CONSIDERS RECONCILIATION IMPOSSIBLE BETWEEN IRISH NATIONALS AND SINN FEIN

Dillon Declares Party Will Not Consent to Program and Methods of Sinn Fein; Many Who Voted at Last Election Have Changed Minds, but Change Not Sufficiently Widespread; Pitt and Castlereagh Act of Union Swept Away as Miserable Failure; Prisoner Under Escort Escapes From Auto.

DUBLIN, Feb. 1.—John Dillon, chairman of the Nationalist party, in response to an invitation from United Irish League supporters in Scotland to attempt a reconciliation between that body and the Sinn Feiners, says such reconciliation would be impossible except by adopting the program and methods of the Sinn Feiner, to which he and a large body of Nationalists would not consent.

Mr. Dillon declares he believes many who voted for the Sinn Fein at the last election have changed their minds and regret it, but that the change is not sufficiently widespread.

"The outlook just now is dark enough, but I am a pessimist," he said. "The work of the past 40 years cannot be undone. The act of union is dead; the settlement of Pitt and Castlereagh, which kept Ireland in misery and rebellion for 120 years, now by universal consent, has been condemned as a miserable failure and swept away."

Mr. Dillon said that he and the members of his party will not assist the government in its efforts to impose its home rule act as a settlement.

Breaks Arrest

DUBLIN, Feb. 1.—Vincent Fouvardue, who is described as an important Sinn Fein prisoner, made his escape last night while the police were taking him from the Kilmainham prison to Dublin castle. The car in which they were making their journey was attacked on the way to the castle. The police jumped out and returned the fire of the attacking party, but when they again entered their car, they found their prisoner had vanished.

CHAMBER DECIDES AGAINST ECONOMY

Briand Cabinet Voted Down in Plan to Reduce Expenditure.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—The Briand government failed today to obtain compliance by the chamber of deputies with the government's economic program in its first parliamentary assault on red tapeism and extravagance. The effort was made by Finance Minister Doumer, when he opposed efforts made to raise the agricultural appropriation for regional offices from 15,000,000 francs, to last year's figure fo 2,280, 00 francs. The deputies insisted on a larger sum, however, and the ministers generally consented to the increase. Addressing the chamber, M. Doumer urged the utmost economy.

"The financial situation of the country," he declared, in giving his reasons, "is such that the budget, despite the efforts of the finance commission, does not balance even for normal expenses. This is the hour when the French nation must be saved from ruin. The phantom of bankruptcy confronts you, and you must quickly dissipate it. There is only one urgent necessity, and this is to bring such a situation to an end and save the state."

Honor Superannuated Engineer; Engrave Name in Gold on Old Engine

VERNON, B.C., Feb. 1.—W. F. Van Antwerp, for 35 years engineer in the service of the Canadian Pacific railway, and for 24 years on the Sicamous-Okanagan run, shoved in the throttle of his engine for the last time on Monday. Today he was superannuated.

A few years ago, in honor of his long and faithful service, the officials of the road had his name engraved in gold on the engine which he operated for the last ten years together with the railroad crest, Beaver and Maple Leaf. He has never injured a passenger or trainman, and he hauled all soldiers in and out of Vernon, where, during the war, there was a huge mobilization camp. He has had royalty in his engine cab. "Van" will now devote his attention to his beautiful garden at Okanagan Landing, where he has more than 150 varieties of roses, a garden which is known from coast to coast.

LOSES FIVE CHILDREN AND FATHER IN FIRE

ROCHESTER, Vt., Feb. 1. — Six persons were burned to death and four others badly hurt today in a fire that destroyed the shack owned by Henry Martell. Five of Martell's children and his aged father lost their lives. Martell, his wife and two other children were said to have a good chance of recovery.

Martell got up this morning to build a fire in the kitchen stove. When he started to pour gasoline ono the hot coals there was an explosion and flames shot through the room.

Before Martell could warn his father and children, who were sleeping upstairs, their escape was shut off.

FARMERS DIFFER ABOUT POLITICS

Promise Closer Cooperation Between Farmers and Fishermen.

FREDERICTON N.B., Feb. 1.—A difference of opinion regarding the advisability of the United Farmers of New Brunswick entering politics as a body was shown in the discussions on the opening day of the annual convention here. The other objectives of the organization were emphasized by some members, but other speeches indicated the hope of further political successes. Promises of closer cooperation between the farmers and the fishermen in achieving both political and economic ends were made when representatives of the fishermen's organization were heard.

Speaking tonight, R. W. E. Burnaby, president of the United Farmers of Ontario, said that farmers should advertise and create a demand for their products and then put them on the market at a profitable price.

W. B. Fawcett, M.P.P., was greeted with applause when it was announced that he would be the leader of the provincial farmers' party.

KRASSIN HOPES UNITED STATES WILL BE NEXT

Waits Transfer of Presidential Power to Harding; Stock for Export Needed.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Leonid Krassin, who recently returned to Mascow from London, where he acted as Russian Soviet trade commissioner, declared in an interview that it may supposed, after the conclusion of a commercial treaty between Russia and Great Britain, that the United States will enter into trade relations with Soviet Russia, although the tone of action in that country will only be made clear after the final transfer of the presidential power to President Harding, says a Moscow wireless dispatch today. Krassin, the message adds, pointed out the importance of creating a great stock of goods for export, on which he said the whole matter of Russian trade with the western countries depends.

ANACONDA ZINC REFINERY SHUTS

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Feb. 1.—The zinc refinery of the Anaconda Copper Mining company here was ordered shut down tonight by orders from Butte. The smelter, which is handling zinc residue, will close in about 30 days. About 500 men are employed in the two departments.

SEVERELY HANDLE THE FORDNEY BILL

Opponents Attack in Session; May be Side-tracked Today.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—With Senator McCumber, Republican, North Dakota, as its only consistent defender in the debate, the Fordeny emergency tariff bill went through another series of hard knocks in the senate today.

Whether the bill is to be sidetracked or its consideration continued under limitation of debate, will be decided tomorrow, when the Penrose resolution for closure comes up for a vote. The most ardent supporters of closure and of the bill admitted tonight that the defeat of the Penrose motion is inevitable. The vote on closure is set for one o'clock tomorrow, as all amendments must be submitted before that time and there was a deluge of proposed amendments today. Opponents of the measure today stressed the argument that its passage increased the cost of living in the United States.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, declared that the bill, if passed, would mean an additional tax of $50 per family.

Senator Simmons, Democrat, North Carolina, said that under the bill, the United States would be taxed something like $300,000,000 by the rate of 40 cents a bushel on wheat. Of all the items covered by the measure, the added tax on the people would be higher than $1,000,000.

Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, said that retaliation and resentment from Canada and South America would follow enactment of the bill.

SASKATCHEWAN GRAIN GROWERS HEAR CRERAR

Reviews Canadian Political Outlook; Farmers Entry Into Movement.

OPPOSES RETALIATION UPON UNITED STATES

Incidence of Taxation Must Bear Evenly on Whole Population is Dictum.

MOOSE JAW, Feb. 1.—The Saskatchewan Grain Growers' association enthusiastically endorsed the leadership of Hon. T. A. Crerar in federal politics, following his address before the session of the annual convention held tonight. The resolution endorsed promised the support of the association to the new national policy of the farmer associations in federal politics and approved the choice of Mr. Crerar as leader.

MOOSE JAW, Feb. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Approximately 3000 delegates and visitors attended the night session of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' association, held here tonight.

Outlines Developments

Norman Lambert, secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture was the first speaker. He began by outlining the developments of the farmer movement throughout the Dominion.

By entrance into the federal political field he said they expect to attais economic reform through the new national policy, the underlying feature of which is the development first, of the basic industries. The fact that the price of grain fell faster and further than the price of any other commodity, contributed to this depression. The speaker quoted figures to show that in the last nine months of the fiscal year, out of total exports of $975,000,000, $550,000,000 was the surplus production of the farmers.

With regard to freight rates, he attacked the government for allowing the rate increase to go through. The tariff commission, he characterized as a "passing show," noted for the "affable cynicism and polished sarcasm of its chairman."

Hon. T. A. Crerar received an ovation, as he rose after the chairman, J. H. Malhlberg, president of the association, and referred to him as the next premier of Canada. Delegates gave him three cheers and a tiger. In commencing his address, he thanked the delegates for the reception tendered him. His subject was "the Canadian political outlook," and he began by reference to the development of the farmers' association in politics and paid tribute to pioneers in the movement.

The government activities in regard to immigration amount to very little, he declared. A different policy must be followed and emigrants who can go on the land should be encouraged.

Immigrants, he continued, must be taught the principals of good citizenship and past practices must be stopped. Standards, he said, must be raised and he added:

"We don't want any more War-Times Elections acts."

Discussing the tariff, he referred to the fallacy of the present government policy, which, while it tends to a self-cantained country, is advocated by a government which is sending its trade commissioners soliciting trade to all parts of the world.

Creation of artificial industries under protection has had the effect of creating combines and mergers and the promotion of over-capitalization, he continued, and cited as an example, the textile industry.

Implements of production must be freed from duty, he said, and there is no reason why. If they are efficient Canadian companies, they should not compete successfully in any market. The tariff has not developed the spirit of self-reliance in Canadian industries.

The adequate protective tariff of the present government will not be shaped because of necessary protection, but by the influence that will be exerted upon it by these who desire protection, he declared.

Retaliation because of trade relations between Canada and the United States resulting from the war, will do no good, he warned. Canada should have representation at Washington, pointing out that while Canada has representatives in other countries, she has none in the United States.

Revenue must be raised and the task is to shape the incident of taxation so that it will bear evenly on all the population. Economies must be introduced into public administration, he held, and the expenditures must be kept within the incomes.

Y., from 48 cents an hour to 33 and 30 cents; section hands of the Ohio region of the Erie railroad, from 48 cents an hour to 35 and 28 cents, and of unskilled labor from 48 1-2 cents to 30 cents.

Department of Mines Removes Control Over Price of Inland Coal

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The department of mines announces that all controlled prices on the distribution of inland coal will be removed on March 1. The only restriction which will remain on export coal is where it is probable there will be a deficiency for the home supply.

The Dills are the third team to leave here within the past two weeks on a trans-Pacific continental hike, promoted by the Halifax Herald. PETERBORO, Ont., Feb. 1.—All five candidates in the federal byelection in West Peterboro are working hard in order to cover as much ground as possible by the end of this week, as the voting will take place next Monday. Meetings are being held afternoons and nights in various parts of the riding, and special attention is being paid to the rural vote, which is said to total over 4000. Speakers from eastern and Western Canada, from Montreal to Vancouver, are taking part in the campaign which is one of the most interesting in the political history of the country.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 1. — Formal leave was granted by the appeal court here today to Thomas Kelly and Sons, contractors, to appeal to the privy council against the judgment handed down against them in connection with the construction of the provincial parliament buildings. The security was fixed at $1,000, to be paid into court before March 1, 1921.

