compelled to take his wishes into consideration, whatever they may be. The emperor Franz Josef, who has ever been the personification of right and honor, allows his personal feelings to be put nito the background, and yields to what he considers to be his obligations, as chief of the Hapsburg family towards the man who will one day succeed him.

The archduke Franz Ferdinand is not the son of the emperor and it is by chance as it were, that he is heir to the throne. When the archduke Rudolph, the only son of the emperor died by his own hand in the summer house of Mayerling on January 30, 1889, the succession of the Hapsburg family devolved on the archduke Kar Ludwig, younger brother of the emperor, a man not particularly gifted but sympathetic and full of bonhomie, who in his way tried to help art and science (he was president of the Austrian Academy of Science) but who was certainly not a statesman and never had any aspirations to the throne. Even had he lived—he died six or eight years ago—he would probably not have been emperor long, for he often said that he would abdicate in favor of his son, Franz Ferdinand.

Franz Ferdinand, who is now in the forties, is tall and good looking. It was only feared that he was consumptive and he was sent for a year or so to Egypt, where he recovered. Since then his physical condition leaves nothing to be desired. He has the long, oval Hapsburg face and blue eyes. He is an excellent horseman, an dlikes to enjoy from time to time the life of a country gentleman on his large estates in Bohemia. He is gifted musically.

The archduke is a devoted husband. He married the countess Chotek, a governess in the family of the archduke Frederic, brother of queen Christina of Spain and his wife is a singularly sympathetic and homely woman. He married her after a courtship of several years and by the force of his indomitable will compelled the emperor to give his consent to a marriage far below his rank.

The emperor, bound by the code of the house of Hapsburg at last consented to a morganatic marriage, which, if some people are to be believed, may one day become a real marriage, and which will give to the present Fuerstein Hohenburg—the new title of the countess—the rank of Austrian empress and to her eldest son the right of succession—provided of course that the archduke can force the Austrian government to consent to this alteration of the Austrian sanction by which the succession to the Austrian throne is regulated.

The archduke is a staunch Roman Catholic and a very great friend of the vatican. Kaiser Wilhelm and the archduke are friends and though it may be difficult to say how far their mutual sympathy is due to personal attraction, there is no doubt that they both look upon themselves as men of destiny. This seems to be the chief link between them.

About Ourselves

Few of our readers ever give a thought to the splendid news service we are giving them from day to day. Prominent newspaper men in other cities have repeatedly remarked upon the excellence of the news service supplied by THE DAILY NEWS, and it is a fact that no other newspaper published in British Columbia has given its readers as good or as lengthy reports of the recent session of parliament at Ottawa, the Olympic games in England, of the Westminster-Shamrock lacrosse games, and in the same excellent manner in which we have covered these events, will we continue doing in all matters of interest to the public.

The Daily News

is enabled to supply this service, because we are members of and receive the reports of three newsgathering services—the

Associated Press
Western Associated Press
Canadian Associated Press

the three great news-supplying associations of Canada.

To Advertisers

We have today the largest circulation of any daily newspaper distributed in the interior of British Columbia, including especially, the Kootenay and Boundary districts, and for this reason THE DAILY NEWS is the best advertising medium in the vast and rapidly growing territory referred to, much of which is directly tributary to Nelson. This is proven by the increasing volume of advertising carried during the past year, and in advertising consistent success is the surest test, and proof of merit; therefore the increase shows that advertisers are getting direct results from their advertising campaign.

To Subscribers

As noted above THE DAILY NEWS receives and publishes the reports of Canada's three great news-gathering associations, and in addition supplies all local news events of the city, maintaining also paid correspondents in all the surrounding towns in the Kootenay and and Boundary. As special features THE DAILY NEWS publishes each week.

A Colored Comic Supplement

and starting on Tuesday, August 4th, will publish each day an installment of a new serial, a story that will appeal to all, as it is by that well known and popular writer, Rider Haggard, and is entitled

WHO DO YOU FAVOR?

In marking their ballots on Thursday next the people of Yale-Cariboo and Kootenay should give careful consideration to the question of better terms. On the securing of additional financial assistance from the Dominion, which is what is meant by better terms, depends the rapidity with which this province is going to be developed. The present provincial government is doing the best it can with the money at its disposal, but its means are limited. With the assistance of the money to which it is entitled from the Dominion the work of development would be greatly facilitated. Every part of the province is crying out for roads and bridges to be built. The local government has done the best it can to meet the situation and with the means at its disposal has done wonderfully well, but how much better could it do if British Columbia was receiving from the Dominion the amount of money to which it is entitled.

The immediate result of the granting of better terms would be the inauguration of a much more vigorous policy of development. The men are here to do the necessary work, the government is willing and anxious to undertake it and that it should be undertaken there is no resident of British Columbia who will think of gainsaying. All that is needed is the money to pay for the work and this the Dominion is withholding.

This province is unlike any other in Canada. It covers an immense area, not of level country like the prairies where roadmaking is easy and little bridging necessary, but of mountains, rivers, valleys and havines. The conformation of the country makes the development one that would engage the energies of a nation, instead of the comparatively small population which the province today enjoys. In order to do what it has the government of the province has been obliged to tax the people in ways that the people of no other province in Canada are taxed. Until the Dominion does justice to British Columbia in this matter developemnt must lag. The province will be unable to give to give that encouragement to newcomers in shape of roads, bridges and schools that they should receive and the result will be that the population will not increase as rapidly as it should and those who are in the province will continue to bear the burden of the cost of the development in the way of direct taxes.

