VOL. 9 NELSON B. C., THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 25, 1910 NO 110

GREAT RECEPTION TO THE PREMIER

Impressive Demonstration on Arrival on Saturday

COLUMBIA RIVER MONDAY MORNING

Launch Parade to Park—Boy Scouts to Form Guard of Honor

With church bells ringing peals of welcome, with bands playing, with rockets shooting their chromatic course upwards, with torches flaring, with whistles tooting and with the streets gayly illuminated with thousands of electric lights and electrical decorative devices, the city of Nelson will receive the Premier of Canada on Saturday night in a royal manner befitting the size and importance of the Queen City of the Kootenays.

Reception at Depot.

The premier will be met at West Robson, it was announced at the meeting of the reception committee yesterday, by delegates from the local Liberal association and will be welcomed on the arrival of the train at 10:15 at the Union depot by the mayor, the president of the board of trade and a band, a large gathering of representative citizens. Sir Wilfrid will be driven immediately to the residence of L. R. DeVeber at the corner of Hendrye and Carbonate streets, where he will stay during his visit. The route taken will be brilliantly lighted for the occasion and at intervals will be stationed men with torches, who will also send up rockets as the party passes given points. This will be along Baker to Ward, Ward to Silica and Silica to Hendrye.

The rest of the premier's party will then be taken to the Hume hotel, where they will stay during their visit to Nelson.

A Quiet Sunday.

The premier will spend Sunday quietly, resting after his arduous journey, though it is possible that Mr. DeVeber may take him for a run up the lake in his launch, together with the delegates from Portland and Spokane. The rest of the party will spend the afternoon on the west arm in launches to be provided for that purpose.

Columbia River Matter.

Monday morning will be given up to the reception of the delegations from the Portland chamber of commerce, the Spokane chamber of commerce and the boards of trade of East and West Kootenay, who will urge upon Sir Wilfrid the necessary for the opening-up of the Columbia river to navigation between West Robson and the international boundary, and to delegations from the Nelson Liberal association.

Boy Scouts at Park.

At 2:30 Sir Wilfrid will leave in Mr DeVeber's launch for a trip up the lake and will return escorted by a big parade of launches to the city park, where he will arrive at 3:30. While at the park the Nelson contingent of the boy scouts will act as a guard. He will there receive an address of welcome from the citizens of Nelson, to be presented by Mayor Selous, and will then speak in reply.

Greeting at Park.

The premier will deliver his address from a large barge which will be run ashore by the steamer Nelson, and the public will congregate in front and have an excellent opportunity both of seeing and hearing Canada's first citizen. At this meeting A. S. Goodeve and Martin Burrell, members in the Dominion house for Kootenay and Yale-Cariboo have been invited to speak and invitations have been extended to all the provincial members in the district to be present. The meeting will be concluded by an informal reception of the citizens present by Sir Wilfrid. During the progress of the gathering children from the public school who have been practicing regularly during the past two or three weeks, will sing patriotic songs.

Escorted by the procession of launches the premier will return to the city wharf at 5:30.

At the Skating Rink.

The big public meeting at the skating rink will commence in the evening at 8 o'clock and will be addressed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. George P. Graham, minister of railways, and by E. E. Pardee, M. P., and E. M. Macdonald, M. P. E. Ferguson will be in the chair. After this meeting Sir Wilfrid and party will proceed to the city wharf and there go on board the steamer Kuskanook.

During the afternoon the steamer Nelson and barge will make frequent trips, commencing at 2 o'clock, between the city wharf and the park and will carry passengers free of charge.

In the event of wet weather it is announced that the meeting in the afternoon will be held at the Selkirk building on Vernon street and the other arrangements carried out as closely as

CHINESE ELECTION IN EAST CANADA

Two Members Chosen for Legislature of Kwang Tung—Will Not Attend Meeting

MONTREAL, Aug. 24—Lum Quam merchant of Ottawa, and Lee Mun How, merchant, of Montreal, were last week announced as the successful candidates for election to the provincial assembly of Kwang Tung. The polls were closed and then all Chinatown was agog to hear the results. The people were pleased and the consul general, Dr. Kong, congratulated them on their choice.

The constituency of the two new representatives is large. It begins at the eastern border of Manitoba and extends to the Atlantic ocean. Every Chinese citizen has a vote. The remainder of Canada elects another two members. Thus for electoral purposes China has divided all Canada into two parts. The election was the first of its kind that has ever been held. It is one of the most important steps in the programme laid out two years ago for the upbuilding of representative government in China. By the new constitution every native of China, no matter where he may live, has a vote. The polls will be held all through the world and the first election outside of China took place yesterday.

Over 90 per cent. of the Chinese in this portion of the country came from the province of Kwang Tung. Thus the successful candidates were elected for that assembly. They will not attend the meetings of the legislature in person, but will send their opinions and views to the viceroy, who will in turn present them to the parliament assembled. The representatives are the choice of the two big factions among the Chinese in Eastern Canada, the Hums and the Lees. There were in all 25 candidates and about 1000 votes were polled. Mr. Hum's majority was 170. He received 350 votes and Mr. Lee had 180. The remainder of the votes was scattered among the other 23.

VIGILANT CITY POLICE SCORE

Alleged Swindler Was Arrested Yesterday After Seven Months' Absence From Nelson.

Arrested yesterday on a seven months' old charge of having obtained money by false pretences Charles McEchern will appear for trial before Stipendiary Magistrate W. H. Bullock-Webster in the city police court this morning. It is alleged that McEchern on January 1 last obtained $10 from A. Lapointe of the Queen's hotel on a worthless check on the Canadian Bank of Commerce, filled out by him and signed by a man named R. T. Freeman.

He left the city the same night that Mr. Lapointe cashed the check for him and was not seen again until yesterday afternoon when Constable Ellis met him on the street and recognized him as the man for whose arrest a warrant was out.

GUARD AGAINST FIRE PERILS ON HUDSON BAY ROUTE

Foresters Detailed to Post Notices and to Warn Careless Travelers.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 24—A. Knechel, of the Dominion department of forestry, has returned from a trip of some weeks' duration through the new territory which will be opened up by the Hudson Bay railway.

From Warren's Landing down he came on the steamer Wolverine, which brought Lady Grey and Lady Evelyn Grey from seeing the governor general off on his famous northern trip.

The forestry department has recently established three parties of four men each to work in the north country along the new line. One party to operate from the Pass along the proposed line of the Hudson Bay railway; another to operate along the Nelson river to Split lake; and the third to work round between Norway House and Oxford House, and from there out towards Hudson bay.

Their duties are to post notices printed in English and French along the main lines of travel in the far north, and to meet travelers and instruct them with regard to the great necessity of putting their camp fires out before leaving them. In case a fire occurs the party having charge of the district is supposed to do their best to extinguish it. Their winter work will be to locate and to prepare a map of all tracts of timber land, giving an estimate of kinds and quantities. Mr. Knechel said he was surprised to find the country as heavily timbered as it was, although not of large dimensions.

OIL FUEL FOR LOCOMOTIVES

Should Be Compulsory in Timbered Sections

FIRE LOSSES ARE MUCH EXAGGERATED

Report from Chief Provincial Fire Warden—Cost of Fire Fighting

(Special to The Daily News.)

VICTORIA, Aug. 24—A report of very exceptional interest is that of Chief Fire Warden Wynard C. Gladwin as to the fire loss and forest protection work of the month of July, from which authoritative document it is evident there has been considerable exaggeration of financial losses occasioned by fires ravaging various timbered areas of the province during the month in review. Instead of upwards of one and a half million dollars aggregate loss Mr. Gladwin estimates the total losses of the month at $40,000 in timber and $817,760 in improvements which latter includes various mining buildings falling a prey to the flames.

Four Hundred Fires.

No fewer than 401 fires received official attention during the month, the government's expenditures in fire fighting amounting to $40,163.52 in salaries and expenses, while private companies or individuals are credited with the disbursement of a further sum of $20,000, making a total expenditure in forest protection and fire fighting for the one month of upwards of $60,000. Of the total of 401 fires upwards of 25 per cent. are attributed to C. P. R. locomotives, 95 per cent. of these fires were discovered in time and extinguished without much loss or exceptional cost of labor. Eight lives in all were sacrificed, six men perishing in the fire at the Lucky Jim mine and two others, an Englishman and a Japanese being killed by falling trees while engaged in fighting fires.

Oil for Fuel.

One paragraph, the concluding one of Mr. Gladwin's report, is of unusual interest by reason of the suggestion therein contained that the substitution of oil fuel for locomotives on timbered sections of railways in this province be made compulsory even if action upon this suggestion necessitate bonusing by the government of each engine so equipped for the use of fuel oil.

MOIR SEEN WORKING ON FARM IS RECAPTURED

Murderer Who Escaped From Hamilton Asylum Was Weed Cutting on Farm.

NIAGARA FALLS, Aug. 24—A resident of St. Davids, recognized Private Moir, who recently escaped from the Hamilton asylum, in a laborer who was working for a neighbor farmer, and 'phoned Chief Kimming, who informed the provincial police.

Three officers drove out and made the arrest early Saturday night, as Moir was weed cutting, still garbed in the asylum clothes. Moir stated that he left the asylum to escape bad treatment there, and coming to the Falls spent a day sight seeing and then hired with the farmer, Butler, for $23 per month. Butler said Moir was a handy man.

Moir would not disclose any knowledge of Taggart, the wife murderer from Toronto, who escaped at the same time. Moir claimed that they separated immediately.

Moir refused to implicate anyone in aiding his escape, but stated that Inspector Maines learned the men's names before Moir returned to the asylum.

The police do not believe that Moir is insane. They say he is perfectly rational. He escaped by means of skeleton keys, a screw driver, money and food, lowered on a wire from a window above the cell. This disposes of the story about being whisked away in an auto.

EXCELLENT FRUIT CROP IN OKANAGAN VALLEY

(Special to The Daily News.)

VANCOUVER, Aug. 24—F. W. Peters of the Canadian Pacific railway is here after a trip through the Okanagan. He says the fruit of that section will be an excellent crop and that the railway is well equipped to satisfactorily handle shipments. He thinks the grain crop of the northwest will be a hundred million bushels, but judges that this year there will not be very large shipments via Vancouver, owing to a scanty crop in the area covered by the city.

WORK ON RAMBLER.

(Special to The Daily News.)

KASLO, Aug. 24—The Rambler mine having nearly completed their wagon road reduced the crew, and as soon as the necessary buildings are completed they will resume work on this property.

VICTORIA, Aug. 24—Rev. A. Carman, D.D., was elected general superintendent of Methodist churches for eight years on the first ballot and received 173 votes out of 284. Dr. Chown was elected general superintendent of the Methodist church to reside in the west. Of 289 ballots cast Dr. Chown received 215.

MERRY EVENING ENDS IN TROUBLE

Hindu Laborers, Loaded With Greenbacks, Have High Old Time and Land in Jail.

Chair Singh and Rahadaringh, two Hindus, who have been working in the Crows Nest district, arrived in the city on Tuesday night and with their pockets loaded with greenbacks, proceeded to have a thoroughly good time.

After visiting several saloons Chair Singh and his companion amused themselves by doing weird dancing stunts to the music of the city band which was giving the regular Tuesday evening concert before a crowd of interested citizens and their families. The next proceeding of the intoxicated sons of India was to show their appreciation of the music by throwing dollar bills to the members of the band. These were, however, returned with thanks.

A visit to a picture show was the next item on the evening's program. This ended somewhat disastrously for the merrymakers, for the warmth inside the building, combined with the liquor imbibed during the evening, proved their undoing, and coming out on to Baker street, they measured their lengths on the sidewalk.

Picked up by Constable Ellis, Chair Singh and Rahadaringh explained that they were "only seeing the town." They were locked in the city jail for the night and were fined $5 and costs each by magistrate W. H. Bullock-Webster in the city police court yesterday morning for being drunk.

L. Pogue, charged with having allowed two horses to run at large within the city limits and whose case was adjourned from Monday morning, was fined $1 and costs. It was stated by Mr. Pogue in defence that he had sent a boy out to bridle the horses but that one had got free and run wild. The magistrate, in ordering the payment of a nominal fine, mentioned that it was the first case against Mr. Pogue and that it appeared that the horses had done no damage to property.

NELSON DELIGHTS COLONIZER PARTY

Enjoyed Stay at Capital of Kootenay—Thanks to Board of Trade Reception Committee.

Referring to the visit of the "Colonizer" party from England during May to this district, the following is an extract appearing in the August number of this periodical dealing with the experiences of the members of the party on their trip:

Charmed With Nelson.