Kelly's appeal and the cross appeal will likely be heard cojointly before the privy council some time next September.

OIL EXPLORATION BECOMES GENERAL

Not Restricted to Northwest and Peace River; Leases Taken in Many Sections.

EDMONTON, Feb. 1.—The interest in oil claims is not restricted to the Northwest Territories and the Peace River country. Activity is general in many parts of the province and leases are being taken in many sections previously approved by geologists.

According to the returns issued by the Dominion land office in Edmonton today, 50 applicants during the past month blanketed 8,800 acres in the territory under the jurisdiction of the local department and paid in revenue to the government to the extent of $13,653 for the rental of their holdings.

Seventy-five per cent of the total holdings granted during the past month were for petroleum and gas rights in the neighborhood of Irma, about 100 miles east of this city on the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway. The remainder was in the Brazeau forest reserve west of this city, in which territory a considerable amount of interest has been manifested during the past few weeks and since the property was authorized by the government to be thrown open. A considerable number of oil claims have also been made in the Birch Lake district, in the Innisfree neighborhood.

Develop Pouce Coupe.

EDMONTON, Jan. 1.—The development of the prospective Pouce Coupe oil field, northwest of Peace River, is being undertaken by the Imperial Oil company without delay.

An extra heavy standard drilling rig, capable of going down 4,000 feet, is being shipped by rail to Spirit river and will be freighted by teams to the oil field on the snow.

BERLIN PRESS WAILS OVER REPARATIONS; SOUNDS NOTE OF DESPAIRING IMPOTENCE

Allies' Conditions Spell Economic Ruin, is General Burden; Powerless to Oppose "Victory Madness," Does Not Advise Cabinet; Show Animosity to Tax on Exports; Leaves Germany Plaything of Extremists, Say Conservative Organs; Only Great Britain Profits by Arrangement; Means Perpetual Slavery, Says Vossische Zeitung.

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—The Berlin newspapers are as one in voicing the opinion that the reparations conditions as laid down by the allies supreme council in Paris, sound the economic ruin of Central Europe, including France, Belgium and Italy. The press, however, does not presume to advise the cabinet as to its course in this crisis, reaching its own conclusion, as one of the newspapers expresses it, that Germany is powerless to oppose this "victory madness."

Some of the conservative organs, discussing the probable effects of the conditions, suggest that they would leave Germany a plaything to the extremists.

Some newspapers, in their comment, display particular animosity against the provision for a 12 per cent tax on German exports. This proviso, Vorwaerts declares, "Will, in five years' time, force the world to desire free trade

The plan, as a whole, the Vossische Zeitung declares, means perpetual slavery for Germany. It casts a cloud over the European situation, engenders new hatreds and opens the way toward open revolution, it insists.

Only Great Britain would profit by the arrangement, this paper thinks, but the Tageblatt does not agree with this, saying that on the other hand.

"Lloyd George has betrayed the interests of the British people."

Formulate Counter-Proposals

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—Dr. Walter Simons, the foreign minister, declared in the reichstag today that the German government would refuse to negotiate on the basis of the entente decisions regarding reparations and would formulate counter-proposals. His proposal was supported by all the party leaders except the Communists, who jeered him when he concluded speaking.

Dr. Simons said the German government was unable to either refuse or agree to participate in the forthcoming London conference because it had not yet been invited to send representatives.

Dr. Simon's declaration of the German government attitude consisted of a lengthy criticism of the terms, and concluded as follows:

Not having received as yet, an invitation to the London conference, the German government cannot accept or refuse to participate in it, but declares in the meantime that it refuses to negotiate on the basis of the entente's decisions, and that it will formulate counter-proposals.

The reichstag was well filled, but only a few persons gathered outside of learn the government's decision. Dr. Simons defended the vagueness of his proposals at Spa on the ground of many factors making for uncertainty. He described the entente note as the hasty outcome of difficult negotiations.

In a brief allusion to disarmament, he promised that the German government would loyally carry out its obligations and would put itself into communication with the various states of the empire on this subject. He then entered into a long disquisition on reparations.

Will Evade Invitation

Dr. Simons, the German foreign minister, defining the attitude of the German government on reparations, according to the Berlin correspondent of the London Times, declared that the question whether delegates would be sent to London was dependent upon whether the entente regarded their decisions in the light of proposals and objected to counter-proposals in the negotiations at London, or whether the Paris decisions constituted conclusions on which there could be no discussions.

"The government would evade an actual invitation to London.

FORMER SPEAKER KEEN, NEW CLERK OF HOUSE, WILL ADVISE SUCCESSOR

VICTORIA, Feb. 1.—John Keen, former speaker of he British Columbia legislature, who was defeated in Kaslo, in the last election, has been appointed clerk of the house to succeed the late Christopher Fell, K. C.

P. O'Hara is to be sergeant-at-arms, M. G. McLeod, is to be deputy sergeant-at-arms and Henry Hearn, assistant sergeant-at-arms, Knox Courtney is re-appointed law clerk of the house.

Announcement of these sessional appointments was made today by Hon. J. D. MacLean, provincial secretary. Announcement of minor sessional appointments will be made in a couple of days.

Mr. Keen will live here during the session only.

"I live in too good a country to move from Kaslo," said Mr. Keen today.

One feature of the appointment is that Mr. Keen sitting to the side of the throne of the house will be able from his experience to help break in the new speaker and give counsel in the ways of the legislature.

"Yes, I'll be able to give her lots of advice," said Mr. Keen. "I'll be able to tell her lots of little things."

Seargant-At-Arms Sheds Frills

Sergeant-at-arms O'Hara opened his offices today and started his assistants at work preparing for the ceremonies of the opening.

There will be no frills at this session. The uniform of the sergeant-at-arms of early days is gone for good from the British Columbia legislature. Last year the long coat tails were cut off and when the dignitary made his appearance to usher in the lieutenat-governor, he looked as if he were ready for business. This year the sergeant-at-arms will follow the precedent of last year and wear a plain black Irish sack suit with black shoes. There will be no spats or anything like that.

QUEENSLAND LOAN FAILS

Anticipate State Will Now Compel Subscriptions for Domestic Issue.

BRISBANE, Queensland, Feb. 1—(By Canadian Associated Press—The Queensland domestic loan of £2,000,000 has failed of flotation, and the parliament of the state will probably be asked to adopt compulsory subscription to the loan.

Following the unsuccessful attempt of the Hon. E. G. Theodore, premier of Queensland to raise a loan to the above amount in London last year, owing to the action of the Queensland government in passing an act which violated the contracts under which the crown pastoral leases were held, the premier stated that the money would be raised from private resources by money of a voluntary loan if companies subscribed it; if they did not, the government, he said, were determined to have it nevertheless. It would now appear that the London capitalists and companies owning property in Queensland are to be compelled to subscribe to a local loan, since the voluntary attempt to raise it has failed.

NEW ENGINE FOR PLANES PASSES TEST

Opens Up Possibilities of Regular Trans-Atlantic Flights Within Day.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The successful testing of a 1000 horse power aero engine, which is said to be the most powerful known, has opened up claims by experts of the possibility of a regular London-New York aerial service and a complete passage within 24 hours, either direct or by changing air craft at the Azones Islands.

It is being recalled by the experts that Capt. John Alcock in 1919, flew from Newfoundland to Ireland in less than 16 hours, using two 375-horse power engines. The new engine is called "the Cub". It was ordered by the Royal Air Force. It is understood that the Titantia, a flying boat destroyer, which is to be used in Long distance patrols will be equipped with two "Cubs" and have a range of 1500 miles. For war time, the crew will number 10 and for civilian use, the craft can accomodate passengers.

The Cub's 18 cylinder test indicated 1180 horse power in 20 hours of running. The engine weighs nearly a ton and costs about £5000.

CUTTHROAT TROUT POOR MAN'S FISH

Capt. Hamer Would Give it Preference in Hatchery Work.

"It may be rank treason to suggest such a thing, in the opinion of the rod and gun fraternity, but the fish for the government to propogate, in order to achieve the greatest benefit for the people of this lake region in my opinion, is the cut-throat trout, rather than the Kamloops trout, of which everyone is so proud," affirmed Capt. J. N. Hamer, superintendent of the Gerrard hatchery, in conversation at the Hume yesterday afternoon.

"Let us propagate and distribute the Kamloops trout by all means," continued Capt. Hamer. "It is the sportsman's fish. But the fish the chief emphasis should be placed on, is the poor man's fish, the one he can cast a line for after the day's work is done. The cut-throat trout is a game fighter, and takes the fly well, and it is colder blooded and hardier than the rainbow, good as that is. It is indigenous to some Kootenay waters. Taking the province over, it cannot be beaten. When all is said and done, what we really want is that the stock of common game fish shall be brought to the point where the ordinary man may go out and catch a few trout, quickly and without undue expense."

Eyeing Station Views.

Capt. Hamer adheres to his well known views in favor of eyeing station. Merely a rough shed, with troughs, wire baskets to hold the eggs, and running water of a certain temperature, constitute the requirements. The eggs, obtained from fish netted in the adjacent creek, are brought to the eyed stage, when they become immune, compared with the green eggs, to injury. If placed in the streams in January, when fish and insect enemies are least active, the eyed eggs will remain dormant until the temperature rises to the required degrees for their development to the hatching stage.

In a state of nature, Capt. Hamer states, it is estimated that 1 per cent of trout eggs spawned survive to become fry, and some experts put their estimates at one-tenth of this figure. At an eyeing station, he states, 90 per cent of the eggs handled should reach the fry stage.

Owing to the special handicap the spawning "salmon" labored under last spring, before the 1700-foot log jam in the Lardeau river and the accompanying low water, the Kamloops trout fry hatched and liberated was not much in excess of 300,000, Capt. Hamer states. Young fish four and five months old were planted as follows: Mirror Lake, 12,000; Minnehaha creek near Cranbrook, 8,000; Baynes lake, 10,000; Silver springs, near Fernie, 7,500; Slocan waters, chiefly Bonanza creek, 20,000; Christina lake, 20,000; Trout lake bays, 250,000; Tenderfoot creek, in the Lardeau, 25,000; Canyon creek in the Lardeau, 15,500; Lardeau river, 48,000. The fish liberated in the Lardeau river enter Kootenay lake.

The spawning Kamloops trout absent themselves from Kootenay lake for an appreciable period, Capt. Hamer believes, from his personal observation. After spawning at the spawning grounds at the Gerrard bridge, the fish proceed up stream, to Trout lake, and spend a month or two there, recuperating. Then they return, via the Lardeau river, to the main lake again.

DRURY EXPLAINS BROADENING OUT

Government to Represent Not Only Farmers but be Real "People's Party."

