TRANQUILLITY IS NOT IDEA OF NEWBOLD

New Members of House Shock Veterans; Communist Holds Floor

REACTIONAL OPPOSITION MAKES NO APPEARANCE

Irish Bill Likely to Have Smooth Passage; Belligerent Note

LONDON, Nov. 23.—By Canadian Press. —A storm of criticism, raillery and threats of revolution disturbed the tranquillity of the new government at the first working session in the house of commons today. The new members quickly asserted themselves with firmness and, at one time, shocked the veterans, with the result that there was laughter, also gibes and jeers, with frequent cries for order. Interruptions, retorts and clamor from the benches produced an aspect in the ancient house that has radically changed and the government repeatedly warned that there will be no tranquillity.

"If we do not get satisfaction we shall have to deal with it as Cromwell dealt with his predecessors—there is plenty of precedent for revolution in this country," dramatically declared J. T. W. Newbold, the Communist leader. He came to his feet and presented his astonishing case with the fearlessness of all old parliamentarian.

Object of Curiosity

The tall, pale, but keen-eyed follower of the doctrine of Lenine was the subject of curiosity and interest as he faced the house in his seedy, ill-fitting clothes, but he quickly stirred up the most philosophical and had to be warned by the speaker. He launched his attack because, he said, the workers were not satisfied with the attitude regarding unemployment. "If you wish to challege us, we shall be compelled to take up the challenge," he said. "I say with all the gravity I can that we do not desire to take it up if we can help it."

He said the jobless demanded 30 shillings a week for a man and wife and an amount for rent up to 15 shillings if necessary, adding:

"And we are going to get it. If we don't get it inside of this chamber, we shall get it outside of this chamber."

May Laugh Today

This was greeted with laughter by the government side, whereupon Mr. Newbold said:

"You may laugh, gentlemen of England, you may laugh today, gentlemen of Scotland, but we laugh best who laugh last." He observed that it was the first time that an elected member of the Communist Internationale had stood at the foot of the throne, and he hoped that it would not be the last time a long chalk. He said he was told His Majesty, the King, was interested in unemployment and was glad the ministers were interested. "But," he added, "it would have been much better if you had spent a little less money on this tom fool show of yours," referring to the royal procession at the opening of parliament.

Ruled Out of Order

A great outburst of "Order! Order!" came from the government. J. J. Lee, deputy speaker, said: "If the honorable member is referring to the ceremony at the opening of parliament, he will not be in order."

Newbold answered: "Very well, if they don't like my reference I'll withdraw it, but nothing can change the union of the Communists."

Referring to Soviet Russia, he said: "I am proud to think that I belong to the same movement and that I am allied under the same flag."

Uproar Threatens

There the government member shouted: "Why don't you go there?" Thereupon George Lansbury jumped up and angrily retorted:

"Why should he go there? Why don't you go there?"

The house threatened to break into an uproar when the speaker got on his feet and appealed to the members to listen while the honorable member "is making his maiden speech. I hope the members will listen to him."

Mr. Newbold continued:

"I have been in rowdy houses before. I am glad, gentlemen, that you are proving the contention of the Communist party. You are proving that there is a class struggle. Go to it. That is what we want. Don't you think that the Russian government is doing despite all you have done, despite all that has been done by your allies or so-called bankrupt neutrals, that forget that the banner of Soviet Russia stands erect. It stands out against the whole anti-Communist world. Sooner or later you have to recognize the Soviet of Russia and the sooner you do the better for you. If you don't ruin will follow." And pointing to the members opposite, he asked:

Must Do Useful Work

"What is going to happen to you, gentlemen You will have to work for useful work."

Somebody shouted: "So will you."

ONLY TWO WOMEN ELECTED

THIRTY-ONE FAILED

Thirty-three women were candidates in the British elections. Two were elected: Lady Astor (left) and Mrs. Tom Wintringham. Both were members of the last house of commons.

DUBLIN SCANS KING'S SPEECH FOR POINTERS

Confirms Impression That Anglo-Irish Treaty Will Suffer Little Change

DUBLIN, Nov. 23.—The King's speech at Westminster today was eagerly scanned here for the terms of its reference to the Anglo-Irish treaty. It confirms the prevailing impression that the treaty will be ratified practically unchanged. It is pointed out that any alteration, however insignificant, might involve controversy and delay and it is believed that Premier Bonar Law is alive to this.