"Nelson is perhaps the most charmingly situated city in Canada, and everyone in the party fell in love with the city, and there we remained for three days. Daily excursions in well-equipped motor launches were arranged for us by the board of trade, and the Kootenay people determined to outvie all other places in their pressing hospitalities upon us. Thanks to their unremitting kindness, we enjoyed our stay immensely and were entertained to luncheons daily at several of the most lovely fruit orchards upon the beautiful lake. At Proctor, the whole of the settlers took holiday en masse, and showed us over their orchards, taking pride in the industry which had carved from the forest a lovely country of contented citizens in comfortable homes. An open air picnic—kindly provided by the ladies far and near, hospitality solely prompted by the desire to let us see that even in the midst of industry and toil, they still had time to enjoy life—was greatly appreciated, and we left these kindly folk with much regret. The class of settlers is excellent, and anyone wanting an openair life with an income of ample proportions, need fear no isolation if he chooses to settle anywhere upon the glorious shores of Kootenay lake. During our stay in Nelson the weather was reasonably fine, and save for occasional showers, we had nothing to complain about. We have to thank the citizens of Nelson for a most enjoyable time, and more especially the board of trade reception committee, under the management of Messrs Kelly, Roberts, Buchan, McDennis and E. R. Boeston, secretary."

There are also reproductions of photographs of the Cottonwood Falls, and of the lake steamers, and there can be no doubt that such articles are of the greatest benefit in bringing the advantages and opportunities of this district before the notice of the many readers of this excellent little periodical which has a world-wide circulation.

MANY PETITIONS TO SIR WILFRID

Addresses Read on Arrival at New Westminster

WANTS EXPULSION OF ORIENTALS

Trades and Labor Council Makes Numerous Requests —Vancouver's Needs

NEW WESTMINSTER, Aug. 24—Queens park, the scene of many famous lacrosse struggles, was on fete this afternoon when a throng five thousand strong welcomed the premier and party who came over via the electric line from Vancouver, a daily decorated platform was erected near the centre of the enclosure while from the club house floated a streamer "World's champions welcome Sir Wilfrid." Mayor Lee extended a welcome to the premier and addresses were presented by the city council, board of trade, trades and labor council and Liberal association. The board of trade asked improved navigation facilities at the mouth of the Fraser river while the labor council urged the discontinuance of assisted immigration, the expulsion of Orientals, the adoption of an eight hour act, the creating election day as a public holiday, and opposition to the proposed protection of lumbermen. Sir Wilfrid received an enthusiastic reception and expressed appreciation that New Westminster had grown from a state of devastation, bigger and more beautiful.

(Special to The Daily News.)

VANCOUVER, Aug. 24—Sir Wilfrid Laurier and party arrived this morning from Prince Rupert all reporting the trip having been very instructive. The steamer Prince George took the party for a trip about English bay and along the north shore of Burrard inlet. At the first point the need of dredging First Narrows was fully explained and at the latter Reeve McNaught of North Vancouver pressed the claims of a bridge over the Second Narrows on the premier. This afternoon the premier went over to New Westminster where a formal reception was held, addresses being delivered on behalf of the Liberal association and trades and labor council. Sir Wilfrid leaves on his trip toward the east tomorrow morning.

Exchange Felicitations.

VANCOUVER, Aug. 24—Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. G. P. Graham, and C. M. Hays, exchanged felicitations on the Pacific near Queen Charlotte sound yesterday. Wireless was kept busy by the trio for some time and finally the vessels passing close enabled the railway magnate to wave personal greeting from the bridge of the sister ship. Subsequently the minister of railways stated that the wireless conference included nothing occasioning public pronouncement. Mr. Hays is en route to Prince Rupert to inspect construction progress.

Illuminated by Bush Fire.

The sea was brilliantly illuminated last night by forest fires on Mally island off Port Neville, north of Loughborough inlet. Flames raged among the jack pine and spruce on the snow capped mountains for a distance of three miles. The loss is heavy, covering pulp wood licenses from the provincial government.

Poor Mail Service.

The ministers are confronted with a serious problem in supplying new communities with postal service, an index to amazing settlement and development of the country. It is easy to create offices and appoint postmasters but difficult to secure the conveyance of mail on the islands adjoining Queen Charlotte many growing communities complain of not getting mail once in two months. In the interior of Bulkeley valley and the region southeast of Rupert a fertile agricultural district the railway is accelerating settlement. The problem of distribution will be generally dealt with by Mr. Lemieux on his return to Ottawa. With Captain Robertson, the premier inspected Vancouver harbor. Tonight he was entertained at luncheon by Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper.

WILL STUDY NEW REMEDY

PARIS, Aug. 24—Dr. F. Mortimer Lawrence of Philadelphia is on his way from Paris to Frankfort and Vienna to investigate the remarkable claims put forth by Doctors Ehrlichs and Hals for their recently devised preparation of arseno-benzol, also arbitrarily named "606" for the treatment of contagious diseases of the blood. All over the world this alleged discovery is now being studied with interest by advanced physicians. Many of those in France and Germany think they see in the new remedy the hope of a much more extended use than that for which it was originally intended and that it or some modification of it may prove to be a specific for

NEW WATER FLUME FOR AINSWORTH

Government Constructing Two-Foot Flume—Great Crop of Huckleberries Gathered.

(Special to The Daily News.)

AINSWORTH, Aug. 4.—F. D. Fraser, superintendent of the Kootenay Silver Lead Mining company, took a flying business trip to Kaslo on Monday evening.

Work has been just commenced here by the government on the main water flume from South street down Sutton street to the lake front. A two-foot flume will be carried all the way, which is considered of ample size and will result in a great improvement in the street. Foreman Alick McLeod has charge of the work.

A large quantity of huckleberries has been gathered here during the season. Whole families from outside towns have come in to pick them, while residents here have camped in the berry patches. Shipments have been made far and near, even to Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota, and one shipment went as far as Toronto.

J. P. Fink, mayor of Cranbrook, who has been spending a few days here, accompanied by his family, left Monday night for Kaslo.

Mr. Fleener of Kaslo was in town Tuesday calling on several of his old friends.

Mr. McGarvey of Riondel spent Tuesday here on business.

NEW STATION AND BETTER SERVICE AT NEW MICHEL

(Special to The Daily News.)

NEW MICHEL, Aug. 24—Another hotel license has been granted to Pietro Zoratti for New Michel, the new hostelry will be known as Hotel Venitia. The building will have a frontage of 66 feet by 40 feet, with a wing running to the rear of 30 by 50 feet. The cellar has already been completed and the main building will be rushed as fast as possible.

For some time past New Michel has been without police protection, Constable Morris having been sent to Moyie for relief duty, leaving the two towns of Old Michel and New Michel under the charge of one man.

The new C. P. R. station at this point will soon be completed. As soon as it is ready to be occupied there will be a regular station agent and day and night operator. The yards being more convenient this station will be used mainly for the passing of the trains, the local and the mail train stop here now. It is announced by C. P. R. officials that the flyer will stop here as well, after the completion of the new depot, and New Michel, sometimes called Natal, will be on the map.

WARM CONTEST IN SOUTH AFRICA

Dr. Jameson, Leader of Unionists, Says Party Wants Government by Best Men.

JOHANNESBURG, Aug. 24.—The greatest interest is being taken throughout South Africa in the first union elections. It is daily becoming more manifest that the centre of battle is to be Johannesburg, the Reef and Pretoria, where the leaders are brought into more direct and acute conflict with each other than elsewhere in South Africa—particularly with General Botha opposing Sir Percy Fitzpatrick and Sir George Farrar opposing Mr. Hull—and where the issues are more sharply defined and the spirit of conflict fiercer.

A meeting at the Wanderers' club marked the opening of the Unionist campaign. Both the main and the overflow meetings were crowded with people who gave Dr. Jameson an enthusiastic ovation. The Unionist leader made a great point of his personal regard for General Botha, but intimated that in his present position, General Botha was surrounded by reactionaries and that meant the negation of righteous, clean and honest government.

Dr. Jameson's Position.

Dr. Jameson further gave a frank and clear statement of his own and his party's position to the following effect. He (Dr. Jameson) had stood for the ideal of a government of the best men, irrespective of race and party. That was totally different from a coalition, which meant sacrificing principle for the purpose of banging together. In this sense General Botha and his ministry were essentially a coalition, with all the dangerous defects and weaknesses of a coalition.

The Unionists retained the "best men" ideal. They were not fighting to supplant the Boud-Hertzog-Unie combination by a Unionist-Progressive combination, but with the intention of still getting a ministry of the best men, and of obliterating the existing racial party lines.

Not only Dr. Jameson, but the other speakers specially warned their hearers against what they called Hertzogism, maintaining that it threatened to spread everywhere if unchecked, which would mean the enforcing of the Dutch language, not alone in the Orange Free State province, but throughout South Africa, in Union as well as in provincial affairs.

The remainder of Dr. Jameson's speech and of the addresses of Sir George Farrar, Sir Percy Fitzpatrick, Mr. Chaplin and Dr. Smartz contained detailed criticisms of the government, and a comprehensive exposition of the Unionist

MANY CAMPERS IN BURNED FORESTS

Feared They Have Perished in the Flames

MORE TOWNS ARE FACING DISASTER

Wallace Reports Two Hundred Missing—Refugees from Fire-Swept Montana

WALLACE, Idaho, Aug. 24.—The situation, according to latest information, shows a list of 200 missing, the result of forest fires, while the towns of Wardner, Kellogg, Burke and Murray are threatened with disasters similar to the one Wallace suffered.

Campers Missing.

The fire broke out all over the Coeur d'Alene at the same hour and as reports pour in of the dead being found in various places in the district, fear grows that many more have met death or fatal injuries who have not been missed. This is the season of the year when many of the Coeur d'Alene's reserves have several hundred campers. Few of these parties have been heard from in the confusion resulting from the disasters in a score of places. No organized effort has been made to find them.

At Wardner and Kellogg fires are approaching the town from two directions. At Burke, Idaho, the fires are three miles distant, but are coming down the canyon toward the mining company. All the stores and mines near Burke have closed and the men are out fighting the fires.

Saved by Back Firing.

At Mullan, Idaho, the town was saved by citizens who forced every man in town to work at back firing. The back firing cleared up the surrounding country of dry timber and is expected to prevent damage in Mullan. Near St. Maries, Idaho, it is believed fifty homesteaders and their families have been destroyed, though the fires are so bad that investigation cannot be made.

On Big Creek survivors of the fire who arrived here today say that seven men crowded into a prospect hole five feet long were all killed. Three men were killed in a hole by falling trees.

Foresters Killed.

WALLACE, Aug. 24—Supervisor Wigle tonight issued a statement saying that 114 of his foresters have been killed in the fires. The known dead are distributed as follows: At Grand Forks 30, at Boulder 1, Avery 12, Fig Creek 15, Placer Creek 4, Pine Creek 2, Setzer Creek 26, Bullion Mine 8, Cork Creek 20, missing 74, some of those dead have been previously reported.

Refugees Arriving.

MISSOULA, Mont., Aug. 24.—Refugees from the fire-swept district of western Montana are beginning to arrive at various points, gradually lessening the number of persons missing. Jack Cassidy, Joe Miller and Joe Kelly, three fire fighters who had been out with Ranger Friday, came in from Elk Meadows near Silver Lake last night. The party led by Friday had been given up as lost.

Lay in Water Eighteen Hours.

"We came through nineteen miles of fire to get to Iron Mountain and left fifty square miles of fire behind us," said Kelly. Four forest guards were left in the mountains to search for four lost men. There were about twenty-five of us in Friday's squad, counting packers and all the camps were surrounded by fire. Charley Bingham and Jack Cassidy were inside the fire limits for three days and had to lie in a river eighteen hours out of the twenty-four to save their lives.

Deer Lodge in Flames

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 24—Deer Lodge, Mont., a town of 3000 people and a divisional point of the Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound railway is burning. The chief ranger of the Butte fire department is preparing to leave here on a special train. The fire is not due to forest conditions, but started from some unknown cause in a business block on Main street and spread rapidly. The state penitentiary is in Deer Lodge and the guards are helping fight the fire. The inmates of the penitentiary are panic stricken.

VANCOUVER'S FIRST EXHIBITION

VANCOUVER, Aug. 24—Vancouver exhibition authorities will appeal to the Canadian Manufacturers' association at its coming meeting here for support. The plan is to agree to erect a large building for displays of eastern manufacturers if they promise support will be given by the convention, thus placing the exhibition in line with Vancouver's position as a wholesale centre. Full returns of the exhibition last week show admissions 80,000, with receipts $55,000. The association will have a surplus of $12,000 from the week.

LVERETT W. SAWYER

BIG PEAT BOG IN SOUTH VANCOUVER

Deposit Along Line of Tram Between Eburne and New Westminster Being Developed.

