TEUTON ENVOYS TO ROME SAID TO HAVE DEMANDED PASSPORTS

Newspaper Declared Staffs of Embassies Would Leave Italian Capital Last Night--Baggage Has Already Been Sent Beyond Austrian Border

LEADER OF NEUTRALIST PARTY SAYS HE WISHES HE COULD BE AMONG FIGHTERS

Will Not Attend Session of Parliament Thursday--Admiral Bettolo Asserts His Country Is Absolutely Certain of Victory--Italians at Austrian Arsenal Revolt, 150 Casualties

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, May 19, 2:59 a.m.—A despatch to the Central News dated today from Rome says:

"The Giornale d'Italia anounces that Prince von Bulow, German ambassador, and Baron von Macchio, special ambassador of Austria, have demanded their passports. The newspaper adds that the staffs of the German and Austrian consulates will leave Rome Tuesday evening."

Teuton Envoys Send Trunks Away.

ROME, May 18.—Several cases and trunks belonging to Prince von Bulow, the German ambassador, which are believed to have contained the documents of the embassies, already have been sent out of the country. Baggage of Prince von Bulow passed through the customs house at Chiazzo and that of Baron von Macchio through the customs at Pontebba on the Austrian frontier. Neither was examined, being entitled to diplomatic immunity from search.

The German and Austrian consul-generals and their staffs received instructions to be ready to leave Rome today or tomorrow.

The Messaggero today stated that it was of the opinion that Prince von Bulow and Baron von Macchio were only awaiting definite instructions from their respective governments to ask explanations of the Italian government concerning Italy's purpose and that this request would be answered by handing them their passports.

Admiral Bettolo, former minister of marine, when asked tonight concerning his impression as to the political situation, said:

"My impression is that we shall undoubtedly fight and that we are absolutely certain to win."

War Will Come Soon.

LONDON, May 18.—The next few days, if not hours, will, it is believed, find Italy renouncing its old allies of the triple alliance and joining the triple entente powers as a belligerent. The German imperial chancellor in a speech in the reichstag today outlined the offers that had been made to Italy as the price of its continued neutrality, and while he said he had not entirely given up hope that peace would be maintained among the powers of the trile alliance, he left an impression on the minds of his hearers that the end of the alliance so far as Italy is concerned, is not far off.

Neutralist Eager to Fight.

ROME, May 18.—While the train bearing former Premier Giolittti, leader of the neutralist party, to his home in Cavour was passing through an Italian village today Signor Giolitti said he had decided not to attend the session of the chamber of deputies next Thursday because his presence there might give occasion for scenes of violence between the partizans of the war and peace factions. Such a scene, he added, might cause the erroneous impression abroad that Italians will be divided when the government announces its program.

"It is a pity," he said, "that I am not 30 years younger. I would take my gun and go to the front."

The Ire Nazionale reports a revolt at the Austrian arsenal at Pola on the Adriatic. It is asserted that 10,000 Italians employed there came into conflict with troops and that 50 persons were killed and 100 wounded.

Socialists in Riots.

TURIN, May 19, 1:30 a.m.—Following the strike proclaimed Monday by the intransigant socialists calm prevails here today. The maintenance of public order has been intrusted to the military authorities. Many arrests have been made, especially of socialists who were charged with firing revolvers and throwing stones. Among those arrested was the socialist deputy, Gugliano de Giovani, who after an interrogation, was released.

Gen. Sapella, commander of the military division of Turin, has issued a manifesto in which he states that he trusts to the patriotism of the population the maintenance of order.

Says No Formal Denunciaion.

AMSTERDAM, May 18.—A copy of the Berlin Tageblatt, which has been received here, contains the following:

"Italy's intimation to Vienna concerning the denouncing of the triple alliance crossed Austria's notification to Rome of concessions offered Italy by Austria. Therefore Italy's action cannot be regarded as a formal denunciation of the alliances. Moreover Berlin has received no communication whatever bearing upon the triple alliance."

ONLY ONE COMPANY COMMANDER IN 4TH UNHURT

BRANTFORD, Ont., May 18.—Word of what happened to one company in the 4th battalion near Langemarck two weeks ago when the Canadian brigade halted the Germans was received today from Capt. Colquhoun, who commanded a company of the battalion in that encounter. When his company went into action it numbered 227 men. When, after six days in action, the rollcall was taken it was found that 160 had been killed or wounded or missing. Capt. Colquhoun was the only company commander in the 4th battalion who came out unwounded.

The letter says that the company had been reinforced since with a draft of men under Lieut. Walter Towers of Brantford.

RUSSIAN FLEET DESTROYS TURKISH MERCHANT SHIPS

LONDON, May 18.—The Russian Black sea fleet, according to news received by the Russian naval attaches, has destroyed in the Turkish coal mining district one steamship and 36 sailing vessels. At Koslu a pier, elevator and railroad station has been destroyed.

SEVENTH BATTALION IS SADLY REDUCED

Almost Half Its Men Have Been Mentioned in Casualties—Many Are Missing.

Official casualty lists for several days past seem to support the assertion of Major Victor Odlum, Vancouver, who in a letter to his father, Professor E. Odlum, stated the 7th battalion had "been reduced to a shadow."

Approximately 450 of the 1100 men have been named on casualty lists sent from Ottawa.

In this morning's list Frank Roberts, Midway, is reported missing. Before being transferred to the 7th he was with the 12th battalion. He was born at Woolwich, England, and was a rancher at Midway. He was 39 years of age and single.

Hewson Kirby, Nelson, is also among the 7th battalion's missing.

Sidney Wood was among the 7th battalion's missing yesterday. This is thought to be the Sidney Wood, well known in Nelson. He was employed at the Hume hotel and also worked on the lake boats.

M. A. McAuley, Cranbrook, with the 16th battalion, formerly of the 12th, has been reported missing, according to word just received by his family at Cranbrook.

News has been received in Waneta by Hugh Buckley of Bunker Hill from his brother, John W. Buckley, that he is wounded, is in hospital, but is doing well.

ITALY ATTEMPTED TO WIN PEACEFULLY

Green Book Will Record Diplomatic Negotiations With Central Empires —German Clerics Are Leaving.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

ROME, May 18.—A green book whichthe government is preparing will certain diplomatic documents tending to show the attitude of Italy from the beginning of the war and the strenuous efforts made by the government to reconcile the obligations of the triple alliance with national aspirations and the principles of nationality on which is based the existence of Italy and the hope of future greatness.

The documents show that the Italian cabinet exercise careful patience in its desire to avoid complications and that finally when the Austrian point of view proved to be irreconcilable it became necessary to so sever relations with the central empires so far as the alliance was concerned.

MUSCOVITES BEGIN BROAD OFFENSIVE

Assert Some Success--Teuton Reports Are Called Exaggerated

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, May 18.—The Germans, in conjunction with the Austrians, continue their big efforts in the east. Heavy fighting is in progress along the river San in Galicia, where the Russians are attempting to make a stand after their retirement from western Galicia and the Carpathians. According to Austrian accounts of the fighting the Germanic allies have forced a passage of the San at several points.

North of this war zone—in southern Poland—the Russians are vigorously dealing counter-attacks against the Austro-Germans. They are also pursuing their offensive in Bukowina, where it is asserted they have driven the Austrians and Germans back from the Dniester to the Pruth and are trying to clear them out of Bukowina.

At the other end of the long line in the east—up in the Baltic provinces and along the East Prussian frontier—heavy fighting also is in progress. In both these sectors each of the belligerents again is claiming the advantage.

Russians Take Offensive.

PETROGRAD, May 18.—The following official statement was issued tonight:

"In the Shavli region (Courland) we continue to press the enemy closely. In the region between the Niemen and the Verjbolvo railway our troops have assumed the offensive and are engaging the enemy.

"In the sector between Optow, on the left bank of the Vistula, and the whole Galician front up to the environs of Kolomea, May 16 great masses of the enemy attacked our positions, centreing their efforts in the regions to the north and south of Przemysl.

"On the left bank of the Vistula we not only repulsed furious attacks but assumed the offensive and captured

GERMANY CEASES SUBMARINE PIRACY?

Washington Despatch Declares Order Has Been Issued by Berlin to Discontinue Attacks.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, May 18.—Orders suspending submarine operations against merchant vessels have been issued by the German government pending the outcome of negotiations regarding the representations made by this government, according to a Washington despatch to the Times. The Times says the information was obtained in a "well informed quarter" after cable press despatches had said a German submarine fired a torpedo at the liner Transylvania on its trip from New York to Glasgow. It was stated at this source of information that the Transylvania story could not be correct "for the reason that submarine activity had been discontinued by the German government."

It is not known, the despatch says, whether this order applies to freight vessels of enemy countries carrying passengers or not, but the Times says it is the understanding that the order will apply to all merchant vessels, belligerent as well as neutral. The order, it was said, was issued about a week ago, but the supposition is that it has not been announced officially.

PROBLEMS OF MOMENTOUS IMPORTANCE ARE SAID TO CONFRONT GOVERNMENT

Official Information Lacking and Suspension of Judgment Advised--Churchill and Lloyd George to Get New Jobs; Haldane, Beauchamp and Harcourt to Go, Is Anticipation

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, May 18.—The resignation of the veteran sailor, Lord Fisher, from his post of first sea lord of the admiralty because he and his superior, Winston Spencer Churchill, have been unable to work together, is probably the first step toward a sweeping reorganization of the British government.

"A coalition cabinet, composed of the strongest men of both political parties, is believed to be the probable solution of the government's difficulties. There is no question of a compete change of the government but the retirement of several members of the Liberal cabinet to make way for the strongest men of the Unionist party is confidently expected.

Premier Asquith will remain at the head of the government in any event, with Lord Kitchener and Sir Edward Grey, respectively the war and foreign ministers, in undisputed possession of their present posts, while David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, and Mr. Churchill will probably take new posts.

Unionist Probabilities.

Of the Unionists Andrew Bonar Law, opposition leader in the commons, Former Premier Arthur J. Balfour, Lord Derby and Austen Chamberlain almost certainly will enter the cabinet and either Lord Curzon, Lord Milner or the Earl of Selborne, from the Unionist leaders in the house of lords. The Labor party would probably be represented by Right Hon. Arthur Henderson, its chairman, and there is talk of both the Irish leaders, John Redmond and Sir Edward Carson, becoming members.