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—Not for many a long day has there been such a crowd in the gallery at Queen's Park as were on hand today when Mr. Drury resumed his speech on the reply on the address from the throne. Dealing with questions of broadening out, the premier said that the government should represent "in a very real sense," not alone the farmer, but all classes and would broaden out "until it became not only a farmers' party, but in a very real sense the people's party."

"That has never been challenged and never questioned," continued the premier, "On that declaration I stand today. In these views I may be wrong. Other people are entitled to their opinions. Time alone will tell whether my vision is clear or obscure. This government will welcoe suggestions from all parts of the scure. This government will welcome brains in forming legislation. The government has no desire to shirk it's responsibility. We are ready to stand or fall by our administration record. We stand for public ownership of public utilities. We have given support to the hydro commission without stinting," said the premier.

Referring to the civil service, he said:

"We have appointed no men because of a particular political behouse. We want the best lief. We have appointed the best men for all positions."

Need Good Roads

The premier emphasized the needs for an elaborate scheme for good roads, but there must be every precaution taken to see that in building the roads the permanent surface was not put on until the foundation was ready. Premier Drury trusted there would be the same cooperation between members of the legislature as last session, when much good and valuable legislation had been made possible.

NATIONAL APPLE DAY SUGGESTED

Proposes Scheme to Popularise Canadian Fruits in Great Britain.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1. — (Canadian Press).—As a means of popularizing Canadian fruits in Britain, the proposal has been made that a "Canadian fruit week" be held next year, according to a report of J. F. Smith, fruit trade commissioner, to the department of trade and commerce from London. Mr. Smith also states that a national apple day may be held next year as a part of a general campaign of advertising.

Reporting generally on the condition of the apple market in Great Britain, Mr. Smith remarks that a large part of the consuming public could not afford apples at 14 to 20 cents a pound, the price prevailing. Under government control, the government practically certifies to the consumer that 10 pence a pound is a fair price, and retailers are charging that figure, though in some cases the profit runs as high as 90 per cent, according to the figures submitted by Mr. Smith in his report. The apples on which this profit was made were Golden Russets.

A note added to Mr. Smith's report states that the British ministry of food has removed all restrictions on the importation and control of fruit as from March 31, 1921.

TWENTIETH PARALLEL INTELLECT BOUNDARY

SHREVESPORT, La., Feb. 1.—Former Governor Pleasant, of Shrevesport an appointment of Governor Parker to the forthcoming state constitutional convention, has proposed a novel plan for ensuring suffrage protection, with guarantee of white supremacy, without limitations being directly specified as to race, color or sex.

Mr. Pleasant said today the proposed law would bar from the electorate that group of the world's inhabitants coming from the south of the twentieth degree of north latitude, which the former governor stated "is credited with none of the civilization of the world." Under this plan, the electorate would be denied to a whole geographical class on account of its "intellectual limitations," and would be confined to persons whose ancestors developed civilization, he asserted

Quebec Announcement of Complete Liquor Conrol Lowers Wholesale Price

MONTREAL, Feb. 1.—With the announcement that the provincial government would take complete control of the liquor traffic, handling it through retail stores and importing direct from distilleries, a noticeable decrease in wholesale prices has resulted. On Dec. 4, the very best brands of brandy were advertised at $35 to $40 a case. Yesterday, these same brands were advertised at $28 to $30 a case. Scotch whisky gin, Canadian whisky, in fact every kind of "hard" drink has been reduced in price by the wholesalers shipping to Ontario and other provinces.

Brings Action Against Dominion Express for Refusing Liquor Traffic

CALGARY, Feb. 1.—Seeking to upset the entire proceedings which led up to the order-in-council of the Dominion government prohibiting importation of liquor into the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Nova Scotia, action was commenced here today against the Dominion Express company, by the Gold Seal Ltd., a liquor warehouse firm. The case will be argued before the appeal court of Alberta next week and has been taken on constitutional grounds. The Gold Seal tendered three shipments of liquor today to the express company, one at Vancouver for shipment to Alberta for re-shipment, and two packages to customers outside the province. All three shipments were refused by the express company.

MOVE TO ESTABLISH EMPIRE WARRIOR DAY

KINGSTON, Ont. Feb. 1.—A cablegram has been sent by the Kingston branch of the Army and Navy Veterans' association to the Prince of Wales who is at the head of the movement, to have a Warrior Day in England on March 31, when every place of amusement is expected to give the receipts of one performance to the cause of the returned soldiers, requesting his royal highness to extend his patronage to a similar movement in Canada, which the Army and Navy Veterans' here are promoting. The veterans have also urged the Prince of Wales to encourage the idea of having a Warrior Day for the whole British empire.

KILLS WOMAN WITH AXE

MILFORD, Conn., Feb. 1.—Mrs. Joseph Cornark, 34, was murdered in her home in Old Gate Lane, this afternoon, by an unidentified man, believed to be a negro Policemen, firemen and neighbors quickly gathered and it is believed they had surrounded the murderer in a wood.

A posse was quickly formed and headed toward a wood nearby in Woodmount. The negro was said to be armed.

Robbery was apparently the motive for the crime. The murderer had evidently struck his victim on the head with an axe.

LEGISLATURE DEBATES CARPENTIER CONTEST

QUEBEC, Q., Feb. 1.—(Canadian Press).—The prospects of the staging of the Dempsey-Carpentier prize fight in the province of Quebec claimed the attention of the legislative assembly this afternoon when Brig. General Smart, member for Westmount, was informed by Premier Taschereau that no application had been received for permission to hold the big battle in the province of Quebec.

General Smart asked:

"In the event that no such application is made and the promoters proceed without permission, does the government intend to prohibit the fight?"

"The government will examine this point if it comes up," was the premier's reply.

The dispute concerning images in the Christian churches was most violent in Europe in the eighth and ninth centuries.

ERMUDA OPPUGNS VEGETABLE TARIFF

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(By Canadian Press).—Great Britain's little lf-governing colony of Bermuda, hich consists of a group of more an three hundred islands in the lantic, 640 miles directly southeast New York, and which is attract- g thousands of Canadian and Unit- States tourists for the winters th the fetching slogan, "Frost to owers in Forty Hours," is threat- ed with disaster in its agricultural terests by the pending emergency riff of the United States. This riff as planned imposes a duty 25 cents a bushel on potato im- rts, and 40 cents a bushel on on- ns, both of which products are own in the Bermudas and are the lands' principal crops.

Appeal to Washington

The Bermuda government when st word of the new tariff reached immediately dispatched its direct- of agriculture and a member of agricultural board to Washing- n, in an endeavor to have Bermuda eved of the proposed duties. Sir ckland Geddes, the British am- ssador, received the Bermudan rep- entatives and has placed their e before the department of state submission to the finance com- tted of the Senate to which the ergency bill was referred by the ate after its passage by the house representatives. While the tariff designed to protect the farmers of United States from importation potatoes from Canada and onions m Spain and Egypt it would op- te against these products from rmuda.

The Bermuda potatoes and onions grown almost exclusively for the w York city market which they ch in midwinter when no other sh potatoes and onions are on the rket. The farmers of Bermuda ve put their capital in the present owing crops and fear imposition of tariff would be disastrous to any of them.

Should the present emergency tariff l fail of passage in the senate, ere there is much opposition from the Democrats, the Bermud- s would be able to market a large rtion of their crop in New York fore the subject of tariff again is ken up by the extraordinary ses- n of congress, which probably will gin early in March after Mr. arding is inaugurated. The Ber- udians plan to seek relief from ties on their products when that l comes before congress.

ENRICHED ZONES IN THE SLOCAN CONTINUE TO UNKNOWN DEPTHS

Mr. Winstead States They Should Govern the Search for Ore Bodies at Depth; Whitewater and Rambler Typical Instances; Whole Mountain Chain Has Been Eroded Down Two Miles.

Writing from Seattle to Fred A. Starkey, commissioner of the Associated Boards of Trade, W. R. Winstead, the well known Slocan mining man and veteran prospector, discusses the permanence of the Slocan metalliferous deposits, and some of the well marked features of the Slocan deep mines.

In his letter Mr. Winstead says:

Should Consider Rake.

"With reference to the productivity of metalliferous mines at depth, as expressed in opinion in letter written you last spring and given wide publicity through the Daily News, I take occasion to reiterate and emphasize again those conclusions, the result of 40 years' experience and observation in many mining camps, supplemented by surveys as to experiences and observations of various lifelong miners and engineers whose achievements have been noteworthy. All these confirm my oft expressed belief that the reason so many mines die out at shallow depths is the failure of mine managers to take into practical consideration the rake of their enriched zones, in planning their deep levels, particularly crosscut tunnels.

"Where valuable ore bodies have been left on or near the surface by 'Old Father Time'—the miner per excellence of all the ages—with his crude method we term erosion, there is the deduction that had he been permitted to continue his shift a few more centuries before man intervened, all this ore would have been wasted, and other bodies as important exposed to view, by this old prodigal. Bancroft and Robinson, geologists late in government employ, agree Slocan mountains have eroded down two miles. Divide this by four, to be conservative, and agree that erosion has mined out the veins with their numerous ore deposits to a depth of 2,460 feet.

"Is it conceivable that your Twentieth Century miner has taken a hand just at the moment when 'Old Father Time' has about finished the job? Can you conceive a more preposterous idea than that? And yet this is what our pessimistic friends would have us believe when they say: 'Slocan ore doesn't go down.'

Limit To Enrichment not Known.

"Continuous metalliferous ore bodies for great distances in the earth's crust are practically unknown. In the Slocan not one has yet been found, nor are they essential to profit-taking. But that the enriched zones, in which the bunches, lenses, and shoots occur, are continuous to as yet unkown depths, is an established fact.

"I might compare these zones to the channel of a river in the desert, wherein the water is in plain sight in places, whereas in others it sinks and is lost to view, but continues just the same on its march to the sea, and if intelligently sought, can be found again in great abundance. Just so with the ore in our veins. When we lose it by a fault or its its failure to precipitate at all points for whatever reason, let us follow the earmarks, whatever they are, on its arke, and dig it in again better than ever.

"In the Slocan we have two main vein systems, with many spurs and variations, the east-and-west system, of which the Whitewater is typical, and the north-and-south system, of which the Rambler is a well known type. In these, the rake of the former is to the east, and that of the latter to the south, at from 30 to 35 degrees, as proven by stopes, plans, etc.

"Where outcrops of ore occur in north-and-south veins high on slopes with southern exposure, it is likely erosion has taken care of the ore to a large extent in that particular zone. In an east-and-west vein, as the Whitewater, with surface ore on eastern slope, erosion has undoubtedly removed a vast tonnage of ore, but this should not be true when the zone enters the next mountain on its rake eastward.

Nine Producers on One Vein.