For a period of ten years, Vancouver's fuel supply could be cut off, and yet its citizens would not have to eat their beef raw, or stay in bed all day during the winter months to keep warm. Not a bit of coal, of wood, gas or electricity would have to be used, none of the present day agencies for producing heat employed, and yet the people would be just as comfortable, and eat just as well cooked meals as they have in the past.

Out in the Burnaby district lies a barren, dreary stretch of land, four miles in length, varying from two and a half to three-quarters of a mile in width, and beneath the scanty vegetation that covers an apparently worthless marsh, lies the fuel that some day the citizens of Vancouver will be using.

Typical Irish Bog.

The land in question is a bog, a typical Irish bog, and the substance beneath the brush is peat, used for centuries as fuel in the Emerald Isle, and pronounced to be one of the best and cheapest means of producing heat. Here, within seven miles of the center of this city is the future fuel supply, millions and millions of yards of it, to be had by a simple turning of a spade. Here is the place the people will turn to when the supply of wood grows smaller, when the price of coal goes up a few more dollars per ton.

Nor has this splendid deposit of nature's wealth been entirely overlooked by local people. At present there is a plant operating on the bog, the deposits are not being turned into fuel, but employed for the novel use of bedding for rich men's horses. This plant, owned by Mr. W. J. Kerr, of New Westminster, is at present turning out about twenty-five tons of ground peat every day, and shipping it, in bales resembling baled hay, to all the fashionable stables of Vancouver, Victoria and Nanaimo.

But the horse bedding industry is not an important one, and it is not probable that the great wealth of the barren bog will be known long before the horse bedding will be used as fuel, and the bales of this substance will not only go into stables, but into fires, in kitchen stoves, and fire boxes in the boiler rooms through the town.

For exportation, the peat would be of little value, the cost of transportation, because of its bulk, being prohibitive to any established trade in it. But it could be used to great advantage by the people of Vancouver, and of Victoria as well, as the cost of securing it would be small and it could be transported into the city as cheaply as wood from the outlying districts.

Close to Line.

The bog lies on both sides of the B. C. Electric company's Westminster tram, about three miles beyond Eburne. It extends from within a few hundred yards of the North Arm of the Fraser river, back to the timbered elevation beyond the railway tracks. One end of the bog lies beyond Rose avenue, while the boundary line of Burnaby practically marks the other. The peat here is in some places six feet thick; in others it extends down to a depth of 30 feet. All is marketable, there is no refuse or slack, no slate or other foreign substance to mar the value of the product. Transportation into the city would be no more of an operation than digging clay, and the simple turning of a spade would bring up a shovelful of as good a fuel as one would want.

The peat is nothing more than decayed vegetable matter, which lying for centuries in the same spot has been by some unexplainable law of nature, wieded into a solid substance. The land lies on practically the same level as the river, dotted here and there with little elevations standing from three to five feet above the level of the rest of the marsh. In several places, cranberry bushes are to be seen, where in the autumn, a good crop of this fruit can be secured for the picking. In other places there are patches of scrub pine, while over the greater area of the bog there is nothing but a scant growth of some common weed.

A stream of flowing water, originating in the hill above the bog, winds through the marsh and empties into the river. The soil within several hundred yards of the river is clay, well adapted to farming purposes.

Unique Plant.

The horse bedding plant now in operation is something unique. The plant proper is located about a mile from the tram tracks, but the owner, Mr. Kerr, proposes to move it in about a year, and secure a location beside the tracks. The peat, ground into particles and then baled, is said to make an ideal bedding for blooded horses. It is soft, a sort of rotten moss when ground, and in addition to giving the animal a soft bed, also keeps it glossy and sleek. The majority of the prominent horse owners and fanciers in Vancouver, Victoria and Nanaimo are now regular patrons of the peat establishment.

At this plant, the peat, that is within about two feet of the surface, is first cut by Chinamen into blocks convenient for handling, then hauled on a sled to the plant. It is crushed, ground up and then baled, the bales wound with wire to prevent them from spreading. Hauled the mile over a gravel road to the car track, it is loaded on cars and sent to its designation.

EX-CONVICT POSED AS RICH CANADIAN

Story of How Clever Rascal Defrauded, Amongst Others, Wife of British Cabinet Minister.

LONDON, Aug. 23—A remarkable succession of frauds in the West End, in which the wife of the secretary for Ireland was victimized, was described in detail at the London sessions.

John Howard Clark, aged 31, a tall, thin-faced young man, neatly dressed in a grey suit, was charged with obtaining various sums of money—thirty shillings, three half-crowns, and twoand-six—by false pretences.

He called at the Eton mission at Hackney Wick, presented to Mr. H. F. Anderson a card with the name of Seagram, and stated that he was the son of a rich Canadian whisky distiller. He was shown over the club, and promised subscriptions. Later in the day Mr. Anderson met Clark at Victoria station. The accused declared that he had been robbed, and Mr. Anderson handed him 4s and also an old umbrella, as it was raining.

It was alleged, said counsel, that the accused obtained £1 10s from Mr. Wellesley, of Portman square, pretending that he was a friend of Mr. Wellesley's son. He also called on the Rev. Charles Stuart Donald, Lancaster road, Kensington, who was in charge of the Rugby mission, introducing himself as the brother of an old Rugby man, and obtained £1 on the representation that he had been robbed.

Mr. Wellesley said Clark was an interesting conversationist. He talked about emigration schemes he was concerned in, and the improving of the breed of horses in Canada by the introduction of others he had stabled at Newmarket. He also said his father was the great whisky distiller of Canada. After he had gone Mr. Wellesley received a telephone message from Clark, saying he had lost his purse, bade him come to the house, and after supper put 20s on the table. "I expected that he would take what he wanted," said Mr. Wellesley. "I said I was sorry I had no more, and he took the lot" (Laughter).

Clark: You said at the police court that you smelt a rat?—I did.

Then, when you do that, do you usually part with money?—I thought you were a colonist in distress, and I gave the rat the benefit of the doubt. (Laughter.)

Mr. Wellesley's son proved that he had never before seen Clark, who said he knew him.

Clark: You have my complete commiseration. (Laughter.)

Grave Record.

Rev. C. Stuart Donald of the Rugby school mission, Lancaster road, Kensington road, said Clark told him he had his pocket picked in St. Paul's cathedral of a purse and £4, but it did not matter, as he had his return ticket to Wargrave, where he was staying with his rich mother, and some loose cash. Later he found that he had lost the last train, and Mr. Donald had to put him up for the night. In the morning he said he was going by coach to Henley with one of the masters at Eton.

Mr. Francis Alexander Fowle, of the secretarial staff of the Royal society of Ashley place, said Clark posed as the son of Mr. Whitney, an American millionaire, and said he was educated at Harrow and Harvard. He obtained 2s 6d. in this case by a similar story.

Wardner Barlow proved that since 1902 Clark had been six times convicted for fraud and theft, as follows: 1902, three months; 1902, twelve months; 1904, eight months; 1906, eighteen months; 1906, twenty months; 1908, twenty-one months.

Detective-Sergeant Morgan said he was last released on May 11th, and there were more than a score of cases against Clark.

Once while he was in prison a clergyman became interested in him and allowed him £1 a week after his release. In the clergyman's absence Clark defrauded his wife of a sovereign by a false story and obtained the suit of clothes (in which he appeared in the dock) from the clergyman's tailors.

Called on Mr. Birrell, Jr.

He had given a young woman some stolen cheques and had robbed her of a cigarette case. Using one of Mr. Wellesley's cards, he ordered £30 worth of cigars, but failed to intercept the messenger despatched with them. In Mr. Wellesley's name, too, he had hired a motor car, and he obtained various sums of money from persons connected with colleges in different parts of the country.

One day he called at the Regent street polytechnic and announced that he was about to present them with a trophy. He spent some time selecting one at a Regent street silversmith's and afterwards obtained money from some of those who were to compete for it. He went to Eton, where he posed as a wealthy Canadian. He dined with one of the masters, and Mr. Birrell, son of the secretary for Ireland, was present. When in London Mr. Birrell, Jr., was visited by the accused, who persuaded his mother to give the man £3. Clark also obtained £1 from a master's brother and obtained £2 from him.

Clark said he had nothing to urge in mitigation. The offences were mean ones, he admitted. He went on:

"No one understands the definition of meanness better than I do, but when one is doing those sort of things one forgets that and the degradation and humiliation of one's position are not realised until after everything is accomplished. I do not follow this course of life, because there are other things I can do, but disease of the eyes prevents me keeping a situation. Probably few men have suffered more for their sins in the hard cottage of punishment than I have in many respects—the breaking up of my home, the loss of a father and mother, and other things which would help a man towards redemption. I don't ask for leniency or a chance, but I ask you to deal fairly with me on the cases proved against me."

Mr. Wallace, the magistrate, in sentencing him to three years' penal servitude, said he had long lived a life of fraud and crime, which had not been checked by a warning that the punishment he had now received must be meted out to him if he was again convicted.

DESPERATE ATTEMPT AT MURDER AND ARSON

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Aug. 24.—What appeared a desperate attempt at arson and murder was discovered at the house of Mathew Doyle, seventh concession of Yarmouth. A lad named Lee Fox, who was awakened by sickness, going from his room, saw on the landing a light which he found to come from some burning material fixed on the door knob of the room in which Miss Margaret Day and her neice, Miss Josephine Doyle, were sleeping.

He roused the women, who tried to get out of the room, but the handle was too hot to open. The younger woman went to the window and screamed for help. Mr. Leslie, a neighbor, responded, and investigation showed that an entry had been made into the home through Doyle's bedroom and the man must have pushed through the room without rousing him. Doyle is 70 years of age.

GARDEN SUBURB AND BRITISH HOME

John Burns Advocates Homestead Rather Than Tenement—Battersea's Splendid Record.

Right Hon. John Burns, M. P., laid the foundation stone of the first house to be built on the Romford Garden Suburb, which has been laid out to provide a well-built modern suburb in the Eastern counties.

Addressing a large gathering, the president of the local government board said they had inaugurated another link in the garlanded chain of garden suburbs that were surrounding the great metropolis of London. The object of these suburbs was to bring the towns into the country and the gardens into the towns, and by a judicious amalgamation of both to secure not only for the working class but for the whole of the people, irrespective of class, something more tolerable, more decent, more beautiful, and more human than the collection of houses of all sorts that had been dumped in and around London during the past hundred years.

Model and Example.

There at Romford they were inaugurating on an ancient settlement a modern community which in its appurtenance of sanitation, roads, drainage and public health would be not only good for the community but be hoped would be a model and an example to be frequently followed in the County of Essex. One of the features of modern house-building and town-planning was to graft if possible on the rooftrees of Royalty, and even upon the sites of the houses of our old nobility, happy homes for the less wealthy in a democratic community. The gratitude of the people was due to such men as Mr. Raphael, Mr. Lever, Mr. Cadbury, Mr. Rowntree, Mr. Vivian, Mr. Thompson and others who had been associated with the movement.

He hoped that the new community would grow up and marry into a circle of happy homes on a size that once was enjoyed only by the few in splendid isolation. The movement was by no means confined to Great Britain and parts of Europe. There was no civilized community desirous of being more civilized which was not thinking out schemes for establishing their future houses, villages, towns and cities on similar lines to those at Romford. It was said that we had lost a good deal through a lack of prescience and foresight in the past, and the garden suburb movement had therefore come as an attempt to enable a community to order consciously their present habitations, their future growth and development and to provide for their civic expansion on lines healthy, wealthy, beautiful and so to regulate their houses, towns and cities that the ugliness, squalor and meanness of many towns today should be avoided.—(Applause.)

Where Britain Leads.

He must say frankly that in the matter of towns, houses and cities he was soundly British. "I am for the homestead against the tenement. I am for the house versus the flat, for the home against the barrack, and I am for peace to the cottage and death to the institution.—(Applause.) I like the detached house, the separate garden and the private house, with the collective playground. He believed they had nothing to gain by imitating Germany, France and America in their domestic architecture and in their neighborly relations. The garden city exalted the British, which was the domestic ideal of a home, amid environments, so far as he had been able to gather, the best in the world. Many of the great cities of the nation had had their origin, their strength and their enduring character in the house. To him the real home was a nursery of character and a fortress against many of the social and individual defects. Because the garden suburb formed the model of British housing that he had lent his support to the movement.

Miserable Croaking.

Unfortunately we had at the present time a lot of miserable croakers living in a fog of pessimism, who talked about England in a deprecatory way that ought to be regarded as alien to the English nature and foreign to our best interests. These people were continually saying that one had to go abroad to a foreign country to find examples of what to do. Personally—and he had to repeat himself—he would rather be found dead in England than alive anywhere else. Berlin, which was often quoted as a model to copy, had 75 per cent. of its population living in three rooms or less. That was not a condition for an Arcadia, Utopia or earthly Paradise. Poor, depressed, inferior London had only 52 per cent. In Berlin 529 per 1,000 of the houses were of five stories, and 90 per 1,000 were six or seven stories. In London the average was from two to three, and rarely four. Berlin had 46 people per house to London's eight, and he hoped the day was not far distant when the number would be five. In all the diseases that were due to insanitation and overcrowding London led by 20 to 50 per cent over the capitals of Europe, which by the miserable Jeremiahs England was advised to imitate. Battersea, which had only one-tenth the population of Berlin, had more separate and distinct houses, and in forty years the population had increased by four times, the death rate had dropped from 26 to 12, the infant mortality from 163 to 107.

