HOIST FLAG OF FRANCE IN LAON

General Mangin Is Received with Outstretched Arms and Cries of Joy by Inhabitants.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN LAON, Oct. 14.—In a literal transport of joy, the 600 inhabitants remaining in Laon rushed to the gates of the city yesterday afternoon to greet Gen. Mangin, who made his entry into the city at 3:30 o'clock. Men, women and children with tears running down their cheeks and waving their tri-colored flags, fried "Long live Gen. Mangin; long live the army; long live our liberators."

The people crowded around the general, almost carrying him in triumph to the city hall, where he was received by the deputy mayor. The mayor and 600 young men had been carried off into captivity by the Germans before the French troops arrived.

Gen. Mangin's troops had reached the Laon-La Fere railway at 10:45 a.m. and a quarter of an hour later, the French tri-color was floating from the tower of Laon cathedral. About the same hour the last Germans had been chased from the forest of St. Gobain, which for four years had been one of the strongest bastions of the enemy lines.

For the first year, while learning, the remuneration is not fixed, Some doubt existed as to whether the strikers would be breaking the order which makes strikes illegal, but Senator Robertson said tonight: "The tailoring industry is not one which comes under the terms of the new order."

ONTARIO T-N-T PLANT WRECKED

Every Window in Trenton Broken—Only One Man Is Killed.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

TRENTON, Ont., Oct. 14.—A dozen explosions in the T.N.T. and guncotton works of the British Explosives, Limited, here this evening resulted in the practical destruction of that works but so far as is known resulted in the death of only one man. The first explosion occurred at 7:10 p.m. and was followed by a dozen others and broke every window in town. The fire was confined to the works in which the explosions occurred and at midnight, it was reported that no further danger was to be feared.

The wires of the telegraph companies, which pass near the works, were put out of commission by the explosions, but the Bell Telephone wires were not affected. Alarming rumors, which had spread to Toronto, Ottawa and other cities stated that hundreds if not thousands of persons had lost their lives.

Mayor Earland issued the following statement at a late hour tonight:

"Only one man is known to have been killed in the explosion which occurred at the British Explosives, Limited this evening. Reports received from the local hospitals indicate that but very few persons were injured. All windows in the town were smashed by the concussion.

"The explosion completely destroyed the T. N. T. and guncotton plants. About 2500 persons were employed by the company and most of these will be thrown out of work. The civic authorities at Kingston offered to despatch to our assistance a special train of supplies with doctors and nurses, but these were found to be unnecessary, as the local hospital is able to care for all the injured.

"The first explosion occurred about 7:10, said to be the result of a fire. It did little damage and the night employees were able to make their escape. Twelve or 13 other explosions followed in quick succession."

Town in Darkness.

The town was plunged into darkness by the explosions, which put the lighting plants out of commission. Belleville civil authorities are arranging to care for the refugees and the Salvation army citadel and parish hall of St .Thomas' church have been prepared, while the hotels will accommodate many. The first explosion is said to have occurred in the acid tanks.

Railway traffic through Trenton is interrupted, while the bridges and the roadbed are being inspected for damage from the explosions.

CZECH UNITS ARE IN PERIL

Appeal Is Made to the Allies to Avert Loss of Samara and Yekaterinburg.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

VLADIVOSTOK, (Delayed) Oct. 14.—An appeal to the allies to avert the loss of Samara and Yekaterinburg, as well as to revive the morale of the Czecho-Slovak forces fighting in eastern Russia, has been received here at the allied headquarters. The situation there is said to be serious.

Czecho-Slovak units which have been fighting at Yekaterinburg, Kazan, Simbirsk, Samara and Orenburg are imperilled, 120,000 Boleshviki troops having joined the Germans in opposing the allied forces in that region. News comes from Tcheliabinsk that the Czecho-Slovaks are losing heavily and retreating along the northern front. Ufa, which is one of the principal concentration points for the Czecho-Slovaks, is threatened and its loss would be well nigh fatal to the Czecho-Slovaks in Samara.

Discouraging reports are received from Orenburg, which, it has been supposed, was held by the Cossacks. German activities in Astrakhan indicate a movement by the enemy by way of Turkestan and the exploiting of vast quantities of cotton, wheat and minerals.

PRESIDENT POINCARE HONORS PREMIER OF AUSTRALIA

PARIS, Oct. 14.—President Poincare yesterday received William Morris Hughes, premier of Australia, and presented to him the insignia of a grand officer of the Legion of Honor in appreciation of the friendly relations between France and Australia.

TEXT OF GERMAN PEACE NOTE.

This is the text of the note to which President Wilson yesterday replied:

"In reply to the questions of the president of the United States of America, the German government hereby declares:

"The German government has accepted the terms laid down by President Wilson in his address of Jan. 8 and in his subsequent addresses on the foundation of a permanent peace of justice. Consequently, its object in entering into discussion would be only to agree upon practical details of the application of these terms. The German government believes that the government of the powers associated with the government of the United States also take the position taken by President Wilson in his address. The German government, in accordance with the Austro-Hungarian government, for the purpose of bringing about an armistice, declares itself ready to comply with the propositions of the president in regard to evacuation.

"The German government suggests that the president may occasion the meeting of a mixed commission for making the necessary arrangements concerning the evacuation. The present German government, which has undertaken the responsibility for this step toward peace, has been formed by conferences and is in agreement with the great majority of the reichstag. The chancellor, supported in all his actions by the will of this majority, speaks in the name of the German government and of the German people.

SOLF,

"State Secretary of Foreign Office.

PRESS APPROVES WILSON'S REPLY

Editors of Leading U. S. Newspapers Insist that Germany Must Surrender Unconditionally

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Arrayed behind President Wilson stands the press of the United States. From all sections of the country this morning comes a constant flood of editorial approval of the president's attitude toward the Teuton proposal and unanimous insistence that no peace plea emanating from Germany shall be considered unless it contemplates full and complete surrender.

Following are excerpts from the editorials of the nation's leading newspapers:

New York World.—The president at one stroke has swept away this whole German structure of a paper peace without guarantees. He has also swept away the foolish fears incited by unscrupulous politicians who have been trying to conjure up a superman trick in the German offer of surrender and have been shivering lest civilization be cheated of the fruits of victory by superior German intelligence.

New York Herald.—The reply is the best possible proof that the interlude consisting of the president's questioning of the German imperial chancellor and that functionary's reply was as unnecessary as it was futile. If in any respect the president's reply seems inadequate to the American people, it would be in the absence from it of any intention of reparition and punishment.

New York Sun.—We believe the country has understood him (the president) to mean that the Hohenzollern dynasty shall go. The president's reply should hearten our soldiers in the field. It should hearten and stimulate the great American army of bond buyers in this last week of effort for the full success of the fourth Liberty loan.

New York (German) Herald.—The principal point in Mr. Wilson's note is that part in which he insists on a change of government in Germany. If the German military party thinks to win by camoflage, it is hopelessly mistaken. Mr. Wilson's note will find thunderous applause wherever it will become known.

New York Times: An American pen has forever stilled the rattling of that terrible German sabre. . . . This swashbuckling emperor has brought down upon himself the wrath of certain of the instruments of the lord who have amply prepared themselves to make his remaining way short and its end exemplary. . . . The president has sent a word of command, not counsel.

Boston Globe: President Wilson trained his guns upon the very heart and centre of German autocracy. He has fired a broadside straight at the kaiser's throne. No terms with autocracy. From within or without, its throne must be blasted. It is "Down with the Kaiser" or "On to Berlin."