This is a matter which is vital to the future of the province. Kootenay and Yale-Cariboo will on Thursday next say whether they are in favor of the policy of the Dominion government in refusing better terms and thereby retarding the development of British Columbia or whether they think that the fight for better terms should not be continued at Ottawa until it is won, either from the government of sir Wilfrid Laurier or its successor. A vote for Mr. Smith Curtis or Mr. Duncan Ross is a vote against better terms and against the development of the province, while a vote for Mr. A. S. Goodeve or Martin Burrell is a vote in favor of continuing the fight for justice. Which do you favor?

WHY ARE THEY HERE?

That worthy patriot Mr. Duncan Marshall, now of Edmonton, late of Ontario, has arrived here to work for Mr. Smith Curtis in the present by-election. There is at Cranbrook an implement agent from Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, who is more noted for his election work for the liberal party than for his success in disposing of his wares to farmers, and at Fernie there is a wheat buyer from Regina, whose chief claim to notoriety is the work that he has accomplished at election times for the liberals.

Why are these men brought into Kootenay to take part in this election? Mr. Duncan Marchall does not manage a non-union printing shop in any part of Kootenay as he does at Eedmonton, there is no market for that agricultural implement man's wares at Cranbrook, nor is there any wheat at Fernie for the Regina man. Why then are these three worthies here? They cannot tell the people of Kootenay anything about better terms, or a white British Columbia. What do they care about either of these questions?

Of course, Mr. Duncan Marshall may be anxious to tell the people why he and his master, Hon. Frank Oliver, prefer to run the Edmonton Bulletin as a non-union instead of as a union office. But does that explain why the Regina and Moose Jaw men are here? Mr. Marshall's election record in Ontario is well known. He also took part in the recent provincial election in Saskatchewan and more recently still organized northern Alberta for his master, Hon. Frank Oliver. What right do these services to the party give him to come to tell the people of Kootenay that they do not want better terms and a white British Columbia? Perhaps, however, it is election work of another kind for which Mr. Marshall and the other importations from the prairie are here.

ANOTHER OF THE STRANGERS.

Among the men who have been brought into Kootenay to tell the people of this constituency that they should not vote in favor of better terms and a white British Columbia is Dr. Clark, recently elected member for Red Deer. Here is what the Lacombe Advertiser has to say about the manner in which Dr. Clark secured his election: "While on the face of the returns Clark has a majority of 169 in this riding, yet there was enough irregularities to invalidate the election.

"One poll was not opened at the appointed place, but was opened miles away.

"Another poll, Smith's, the largest in the entire riding, was not held at all. This poll contains 92 townships. The exact voting strength of the poll is not known, but it must be considerable, as a large proportion of the homesteads are taken up and a fair per cent of the homesteaders must be British subjects here as elsewhere.

"We do not know what action Mr. Root will take in the matter, but the election is certainly invalid and a new election can be demanded."

Mr. Duncan Marshall was organizer for the part of Alberta in which this occurred.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Watch the ballot boxes on election day.

Watch every stranger for the next few days.

Why is Mr. Duncan Marshall in Kootenay?

Kaslo is today receiving a visit from Mr. Duncan Marshall. It is to be hoped that the people feel honored.

Surely the people of Kootenay and Yale-Cariboo know how to vote without the assistance of Alberta and Saskatchewan politicians.

Watch and work should be the motto of every loyal British Columbian in Kootenay and Yale-Cariboo from now until the last vote is polled.

The flooding of this constituency with election workers from other provinces reveals the reason why Mr. Smith Curtis deferred the date of the election.

Every opposition scrutineer in Kootenay and Yale-Cariboo should carefully inspect the ballot boxes on election day and should also watch the ballots when they are being counted.

What is there in Alberta and Saskatchewan politicians that makes them better judges of what the people of British Columbia want than the people of British Columbia themselves?

Mr. William A. Galliher is extending the glad hand to many a man these days that he has not seen since the last election. Would he be doing so even now if Hon. Thomas Greenway had not died leaving a vacancy on the railway commission?

What do the intelligent people of Kootenay and Yale-Cariboo think of the presence in these constituencies of all these men from other provinces. Are they here in the interests of British Columbia?

Those Alberta and Saskatchewan politicians who are now in Kootenay and Yale-Cariboo must think the people of these two constituencies an easy lot if they have any hope of cajoling them into voting against a white British Columbia and better terms.

In the by-elections in Kootenay and Yale-Cariboo the issues are British Columbia questions pure and simple. Why then is the constituency being flooded with outsiders who have no interest in British Columbia and may never see it again after election day?

Hon. Walter Scott, premier of Saskatchewan, is billed to speak in Yale-Cariboo on behalf of Mr. Duncan Ross. What makes Mr. Scott an authority on better terms for this province and a white British Columbia that he should come all the way from Regina to advise the people of Yale-Cariboo or Kootenay how to vote on them?