The Happier Home.

He ventured to assert that when the Romford estate was completed, and providing not too many houses were built to the acre, it would have one of the lowest death rates in England and Wales. After quoting figures to show the growth of London during the last twenty-five years, and observing that it would be nothing short of a scandal and reproach if the city were deprived of its 466 garden squares, Mr. Burns said they wanted to avoid the poverty and the squalor which developed in unregulated communities unless the habitations of the people were arranged on healthy and attractive lines. They desired a more healthy, better educated, more noble and more sober communities than was possible in many of our present slum quarters. They wanted the old country to develop in the spirit of Ruskin, Morris, Wren, Sir Thomas Moore and others who had prescribed the ideals of a happier home and who had identified themselves with schemes having for their object such as was hoped would follow the garden city movement today.—(Applause.)

LIBERIA IS ONCE MORE IN TROUBLE

Bankruptcy Will be Eventual Fate—United States is Likely to Take Control.

At the present moment Liberia is once more making a rather unfavorable appearance in the world's eye. This time the Black Republic comes as a borrower, not for a very large sum, indeed, but sufficient to show a general shiftlessness of character that seems to point to one certain fate for Liberia. Eventually she will become bankrupt, and will appeal to one or other of the great powers to adopt her. It is probable that the United States will become a parent, or at least a stepparent, to Liberia, although we may be sure it will be with great reluctance that she will enter into any other relation than now exists between them.

A Ward of the United States.

Secretary Knox admitted a short time ago that Liberia was the ward of the United States, and had special claims upon the American people, but the United States senate demurred from this view, and with a few disparaging speeches chilled the generous plans of the administration, which had contemplated a sort of fatherly supervision of Liberia. The policy of the government had been formed as the result of a commission to Liberia, which had come to the conclusion that there was only one thing to do with the negroes, and that was to make them, on some basis later to be agreed on, colonists of the United States. This will probably be the final ending of Liberia, little as the people of the United States may relish the prospect. The basket containing the black baby will be found on the doorstep of Washington some fine morning and Uncle Sam, unable to deny paternity, will be required either to take it in, or to kick it off and slam the door.

A Plan of President Monroe.

Liberia owes its existence to the activity of the American Colonization society, which attempted to solve the slave problem about 90 years ago by buying a tract of land on the west coast of Africa and populating it with American negroes. The settlers were provided with arms and implements, a Republican constitution and a national status by the good will of the United States, whose president at the time, Monroe, was a great believer in the power of the negro for self-government. One provision of the Liberian constitution expressly forbids any white man from becoming a citizen—rather a superfluous decree since the climate makes the continued residence of whites in the country almost a physical impossibility.

Unfit for Government.

The Liberians have had nothing to fear from the whites. Their troubles have been due to their own incapacity, and to the opposition of other blacks. Indeed it is only along the coast that the Liberians have been able to hold their own. The interior is largely occupied by Kroos, a hardy, warlike people superior in every way to the degenerate Liberian mulattoes, and clashes between the two have been frequent. In these troubles, other powers, notably France and Great Britain, have become interested, since their possession of Sierra Leone and the Ivory coast have common frontiers with Liberia, and these colonies are largely populated by Kroos. Liberia has proved utterly unable to maintain order in the hinterland, and her futile attempts to do so have wasted her revenue and increased the difficulties of the British and French colonial administrations.

Paramount Interests.

Trouble has also arisen between France and Great Britain on the one hand and Liberia on the other as to the delimitation of their frontiers. To defray the expenses necessary to the work, Britain has found it necessary to take charge of some Liberian customs houses. Historically the power most interested in the solvency and good conduct of Liberia is the United States; but practically the two most concerned countries are Britain and France. The latter was somewhat inclined to resent the action of Liberia in going to New York for a loan; and the result was that Kuhn, Loeb and Co were obliged to distribute the amount among the bankers in Paris, Berlin, London and New York. It seems likely that before the fate of Liberia is finally settled at least three countries will have reason to regret the well meaning but misguided efforts of the American Colonization society in 1820.

FARMING AT HIGH ALTITUDE PAYS

Reports From Rossland Tell of Remarkable Success Obtained Over 3000 Feet Above Sea Level.

Comparative land values in the Kootenays, as a result of the enormous success which has attended the efforts of J. S. Deschamps, Mr. Peters and others in farming at the altitude of over 3000 feet near Rossland, are rapidly undergoing a change. Hitherto it has always been considered that land at a low elevation above sea level was more fitted for horticultural and agricultural purposes than land in other respects the same but located at a greater altitude.

High Lands Fertile.

The experience of ranchers near Rossland, according to a statement made by a rancher from that district last night, indicates that such is not the case. Improved lands situated 3500 feet above sea level and over are already demonstrating their value as revenue producers in a remarkable manner. When it is remembered that probably fifty per cent. of all the lands in the Kootenays is more than 3000 feet in elevation, it is difficult to overestimate the importance of this new development.

Remarkable Results.

A trip through the improved ranching district in the vicinity of Rossland is a revelation both to old timers and newcomers in the country. A few miles north of Rossland Mr. Peters has a tract of 250 acres of which 50 acres are improved. His crops and revenue this year from this 50 acres is positively astonishing. He has sold 125 tons of hay at $20 per ton, at the ranch and unhaled, and from a raspberry patch he has sold 300 crates of the succulent fruit at $3 per crate. In addition to this he was compelled to allow a considerable portion of his raspberry crop to go to waste owing to shortage of labor. Some weeks ago his apple trees were so laden with fruit that fifty per cent of the crop had to be picked green in order to prevent the trees from breaking under the strain.

The ripe apples are now nearly ready for market and this crop, with the hay and raspberries already mentioned will net him a very large revenue. Mr. Peters purchased this land from the Great Northern railway at a small figure several years ago and it is probable that $100 an acre would not buy it now.

Joe Deschamps Successful.

In the same district J. S. Deschamps, the well known lumberman, is farming on the land over which his men have been logging during the past few years. After taking out lumber at the rate of 60,000 feet to the acre he has cleared off the underbrush and sown timothy and clover among the stumps. From a large acreage of the land he has cut four tons of hay to the acre this year from the first crop and is intending to cut a second crop from a portion of it. He has over 100 hogs running wild and these are unable to keep down the luxuriant second crop of clover. Apple trees planted among the stumps and which have had practically no care, are in a thriving condition.

Irrigation Unnecessary.

Both these ranches are at an elevation of at least 3500 feet above sea level and amply demonstrate the fact, of vast importance to the Kootenays, that land at this altitude is at all events the equal of land at a lower level.

During the exceptionally dry months of the present summer it has been observed that the dry land has held the moisture better than lower lying tracts and that irrigation, in the case of the land at Rossland, is quite unnecessary.

Rossland Enthused.

The farmers and business men of Rossland are enthusiastic over the results which are being obtained from these high lands and people in the Kootenays and all through British Columbia will recognize the fact that the area of agricultural land in the interior of the province is much greater than has hitherto been supposed.

It seems likely that Rossland, having lost a portion of its glory as a mining camp will gain still greater glory from the produce from its ranches and that farming will shortly become one of the main industries of that district.

To Exhibit at Vancouver.

Fruit growers in Rossland are making preparations to send a splendid exhibit of fruit grown at high elevations to the Vancouver apple show. Last Sunday the sum of $200 was raised in a few minutes as a contribution towards the expenses in connection with this event.

Be sure and take a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with you when starting on your trip this summer. It cannot be obtained on board the trains or steamers. Changes of water and climate often cause sudden attacks of diarrhoea, and it is best to be prepared. Sold by all druggists and dealers.

POULTRYMEN FORM B. C. ASSOCIATION

Provincial Organization is the Outcome of Conference of Fanciers—E. W. Cale is President.

An event which will have an important bearing on the future of the poultry industry in this province was a conference of poultry breeders, which took place at the exhibition grounds at Vancouver. Delegates had assembled from all parts of the province, from the various poultry associations, it being resolved to form a provincial organization to be known as the British Columbia Poultry association, and to affiliate with the American association. It is very evident that the industry is going ahead in this province. Just a year ago there were but five such associations in the province, but within the last three months five more have been formed, thus bringing the total number up to ten. Another interesting indication of this is, that the new British Columbia association already numbers a total membership of 175, which certainly represents an excellent day's work.

Mr. E. W. Cale, of Burnaby, presided, being supported by the following delegates: Messrs. T. Edwards, Victoria; W. Stonehouse, Vancouver; J. Inherwood, Nanaimo; H. Koelkenbeur, Ashcroft; R. Waddell, Enderby; W. Wright, Summerland; F. W. Laing, Revelstoke; W. S. Pierce, West Kootenay; A. B. Smith, Cranbrook, and P. A. P. McIntosh, Grand Forks. Besides these, quite a large number of fanciers also attended the conference.

Welcome Extended.

Mr. James Hoy, manager of the exhibition, extended a most cordial welcome to the delegates on behalf of the exhibition association. He was very pleased, he said, to see so many representative men gathered there, for it augured well for the success of the enterprise. He did not think he need make any formal apology for the somewhat rough condition of the grounds. British Columbia men were used to that sort of thing, but the grounds would be very much improved in the future. That was the first exhibition, and they all expected, he thought, to see things a little bit in the rough. The executive of the exhibition was determined to do everything in its power to assist the poultry breeders of British Columbia, and any suggestion they might have to make to the management of the exhibition would be very gratefully received. It was up to them to show the management how it could assist them.

Mr. J. J. Miller, president of the Exhibition association, also extended a hearty welcome to the delegates. He thought it was very appropriate that the conference to form a British Columbia Poultry association should have been held on the occasion of the first exhibition in Vancouver. They wanted the poultry association to be closely allied to the exhibition association, and he promised that the latter would assist them in the way of offering prizes. The present poultry exhibit was not the best that could be produced in the province, but he hoped to see a great improvement in this respect next year, as the result of the work of the poultry association.

Mr. M. A. Jull, B. S. A., poultry expert of the department of agriculture, Victoria, who was present, representing the government, expressed on behalf of the poultry association, their great appreciation of the consideration that had been shown them by the exhibition association. It was necessary that they should have an organization in order to accomplish any success, and he was sure that the undertaking would prove of material benefit not only to breeders, but to the province.

To Be Provincial.

The association was then formed and bylaws passed. Mr. E. W. Cale, Burnaby, was elected president; Mr. W. A. Nachtrieb, Victoria, vice president, and Mr. W. Stonehouse, Vancouver, president of the executive.

It was resolved that it be a purely British Columbia association, an amendment that people outside the province be allowed to join being negatived by 15 to 14 votes.

The question of joining the American Poultry association was raised, the benefits of belonging to such a large association being pointed out, especially as there was no similar body in Canada, the majority of judges came from America, and exhibits were judged according to the rules of the American association. There was some dissent, but ultimately it was decided to join.

It was resolved not to agitate for eggs being marked with the date they were laid.

Another important resolution passed was to penalize a member by suspension for one year, who exhibited as his own exhibits birds that were not grown by him. It was stated in this connection that it was a common thing in the east for men to borrow, or buy exhibits and exhibit them as his own.

It was decided that The Successful Poultryman be the official organ of the association.

HEAVY GALE BLOWS FRUIT OFF TREES

KASLO, B. C., Aug. 24.—The Mirror Lake fire has been successfully got under control, but the old dash fire adjoining the city limits is well alight again and making great headway, assisted by strong winds.

Wind Damages Fruit.

Considerable damage was done to the fruit last evening by a heavy west gale, hundreds of pounds of plums and pears being blown off the trees.

The entire Hindu crew drew their time at the saw mill and left town by the Kokanee, owing to repairs. The mill will be closed until Thursday.

Several new settlers are expected to arrive during the next few weeks and take up land in the vicinity.

MARKET REPORT FROM THE PRAIRIE

Demand Good and Prices Firmer—Fruit from California and Ontario.

Regina, Sask., Aug. 15, 1910.

W. E. Scott, Esq., Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Victoria, B. C.

Dear Sir:—I have the honor to report as follows:

Winnipeg, Aug. 9.