It is expected that two contentious points may be raised in the house of lords, if not in the commons, the first relating to the question of appeal to the British privy council from decisions of the Irish law courts. But these were fully considered in the conference between the British and Irish ministers before the constitution passed through the Irish parliament and Bonar Law is expected to endorse the attitude of his predecessors.

Treaty Terms Paramount

To obviate any hitch on either side, it was agreed to place in front of the constitution and forming part of it, the declaration that if any discrepancy arose between the constitution and the treaty the provisions of the treaty were to be paramount, and this, it is believed, meets effectively those criticizing the constitution on the ground that it exceeds the treaty.

In Ireland, this clause was welcomed because some critics have been of the opinion that the constitution was less favorable than the treaty.

Clemenceau Stirs Up United States Senate by Remarks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The utterances of former Premier Clemenceau of France came under fire on the floor of the senate today in a debate reviving many of the issues of the Versailles treaty fight.

Discussion of the mission of the French wartime premier to the United States was begun by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, ranking Democrat of the foreign relations committee, and the Wilson administration leader during the treaty debate, with a speech declaring that Clemenceau's attitude toward Germany had been such as to detract somewhat from the effectiveness of his appeals to the people of the United States. White Clemenceau has not been known as an extreme militarist as compared with Poincare and some other statesmen, said Senator Hitchcock, he has established a reputation for instituting an entirely harsh policy toward Germany."

The Nebraska senator added that his purpose was not so much to criticize Clemenceau, but rather the policy of the French government toward Germany.

Recently Acquitted of Murder Knudson's Life Is Threatened

WINNIPEG, Nov. 23.—"You will die from bullet wounds, the same as poor Neil Martin did. Bullets will get you. Don't forget that."

This is the text of one of the threatening letters received by George Knudson of Ingolf, Ont., who was recently acquitted by a jury of murdering Neil Martin at Ingolf on May 18, last.

The letter has been transmitted to the attorney-general of Ontario and the attention of the Manitoba authorities also drawn to it, says the Tribune today.

YARMOUTH, N.S., Nov. 23.—Omar Roberts, self-confessed murderer of his 19-year-old housekeeper, Flora Gray, on August 28, was hanged here this morning at 10 o'clock.

Have No Knowledge of Any Change on Embargo Removal

OTTAWA, Nov. 23.—Neither Hon. W. R. Motherwell nor any other official of the department of agriculture has received any intimation that the legislation for removal of the embargo against Canadian cattle will not be introduced during the present British parliament, it was stated at the department today in reply to questions based upon a cabled report that the bill would not be proceeded with.

Marshall Stays in London

Duncan Marshall, of the department of agriculture, remained in London when the other members of Canada's delegation left for home, in order to keep in touch with the developments and inform the government here if there was to be any deviation from the program laid down during the recent conference. Thus far no hint has been received either from Mr. Marshall or the high commissioner's office of the plans of the British government having been changed in regard to bringing down the bill and providing for removal of the embargo as agreed to.

Amsterdam Unemployed Create a Disturbance

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 23.—Serious disturbances caused by unemployed men occurred last night. A large number of windows in the big warehouses in the center of the city were smashed. The police made a charge, slightly wounding several of the demonstrators.

Constable Dies in Duel With Bandits

SOUTHHAVEN, Minn., Nov. 23.—Shot to death in a duel with two bandits whom he tried to capture single handed, Rudolph Maurer, 37, constable, was found on the outskirts of the town today with three bullet wounds in his chest, still clutching a pistol which he had emptied at his slayers. Maurer had been on the trail of two men believed implicated in a series of burglaries at Southhaven and nearby towns and detectives believed he surprised the fugitives as they were boarding a cattle train en route to St. Paul. Armed with descriptions of the slayers, posses immediately began a hunt.

Detroit Bandits Hold Up Cashier and Escape With $10,738 Payroll

DETROIT, Nov. 23.—Five armed bandits held up the cashier of the general cigar company, on East Forest avenue this afternoon, took the company's payroll of $10,738 in cash and escaped in an automobile. The robbery occurred a few minutes after the money had been brought, under police protection, from a nearby branch.

MONTREAL, Nov. 23.—According to export reports 2,737,589 sacks of Canadian flour were shipped from the port of Montreal to Europe to the end of October last, an increase over last year of more than half a million sacks.