"I am not one of those who adhere to the belief that only one enrichment is to be expected in a vein. On the contrary I know of at least one that has made nine important producers, with its many barren zones as well.

"The point I desire to drive home is that when you find one pay zone, stay with it, at least till you have accumulated a sufficient reserve to afford a search for others.

"With most operators, mining capital is too limited for extended prospecting the veins, and if failure results from such deficiency the property and district receive a black eye difficult to cure."

WILL ADD PORTABLE BOXING RING TO GYM

Mitt artists of the Y. M. C. A. boxing club were delighted to learn Monday night that a portable ring is soon to be added to the equipment of the gymnasium for their especial benefit. Physical Instructor Griffith Morris in collaboration with Maurice Stanton and W. Kettlewell drew up the plans and specifications and will get to work on the lumber immediately. The ring proper is to be an all rope affair, 16 feet by 16 feet, strung from uprights on a wooden platform 18 feet by 18 feet. It will be a takedown affair capable of being erected for use in about 20 minutes and will be set up at such times as it is desired to coach the boys along in ring technique.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a 16-oz. bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make 16 ounces—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

DR. AULD WRITES OF THE FAMINE

Letter Received by Dr. Rose States Children Are Being Sold for Pittance.

Children in the North China famine area may be bought for $2 or $3 apiece, and suicide is epidemic there, according to a letter received by Dr. W. O. Rose, M. P. P., from Dr. Fred M. Auld, of the Canadian Presbyterian Mission hospital, at Weihwei, Honan, China. Dr. Auld was formerly of Grand Forks, and Mrs. Auld was a Nelson girl.

Describing conditions in the stricken territory, Dr. Auld says in part:

"There is a large area in North China this year suffering from famine. The latest estimate puts the destitute at 15,000,000. This immediate district is not so bad as farther north, but there is a good deal of suffering even here. Large sums of money are being raised wherever possible. A few days ago we cabled the Canadian government asking for $1,000,000, to be sent care of the British minister in Peking. As the weather gets colder the suffering becomes more acute and will continue so till the end of May, when the next crop will be harvested.

"From certain areas suicides are reported with great frequency—poison, jumping down wells, etc. Children are being sold for $2 or $3 each. Often young girls in this way end up in the brothels.

"You no doubt see a great deal in the papers about the unrest in China. It is mostly political, and does not affect us here at all. In fact, one lives here with just about as much—or as little—concern over political problems as the average citizen does in Nelson. Famine conditions will make a difference in some parts this year, however.

Starving Robber Bands.

"Those of the Chinese who have means—and they are not a few—live in danger of being plundered, and perhaps murdered, by desperate characters, who, being without food, have formed roving bands of robbers. This applies more particularly to outlying places and mountain districts. We have nothing of it just here.

"It is to be feared that, as the winter advances, with the large numbers destitute, disease may rage, and so add to the difficulties and horrors of famine."

Dr. Auld states that the mission's new modern hospital is nearly finished, and that 35,000 dispensary patients were treated during 1920.

The letter started on its travels three days before Christmas.

Three minutes with potter's clay

As clay in the hands of the potter, so is newspaper advertising space in the hands of the merchant.

He can mould it, fashion it, and with it create a thing almost animate; to wit, a clearly written or pictured expression of his merchandise and of the personality of his store.

Few merchants have experienced the fascination of doing this, because they are too busy to cultivate the art of written expression.

Yet the art well repays the cultivation.

For example: Supposing you were told that for three minutes tomorrow, 20,000 people would gather to listen to you talk about your merchandise.

Supposing only five per cent of them were possible purchasers.

And you had just three minutes

You would think out very carefully in advance what you were going to say to them, wouldn't you?

You would make every sentence a graphic picture, and say it with all the force ananimation that you are capable of.

Well, then, the readers of this paper are your audience, your clay—and you are the potter. They are yours to talk to, not only for three minutes today, but for three minutes every day.

Isn't it worth while, then, to put all your skill and judgment into the preparation of your Daily Newspaper Advertising.

Public, Miners and Mine-owners All Benefit

British coal output for the year 1920 approximated 231,000,000 tons compared to 229,000,000 tons in 1919. During the five weeks from November 13 to December 18, which constituted a test period of output to determine the right of the miners to higher wages, the weekly production averaged 5,215,160 tons. This is at the rate of 260,758,000 tons annually, allowing for two weeks of holidays in the year.

On this basis of output British miners are entitled to receive during this month an increase of 1 shilling, 6 pence per day in addition to the 2 shillings per day granted in adjustment of the recent strike. The January wage rate, therefore, will be 3 shillings, 6 pence per day above the pre-strike wage, which averaged 18 shillings, 3 pence per day.

Whether the new rate will prevail after January depends upon output during the month. The recent adjustment with the miners provides for a review of production at the end of each four weeks after January 3, and regulation of wages according to excess of output above a rate of 246,000,000 tons annually. This plan of reviewing output and adjusting wages each four weeks will continue until a permanent scheme for regulation of wages is substituted. Such a scheme is to be submitted by the Mining Association and the Miner's Federation not later than March 31.

Increased production has gained the present increased pay for the miners because it furnishes Great Britain with a larger quantity of coal for export trade. Mine owners also benefit by being allowed to retain a large share of the excess profits.

What the Press Is Saying

A Sine Qua Non.

Unfortunately under the rule of Bolshevism, Russia is destitute and starving, physically prostrate and morally bankrupt, and wholly incapable, under the conditions its rulers have created, of exploiting the rich resources nature has placed at its disposal. Certainly, until good faith and straight dealing are recognized in high quarters at Moscow as primary requirements, co-operation, mutually advantageous or otherwise, cannot be looked for from the United States.—New York World.

A Mystery Solved at Last

We now know who won the war. It was Smith. There were 54,180 of him in the American forces. The United States War Department says that all the Smiths who served in the army, navy and marine corps would make fifteen regiments of a strength of 3000 each. When we count in the Smiths in our army we can estimate quite precisely who turned the scale against the Germans.—Liverpool Post.

The Man of the Hour

The chief trouble just now is the French fear that France may be cheated in the deal with Germany, that she may get less in the coming negotiations than she should get or could get. If French public sentiment sees in Briand the man who can be trusted to protect France from a bad bargain and who will be firm in the assertion of her rights, as well as sufficiently broad-minded to see the problem as a whole rather than as a narrow and temporary question, the existing confusion is likely to be smoothed out in a short time and the conference concerning German indemnities inaugurated under more encouraging auspices.—Baltimore Sun.

Efficient Housekeeping

By Laura A. Kirkman

ROUNDING OUT A LOW-COST MEAL WITH A DELICIOUS DESSERT

"Desserts are such a nuisance to make!" I have heard women say, or "My family has to be content with fruit for dessert; elaborate desserts are too expensive." And every time I hear one of these remarks I ask the speaker why she doesn't argue in this wise—that one can offer a plainer dinner if one has an elaborate dessert.

A delicious and popular dessert "rounds out" a plain meal and leaves the family contented. The housekeeper who has beets, cabbage, onions and carrots in her store-room, for instance, need not ask herself doubtfully if her family will be satisfied with these vegetables—if the dessert is a favorite one.

The following dinner menu illustrates my point; without the dessert this menu would be very unattractive

Corned Beef
Potatoes Cabbage
Coffee Steamed Chocolate Pudding with Creamy Sauce

Or take such a dinner menu as this one:

Cold Roast of Beef
Fried Potatoes Beets
Coffee Lemon Meringue Pie

What would this menu be without the Lemon Meringue Pie? The pie just "saves it". It would be flat and ordinary without a delicious dessert.

Yes, it pays for the housekeeper to master the art of making delectable "sweets". The following dinner desserts are all good ones, sure to be popular with almost any family: Chocolate Meringue Pie, Indian Pudding, Bread Pudding with hard sauce, Cottage pudding (with liquid lemon sauce), Chocolate steamed pudding with sauce, Lemon Pudding and Lemon Meringue pie.

I have recently given recipes in this column for all of these desserts except the following:

Steamed Chocolate Pudding: 3 tablespoons butter, 2-3 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 2¼ cups flour, 4½ teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt and 2½ squares unsweetened chocolate melted. Cream the butter, add the sugar to it gradually, working it in; add the egg well beaten, then the milk, stirring well. Next add the flour which has been sifted with the baking powder and salt. Last, add the melted chocolate. Butter a quart-size pail which has a tight-fitting cover (the mould must not be filled to the top, or else the cover will be forced off—as the pudding rises as it steams); now pour the batter into this pail or mould put on the cover (it's best to tie it on) and put into a large kettle of boiling water allowing the water to simmer around the mould for two hours. Serve hot with the following sauce:

Creamy Sauce: Cream ¼ cup of butter, add to it 1 cup of powdered sugar (or confectioners' sugar) together with ¼ cup of rich milk and ¼ teaspoon of vanilla. Beat until quite stiff.

If any of my readers have missed seeing the recipes recently given for the other desserts mentioned, above, I will be glad to send them to her personally upon receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

There would be less buying of canned goods and more eating of the simple and cheap vegetables if all housekeepers would learn to make really good desserts which their families would enjoy.

Tomorrow—Useful Things of Beauty for the Bride.

Life of a Patient at Tranquille

(By W. O. RYLETT)

It is reasonably safe to assume that very few people know what constitutes the daily routine of a patient in a tubercular sanatorium and in the hope that it may prove of interest, the following information is offered:

At Tranquille, 10 miles west of Kamloops the largest institution of its kind in British Columbia may be found The Canadian National Railway runs within a quarter of a mile of the sanatorium and there is also a regular auto service between Kamloops and Tranquille.

At the present time there are 120 returned men, and about 90 civilian patients of both sexes undergoing treatment.

The buildings consist of the main pavilion, which is used for female patients at one end and nursing staff at the other, the infirmary—recently completed, and the east and west pavilions, for male patients only.

There is also an administration building and an up-to-date lighting and heating plant.

In the main pavilion there are billiard and pool tables, and an auditorium for meetings and entertainments.

Daily Routine

"Up" patients rise at 7 a. m. and make their own beds, after which breakfast is served at 8 o'clock.

The first rest hour is observed from 9 to 10, after which those who are "on exercise" take the first half of whatever exercise is prescribed for them.

Exercise varies of course with the condition of the patient, and occupies from 11 minutes to four hours each day.

Dinner is served at 12:20, and afterwards there is a rest hour from 1 till 3; then the balance of the exercise for the day is undertaken.

Supper is served at 5.20, after which the last rest period is observed from 6.30 to 7.30.

At 7.30 any entertainment, such as moving pictures, concerts, or lectures is given, and patients retire at 9, lights out at 10.

The social life of a tubercular institution is of necessity peculiarly circumscribed, as excitement of any kind leads to a rise of temperature and a possible relapse.