I find jobbers here quite ready to buy B. C. fruit if assured as to obtaining it after ordering on date required. The demand is good and prices are firmer for all varieties of fruits. Quotations for peaches, plums and prunes are ruling higher from the American side. The supply of apricots is practically over from American points. California peaches costing $1.15 laid down; Winnipeg selling retailers today, $1.25 per case. Jobbers stating they would prefer to buy B. C. peaches quoted them, as profits would be larger than on the California product and that's the point considered by them always.

Quotations from private sources and fruit distributing houses, American side, report all fruits firmer and higher. Jobbers here are looking for so low prices this season, as the earlier reports of crops and quotations indicated.

Prices for fruit in Chicago and eastern states markets are high at this time in comparison with former seasons. These markets are supplied from the south at this season of the year, but now, practically none coming in, creating an increase for Pacific Coast states fruit at higher prices.

In a letter which I read from the Northwestern Distributors, White Bros. & Crane, of Snake River and Lewiston, Idaho, to jobbers here, they state they had 10,000 boxes of pears and would be all sold out August 10.

Prices being quoted f. o. b. point of shipment, American point:

Peaches, per case	50c
Prunes, per case of different varieties	65 to 75c
Pears	$1.15 to $1.50
Apples	85c to $1.25

The McNaughton Fruit Co., Winnipeg (auctioneers), handling the St. Catherines' Cold Storage company's output of St. Catherines, Ontario, had tomatoes and early apples in today by express. Tomatoes sold per 11 qt. baskets, 35 lbs. net $1.65
Apples sold per 11 qt. basket, 12 lbs. net 45c

All charges to be deducted from above prices.

A car of mixed fruit and tomatoes are due tomorrow to this firm from the same company.

B. C. blackberries arriving in excellent condition, but in limited quantities, selling at $1.75 per case of 24 baskets, 2-5 size. Rogers & Co., jobbers here, Winnipeg, stated they had 10 carloads of fruit rolling into Winnipeg at present date. Vipond Co. jobbers here reported five carloads of American mixed fruits rolling in at the present time.

Another action on wart has just been opened here. First carload of fruit from Ontario will be auctioned off tomorrow, containing tomatoes and early apples. Jobbers here are reported to hold stock and control it. They stated it was stated with the idea of preventing fruit from being sold too low or at slaughter prices, as was being done at present time by auction, injuring the sale of fruit by jobbers at jobbing prices. It would also be run in a measure, as a clearing house for the fruit jobbers.

The following are jobbers' prices to retailers today, Aug. 9:

California apples, per box	$2.25
California pears, Bart. per box	3.25
Washington pears, Bart. per box	2.75
California peaches, per box, Elbt. Cradd	1.25
California plums, Blk. Diamond	15
California plums, Wickson	15
California plums, sugar	15
California plums, green gages	$1.15 to $1.00
California plums, Gros prune	$1.75 to $1.90

Apricots, practically over.

Regina, Aug. 10.

Blackberries arriving here in very limited quantities but in excellent condition. Jobbers are desirous of buying B. C. peaches, but afraid to order because of uncertainty of obtaining on date ordered. Allow prices are firmer for peaches and plums from American points. Growers and shippers in B. C. now should be able to assure jobbers as to date of shipping and keep trace of cars rolling.

Saskatoon, Aug. 11.

Manager of the Northern Fruit company here stated he had quotations from Washington, Perry & Co., this date:

lt. prunes in peach boxes, faced	55c
lt. prunes in plum case, 4 basket	60c
Peaches, per case	45c
Pears, per case, Bart.	$1.20
Pears, per case, F. Beauty	$1.40
Apples, early, per case, no grade	90c

The following are jobber's prices here to retailers today:

Cal. plums, per case	$2.50
Washington plums, per case	$1.40
Cal. pears, per case, Bart.	$3.50
Wash. apples, per case	$2.35
Wash. apricots, per case	$2.50
Cal. & Wash. peaches, Cradd, Elbt., per case	$1.25 to $1.50
Tomatoes, per case	$2.50

I saw a car of mixed fruits today, August 12, from Vernon, B. C., at the Northern Fruit company's siding, shipped August 3, arrived on the 11th. Eight days in transit.

Peaches were ripe but good.
Apples good.
Peaches and plums ripe but good.
Cucumbers too ripe, yellow.
Apricots too ripe.

Manager stated he would have to job the lots in town. Could not be shipped out to rural points.

(Today, Aug. 13, I examined another car of mixed fruits and vegetables (notably potatoes) from Vernon, B. C., to Currie Bros. here, shipped Aug. 5, arrived on the 12. Seven days in transit. Mr. Logan, manager of this firm, stated temperature of this car was 70 on opening it. No ice in bunkers whatever. Must certainly have been neglected in transit as to icing.

Potatoes good.
Apricots gone, total loss.
Beans dry and mouldy.
Apples sound but below grade.

I may state the number of cases of apricots and beans were few in car, therefore loss was not great.

Growers and shippers are evidently letting peaches and apricots ripen too much on tree before picking and shipping. Shippers must insist on transportation company examining cars in transit, and filling bunkers with ice when cars require it to prevent variation in temperature of car. Avoid filling cars too full and brace securely to avoid slurring of crates. Put apricots and peaches near bunkers, apples to the centre, in shipping mixed cars of fruit. Keep trace of cars rolling, either from the shipper's point or the point of destination, and be able to divert in transit if cause required it.

Altogether the tendency of markets for fruits of all kinds is higher at present. Sell at reasonable prices and avoid consignments as these are the shipments on which markets are demoralized.

A POSITIVE CURE FOR INDIGESTION

If you have indigestion, your food ferments in the stomach and bowels. It does more; it decays, and the nutritious matter which should go to make new blood decays with it, and this leads to an impoverished condition of the blood, to nervousness, biliousness, constipation, sick headache, bad breath which disgusts your friends, and other disagreeable and unpleasant conditions.

And all this trouble is caused by the food that doesn't digest, but ferments and oftimes rots in the stomach.

And fermentation is caused by the stomach not being strong enought and energetic enough to thoroughly mix the food with the digestive juices.

MI-O-NA is responsible for tens of thousands of cures. In fact, it is such a positive cure for indigestion and all stomach troubles that it is guaranteed by the Peele Drug company to cure or money back. The price of a large box of Mi-o-na tablets is 50 cents, and they are sure to promptly relieve the worst case of indigestion or gastritis. Try them.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 25.

ANOTHER G. T. P. WAIL FOR CHINESE LABOR.

Once more we hear about the need for Chinese labor on the Grand Trunk Pacific. A Vancouver dispatch published in yesterday's issue says:

Collingwood Schreiber, as general consulting engineer of the Dominion government and chief government engineer of the western division of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway today declared here that unless recourse was had to Oriental labor on the line, the railway would not be completed before 1914. Mr. Schreiber said: "If there was a surplus of white labor I would instantly oppose the employment of Orientals on the national undertaking but under existing circumstances I do not see where any objection can be urged."

The C. P. R. and the C. N. R. build two or three miles for every one that the G. T. P. has to build, yet they manage to get along without Chinese labor. So far from not being able to get white labor the C. P. R. is this year building track in southern Alberta that it had not intended to construct till next year and the reason is that it is desired to provide employment for settlers.

The C. N. R. has been building about 400 miles per annum for years and Mr. Dan Mann says they have never used and do not want Oriental labor. Further than that, instead of saying that in the absence of such labor they cannot build their British Columbia line on contract time, he says that he expects to finish it a year ahead of contract time.

The prairie this year will take several thousand fewer harvest hands than last year. Evidently there is white labor in the country to be had. If the Grand Trunk Pacific cannot get it there must be something wrong with the conditions of employment upon that line. The best thing the company can do is to remedy these conditions.

DOMINION GOVERNMENT ANNUITIES.

For some reason the Dominion government annuities do not seem to have "caught on." What percentage of the population of the country is taking advantage of them? Who ever hears of them?

Yet the scheme is a good one and deserves success. The trouble is that sufficient publicity has not been given. The department, so to speak, has manufactured a good article but does not seem to know how to market it.

The average man insures because the agent of some company has pressed the matter upon his attention and solicited him. He does not decide to insure of his own initiative and then look round, investigate the terms and standing of the different companies and societies, and pick out what seems to him the best. He is more likely to drift along until some agent induces him to insure in the company represented by that agent.

So with annuities. The average man who might with advantage take up the purchase of one of the Dominion government annuities does not do so because the matter is not pressed upon his attention and he does not go to the trouble of investigating and finding out what is offered. The department should at least make a point of sending out literature and information on a sort of "follow up" system, repeatedly drawing attention to the wisdom of action and giving information. It is not enough to send some information once in two years or so. Pamphlets giving full particulars of the various plans offered should be on deposit at all post offices and there should be conspicuous placards stating that the pamphlets are there.

There are few men or boys who might not with advantage begin making payments upon an annuity. Two principal plans are offered,—straight annuities and annuities combined with life insurance. Of these two there are many variations. The department will sell you an annuity upon almost any terms you like. You can pay so much per week, or so much per annum, or a lump sum. None of the annuities however, become payable before the age of 55. The intention is that a man may provide a fixed income for himself after that age by making payments while he is young or middle aged.

For instance, by paying one dollar a week from the age of twenty, a man can get from the government an annuity after he is sixty of $500 per year,—that is, the interest at five per cent. upon $10,000. If he should die before he is sixty the government will pay his wife or heirs all that he has paid in with compound interest at 3 per cent. That is, if he died at 59, they would receive $4000 in cash. If he fails to keep up his payments he will still receive an annuity or they will receive cash according to the amount he has paid in.

Following another plan a boy of 15 by paying 25 cents a week until he is 25, then 50 cents a week till he is 35, then 50 cents a week till he is 55, would secure at 60 an annuity of $432. By paying about one-third more he would get an annuity of $600.

Annuities cannot be seized for debt and as they are guaranteed by the Dominion government there is no question of losing them through the failure of a company. They are absolutely certain.

In this western country it is probable that better returns can be secured from the investment of the same amount of money in other ways. But the provision for small weekly payments enables young men and boys to invest in annuities who would probably not save the money otherwise. They are more likely to pay fifty cents a week on an annuity than to save up fifty cents a week until they have enough to invest in some enterprise, and the annuity is a more certain provision for old age. The habit of thrift should also be encouraged.

Fortune Telling

Does not take into consideration the one essential to woman's happiness—womanly health.

The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health love loses its lustre and gold is but dross.

Womanly health when lost or impaired may generally be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This Prescription has, for over 30 years, been curing delicate, weak, pain-wrecked women, by the hundreds of thousands and this too in the privacy of their homes without their having to submit to indelicate questionings and offensively repugnant examinations.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence held as secredly confidential. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Great Family Doctor Book, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition—1000 pages, answers in Plain English hosts of delicate questions which every woman, single or married, ought to know about. Sent free, in plain wrapper to any address on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only, or in cloth binding for 50 stamps.

School Boys and School Girls

We are ready for the 29th with a very complete line of school supplies and books.

We have secured this year an exceptionally good selection of novelties for school use that combine usefulness, convenience and attractiveness.

In the staple lines, such as scribblers, note books, blank drawing books, drawing instruments, text books, etc., we have all the newest things going—and the best values we can honestly give in all lines.

TEN YEARS AGO

(Extracts From The Nelson Daily Tribune of August 24, 1900.)

The tracklaying gang on the Balfour extension has completed 4 1-2 miles of road. Three miles of this is about Proctor and includes the yard sidings, etc. A mile and a half of the main line has been laid and the work is now progressing at the rate of a mile a day.

A rumor, which appeared to be well founded, was current in town last night to the effect that one of the new copper blast furnaces at the Granby smelter, which was blown in the day before yesterday, froze up yesterday.

At the meeting of Conservatives held in the board of trade rooms last night delegates were appointed to attend the Conservative Union convention at New Westminster on the 30th instant, as follows: John Teye, C. Morison, F. Fletcher and John Elliot; alternates, G. L. Lennox and W. Irvine.

The Hall Mines smelter will blow in this morning.

EAST KOOTENAY

A new locomotive will be purchased by the Morrissey, Fernie and Michel railway. This engine is being bought as a result of the increased output of the collieries of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal company, and will make the fourth standard locomotive forming part of the railway company's equipment.

The logging camps at Canal Flats, which have been operated by T. G. Procter of Nelson, have been temporarily closed down. Some 4,000,000 feet of logs have been taken out for transportation to the mill of the Crow's Nest Pass Lumber company. It is expected that work will be resumed in the autumn.

The bill of fare on the dining cars of the C. P. R. on the Crow's Nest branch are made complete just now by fruit from the ranch of Santo Pascuzzi at Sirdar.

Fred Stork, formerly mayor of Fernie, and now first magistrate of Prince Rupert, has been gazetted captain of Earl Grey's Own Rifles at the northern metropolis.

Miss McVicar of the staff of the Nelson public school, spent her vacation with friends in Fernie.

A barber shop has been opened in the Cosmopolitan hotel at Cranbrook.