For nine months the Liberal cabinet has conducted the war government with loyal support from the leaders of the Unionist party in parliament. Since the month of May through the most critical days of the great struggle the British people of all parties have become more and more convinced that the management of their destinies by one political party cannot bring the full strength of the nation into the struggle. Consequently a reorganization of the forces, it is thought, would meet a growing demand.

Fisher and Churchill Disagree.

The Unionist newspapers have not felt the same obligation to respect the party truce that the parliamentary leaders have shown, and their criticism of the government policies and of certain cabinet members has stirred up an undercurrent of discontent throughout the country. The rupture between Admiral Fisher and Mr. Churchill was no surprise. One is an old man who is popularly credited with both determination and ability to command the navy as masterfully as Kitchener commands the army, while the other is a strenuous and ambitious young man who is equally devoted to enforce his own views and naval policies.

All during the day there were reports that the government had suddenly found itself confronted with problems of momentous importance. Announcements of the cancelation of the cabinet council which had been summoned to meet at noon; of the postponement of Chancellor Lloyd George's projected tour of the country to stimulate the output of munitions of war and of approaching visits of Ms. Churchill and other ministers to Mr. Asquith all served to give color to these reports.

Official information still is lacking, however, whether the cabinet is considering a coalition government and some well informed persons advise suspension of judgment until the premier sees fit to take the country into his confidence.

Another View of the Situation.

The Pall Mall Gazette said today that Lord Fisher, admiral of the fleet and first sea lord, had resigned; that Lords Haldane, Beauchamp and Harcourt would retire and that the Unionists would join the government. The paper declared the cabinet practically had ceased to exist and that a national ministry would be formed, which would include opposition leaders. The paper stated that Arthur J. Balfour, Andrew Bonar Law, Austen Chamberlain, F. E. Smith and Earl Derby would take the places of the retiring members.

The Telegraph says that Lord Fisher, admiral of the fleet, has resigned but that his resignation has not yet been accepted.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH MURDERING HER HUSBAND

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

EDMONTON, Alta., May 18.—Mrs. Meyer and her two sons, Henry and Conrad Meyer, who reside west of the city, were committed for trial this afternoon on a charge of murdering the woman's husband last December by hanging him in a barn of their homestead. Another son, who gave evidence, said that his father was killed on Dec. 23. He said he was afraid of his brothers and that on the night of the murder had gone to bed, but had risen and had seen his two brothers, Henry and Conrad, taking the father out of the barn and that the mother was following them. In his fright he had run away in company with his brother Reinhardt. That was the last time he had seen his father alive. When he returned about 6 o'clock in the morning the body of his father was lying on the bed in the kitchen. He had been afraid of his brothers because they wished to get him out of the country as they had been in a dispute about two weeks before about some machinery, which he claimed belonged to the father. When he returned in the morning he had looked at his father and found his face was white but his eyes were black. His brothers had then sent him to a neighbor's to get them to come to lay out the body.

ALLIES FORCE FOE TO COUNTER-ATTACK

British on Offensive to North of Arras and French Are Active to South.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, May 18.—The British first army to the north of La Bassee and the French forces to the south of this town continue their offensive against the German line and, according to their respective commanders, still are making progress.

The German official statement, however, takes issue with the allied commanders in this respect and declares that all the offensive movements against the Germans have been repulsed.

The same inconsistency appears in the reports of the fighting along the Yzer, although the Germans admit a retirement and the French assert that they have inflicted heavy losses on the invaders. From all accounts, however, it would appear that the allies have incited the Germans to counter-attack both on the Yzer and in the Arras region and to the north of La Bassee the British are doing the attacking.

Weather Halts Battles.

PARIS, May 18.—The official statement given out this evening is as follows:

"Continuous rains since Monday night and a thick mist making it impossible to see for a distance of 300 feet have rendered infantry operations impossible.

"There have been no engagements on the entire front. Even the cannonading has been weak."

LONDON, May 19, 1:14 a.m.—Confirmation of the previous report of the sinking of the Australian submarine AE2 in the Dardanelles is contained in an official communication issued by the admiralty. The statement says the crew of the vessel was captured by the Turks.

The sinking of the AE2 was announced in a Turkish statement May 11. The boat was sent to the bottom by Turkish warships while it was trying to enter the sea of Marmora. Three officers and 29 men of the crew were taken prisoners.

BRITISH COLUMBIA LIKELY TO GET COPPER REFINERY

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, May 18.—Shrapnel making has grown to be one of the great industries of Canada. War orders have set wheels in all parts of the country turning on shell fabrication. Within a short time every step in the process of shell manufacture will be taken in Canada from mining the copper, zinc and iron; the fabrication of the explosives and the shaping and assembling the parts. Hundreds of workmen and almost 200 establishments are already executing shrapnel orders. The only operation which Canada does not carry out at present is making brass for the cartridge case. While the zinc and copper are mined in Canada they are not refined here; that being done in the United States. In the past it has been found convenient to sell zinc and copper matte to American refiners and buy back the pure copper and zinc, or the two combined with tin to form brass. There has been no brass making of consequence in Canada.

With the demand for shell brass reaching great proportions there has been an investigation into the possibility of having the copper and zinc refining and brass making carried out in this country. It is learned that the thing could be easily done, although there might have to be the usual government assistance at the start. The refining operations are likely to be carried out in British Columbia, where there are great deposits of copper and zinc ores and where coal and water powers are abundant. The brass may be made there or elsewhere.

It is said that a considerable amount of outside capital will come into Canada for investment in both this and the explosive industy.

GERMAN WAITERS IN OTTAWA ARE OUSTED

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, May 18.—An evidence of the ill-feeling that has existed among the waiters in the large hotels here is given by the cards the English and French waiters managed to slip diners who were put at the tables attended by the Germans. These read: "You waiter is a German. Act accordingly."

In some cases the diners ignored the notice, while in others they got up and changed their tables.

The Germans are gradually being supplanted at the different hotels. A new head waiter, a Frenchman, has been installed at the Chateau, while several more German captains have been released.

KITCHENER ANNOUNCES ALLIES WILL EMPLOY FUMES AGAINST GERMANS TO COUNTERACT ADVANTAGE OF ENEMY

LONDON, May 18.—Lork Kitchener said in the House of Lords today that the British and French governments felt that the allied troops must be adequately protected against poisonous gases by the employment of similar methods. These would remove the enormous and unjustifiable advantage which must otherwise exist.

Lord Kitchener said he wanted 300,000 more recruits to form new armies. He expressed his confidence that in the near future the country would be in a satisfactory condition with regard to the supply of ammunition. The news from the Gallipoli peninsula, in other words, the Dardanelles, was thoroughly satisfactory, Lord Kitchener declared.

After referring in aulogistic terms to the men in the new army Earl Kitchener concluded:

"I said I would let the country know when more men were wanted for the war. The time has come and I now call for 300,000 men to form new armies.

"Those who are engaged in the production of war material of any kind should not leave their work. It is not to men who are not performing this duty that I appeal and I am convinced the manhood of England will loyally respond.

Said War Would Be Long.

"In my first speech in the House of Lords I pointed out that this war would be a long one and would demand great sacrifices. Those sacrifices have been cheerfully made by the people of this country, who not only responded in vast numbers to the summons to create the new armies required, but have since continuously supplied a constant stream of recruits which has enabled us to maintain the forces in the field and in training at their full strength and with effective men.

"Your lordships have watched the growth of the new armies and have noted doubtless the difficulties which confronted us in providing them with all the material of war they require.

"I cannot speak too highly of the men and the devotion to duty they have displayed or of their cheerful acceptance of hardships incidental to inclement weather, which have provoked the admiration of expert officers who reported to me as to the wonderfuly rapid progress made in their training to become efficient soldiers.

"I am certain that in the activities in the field which immediately await them these men will worthily sustain the reputation they have already attained at home."

TRANSYLVANIA SAID TO HAVE DODGED SUBMARINE

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, May 18.—The Anchor line steamer Transylvania, under charter to the Cunard line, which arrived at Glasgow yesterday from New York, encountered a submarine off the northwest coast of Ireland about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, according to the statement of passengers who arrived in London today.

One passenger declared that on nearing the British coast his attention was attracted to the apparently suspicious movements of a sailing ship flying the Norwegian flag. The captain of the Transylvania immediately swerved from his course and began zig-zagging his ship. The periscope of a submarine was subsequently sighted 300 yards astern. The Transylvania, however, soon raced clear of the danger. A member of the crew made the suggestion that the submarine might have been a British boat.

Kenneth Durward, a business man of London, who returned on the Transylvania from New York, said:

"I was looking over the stern of the ship at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon when in our wake, about 500 yards astern, I saw what I at first believed to be a porpoise. I called several passengers who were standing near. We were joined by the chief engineer of the line, who pronounced the object to be the conning tower of a submarine.

"When this object arose above the wash made by the wake of the Transylvania I plainly saw the periscope of a submarine, as the craft was submerged. It was light and the water was smooth except for the long swell made by the ship, but we saw no sign that the submarine had fired a torpedo.

"Not wishing to unduly alarm the passengers, we called only those who were standing near and so few passengers saw the submarine at the time.

"Submarines were seldom mentioned on the voyage, which was as unexciting as any I ever made until we turned abruptly in our course when one day off the Irish coast. We saw a Norwegian bark lying without way with all its sails furled. This was the only suspicious object we saw, besides the supposed submarine.

"Outside of these events I never experienced a voyage on which the passengers seemed more unconcerned."

Passengers who talked with the ship's officers after the submarine was reported to have been seen learned that the ship changed its course simply to take the sun.

Capt. Black told several passengers he had seen nothing of the submarine they believed they had sighted.

AFTERNOON NEWS SUMMARY

Gist of Despatches in Day Telegraphic Service.

A far-reaching victory in Bukowina, the Austrian crown land, on the eastern extremity of the Russian front, is claimed in an official announcement from Petrograd. According to this statement the Russians have swept through Bukowina, taking back much of the territory which they held earlier in the war until they were driven out by the Austrians. Their successes are described as of such importance that they more than offset the Austro-German victory in western Galicia in the drive from Cracow. It is reported the Russians have taken Czernowitz, capital of Bukowina, having broken down the Austrian resistance over a 90-mile front and captured 20,000 prisoners.

The Russian war office concedes a further retreat in Russian Poland between the Pilica and Vistula rivers on part of the long front over which they have been compelled by the Austro-German armier to fall back.

Italian Decision Postponed.