Washington Post: Humanity cannot fail to applaud the decision taken by President Wilson on behalf of the United States and allies and conveyed to the German government in a manner that gains terrible significance and finality by the restraint of the language employed. The note is nothing less than a sentence of death upon the Hohenzollern military system, pronounced by the spokesman of the civilized world, now in arms and actually executing the sentence.

Buffalo, New York, Express: This note will be met with a shout of enthusiastic approval throughout the United States and throughout the allied world.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Again the president has spoken with the

ALLIED LEADERS IN FIELD TO DICTATE, SAYS WILSON

President Answers Germany's Peace Note With Decision Which Fulfills All Expectations---While Atrocities Continue Armistice Is Unthinkable It Is Stated---Senators Applaud Reading of Reply

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—President Wilson has answered Germany's peace proposal with a decision which not only fulfills the expectations of the supporters of his diplomacy, but also dispels the fear of those who predicted he would substitute victories at arms with defeats at diplomacy.

No peace with kaiserism, autocracy must go; no armistice can even be thought of while Germany continues her atrocities on land and sea, peace cannot be considered until it fully is dictated by the allied commanders in the field in such terms as absolutely provide safeguards and guarantees that Germany's part will not be a scrap of paper.

This, in a few words, is the president's answer.

If it does not bring a capitulation which may be more than an unconditional surrender, allied diplomats and American officials believe it may cause a revolution in Germany.

Secretary's Statement.

Beyond question, it speaks for the entente allies, as well as the United States. The despatch of the president's reply was followed by the issue of this statement at the White House by Secretary Tumulty:

"The government will continue to send over 250,000 men with their supplies every month and there will be no relaxation of any kind."

Quite outside of the formal phrases of a diplomatic document, was President Wilson's word to the world that he had no thought of stopping the fighting at this stage.

The senate chamber rang with the applause of the senators as the president's answer was read a few minutes after it had been announced at the state department. Senator Lodge, the president's chief critic in his course until today issued a statement expressing his gratification at the president's decision. Opinion at the capitol and throughout official Washington was unanimous approval.

Official Note.

The official note which will convey the president's decision to the German government and more important, to the German people, was delivered by Secretary Lansing to the charge at the Swiss legation who had been acting as intermediary. It had been given out by Secretary Lansing at the state department at 6 o'clock this evening. It reads:

"Sir—In reply to the communication of the German government dated the 12th which you handed to me today, I have the honor to request you to transmit the following answer:

"The unqualified acceptance by the present German government and by a large majority of the reichstag of the terms laid down by the president of the United States of America in his address to the congress of the United States on Jan. 8, 1918, and in his subsequent address, justifies the president in making a frank and direct statement of his decision with regard to the communications of the German government of Oct. 8 and 12, 1918.

"It must be thoroughly understood that the process of evacuation and the conditions of an armistice are matters which must be left to the judgment and advice of the military advisers of the government of the United States and the allied governments, and the president feels it his duty to say that no armistice can be accepted by the government of the United States which does not provide absolute satisfactory safeguards and guarantees of the maintenance of the present supremacy of the armies of the United States and the allies in the field.

"He feels confident that he can safely assume that nothing but this will also be the judgment and decision of the allied governments.

Inhuman Practises.

"The president feels that it is also his duty to add that neither the government of the United States nor, he is quite sure, the governments with which the government of the United States is associated as a belligerent, will consent to consider an armistice, so long as the armed forces of Germany continue the illegal and inhuman practises which they still persist in.

"At the very time the German government approached the government of the United States with proposals of peace, its submarines are engaged in sinking passenger ships at sea and not the ships alone, but the very boats in which their passengers and crews seek to make their way to safety; and in their present enforced withdrawal from Flanders and France, the German armies are pursuing a course of wanton destruction which always has been regarded as in direct violation of the rules and practises of civilized warfare. Cities and villages, if not destroyed are being stripped of all they contain, not only, but of their very inhabitants. Nations associated against Germany cannot be expected to agree to a cessation of arms while acts of inhumanity, spoliation and desolation are being continued which they justly look upon with horror and with burning hearts.

"It is necessary also, in order that there may be no possibility of misunderstandings, that the president should very solemnly call the attention of the government of Germany to the language and plain intent of one of the terms of peace which the German government has now accepted. It is contained in the address of the president delivered at Mount Vernon, on the Fourth of July last.

"It is as follows: 'The destruction of every arbitrary power anywhere that can separately, secretly and of its single choice disturb the peace of the world; or, if it cannot be presently destroyed, at least its reduction to virtual impoteney. The power which has hitherto controlled the German nation is of the sort here described. It is within the choice of the German nation to alter it.' Those who contend the president's decision arranges the

SENATORS APPLAUD WILSON'S REPLY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—President Wilson's reply to the German peace note was vigorously applauded when read to the senate immediately after it had been made public. The senate had remained in session late in order to receive it.

PROVINCE BOYS STORM GERMAN POSITIONS

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES, 10 p.m., Oct. 14, via London, Oct. 14.—By F. J. B. Livesay, Canadian Press Correspondent.—After strenuous and continuous fighting culminating in the capture of Cambrai last Wednesday, it might be supposed that the Canadian corps had earned a needed rest and particularly on Sept. 13 and Oct. 1, when our infantry threw back counterattacks of the enemy wh vainly sought to unloose our hold on the city. This corps went through the hardest ding-dong fighting of its history, but so far is its spirit from being quenched that during the last three days its elements were engaged they have lived up to its highest traditions and have reaped fresh laurels. Thus, on Monday night one Canadian division was facing almost due north from Pallu, south of the Trinquis river, to Vraches-St. Vaast on the Scarpe and signalled their presence by a successful raid that very night across this watery waste into Boche territory, returning with prisoners. They proceeded at once to organize for the breaking of the Drocourt Queant line north of them and today that operation has been pushed to the very gates of Douai.

Followed Scarpe River.

To understand the situation, it must be remembered that the entire Canadian advance from Arras to Cambrai was made with the flank along the line of the Scarpe river and canal system. No advance was made north of this river. What the Canadian division, ably supported by an English division on its left has accomplished in the last four days, is to bring our line north of the Sensee river into practical alignment with the corps in front.

Further south, the first task was to storm what remained of the Queant-Drocourt line, and with this objective an artillery barrage was put up under cover of which our patrols pushed forward on Tuesday morning. It developed that the enemy held the forest strongly with machine gun nests. On Thursday morning our patrols went across the river in force and established themselves in Sailly-en-Ostreunt. The enemy counterattacked in great force and we fell back to the south side of the river.

But these preliminaries disclosed disposition and at 3 o'clock yesterday morning a concentrated night attack was made with English troops on the left, the objective being the Drocourt line. The Canadian division extended to the Scarpe river.

SUB MENACE GREATER THAN EVER--GEDDES

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—An appeal from the British government to America to hurry construction of destroyers and anti-submarine craft and such appliances was made here tonight by Sir Eric Geddes, first lord of the British admiralty, after he had asserted the U-boat menace today is "greater than it ever was."

Speaking at a dinner given by the Pilgrim society, he said that within the past few days he and Vice-Admiral Duff of the British navy had discussed the naval situation in all its bearings with Secretary Daniels and Admiral Benson and that "complete unity of view" had been reached.

"It is with Mr. Daniel's full concurrence that I now make this statement, that there is no greater service than can be rendered by the civilians of the United States today charged with that privilege and duty than to expedite the output of destroyers and anti-submarine craft and such appliances of every description," Sir Eric said.

"It is seldom that a minister from another, though an allied, country is permitted to make an appeal and it would be possible only with the fullest consent and authority of the responsible minister of the country of which he was the guest.

"I have that consent and I have that authority. There is no greater need today than the need of the naval effort against the great offensive of the submarine. Their defeat can be assured only if this need is recognized and the wants of the two navies supplied, as I am sure the United States and Great Britain intend they shall be."