A football game will be played between the Cranbrook and Moyie teams next Sunday afternoon at Aldridge. It will be the first round in the series of games for the Mutz cup.

The Labor day celebrations at Fernie and Hosmer give promise of being largely attended.

The beautiful residence which is being erected at Wardner for P. Lund, the prominent lumberman, will be completed within the next couple of weeks.

Rev. W. F. Spidell has tendered his resignation as pastor of the Baptist church at Fernie and will leave for Delhi, Ont., where he has accepted a call to become pastor of the Baptist church.

E. Highwarden, a pioneer barber and violinist of East Kootenay, is now in business in Darby, Mont.

Examinations for certificates of competency under the Coal Mines Regulation Act were held in Fernie at which there were a large number of candidates. The examinations were conducted by Mine Inspectors Evans and Strachan and Superintendent Wilson of the Hosmer mines.

The members of the Italian society took part in a complete and varied program of sports at Michel Monday, at which many most handsome prizes were donated.

ONTARIO OFFICES TO BE ENLARGED

Sir James Whitney Visits England—Work of Immigration Office—Demand for Fruit Lands.

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—Sir James Whitney, prime minister of Ontario, has left for England. He will be absent five or six weeks, and during his stay in the old country will be very busy. He will meet the Hon. Dr. Pyne, minister of education, and Mr. C. C. James, deputy minister of agriculture, and will take up the entire subject of immigration and the enlargement of the Ontario offices in London. When asked as to his trip, Sir James said:

"I will be away five or six weeks. Some time ago an order-in-council was passed providing that in the future either a cabinet minister or the deputy minister of agriculture should visit the Ontario government agency in London at least once every year with a view to observing the working of our immigration policy and other matters connected therewith. During the current year the efforts of the Colonization Bureau have been chiefly directed towards relieving the demand for farm laborers and domestic servants. We have been much encouraged by the result. Up to the present time about 1600 farm hands have been distributed throughout the province; this is, of course, aside from the number placed by the Salvation Army and other agencies. It is likewise several times as large a number as has been placed any other year. After remaining in Ontario for a few months a number have left on harvest excursions for the west, but this number seems to be less than in previous years. This, of course, is one of the conditions which we have to meet, and just as we have to meet the fact that numbers of our school teachers soon after getting their certificates go to the northwest to seek larger salaries.

"Outside of other agencies at least 500 domestic servants have been placed so far during the current year.

Permanent Settlers.

"While the efforts of the Colonization Bureau have been largely directed as above, attention has also been paid to the matter of securing more permanent settlers for improving farms. While I am not able to give the number, I am in a position to say that many properties have been purchased. There has been a special demand for fruit lands in the Niagara peninsula as well as in other counties in the fruit-growing districts. Such inquiries have been received from New Zealand, British Columbia and the other western provinces, and the United States.

"The London office has had one of the busiest years in its history. There have been a great number of enquiries as to the investment of moneys in Ontario. The office staff has been kept very busy supplying information not only as to the agricultural resources of the province, but also as to mining, manufacturing and other lines of activity. To such an extent has the work increased that our London agent expresses the opinion that additional quarters must be secured in order to furnish sufficient accommodation for the work to be done.

"The minister of agriculture being unable to leave the province this summer, I am going over in connection with these matters. I will meet Mr. James, the deputy minister of agriculture, and also the minister of education, shortly after my arrival in London, when we will take up the whole subject, including the suggestion as to additional quarters."

During the absence of Sir James, the Hon. Mr. Foy will be acting prime minister.

LONDON FLOUR IS MUCH ADULTERATED

Phosphates Used to Make It Absorb More Water—Injurious to Nervous System.

The chief food inspector, Hull, England, makes the following report in the corporation sanitary committee:

"Wheat flour has a commercial value depending upon the amount of gluten it contains, and the flours are graded as "strong flours," "baker's flours," and a third "low-grade flour." In cases where loaves are sold by weight, a flour with a high percentage of tenacious gluten is to be preferred, since it permits the forming of loaves containing a maximum percentage of water. With a flour richer in gluten it is not difficult to make a palatable loaf of bread which does not bear any evidence of an excess of water, while actually containing as large as 40 per cent of moisture. American and Russian wheats are called "strong" wheats. The English wheat is "weak" wheat, containing more starch than gluten, so, therefore, the commercial wheat used in the manufacture of bread is a mixture of "strong" and "weak" wheats.

Raised by Chemicals.

A method by which the lower grade flour can be brought up to the level of a high grade or strong flour, is by the addition of a "phosphate powder," and an ordinary chemical analysis would simply show that the wheat was strong in phosphates, and a desirable flour for baking loaves. The result of the addition of this powder is to make a "lofty" white loaf, containing a lot of moisture, and as a commercial result it enhances the value of each bag over 24 cents per bag; and in a turnover of several hundred bags per day it, of course, represents a considerable profit to the manufacturer. I believe this powder to be "calcium phosphate," but that matter will be settled by your analyst. The amount of phosphate powder added is 1½ pounds to 280 pounds of flour, and this adulterant can be added and the whole process of adulteration carried out in 10 minutes, without the knowledge of the workmen. This powder is also sold to bakers to adulterate their loaves, and so bring bread of a low grade into a high grade, based on chemical analysis. The method of detection is by running the flour through a very fine sieve, the result being that the adulterant coagulates into small lumps, and is easily recognized. If any suspicious flour is treated and the residue tested on the tongue, the presence of this adulterant will not be overlooked.

"I have caused to be purchased several samples of flour, on which the city analyst is now working, and should the presence of this phosphate be detected in the samples taken I have no doubt your inspector of foods and drugs will have other samples taken with a view to proceedings being taken. I need not point out to you and the medical members of the committee the extreme undesirability of this mixture being added to bread, for, as you are aware, phosphates and its compounds are spinal and brain stimulants, and the constant stimulation of these centres with phosphorus is clearly contra-indicated. In my opinion, the use of this adulterant should be most strongly put down, as the adulterant loaf is harmful in every way, especially to those with neurotic temperaments. In addition, those manufacturers who wish to supply a pure article on the market are unable to do so, owing to this adulterant, which allows a "weak adulterated" flour to compete with "pure strong" flour.

WHY GAMBLERS MUST WORK.

"Niggers" on River Boats Gamble Their Pay and Have No Choice.

"Gambling among their employes is usually frowned upon by employers but there is a notable exception to this rule," says the Washington Post. If it were not for the gambling habit some of the big boats in the Mississippi river trade would be minus their crews at the end of a trip. The negro deckhand is an inveterate gambler. He will shoot craps for any amount of money he has. Some of the captains begin paying off when the boat is half a day away from the last stop. As soon as the hands get their pay most of them begin to roll the bones. Little groups will be formed, and pretty soon one man in each group has all the money. Then the big winners get together for a game with higher stakes. As a result of this process by the time the boat reaches the wharf a few men have almost all the payroll. They don't want to work, but the others, who are 'cleaned out,' are obliged to. Consequently the boat has a crew for the return trip."

PLACES NO FAITH IN ARBITRATION

Australia Refuses to Arbitrate Asiatic Exclusion Matter—The Defence Bill Passed.

SYDNEY, Aug. 24—The minister of defence and peace passed the second reading of the Defence bill in the senate. It has fully adopted Lord Kitchener's scheme, and when fully operative will provide 127,000, at a cost of £2,000,000. Hon. Mr. Pearce attacked those who placed faith in arbitration, and said Australia would refuse to arbitrate about the Asiatic exclusion matter. It must be prepared to maintain its own laws against attack. He said: "If anyone asked why the Labor party is especially keen on military matters, the answer is that that party's proposed social and industrial reforms require freedom from disturbance, which they must effectively secure. To do this all means that defence must be of the very best. There must be no makeshifts, but the margin must be on the side of safety."

Circular Not Authorized.

LONDON, Aug. 24—With reference to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's published denial that the bonds of the Hudson Bay and Pacific Railway Development company were guaranteed by the Canadian government, the secretary of the company now states that the circular announcing the bonds were guaranteed was not authorized by the board.

PARISIAN TELLS HOW THEY FIGHT FLAMES

No Hurry! Men Stand at Attention Until Fire is Located by Telephone.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—"C'est magnifique! I am what you call it, amazed!"

That was the farewell gasp of Raoul Frere, chief of the fire department of Paris, as he left the city for Pittsburg after a week of whirling activity. The brisk Frenchman had come here to get some pointers on the running of a fire department and during his stay he saw things that made him wonder.

M. Frere saw the biggest fire horses he had ever come upon. He marvelled that any country could grow them.

"Your fire department," he said tonight, "is far ahead of what we have in Paris. The horses there are kept in houses in the rear of the buildings where the engines are and when a fire alarm comes in it takes a long time to get things moving.

"Our firemen have gold braid—that is the man high in rank—just like officers in the army. When the men come down with the clanging of the fire bell they are all lined up and told that there is a fire somewhere. Some fireman has telephoned to the headquarters in the meantime and found out where to go. It is so tedious. There is no such thing as having the alarm rung in the way you have here, non, non.

"When the fire apparatus goes out it does not run as fast as yours. The horses are not as fleet. They are like the wind here."

WILL BANISH OVERHEAD WIRES IN OTTAWA

OTTAWA, Aug. 24—Ottawa proposes to do away with all the poles which disfigure its streets and replace them with conduits. Negotiations between the city and telegraph, telephone and lighting companies are now in progress.

LONDON TIMES DISCUSSES TASTE

Different Uses of Word Taste Always Changing—Never Convicted by Judgment of Posterity.

Thought is struggely at the mercy of words, and is constantly confused by the use of words in different senses. There is no better instance of this than the different uses of the word taste. When we say that there is no disputing about taste we use the word to mean those instinctive, unaccountable preferences which in themselves are neither good nor bad and are not subject to any control of the will. One man prefers hock to claret, another claret to hock. One man likes red hair and another dislikes it. One man chooses to spend his holiday upon the mountains and another on the sea. Each of these likes and dislikes is indeed a matter of taste, not of good or bad taste. No man is to be praised or blamed for any of them, and there is no means of proving that any of them is either right or wrong. But when we speak of good or bad taste we are using the word in a different sense altogether, using it of those likes and dislikes into which the will enters and which can be, and ought to be, affected by training. Yet it is often of these tastes that people speak when they say there is no disputing about tastes. They think they are repeating a truism, but by altering the meaning of the word taste they are really making a new and most disputable statement—namely, that there is no such thing as good or bad taste, no likes and dislikes that are, or ought to be, affected by training and subject to principles. Instead of saying that it is all one whether a man prefers hock to claret or claret to hock, they are saying that it is all one whether a man prefers good hock to bad or bad to good.

Taste in Art.

This is evidently an absurd proposition, because bad food and drink disagree with us, and we know when they do so. But the absurdity is not so evident when the proposition relates to other matters where the effects of goodness and badness are not so plain and immediate. A man may have the worst possible taste in literature or art and yet suffer no pain in his inside. Indeed, he may never be aware of any evil results from his bad taste. We cannot even be sure that he enjoys bad things less than a man of good taste enjoys good ones. Some people fall into raptures over the pictures of Ary Scheffer, and are thoroughly comfortable in a room entirely decorated with l'art nouveau; and such people often appear to be suffering from no kind of moral corruption, and are indeed not guilty even of bad taste in their conduct. That is the reason why it is sometimes contended that there is no good or bad taste in art, or at least that nobody's taste can be, or needs to be affected by training. A man says, "I know what I like," implying that that is all he needs to know about the matter, that there is no need for him to give or to be aware of reasons why he likes it. He is a law to himself, or rather he is subject to no law that can be discovered. If he prefers Ary Scheffer to Titian it is as if he preferred hock to claret. He was born so and any effort on his part to change his preference would prove him guilty of weakness or insincerity.

Tupper or Shakespeare.

This view implies, of course, that there is no more in art than in hock or claret; that the enjoyment of art is a mere pleasure of the senses, like the enjoyment of meat and drink. Directly we assume that art expresses anything, we must admit that there are differences of value in what is true. Any one can see that what is expressed by Shakespeare has more value than what is expressed by Tupper. It is clear indeed that Tupper does not succeed in expressing anything at all with any precision. He tries to say weighty things, but achieves nothing except a weighty manner. Therefore to prefer Tupper to Shakespeare is merely to be deceived by him. It is not the result of taste at all, but only of inexperience. It is not so easy to prove this in other arts, because we can only prove it in words, and words are not their means of expression. But, if pictures and music, like poetry, express anything, there must be differences of value in what they express; and in some cases they too are likely to express nothing in particular and to be mere vague imitations of other works that are really expressive.

Always Changing.