An Amsterdam despatch to a Paris newspaper says the German reply to the American note will be despatched Thursday and that it is expected in Holland that Germany will decline to modify its methods of submarine warfare.

The decision of Italy's policy concerning the war apparently has been postponed until after parliament meets Thursday.

It is expected in Rome that parliament will be asked to confer plenary powers on the cabinet.

A plot to assassinate the sultan of Turkey, Field Marshal der Goltz, Field Marshal von Sanders and Enver Pasha is said to have been discovered in Constantinople.

Teutons Fire on Przempsl.

"Near Jaroslau, despite our withering artillery fire and machine gun fire, which is inflicting immense losses, the Germans are still endeavoring ot consolidate their positions on the right bank of the San river. Here during the course of the day we got down many hostile aeroplanes, which were correcting the fire of the enemy's batteries. Under Przemysl the artillery fire has been intense, the enemy bombarding the western forts.

"Between Przemysl and the great marshes of the Dniester masses of the enemy which attacked us reached in many places our wire entanglements, but were scattered by our fire. Nevertheless, at the cost of enormous sacrifices the enemy succeeded in capturing the trenches of two of our battalions.

"The losses of the enemy in general are estimated by the tens of thousands."

LONDON, May 18.—A correspondent at Bucharest of the Telegraph in a despatch published today declares that recent statements of Austro-German victories over the Russians have been largely exaggerated. The despatch says:

"The German account of victories is largely exaggerated. The Russian line has not been pierced but only bent back.

"The German accounts of the demoralized condition of the Russian troops are highly colored. The retirement was conducted in good order under heavy rear guard fighting.

"All the Austrian advances on the east of the Russian line have been thrown back. Reserves are hurrying to Gen. Demitreff and a counter-attack is expected soon."

Austrians Claim 174,000 Prisoners.

VIENNA, May 18.—The official statement issued tonight says:

"The troops of the Teutonic allies after furious fighting have forced a passage of the San river at several points and secured a footing on the east bank. Russian counter-attacks were everywhere decisively repulsed and the enemy thrown back in an easterly direction.

"On the upper Dniester vigorous fighting is proceeding.

"On the Pruth line no particular events have been reported.

"Isolated Russian attacks north of Kolomea have been repulsed.

"The total number of prisoners brought in during the first half of May was 174,000. We have captured 128 guns and 368 machine guns."

mouth and quickly hushed his sentence. The greatest excitement prevailed in the chamber for a few moments but the members soon regained their serenity and the member who was speaking at the time resumed his speech.

The removal of the mace from the speaker's desk would have brought the proceedings to an end for by time honored custom the house is not legally in session unless the mace is in its pace in front of the speaker.

Mr. Charington said later that his object was to protest against the government's liquor bill which, he said, "makes all temperance workers partners in the supply of drink to the working people in the industrial areas."

Mr. Charington obtained entrance to the commons by sending his card to Mr. Galbraith, a new member, who did not know him personally. Mr. Galbraith walked with the visitor through the corridor and during the ensuing conversation Mr. Charington remarked that he had spent $5,000,000 in fighting the drink traffic. When the two men reached the door and Mr. Galbraith started to bid his visitor good-bye the latter bolted through the door and out on the floor of the house. After Charington was removed from the chamber he was turned over to the police. He will be arraigned in police court in due course.

Charington's father was once a member of parliament. Charington some years ago renounced a great fortune in a brewery which he had inherited in order to carry on his temperance work.

TELLS HOW TO SEND MAIL TO PRISONERS

Deputy Postmaster-General at Ottawa Issues Instructions as to Regulations in Force.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, May 18.—The following instructions have been issued by the postmaster-general's department here in connection with correspondence for prisoners of war in Germany:

"Postmasters may accept correspondence for onward transmission to prisoners of war in Germany under the following regulations: Letters should be left open. Postcards and postal parcels should be addressed as follows:

"1. Rank, initials, name.
"2. Regiment, or other unit.
"3. British or Canadian, French Belgian or Russian prisoner of war.
"4. Place of internment.
"5. Germany.

"Place of internment should be stated always if possible and parcels cannot be accepted unless place of internment is stated. All addresses must be in ink. Communications should be limited to private and family news and to necessary business communications and should not be sent too frequently. No reference to the naval, military or political situation or to military movements or organizations are allowed. Letters containing such reference will not be delivered. Friends of prisoners of war are advised to send postcards in preference to letters, as postcards are less likely to be delayed. If letters are sent, they should not exceed in length two sides of a sheet of note paper and should contain nothing but one sheet of note paper. On no account should the writing be crossed. Letters cannot for the present be accepted for registration.

"Postage need not be paid either on letters or parcels addressed to prisoners of war.

"No letters should be enclosed in parcels and newspapers must not on any account be sent. So far as known there is no restriction on the contents of parcels. Tobacco may be sent and will be admitted duty free, but foodstuffs of a perishable character should not be sent. Parcels should not exceed 11 pounds in weight.

"Remittances can be made by money order to prisoners of war. Instructions as to how to proceed can be obtained from postmasters. The transmission of coin, either in letters or in parcels, is expressly prohibited. Postal notes and bank notes should not be sent.

"It must be understood that no guaranty for the delivery of either parcels or letters can be given and that the postoffice accepts no responsibility. In any case considerable delay may take place and failure to receive an acknowledgment should not necessarily be taken as an indication that letters and parcels sent have not been delivered.

"So far as is known prisoners of war in Germany are allowed to write letters or postcards from time to time, but they may not always have facilities for doing so and the fact that no communication is received from them need not give rise to anxiety.

"R. M. COULTER,

holy see, sought permission to remain in the Vatican, but the pope and his advisers refuse to accede to this request, to avoid serious embarrassment in the event of decisive action by Italy.

It is thought that the atican will not oppose the departure of the Austrian ambassador and Prussian and Bavarian ministers accredited to the holy see whose presence here would be impossible should Italian patrticipation in the war ensue.

Should entry into the war be decided ed upon the government would suspend the validity of Article II. of the Law of Guarantees, which extends to diplomats accredited to the Vatican the same prerogatives granted those accredited to the quirinal.

Another important question which is likely to arise relates to the Austrian and German eccelesiastics of whom a great number reside in Rome. Some, like Abbott von Stotzingen of the Benedictine fathers, have already left the capital, but other prominent churchmen, including Father Ledochews, general of the Jesuits ("the black pope"), is still here.

GERMAN CHANCELLOR FEARS ITALY WILL FIGHT---TELLS OF OFFER MADE

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

BERLIN, May 18, via London.—"You are aware," said Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, imperial chancellor, speaking in the reichstag today, "that the relations between Italy and Austria-Hungary within the last month have been strongly strained.

"From the speeches made yesterday by Count Tiszayou you will have gathered that the Vienna cabinet in a sincere effort to insure enduring peace between the dual monarchy and Italy, and to take into account the lasting great vital interests of both empires, had resoved on far-reaching concessions to Italy of a territorial nature.

"I consider it proper to indicate these concessions to you:

"First—Part of the Tyrol, inhabited by Italians, was to be ceded to Italy.

"Second—The western bank of the Isonzo, so far as the population was purely Italian and the town of Gradisco, likewise was to be ceded to Italy.

Refuse to Cede Trieste.

"Third—Trieste was to be made an imperial free city receiving an administration which would insure the Italian character of the city and to have an Italian university.

"Fourth—Italian sovereignty over Avlona (a seapore of Albania) and a sphere of interest belonging thereto, to be recognized.

"Fifth—Austria-Hungary declared its disinterestedness regarding Albania.

"Sixth—The national interests of Italians in Austria to be particularly respected

"Seventh—Austria-Hungary to grant amnesty to military prisoners belonging to the ceded territory.

"Eighth—The further wishes of Italy regarding the question to be assured every consideration.

"Ninth—Austria-Hungary, after the conclusion of the agreement to give a solemn declaration concerning the concession.

"Tenth—Mixed committees for the regulation of the details of the concessions to be appointed.

"Eleventh—After the conclusion of the agreement Austro-Hungarian soldiers, natices of the territories, shall not further participate in the war.

"I can add," continued the imperial chancellor, "that Germany, in order to further strengthen the understanding between both its allies, undertook with the full agreement of the Vienna cabinet to give a full guaranty for the loyal fulfillment of these offers. Germany and Austria-Hungary herewith formed a resolution which if it should lead to results would, I firmly believe, find the support of an overwhelming majority in the three nations.

Has Not Given Up Hope.

"With its parliament the Italian people will now decide whether it will reach the fulfillment of all national aspirations in the widest extent in a peaceful manner, or whether it will plunge the country into war, and tomorrow draw the sword against its allies of yesterday and today.

"I will not give up hope entirely that the scale of peace will be heavier than the scale of war, but whatever may be, together with Austria-Hungary, we have done all within the bounds of possibility to support an alliance which was firmly rooted among the German people and had brought profit and good to the three empires.

"If the alliance is torn by one of the three partners we shall known, together with the other partner, how to meet the new dangers with dauntless confidence and courage."

Stomach Troubles Due to Acidity

SO SAYS EMINENT SPECIALIST.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, wind and stomach ache are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence that fermentation is taking place in the food contents of the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acids. Wind distends the stomach, and causes that full, oppressive feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the fermenting food. Such fermentation is unnatural and acid formation is not only unnatural, but may involve serious consequences if not corrected. To stop or prevent fermentation of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize ehe acid and render it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, probably the best and most effective corrector of acid stomach known, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water immediately after eating, or whenever wind or acidity is felt. This stops the fermentation and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments. Fermentation, wind and acidity are dangerous and unnecessary. Stop or prevent them by the use of a proper antacid, such as bisurated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist and thus enable the stomach to do its work properly without being hindered by poisonous gas and dangerous acids.—M. PITCHERS LEAD LIFE OF EASE

Are Pampered—Also Get Slow, Heavy as Result of Too Much Idleness.

DETROIT. — Harry Tuthill, who trains the Detroit Baseball club and also the army football team, has some ideas which are apt to make him very unpopular with the pitching fraternity in general. Tuthill says they would do much better work if they were forced to pitch twice a week and play three other days in the outfield, like the pitchers used to do in the old days.

Tuthill points back to the numerous examples of ancient flingers who used to consider themselves neglected unless they pitched three times a week, and played in the outfield on other days. The trainer remarks that pitchers are the most luxurious class of men in the world with only one day's work a week and on the other six days nothing but a life of ease.