Motion pictures are given every week, and at intervals, concert parties come out from Kamloops, and, as may be easily imagined, are greatly appreciated.

In addition there are concerts given by patients and members of the staff and some very creditable shows have been presented.

As there are a good many returned men undergoing treatment at Tranquille, the department of soldiers' civil reestablishment maintains a qualified instructor in wood work, and two lady instructors in bead work, basketry and embroidery.

In the carpenter shop men are taught to make trays, tables reading lamps, picture frames, etc., and the time the boys are allowed to work is decided by the medical superintendent.

Mock Election

In January of each year a mock election for the office of mayor is held, and this is decidedly the most exciting event in the whole year.

All sorts of extravagant platforms are presented and the speeches are always the cause of much hilarity.

A returning officer is appointed, and the voting is carried on in the regulation manner.

Many cartoons are produced which are sold by auction after the election is over, and the proceeds go to the amusement fund.

Take the cure, is the slogan and those who do not observe this vitally necessary rule run a grave risk of being sent away from the sanatorium as there are those waiting on the outside who would gladly embrace the opportunity of treatment.

A sanatorium is essentially an educational center and absolute cleanliness in every way is insisted upon.

Particular stress is placed upon the care of the mouth and an effective wash is supplied, with instructions to use before and after each meal.

An abundance of hot water is to be had at all times, and patients become used to regular habits of cleanliness, which are bound to follow them into private life to their great advantage.

Meals are served to the "up" patients on the cafeteria principle, trays being taken from one end of a long counter and passed along in front of those serving out the food. After the meal, patients carry their trays with the used dishes to the washing up counter.

This method is quick, and although a recent innovation is finding favor.

Many comforts are supplied this, and similar institutions by the Red Cross, whose peace time program is altogether worthy.

ON OLD DAD'S POEM

Some time back in "The Daily News,"
I read a poem, "Old Dad."
All sympathy for Dad of course
And I got kind of mad.
Dad works? Why sure, that's what he is for
But I'll just go to law
With any man who claims that Dad
Has anything on Ma.

Now, Ma—she's workin' all the day
And half the night time too;
Pot-walloping and washin' clothes—
Indeed, Ma's never through.
When supper's over for the night
Dad sits him down to think,
And smoke his pipe—but Ma's out there
A'workin' at the sink.

Then, when the kids are put to bed
She's mending up some clothes.
How she can keep the gait a-goin'
The Good Lord only knows.
If Dad did half the work Ma does
You'd hear him cuss a mile.
But she just keeps a-peggin' on
And does it with a smile.

She does a thousand things each day
In carin' for the home.
That's why I'm boosting hard for Ma,
And knockin' old Dad's poem.
He has his points, I must admit,
But still its pretty raw
To hear them always boostin' Dad
And never boostin' Ma.

GOAT INDUSTRY STEADILY INCREASING

The continued growth of the goat industry in British Columbia, a growth indicating that the prophecy of the pioneers in the industry is being fulfilled was referred to by Mr. W. H. Cottrell, president of the British Columbia Goat Breeders' Association at the annual meeting of the body held at Vancouver recently. He asserted there was no doubt whatever but that the industry has come to stay and that in spite of many handicaps is making remarkable progress. Further, he said, British Columbia is far ahead of any other portion of the Dominion, and will maintain that position. Other provinces look to British Columbia for their stock and with the ideal conditions obtaining here for the raising of good goats there need be no fear as to the future. The trend is more and more toward keeping better stock, and members were striving to maintain their herds at a high level of quality, and by careful buying and breeding, feed and care, are making great progress. This was particularly in evidence at the various shows held during the past year, especially at the smaller local shows, which were of considerable value in intsilling a spirit of healthy rivalry and emulation.

ROUGH ON SING SING DUDES

OSSINING, N. Y., Feb. 2.—Silk shirts and cravats of barber pole design, occasionally used in the make up of some of Sing Sing's prison's flashy inmates, are condemned to exile in an order issued by Warden Lewes. The prison regulations as to dress have been violated recently to such an extent, it is said, that many of the roll call formations have made an appearance like a Mexican rebel army on parade. Every prisoner is to wear the full uniform of prison grey.

MOSQUITOS AID DRY GOODS

HACKENSACK, N. J., Feb. 2.—Determined to be distinctively individual New Jersey's mosquitos have started breeding already in preparation for an early spring drive on their usual objective human anatomy. Dry goods merchants predict a good season for mosquito netting.

Styles

BY LENORE

In their search for smartness but few women realize the importance of correct head-high and chest-out confident bearing, as compared to mere considerations of the cut and color of their clothes. Even an expertly fitted corset, and the most artistically proportioned gown, will fail to register smartness if grace, dignity and poise are lacking.

Of course the cut and shape of a dress are utterly important, but these depend in the type of figure. Taking the gown in the sketch for illustration, such an ornate tunic would swamp a wee mouse of a woman, but it is entirely in harmony with a tall woman. The matter of erect carriage, however, is essential regardless of size.

This is a French model made of silver birch gray Canton crepe embroidered in white, and is one of the most stunning gowns of the kind I have seen recently.

Daily Recipe

(Paste this in Your Cook Book)

Soft Cookies.

Place in a saucepan one cup of molasses and six tablespoons shortening. Bring to a boil and then add one teaspoon ginger, one and a half teaspoons cinnamon, and one half teaspoon all spice. Stir to blend, then take from fire and let cool, and add one egg, one cup sour milk, one teaspoon baking soda. Beat with a Dover egg-beater to blend and then add sufficient flour to make a soft dough that can be handled, usually about seven cupfuls. Form into balls the size of a walnut and flatten. Bake upon a greased and floured inverted baking pan in a moderate oven for about ten minutes.

HOW NATURE MAKES JEWELS

That the diamond is nothing but a piece of super-coal is known to many people. It is costly because rare and when cut it glitters wonderfully. The opal the diamond's rival, is literally nothing but silica (flint) and water. True it is that these two elements have been "cooking" for some thousands of years in Nature's crucible, and that the output is small. Hence the price. But the beautiful iridescent coloring is merely water and not "fire". The exquisite turquoise, with its soft blue color, is but phosphate of alumina (clay), and the copper in the earth is the color maker. But clay and copper crucibled in Nature's chemical laboratory produce the turquoise. The sapphire, Oriental ruby, and topaz, are but crystals of flinty earth. The sapphire's blue color is merely iron—one grain acting on 100 of alumina. The red of the ruby comes from the clay being acted on by chromic acid. The garnet and beryl are only compounds of flint and alumina with—for the making of the beryl—some earth called glucina, a sweet salt secreted by nature. The lapis lazuli is nothing but common earth saturated with sulphuret of sodium. All the above, and other precious stones could be made by the ton—if we had but nature's crucible. Water, clay, flint, sodium, are as cheap as dirt! It is the crucible we lack.

KICKLESS CIDER AS CHAMPAGNE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Thirsty citizens who buy bottles labeled "champagne" only to discover the contents to be "kickless" cider, have no legal redress, district attorney Laskey has ruled. Mr. Laskey says that any man who purchases champagne these days is a violator under the Volstead act and the law could not be invoked to aid in its own violation.

CANT PLEASE DEATH SQUAD

OSSINING, N. Y., Feb. 2.—James Blancho, chef extrabrdinaire, having failed to please the death house inmates at Sing Sing with his cooked to the Queen's taste" dishes, has quit the job. He used to serve in the cuisine of a New York hotel, and has a few days of a two years' sentence remaining. "Their remarks hurt my pride," he said, "I'll soon be out of here and back on a job where my art will be appreciated."

BOOTLEGGER SWALLOWS THE EVIDENCE

RICHMOND, W. Va., Feb. 2.—A police plot to capture an alleged bootlegger failed recently when Mrs. Mollie Richardson chewed up and swallowed the evidence, a marked $5.00 bill. "I'm Happy and Well now for I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription"

Thousands of women in this country have reason to speak as above. From every part of Canada women write Doctor Pierce at the Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., and do these:

PHIPPE, SASK.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cured me when all other medicines failed. The home doctors could do nothing for me. I happened to see Dr. Pierce's advertisement in the paper, sent for the medicine, and felt great benefit from even the first few teaspoonfuls that I took. I took but a few bottles until I was well. I cannot speak too highly of its merits."—MRS. JANET BROWN, R. R. 1

SPRUCEDALE, ONT.—"I am only too glad to tell you what Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done for me. I doctored three months, and the doctor said I would have to have an operation, but thanks to Dr. Pierce's medicine, I never felt better in my life than I have since taking the 'Prescription.' It surely is a woman's friend. I took the 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and also the 'Pleasant Pellets.' I was so weak and nervous I could scarcely do any work. That was eighteen years ago this summer, and I have never been troubled with the feminine trouble since."—MRS. JOHN W. HEWETT, Starrat.

LEADERS IN FOOTWEAR

THE PROLETARIAN AND THE WILL-O'-THE-WISP

The seed from which has sprung, Socialism, Communism, Bolshevism, I. W. W.-ism, Anarchism—call it by whatever name you will—was planted by the first man who worked only when he couldn't help it, but coveted the possessions of the man who worked energetically and saved.

There is nothing essentially new in the doctrine or the philosophy underlying all of these and kindred "isms"; the newness, if there be any, lies in the methods adopted by the advocates of the "isms" to mass power enough to force their theories upon the majority of mankind.

What is understood by the term "socialism" today (and we shall use this term generally for the purpose of this consideration of the subject, with the frank admission that we are not quite accurate in doing so) is simply a revival of one of the oldest phenomena in history. Yet even at its inception it was too late ever to accomplish its full purpose. The first advocate of what has developed into socialistic doctrines should have sat in with the Creator and persuaded Him to create a different sort of human nature. As socialism runs counter to human nature, as manifested throughout the ages, it never can be more than an alluring theory, a will-o'-the-wisp, always beckoning yet ever beyond the reach of the floundering pursuer. Until human nature is changed to meet its requirements socialism is practically impossible.

Socialism in Practice

In this effort to get down to bed rock on this subject and to put the proposition squarely before commonsense, thinking American citizens, we shall not deal with socialism as a theory but with the practices of those who are trying today to force the theory upon human nature as we know it.

The basic theory of socialism fairly may be stated thus: The joint ownership by all the members of the community of the instruments and means of production; which carries with it the consequence that the division of the produce among the body of owners must be a public act according to rules laid down by the community. In other words, socialism aims at the complete subordination of the individual to the community in which he lives.

In the United States there is only one way in which this change might be brought about lawfully, and that is through the free use of the ballot, which will give the uncoerced expression of the will of a majority of our citizenship. Any show of physical force of direct action or the force of inertia, either acting violently in mass to coerce the majority-will, or standing idle in mass to achieve the same object, is repugnant to our laws, our institutions and our National character. The will of the majority must be exercised through the ballot box. Reason must be the only persuasive weapon. Right must be the only consideration.