ELECTORIAL COLLEGE

CUMBERSOME METHOD OF ELECTING A PRESIDENT

IS SURVIVAL OF DAYS BEFORE PARTY POLITICS

The process of electing the president by an electoral college is one that it is perfectly amazing that the practical Americans have not got rid of long ago, says the Montreal Star. For generations the college has not even pretended to do the work for which it was founded. The theory was—as everyone knows—that the states would send their wisest citizens, irrespective of party, to an electoral college; and that these citizens, entirely unpledged beforehand, would there deliberate and pick out the one American best qualified to sit in the presidential chair. Of course, nothing of the sort happens. The members of the electoral college are merely counters in the game. Few people know who they are. They represent only so many republican or democratic votes for their respective states in favor of a definite set of candidates placed in nomination before they are chosen. Every man of them is bound in the most sacred way; and the nation would be outraged if they were to fail to elect the candidate to whom a majority of them were pledged.

But, while the collapse of the original plan is only grotesque, the result is most unsatisfactory. New York, for example, has thirty-nine votes in the electoral college; and this tremendous block in a body consisting of only 483 members may be cast this way or that by thirty-nine or even nine votes polled by individual electors. On the other hand, there are thirteen states which only total thirty-nine votes in the college between them; and these votes may be divided against themselves, so as to effect nothing if the states possessing them go to different parties. Again, a very small majority may cast New York's thirty-nine for the republicans, while a very large popular majority may cast the other thirty-nine for the democrats. The result might be, of course, that the majority candidate would be seated—a result which was actually achieved in 1876.

Elections by constituencies, such as we have in this country, is open to the same objection; but to a very much lesser extent. Each constituency casts but one vote in our parliament, while New York casts 39, Pennsylvania 34, and Illinois 27. Thus the opportunities to kill a popular majority are multiplied in the American cities many fold. Then, again, a president is an officer who could easily be elected by popular majority. Governors are elected that way; and they hold very analagous positions. The objection will be made that one state would not be willing to have its honest vote drowned out by what it would regard as a dishonest majorityfromanother state; but this could be offset by splitting the states up into constituencies—say the congressional districts—and allowing them to choose only as many "electors" as these would furnish. This would have the advantage of dividing New York's thirty-nine up, and taking away from a small majority in that state so commanding a position in the contest.

DUNC MARSHALL

Alberta Reformer Pleads in B. C. for Smith Curtis.

(Special to The Daily News.)

Fernie, Nov. 5.—The liberal association had no reason to complain of the numbers that turned out on Tuesday in Bruce's hall to hear the speakers who had been called in to help bolster up the cause of Smith Curtis. But while the hall was well filled the majority had come to hear the returns of the election contest south of the boundary line, which the liberal committee had advertised as a feature of the evening. The enthusiasm that presages victory was lacking and although the speakers were above the average that usually visit the riding they failed to awaken interest in the coming contest and did not advance the cause of their candidate. Mayor W. W. Tutle occupied the chair in his usual acceptable manner and did not waste any time in introducing the speakers. On the platform with him were Dr. Clark of Red Deer, Alberta, Duncan Marshall of Edmonton, and C. O'Brien. Duncan Marshall was the first to address the audience and presented the defence of his party in a very interesting and attractive manner. He produced all the stock arguments used in the late campaign and gave credit to the government for all the prosperity even down to the bountiful harvest that had blessed the agricultural districts. On the questions that effect this province he said but little, touching very lightly on the Asiatic and betters terms questions, and making but a weak defence of the government on labor questions.

Chas. O'Brien, who next spoke, presented the socialist views on public questions; made the time-honored attack on the alleged shortcomings of both the old political parties, but was not very convincing in his arguments on what the party he represents would do to alleviate the ills of the present condition. He, however, received considerable applause from the large number of socialists who were present.

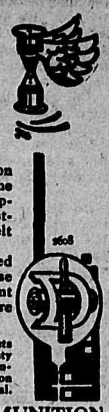
Dr. Clarke, of Ded Deer, made a strong effort to work up the enthusiasm of those present in favor of the government and pleaded hard for the election of Smith Curtis, but the audience were not in the humor to enthuse and his able efforts fell flat.

J. A. Macdonald, the leader of the opposition in the local house, and S. S. Taylor of Nelson, who had been billed to speak, failed to put in an appearance and the meeting was able to break up at an early hour.

As the date for the deferred election approaches the enthusiasm of the local conservative increases and A.S. Goodeve has gained ground in a most emphatic manner and should secure a very substantial majority in the district.

The vote on the bylaw to grant a franchise to the Kootenay Telephone Lines, Limited, resulted in a majority for the bylaw. A fairly good vote was polled in favor of the agreement, and now that the question is settled the people will be supplied with an up-to-date system within sixty days. The merchants of this city have suffered much inconvenience since they have been deprived of the service and are naturally jubilant with the result of the vote.

A long Time



Just think, it would take ten years, and keep a thousand scientists busy, to test out one lot of ammunition we sold recently in the States. The buyer was skeptical and examined our testing methods until he felt reasonably safe.

He sold the lot and waited for the results of actual use as a test. Not a complaint was heard out of the entire 7,000,000 rounds.

DOMINION AMMUNITION

SAN FRANCISCO OPERA COMPANY

Opening Performance of "Fantana"—"Dolly Varden" Tonight.

Last night at the Nelson opera house the San Francisco opera company presented the Japanese-American musical comedy, Fantana very acceptably to a crowded house. Owing to the late arrival of the company on the Crow steamer, the audience was kept waiting for over an hour but when the curtain went up and until after midnight, the tedious delay was forgotten in the sparkling music, and pretty scenes which followed.