"Modern pitchers are entirely too much pampered," says Tuthill, "and they get slow and heavy as a result of too much idleness. They are not able to perform in their best manner when called on. Some of the greatest performances in history are credited to pitchers who toiled at least every other day, and sometimes had to pitch every day at long stretches at a time.

"When a manager gets hold of a good hitter it would do no harm to have him work in right field, when there is little to do. Outfielding is not arduous work as a rule. Sometimes an outfielder will go through a whole game without having to touch the ball with his hands. Pitchers of today have a bad habit of thinking that there is something the matter with them. It is all imagination. Some of them stall through a whole season by thinking up different aches and pains. Whenever they are called on to pitch there is something the matter with them. I tell you they are too much pampered."

WILL BE HOT RACE FOR THE AMERICAN PENNANT

It looks like a hot race in the American, says an eastern exchange. New York is now out in front, with the Tigers and Rowland's White Sox right on their heels. The Boston Red Sox are not to be overlooked and neither are the Mackmen, who are now struggling with considerable trouble. In the National the Braves will have plenty of opposition. The Phillies may or may not drift back, but take a squint at where those Cubs are resting. From the early days of Chance to the present time the Cubs have shown a stubbornness at hanging around the top. Therefore, there is small doubt that Bresnahan's bunch will take a lot of observation.

IS BUILDING SPEEDY BOAT

NEW YORK.—Determined to cinch the speed honors of America for the coming year, Commodore James A. Pugh, the millionaire Chicago sportsman, has started construction of a 20-foot hydroplane into which he will crowd 2000-horsepower.

The new boat, to be christened Disturber V., will be, by all odds, the most heavily powered 20-foot hydroplane in the world, and Commodore Pugh's experiments are watched by speed boat men with immense interest. The new boat is designed by Ned Simmons of Chicago, who planned the Disturber IV., which went to England last year and was deprived of the opportunity of lifting the Harmsworth international trophy by the outbreak of the war, which caused the cancellation of the race.

He expects the new Disturber to turn 60 miles per hour. The 20-footer has 24 cylinders, developing 2000-horsepower. The new engine will be designed and built by the Dusenberg Brothers, who made the Disturber IV.'s power plant.

The details of the new boat are a closely guarded secret, but it is said the beam is to be about eight feet and that it will have features of construction never before seen in a racing boat.

The craft is now being built in the big Pugh warehouse in Chicago and the commodore expects it to be finished in time to participate in the American championship race of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association at Hannibal, Mo., July 5, 6 and 7.

BALDWIN OF BOSTON DRAWS WITH RITCHIE

American Lightweight Champion Forces Fighting in Early Rounds But Is Beaten in Last Six.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

BOSTON, Mass., May 18.—A 12-round bout between Willie Ritchie, lightweight champion of America, and Mattie Baldwin of this city ended in a draw tonight. The champion forced the fighting constantly during the early rounds and Baldwin was at a loss for defense. After the sixth round the local man assumed the aggressive and blow after blow was landed on Ritchie.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Low scores featured the games in the National yesterday.

Vancouver jumped into second place in the Northwestern yesterday by defeating Seattle 3 to 2.

Jersey City and Richmond won the games played in the International yesterday. The other games were postponed on account of rain.

Newark blanked Pittsburg in the only game played yesterday in the Federal.

New York outhit Chicago in the National in yesterday's game, but lost 1 to 0. Both teams played errorless ball.

Cincinnati made eight hits to Brooklyn's five yesterday, but played worse in the field and lost 4 to 0.

J. Pleuvius was again on the job in the American yesterday and three games were postponed on account of wet grounds.

SPORTING NOTES.

Yussif Hassan and Charles Cutler wrestled for over three hours at Louisville, Ky., for the American championship without a fall.

Johnny Alberts, who was to have fought Frank Barrieau for the welterweight championship at Coquitlam, left for the States the night before the bout.

It has been announced that the University of Chicago baseball team will make a tour of Japan this summer and will play games with the Japanese colleges.

Eastern lacrosse players will play the game this year for the love of it. If they had done this some years ago the game would be the most popular in the east at the present time.

Yale athletes have proved themselves good sportsmen by refusing to count the points made by Roos, shot putter, in Saturday's meet. Roos was protested by the Harvard team and this action gives the meet to Harvard by a score of 53 to 51.

No automobile races will be permitted on Walla Walla roads, consequently the Walla Walla-Dayton race will be called off. After June 11 a speed of 30 miles an hour will be permitted on the roads.

Tommy Burns and Tortorich have formed a partnership to promote fights in New Orleans in the future. Tortorich will take half of all Burns' holdings.

ADMIRALTY BUYS FROM BRITISH COLUMBIA

How Order for Big Shipment of Lumber Was Secured in London.

VICTORIA.—Hon. W. R. Ross, minister of lands, conveyed the important announcement that the British admiralty is about to place an order with British Columbia timber mills for 10,000,000 feet of lumber, to the value of approximately $100,000, delivery to be made in June and July.

Information to this effect reached Mr. Ross and Hon. W. J. Bowser in cables from both Sir Richard McBride and Hon. J. H. Turner, agent-general in London, and the transaction is the culmination of weeks of labor on the part of the minister of lands and his colleagues here and the official representatives of the province in England.

This order is far more significant and important that would appear on the face of the matter, were the only consideration the pecuniary one, for it marks a distinct and important achievement, in that, for the first time a direct connection has been established between the British Columbia timber industry and the imperial government.

Serious Disability Exists.

Ever since the outbreak of the war, orders have been open to British Columbia timbermen to supply lumber to private interests in the motherland, as well as to the imperial government, but the opportunity to bid successfully for the business was denied through the vital disability of being unable to arrange for the tonnage in which to handle the cargoes.

Whenever an attempt was made to negotiate for a direct dealing with British importers, the Canadian lumbermen were confronted with the fact that they could do no business unless they were to act through middlemen, acting as British agents, located at various points in the United States, the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., of New York, as a rule, acting in the matter of any lumber shipments being required from Canada for the imperial government, the Pacific coast connection being maintained by an agency at San Francisco.

This was the situation which confronted Mr. H. R. McMillan, chief of the forest branch of the provincial government and now acting in a special capacity for the federal government under instructions from Sir George Foster, minister of trade and commerce, on his arrival in England. It was a situation which had developed as a result of years of preparatory effort on the part of the great interests controlling the ocean-going tonnage of the wrld, working in close relation with the timber-producing interests of North America.

Happily, Mr. McMillan, while acting in a federal capacity, and making his endeavors to conform to the national aspect of the case, was so thoroughly familiar with conditions in British Columbia and the general Pacific coast situation that he was able to render yeoman service in the effort to establish a direct connection in this instance with the imperial government and the British Columbia timber producer. By a fortunate circumstance, also, Sir Richard McBride's visit to London synchronized with the request of the admiralty that British Columbia firms submit bids for the shipment.

Admiralty to Supply Tonnage.

For a time it appeared that the matter of securing tonnage outside the United States agencies would prove an insuperable difficulty, notwithstanding the obvious desire of the admiralty to deal direct with the British Columbia producers. But at this stage of the negotiations, Mr. Ross, who had given the problem exhaustive study, made a suggestion which met the difficulty.

This was that admiralty vessels carrying coal to British ports on the Pacific should be utilized to take the lumber as return cargoes. A number of cables strongly urging this course of action were sent by the minister to Sir Richard McBride, Mr. Turner and Mr. McMillan, with the happy result now announced.

A further announcement of the successful bidder should be made within the course of the next few days. The timber to be supplied the admiralty is known as dimension timber, 12x12 and up in size. It is not anticipated that any difficulty will be experienced in fillin gthe order, as most of the firms likely to bid have more than sufficient logs for the shipment already.

"I regard this transactions as one Ross yesterday in the course of an interview. "For the first time in our of the greatest importance in its bearing upon the future of the timber incessful in cutting the Gordian knot middlemen in the matter of overseas lished a precedent which will broaden to the benefit of the province as time goes on; and I am samewhant sanguine that an era of great development and activity is opening to the timber industry of ritish Columbia."

Mr. Bowser also expressed the government and in particular to Sir George Foster, for the generous action in appointing a trade representative to make a tour of the world to study the outlook for the Canadian timber industry. In Mr. McMillan the Ottawa government has secured the services of one exceptionaly well qualified to execute the important tasks entrusted to him; and the evidence of his successful activity which has now come to hand from London, will, I am sure, be as welcome to Sir George Foster and lumbermen in others parts of Canada, as it is to us and the timber interests of British Columbia."

Making Them Walk Into Your Store

"All I ask of my advertising," said a well-known storekeeper, "is that it will make a certain number of people walk through my store."

"The rest is up to me."

When the national manufacturer advertises his product in this newspaper he is starting people toward many stores.

If your store carries these goods and shows them properly customers will come your way.

If you neglect your opportunity your neighbor will get the business.

CIVILIANS SHOULD LEAVE NAVAL STRATEGY TO NAVAL MEN.

If the reports are true that Winston Spencer Churchill and Admiral Fisher, first sea lord of the admiralty, have clashed on questions of active naval policy and that the culmination has been the resignation of Admiral Fisher, most people will consider that the cabinet minister has exceeded his functions.

Winston Churchill as parliamentary head of the navy has done good work. Year after year he has fought against the pacifist members of the cabinet who would have reduced the appropriations for the navy. To him must be given the credit for having insisted upon the expenditure which resulted in the British fleet retaining the measure of preponderance of power with which it entered the war.

But if Mr. Churchill, a civilian, has endeavored to force his theories of naval strategy upon Lord Fisher, a veteran naval officer, the time has obviously come for the secretaryship to be filled by a man who is not too headstrong and self-willed to recognize his proper sphere of action and remain within it.

AMERICAN NAVY EFFICIENT AND READY FOR WAR.

The secretary of the United States navy department has replied to those who have contended that the American fleet is not in fit condition to meet a powerful adversary. He made some vigorous remarks during the review of the Atlantic fleet at New York concerning the "petrified pessimist who visits one of our leviathans of power with a sour and disappointed visage, looking for something upon which he can hang a tale of woe and wail of Jeremiad," and contended that the navy was efficient and prepared for war.

Secretary Daniels says that the ships are well manned, that the supply of munitions is greater than ever before, that the munition plants have been practically doubled, that a naval reserve is in process of organization and that there are 74 submarines authorized, built or building.