UNEMPLOYMENT MAIN QUESTION BEFORE HOUSE

Hopes of Limiting Session to Irish Bill Are Quickly Dissipated

LABOR LEADERS FASTEN ON ABSENCE OF PLANS

Communist Says States Function "Tom Fool Show"; Lady Astor Speaks

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(By Associated Press.)—The opening of the business session of parliament today quickly revealed what is likely to be the paramount question in both houses apart from Irish legislation for which the session was especially called. The keynote of this was struck in the King's speech—unemployment.

As soon as the time honored ceremonies incident to the state opening of parliament were concluded and before the new parliament really settled down to its duties, it became evident that the government's hope of limiting the discussions to the Irish bill would be disappointed. Labor, through the mouth of its new parliamentary leader, James Ramsay Macdonald, immediately fastened on to the governmental confession in the King's speech that it has no policy with respect to this important question, but only depends upon an examination of the late coalition government's proposed remedies.

The tenor of the opposition in the debate on the address was to press the prime minister to receive "unemployed" deputations. This, however, Bonar Law determined not to do.

Birkenhead Recognizes Gravity

Lord Birkenhead, in the house of lords, referred to the extreme gravity of the unemployment question, for which no statesman yet had devised a remedy. This may perhaps be taken as an indication of the line of criticism the Lloyd George party will follow.

J. R. Clynes, former parliamentary Labor leader, will move an amendment to the address expressing regret that the government has no proposal for adequate treatment of the unemployment problem.

Phillip Snowden, Laborite, will second the amendment, but as the house now will take up the Irish bill it is not expected that debate on the address will be resumed before next Thursday. A number of other amendments to the address are being prepared by the Labor and Liberal groups, dealing with unemployment, housing, the Safeguarding of Industries act and foreign affairs, including Mesopotamia, so that the session may be longer than previously expected.

Stress Foreign Dangers.

The debate in the house of lords for the most part concerned foreign policy. Viscount Grey, laying stress on the danger of Germany, Turkey and Russia forming a combination together against the allies, pleaded that everything should be done to maintain a strong, united entente.

The new Communist leader, J. T. W. Newbold, and Edwin Scrymgeour, who defeated Winston Churchill in the recent elections, got themselves early into the limelight with somewhat violent speeches. Mr. Newbold came into the conflict with the speaker in his first speech, in which he described today's state function as "a tom fool show," the cost of which would better have been devoted to the unemployed.

Lady Astor declared that, although she was a Conservative, she would vote against the government unless good housing proposals were provided.

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—Judging in the dairy breeds, with Ayrshire, Holstein, Jersey and Guernsey males in the ring starred at the royal winter fair today. The four breeds were well represented as regards both number and quality, the total entry of dairy cattle being the largest ever made at a show in Canada. There were no western first prize awards.

Having Set United States Talking, the Tiger Is Jubilant

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Georges Clemenceau departed from New York for Boston this morning. Jubilant that he had at least set the United States talking about France and French relations, he was keenly interested in news of how his remarks were being received, especially in Washington. He said that some of the comments indicated that the need for information in some quarters was even greater than he had realized.

PROCEEDINGS INEFFECTUAL

Erskine Childers Under Death Sentence; Appeal Unlikely to Carry

DUBLIN, Nov. 23. — Erskine Childers, one of Eamonn de Valera's chief lieutenants in the warfare of the Republicans against the authority of the Free State government and eight other men who have been tried by court martial charged with acts subversive to law and order, cannot obtain relief through habeas corpus proceedings.

This decision was rendered today by the master of the rolls, who had been listening for several days to arguments by counsel for Childers, for a stay in the execution of the verdict of the military court which tried Childers. The court ruled that it had no jurisdiction.

Same View Regarding Women

The King's bench today on a habeas corpus action on behalf of two women prisoners, took the same view as the master of the rolls, and although an appeal has been made from the latter's ruling in the Childers case to the court of appeals, the general belief is that this court will not reverse today's decision.

It was said in Dublin today that prior to the habeas corpus proceedings Childers had received notice of the intention of the authorities to carry out a sentence of death against him.

'Earl of Dunblane' Is Now Doing Time Down in Missouri

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—Alfred J. Walter Greig, alias "Earl of Dublane," who was recently sentenced at Charlevoix, Mich., to the Michigan state prison at Jackson for two years and a half for larceny by embezzlement, is being sued by a local stationery firm for $40.50, the price of two boxes of notepaper, embossed blue, with the Dublane crest and arms and dies. The dies and stationery were supplied in Septehber 1921.

"In jail down in Missouri" is the endorsement of a local bailiff on the summons.