Discussing Germany's submarine menace, Sir Eric declared that while "most men say today that it is a thing of the past, it is the British admiralty's opinion that the enemy menace comes and goes, and, in fact, it is today not dead.

"Indeed it is greater today than it ever was," he warned. "That is to say, the effort is greater than it ever was. I think now we are approaching a point where submarine warfare is again the weakest front of the alliance."

In opening his speech, Sir Eric said that while he must resist the temptation to allude to the present political situation, there were two things which he was convinced had not changed.

"One is our absolute loyalty to those nations associatede with us and the other is our determination to continue the war and not be diverted from our purpose until we have secured the only peace which could justify

TO CHASE HUN PLANES AT RIVERSIDE, CAL.

RIVERSIDE, Cal.—Chasing the Hun at home is the latest plan for training aerial ideas how to shoot.

Bow Spring mountain and the Allessandro valley will soon resound with the sharp crack of machine guns and travelers along the highway leading past March aviation field, where the government has a school for aviators, will witness the sight of half a dozen American planes giving chase to a decrepit plane adorned with painted iron crosses and other Hun insignia.

Training at March field has reached a stage where planes are to be equipped with machine guns and instruction given in pursuit flying.

An ancient plane is being disguised by March field camoufleurs to represent a Hun airship and the regulation American planes are being mounted with machine guns.

When these preparations have been completed, the Hun plane will be launched and the student fliers will pursue, firing their aerial machine guns.

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—Col. J. S. Dennis, C.M.G., has been appointed Red Cross commissioner for Siberia. Col. Dennis, whose home is in Calgary, is now on his way west.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain—How to Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and many do real harm Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

PROVINCE STORM HUN POSITIONS

peg, Edmonton, Saskatchewan and Vancouver stormed a strong enemy position west of Tortequenne which had been subjected to a tremendous bombardment by our artillery. Pushing on, they seized the dominating height of Mont Bedu. Meanwhile the troops on the left had effected a crossing, with Toronto Highlanders pushing up eastward, and the Canadian Scottish guards at Noyelle-Sous-Bellone, the tactical plan being to pivot on our right with the left working along the Scarpe river where contact was made with English troops.

Continual pressure was maintained on the enemy until by nightfall we had pierced the Drocourt-Queant line west of Brieberest to the south of Gouy-Sous-Bellonne and then from a southeasterly direction to include Estrees and Hamel.

This morning the drive was continued to the line of the canal of the Sensee, our left bein gestablished in the outskirts of Cour-Chellets, 2000 yards from Douai, while our right captured Arleux. In 30 hours, we thus advanced to a maximum depth of 9000 yards on a 12,000 yard front, which is a remarkable achievement.

While these succesful operations were in progress our other Canadian troops had cracked the hard nut offered by the fortified area of the enemy around Iwuy where the toughest kind of fighting was met and overcome. Instead of pushing on east, these troops were engaged in the extremely bold operation of cutting in on the flank of the enemy defense between Douai and the Scheldt canal by swinging north and driving a wedge in the direction of Bouchain. After capturing the villages of Estrum and Hordain troops from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick pushed out and established posts north of the river. Animated by the corps' spirit and habitual victory our gallant infantry has proved itself capable during the past fortnight of almost incredible exertions. They are determined the enemy shall not slip from their grasp.

GEN. PERSHING DISPLAYED STRATEGIC ABILITY AS BOY

MISSOULA, Mont. — Even as a youngster in knockerbockers Gen. John J. Pershing, now commander of the American expeditionary forces in France, displayed an inclination toward a military career and revealed strategic ability as a leader of his youthful comrades, according to Joseph L. James of this city, who was a boyhood playmate of Gen. Pershing. He has just returned from a vacation visit to Laclede, Mo., where he and the general spent their younger days. Gen. Pershing resided there until he received his appointment to West Point military academy.

"The favorite sport of the schoolboys in the days of my boyhood back in Laclede, just after the civil war, was to play soldier," said Mr. James. "Jack Pershing was the most indefatigable of the young soldiers and always could be found in command of one of the companies of youngsters which conducted continuous warfare through the streets and alleys of the little town and in the woods nearby, making ferocious charges with their lath swords.

"While still in his early 'teens, Pershing showed traces of the diplomacy which he has revealed in later years and as a strategist he was unexcelled, being ever on the alert for an opportunity to defeat the 'enemy' with the least possible 'loss' to his own company.

all this terrible suffering and destruction which has been and will be brought about by the iniquity of our common enemy.

"Of one thing I am clear, we must not relax the muscles of our fighting men, nor our war effort in any anticipation of an early peace. To do so would be the surest way to render any dissensions which may take place, prolonged and less satisfactory."

Sir Eric reviewed British naval losses, declaring his country's losses in fighting ships of all classes have been approximately 230, more than twice the total losses of war vessels of the whole of our allies, and that 450 auxiliary craft, such as mine sweepers and trawlers, also have been destroyed. British merchant ships to the total number of 2400, with a gross tonnage of nearly 7,750,000 have been sunk, he said, or "nearly three times the aggregate losses of our allies."

"Germany is not beaten, is not nearly beaten, and in some respects is stronger than ever she was," he warned, regarding the enemy's naval situation. "Should the German naval policy be hanged by force of circumstances or by a spirit of adventure which it has so far failed to show, it will be met and if it means to fight, that fight will be a naval armageddon, which your magnificent battleships, with the Grand Fleet, will, I am sure, take a worthy and distinguished part."

Four tons of explosives are dropped each day on Bruges and Zeebrugge, Sir Eric asserted, so that these ports are of no value to the Germans, who, according to his latest information are removing the bases and machinery they had installed there. In surface fighting, he added, the allies have the mastery in the North sea, in the Adriatic and in the Mediterranean. Sir Eric added that "dangerous mine fields have been laid by our submarines and fast offensive mine layers right into the mouth of the Ems behind Heligoland."

The operations are being performed "night after night."

AIR RAIDS MAKE CAVE DWELLERS

Old Smugglers' Retreats Used by the Residents of Margate During Hun Bombardments.

RAMSGATE, England—From a long tunnel you emerge into the sudden dazzle of Ramsgate harbor station, with a 70-foot cliff of white chalk on your right and on your left the long Ramsgate beaches—only 45 miles across a gray sea from Zeebrugge.

From your train window you can see the long white stretch of the surf breaking over the Goodwin Sands, seven miles out. Ramsgate's fishing smacks used to have more respect for the Goodwin Sands than for anything else in the sea. But they've learned to love that treacherous shoal now .For when enemy destroyers and enemy submarines try their tip and run raids on Ramsgate the cordially hated Goodwin Sands hold the enemy off to a seven mile range.

Are Cave Dwellers .

For this little boon Ramsgate is thankful. For Ramsgate is the first bit of England which enemy airplanes and zeppelins pass over on their way up the Thames to bomb London and since the beginning of the war Ramsgate has "had 'em coming and going" in every raid on the metropolis.

Ramsgate used to be a city of 30,000 with a floating population of 150,000 in the season. Now it holds a permanent population of 18,000, with practically no floating population. Ramsgate before the war was an O-be-joyful tripper town of fishing smacks, peeled noses and the Southeastern and Chatham railway. Ramsgate today is a grim place of courage and caves.

Windows Boarded up.

There is nothing in the world like the cold caves of Ramsgate. And there is no town in England which has been more savagely bombed than Ramsgate, have now been passed.

"Do you see that boarded up vacant lot across High street there?" asked the mayor. "We had a fine hotel there until a bomb put it out of business. Do you see those boarded up windows? Another bomb. Every window in this street was gone."