Admiral George Dewey, president of the general board of the navy, stated that the fleet is at a higher degree of efficiency than at any time in its history.

HELP TO MEET INCREASED NEEDS OF RED CROSS.

The Canadian Red Cross society has been doing noble work and has received excellent support from thousands of women and men throughout the Dominion. Great quantities of medical supplies and comforts for the soldiers at the front and thousands of dollars in cash have been collected and employed to the best advantage of the armies in the field.

The rigorous fighting of the past few weeks has made heavy drains upon the resources of the society. During the next few months it is feared that unless the flow of donations in cash and materials is increased the society will be unable to do its full duty as representing the people of Canada in this branch of the activities of warfare.

A circular from Noel Marshall of Toronto, president of the Canadian society, suggests that the most effective way in which to meet the needs at the front is to establish a system of monthly contributions.

He estimates that if every head of a family in the Dominion donated 5 cents per month during the war sufficient money for all purposes would be obtained.

The people of the west can do better than that. Many would willingly give 50 cents or $1 monthly. An appeal along these lines from the various local branches could hardly fail to bring good results.

AMERICA COULD CONTINUE TO ASSIST BELGIANS.

There does not seem to be any sound basis for the fear which has been expressed that the relief which has been given to the sufferers in Belgium by the people of this continent would be cut off automatically if the United States should enter the war.

Difficulties might arise in continuing the distribution of supplies but it does not seem that they would be insurmountable. The last financial statement issued by the American commission for Belgian relief showed that about $8,000,000 in money and supplies had been donated by the people of this continent. This amount included a large sum which had been given in Canada.

If the United States were at war with Germany supplies could not continue to be distributed through American diplomatic service channels but that work might be undertaken by officials of some other nation. Holland or Denmark or Norway, for example, might act.

The American people, if their country were engaged in war, would have many additional calls to meet, but it is not to be supposed that they would fail in their mission of mercy to the Belgians, any more than have the people of the British Empire, who have given material assistance to the stricken nation.

The Kootenay and Boundary battalion needs men. The ranks should be filled without delay.

The question now seems to be: Will the central empires attack Italy or wait to be attacked?

Kitchener's call for more men reechoes through Kootenay and Boundary in the call for recruits for the 54th battalion.

Canada has commenced to pay war pensions. The people of the Dominion will meet the necessary expense as cheerfully and ungrudgingly as that of sending troops to the front.

It is reported that the president of the council of Portugal escaped death because an assassin's bullet failed to pierce the bone of his skull. A baseball writer might call it a "bonehead play."

Lord Kitchener announces that he is now ready to receive 300,000 additional recruits. The announcement is nearly coincident with that from Ottawa that further Canadian contingents are being hurried forward, which means that the British war office has expressed its readiness to receive them.

A German submarine which recently sank a French bark was equipped with a moving picture machine with which a photographic record of the performance was secured. Patrons of the movies in Germany are apparently to be enthused by illustrations of the great victories of the kaiser's fleet. How they would cheer in Berlin if they could see a picture of the drowning women and children from the Lusitania.

"My sole concern now is to point out that in great and critical hours of the nation's history it is vital that a generous sympathy should support those who are shouldering the thousand anxieties of office. They cannot desert. They must not dare to shirk the task, but nothing in the world save the consciousness of endeavoring to do their duty could compensate men (and I allude not alone to our own country) for bearing the infinite harrassments and cares which such periods place upon them."—Hon. Martin Burrell.

STRUCK BY SHRAPNEL WHEN HE WAS SHAVING

Alexander George McNeill, formerly a member of the Vancouver police force, writes from Belgium concerning the wounding of his comrade, Andrew S. Rae, who was also a member of the police force. Part of his letter follows: "Rae is unable to write himself as he received a small wound in the right wrist on the 20th inst., while in the trenches. Rae and I were comrades in the Vancouver police force and we are members of the same section in this regiment, that is, the ambulance section.

"Andrew was shaving inside his dugout when a shrapnel shell burst over him, inflicting a wound of half an inch in diameter on the inside of the right wrist and bruises on the right knee and left collar bone. None of these are serious. He was hurt at 5 p. m. and I am pleased to say I was able to reach him a within a few moments and dress his wounds. After dark he was taken out by his comrades and is now in the hospital.

"Things are rather lively here meantime. So far we have lost few men although subjected to heavy artillery fire at times. The letter was dated April 22 and the only address given was "Belgium." The recipient was Mrs. Law, of Vancouver, at whose house Rae used to room.

"BEGINNING WITH THE ROCK."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Describing Herzegovina as a province "beginning with the rock," the National Geographical society says of it and its people:

"Montenegro, after successfully defending her independence from a bleak shoulder of rock for more than 500 years against all comers, has, in common with her sister nations of the Balkans, begun to aspire to empire abroad, and one of the fields toward which she looks with warm desire is that of Herzegovina. Herzegovina is a continuation of the Montenegro mountains. It has an area of 3530 square miles, or, added to Montenegro, would about double that tiny kingdom's territory. It would, also, bring 200,000 more persons under the sceptre of King Nicholas. Montenegrin statistics make one realize what a prize Herzegovina would be. Montenegro has an area of 5650 square miles and a population of 520,000.

Beautiful Scenery.

"Herzegovina joins Montenegro in the south and Bosnia in the north. The mountain formations of Bosnia and Herzegovina are similar, but the latter land is not so fertile as its larger neighbor. There is a saying that 'Bosnia begins with the forest, Herzegovina with the rock.' Here, however, may be enjoyed some of the most beautiful scenery of Europe and, in the future, there are numberless choice Herzegovinian sites that may be developed into famous and well-paying seasonal resorts. Before the Austrians took charge of this country, one almost took his life in jest who sought to journey through it without a heavy armed escort. Since assuming control Austria has worked wonders and brigand Herzegovina has been transformed into a centre of economic, political and cultural progress.

"A large part of the land is barren, facing a number of bare peaks rising more than 7000 feet. The eastern part toward Servia is especially torn and rocky. The rivers of Herzegovina plunge underground for great stretches on their courses to the sea. There is just one river in this province that manages to go its whole journey without once forsaking the surface. The Merzegovinian valleys are the only fertile parts of the province, and most of these are very narrow. A fine quality of grapes is raised in them, and fairly good native wines are produced. Excellent tobacco is grown; that is, it is considered excellent by those who prefer tobaccos as fragrant as cloves and cinnamon.

"Mostar, the capital of Herzegovina, is a picture city, a fascinating Oriental town in a setting of wonderful beauty. Sheer, massive cliffs enclose it on one side, while distant mountains divide the valley on the other. Mostar has a population of about 15,000, almost entirely Slavonic, Islam, however, shares about equally with Roman Catholicism the religious converts. The mountaineers of Herzegovina are like their neighbors, the Montenegrins, in their sturdy independence. It was they who started the rebellion against the Turks in 1875 which, spreading throughout the Balkans and finally being taken up by Russia, led finally to the congress of Berlin and the birth of several new states into the family of nations."

SCALE OF MAPS WAS CAUSE OF DISASTER

Loss of 20 Lives in Colliery Near Nanaimo in February Receives Explanation.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 18.—A singular and yet complete explanation of how a mine disaster occurred and 20 lives were lost near Nanaimo on Vancouver island Feb. 8 last was made at an inquest today. The coroner's jury brought in a verdict of death by drowning, but called for a government investigation into the causes of the accident and the fixing of the responsibility. On the date mentioned the miners of the Pacific coast pit were caught by water which had broken through from the old Southfield workings. The latter had been abandoned years ago. When the Pacific coast workings some time ago got near the older pit a map of the latter was obtained. It was taken for granted that the scales of both maps were the same, whereas the fact was divulged today that the scale of the Southfield was 132 feet to the inch and the new scale of the Pacific coast was 100 feet even.

Figuring them both at 100 feet the mine engineers had supposed that on the day before the accident a wall of 415 feet separated the mines. On the actual scale of 132 feet to the inch the mine workings would be only two feet apart and this as a matter of fact was found to be the case. This two-foot wall broke through and the water came into the Pacific coast pit in tons. A mine inspector told the coroner's jury that if the proper scale had been used the disaster could never have occurred.

CZAR CONGRATULATES ITALY UPON ITS ATTITUDE

ROME, May 18, via Paris.—Michel DeGiers, new Russian ambassador to Italy, was received today by King Victor Emmanuel, to whom he presented his credentials. It is asserted that M. DeGiers also delivered to the king an autographed letter from Emperor Nicholas congratulating King Victor on the attitude taken by his government.

DECLARE SUBMARINE WAR MUST CONTINUE

Berlin Evening Papers Assert It Cannot Be Abandoned—Criticize United States Note.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

BERLIN, May 19, via London.—The evening newspapers discussing the American note to Germany are agreed that it is impossible for Germany to abandon its submarine warfare. Various newspapers point out what they regard as the inconsistency of the Washington government in asserting against Germany the right of American citizens to go wherever they please on the seas, but "abandoning that right against England," and also in admitting "the legality of England's declaration of a war zone, but protesting against Germany's submarine zone."

It is further pointed out by the newspapers that the American note admits the right of German vessels to search British vessels and to capture them if they are carrying contraband. But it is declared that "Washington must know this right is rendered illusory through England's course in arming merchantmen and ordering them to ram submarines, by which Capt. Otto Weding (German submarine commander) lost his life."

The newspapers complain that the note is fully in accord with the English standpoint that the Lusitania was a harmless merchant vessel, and ignores the fact that it was armed and carrying munitions of war. The Kreuse Zeitung asserts that Germany was thoroughly right in demonstrating that neutrals should avoid its war zone.

SINGAPORE MUTINY QUICKLY QUELLED

At any other time but the present the story of the Singapore mutiny would have attracted attention all over the world, and would have created profound alarm in India. The press of more important events, however, has caused this rising, which might have been a much more serious affair if it had not been for an accident, to be dismissed in a paragraph, says the Tronto Mail and Empire. The first intimation of trouble was that there had been a rising of native troops, but that the situation was well in hand, and was not considered serious. Now we learn officially that only a mere handful of mutineers remains at liberty. Those who were not shot in the fighting or who did not surrender escaped, and the work of tracking them down is slow and tedious. Nevertheless it seems impossible that a single one of them should escape unless he makes his way to Sumatra, where he will fall into the hands of the Dutch and be handel back to Great Britain. Of the band of German prisoners released by the mutineers 25 were at large when the last news was received. Whether in the event of their reaching Sumatra they will be returned to the British government, however, is another question.