Mormons Leave for Far East to Make Converts in Japan

VANCOUVER, Nov. 23. — Three young Mormon missionaries, R. Esplin, Milton Taylor and Vinal Mauss of Salt Lake City, Utah, were among the passengers sailing on the Empress of Australia, which left at noon today on her first return trip to the orient. They will go to Tokio, headquarters of the church of the Latter Day Saints in the far east, and from there, after learning the Japanese language will begin a three years' preaching mission in Japan.

Mayor Calls Meeting to Consider Increase of Elevator Capacity

VANCOUVER, Nov. 23. — Mayor Tisdall has called a mass meeting of citizens next Monday night to discuss plans by which the federal government may be moved to increase the elevator capacity in Vancouver with a view to adequately handling the flow of grain through Vancouer from the prairie provinces.

Vancouver has one government elevator with limited capacity. Last year 7,000,000 bushels of grain went through Vancouver. It is estimated that 20,000,000 bushels will pass through there this crop year.

Heavy Firing in Dublin Indicates Attack by Rebels

DUBLIN, Nov. 23.—Unusually heavy machine gun and rifle firing was heard tonight in several districts of the city and it is believed the Republicans were attacking army posts.

Many citizens are reported to have had narrow escapes from injury.

LISTER ASKS FOR LIGHTER TAX BURDEN

Soldier Settlers Have Struggle; Cannot Get Blood From Stone

REAL SKIRMISH UPON CHIROPRACTOR'S CASE

Party Allegiance Forgotten in Cross Fire Between Members

VICTORIA, Nov. 23.—The first real skirmish in the attempt of the chiropractors to seek amendments to the health act passed 18 months ago in respect to their profession was fought on the floor of the legislature tonight when the motion for a select committee to be appointed to go into the matter was passed by the house, Fred W. Anderson, Liberal, Kamloops, being the only dissenting voice. Party allegiance was forgotten in the cross fire between members during the debate, which was heard by crowded galleries.

Fred Lister, Independent, Kaslo, asked the government to endeavor to lighten the tax load on farmers.

Speaking on the budget, he said soldier settlers were having a hard struggle to make both ends meet.

Raps Government Practice

"The same conditions prevail everywhere, they don't apply to one isolated district," said Colonel Lister. "I'm not an old enough politician to suggest how the government can reduce farm taxes and make up the deficit, but I do know that you can't get blood out of a stone."

The colonel rapped the government's practice of developing new areas at the expense of districts already populated.

"The government has been ill-advised to go ahead with development work in districts that are devoid of population when there is territory already fully settled crying out for improvements," said the Kaslo member.

Esling Criticises

"The minister of finance wipes millions off the books, but the taxpayers still have to raise the money to pay the bonds," said W. K. Esling.

"I admit he is a good guesser on exchange, but if he had carried out the $7,000,000 saving which he says he has made on short term loans, and done the same thing with 20-year bonds, he might have done the same with our entire debt."

The member for Rossland stated that in spite of the minister's optimistic speech, the government was taxing the people on every hand and when it could no longer think of any new taxes it increased the assessments.

Wife Not Entitled to Remuneration for Nursing Her Husband

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—Mr. Justice Latchford, at Osgoode hall today, declared that the order of Judge Coatesworth, allowing Mrs. Margaret H. Stanley in the neighborhood of $1500 for nursing her husband in his last illness should never have been made, as no woman should claim money for nursing her husband, and it was a claim not recognized by law.

The matter came before his lordship on an appeal by the official guardian, F. W. Harcourt, K.C., representing four children of the late Matthew Stanley. Judgment was reserved.

Free State Troops Capture Leader of Western Irregulars

CORK, Nov. 23.—A gang of armed men wrecked the machinery in the power house at Queenstown, Wednesday night, plunging the place in darkness. The damage was so extensive that considerable time will be required for the work of repair. Meanwhile the city will be without electric lights.

An official statement announces the capture in the Upton district of Tom Sales, leader of the Irregulars in western county Cork, by Free State troops.

MODERN PORTIAS BOB THEIR HAIR

TORONTO, Nov. 23. — In some learned professions open to ladies, bobbed hair is taboo, but it is not so in the law. Two fair students of Blackstone who were called to the bar by the convocation of the law society of Upper Canada, today, had their curls bobbed and looked very Portia like in their black robes.

With 11 men, they were presented to the court by W. A. Boyes, K.C., and were welcomed to the practice of law by Mr. Justice Latchford.