In many respects the company is the best of its kind which has ever appeared in Nelson. There are many pretty girls, the staging was good and the costumes bright, varied and in excellent taste.

Miss Mabel Day has a charming voice which was heard to fine effect in the Farewell waltz song with Mr. Wiener and in "In my rikshaw of bamboo" Amy Leicester as the buxono maid very fairly divided the honors with Miss Day and Teddy Webb as Awkens, was the chief fun maker, keeping the audience in roars of laughter by his antics. The acting of Frank Bernard, as the French count was unusually good. The chorus at all times looked well, thanks to their costumes, but their musical efforts left room for improvement.

The company is well worthy of generous patronage during their stay here of four nights, and crowded houses should reward the enterprise which has brought such an excellent combination to Nelson.

Tonight Dolly Varden will be given and judging from the splendid reception given the opera at Cranbrook on Tuesday night last, a treat is in store for all lovers of comic opera well presented.

GOODEVE AT SANDON

Addresses Large Meeting in Opera House—Well Received.

(Special to The Daily News.)

SANDON, Nov. 4.—The conservative candidate, A. S. Goodeve, addressed a large and enthusiastic audience in the Sandon opera house on Monday evening. E. A. Cameron, chairman of the meeting, with a few appropriate remarks introduced the speaker, who, in an able and impressive speech, reviewed the political situation, dwelling chiefly on the Oriental question, and advancing as the chief step of his platform a white British Columbia. Afterwards Mr. Goodeve answered several questions to the satisfaction of his audience and the meeting drew to a close with three cheers for the conservative candidate.

Last night the socialist candidate, Mr. William Davidson, was introduced to a large audience in the opera house by Mr. Levi MacInnes, president of the Sandon Miners' union. Mr. Davidson, who hails from Sandon, received an enthusiastic reception. The meeting lasted till 11 p. m. and from a socialist standpoint was an entire success.

A DOG SUICIDED

Was Crazed With Grief at Death of His Mistress.

PARIS, Nov. 5—Grief at the death of his mistress seems to have driven a big Saint Bernard dog to suicide. He appeared in the midst of the Place Saint Sulpice, where traffic was heaviest, and got in the way of nearly every vehicle, as it were, on purpose, to the great annoyance of the drivers, who shouted at him and used strong language. The dog looked the picture of misery, and seemed to be longing for something to run over him. A motor 'bus, which came along with a tremendous rush, made straight for him. The driver did not see him in time, and the dog did not move. He let the wheels go over him, and was crushed to death. A policeman picked up the collar and read the name and address of the dog's owner. She was a lady living in the Rue du Chateau. On calling there the policeman learned that the lady had died of apoplexy only an hour before. The dog was so affected that he left the house howling, and apparently in a state of despair.

Baptist Union.

OTTAWA, Nov. 5—Convention of representative Baptists of eastern and western Canada resulted today in the formation of a Baptist union of the Dominion and all that now remains to complete the arrangements is for the Baptist conventions of eastern and western provinces to ratify what has been done and to appoint delegates to the first meeting of the federal convention to be held in Toronto. The union proposal was adopted with practical unanimity.

PAPERMAKERS' STRIKE

Men Willing to go Back But Company Decline to Move.

GLEN FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 5—The papermakers employed in the International Paper Co.'s plant at Fort Edward who went out on strike August 1, because the company proposed a 5 per cent. reduction in wages, held a meeting last night and decided, it is announced, to accept the reduction. It is reported that similar action was taken in other places where mills are locked. The local papermakers union held a meeting last night, but the officials declared that no action was taken regarding the company's offer to take the men back as a union if they would accept the cut. The local union unanimously rejected the proposal last month. The local officials of the company published a statement last night and denied the report to the effect that the company was negotiating with the president of the papermakers union to effect a settlement of the strike.

Deadly Drinking Feat.

SHEFFIELD, Eng., Nov. 5—An inquest was held at Sheffield recently on George Redgate, aged 61, a miner, of Handsworth, near Sheffield, who drank a bottle of whiskey for a wager.

Redgate was heard to remark that he could eat as much tripe as would make him a suit of clothes and a top coat, and that he "could sup a pint of whiskey in twenty-five minutes."

The bottle of whiskey was brought and three men offered to pay for it if Redgate could carry out his boast. He did this easily, drinking the whiskey in four minutes. He had to be helped home, where he lay for a day unconscious, and afterwards developed gastritis, which ended in death from heart failure.

The coroner remarked that the object of such a foolish wager—now rarer than formerly—was usually to have a laugh at the victim's expense.

Posters on Churches.

ROME, Nov. 5—A rather unexpected result is threatened from the action of the Roman municipality in assuming to itself a monopoly of bill-posting on the walls in the city. This is nothing less than the project of utilizing the exterior of the churches on which to post bills. There is very bitter feeling aroused by this project, and it is not confined to church-goers, but it also finds expression among others who have a sense of decency still left. The announcements that one meets with on the walls today are not always of the most moral character; but to put posters of this type on the facades of churches is an outrage upon decency and propriety. There are publications of the foulest character announced on the posters already affixed to the walls, and to put these or such as these on churches is a gross insult to the people who attend these places of worship. People ask what is to prevent this tyrannical authority from posting bills even within the churches.

A Perfect Godsend.