Result of Holy War.

The Singapore mutiny will be remembered in history if for no other reason than that it is up to date the only result of the conspiracy to declare a holy war against Great Britain. Whether the mutineers had other reasons is not known, but apparently they were not indifferent to the call of the sultan of Turkey. It is said that there had been some discontent in the regiment—the Fifth Native light infantry—because of recent promotions, and minor grievances were no doubt not entirely absent. This regiment, which, by the way, was one of the four Indian regiments that started the great Indian mutiny, arrived in Singapore on October 10, to take the place of the King's Own Yorkshire light infantry, which had been ordered to France. When the Indian regiment reached Singapore the garrison had been reduced until there were only 200 artillerymen and 50 sappers remaining.

Mutineers' Plans Upset.

The fact that the European troops were so few in number no doubt suggested to the minds of the mutineers that they would have little trouble in killing or capturing all of them. Then they would murder all the civilian population and secure rich booty. They looked no further ahead than that. What finaly decided them to make the attempt was the news that the regiment would shortly be transferred to Hongkong, where there would be no prospect of striking a blow against Britain. The plans for the rising were carefully laid, and it was decided that the first shot should be fired on the night of February 17, because on the following day the transport Nile was expected to arrive in Singapore to take the regiment to Hongking. What upset the plans was the appearance of the Nile on February 15, this making a readjustment necessary, and making it impossible for many important details to be carried out.

By this time the officers had some idea that trouble was brewing, and as soon as the Nile docked they began to move the ammunition to the transport. Four motor lorries were sent from the barracks for this purpose, and the first loaded up and whizzed away to the ship without any trouble. When the second began to pile on the ammunition a number of mutineers suddenly appeared, and fired on the soldiers, whom they killed. This was the signal for the general outbreak. The mutineers, to the number of some 1,000, were fully armed and equipped, and began to post themselves at various strategical points in the city. One lot headed for the detention camp, were 250 Germans were interned. They killed the guards and set the Germans at liberty. Only about 35 of them, however, took advantage of the opportunity to escape, of whom ten have been recaptured since. In the meantime the authorities had been moving quickly. A company of Malay States volunteer rifles undertook the task of holding back the mutineers in their advance on the city until other forces could be raised, and these, with the artillery and the sappers, bore the brunt of the fighting that day and the following night.

Navy to the Rescue.

A British admiral in the harbor got in touch with all the allied warships in the vicinity, and a Russian a French and a Japanese man-of-war came hurrying from afar. British bluejackets were landed with machine guns, and these assisted by the volunteers on shore, comprising the entire able-bodied white population, held off the Indian mutineers for a couple of day. By the next day the mutineers were outnumbered, and many of them surrendered. Others fled to the bush, and the business of hunting them down has been going on ever since with satisfactory results. Had the Nile not arrived before her time, and the mutiny broke out in the middle of the night, there can be no doubt that the slaughter of Europeans would have been much greater than it was, and a very serious situation might have been created not only in the Straits Settlement, but in many parts of India.

CANADIAN FIELD AMBULANCE HANDLED 5210 WOUNDED

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

WINNIPEG, May 18.—Col. Dr. Watt, officer commanding the 3rd Canadian field ambulance, writing in acknowledgment of gifts sent forward by President Sydney Smith from members of the grain exchange, tells of the heroic work of this Canadian body in the battle of Langemarck. The letter reads:

"To give you an idea of our work I can only mention that in the battle in which the Canadians have just taken such a grand part 5210 British and French wounded were treated by our ambulance. This is, I believe, a record. The suffering was terrible and it seemed as if we were living in the lowest depths of hell, but one could indeed be proud to belong to the British race to see the fortitude of the wounded; never a word, the slightest kindness would bring a smile or a word of thanks and I think that it was this alone that kept us going, as we never had a minute's rest day or night for seven days."

The 3rd field ambulance had its position to the left of the British line at Ypres and when the French troops were driven back had to care for their wounded as well as the Canadians.

Moffatt, recruiting officer. The list now includes 46 recruits, the majority of whom are residents of this city. The following are those who have signed on and already passed the medical examination: Cowper Stephenson, Thomas H. Slater, James Stacey, David Gash, Charles H. Hunnable, John Kellock, Henry E. Mackay, Harry F. Armstrong, James Allan, Jack B. Harris, Bernard J. L. Dufiney, Robert Lausey, Andrew Black, John P. Gregory, John L. Palmer, Robert Railton, Peter N. Kennedy, James Blakemore, John A. Price, James J. Scott, Thomas Sherridan, Andrew J. Corrigan, Duncan J. Cody, Alexander Houle, Patrick J. Joyce, George Kelley, William J. Forsythe, William Holton, George P. Eddy, James Dobie, William Anderson, George W. Cody, George U. Linn, Walter G. Harison, Robert McLennan, John Stringer, Thomas Doray, William Edward Duthie, Kenneth C. Corsan, William Smith, John L. Quaife, John W. Shorthouse, William Wheeler, E. Westby, I. Farron, W. H. Johnstone. The last seven were all signed on within an hour on Monday evening.

SAYS INDIAN STOLE HIS MOTHER'S HORSE

Committed for Trial at Cranbrook—Railway Engineer Fined for Giving Gun Illegally.

(Special to The Daily News.)

Alex Zyskoski, an Austrian, was brought to the provincial jail from Kingsgate Saturday by Constable Arden and will be interned as a prisoner of war. Saturday night three Austrians from Alberta, Andrew Frolik, John Zowtiag and Mike Zowtiag, were arrested at Kingsgate endeavoring to cross into the States and were brought to the provincial jail Sunday by Constable Arden of Moyie, and will be interned.

Albert Hoffer, alias Andrew J. Harder, a C. P. R. engineer on this division for some years, was arrested today by Provincial Constable Collins on a wire from Provincial Constable Arthur Arden of Moyie, charged with giving one automatic revolver to Engineer Foreman Ayres at or near Kingsgate, without lawful excuse. Accused has been working with the Canadian Pacific railroad for some 10 years under the name of Albert Hoffer. He is a German by birth and in 1908 took out naturalization papers at Calgary under the name of Andrew J. Harder, formerly of Hompton, United States. The authorities claim that for some months past Hoffer has been packing a gun and on Saturday Constable Arden confronted him at Yakh and searched him. Before Magistrate Hill Constable Arden stated that while he did not find the gun on Hoffer, accused admitted having carried one. Arden's contention was that Hoffer gave the gun, loaded with one shell in the barrel, but empty magazine, together with a box of shells, to one Ayres, and as evidence produced the revolver and shells. Hoffer pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs and two months in jail.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET STAGNANT

Speculators and Investors Await Definite Developments in Foreign Situation.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, May 18.—Dealings in stocks today were the smallest of any full session in over two months, the total turnover barely approximating 210,000 shares. Of this amount almost half the business was transacted in the first hour.

Various reasons and theories were offered in explanation of the stagnant trading, the most plausible being that speculators as well as investors were waiting for some definite development in the foreign situation. As a matter of fact, the market has been thoroughly liquidated and fresh bull or bear ammunition is insufficient to infuse life one way or another. The short interest made the most of some unfavorable crop reports to depress prices. Declines averaged a full point in the leading shares and a little more in stocks of less stability.

Foreign exchange reflected the delicate state of international finances, Italian remittances standing at recent low quotations and francs going lower than before. Even sterling exchange exhibited unusual weakness, a fact attributed to advices from London to the effect that all British capital issues are to be suspended preliminary to the issuance of a new war loan.

Bonds moved in sympathy with stocks. Speculative issues showed a general decline. Total sales, par value, $1,495,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

MONTREAL BUSINESS HEAVY.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

MONTREAL, May 18.—Although business on the stock exchange increased slightly over low record levels of the previous day, no change of importance developed in the general condition. Some Power came on the market and found buyers only at concessions, the price declining 3 points to 220. Iron, which opened firm at 28, eased off to 27½ but closed firm at 27¾ bid. Apart from these stocks the market was dull and quotations showed but slight change from the final prices of Monday.

MINES OF DISTRICT AT PANAMA FAIR

Alex Leith Tells of Boost for Kootenay—Boundary at San Francisco.

Alex Leith, secretary of the Wood-Vallance Hardware company, has returned from a month's visit to California. He was in San Francisco when the Lusitania was sunk and noted a significant change in American sentiment.

Before that time the general opinion was that it was not the United States' fight and it should have nothing to do with it. When scores of American lives were lost on a ship sunk without warning the sentiment underwent immediate change. Germany's action was scored and "what will the United States do?" was a question often heard. Of course there were many German-Americans in California; but now these were silent.

Mining districts in Kootenay-Boundary were intelligently represented in the Canadian exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition. William Thomlinson, an experienced mining man and an old-timer of this district, had charge of the mineral exhibits. Last year he collected the samples from scores of properties. The showing is a fine advertisement for Kootenay-Boundary mines.

SAYS THE KITCHENER THAT'S PAINTED ISN'T

Lives in Luxury, Has Sense of Humor and Talks Quite Volubly, Say His Friends.

LONDON, April 24.—(By Mail)—The Kitchener that's been painted isn't.

The peremptory, monosyllabic ascetic, Spartan-like Kitchener, working eighteen hours a day, disdaining luxury, spurning comforts and making his home in the war office, is a man of fancy.

The chauffeur of the British war machine is neither "Kitchener the Silent," nor "Kitchener the Autocrat."

He is eager, but not explosive; he is forceful, but not combative; he is terribly efficient, but he has a sense of humor and he is really almost human.

Close friends of K. of K. are coming to his rescue. Take it from them that the English war lord's tastes are not for simplicity, but for luxury; not for bare business existence, but for rich and elaborate living. He is not self-indulgent, but he likes to live surrounded by beautiful furniture, rich fittings and works of art. The story that on the first morning after he took charge of the war office he had a bed moved into his workshop listened well—and maybe it was true. But that bed hasn't been used recently at any rate.

Lives in Luxury.

Kitchener resides during his off-business hours either in his town house in Carlton House Terrace, surrounded by articles of Oriental beauty, or in special apartments recently fitted up for him in a wing of St. James palace. If he is moved to pass a week end out of the city he motors to his country home in Kent—Broome Hall—where are housed his favorite collections of ceramic art painstakingly gathered by him personally during his hours of duty in Egypt and India.