"Practical" Socialism Analyzed

By practical socialism we mean such evidence as we have in the United States today of efforts of a comparatively small minority (largely composed of irresponsible aliens) to destroy our existing political, industrial and social order. The objects sought are these:

1. Public or state ownership and control of all the material and instruments of production.

2. Communal, or state, control and direction of all the elements of industry and of distribution of products, including conditions and hours of labor, division of the fruits of labor, the amount of production, the quality of production, and, in a large degree, the individual possession of any surplus of the fruits of industry—whether as product, wages, profit, dividend, interest, or any other name by which the industrial over-supply may be known.

3. The organization of an "industrial democracy." We have a government "of the people, by the people, and for the people." Let us have industry " of, by and for the people."

4. The abolition of capital, interest, rent, and wages, as we now have them.

5. The complete subserviency of the individual, so far at least as his labor and the fruits of his labor are concerned, to the will of the community the municipality, the state or the Nation. The individual may not determine how much he will produce, what he will do with his product, or how much of the fruits of his own labor he will keep for himself and allow to accumulate for future need or use.

Human Nature As It Is

The foregoing five points constitute substantially the chief aims of socialistic agitation. Now, let us see what probability there is of the settled achievement of any one of them without at the same time violating or abridging any or all of the constitutional rights or privileges of American citizenship—that is, without the destruction of American democracy.

First, as to Human Nature: All recorded history, since the beginning of time, proves the following to be unchanging traits of human nature:

1. A universal trend toward complete individual freedom of thought, speech and action. This trend may be restrained through free and individual recognition of the equal rights and privileges of others—that is by a stronger desire to be fair, just and unselfish.

2. A universal desire for the full exercise of individual initiative; for the full play of individual ambition; and for the unrestricted liberty in following lines projected by initiative and limited only by ambition. This also, may be held in subjection, naturally, by individual recognition of the equal rights and privileges of others.

3. A universal desire for undisputed possession ("to have and to hold") of the fruits of individual thought and activity—that is, of labor.

4. A universal desire that individual labor and the fruits of individual labor shall be disposed of according to the wishes of the individual.

5. A universal desire to follow individual liking in the matter of labor; to store up the fruits of one's labor; over and above one's personal requirements; and to dispose of this store, or a part of it, to what one considers the best advantage.

6. A universal desire to be "let alone"—not to be hampered, or restrained, or limited, or forbidden, or commanded, or driven or crowded, or forced in any degree or in any manner whatsoever.

7. A universal desire for the possession and wielding of power, for the pomp and circumstance of position, for rank and title, for a place apart from the multitude, for leadership—that is, a universal individual leaning toward autocracy. This is, perhaps, the most pronounced and most persistent of all human characteristics; and if it were the only human-nature trait that socialism would have to suppress completely to put its theories into practice, it would be enough to make socialism, as preached by Marx and Engels and Proudhon and Berger and Hillquit (the socialism that would destroy individualism) practically impossible.

The foregoing are a few of the more noteworthy traits of human nature. They are inherent, intensely individualistic, unqualifiedly anti-socialistic, and not likely to change until human nature changes. If any one or all of these are not given full rein by any individual it is because of one of two reasons: Either the individual is compelled to restraint by superior physical force—which is autocracy; or he restrains these natural desires voluntarily through a still stronger desire to be fair and just toward his fellows, to put into practice the Golden Rule—and that is democracy. But the traits and tendencies are there all the while. Human nature has not changed.

The Effect of Natural Laws

Second, as to Natural Laws: Natural law is defined as a proposition which expresses the constant and regular order of certain phenomena, or the constant mode of action of a force. The expression of right reason or the dictate of religion, inhering in nature and man, and having ethically a binding force as a rule of civil conduct. The following may be set down as generally recognized laws of nature, as unchanging as the phenomena of human nature upon which they are based.

1. The law of self-preservation. This has been called "Nature's first law." It is the most intensively individualistic law known to man.

2. The law of labor. "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread." Nature decrees that nothing be taken from her and appropriated to the satisfying of our desires without labor—labor so exacting that it will make us sweat and keep us sweating even while we pause to eat.

3. The law of compensation. Nature itself is based on a system of compensations. Compensation is the counterbalance that maintains nature's equilibrium. For labor expended nature gives to the individual, by way of recompense, the exact equivalent of the mental and physical effort expended—no less, no more. The more effort, the greater the recompense; the less the effort, the smaller the recompense. Nature maintains an exact balance always between the labor applied to natural substances and the recompense for that labor.

4. The law of possession. By labor exerted upon any substance, in establish over that value, either in whole or in part, the right of property. Nature gives to the individual the right to use his lawfully acquired possessions as he pleases, and the right to dispose of them to whomsoever he pleases and for whatever he pleases.

5. The law of supply and demand. This law is designed to regulate the labor of man, in order that he may not produce wastefully, and that he may exchange his possessions (the surplus fruits of human labor) for the possessions or property of others in a way that will most fully satisfy his desires and place him in the way such manner as to give it value, we of enjoying the largest measure of happiness.

Natural Law is Individualistic

A glance will show that the Natural Laws we have named, and these are enough for our present purpose, are the furthest possible removed from socialism, or communism. They are unequivocally individualistic. They aim to preserve to conserve and to develop individual characteristics, ambitions, aspirations, abilities, capacities, tendencies and desires, and to protect the individual in the exercise of all of his inherent rights and privileges in the use and disposition of the fruits of all his activities, both mental and physical.

It also may be seen at a glance that the traits of human nature we have mentioned are distinctly individualistic.

As individualism is at the opposite pole from socialism, it must be obvious that before socialism can put its abstract theories into practice it must suppress, overthrow or entirely change both human nature and Natural Laws.

We do not believe that socialism ever can accomplish this, and so we are utterly opposed to the practical

The proposition of an extra boat in the fruit season and making the connection between Crawford Bay and Gray Creek and also the putting of the local roads into order so the ranchers can haul their produce to the wharf without damage was discussed and a resolution drawn up to put before the next convention.

GRAY CREEK NOTES

GRAY CREEK, Feb. 1.—Rev. J. S. Mahood held his usual service here and also baptised five small girls, Barbara and Gwennie Burge, Maisie Jones and Annie and May Adams while here.

A party of young people went to Crawford Bay hall to a dance on Wednesday and had a very pleasant time.

L. J. Oliver was into Nelson as a delegate to the convention.

Mrs. L. Clark had a merry skiing party last week at their ranch.

Mr. Jones has returned to town after a short holiday spent with his son-in-law, J. M. Burge.

THE DESPISED PRUNE

The humble prune came into its own during the war, like os many other common things. It had always been reckoned a wholesome food, and cheap, a byword in boarding schools and despised by young people. But when it became scarce and dear it seemed to become more desirable, or perhaps we took more care in its preparation. At any rate we are now glad enough to get prunes to eat; they look as good to us as they are good for us.

It is a good plan to buy four or five pounds of prunes and can them in a morning's work, to have them on hand. It is surprising how convenient they come in. Pick over, wash and soak the prunes over night, in plenty of water. Let them simmer until quite tender in the water in which they were soaked, for at least an hour; add sugar or molasses to taste, bring to a boil, and can hot in clean jars. If they are to be kept more than a month they must be put into sterilized jars and sealed, just like any other canned fruit. Use plenty of water on the prunes, to have plenty of juice. Everybody likes a good deal of juice with prunes.

These canned prunes can be used for dessert alone, or jellied, or in bread pudding. To jelly them, take a quart of prunes, remove the stones, which is easy and not wasteful after they are cooked; soak half a box of gelatine in half a cupful of cold water; heat the prune pulp to boiling point, add the juice of a lemon, dissolve the gelatine in it, and turn into a mold and chill. Serve with cream, plain or whipped.

For prune pudding, soak a cupful of bread crumbs in a cupful and a half of milk, stir in a beaten egg and a cupful of prune pulp from which the stones have been removed and bake half an hour in a buttered dish in a hot oven. Serve with cream or lemon sauce.

AMATEUR MAY RUN FOR MONEY

He has been appointed truant officer by the Belleville, N. J., Board of Education. His predecessor used an automobile in his work and resigned because of differences over gasoline bills.

TRADING LIGHT ON IMPAIRED VALUES

Dullest Session of Year; Narrow Turnover of Depressed Issues.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Dealings in the stock market today were chiefly noteworthy for their extremely light and narrow turnover, total sales of about 425,000 shares representing almost the dullest full session thus far this year. The sluggish movement was accompanied by a general impairment of quoted values, which extended from 1 to 3 points in the prominent issues, and rose above the range in several of the more speculative stocks.

Passing of the American Hide and Leather preferred dividend met with popular expectations in view of conditions in that industry, but there retention of the American Smelting common dividend probably upset the calculations of the shorts. Following yesterday's course, lowest quotations were registered in the final hour, the setback being concurrent with another rise in call money from seven to eight per cent, this encouraging the bears to extend their commitments.

All the leading rates of foreign exchange moved in favor of this center, the reaction from recent gains being attributed to dissatisfaction of European interests over the terms outlined by the reparations commission.

Weakness of industrials and liberty issues, especially the latter was the outstanding feature of the bond market, the general list, however, displaying a heavy tone.

Total sales $12,850,000.

Old United States coupon 4's rose half per cent on call.

TORONTO BOARD

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—Weak market prevailed on the Toronto stock exchange today. Chief of the changes was the continuation of a decreasing degree of the slump in paper stocks. The scaling down of one to four points on the papers had a depressing influence almost through the active list. Here and there a stock escaped, and some of the victory bonds made small advances. The sudden turn to weakness left traders and brokers in a condition of uncertainty. Besides the tendency to lower prices was the belief that higher taxation would come to the paper makers.

Toronto Railway was active, closing at 69. Brazilian advances to the extent of 1¾. Then came a long list of recessions, including Atlantic Sugar, both issues of Cement, both issues of Steamships, Dominion Canners, Steel of Canada and several paper stocks, including Riordan, which had a decided slump, Brompton, Laurentide and Spanish River.

Total sales—listed 2102; unlisted 2332; bonds $305,600.

A NEW YEAR CUSTOM

In some of the European countries Christmas is almost ignored save as a religious observance, while the festival of St. Sylvester or New Year's Eve is celebrated with great ceremony. One of the curious customs of St. Sylvester's Eve that obtain among the people of the Cevennes Mountains, in the south of France, is the blessing of the animals. A correspondent who has witnessed this curious and pretty ceremony, says of it: "It is not known that this custom is observed anywhere save among this primitive, credulous people of the hill country of southern France. The wealth of these simple people consists of their herds of cattle and every New Year's Eve they bring their precious animals to one of the little churches to be blessed by the priest, that they may be fruitful and multiply and bring prosperity to their owners throughout the year." The churches are often many miles apart and often the people have to drive their animals long distances that they may receive this blessing. People on the highways will be sure to meet herds of sheep, oxen, cows, goats and pigs being driven to the churches to receive the New Year's blessing. The animals have been prepared for the important ceremony by being washed very clean and brushed until their hair shines. Some of them will be decorated with ribbons and bright-hued paper flowers or gewgaws of some sort, and the animals are treated with the utmost kindliness and consideration. Of course the animals are not taken into the churches, but are massed together in front of the churches.