In Harbor street there is a burnt out pier. Somebody dropped a lighted match there one night. The fire looked very pretty across the water. It was something of a change from bomb fires.

Now there never was, there is not now and there will not be as long as the war lasts, anything of military importance in Ramsgate to constitute a legitimate basis of attack by German bombing planes. It is merely that Ramsgate lies on the route to London and planes which fail to reach the metropolis unload their bombs there in their flight homeward.

This quickly put an end to Ramsgate's popularity as a watering place. And there were some of Ramsgate's permanent population, who moved away for the "duration." But the rest of Ramsgate strung barbed wire along the beaches, dug itself into its caves and stuck it out.

Register for Cave

Ramsgate's sheer civilian grit is enough by itself to give the laugh to an enemy who once dreamed of breaking England.

Today when you register at a hotel in Ramsgate, you are directed to your cave. School children at Ramsgate's schools have their caves. There are public caves, formerly old smugglers' caves, but now enlarged and fitted with benches and electric lights out of town funds. And there are private caves fitted with every luxury, in which you may shave while a raid is on, by way of testing your nerve and in which, should the bombardment become too monotonous, you may lie down and sleep.

City Lives Underground.

From her great Pugin's caves which alone can accommodate 4000 raid refugees, down to the small private caves which accommodate from 60 up, she has room for 18,000 persons underground. And—notably in September of last year—she filled her caves each night for nine nights and from seven to nine hours a night, German destroyers, German submarines, German airplanes and German zeppelins have tried to bomb and bombard her into panic.

But Ramsgate merely retires into her caves and sticks it out. She has suffered terribly but she knows that the day of accounting is coming. No American town can possibly be called on in this war to endure what she has endured. And no American town can achieve such an example of bulldog stubbornness as Ramsgate has achieved.

Used by Smugglers

A hundred, 200, 300 years ago, there were caves in the sheer chalk cliffs which front her beaches, which, at that time were used to advantage by smugglers. These smugglers were the men of her fishing smacks, smart cutter-rigged craft and old luggers, who went out to the Dogger bank, into the strait, toward the Norwegian coast and down into the Bight, after flatfish, sole, plaice, brill, the best fish the English market affords.

They were a hardy race, those ancestors of the Ramsgate men of today. They made their living on a sea that gave them enough wind one day to dismast them and the next day left them in a dead flat calm.

Caves Accommodate Many

"We never used to pay any attention to the caves," said Mayor H. C. Child, father of the bomb proof caves at Ramsgate. But today Ramsgate has spent $125,000 on its caves. If the day ever comes when cities along the war frontiers will provide themselves with underground shelters against future wars, Ramsgate will go down in history as the pioneer of all of them.

There are the Pugins labyrinthiae caves, the Chatham and Dover cave, whose entrance is only 45 yards from the Chatham and Dover station. It accommodates 800 refugees.

The Hollocodane caves, probably the oldest in the Ramsgate area, were fitted out, and now comfortably take care of 750 people. The Granville cave, on which the town has spent a great deal of work, is the second largest of the caves, and takes comfortable care of 1700. This cave has entrances on

As the sun of life sinks toward the west

Life has been said to consist of a constant succession of breakdowns and repairs. In old age, the former predominate. The body machine is more or less worn out. Digestion is less perfect, elimination of waste is increased in quantity, but reduced in efficiency.

Hence, constipation is particularly pernicious. Constipation means more than mere failure of the bowels to move regularly and thoroughly. It means stagnation of the contents of the intestine, increased fermentation, putrefaction and germ action, the production of irritating and poisonous substances, that are absorbed into the blood and carried all over the body.

This is always serious—in old age it is especially dangerous.

Constipation cannot be cured by drugs at any age. It is especially harmful to an aged person to use pills, salts, and similar strong purges in order to force the bowels to act.

But the Nujol Treatment for Constipation is not only safe, it is in everyway efficient.

Nujol is not a drug, does not act like any drug.

Nujol helps nature to re-establish easy, soft, thorough bowel evacuation—as "regular as clockwork."

Nujol softens and keeps perfectly moist the intestinal waste.

Nujol makes it easy for the intestinal muscles to act, and prevents them from overwork.

Nujol absorbs poisons and carries them out of the body.

Get Nujol from your druggist and take it according to directions.

Warning: NUJOL is sold only in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. Insist on Nujol. You may suffer from substitutes

ALLIED LEADERS TO DICTATE

situation for something more than unconditional surrender, base it on the argument that he has now passed the stage where he might have accepted a surrender of the German military and naval forces and left the Hohenzollern autocracy on its throne.

Mr. Wilson, according to this view, has now finally informed the German people that if they want peace they can only attain it by getting rid of the kaiser and his system.

An armistice, it is true, might come first and the details of the downfall of the German autocracy might be arranged later. But this is what an armistice would entail:

First, a stop to the atrocities on land and sea and the systematic destruction and devastation in the wake of the retreating German armies. Then the disarmament of all the German forces and the deposit of their arms and munitions at points to be chosen by the allied military commanders. Then, the occupation by allied forces of certain German cities or strongholds of strategic importance. Probably, also the occupation of all the submarine bases and a turning over of the German fleet. In short it would entail taking from Germany everything with which she might break her word to an armistice.

That from that point, the United States and the allies might proceed to dispose of what remains of kaiserism if the German people have not done it before, as President Wilson in his note plainly invites them to do.

While nowhere in the note does the president openly join with the entente statesmen in the demand that the "chief criminals" must be delivered up for trial, the president's confidants point out that he plainly subscribes to the doctrine that the guilt of bringing on the world war is personal.

It will be noted that the president completely rejects the German suggestion for a mixed commission to arrange an evacuation and reminds the militarists that they will accept the terms laid down by Marshal Foch and the associated commanders in that they will have no part in framing them. He makes it plain that he does not accept the new government headed by Chancellor Maximilian as anything less autocratic, anything less a creature of German militarism than its predecessors and warns the German people that unless they destroy it, the allied armies will do so.

One of the most important points of his note is that in which he acknowledges the present German government's unqualified acceptance of his peace terms and then goes on to show that these terms provide specifically for the sumstitution of a government wholly responsible to the German people themselves for the present one dominated by the German militarists.

Quoting his Mount Vernon speech of July 4, the president reminds Germany that his terms call for the "destruction of every arbitrary power anywhere, that can separately, secretly or of its single choice, disturb the peace of the world; or if it cannot be presently destroyed, at least its reduction to virtual impotency."

Here, then, follow the words which proclaim with finality that the autocratic government of Germany must go and plainly invite the German people to make the change which will bring peace:

"The power which hitherto has controlled the German nation," says the president's reply," is of the sort here described. It is within the choice of the German people to alter it.'

The president's words just quoted naturally constitute a condition precedent to peace, if peace is to come by the action of the German people themselves. The president feels bound to say that the whole process of peace will, in his judgment, depend upon the different needs and the satisfactory character of the guarantees that can be given in this fundamental. It is indispensable that the governments associated against Germany should know beyond a peradventure with whom they are dealing.

"The president will make a separate reply to the royal and imperial government of Austria-Hungary.

"Accept, sir, the renewed assurance of my high consideration.

"(Signed) ROBERT LANSING."

"Mr. Frederick Oederlin, Charge d'Affaires, ad interim, in charge of German interests in the United States."

One outstanding point which does not appear in the president's note, a point on which the world has been asking questions, can be answered tonight. When the president declared that the wrong done to France when Germany took Alsace-Lorraine, should be righted, he meant that Alsace-Lorraine should be returned to France.

to the entrance of Ostend harbor and heavily bombarded the enemy positions.