It is a mark of bad taste to be taken in by these, to prefer the imitation to the original, or a vague to a precise expression; and bad taste of this kind is very common, though no one can be convicted of it by any logical process. Vague, imitative, and sentimental things have their day, and while it lasts are often more popular than masterpieces, because there is some stupidity or laziness in the human mind that dislikes what is precise and original. But that day does not last long. Bad taste is usually deceived only by the fiends of its own time. It can laugh at its own mistakes in the past, though it will not learn from them; and it pays respect to old masterpieces, however much it may dislike new ones. It is always changing, and for that reason is never convicted by the judgment of posterity. The man who admires certain living authors who need not be mentioned is not aware that if he had been born two generations back he would have admired Tupper; and he will probably be dead when his favorite books are also as dead as the Proverbial Philosophy. Meanwhile, if any one tells him that his favorite books are bad, he says that there is no disputing about tastes, meaning that his taste is as good as any one else's. It is not, but since no one can prove that, he remains content with it. —London Times.

SPORTING NEWS

Nelson Loses.

The Nelson cricket team in their first match with Vancouver were beaten by the small margin of 11 runs. The scores were: Vancouver, 128; Nelson, 117.

Teddy Roosevelt Will Face Ball.

The members of the Winnipeg Shamrock lacrosse team are turning out regularly three times a week in preparation for the trip to Minneapolis and St. Paul, where they will be one of the star attractions at the Minnesota state fair.

Ex-President Roosevelt, who will be one of the rival attractions, will face the ball at the game on Monday next, Sept. 6.

The Shamrocks will take 16 men with them, and expect to have two hard games. There are eight Candidats on the St. Paul team, and the aggregation is fast and well balanced. Some few weeks ago they played a strenuous game against the Mohawks of Chicago, and though beaten by the score of 5 to 4, they showed such good form and have improved so much since that many now consider them the fastest team south of the line.

The Winnipeg team leave for the Twin Cities on the evening of Friday, Sept. 3, and will arrive at their destination early next morning. They will play their first game that afternoon with the Minneapolis boys, who also have a fast team.

Take Last Game.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 24—The Winnipeg Maroons did the Regina farewell by taking the last game of the season with them by the score of 3-2, after 20 innings of the closest playing seen here this year. Regina twirled good ball up to the eighth inning when he weakened, and in the tenth forced the winning run in by walking the last two men. Bylert twirled good ball, Winnipeg has won 24 out of the last 27 games played.

Saskatoon Wins.

CALGARY, Aug. 24—Saskatoon took the first of a double header today from Calgary by a score of 4-1. Pattock twirled for the locals and had the game cinched till the seventh, when he weakened and allowed four to cross the plate. He allowed three hits, passed one and hit two, making one run. Dunn pitched good ball for Saskatoon, giving the locals only six hits. Clones loffed a three bagger which proved to be the feature.

Arnst Wins Zambesi Race.

LEVINGSTONE, Rhodesia, Aug. 24.—The sculling match for the championship of the world between Richard Arnst of New Zealand, and Eddie Barry of London, was won by Arnst, the champion, by two lengths. The race was rowed over the Zambesi river, a short distance from the Victoria falls, over a course three and a half miles. The stakes were $2,500 a side.

The men met upon an ideal course, a fine stretch of river, half a mile in width, within sight of the island from which Livingstone, 35 years ago, caught his first glimpse of Victoria falls. Until a time within the memory of living men the scene of the race lay in an unexplored part of the dark continent, never looked upon by white men, but the river banks were thickly lined with holiday makers brought here by the railroad completed in 1904. Men with cinematographs darted about obtaining photographs of the race and other unusual accompaniments of rowing contests. Arnst, who has held the championship for three years, objecting to the expense of the trip to England, while Barry, who is a Thames waterman, and holder of the English championship, opposed the long journey to New Zealand.

There Goes the Pennant.

CALGARY, Aug. 24—"There goes good old pennant," remarked Catcher Davenson of Saskatoon as the Harrypickers finished the last of the double header by defeating the Cowpunchers 6 to 3. The Saskatoon players certainly made things look black for Calgary by the double defeat they inflicted today. The local fans look on Edmonton's victories over Lethbridge as a deliberate lay down by the miners. Second game:

Saskatoon ..... 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 1 3—6 10 0
Calgary ..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 1 0—3 7 3

MONTREAL STAR CRITICISES INSPECTOR DEW'S METHODS

Was Man of Mystery—Would Not Dispense With Portentous Frown and Rubber Shoes.

Montreal Star: Inspector Dew has come and gone and yet our conception of what constitutes a great detective or how to proceed to trap a criminal have not undergone a great change. A worthy man and especially strong on the traditions of his profession, Dew found himself face to face with conditions which he very evidently did not understand and people whose point of view he utterly failed to appreciate. His enforced visit to Quebec was, consequently, as unpleasant for his hosts as for himself and mutually unproductive of anything in the way of enlightenment.

Man of Mystery.

According to his lights, Inspector Dew, we have no doubt, did his best to live up to the teachings of Scotland Yard as he understood them, but the inspector's lights are either very dim or the course of procedure they mapped out for him not what his superiors would have indicated had they been personally in command of the now famous Crippen expedition. First of all, Dew was essentially a man of mystery. There does not appear to have been an hour of the day or night when he felt it safe and in conformity with the dignity of his position to dispense with the rubber shoes, the portentous frown, the stalwart gait, and the low, silent whispers of the tank-drama sleuth. There is no denying that he played his role energetically, continuously, and in the face of no mean discouragements, for our Canadian police have been brought up in a different school. With Inspector Dew, the general impression he seemed to be specially seeking to give was that, if he wanted to, he could disguise himself before your very eyes and disappear in the passing throng without your being able to follow him. Possibly he could; at any rate this little idiosyncrasy appears to have first amused then amused and then bored the Canadian officers who have neither time nor inclination to cultivate the melodramatic phases of the detective's art.

It would probably be just as unfair to judge all of Scotland Yard by Inspector Dew as it would be to judge Inspector Dew by Scotland Yard as a whole. Dew has an imagination which transformed the rather sordid details of going on board the Montrose and arresting Crippen into some kind of a perilous, knightly quest. He guarded against revolvers, against poisoning, against dragons and against enchantment, with the absorbing zeal of an idealist. It was all very pretty but it was all very impracticable, and not at all in accord with what we have been taught to believe are Scotland Yard methods.

TO PRESERVE ORDER.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 24.—Forewarned by the outbreaks of lawlessness on the part of some of their harvesters last year the C.P.R. had 25 special plain clothes men sworn in today to aid in keeping order on trains on the way out and at stopping points. Several of this number will accompany every train on the way out from now on.

possible to the published program.

Public Holiday.

The secretary reported at the meeting yesterday that the mayor had stated that he would proclaim a public half holiday on Monday in order to allow every citizen to attend the big meeting at the park. It was also mentioned that the C.P.R. will put on a special train on Monday which will leave Rossland at 3:30 and pick up passengers between that point and Nelson. People from the Boundary country will thus be able to hear Sir Wilfrid in the evening with the least possible inconvenience to themselves.

Decorations Progress.

The decoration committee reported that all arrangements for making the streets attractive were well under way, but that unfortunately R. L. Brown of the city light department had not yet been able to take up the matter of the electrical displays, which are being undertaken at the expense of the city. It was anticipated, however, that everything would be in readiness by Saturday night.

ROOSEVELT WILL JUST STAND BY

Will Not Make Fight Now, But Will Let Republicans Go on the Rock.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The contributing editor of the Outlook did very little contributing today, for politics, long distance and otherwise, occupied intermittently about the magazine office.

Following yesterday's war council of the "Roosevelt wing" of the New York state Republicans at Sagamore hill, friends of Col. Roosevelt are convinced today that there is practically no chance that Roosevelt will make a fight in the state campaign this fall. And the colonel is really thankful that he will be able to escape responsibility for the conduct of the campaign. He is said to feel that New York Republicans are riding for a fall—that defeat is almost certain in the state election—and is glad to be out of it. It is even hinted that he believes he would be strengthened by the election of Democrats throughout the state, as he would then be able to take an "I told you so" attitude.

Then if the party shows sign of driving on the rocks of destruction, will come Roosevelt. He will board the vessel, take the helm and attempt to bring her to a Roosevelt port, safe and sound. When the Roosevelt adherents say "take command," they will mean "take the Republican nomination for president in 1912." And in his present state of mind Roosevelt is not averse to such an outcome.

But yesterday's conference with Lee, Griscom, Congressmen Cocks and Calder, and Naval Officer Kracke, the Brooklyn leader, just about decided him against making any fight in the state convention. Griscom wants to make a fight, just to avenge his unceremonious throw-down by the state committee, but Roosevelt's other advisers are opposed to it. They know that they would have the stiffest difficulty in controlling the convention, and that even if they won there, they would have to confront an almost certain toilt by the old guard, on election day. They calculate that a defeat at the polls would be more disastrous to Roosevelt and the Roosevelt policies than anything that a convention could do. So it is extremely likely that there will be no Roosevelt faction in evidence at Saratoga on Sept. 27.

WILL HELP HOMESTEADERS.

Relaxation of Residence Rule for Men Whose Crops Failed.

OTTAWA, Aug. 24—An important concession to western homesteaders who have been hard hit by the failure of their crops in certain quarters of the new provinces, and who desire to go in for railway work away from their homesteads has been made by the department of the interior. The regulations of the department provide for continuous residence upon a homestead in order to secure a title to the land, and if they were rigidly adhered to a homesteader might be liable to have his claim cancelled if he were to leave his land.

But the minister of the interior has decided that the regulations shall be suspended in cases where need therefor is proven. Protection will be given to the homesteader who gets permission from the local land agent to leave his farm to engage in railway work until April 1st next. This means that the homesteader who satisfies the local agent that he has made entry on his land, and gets permission to leave will be able to return to his homestead in April just as if he had resided there all winter. He will be able without imperilling his claim to his land in any way, to secure work for himself and team, obtain ready money to tide over the difficulty, and thus avoid going into debt. This will probably be followed by free grants of seed next spring to those farmers whose crops have failed, following the precedent set two years ago, and thus the man of the west who has played in hard luck this season will be set upon his feet for next season.

THREE METHODS OF SUCCESSION

Salic Code May Cause Civil War in Austria—System Like That of Spain.

No woman can reign over the empire of Germany or over the kingdoms of Belgium, Italy, Denmark, Sweden or Norway. In all these countries, says "Answers," the ancient Salic law still holds good.

The Salic code was written in the fifth century by the heathen Salian Franks. One chapter, which related to certain lands which lay along a hostile border, ordained that these lands should be held by men only, and that the succession should descend only in the male line.

Oddly enough, it was not until the 14th century that the Salic succession was generally adopted in Europe. France and Austria, as well as the countries already named passed edicts preventing women from ascending their thrones.

When Franz Josef Dies.

The Salic law still holds good in Austria, and out of this may arise an awkward crisis at the death of the Emperor Franz Josef. For Hungary has no such restriction, and may legally have a queen to reign over her.

Now, Franz Josef has a granddaughter whom the Hungarians desire as their queen. Franz Ferdinand, the emperor's nephew, heir-apparent to the throne, is not popular with Hungary, and the diplomatic world is desperately afraid of a split, and even a war, between the two kingdoms.

Why Wilhelmina Rules.

Prussia, Holland and some of the smaller German states have the system of succession, that males of all relationship of the deceased monarch take precedence of females. The throne only passes to the female line in case the whole of the male line is extinct.

In the circumstances, it is curious that a queen should at present rule over Holland.

Queen Wilhelmina succeeded to the throne in 1890, the Dutch had never had a queen regent since the house of Orange became stadholders in the year 1502. By Dutch succession law, Queen Wilhelmina gives up the crown as soon as the eldest of any sons she may have comes of age.

The People's Choice.

The third system of succession is our own, which we share with Spain and Portugal alone of all other countries. The eldest son comes to the throne, but if there is no son, why, then, the succession can legally descend to a daughter.

In other words, females are excluded when there are males in the same degree of relationship, but take precedence of males whose degree of relationship is not so near as their own.

In this country parliament has always exercised the power of limiting the hereditary succession to the throne.

RUSSIA GRIPPED BY THE CHOLERA

Fatalities Are Enormous and Disease Continues to Spread With Appalling Rapidity.

Russia is once more in the grip of cholera. Fifty-seven thousand people have died up to the present time, and the disease continues to spread with appalling rapidity. It will cease when Heaven wills, as at the past, for the preventative measures that the public will tolerate are not likely to have much effect upon the duration of the plague. The poor Russian peasant considers the cholera like the wind that bloweth wheresoever it listeth. To attempt to stay its course he deems futile and even irreverent. Add to this fatalism the dirt and squalor in which he lives, and you have a complete explanation of the cholera epidemic.

The Koch Vibrio.