LONDON'S FAMOUS STREET

In the City of London there are many famous streets but Cheyne Walk has housed more distinguished men and women than any other London thoroughfare. Leaving out Sir Thomas More, and others, who lived on the site before it was laid out, we find among its inhabitants in the nineteenth centure alone, Holman Hunt, who painted there many of his best pictures! the great Turner, whose house remains today almost unchanged; Mrs. Gaskell, who wrote the biography of Charlotte Bronte; Rossetti, the poet-painter, who was the model for Holman Hunt's "Light of the World," which may be seen in St. Paul's Cathedral; Algernon Charles Swinbourne, the poet; Meredith, the novelist, who afterwards lived for thirty years at the foot of Box Hill; George Eliot, the authoress of "Adam Bede"; and Whistler, the famous artist, who found so much of his inspiration on the Thames, close at hand. It would be hard to find another street of equal length in any metropolis which could compete with it.

Had Bad Cough For Three Years

The constant hacking, racking, persistent cough that sticks to you in spite of everything you have done to get rid of it, is the kind that is dangerous.

The longer the cough sticks, the more serious menace it becomes to your health.

There is no remedy that will relieve coughs—coughs that won't let go—like Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

It has a healing and soothing action on the air passages, and at the same time acts as a disinfectant of the respiratory organs, destroying the germs that produce serious complications.

Mrs. John Miller, Minburn, Alta., writes:—"I had a very bad cough for three years. I went to several doctors and tried different cough medicines, but nothing seemed to help me. One day a friend told me about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after using several bottles I became completely relieved. I always keep a bottle in the house and also, recommend it to others."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has been universally used for over 30 years, and so great has been its success, it is only natural that a great many imitations have been placed on the market. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; 3 pine trees the trade mark; price 35c, and 60c a bottle; manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WOULD STOP SMOKING

WASHINGTON Feb. 2.—The president and even senators and representatives might have to take to the streets to enjoy cigar cigarettes or a pipe as an aid to statesmanlike reflection, if a bill offered by Senator Smoot becomes a law. It forbids smoking in government departments or any "independent establishment of the government" as a fire protection measure.

VANCOUVER MAN GETS SURPRISE

Fine Results He Got From Taking Tanlac Was More Than He Expected.

"It certainly is wonderful how quickly the right medicine will get a person to feeling right again," said A. Almanofsky, of 456 15th Ave., Vancouver, B. C., well-known motor mechanic for the Province Motor Co. "About a year ago I first noticed my stomach was getting out of order and I kept getting worse right along until I got to where I could hardly eat anything without suffering from indigestion. I couldn't eat much, sometimes the smell of food would make me so sick I couldn't eat anything, and when I did eat a little it just seemed to turn to gas. I had a burning sensation from the top of my stomach clear up into my throat, and the gas bloated me up until I could hardly breathe and raised a terrible pain in my side. I had headaches nearly all the time, sometimes was almost blind with them, and I was so nervous I couldn't get a good night's sleep. I always started my day's work so tired I could hardly move and sometimes I was constipated for several days at a time.

"Hearing so much about Tanlac, I decided to try it and the way it helped me was the surprise of my life. After taking only one bottle my digestion was gone and now I seem to eat enough for two men and never have the least pain or distress of any kind. I never have a headache, am not nervous any more, sleep like a log every night and get up morning ready for a hearty breakfast and a big day's work. In fact, Tanlac has relieved all my troubles, made me feel just like I wanted to feel, and I want to say Tanlac is the medicine I intend to use in my home from now on."

Tanlac is sold in Nelson by Canada Drug & Book Store, and by the leading druggist in every town. Advt

BAN GLOVE PARTIES

NATICK, Mass.—The teachers of the Felchville School have abandoned the experiment of allowing pugnacious pupils to fight it out with boxing gloves in the school yard with boy and girl pupils forming the squared circle of spectators. This means of developing manliness in the lads seemed in a fair way to become a fixture in the curriculum until two combatants appeared in school with what are known in the prize ring as "cauliflower ears." It was in deference to protests from these heroes' parents that the boxing glove parties were officially banned.

National Hockey League Fines Ottawa Club for Walking Off During Game

MONTREAL, Feb. 1.—At the special meeting of the National Hockey league here this afternoon, it was unanimously decided to fine the Ottawa hockey club $500 as a punishment for the team's action when it left the ice last Wednesday night in the game with Canadiens here.

Ottawa supporters, discussing the decision unofficially, stated that the Ottawa team will refuse to play until the order is rescinded.

PREPARES FOR MAIL VOTE

WINNIPEG, Feb. 1.—When asked tonight with regard to a story from Moose Jaw to the effect that he had ruled Regina to be ineligible to play for the Allan cup because they had played with the Saskatoon Crescents and the ex-Falcon men, President Sterling said that he had not made any statement in regard to the matter.

"The Saskatchewan branch of the C. A. H. A., has asked me to take a mail vote on whether I have power to make rulings, and I am now preparing for this vote, but I if the association fails to back me up, I am prepared to quit," said the hockey president."

BONSPIEL OPEN AFFAIR

REGINA, Feb. 1.—Sixty-nine rinks have entered for the 17th annual bonspiel of the Saskatchewan Curling association which is being held here this week. A total of 70 games were played today and the Imperial Life competition has reached the sixteens. Games were also played in the Anderson and Luney event.

Some of the supposedly strong rinks have already tasted defeat for the second time and the bonspiel looks like a very open affair.

BRENNAN KAYOES RICE

ARGOES GO UNDER

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—University of Toronto seniors defeated Argos tonight, seven to four. The first period was fatal to the Oarsmen, the students running in five goals after the first 10 minutes of play.

DIVIDE SKATING HONORS

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Roy McWhirter of Chicago and Charles Jewtraw of Lake Placid, divided the honors in the first of three days' international amateur skating championship meet here today. McWhirter won the mile event after a hard struggle, and Jewtraw took the 220-yard classic of the short races after skating the fastest heat of the event. Jewtraw's speed won in the 220-yard and McWhirtier's endurance brough him victory in the mile. In the junior events, Ernest Graves, of Saranac Lake, won the 440-yard event and Carl Parody of Lake Placid, the 220-yard event. The attendance was large.

THEATRICAL PRODUCER BRINGS SLANDER SUIT

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—A complaint in a $5,000,000 damage suit against Henry Ford and his paper, the Dearborne Independent, was filed in the circuit court today by Morris Gest, theatrical producer, who alleged that an article in the Independent on January 22, 1921, contained "libellous slanderous and false statements, concerning Mr. Gest and certain stage productions he had handled."

The article, which was alleged to have been libellous was quoted in the complaint. It asserts that the American stage was "under the influence of a group of former bootblacks, newsboys, ticket speculators, prize ring habitues and Bowery characters."

After saying that Mr. Gest stalks before his fellow Jews as the most successful producer of the year, the article declared that Mr. Gest was not a great producer, but a "great panderer to a public whose taste he had been no mean factor in debasing."

Gest, it said, sold newspapers in Boston and in 1906 was "a member of a notorious gang of ticket speculators who were the bane of the public."

"There is nothing in Gest's career to indicate that he would ever contribute anything to the theatre's best interests," the newspaper adds.

THE PROLETARIAN AND THE WILL-O'-THE-WISP

aspects of socialism—that is, what its advocates aim to make practical—because it is absolute waste of time and labor.

The Socialist Platform

It should be clearly understood that we are referring throughout this consideration of the subject to socialism as it is presented to the American people today, to that organized socialism which officially put this definition and purpose in its 920 political literature.

"The Socialist party is a class party. It is of and by and for the working class. Its purpose is to make the working class the ruling class, politically and industrially. It aims to substitute social ownership in place of the existing private ownership of industries, and to operate the socially-owned industries for the use and benefit of the people, instead of for the profit of private owners.'

If this does not mean the suppression of individualism, then it has no meaning. If it does not mean the changing of human nature and the abrogation of Natural Laws, then it means nothing. Only by such suppression and changing and abrogation can the aims of socialism thus officially expressed be achieved.

Is American democracy, the democracy that has encouraged individual initiative and effort to make this nation the freest and the most generally prosperous on earth, ready to accept the revolutionary change proposed by socialism? We do not believe that it is, or that it ever will be.

Is the American citizen, secure in his consitutional rights and privileges, free to develop his individual ambitions secure in the possession of his lawfully accumulated property, ready to sink that individuality and to become a mere cypher in the proposed socialistic government of the "working class"? We do not believe that he is, or that he ever will be.

"Industrial Democracy" In Action

Let us assume, however, for the sake of argument, that socialism should succeed in the United States in establishing its proposed "industrial democracy," that is, industry of, by and for the people, just as we now have our political democracy.

Bear in mind that as human nature and Natural Laws cannot be changed even though the one may be suppressed and the other violated, the "industrial democracy" in all human probability would function about as our political democracy functions.

The most individualistic of all the human-nature traits, the desire for power, the trend toward autocracy, would operate from the beginning, just as it operates now in our political democracy. Industry would be ruled by a few self-appointed or self-selected leaders, just as we are ruled now. The "practical politician" would be left to run the game of industrial democracy just as we now allow him to run the game of political democracy. The vast majority of the people would not take enough inters in the state control of industrial affairs to check the individualistic ambitions of the politicians, and soon we should have exactly the same state of affairs industrially as the socialists charge that we now have politically.

The socialistic state would be governed just as the political state is now governed. The same human nature would be at the head of affairs, even though socialism would try to persuade us that the "working class" was doing the ruling. The same Natural Laws would be in force, even though socialism tried to persuade us that they had been abrogated.

The sum and substance of socialistic accomplishment would be simply a change of one set of political bosses for another, of one set of capitalists for another, of one brand of individualism for another. The only thing, we surmise, that would not be changed would be the personnel of the practical political close corporation that now runs our political affairs, with the indifferent permission of the free American voter. We doubt not that substantially the same political bosses soon would be manipulating the affairs of the industrial democracy.

What Socialism Would Do

Socialism, if practically successful, and with its utter inability to change the unchangeable, inevitably would accomplish the following:

1. In the complete subserviency of the individual to the state, it would destroy individual initiative. Take from man the right to enjoy the full fruits of his activities, and you take from him the desire to exert himself to the full extent of his capabilities and powers.