The young ladies were Miss Adele Thompson of Hamilton, and Miss Florence Daley of Osgoode.

ISMET LIVENS PROCEEDINGS AT LAUSANNE

Kemalist Foreign Minister Protests Against "Gag Rule" at Conference

MAINTAINS TURKISH CLAIM TO THRACE

Question of Sovereignty Plebiscite Referred to Sub-committee

LAUSANNE, Nov. 23.—Turkish fire works enlivened this afternoon's session of the commission on territorial and military affairs of the near east peace conference. Ismet Pasha, Kemalist foreign minister and head of the Angora delegation, loudly protested against the "gag rule" which he said had been imposed upon the members of the conference and charged that the Turks apparently were about the only ones who were respecting the secrecy pledge.

States Turk Case

Ismet maintained the Turkish claim to western Thrace which he put forward yesterday. He also insisted that Karagatch, across the Maritza river from Adrianople, must be regarded as indivisable from Adrianople. He again put forth his plea for a plebiscite to decide the sovereignty of western Thrace and this was referred to a subcommittee for discussion.

The subcommittee was also charged to examine the question of establishing a demilitarized zone along the eastern Thracian frontier, the future regime of the railroad in Thrace and the question of giving Bulgaria outlet to the Aegian sea at Dedeagatch.

Prairie Provinces Ask Council's Cooperation on Wheat Marketing

REGINA, Nov. 23.—The Canadian council of agriculture is to be asked to cooperate with the governments of the three prairie provinces in urging the federal government to enact legislation which will make it possible to create a wheat board that can operate with a full measure of success.

The passage of a resolution to this effect together with a resolution calling upon the federal government to complete construction of the Hudson Bay railway as speedily as possible.

Bring Former Enemies and Friends Together Upon Tennis Courts

ROME, Nov. 23.—Invitations have been sent to the tennis federations of Germany, Austria, France, Great Britain, Belgium and Spain to send teams to take part in the international hard court tennis tournament to be held in Rome next May.

The Italian Tennis federation has thus taken the initiative in the attempt to get together in the same tournament players from the allied countries and the former enemy nations.

Irish Bill First

Premier Bonar Law in his address made it plain that the business of the present short session should be the passage of the Irish bill and no factional opposition developed, making it plain that the bill would be quickly successful.

Labor, supported by Asquith, strongly indorsed it.

Regarding the Irish question, he spoke of the strange magical transformation which had taken place in the opinion of Bonar Law. He said that for 40 years an Irish settlement had been proposed and that now they were asked to pass a bill which a year or two ago would have been called separation. He declared that the substantial danger was not too much haste, but too little haste and added that the government would do all it could "to close this old bad chapter of Irish relations with this country."

Will Open Happier Chapter

The closing of that chapter will open one that will be happier for Ireland and more honorable for this country.

Continuing, Ramsay Macdonald declared that the King's reference to unemployment was profoundly unsatisfactory to Labor and that there was not any real apprehension of the terrible tragedy.

Another note of belligerency was sounded by Kirkwood, Labor member, who said:

"We are determined to smash the present atmosphere in the house. If the people think there is tranquility while the children of Britain are starving, they never made a bigger mistake in their lives and I am not going to be deterred from my purpose by those on the opposition benches. The writing is on the wall and the present order of society is doomed."

Treaty Must Have Trial

"The session has been called for the express purpose of giving adhesion to the bill confirming the Irish treaty. Whatever may be the views of any of us or whatever may be the responsibility of any of us, with regard to that treaty, there is one thing that is not in doubt. That is—it was shown most conclusively in the elections that the British people are determined to give the treaty a fair trial in spirit and letter. There is no doubt whatever.

What Are Alternatives?

"Now, why is that to be done? I am quite sure that even those most bitterly opposed to it a year ago look forward with something like horror to its failure, because we must face alternatives which everyone must know. Where do we stand in this matter? I remember very well the debate almost a year ago and that, following the example of my right honorable friend and member for Paisley (Asquith) who, I think, was the first to raise the flag of warning, I pointed out that there was rejoicing in the fact that the treaty had been signed, that it was a difficult experiment; that the whole country, with demoralization that existed in Ireland, would not get back easily and quickly to a stable government. We have found that is so.