French Near Serre Line

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The French are approaching the line Serre-Souche. They are not quite up to that line in the region of Laon, but probably will reach it before the end of the day. The enemy retirement was carried out in good order. He left little behind and in no sense was his movement a hurried retreat. The British are along practically the whole water line of Canal de la Haute Deule and the Sensee ccanal. The enemy is reacting heavily in the area north of Le Catcau and from every military point of view his is by no means at the moment in the positions of a beaten foe.

Americans Active

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Oct. 14, 10 a.m.—The Americans west of the Meuse are now beyond Cunelaid. Their patrols are in the Bois d'Bantheville. Further west, the American line has reached St. Georges and Landres et St. Georges.

Frees French Citizens.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN THE LAON AREA, Oct. 14.—Gen. Mangin in driving the Germans out of Laon, freed 6000 inhabitants that remained there from actual slavery. They were not only despoiled of their household goods, their money and other possessions, but they were robbed of their time.

The different officers commanding in the town pretended that the right of requisition extended to labor and accordingly obliged men, women and children to labor for the German army in various ways. The requisitioned were paid for as were requistioned products—in orders upon the mayor. The town, correctly paid for the labor done by its citizens for the occupation forces.

Men and girls were forced to serve as beaters for German officers on hunting expeditions. The girls also were obliged to go to the fields and gather nettles from which the Germans made a fabric that served as a substitute for burlap in making sand sacks for their trenches. No discrimination was made between persons of different classes and conditions. All had to bend to the will of the invader and had to pay the debt of his own town.

City Pillaged.

The pillage of Laon was enormous. It began with the arrival of the first troops, who looted every house and building that was not inhabited at the time. Later on, the pillage extended to houses that were inhabited. It reached its height on the departure of the general staff of the German army commanded by Gen. von Herringen. With the staff disappeared all the furniture of the city hall. Five million, eight hundred thousand francs in cash was the sum exacted from the town, part of it under the guise of a war contribution, and part as fines for different so-called infractions of the commandant's rules.

In 1914 the Germans demanded 500,000 francs; in 1915, a million; in 1916, a million, eight hundred thousand; in 1917, three millions. All these sums were demanded in gold, which not being forthcoming, paper money and securities were accepted.

Deprived of Liberty.

When not working for the German troops the citizens were deprived of all liberty, while the troops quartered in their houses took every sort of liberty. It is impossible for any one who has not suffered in the same way to understand what we have gone through, said an aged resident today. "But it is worth all we suffered to be rid of them."

Girls and men were taken from Laon asd sent to prison camps in Germany and Russia during 1917. They have since been sent home, but when the town was evacuated several hundred young men of fighting age were carried off with the mayor and Senator Thermont, who was taken on the pretext that he had accounts to render concerning the administration of the relief work of the American committee. Inhabitants, however, say that the real reason was the Germans feared the senators revelations on the floor of the French senate.

Berlin Official.

BERLIN, Oct. 14.—Attacks by the allied troops on a wide front between the Lys river and Dixmude have been stopped by the Germans, while efforts by the French and Americans in Champagne have failed, according to the German official statement issued tonight. The text of the communication follows:

"In Flanders the enemy attacked on a wide front between Dixmude and Lys. We have stemmed the thrust.

"On the Oise and west of the Oise and on the Aire and west of the Meuse attacks by the French and Americans failed."

three levels. Today its galleries have been pushed farther into the chalk, and it has been fitted with benches, bulbs and bunks, and at a number of its galleries quantities of bedding are stored for mothers whose babies have been seized out of bed.

The Hereson caves, located a half mile back of the Granville cave, on the Bradshaw estate, are another chain of old smugglers' caves which at one time had an outlet to the sea. These caves accommodate 600. Besides these caves Ramsgate now has two caves, hewn out of the chalk with pickaxes, in the park, one of them seating 150 and the other 100. There are also school caves, all of them hewn out since the war began and available for the use of school children whenever a daylight alarm sounds. Besides these public caves, there are 25 large private caves, seating from 250 to 260 persons, many of them fitted as luxuriantly as the homes they serve.

Margate Has Caves

Along the coast in the Ramsgate region are a number of smaller watering places, each with its quota of new caves, none of which have reached the proportions of Ramsgate's great caves. Margate is by far the best known of these. It is only four and a half miles north of Ramsgate, and although its permanent population is some 25,000, in the season it runs up frequently to a floating population of 200,000. It has about 70 new caves to serve the needs of its wartime population.

"And we haven't had one accident in all the years they've tried to bomb us off the map, the mayor says.

"You can usually hear them coming from four directions," he goes on. "The first wave comes up over that pier, aiming for the Thames, which they try to follow to London. A few minutes afterward another formation comes up over our heads here, and a few minutes after that the third formation comes up over the basin. Usually there's a fourth, which tries to pass south of us. You can hear them all very plainly."

Children Cared For

When the last of them has been driven off the siren at the gas works starts its long, low drone, and six Boy Scouts are sent to the farther caves to bugle the "All Clear." And the next day, so complete is its anti-raid organization, Ramsgate sends nourishing food and beef drinks to the children of the poorer classes, who may have been exposed to the cold the night before in making for the caves.

BUREAU SEES MEXICANS GETS A SQUARE DEAL

EL PASO, Tex.—The purpose of an office opened here a short time ago by a representative of the United States employment bureau, department of labor, is to see that Mexicans, entering the United States in search of work, get a square deal. Edward H. Decelles, the representative in charge, will see that the conditions under which Mexicans are employed in the United States are fulfilled. He was in the traffic department of the Mexican Central railway for more than 20 years, once serving as superintendent of terminals at Tampico, Mexico's important tonnage port.

'IT SAVED MY HAND.'

"I am a blacksmith. I contracted a sore finger, which led to blood-poisoning.

After three months of doctoring, the finger had to be cut off.

It was too late! The poison had spread to my hand and arm. My hand was opened and the bone scraped. No use! Doctors said hand would have to be taken off.

I refused, and began to use Zam-Buk. I used it regularly and freely for a few weeks. It subdued the blood-poisoning and by the time I had used 7 boxes of Zam-Buk my hand was quite healed.

Zam-Buk surely saved my hand, and I firmly believe it would have saved my finger too had I used it at first."

These facts were sworn to by Mr. John Evans of 87 Lawrence St., Halifax, N.S., before Supreme Court Commissioner O'Hearn, and the sworn statement may be seen by any person so desirous.

Zam-Buk cures ulcers, eczema, abscesses, piles, cuts, cold sores, burns, scalds, babies' rashes, etc. 50c box, all druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

PRESIDENT WILSON HAS NOT COMMITTED HIMSELF.

President Wilson's communications in response to the German rulers' attempt to secure an armistice bind the United States to nothing and as far as the rest of the allies are concerned their position is not affected one whit by the cables which have passed between Washington and Berlin, through the medium of a neutral.

President Wilson has not made the mistake of giving any real answer to the German demand. In his first message he simply asked some questions. "What do you mean?" was, in effect, the sum and substance of his first message. His second message, which was despatched yesterday, also bound the United States and the allies to nothing. He told Germany that he would not consider an armistice until the Huns ceased to be Huns, until they ceased to commit atrocities. He also gave notice that German autocracy must go and that, if an armistice were agreed upon, it must assure that no advantage the allied armies now hold will be lost.

That is perfectly sound and represents the only terms upon which the allies will cease fighting. They intend to hold every ounce of advantage over the enemy that is now theirs. Just how that advantage can be protected is a matter for the allied commanders, and not for discussion with Germany. And the allied commanders, when the time comes, will not take any chances. They know the treachery of the enemy.