2. It would kill individual ambition. Placed within a narrow circle of activity and with sharp limits set about achievement, man would soon cease to do any more individually than was required of him by the socialistic state. He would be nothing more than a humble cog in the socialistic industrial machine.

3. It would unnaturally limit production. Substituting some political regulation for the law of supply and demand, surrounding local and national production with a wall of artificial restrictions, socialism would tend to drive us back to the days of individual industry, the days when man strove simply to supply his own wants—the farmer would raise just enough produce for his own needs; the factory would produce just enough goods to meet the cost of manufacture, that is, to supply the needs of the workers in that factory; the merchant would sell just enough of his stock to meet his own living expenses. As there would be no incentive toward individual excellence or individual progress—everything limited to the requirements of the state—there would be no incentive to unusual individual effort.

4. It would arrest civilization. Our civilization, Anglo-Saxon civilization, Christian civilization, has been developed almost solely through the opportunities it has given for individual expression, individual ambition and individual achievement. Based on a philosophy of fair-play, of right and of justice, a philosophy of the highest individual attainment, a philosophy of service, of consideration, of voluntary restraint and voluntary cooperation, our civilization—far though it still may be from perfection—has given to the English-speaking peoples of the world a preeminence socially, politically and industrially never heretofore enjoyed by any other people or race. Shall we surrender the philosophy that has given us this civilization for the ego-philosophy of Marx and Nietzsche, the philosophy that brought Prussianized Germany to her knees and that has pushed Russia to the verge of ruin? We do not believe that the American people, the English-speaking peoples, will make this exchange.

5. In a word, socialism, as preached by Marx and his followers, as made a political issue in this country, and as somewhat violently enunciated by a certain morally twisted alien element and a few woefully misguided American citizens, most of recent alien descent, would give us just about everything no sane American wishes during a comparatively short period of transition, and then a return to all the alleged or actual evils of our present order, merely with a change in the personnel of "ruling, "working," and middle classes. Human nature and Natural Laws remaining the same and always active, no matter what the theories man may advance to change or suppress them, socialism would be a mere interim between the capitalism, industrialism and individual iniative of today and a revival of substantially the same capitalism, industrialism and individual initiative tomorrow.

The Real Remedy

Is there, then, no effective remedy for the frankly admitted evils of our present system, evils as old, most of them, as mankind itself, evils due to unrestrained or wrongfully directed human nature?

Yes, there is an effective remedy, ready always for application, suitable to our utmost need. There is a philosophy that aims, not at the advantage of self, but at the good of mankind, a philosophy of right and fair play and justice, of service and consideration and unselfishness; a philosophy that leaves the widest play for individual development yet protects absolutely individual rights and privileges; the only philosophy evolved by man that can be compacted into fewer than a score of words so simple that a child can understand them.

And there is a socialism based on this philosophy—Christian socialism. We do not mean precisely the Christian socialism of Kingsley and Maurice and Hughes, for that is only one application of it but the socialism of the Golden Rule.

We do not need to overturn our existing social, political and industrial orders, but merely to govern and control and adjust them according to a practical and universal observance of the Golden Rule.

And as a part of this remedy and as an assurance of the successful application of the golden rule generally in all our activities, we must put into full, intelligent and untiring play all the obligations that are imposed upon us as citizens of this republic. We must be actually, as well as nominally, a self-governing people, not a democracy in name, governed by a political autocracy in fact. Let every citizen do his full duty at all times as a citizen, attend personally to his own part of the public business, and earnestly believe and actually practice the golden rule, and we shall soon hear little or nothing about socialism, as we have used the term here, generally for the whole rang of "isms" alien by birth alien in purpose, and utterly repugnant to free men in a free country who hold in their own hands today all the power necessary to bring to them fully their constitutional rights of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

We are not trying to make an appeal to the visionary, to the chronically discontented, or to the mentally and morally twisted alien agitator, who for some strange reason or another w allow to go up and down in the land creating disturbance and disorder. Our appeal is directly to the hard-headed common sense of the thinking American citizen, the man who has been a citizen long enough to realize his rights and privileges and to acknowledge his obligations under our present form of government. We are appealing to the sense of Anglo-Saxon fair play, to the innate American sense of right and rasonableness, and, finally, to the sane, balancing, steadying American sense of humor. On the verdict of this great jury we are quite content to rest our case.—The Valve World.

CORKSCREWS AND STAMPS CHEAP

WASHINGTON—Senator Thomas, Democrat, Colorado, testifying before the Senate Finance Committee holding hearings on the House Emergency Tariff bill recently, said 'The only things the consumer can buy cheaply now are corkscrews and postage stamps, and he has no need for corkscrews."

RALEIGH, N. C.,—Weird, moans and strange discords shocked the congregation of the Clayton Baptist Church at a recent Sunday service when the organist touched his keys for the opening hymn. A hurried call brought a corps of first aid piano tuners to the scene. The organ continued to give its own version of seacred music and an expert from the factory was summoned to doctor it. He extracted a nine pound 'possum from one of the big pipes.

POSSESS GOOD HEALTH

BY LOOKING AFTER

THE BOWELS

A free motion of the bowels, once or twice a day, should be the rule of every one, as half the ills of life are caused by allowing the bowels to get into a constipated condition.

When the bowels are allowed to become constipated, the stomach gets out of order, and the liver does not do its work properly on account of holding back the bile so that it does not pass through the bowels, but is allowed to get into the blood, thus causing a poisoning of the whole system.

If you would escape constipation, sick and bilious headaches, heartburn, floating specks before the eyes, coated tongue, foul breath; the nasty irritating, bleeding itching and protruding piles, you should keep your liver stirred up by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

These pills, being purely vegetable, keep your liver working actively, helping it to resume its proper functions, and thereby removing the bile that is circulating in the blood and poisoning the whole system.

Mrs. H. Barrows, Enfields, N. S., writes:—"I was troubled with sick headaches and constipation. One day a friend told me of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I got two vials, and found they did me a world of good. I therefore have great faith in them."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BURTON SUPPORTS SILVER PURCHASE

United Farmers Declare for Manufacturing in British Columbia.

A resolution for a minimum price for Canadian silver heads the list of five which the Burton local of the United Farmers of British Columbia will submit to the coming convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern British Columbia. The resolutions, which Commissioner Fred A. Starkey received yesterday from Secretary H. Sundstrom, are very compact and pointed, and in text are as follows:

1. Resolved that this local favor a minimum price being established for all domestic and Canadian mined silver, not under 80 cents per ounce, and higher if possible; also that our government buy a certain amount of Canadian mined silver each month for coinage purposes, as a subsidiary issue, payable for all debts up to $10; Furthermore, that they take immediate steps to arrest the downward trend or the demoralization of our copper industry, by the stabilization of same.

2. Resolved that the present Workmen's Compensation act be so amended to include workmen employed in various occupations of labor, whether employed singly or collectively; an act which will allow any workman desiring to pay compensation dues, and receive compensation for any accident he might receive while working at his usual occupation; in this case a system of compensation tickets for the various occupations would possibly be worthy of consideration.

3. Resolved that this local go on record as favoring the purchasing of stumping powder by the government, and furnishing the same to the farmers at cost price, in order to stimulate the development of agriculture; furthermore, that the government be urged to supply the prospector with explosives at cost, for the purpose of developing the mineral resources of the country.

4. Resolved that this local encourage iron smelting works and agriculture industries, as the time has come when British Columbia should be exporting the finished products, instead of the raw material, in the form of implements and machinery.

5. Resolved that an up-to-date suction dredge be placed on the Arrow Lakes in place of the present inadequate clamshell dredge, at the earliest possible date, and that the lake banks at and near Graham's Landing be mattressed to save the farms and avoid silting up the navigable channel.

ROSSLAND GAINS HOCKEY VICTORY

Intermediates Trim Trail Visitors in Fast Game of Pep and Thrills.

ROSSLAND, Feb. 1.—Victory attended the local intermediates in their clash with the Trail hockey intermediates here yesterday afternoon, the local sextette coming out of the contest with the score standing at 5 goals to 1 in their favor. The game was a last minute fixture arranged with the Trail boys owing to the fact that the original fixture with the Nelson Cubs had to be abandoned. Several of the Nelson boys could not get away from their business owing to the monthly accounting.

The game was fast and full of thrills for the 250 fans attending. F. Ingram and Gus McDonald were the stellar performers for the Trail visitors. Chamberlain for Rossland got into the limelight as soon as play commenced. He carried the puck from away up the ice and scored within one minute. Indecisive play followed for about 12 minutes, when Singer tallied for Rossland again.

Singer and Micheley were both put on the fence for two minutes in the period. Micheley received a severe arm wrench that spoilt much of his further play.

An argument lasting about 10 minutes featured the opening of the second, after Ingram had scored the first and only goal for Trail. Rossland scored but the tally was disallowed by the referee, who ruled the play was offside. Micheley was again put on the fence and Stephens also. With only four players on the ice, Ellice scored the third for Rossland.

Considerable speeding up was noticed in the third period. F. Gavrilik of Trail was off for two minutes, after which Singer and Chamberlain, scoring in quick succession boosted Rossland's score to five goals.

The lineup was:

Rossland	Position	Trail
H. Petrie	Goal	J. Scanlan
C. Micheley	Defence	H. Bell
Roy Stephens	Wing	T. Hardington
E. Stephens	Wing	J. Williamson
F. Singer	Wing	F. Ingram
J. Chamberlain	Center	G. McDonald
L. Hatfield	Spare	F. Gavrilik
H. Ellice	Spare	A. Kavic

The timekeepers were J. Butorac and G. Hunter. Allen Keating of Rossland refereed. R. Morgan of Trail was judge of play.

CHARMS AUDIENCE AT METHODIST CHURCH

Dramatic readings, grave and gay, and admirable violin selections were given by Mrs. Kathleen Frances White, and vocal solos were contributed at the concert in the Trinity Methodist church last night. Miss Ina Steed was accompanist at the piano.

With a wide range of readings, the first of which was of unusual length and lasted for three quarters of an hour, Mrs. White charmed her audience with humor, pathos, character portrayal and a remarkable display of dramatic power.

Her violin selections were received with even greater enthusiasm than her readings. She displayed a fine command of her instrument and finished artistry in her playing. Among her readings were "The Three God Fathers," "Child Dialect," "The Deaf Mute," and a number of character and dialect sketches. A "musical reading" that she gave included fragmentary airs of well known songs, supplemented with lines of reading.

John Adams, as popular as ever with Nelson audiences, rendered in faultless style "The Windmill," and "I sent a Message."

INSURE IN THE MONARCH

Is the carrying of adequate Life Insurance an Expense?

No! Life Insurance is neither an expense nor a gamble. You do not pay something for nothing, neither do you have to die to win.

Modern Life Insurance is the best expression of thrift and prospectiveness.