Thanks to Koch the world knows more about cholera than it did a few years ago. The disease is produced by an intestinal parasite which has been called the Koch vibrio. Almost invariably it enters the system through the mouth and takes up its position in the alimentary canal. Once firmly entrenched there a cure is extremely doubtful, though by no means impossible. Koch himself prepared a curative serum that has been used with good effect. One of the persons returns above this disease was announced on not long ago by Prof. Ilie Metchnikoff. Certain districts, even certain cities, are immune from the cholera germ. It cannot live in them. Patients suffering from cholera will recover if they go to Versailles, to Lyons or to Stuttgart, nor can they communicate the disease to the citizens there. What has been found to be true of these places may apply to others also which have never been tested. It is supposed that the chemical composition of the soil explains the mystery. Seventy years ago the idea was that there was "something in the air" that caused or prevented cholera. Prof. Metchnikoff says that cholera is easier to avoid than catarrh, and that as long as drinking water is boiled one need not fear the disease.

Fighting the Doctors.

It is recalled that in the epidemic of 1892 the Russian peasants frequently attacked the physicians who risked their lives to save them, destroyed the disinfectants and stoned the pharmacists and nurses. Many similar cases are reported this year; although in some of the provinces the more progressive Zemstvos are using the newspapers to attract doctors. It would appear, too, that the zeal of the authorities equals, if it does not surpass, the dense superstition of the peasants, and whole train loads of them are hastening into the affected districts. In St. Petersburg the doctors are working day and night, some of them having fallen victims to exhaustion, which left them easy prey for any wandering germs. In one day 84 cholera cases and 36 suspected cases were admitted to St. Petersburg hospitals. The work in several districts is left to a few local practitioners and student volunteers from the cities.

Pest-ridden Russia.

From time immemorial Russia has been pest ridden, and to a Russian origin have been traced most of the plagues that have ravaged Europe. In 1830 the first appearance of the disease positively identified as cholera was recorded. It spread rapidly along the shores of the Volga to Saratov and Kasan, along the Caspian coast to the shores of the Ural, and then along the Caucasian frontier in the country of the Don Cossacks. Next year it reached as far as St. Petersburg, but gradually burnt itself out and disappeared. In 1852 it once more broke out, first in Poland, whence it spread over Russia, and indeed over all Europe. Then came the epidemic of 1866, that sprang up somewhere in Turkey, and soon reached Russia by way of Odessa. Through the southern provinces it spread like fire, killing its tens of thousands. It has been estimated that 90,000 lives were lost in Russia in 1865 and 1866. In 1892, again, whole districts were laid waste.

Sanitary Science Vain.

It is a matter of historical record that nearly every century this dire invader out in Asia finds it way into Russia, where the ignorance of the people and their unsanitary ways of living make them as satisfactory hosts of all malignant germs as any Oriental. Nor is there any record of a plague being checked in Russia by any human agency. It seems like a force from until it has exhausted the supply of fuel. Where all those infected or predisposed to infection have been destroyed or when their blood has generated some sort of antitoxin, the scourge will disappear, to arise again when the population has grown thick enough and rank enough to make the moving easy."

LIFE ON ISLAND NOT SO DREARY

Col. Gallwey, Governor of St. Helena, Tells of Conditions and Work of Inhabitants.

After seven-and-a-half-years' service in the most isolated dependency of the empire, Colonel Gallwey, the governor of St. Helena, is in England for a short holiday. At the same time, as the following interesting conversation shows, he is anxious to arouse the interest of Englishmen in his island, which has steadily declined in prosperity since the opening of the Suez canal, but which, in a naval war and the blockade of the canal, would at once become vitally important to the empire.

"I can warmly recommend St. Helena for nervous people," said Colonel Gallwey. "There are no motor cars, no thunderstorms, no earthquakes, no fogs and no snakes." The observation was a parenthesis in a talk about Napoleon's island with its governor.

Colonel Gallwey, who had a most distinguished career as a soldier and afterwards in service under the foreign and colonial offices in West Africa, speaks indeed very highly of St. Helena—as a residence.

"It is not a bare rock,' he told the Mail. "It is, indeed, only forty-seven square miles in area, but there are ideal spots on this much-misrepresented island, and the climate is really perfect, thanks to the southeasterly trade winds. The death-rate is probably the lowest on record. Six per thousand, after all, beats Bornesy. From the anchorage the island has perhaps a somewhat austere appearance, but its highlands are truly beautiful."

"But," I added, "there are no theatres, no concerts, no libraries, no museums, no . . ."

The colonel interrupted me. "You are going to say that life in St. Helena must be unspeakably dull. It is certainly not lively, I admit, of course, that I know every single blade of grass on the island, while the faces of the three thousand, five hundred inhabitants are becoming somewhat familiar after my seven and a half years' sojourn. But I have my duties and even my recreations. There is the routine work of the island, the fathering and control of the new industries, among other items and I am also the chief justice."

"Cases must be rare," I said.

"They are. And yet I have had to sentence two men to death. It was in 1905. Two islanders shot a signalman in order to rob him. It was the first murder in St. Helena for fifty-one years. The assassins received exactly one shilling and twopence-halfpenny each when they divided the spoils. They paid the death penalty. Altogether I must say that the rule of the governor of St. Helena is a very autocratic one."

Plenty of Recreation.

"Tell me about your recreations," I said, and to my surprise Colonel Gallwey replied, "We have plenty. There is excellent pheasant and partridge shooting. We have a nine-hole golf course, horses for riding and driving, tennis courts, and the islanders are keen and good cricketers. Every month a Union-Castle liner brings us a budget of newspapers, and the only trouble is that the most recent one is always seventeen days old. But we receive every day a Reuter message giving in brief the most important news of the whole world. I may add that St. Helena boasts a local journal, the Guardian. From time to time we have a visit from British warships, for our admirals know what good such visits do to the islanders.' I need hardly say that whoever lands on the island flies to Longwood, where the vanquished of Waterloo resided and was buried.'

This led our conversation to Napoleonic traditions.

"They are rapidly disappearing from St. Helena," the colonel explained. "There are still a few very old men who were babes at the time of Napoleon's death and who remember—very vaguely—their parents speaking about the famous prisoner. They always refer to him as General Buonaparte. The present generation knows next to nothing of Napoleon the Great, but much more about Dinizulu and General Cronje, who were prisoners on the island, the former in 1890 and the latter in 1900.

"Why should the islanders," I asked "call Napoleon 'General Buonaparte today?"

"He has been called so ever, since the days of Sir Hudson Lowe. Of course, Lowe, like all Britishers, called him thus. Personally, I would have called him Napoleon King of Kings if he had asked me to . . . but Sir Hudson Lowe was governor of St. Helena, and one must not criticise one's predecessors."

I questioned Colonel Gallwey concerning Napoleonic records at Longwood. "Almost nothing remains but the house itself," he said. "It is partly stone and partly wood, a simple one-storied bungalow, which looks very much like a humble farm building. In Napoleon's days there were trees round it, but now the place is bare. There is not a stick of furniture in the whole house. His bedroom contains a good bust of him, but at Government house we have a few relics, including a bookcase, a cabinet, and the famous billiard table of Napoleon. For one year this table was at Longwood. Napoleon used to play billiards with his hands and twist the balls about nervously. At the end of twelve months he became so tired of the game that he had the table sent back to his 'jailer.' The billiard room became a map-room, and for hours at a time with little flags in his hand Napoleon used to refight his victories . . . and Waterloo."

No Color Problem.

From the past we turned to the present and fell to talking about the island as it is today, its population and prospects. Of the three thousand five hundred inhabitants their governor now spoke. But St. Helena knows no color feeling; the people are a happy-go-lucky, cheerful "crew." Ever since the opening of the Suez canal however, and the substitution of steam for sailing vessels, the colony has been growing poorer and poorer. Sixty ships enter Jamestown harbor each year as compared with a thousand in the old days. The withdrawal of the garrison a few years since was the final blow.

"How do the people live?" I asked.

"There are three industries. Fibre growing and weaving—a fibre which is used with manilla for making rope; St. Helena is the only place, barring New Zealand, which exports this article. Mackerel-curing gives work to many; it was introduced by the generosity of Mr. A. Mosely, C.M.G. Finally, there is lace-making, which is just being developed, under the direction of Miss Girdwood, the manageress of the government lace school. St. Helena laces, according to the report of the chief experts, compare most favorably with any. The progress made in this industry is in no little measure due to the interest taken therein by Mrs. Ord Marshall, of the league of the Empire, and her colleagues. What we most require is capital, for I have great hopes of the rising generation and of the industries now established."

"Are you going back to the island, colonel?"

"Yes, in a few weeks' time. I love the place, its people, and its historical associations. Besides, one must not leave a sinking ship. Also, one should remember that in the event of the Suez canal being blocked in time of war St. Helena would at once become a place of vast importance to the Empire."

RELIGIOUS WORK TO BE STARTED AT Y. M. C. A.

It is planned to organise an adult male class to meet on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, at the Y.M.C.A. building. This class will be under the leadership of Judge J. A. Forin, who has been conducting such a class very successfully for some years at St. Paul's Presbyterian church. Feeling that the above plan might open up a larger opportunity to be of service to the young men of the city, the judge, at the request of the board of directors, has very kindly consented to take up this work.

The opening meeting will be held on Sunday, Sept. 11, at which time Professor Anderson Scott of the Presbyterian college, Cambridge, England, will give an address. Prof. Scott has been giving a series of lectures at Westminster Hall, Vancouver, and is a writer and speaker of high distinction.

Speakers of prominence will be secured from time to time and will address the men upon suitable subjects. It is earnestly hoped that the men of the different churches will rally to the support of this effort and help to make it a big success from the beginning.

The fire department made a rapid run this morning to the Hume hotel, where a small fire, caused by a match thrown into a closet on the top floor, had caused the alarm. No damage was done beyond the burning of a few pieces of linen.

The Ladies' Aid of the Church of Mary Immaculate will hold a lawn social, in aid of St. Joseph's school, on the school grounds this afternoon and evening. They will serve ice cream, peaches and cream, cake, sandwiches, home made bread and butter, tea and coffee.

E. W. Widdowson reached the city from the coast last night. Mr. Widdowson states that at the Vancouver exhibition Kootenay carried off the silver cup for the best district mining exhibit, that Portland canal took second prize, and that this district won all the diplomas.

In connection with the proceedings in the city police court yesterday morning the magistrate mentioned the fact that one or two back and express wagon drivers were in the habit of leaving their horses on the streets without a weight attached, so that if startled they were liable to run away and possibly do some damage. He pointed out that drivers should be more careful.

Grain Exchange, Winnipeg, Aug. 24: Weather generally cloudy, with traces of rain and absolutely no frost in the west, but had a bearish effect on the market, the drop being ¾ cent for Oct., 1 cent for Dec., and ½ cent for May. The cash demand was fair for old Nos. 1, 2 and 3 Northern and for new Nos. 1 and 2, but any heavy trade was in options rather than in cash. Export was again very dull. Receipts of new wheat were 11 cars.

American markets were all weaker in tone and trading generally.

YOUTH IN CHARGE OF PUNCH.

Sambourne, the Master of Line, Was Last of Victorian Generation.

The death of Linley Sambourne, the chief cartoonist of Punch, at the age of 60, leaves the paper in the hands of a younger set of artists. His place will be filled by Bernard Partridge and L. Raven-Hill, both young men judged by Punch standards of age. Partridge was born in 1861 and Raven-Hill in 1867. With Sambourne's death the last link with Victoria Punch is broken.

Sambourne was a great draughtsman and seemed never to err in his drawings. He had not the humor of Du Maurier nor the genius of Sir John Tenniel, whose Bismarckian cartoon "Dropping the Pilot" appealed to men all over the world. It is difficult to recall any famous cartoon of Sambourne's, but the charm of his drawing was always fascinating to readers with an eye to line.

AT THE THEATRES

"To Save Her Soul," a Sex Biograph drama, is the feature film of the performances at the Gem tonight. Another subject worthy of mention is an Edison film entitled "King Cotton." This picture shows cotton from the plant to the finished product at the mills. The other subjects are: "The Coward Detective," "Foolshead is Out for the Day," and "For Her Sister's Sake."

The subjects which filled the Arcade to overflowing at last night's performance were as follows: "The Saloon Next Door," a fine film, in which Nelson's popular moving picture actress, Miss Lawrence, is introduced. "Supreme Recognition," a masterpiece of photography and acting. "Salmon Fishing in Norway," and "The Sleep Walker," the latter being full of humor. This program will be repeated tonight.

Little in the Cudahy residence shortly after midnight, on March 5, Mrs. Cudahy has obtained a divorce, which was granted yesterday by Judge Shover, on the ground of incompatibility of temper, 14 minutes after Mrs. Cudahy filed her petition. Mr. Cudahy was not in court. Attorney represented him at the hearing, but made no protest against the decree.