NO ARMISTICE UNTIL THE HUNS HOLD UP THEIR HANDS.

It is doubtful if the allies will grant an armistice to Germany at all, in the ordinary sense of the word.

Usually when an armistice has been granted in the past it has represented a sort of truce. The word itself indicates that both sides are to remain under arms, with their relative positions unchanged by the cessation of fighting.

To grant Germany such an armistice at this time would be a fatal blunder for the allies and one they certainly will not commit. It would save the German armies which are now in danger of destruction and it would give the allies no counter-balancing advantage.

Surrender by the enemy is the only entirely safe course for the allies to insist upon. There are other methods but all contain elements of danger, when the enemy is as barbarian as Germany.

To "negotiate" with the enemy until he has surrendered would be worse than futile. The allies are fighting to bring Germany to complete surrender as they believe that is the only way in which militarism can be discredited, the militarists disgraced and the world made secure from future wars. That being so ,to negotiate while the militarists are still unbeaten would be in direct negation to what the allies are battling for.

THE NEW HOSPITAL IS OPENED.

Last night's opening of the new Kootenay Lake General hospital served two good purposes. It raised a substantial sum for necessary expenditures on completing the equipment of the building and it enabled several hundred people to see with their own eyes the fine building which represents the success of the efforts of the board of directors and those who have supported them.

The district has needed a thoroughly modern hospital for years, and only the fact that to construct and equip such a structure necessitated a large expenditure during times which made it difficult to raise money delayed the carrying out of the work.

Now, thanks to the persistence and energy of the board of directors and the generosity of the public, the building is completed and it will soon be fully equipped.

The building is, indeed, all that has been claimed for it. It is worthy of the great purpose, that of relieving suffering, for which it was designed and constructed.

Canada will show by its Victory loan subscriptions that it will not stand for any German made peace.

A boxer who lies down just when he has his opponent beaten is not the man who wins world championships.

The kaiser is finding that his gracious offer to "grant" peace to the allies isn't being received in quite the way his imperial majesty would like.

President Wilson yesterday gave the kaiser a gentle hint to abdicate, but his majesty will not hurry to take the advice, unless conditions in Germany are much worse than they appear.

Germany's offer to retire from Belgium and France under an armistice which would leave its military forces intact is, after all, little more than its original peace proposal of a return to the status quo ante bellum.

Hindenburg is not appearing in the limelight in Germany just now, but he would soon be to the front again if Germany could secure the kind of armistice which would permit it to reorganize its military forces for another blow at the allies.

COLD STORAGE

"Your patient seems to keep up, nurse."

"That's because he's a professional aviator.'

Friend (to Cinema Commissionaire, who has received notice)—I'm surprised you're leavin'. I thought you was a fixture here.

Commissionaire—Is anybody a fixture in these times? Look at the Czar of Russia, Tino, Tirpitz and the rest of 'em.

TOLD IN RHYME

HYMN OF LOVE TO ENGLAND.

A song of hate is a song of hell;
Some there be that sing it well.
Let them sing it loud and long;
We lift our hearts in a loftier song,
We lift our hearts to heaven above,
Singing the glory of her we love—
"England!"

Glory of thought and glory of deed,
Glory of Hampden and Runnymede,
Glory of ships that sigh for goals,
Glory of swords and glory of souls,
Glory of songs mounting as birds,
Glory immortal of magical words,
Glory of Milton and glory of Nelson,
Tragical glory of Gordon and Scott,
Glory of Shelley and glory of Sidney,
Glory transcendent that perishes not,
Hers be the story, hers be the glory—
"England!"

Shatter her beauteous breast ye may;
The spirit of England none can slay!
Dash the bomb to the dome of St. Paul's,
Deem ye the fame of the Admiral falls?
Pry the stone from the chancel floor,
Deem ye that Shakespeare shall live no more?
Where is the giant shot that kills
Wordsworth walking the old green hills?
Trample the red rose on the ground,
Keats has beauty while earth spins round;
Grind her, bind her burn her with fire,
Cast her ashes into the sea;
She shall escape, she shall aspire,
She shall arise to make men free;
She shall arise in sacred scorn,
Lighting the lives that are yet unborn.
Spirit supernal, splendor eternal—
"England!"

EVERYBODY NEEDS PURE, RICH BLOOD

Pure blood enables the stomach, liver and other digestive organs to do their work properly. Without it they are sluggish, there is loss of appetite, sometimes faintness, a deranged state of the intestines, and, in general, all the symptoms of dyspepsia.

Pure blood is required by every organ of the body for the proper performance of its functions.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure blood, and this is why it is so successful in the treatment of so many diseases and ailments. It acts directly on the blood, ridding it of scrofulous and other humors. It is a peculiar combination of blood-purifying, nerve-toning, strength-giving substances. Get it today.

GERMANS DRIVE PEOPLE ALONG ROADS IN BELGIUM

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 14.—Pitiable scenes are now being witnessed in Belgium as masses of people are being driven along the roads by the Germans, according to the Rosendaal correspondent of the Rotterdam Maasbode. The roads around Brussels and Antwerp, he says, are so crowded with refugees that ordinary traffic is entirely blocked, while between Brussels and Antwerp there is only slowly moving army of misery. Processions of tens of thousands of people, with their goods, who have traveled afoot from northern France, from Lille, Turcoing and other places, being driven forward by the Germans. In addition, he declares, there are all the male inhabitants of Flanders whom the Germans are likewise removing. Excessive misery exists everywhere, he reports.

Th headquarters of Crown Prince Rupprecht has been transferred from Thielt to Brussels, the correspondent adds, while the neighborhoods of Brussels and Malines have been placed under the jurisdiction of the German field army.

SKAGWAY, Alsaka—High cost and high wages have closed Skagway's noted old Pack Train cafe, which has been known to every "sourdough" in Alaska since the stampede days of 1898 when "Soapy" Smith, a notorious outlaw, ran things here for a very brief period.

SAYS A CORN ACTS LIKE ELECTRIC BELL

Tells Why a Corn Is so Painful and Says Cutting Makes Them Worse.

Press an electric button and you form a contact with a live wire which rings a bell. When your shoes press against your corn it pushes its sharp roots down upon a sensitive nerve and you get a shock of pain.

Instead of trimming your corns, which merely makes them grow, just step into any drug store and ask for a quarter of an ounce of freezone. This will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. A few drops applied directly upon a tender, aching corn stops the soreness instantly, and soon the corn shrivels up so it lifts right out, root and all, without pain. This drug never inflames or even irritates the surrounding tissue or skin.

SINK SUB WHICH SANK STEAMER

Captain of Ill-Fated Brazilian Boat Was Prisoner on U-Boat When Destroyed.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—The sinking by a German submarine of the Brazilian steamer Guaratuba, was reported in a cablegram received here today. The submarine, the despatch said, later was sunk by a British war vessel which answered the Guaratuba's call for assistance. Capt. Mario Henco, commander of the Brazilian vessel, was a prisoner on the submarine, when she was sent to the bottom. The 65 members of the crew were picked up by the warship.

The Guaratuba, formerly the German steamer Corrientes, was in the service of the France and Canadian Steamship company and was two days out from a French port bound for this city when she was sunk.

Mrs. Bremer, Jr., is also having her troubles, as her mother has to serve also as her mother-in-law and her husband is at the same time her stepbrother.

Nothing is more difficult to understand over a telephone wire than a number containing three or four digits. "5" sounds like "9" and "2" is often mistaken for "3"; transposing numerals is a frequent error.