LONDON, Nov. 5—General Booth, has made the statement that the Salvation army immigrants in British Columbia have proved a perfect Godsend. The general asks, "What is the use of a big empire if we don't use it for assisting the poor struggling working people of the old country."

C.P.R. ELECTRIFICATION

SCIENTIST TALKS OF POSSIBLE PROJECT OF FUTURE

MOUNTAIN SECTIONS WOULD NATURALLY BE THE FIRST

Just what the electrification of the Canadian Pacific railway would mean were it undertaken—not at once, for that would be impossible—but within a measurable period of years, was the subject of an interesting talk with a very distinguished electrical authority, Dr. Charles Siemens, electrical engineer, a member of the great London and German house of that name, says the Winnipeg Free Press.

Dr. Siemens, who has had practical personal experience of the application of electricity to mountain railways in Switzerland, was here on his way home from Japan, where he has been employed in an advisory capacity by the Japanese government with regard to the introduction of electricity in the railways of Japan, where some of the lines which are owned by the government traverse mountainous country in which waterfalls and swift-flowing mountain streams would supply abundant power.

Mr. Siemens observed that as his mission to Japan was necessarily of a confidential character, he did not feel at liberty to discuss electrical progress in that country, but having on his way east from Vancouver made mental note of the physical features of the C.P.R., he had no objection to giving his views on the electrification of the Canadian Pacific railway as a practical proposition.

"When you speak of the electrification of the Canadian Pacific railway," said Dr. Siemens, "it must be understood that I do not postulate the introduction of electric power over all its ten thousand miles. I would not regard that as a practical proposal today, having regard to the cost it would entail and the vast amount of expensive equipment that it would throw out of service. Not $50,000,000, but hundreds of millions would have to be spent in new equipment or thrown away in the already existing rolling stock that would have to be discarded in order to make way for the electrical equipment which would have to be specially built—locomotives and cars of unique design.

"I am not surprised to find that it is the mountain section of the system that is spoken of as offering a possibly advantageous start for the introduction of electricity, for not only does the enormous quantity of water power running to waste offer an inviting prospect in the economic sense, but the operation of that part of the line by steam is of necessity extremely costly. The initial expenditure, supposing the whole of the mountain division were electrified, would on the lowest computation be very great, so great that it would have to be taken up in sections, assuming that the principal difficulty were overcome."

"And that difficulty is—"

"The difficulty—and it has to be faced at once—is the certainty of permanency of water supply in winter. Suppose the source of power in the mountains gets frozen up. The freezing up of all the waterfalls is impossible; but the waterfalls would not be the only source of power. There would be artificial dams across the rivers and other works of a structural character. The problem of the constancy of supply at high altitudes is certainly a grave one, probably the most serious that has to be encountered."

"But could it not be overcome by long-distance transmission?"

"That is what would have to be considered—the limit that would have to be assigned to distance. This would have to be subjected to economic as well as engineering tests. Then there is the application of the current to the purposes of traction."

"Wouldn't it be the trolley?"

"Oh, yes, it would have to be the trolley, but there is the question of whether it would be direct current, two-phase or three-phase alternating current. With a three-phase alternating current, which is the principle adopted by the New York Central with satisfactory results, I understand, there would have to be three wires, with two-phase four wires and with direct current two wires.

"The trouble with direct current as applied to long-distance traction is that safety necessitates a low voltage, because there could be no transformer on the train. The transmission of the current at high voltage introduces elements of danger that you avoid with the alternating current. You have seen the sparks flying from the street cars during a rainstorm? That will illustrate what I mean. I mention these things just to show how little they know who talk about the electrification of the Canadian Pacific railway as if it were a thing that could be done in a day or even in a single generation."

"Is it to be assumed that the electrification of the prairie section would be more difficult than the mountain?"

"More difficult in the practical sense, inasmuch as it would be the more costly to operate. If you are to rely on water power it would have to be carried enormous distances, and you would have to depend upon that or manufacture the power from steam, which would mean that the coal would have to be mined in the mountains and hauled to the centres where you produce the power.

"One thing is sure, that if the company decides to electrify it will mean the creation of an enormous demand for electrical machinery, so that there will probably be great times ahead for the manufacturers of highly specialized electric equipment. It will mean this, even if carried out, as I think it would have to be by installments of comparatively small sections at a time."

SAVE CANADIAN FORESTS

TORONTO MAN ADDRESSES LETTER TO PUBLIC ON SUBJECT

SUGGESTS LEGISLATION WITH THIS END IN VIEW

The following letter on forest preservation has been addressed to the press by A. T. Drummond of Toronto:

Would you assist in bringing before the country at large and our Dominion and provincial governments in particular, the necessity of some immediate definite action being taken to lessen and if possible prevent the occurrence of forest fires. That they are largely, perhaps wholly, preventable is the opinion of all those who have given attention to the subject. That the losses in forest wealth this autumn through these fires have run into very many millions of dollars requires no proof. One official at Washington estimated the damage in the Adirondack mountains alone, during the fires this autumn, at $1,000,000 per day, whilst another official there considered that the whole American navy could have been paid out of the losses of the first few days of the recent forest fires of the United States. And the Canadian losses this year have been much greater than those in the United States.