His friends might go further: Kitchener is not the pallid, heavy-browed dark man that his stock photographs, taken a decade ago, depict. His face is florid now, and almost puffy, and his chin draped over his collar runs well around toward the back of his neck. His hair has become decidedly gray and there are streaks of white in the light brown moustache. When a local moving picture house put on a film the other day for the first time, showing Kitchener inspecting a regiment of territorials, it was several minutes before the audience was able to recognize the stoutish, stoop-shouldered, leisurely-moving person among the group of officers as the head of the British army.

Fond of Books.

The fiction that Kitchener is reticent is the worst of the lot. He talks vigorously and volubly. He is not only loquacious, but even garrulous at times. He does not command in short terms. He overwhelms his subordinates with reasons why things should be done the way he desires.

Kitchener has often been pictured as a martinet, but seldom as a jokesmith. Possibly there were elements of both qualities in the following incident:

He had given one of his clerks a big task to perform, the preparation of a mass of documents on an important subject. "They must be ready for me when I arrive in the morning," was his parting injunction, some time after his clerk's usual knocking-off time. The young fellow worked the entire night and finished the job just as his chief appeared. Kitchener took the papers, glanced at them, then looked at the sleepy-eyed and somewhat disheveled clerk. "The next time you come into my room, get shaved first," he said.

Kitchener is an ardent student, and ranged in his private office are many shelves lined with volumes on all sorts of subjects, military, historical, political and sociological. This bookworm tendency has been absorbed by one of his favorite generals in the field, Sir Douglas Haig. There's a story from the front that Sir Douglas is followed about the roads of Flanders by a small motor van filled with books. At headquarters he is invariably found during his leisure hours behind a volume which might be either fiction or astronomy.

What Germans Think.

"Kitchener is a butcher." That is what the German military authorities think of England's war leader.

A few days ago four American army officers returned after two weeks at the front. They saw Germany's wonderful organization there and the first thing they asked of American travellers from England was: "What kind of an army is Kitchener raising?"

"Germany looks upon Kitchener as a butcher," said one of these officers. "It is the impression here that Kitchener doesn't care how many Englishmen he kills if he accomplishes his purpose. And believe me, if he starts his famous drive in the spring it's going to be murder and nothing but murder in Belgium and France.

"Kitchener will kill as many men as public opinion in England will stand," said one officer. "Kitchener is the only butcher England ever had."

Says Thin People Can Increase Weight

Food Alone Produces Fat, Says Noted Expert—How to Turn Food into Healthy Flesh.

The reason that some people are chronically thin and under normal weight, says a noted authority, is because of a chronic leakage of the fat-making elements in their food. The assimilative functions of their stomach and intestines are not working properly. Only a small portion of the food nourishment of their meals ever reaches their blood—just enough perhaps to keep life within the body—the rest passes out as waste. The problem of gaining weight and flesh depends entirely therefore on a natural stopping of this dangerous waste of fats and the correction and repair of the organs of assimilation.

For those who wish to gain healthy flesh and put on from ten to twenty pounds of weight a single Sargol tablet taken at meals for a few weeks will almost invariably produce the desired effect. Sargol does not of itself build flesh, but, swallowed with your food, it acts upon every mouthful you eat, first separating all the fats, oils, sugars, starches, and other flesh making materials from the food waste and then preparing all the nourishing elements in a form which the blood can readily accept and distribute all over the body. Sargol stops the leakage of fats, keeps all the flesh making materials within the body, allows only the worthless waste to leave it. It further repairs the faulty organs of assimilation, enabling them gradually to properly perform their natural functions so that the new found flesh "stays put." Sargol is not an experiment. Thousands have used it and proved it. Its action is natural and harmless and it is seldom indeed that it cannot produce an increase of from ten or twenty pounds of natural, healthy flesh on any person who is underweight.

HINDU AT VANCOUVER IS GUILTY OF MURDER

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 18.—Jagat Singh was this evening found guilty of the murder of Rattan Singh March 18 and was sentenced to be hanged Aug. 4. The jury added a rider to the verdict suggesting that Hindus should be barred from the use of alcoholic liquors. Rattan Singh while in a store was shot by the accused. Jagat, however, took the stand in his own behalf and stated that he was forced to act in self-defense.

Washing Won't Rid Head of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight and by morning most, if not all of your dandruff will be gone and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

SCOTLAND YET.

Achnacarry, Cameron's pride.
Whose faith is Scotland's weal,
Sends ringing down Lochaber's side
The war cry of Lochiel;
"Leave gowks to stalk and coofs to dance,
The Camerons are furth to France.

"Dunkeld and Menzies, Blair and Scone, Hae gane the ways o' men."
On Rannoch side the harvest moon
Lights up the harried glen;
From croft and castle, glebe and mainse
The "Forty Twa" are furth to France.

From Inverary north to Ross
The flow has run to spate;
From fen and moorland, peat and moss
Twa lads have gone in eight;
With ache of heart but pride of glance,
"Argylls and Seaforths furth to France."

By Lochnagar—by Dee and Don,
See Huntley, Farquhar tread,
From lodge and shieling they are gone,
The hungry ranks are fed;
The girls seem walking in a trance,
The Gordons gay are furth to France.

From Duner head to Sands o' Dee,
From loan to mountain pass;
The isles are swept from sea to sea
From Lewis round to Bass;
The pipes are filled, the horses prance,
The Guards and Grays are furth to France.

The Borderers from Berwick town,
The Scots from deep Glencorse;
The Fusilers from Bank's o' Doon,
Light infantry in force.
The Scottish Rifles look askance
At men who go not furth to France.

For Scotland's king and Scotland's law,
They "Dree'd their weird" in turn;
On Flodden field and Philipaugh
These sons of Bannockburn;
And now their glory to enchaance
They fight with England furth in France.

The aged chieftain takes his way
Slow down the stricken glen,
And speaks of fame and things agley,
"A few may come again,
But God was good to grant this chance
To fight for freedom furth in France."

THE TRAGEDY OF AN UMBRELLA.

He came in rather the worse for the morning rain in which, apparently, he had been walking without the protection of umbrella or rubber coat, and sank into a seat in the office of the hotel.

"It's terrible the trouble a simple mistake will lead a man into," he wearily remarked to another chair-warmer.

"I was heading up here just now when the choice presented itself of continuing west along Hastings and turning south, or turning south up Homer, and making my westward course along Dunsmuir.

"I was just about to cross the street when I saw Williamson approaching from the other side.

"Now, Williamson is the sort of man who holds you for ten minutes on a crowded corner while he tells you when the spring drive ought to have begun, and how soon Great Britain will resort to conscription. He hadn't seen me, so I naturally kept on along Hastings.

"Well, at the corner of Homer I ran into Tompkins, with the result that he recognized the umbrella I had borrowed from his office that last wet day we had. 'Glad I met you,' he said. 'I was just going to buy a new one.'

"'Good job I caught you,' I prevaricated, 'I was just on my way to your place with your bumbershoot. Thought you might need it, you know.'

"I could see he didn't believe me. So through that fool Williamson I lost a perfectly good umbrella and a perfectly good friend.

"And the worst of it was that just as I had safely dodged him I saw that it wasn't Williamson after all."

"I think I should drop Williamson," said the chair-warmer.

"I would," replied the damp one, "but I owe him too much money."—Vancouver World.

INCORPORATED 1670 HERBERT E. BURBIDGE, STORES COMMISSIONER

LONDON CITY UNDER THE WAR CLOUD

By SIR HENRY LUCY.

LONDON.—By one of the anomalies of life in the House of Commons the chancellor of the exchequer had a compartively scanty audience for the momentous speech delivered by him yesterday afternoon. This was probably due to the circumstance that the resolution upon which it was based was moved by an extreme party man on the opposition side, and was a thinly disguised vote of censure upon the government, alleging criminal failure to provide sufficiency of munitions of war. Upon those who were present the speech made a profound impression. Passages in it intimated that Mr. Lloyd George in his irresistible Celtic manner had "got at" the secret taciturn secretary of state for war, and convinced him of the desirability of just for once taking the nation into confidence upon matters that vitally affected not only its welfare, but its safety. "I am giving these particulars," said Mr. Lloyd George, "after consultation with Lord Kitchener and with his full authority."

A Sixfold Increase.

The result of the bold experiment, immediately upon the House of Commons and thereafter upon the country, has been so happy that it may possibly be repeated throughout subsequent developments of the campaign. Briefly to summarize, it disclosed for the first time the magnitude of the task laid upon the government, showed that they were fully alive to their responsibilities, and had for months been engaged in grappling with the difficulties beasting them. Facts and figures set forth by the chancellor revealed for the first time the enormity of the operations going forward night and day in the field of France and Flanders. After eight months of war the "miserable little army" that excited the derision of the kaiser had been increased sixfold, a force fully equipped and adequately supplied with ammunition, every vacancy created by German shot or shell refilled.

Expenditure of Ammunition.

As to ammunition the demand has far exceeded the most lavish estimate. In a single sentence the chancellor realized the fact. During the fortnight of fighting in and around Neuve Chapelle almost as much ammunition was, he said, expended by our artillery as during the whole of the two and three-quarter years of the Boer war. Not only has the demand been fully supplied, but there remains an adequate reserve. This has been established and even maintained in view of the stupendous increase in consumption. Taking the figure as representing the output in September, it had gone up to 90 in October. In December it was 156, in January 186, in February 256; last month it ran up to 388, and there is no doubt that in this month of April the increase will correspond to the measure monthly attained. Not only is this unexpected, unparalleled demand on the part of our own army fully met, assistance is being liberaly given to our allies. This plain statement, taken in conjunction with the remarkable influx of recruits recorded during the past fortnight, enables the country to await with increased confidence the issue of the titanic struggle forced upon it by the maniacal ambition of a single man, by an inscrutable providence placed in a position to whelm the world in sorrow.

Less Mystery Demanded.

For once Lord Curzon of Keddleston found himself in the rarely happy position of expressing general opinion whether in parliament or the country. The unusual happened in the course of his speech in the House of Lords on Tuesday when he insisted upon observance by the government of more confidence and less mystery in their communications respecting the course of events connected with the war. It is a remarkable example of the innate patience of the British public that through an anxious epoch-making period of nine months they have stood the ostrich-like policy with respect to news dictated from the war office. There is not, nor has there at any time been, desire to insist on disclosure of details that might convey information to the enemy. What plain people cannot understand is the habitual practice of withholding for weeks and even months, particulars about a particular engagement in the field.