SEARCH FOR DEAD IN MINNESOTA

So Far 300 Charred Bodies Have Been Found in Smoking Ruins

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

MOOSE LAKE, Minn., Oct. 14.—Men and women of the Moose Lake district of Minnesota, driven by fire from their homes, penniless, many of them wearing clothing furnished by charitable relief workers, tonight took up the search for their dead.

Barred by the military officials from leaving the city, they wandered between long lines of bodies in the improvised morgues, searching for loved ones who have not been heard from since the forest fires laid waste this section of Minnesota and a portion of northern Wisconsin four days ago. Motor trucks arriving at frequent intervals brought in more and more bodies and the sad vigil of the watchers continued throughout the night.

During the past 24 hours, the bodies of 300 victims have been found in the charred No Man's Land which, before the fire, formed the shores of Moose Lake and Kettle river. The majority of the bodies, some of which were taken to Duluth, were so badly charred that identification will be difficult. Searchers have been on duty for 10 hours, but there has as yet been no slackening of the pace or shortening of intervals at which the bodies are being brought in.

Adjutant-Gen. Rhinow tonight estimated the number of dead of the Moose Lake and Kettle river regions might reach 500, these, with other dead from adjoining regions, will, it is said, swell the list of dead to near the 1000 mark.

Improvised hospitals here and the permanent institutions at Duluth are caring for thousands of more or less injured refugees, many of whom are in a critical condition.

Officials in charge of relief work still are unable to make an accurate estimate of the material damage resulting from the fire. It was said, however, that in this district alone, 50 square miles had been stripped clean of timber, crops, livestock and human habitation.

LAND QUESTION TO BE DISCUSSED

Premiers of Western Provinces Will Talk Over Settlement Policy Regarding Soldiers.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

REGINA, Sask., Oct. 14.—Premiers of the western provinces will meet Hon. J. A. Calder, minister of immigration and colonization Tuesday, when a conference will be held with the provincial government regarding the land settlement policy which the Dominion government is formulating in cooperation with the provincial government to settle the vacant lands of Canada in the west. There is a dual purpose to provide a means for returned soldiers to acquire farms and also other settlers willing to become producers, and to increase production in order to more quickly pay the war debt for Canada. Plans are in a formative stage but it is known that the Dominion authorities would enlist the aid of the governments acting practically as agents for the Dominion in acquiring the land, administering the act which would provide for the sale of the land and settlement on an amortization plan; be responsible for the payment of principal and interest to the Dominion government and in a general way exercise supervision over the whole scheme within their provincial boundaries.

SHUT OFF ENGINES AND SAVE GASOLINE

PUEBLO, Colo.—The city commissioners have announced that Pueblo officials will enforce rigidly an ordinance prohibiting automobile owners from permitting their engines to run while cars are standing still. The ordinance makes the practise a misdemeanor.

The commissioners' announcement was made after George McLagan, chairman of the city and county fuel boards, requested them to cooperate with the board in saving gasoline. In a letter to the officials he said that truck drivers were the most common offenders, saying that some of them often left their engines running while the trucks are being unloaded.

MAN WHO WAS COLOR BLIND GETS GIRL TO TEACH HIM

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Patriotic ardor like Charles Zubr's is to be admired. The navy recruiting officer says Zubr came to him and wanted to enlist. The officer examined him and found the man totally color blind. He was rejected.

Undaunted Zubr returned the next day. On the color test then he was a wizard. It puzzled the recruiting officer, who asked an explanation.

"Oh," said Zubr, "I went down to the 10-cent store and hired a girl there for half a day to teach me colors. She took down ribbons and yarn galore until I learned them all. After it I bought her a box of candy."

LEIPSIC PAPER SCORES KAISER

Says William Will Be Last of German Military Monarchs—Should Withdraw Now.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

PARIS, Oct. 14.—Commenting on the German peace proposals, the Volks Zeitung of Leipsic, Saxony, is quoted in a despatch from Switzerland, as saying:

"In the minds of the German people responsibility for the present situation centres more and more clearly each day on the person of the emperor.

"We see in William II the last German military monarch. He must feel that he can no longer be what he has thought himself since the first day of his reign—an instrument sent by God, and above all the chief of the most brilliant and best organized army.

"In 1888 the emperor said he would sacrifice 18 army corps and 42,000,000 inhabitants rather than give up a single stone conquered by his father. Two million dead are more than 18 army corps.

"The emperor always has asked for great patriotic sacrifices from his subjects. It now is for him to show his spirit of sacrifice and to withdraw. He would thus permit the German people to obtain better peace terms."

"AIRPLANENECK" DELIGHTS LOS ANGELES CHILDREN

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—A new "disease," alarming to parents because they thought it was the mumps, but quite enjoyable to childish victims because it kept them out of school, has been diagnozed here as "airplaneneck."

In various sections of southern California where there are several government aviation and balloon scchools, the "disease" made its appearance with children as the principal sufferers. Swelling of glands in the neck caused parents to believe their offspring to have the mumps. Physicians, however, soon diagnozed it properly as the result of looking up at the many airplanes and balloons which continually dot the sky.

Since the way the "disease" was caught was by looking at airplanes and balloons, physicians promptly declared the way not to get it was not to look at them or, if one were unable to resist, to lie on one's back while looking.

GRASSHOPPERS CLOG AUTO

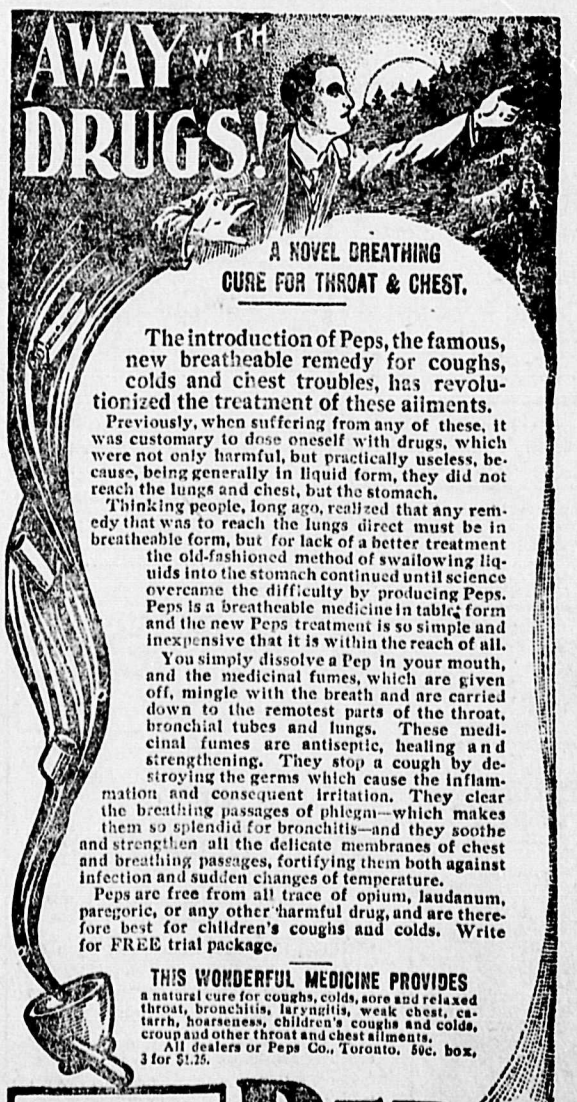
MUNCIE, Ind.—When Rollin H. Bunch, mayor of Muncie, and a party of city officials were completing a tour of the city's suburbs the other day, the mayor's car stopped and an investigation revealed that the machinery had been clogged with grasshoppers. More than two bushels of the insects were removed before the machine proceeded. The insects had been drawn into it by the engine's suction.



The introduction of Peps, the famous, new breatheable remedy for coughs, colds and chest troubles, has revolutionized the treatment of these ailments.