I need no apology for bringing this matter before you. Sir Henry Joly de Lotbiniere, Mr. Wm. Little of Montreal and myself were pioneers of the forestry movement in Canada. We have seen much useful work done by the different governments as a consequence of this movement, but the distressing fact remains that after all the legislative and educational efforts made, the greatest enemy of the forest—the forest fire—still continues in all its terrible effects. It shows that railway contractors, campers, pioneer farmers and others whose business or pleasure leads them to the woods and forests are grossly careless, especially in the late summer and autumn months and need the intervention of the strong arm of the law. We owe it not merely to ourselves, but to those who come after us and to the commercial future of the Dominion, that immediate action should be taken.

The memorandum enclosed contains suggestions for legislation, partly provinical and partly Dominion. These suggestions are open to discussion and may lead to other suggestions. An important point is to show to our different governments that in any effort by legislation to lessen these forest fires, they will have the active assistance of the press and the sympathy of the public.

Yours faithfully,
A. T. DRUMMOND.

MEMORANDUM ON LEGISLATION TO PREVENT FOREST FIRES.

The first point to consider is that forest fires are preventable. They occur chiefly in August and September, but the hot weather and lessened rain of these months do not furnish the cause of these fires, but merely supply conditions under which they spread more rapidly. The cause, with, possibly, but a rare exception in the case of lightning, is entirely traceable to sparks from locomotives or factories, to railways, railway contractors and settlers clearing land, to neglected camp fires, and to the unextinguished match. In this supposed age of intelligence, when men can foresee the consequences of their neglect, it is not right that the carelessness of some individuals or corporations should bring upon the country losses constantly to hundreds of thousands of dollars, and, in recent cases, to millions of dollars, and should go unpunished.

It may be difficult to prove the neglect, but the moral effect will be very marked in every railway or settler's clearing and around every camp fire, if a law is passed making it an offence punishable with imprisonment to neglect to maintain a guard over the burning stumps or brushwood, or to leave guarded the camp fires, or to put them out entirely before departing.

The present criminal law relating to neglect only applied to such negligence as shows the party to be reckless, or wantonly regardless or consequences, in setting fire to any forest or trees, and is not of general application to all property—crown domain or private. Under this law there can be practically no conviction. What is wanted is a prescribed course of action for the protection of all forests, and the penalty if it is not adopted.

FOREST WARDENS.

The protection which the Dominion and provincial governments can furnish is by established fire wardens in each given number of square miles, similarly to what is now being done in some parts of Ontario. Their duties, among others, would be to protect the timber and the fish and game, to see that hunters, prospectors and other campers are made aware of and fulfill their obligations, and in the case of fires to secure assistance to prevent their spread. On properties under license to lumbermen, one-half of the cost of maintaining forest wardens should by law be made payable by the holder of the license, and not left to his option, and it should be the right of the government and not the licensee, to fix the number of such forest wardens. Where properties are owned by private individuals or corporations in the midst of the forest, they should pay for this protection in the same way, and the amount be made, like taxes, a first charge on the land.

FOREST FIRES AND CRIMINAL CODE.

The criminal law of the Dominion should be so changed as to make punishable by improvement what is now too often, with little thought for consequences, regarded as being but a trifling neglect.

Thus it should be made punishable by imprisonment if campers do not keep constant guard over their fires and entirely extinguish them before breaking up camp.

Eevery settler, lumberman, railway contractor or railway company when clearing land should, under a similar penalty,—

(a) Be forbidden to set fire to any standing tree, or to any stump over four feet high, or to any stump or brushwood nearer than twenty-five feet from any standing tree or trees.

(b) Be compelled to set fire to any brush, grass and leaves to a distance of fifteen feet around any stump or collection of brushwood before setting fire to it.

(c) Be compelled, during August, September and October, if not always, to keep proper persons on watch day and night on the land being cleared until all fires on the clearing are extinguished.

All mills, factories and locomotives operating in wooded or forest country must, under a penalty, have on their smoke stacks, spark protectors of a mesh to be fixed by the government.

Railway campanies, mills and factories operating with steam power in wooded or forest country should, under a penalty, be made responsible for the protection from fire of the woods or forests within a given distance of their respective tracks or buildings.

How to Cure a Cold.

Be as careful as you can you will occasionally take cold, and when you do, get a medicine of known ability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment and can always be depended upon. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. During the many years in which it has been in general use we have yet to learn of a single case of cold or attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

ATROCITIES IN AFRICA

Portuguese Encourage Slavery of Worst Kind.

Coming to the United States to try to interest president Roosevelt and the American people in his crusade against slavery and kindred atrocities in the Portuguese colony of Angola in West Africa, lieutenant general Francois Joubert-Pienaar, a former Boer leader, but now a subject of king Edward VII, is in New York. He will seek an audience with president Roosevelt within a few days.

According to the general, conditions in the Portuguese possessions are far worse than those of the Congo region. For a time he lived in Lobango, Angola and he tells of little boy slaves being sold and given away in the province. He says the weak are overpowered by slave traders and that men, women and children are captured and turned over to the traders for arms and ammunition. Taken to the Cocoa islands, they never return.

"I have visited the islands," said the general. "The condition of the poor negroes is unspeakable. They are forced to work from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day. Now and then they get a few coppers with which they buy a drink. They are never paid the stipulated wages and they are treated like beasts."