Foolish Reticence and Delay.

The most recent though not the most glaring example is provided in dealing with the great battles at Neuve Chapelle, fought on the 10th of March and the two following days, General French did not sit down to write his despatch till the 5th of April. It was brought over by the Prince of Wales and doubtless was delivered at the war office within 24 hours. Not to be outdone in deliberation, the war office kept it in hand for nine days before it was given to a nation hungering and thirsting for the news. Thus for a full month (inappropriately Lunar) particulars of a historic fight were withheld on the specific ground of keeping the enemy ignorant of particulars of an action in which he had taken personal and prominent part. A month ago the kaiser and his general staff knew as much about Neuve Chapelle as Sir John French could tell them.

Injustice to the Army.

The result of these tactics, unparalleled and un-English, is two-fold. It does injustice to the gallant troops who have gloriously upheld the tradition of British arms by withholding from them that tribute of national applause that is their due and would encourage them to further exploits; it creates a feeling of distrust and anxiety in the public mind who construe prolonged silence as an effort to conceal disaster. This leads to the promulgation of circumstantial stories such as during the month Sir John French was pondering in preparation of his despatch gathered round the battlefield of Neuve Chapelle. These were in the main pernicious nonsense. At the same time there have been more than one occasion during the stubborn fight when our army has been in peril, and when deliverance was achieved only by that dogged spirit proverbial in the case of the British soldier who never knows when he is beaten. One such occasion was hinted at in the early despatch from Sir John French describing the retreat upon Paris, the allies being driven by what seemed to be an irresisitible German horde. For the greater part of a day a part of the British expeditionary force, lacking the expected collaboration of the French, bore the brunt of repeated attack. Had the thin khaki line given way, the Germans, elate with confidence in victory, would have dashed through and been on their way to doomed Paris.

Hanging in the Balance.

In a private letter received this morning from a well-known Brigadier General at the front, one incidentally and accidentally gets a glimpse at the inwardness of things at another critical turn of the war. Earlier in the year I happened to write in a weekly paper that circulates wherever the English language is spoken, a reference to the general, who before he went on the warpath was a popular member of the house of commons. "I well remember reading it," he writes, "finding a copy of Punch on getting back to headquarters late one night, very wet and oh, so cold. It was hard times for everyone just then—the Ypres time when things hung in the balance and happiness seemed far away forever. It was a bright ray flashed upon me, heartening me for another hard tug at work, beginning before the break of day." Between these lines it is easy to read of a period of long fight when, as the general, looking back from brighter times, describes it, "things hung in the balance," when the English captains did not know what a day might bring forth, but feared the worst. Happily at Ypres as later at Neuve Chapelle, it was dogged courage that did it. The British soldier facing fearful odds, never thought of turning his back upon them, but hammered away till he had beaten them off and changed what seemed imminent reverse into certain victory.

No personal event of the war has more sharply struck public imagination that the death in the trenches of the grandson of Mr. Gladstone. As yet little known throughout the country, he had by his modesty, his clear honesty of purpose and his natural capacity become a prime favorite on both sides of the house of commons. Lt was a curious thing that when starting for the front he was possessed by the conviction that he would "come back to Lochaber no more!" The last time I saw him was in the lobby of the House of Commons on the night before he started for the front. Gripping my hand with his great fist as he said good-bye, he wistfully replied to wishes of good luck and speedy return. "I don't think I shall ever come back." I have since heard from various quarters that he made the same remark when bidding other friends farewell.

"He was afraid he might not get the full value of it," he explained.

"But, hang it all, a man has got to die some time!" exclaimed the superintendent.

"That's what I told him, but he only answered, 'Suppose I should be lost at sea?'"—Tit-Bits.

HUMAN TORCH IN A RACE OF LIFE LOSES

ALAMEDA, Sask.—A living, human torch was George Pokorney, a young farmer living twenty miles northeast of here, who, when opening a barrel of gasoline, ignored the presence of a lighted lantern eight feet away. The gas backfired to the barrel, smothering Pokerney in flaming fluid. The screaming, blazing victim rushed to a nearby caboose, and endeavored himself to smother the flames with a blanket. Assistance was given by others, but when Pokerney was finally gotten to the hospital he was a blackened, living cinder, unrecognizable. Death followed swiftly. Pokerney was the owner of a gasoline breaking outfit which he was operating day and night.

Absorbs Skin, Chases Wrinkles—Young Again

"The shock at beholding myself in the glass after nine long weeks abed, nearly caused a relapse," writes Emily Colson in Home Queen. "The faded face, with its lines of illness and worry, seemed twenty years older. Now, I thought, I could not attend my chum's wedding, eleven days off, to which I had looked hopefully forward.

"She herself came to my rescue. She procured an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax at the drugstore, which she bade me spread on like cold cream, washing it off next morning. Applied nightly, this apparently absorbed the withered skin, so gently I experienced no discomfort. Upon the wedding morn the pallid complexion had entirely given way to one of youthful color and loveliness.

"And there wasn't a wrinkle. This due to a wash lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. The daily face bath had dispersed every line."

FRIENDS OF SERGT. A. E. BENNETT THINK HIGHLY OF HIM

"At the ocast training with the 11th regiment of the Canadian Mounted rifles is A. E. Bennett, known to his friends as Dick. He has been a resident of Nelson for the past eight years. Six years of that he has been doing a paint and wall paper business on Stanley street. Dick, who has been promoted to sergeant in his regiment, was born in East Cowes, Isle of Wight, in 1880, and served in the South African campaign while a very young man. Coming to anada about 10 years ago, Sergt. Bennett has been identified with the Sons of England Benefit society, for seven years, holding all offices, having been appointed to the office of district deputy just previous to his enlisting.

"He has also been actively identified with the Nelson and District Veterans' association, holding the office of senior lieutenant aid was well known in football and cricket circles. His Nelson friends wish him success and they know Dick will do his duty."

NELSON SOLDIERS PAID YESTERDAY

First Pay Since Enlistment—Men Getting Hard Work Now—Physical Drill and Skirmishing.

Men of the 54th battalion in Nelson were paid yesterday. This is the first payday since the men enlisted and the envelopes contained amounts in proportion to the length of enlistment.

The men are getting down to hard work. Yesterday Lieut. F. D. Smith, who came on Monday from Cranbrok to assist Capt. Anderson, divided the men into three squads according to their knowledge of drill. The first squad was given extended order work at the recreation grounds and soon the others will take up skirmishing.

Col. Davis was in Kamloops yesterday and is expected to return to Nelson toward the end of this week after an extended trip through part of his district.

Nelson News of the Day

TROUT VARIETIES ARE DISTINGUISHED

Prof. David Starr Jordan Tells Nelson Man Interesting Facts About Rainbow Trout.

B. G. B. Rennie, Nelson, recently wrote to Prof. David Starr Jordan of Stanford university for information regarding distinctions between several species of trout and received the following reply:

"The last judgment which we have is that the steelhead, called salmo gairdneri, is not a different species from the rainbow trout, the salmo irideus. The gairdneri, or steelhead, is developed when the fish runs into the ocean, where it has plenty of food and grows large, but we have so far failed to find any permanent difference between the two. The common cutthroat trout of British Columbia with deep red under the gills and smaller scales, is the salmo clarki. This also has a steelhead form when it runs into the sea, but the steelheads generally are salmo irideus.

The name "rainbow trout" was given in California by myself as a translation of irideus.

"The English trout is often called brown trout but never rainbow. It is salmo fario. It is found all over the colder and mountainous districts of Europe, but is different from any trout native to America. As introduced into our rivers it was brought by the fish commission from Germany, but the same trout is found in Great Britain.

The Loch Neven trout is the same species only larger and grayer when living in deep lakes."

NAME OF DISTRICT GIVEN NEW ROSE

"Kootenay" Rose to Be Produced in England and Will Advertise District.

Much gratification was expressed by members of the Nelson Improvement association last night when Dr. E. G. Smyth read a letter sent him by Alex. Dickson & Sons, Limited, Ireland, stating that one of its new species of roses would be named "Kootenay;" under this name it will be sold all over the world. The association therefore considers this fine publicity for Kootenay-Boundary.

The Dickson firm is rose grower to the king and sells roses in many countries. The letter said:

"We note with interest the object for which the Nelson Improvement association was formed and it gives us great pleasure to name a rose "Kootenay" as you suggest; we think we will be able to do this this season and we hope to select a variety of the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria type for this honor. The rose has been a favorite for over 20 years.

A season or two will probably elapse before this new Kootenay rose will be put on the market. Rose enthusiasts in Nelson intend buying busses and at the rose carnival a special section will be opened for competition in this class.

Last night at the rose carnival committee's meeting a prize list for this year was partially arranged. The sale of tickets is progressing.

DAMAGES FOR WORKER IN STANDARD MINE

A. Macneil, Fernie, Wins Suit Before Mr. Justice Macdonald in Civil Court.

Damages of $800 and costs were given yesterday to the plaintiff by Mr. Justice Macdonald in the case of George Morrison vs. Standard Silver Lead Mining Company, Ltd. A. Macneil of Fernie, B. C., was counsel for the plaintiff and Fred C. Moffatt represented the defendant company. The action arose out of an accident that occurred to Morrison while working in the Standard company's mines at Silverton on June 18, 1914. The plaintiff was working in No. 4 level pushing a car when some rock from the overhanging wall fell, striking plaintiff on the left hand, causing him to lose his third finger which was amputated later. The plaintiff claimed damages for $1,500 on the ground accusing others than the defendant company was guilty of negligence and in the alternative guilty of a breach of a statutory duty.

In giving judgment for the plaintiff his lordship said: "In this action the plaintiff seeks to recover damages owing to an injury to his left hand resulting in the amputation of his third finger. There seems to be some discrepancy in the evidence as to exactly how the accident occurred, and the superintendent of the defandant company seems doubtful as to whether the accident occurred in the maner described by the plaintiff; however, I feel satisfied that he was injured in pushing a car and by a falling rock; the question then is whether the rock fell from a point in the roof of the level where it was timbered, or at a point where the hanging wall was utilized as roof and there was no timbering. I think it likely on the evidence that the fall of rock occurred at the point indicated by the plaintiff. It was not part of the work of the plaintiff to consider the state of the hanging wall and at common law a man who employs a servant in work of a dangerous character is bound to take all reasonable precautions for the workman's safety."