"I say this—it was on this ground that I supported the treaty—that the Irish government is carrying out the treaty and in earnest—it has the possibility, an advantage which through seven hundred years it has never had—of having Irish public opinion behind it. That is the opinion on which I fix all my hopes now. I believe the government is doing this and, therefore, I am rather unwilling and I think it is doubtful if it is wise to say anything expressing even sympathy with that government, because, if they have got to settle it for themselves, any words of sympathy from us might do harm. The head of the government with his two colleagues came over at the time I undertook my office. I thought, and they felt it was good, that we should at least know each other in case of a discussion.

"The head of the government—the meeting was entirely informal and no record was kept—and I am certain he will not object to my saying this, said—'I can give the British people his assurance, that whatever happens to us, the Irish people are determined upon securing peace, and they believe peace can only be secured by loyally carrying out the treaty on both sides.

Not Enemies When They Meet

"I think this—that as far as Great Britain is concerned, we shall have nothing to give as an excuse for going back on that treaty and I will not only say that we wish it to succeed, but in the interest of both Ire*land and this country, from our hearts* we wish it to do so for this reason above all others, Ireland has been an enemy of this country in spirit, for I don't know how long, but Irishmen and Englishmen when they meet have never been enemies.

"I can never forget the last speech made by Captain Redmond in this house when he said there was really nothing to prevent the two countries whose interests were the same, from living together as friends.

"As regards business, it is our intention, with the approval of the house, which I feel sure it will give, that the debate in the house shall continue today and tomorrow, and on Monday we shall begin with the first of the two Irish bills and will go on with them until they are concluded. I cannot fix the date for the conclusion, but I almost hope that it will be Wednesday. We will then resume debate on the address and the amount of time required for it will be fairly considered by me as far as I can meet the wishes of the house.

"As regards the time of this session, we have at present little business done, and I hope with the good will of the house we may be able to rise not long after the 6th of December.

Will Warn Opposition

"As to what has been done about the Rent Regulation act, I have appointed a committee to examine it, but have not got recommendations, and as to whether they suggest anything done at this session or not I cannot say, but in all events we will give the honorable gentlemen opposite plenty of warning.

"The estimates are all estimates of money already spent. They will be mainly expenses in connection with Ireland, but I do not wish to bind them. The next question to which I wish to address myself is unemployment. It is obvious that there must be an amendment to the address on this subject. The honorable member, J. R. Macdonald, talked about the likeness between the last government and the present. There are likenesses, but differences also. But what has been done by the last government in the relief of unemployment, in the amount spent and in the efforts to find work, is something that has never been approached in any other country in the world. (A. M. Kenworthy says—neither was unemployment.)

Root of the Difference

"Oh, yes, America had greater unemployment than ours. The honorable member rather scoffed at the idea that the necessary improvement was to come from better trade. That is the root of the difference between him and us.

"It would, perhaps, try the honorable members opposite too highly to give them the argument on that subject at this stage. The real difference between them and us is that they think that there is in the substance kept by capitalists a pool that will supply all they need. I am sure I have not misrepresented them. I am satisfied they are greatly mistaken and in a month will know these arguments to be worthless.

"In reference to my refusing to meet the deputation on unemployment, the honorable member was a little illogical. I have said from the beginning that it is absolutely impossible for me to try to deal with every difficulty whenever it becomes prominent and I think the honorable member would strengthen his own constitutional position if he would point out that in cages of that kind there are constitutional ministers who are not servants of the prime minister.

Work Must Be Done

"The ideas were all practically equal. It is really essential that the people should realize that it is in the ordinary method of government that work is to be done. In addition, if it were possible for us to make a special statement about unemployment, I think it would be wrong to make it to any other body than the house of commons. I notice in some of the newspapers that there is some talk about doping the press. If it was anyone it was I who did it. I got a second letter asking me to receive the deputation. I went into it all again. I read half a dozen speeches of those who profess to lead the unemployed. I looked up references, a large number of them. Well, sir, I am not going to receive such people, but ours is a country that is governed by public opinion. It is right that the public should know what I know. What I did was to send exactly the same information to every London newspaper to let them know what use of it they liked.

(Kenworthy said: Did you ask them not to say it came from the government?)

Did Not Want Bloodshed

"Really I cannot answer that question. Does anyone think the government gained anything by giving this information to the press. It certainly did not. I was not in the least afraid that the police would not be able to deal with the riot. But I didn't want bloodshed. I did not want these poor people coming from all over the country to be exploited.

"On foreign affairs, I am sorry I can give practically no information. It really is not secret diplomacy or anything else, but it is best to let the people who are in negotiation negotiate freedom without interference from the press and parliament.