Previously, when suffering from any of these, it was customary to dose oneself with drugs, which were not only harmful, but practically useless, because, being generally in liquid form, they did not reach the lungs and chest, but the stomach.

Thinking people, long ago, realized that any remedy that was to reach the lungs direct must be in breatheable form, but for lack of a better treatment the old-fashioned method of swallowing liquids into the stomach continued until science overcame the difficulty by producing Peps. Peps is a breatheable medicine in tablet form and the new Peps treatment is so simple and inexpensive that it is within the reach of all.

You simply dissolve a Pep in your mouth, and the medicinal fumes, which are given off, mingle with the breath and are carried down to the remotest parts of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. These medicinal fumes are antiseptic, healing and strengthening. They stop a cough by destroying the germs which cause the inflammation and consequent irritation. They clear the breathing passages of phlegm—which makes them so splendid for bronchitis—and they soothe and strengthen all the delicate membranes of chest and breathing passages, fortifying them both against infection and sudden changes of temperature.

Peps are free from all trace of opium, laudanum, paregoric, or any other harmful drug, and are therefore best for children's coughs and colds. Write for FREE trial package.

THIS WONDERFUL MEDICINE PROVIDES a natural cure for coughs, colds, sore and relaxed throat, bronchitis, laryngitis, weak chest, catarrh, hoarseness, children's coughs and colds, croup and other throat and chest ailments.

All dealers or Peps Co., Toronto. 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.

NEARLY 500 ATTEND HOSPITAL OPENING

Nearly 500 persons attended the commemoration of the opening of the new Kootenay Lake General hospital last evening. Throngs of persons crowded the halls and wards and admired the up-to-date building. The hospital was officially opened by Dr. W. O. Rose, M.P.P. It was expected that Premier John Oliver would arrive to open the new building but he failed to arrive.

The opening speeches were heard in the women's public ward, which was decorated with flags. The hall was crowded with listeners as J. A. Irving, president of the hospital board, took the chair and after a few opening remarks relative to the work of the directors and the cooperation they had received from the citizens of Nelson, called on William Irvine, chairman of the building committee.

William Irvine Speaks

Mr. Irvine paid a tribute to the Womens Hospital Aid society for the important share they had borne in the erection of the new building. He praised the work of the matron, Miss McCallum, and the nursing staff for their work in connection with the building. Mr. Irvine said he felt sure the directors would continue to receive the hearty support of the citizens of Nelson which had been shown in the past.

The chairman explained that Dr. Borden had sent his regrets at not being able to attend and called on George Johnstone, who had been secretary of the board since 1901 and who was largely responsible for the success of the undertaking. Mr. Johnstone gave figures to show the importance of the project and explained that every dollar of the money spent on the building had been subscribed by citizens of Nelson and district.

Dr. W. O. Rose Speaks

In opening his remarks, Dr. Rose said that the occasion of the opening was one of the happiest moments of his life. The opening of the new hospital marked a new epoch in the medical history of Nelson. For many years it had been considered impossible to erect a hospital which would be in keeping with the city and which would meet the requirements of the district. The new building was a fitting monument to the enterprise and philanthropy of the citizens of Nelson. A visiting doctor from Vancouver had remarked that Nelson had its nerve to build such a modern and up-to-date hospital during war time. The speaker said that it was a happy thing for Nelson that her citizens had the nerve. It took nerve to accomplish things in the present day. The boys overseas had gained their unparalleled record with nerve.

Dr. Rose said that he considered the Nelson district hospital would be a much more suitable name than the Kootenay Lake hospital as the original purpose of the institution had been exceeded and the hospital now did service to the whole district.

Dr. Rose said that on behalf of the medical staff of the city he could assure the board of the hearty support of the doctors. He felt assured that the nursing staff under the present matron would make a success of the hospital and be a wonderful aid to the directors in carrying on the work of the building. He paid a further tribute to the matron and the nursing staff for their work in raising money for the present building and thanked those who had furnished the special wards. It had been the cooperation of everyone which had made it possible to erect a $110,000 building with only $16,000 of a debt.

Dancing and games occupied the remainder of the evening and everyone appeared to spend an enjoyable evening.

RED CROSS SOON GETS INFORMATION

DENVER, Colo.—It took the headquarters of the Rocky Mountain division of the American Red Cross less than two days after its aid had been sought, to raise a cloud of anxiety and suspense that had hovered over the home of C. W. Wells of Denver for three months.

Well had received an official communication three months before we went to the Red Cross that his son, Horace, an aviator, had been seen to fall behind the German lines. The family was unable to ascertain whether he had been killed or injured by the fall. No word was obtainable other than he had disappeared.

The father asked the help of the Rocky Mountain headquarters in getting more definite word of the fate of the young aviator. The headquarters at once made use of the organization communication service. The next day the headquarters had a message for the father. It contained just three words, but that was enough to bring joy to the Wells home. They were: "Son well—uninjured."

The communication service found the flyer in a prison camp at Karlsruhe.

TEACHERS SLEEP ON FLOOR ENROUTE TO HONOLULU

HONOLULU, T. H.—Twelve young women school teachers who arrived here recently from the mainland to take positions in the territorial schools made the seven-day steamer trip without a stateroom. Their community sleeping apartment was one of the social halls with mattresses on the floor. Lack of better accommodations was due to the shortage of passenger ships and the teachers hold the kaiser personally to blame for their discomfort. They made the best of the situation, however, and won the praise of the ship's officers by their good spirits throughout the voyage. They called their dormitory "Canary Lodge."

MASSED SINGING POPULAR AT U. S. TRAINING CAMP

FORT BLISS, Tex.—Massed singing has taken hold of the men in training here. At the stadium, out under the stars at night after the drills and other duties have been completed, the young American fighting men sing as they never sang before enlisting. The troops sing by regiments, squadrons and troops. Each has a sing leader and the entire command is led by one or more singers who also direct the massed singing.

Often one regiment will compete against another in singing a camp favorite like "Katy" with all of its stuttering syncopations. Again the north half of the massed formation will sing down the south. Prizes are offered for the best singing units and the foreign training officers award these prizes. Many volunteer sing leaders from the city come out to assist in the sing-songs. These sings always close with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" and the generation of soldiers will be able to sing the national air from end to end without mumbling their words.

MRS. DE PENCIER ADDRESSES WOMEN

Vice-President Tells of Triennial Meeting—Rev. F. H. Graham Speaks of Synod

After opening the missionary meeting in St. Saviours parish hall on Thursday afternoon with prayer, Rev. F. H Graham gave a talk on some of the features from the missionary point of view at the general synod held in Toronto. He mentioned the prominent part taken by the laymen at the assembly and said that 1920 was remarkable in church history as being the centenary of missions in western Canada.

Mrs. Applewhaite was in the chair and Mrs. DePencier, vice-president of the Dominion board of womens auxiliary of the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada, read a report of the triennial meeting held in Winnipeg, at which she said the keynote of the meeting was optimism and faith. It was resolved to make an enormous and prayerful effort to double the membership and keep the members interested in the work of the auxiliary. Mrs. DePencier said that the call of the churchwas supreme and whatever was done for the boys should be over and above the church work. The need for missionaries was very great. The work being done among the orientals in Vancouver was encouraging and offered great opportunities not to be neglected. Prayer was the great weapon and prayers must be unselfish and intercessory. Most of the great military leaders were men of prayer, notably Gen. Allenby and Gen. Byng.

In closing her remarks, Mrs. DePencier said that social service was becoming part of the womens auxiliary work, but at present had only been lightly taken up.

A vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. DePencier for her interesting address. The meeting was closed with the Benediction followed by the singing of the National Anthem.