The general said he could furnish proof of cases where women owners had had women slaves deliberately whipped to death and no punishment thought of. He could prove the existence he said, of farms where slaves are bred and reared like cattle. He was prepared to show, he said, the system by which raids are made and murder calmly practiced in order that women and children slaves may be obtained. He had proof further, he said, that the "indenture" system was the thinnest of disguises for absolute slavery.

"These things are done with the connivance, if not approval of the Portuguese government," said the general.

NEWS OF THE DOMINION

WINNIPEG, Nov. 5—Seven laborers were instantly killed Tuesday afternoon on the line of the Transcontinental railway, 18 miles north of Dryden, by being buried under tons of rock which was hurled upon them by a premature discharge of a large quantity of dynamite. Four others were terribly maimed or injured in the same accident. Every one of the 11 men, including their foreman, who were working in a deep rock cut, were involved in the disaster following the terrible explosion and the four men who were picked out from under the rocks a few minutes after, were so painfully cut and bruised that they were unable to furnish a statement of how the affair occurred.

(Western Associated Press.)

KENORA, Nov. 5—A dynamite explosion, resulting in the death of three men and terrible injuries to another, took place on Tuesday morning at Olsen and Larson's camp on the G.T.P. construction, about 24 miles north of Ingolf. The killed are Nelson P. Stube, aged 25, a native of Denmark; F. Eertoun, aged 22, a Norwegian; Olaf Christianson, aged 26, a Dane. All three were single men. The injured man is Andrew Coleburg, a Dane. His right hand was blown off and he sustained severe injuries to his head. Two other men received minor injuries from falling rock. The men were drilling a hole in the face of a rock cut and in so doing struck the base of another hole which had been exploded a few days before, but in which apparently some dynamite remained. The explosion was terrific. Stube, Elertoun and Christianson were killed instantly. Their bodies were brought in here early this morning. Coleberg, the injured man was taken to the hospital and will recover. Mr. Larson, one of the partners of the firm of Oleson and Larson, was fixing the drill up to a few minutes before the explosion occurred. He had only gone a short distance away from the cut and thus had a narrow escape.

BRANDON, Nov. 5—Cyril Rogerson, a 17 year old boy, was instantly killed here today by falling from a wagon, the wheel passing over his head.

GUELPH, Nov. 5—After being shrouded in mystery for a little over two years, the fate of George Brown, an old resident of Guelph, and for many years postmaster of a small place north of this city, has been cleared up by the discovery in South river, New Ontario, of a decomposed body, which has been identified as that of Mr. Brown. Mr. Brown was returning from McGregor, Man., over two years ago when he fell off the train and sustained injuries to his head which are supposed to have unbalanced his mind and caused him to wander off.

FREDERICTON, Nov. 5—John McKay, one of the victims of the Minto stabbing affray on Sunday night, died early this morning. Christopher Pettley, the other victim, is still alive. John Endine, the Italian who did the stabbing, will now have to answer to the charge of murder.

TORONTO, Nov. 5—After learning of the shortage in the accounts of teller McCallum of the Farmers' bank, city brokers came to his aid and the shortage was reduced to about $3000. McCallum was discharged from the bank's employ. No criminal proceedings have as yet been taken.

BARRIE, Nov. 5—At the annual convention of the Ontario W.C.T.U. yesterday a resolution was unanimously passed urging women to exercise their franchise powers on all occasions where possible and to encourage other women to do likewise so that elections in municipal and other contests be secured and the liquor traffic be banished from homes.

MAKES THE KIDNEYS ACT TO OVERCOME RHEUMATISM

To make up enough of the "Dandelion Treatment" which is claimed to be relieving nearly every sufferer who uses it for backache, kidney complaint, sore weak bladder and rheumatism; get from any good prescription druggist one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, and three ounces Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Those who have tried it claim that it acts gently but thoroughly on the kidneys, relieving backache and bladder trouble and urinary difficulties before you realize it. Many cases of rheumatism are known to have been relieved within a few days, the pain and swelling diminishing with each dose.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the kidneys so that they can filter and strain from the blood and system the poisons, acids and waste matter which cause not only rheumatism, but numerous other diseases. Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffers from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do much good and may save you from much misery and suffering after while.

Macdonald, who has lived in Nelson for the past 13 years and who is one of the best known and most popular members of the legal profession in the city, had decided to accept a very flattering offer which necessitates his removal from Nelson. Mr. Macdonald has lived in this city for the past 13 years and is at the present time the president of the bar association of Nelson and also of the Nelson choral society. A very flattering offer has been made him, which he has decided to accept and he will leave in a few days for the coast to become a partner in the law firm of which Hon. W. J. METHODIST CONCERT

High Class Entertainment Given to Good Audience Last Night.

The concert given in the Methodist church last evening by the ladies of the Woman's Missionary society, was a very great success. There was a splendid attendance and the financial results were such as to gladden the hearts of the ladies who have worked so hard.

Dr. G. A. B. Hall, M.P.P., presided, and was most happy in his pleasant introductions and comments. The program as appearing in a recent issue of this paper was carried out with but few alterations.

The instrumental solos rendered by A. Wilkinson, violin, and bandmaster LaDell, clarionet, were of very high order, and were enthusiastically received, Mr. LaDell being encored. Their accompanist, Mr. Malmstrom, showed himself to be a master of the piano.