"Our one aim is peace. Up to the moment I am thankful to say that there is every prospect of getting it by the only means that it is possible to get it, and that is agreement with our allies.

Macdonald's Obession

"The honorable member (Macdonald) spoke about Mesopotamia and so on. That is an obession with him, he does not want to stay there for any oils. What is more, our system of government does not lend itself to getting an advantage for ourselves in countries under our control. There is nothing of that kind. We are trying to get peace, but there are certain obligations we cannot evade."

Convicts Swear Fellow Prisoner Admits Murder

QUEBEC, Nov. 23.—Three sworn statements that one of the men originally charged with the murder of Blanche Garneau, a young Quebec girl, two years ago, but acquitted by a jury after a sensational trial had admitted that he had actually committed the crime, were produced before the royal commission here this afternoon.

Raoul Binet, according to affidavits made in St. Vincent de Paul pentitentiary as recently as the end of January this year, by three convict companions of Binet in the jail, not only confessed to the murder of Blanche Garneau, but promised he would also kill his own wife as soon as he was liberated.

The affidavits which met with a most emphatic denial by the deputy attorney-general of the province of Quebec, Charles Lanctot, that he or any of his officers had ever attempted to shield or protect anyone in the Blanche Garneau case, were outstanding features of today's session of the royal commission which is investigating whether or not the attorney-general's department did all it could do to find the real murderers of the Quebec girl.

At the end of the year 1920, said Mr. Lancott, the police were still investigating every possible clue and were making little headway. On December 24 a letter was received by the attorney-general's department from J. E. Bedard, a lawyer of Sudbury, Ont.

Relates Convict's Story

In this letter Mr. Bedard stated that a client of his claimed he could supply some information in connection with the Garneau case. Chief Lorraine of the provincial police and Detective Rioux left at once for Sudbury. They saw Mr. Bedard, who introduced them to a man called Louis Dube. Dube told the officers that he had been a prisoner in the prison farm at Fort William and that he had there met a man by the name of Raoul Binet, who told him that Binet had been present at the place and on the day Blanche Garneau had been murdered.

Choked to Death

Dube had told a complete story of what he claimed had happened at the time. He stated Binet had told him that himself and a man named Fred W. Palmer, alias Cole, had met Blanche Garneau, had dragged her into the bushes in one of the public parks of Quebec, had both assaulted her and then had choked her to death when she had threatened to denounce them to the police.

Arrests Follow

The attorney-general's department immediately issued warrants charging Binet and Palmer with the murder of Blanche Garneau. Detective Rioux was handed the warrants and at once went after the two men. He met Binet and placed him under arrest, but was for a while unable to locate Palmer, alias Cole. The attorney-general's department was later informed that Palmer was serving a term of five years in Stony Mountain penitentiary for an attempt to escape from the jail farm at Fort William and for a serious assault on one of the guards at the farm. Palmer was extradited from Stony Mountain penitentiary and transferred to St. Vinsent de Paul.

Binet Accuses Palmer

Mr. Lanctot read extracts from the depositions made by Binet at the preliminary hearing before Judge Lachance. Binet had again told the story of how he and Palmer had met Blanch Garneau, had taken her into the park and asaulted her, and how Palmer had choked her when threatened to tell the police. Bi said that Palmer had told him feared he had killed the girl both Binet and Palmer had fled place.

When they had the two men custody, the attorney-general's dep ment instructed the police to l up the past record of both men. was discovered both Binet and Pal had served several terms in jail in the penitentiary, said Mr. Lancto

"I wish here to be allowed to m a statement," said Mr. Lanctot.

Denies Attempt to Shield

"We have been accused all over province and even outside of hav tried to convict certain parties know them to be innocent, in an atte to shield and protect the real m derers.

"I most emphatically deny we did anything of the kind and on oath I have taken here in this co I solemnly declare we never u those two men as a blind and sh to protect anyone."

Binet and Palmer had been tried the court of King's bench and acq ted of the charge of murder.

Mr. Lanctot produced three affida by convicts in the St. Vincent-St. J penitentiary in which the three swore Binet had told them he (Bi was the actual murderer of Blan Garneau. Binet had given them the details of the murder. Binet erward told the same story to prison authorities, implicating the ot man.