The three pieces rendered by the children were very pleasing, especially "Grandma." Little Ilene Bradley, dressed as Grandma, with her cap and glasses, reached the hearts of everyone. If cousin Jerrydiah received as great a welcome from his relatives as the children who sang of his coming, he ertainly had the good time they said he did. The solo work was exceptionally good and the quartette and double quartette pieces were all well received.

The readings given by Mrs. Shaw and Lester Patrick were very popular. Mr. Patrick has a great gift as a reader and there are certainly few who can interpret the poems of the late Dr. Drummond as he can.

The other accompanists of the evening were Mrs. J. H. Wallace, Mrs. Cryderman and Mrs. R. Newton Powell.

It is not often two church concerts are given in one week, both of a first class order and less often that they are so well patronized. The churches are certainly doing good work in providing entertainments of such a high and pleasing order.

THE UNREST IN INDIA.

Anti-European Demonstration Made in Bengal.

CALCUTTA, Nov. 5—An important notification appears in the Gazette to the effect that the order issued by the commissioner of police, prohibiting the holding of political meetings after sunset in the parks, squares and open places of Calcutta and its southern suburbs for two months, has now been extended for a further period of six months. This order, coupled with the prohibition against the carrying of sticks and other weapons by processionists, should go far towards ensuring tranquillity during the next few months.

A remarkable anti-European demonstration was made throughout Bengal on the occasion of the third anniversary of the partition of the province. The natives observed the day as time of mourning, discarding their clothes and footwear, and abstaining from food. All shops were closed in Calcutta. Specia police proclamations were posted everywhere forbidding meetings and processions after five o'clock and ordering the arrest of any natives found carrying weapons.

In consequence of the alarming rumors that the Bengalis contemplated an attack on Europeans, two companies of Gordon Highlanders were turned out for patrol duty and the remainder of the regiment was kept under arms in the fort. Two hundred police, with fixed bayonets, marched to the scene of the principal assemblage in Calcutta, while 500 other police, including plain clothes men armed with revolvers, were posted in the native city in order to be ready to quell any rioting.

Forty thousand Bengalis paraded the streets, the procession being a mile and a half long and stopping all traffic. Surendranath Banerjee, the "uncrowned king" of Bengal, was escorted by a body guard. He walked beneath the standard of Bengal. The police prevented any speeches being made by the agitators and attempts to create disturbances were promptly suppressed. A European corporation official was attacked outside the university and his carriage was stoned. One of the footmen was injured and only escaped death through the bravery of the coachman.

FERNIE HAPPENINGS

Bridge Completed Visit of J. J. Hill to East Kootenay.

(Special to The Daily News)

FERNIE, Nov. 5—The government has completed the wagon bridge across Coal creek near the brewery and have greatly improved the grade of the bridge approaching the town. The new bridge is higher than the old one and there will be little danger of its being injured by the spring freshets.

The new Fort Steele brewery is rapidly nearing completion and is one of the largest and most substantial buildings in the Kootenays. It is built of white brick and steel and presents a very handsome appearance.

James J. Hill of the Great Northern railway, accompanied by a party of officials of the road, passed through here yesterday on a special. They went as far as Michel, the present terminus of this division of the Great Northern, where they inspected the extensive improvements that are being made to the coal plant.

There appears to be no diminution of the freight that is arriving daily over the two railroads and the yard capacity is taxed to the utmost in handling it. As it will be impossible to erect the new station or freight sheds on the C.P.R. before spring, the temporary premises are being made as comfortable as possible.

THE COTTON STRIKE

Great Lockout Has Paralyzed Trade in Lancashire.

MANCHESTER, Nov. 5—The great lockout in the cotton spinning trade has now lasted over a month and already its devastating effects are being felt over the whole of Lancashire.

When the lockout began only 130,000 operatives were involved and it was hoped that an early settlement would be effected and that there would be no stoppage of the entire industry. This hope has been disappointed. As the stock of yarn became depleted no fresh stocks became available and now practically the whole of the weaving trade as well as the spinners is at a standstill.

More than 400,000 operatives are idle and it is asserted on the authority of one of the best known men in the industry that up to date over $10,000,000 has been lost in wages. This amount may be divided as follows Operatives locked out, $3,500,000; weavers and others left workless by the dispute, $6,400,000.

In addition to the loss in wages the locked out operatives have lost from their trade union funds the amount they have made in lockout pay, which now totals about $1,100,000.

But the loss to the operatives themselves by no means accounts for all the cost of the dispute. Collieries all over the country have either stopped or are working short time, owing to the falling off in the demand for coal for the hundreds of mills that are idle. It is estimated that at least

THE GUILLOTINE.

Russians Urging Establishment of Official Execution.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 5—"Stolypin's Necktie"—the hangman's hope—is getting such an evil reputation in Russia that some serious people are suggesting the guillotine as a less barbarous form of execution. Legally there is no capital punishment in Russia and people are now executed under martial law. Those who are not shot are hanged in a horribly primitive way, because there is no proper appliance for execution.

Prisoners sentenced to death in St. Petersburg are taken in the early morning under a strong guard of soldiers, to a lonely spot on the seashore and amid the pine forest. The executioner previously well primed with vodka, fastens his rope to a tree and puts his halter around the neck of the victim who is made to stand on a rough box. This is then knocked violently away, leaving the condemned man dangling. "Stolypin's Necktie. It is sometimes 15 minutes before the wretched victim ceases to struggle. The body is buried immediately after death in a shallow grave.