CLARK ARGUES STILL BROADER CHURCH UNION

Moderator of General Assembly Says Protestants Should Come Together

PRESBYTERIANS HAVE WONDERFUL HERITAGE

Church Is Faced by Special Problems—Form Must Not Be Put First

"I believe there ought to be consolidation of all the Protestant churches at least. We hold the great truths in common. Our differences are on minor things. There was a time when a minister of one denomination would preach a sermon on an early doctrine, and he would be answered the following Sunday by a minister of another denomination. But those differences are regarded as less vital now, and if such sermons were announced, the people would not go to hear them, or if they did they would do it as one goes to a museum to view antiquities. We must use every means in our power to bring about Christ's kingdom."

This belief in a greater church union was avowed by Rev. W. J. Clark, D.D., moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly, in his address in St. Paul's church last night, for which his theme might have been "The Heritage of the Presbyterians." The address was preceded by the christening of little Margaret Alison, infant daughter of Rev. and Mrs. James Barr Stirling, at which Dr. Clark officiated.

Though he had been traveling and delivering addresses for the greater part of the last three months, the moderator said, and had faced a great many different congregations, as the bulk of his auditors were Presbyterians he had felt he was always among friends. "For we have," he said, "a common heritage, common interests, and a common outlook."

A Great Inheritance

That heritage, he said, notwithstanding the high respect in which he held other Christian bodies, justified "a little glorification of the church of our fathers." There was a danger, however, that Presbyterians might feel too much pride, and indulge the evil spirit of Pharisaism.

Presbyterianism of modern times largely took its color from the race that particularly nurtured it, the Scotch and Scotch-Irish, who, for the most part, largely composed its congregations. These hard-headed people believed in education, and it was the ambition of a Scotish mother that one of her sons should "wag his pow in the pulpit." Following this racial characteristic, the true Presbyterian did not let his emotions dominate his intellect, but had to have solid reasons for what he believed.

Thus had been evolved those statements of principle known as the "Westminster Confession of Faith," the "Longer Catechism," and, for those less able mentally, the "Shorter Catechism." Dr. Clark said he did not claim that every statement in this basis of faith could be justified today, but this basis had been framed by giants, who had done the best they could. If framed today, it would not be so sure or so dogmatic. This framework, however, was an evidence of deep thinking and of profound imagination.

After illustrating the questions and answers from the "Shorter Catechism," Dr. Clark proceeded to the psalms as holding a special place in the Presbyterian service. While many hymns were exceedingly choice descriptions of Christion experience, the speaker confessed to an admiration of the lofty imagery and the satisfying themes of the psalms. In times past, Presbyterian churches had lost members because hymns had been introduced, and even in Montreal a Presbyterian minister, speaking in a great church, had apostrophized the organ. "Thou gilded monster, would I had in my hand an axe with which to cut thee to pieces." This spirit was perhaps intolerant, and would be smiled at today, but it spoke of strength of character.

Devised in a day when the mediaeval church presented a sensuous appeal, the Presbyterian ritual, Dr. Clark said, went to the opposite extreme, and the churches were left practically bare. Yet in spite of this austerity, the service would contain a certain beauty and charm. Recalling his childhood, the speaker said the table with its spotless linen and silver flagons, and the black-coated elders passing the elements, impressed his childish imagination.

Then the paraphrases, with their spirit and language of devotion, were unique and satisfying.

Presbyterians, said Dr. Clark, believed in a government, and in a central government, and the church was organized on that basis, with a session in each congregation, Presbyterians containing equal clerical and lay representation, provincial synods, and a central court or general assembly.

By a united denomination, the Presbyterian faith had been spread, through foreign missions, to the ends of the earth.

In this country, alike in great city churches, with their beautiful furnishings, and in little schoolhouses with the barest equipment, the faith was being kept.

Revelation in Canadian

Dr. Clark said it must be recognized that the church was situated in a different world from that of 50 years ago. There were then no large cities in Canada, the people were agricultural, the rural parts of the country learned of world events only a month after they had happened, and the populations of the older sections, the maritime provinces, Quebec and old Ontario, were homogeneous. The prairie was populated by buffaloes and Indians, and on the Pacific coast were a couple of scattered settlements.

Now there was a population of 9,000,000, with many non-native elements, and some of these constituted a special problem. In Montreal, for instance, there was a great many Syrians, and the Jews had a synagogue reputed to have cost half a million. Too often these foreign elements dwelt as indigestible lumps, and sometimes constituted a danger to the community.

Life also had grown infinitely more complex. Along with other social changes, a host of institutions had grown up, many of them doing most useful work, such as Canadian, Kiwanis, and Rotary clubs, Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. and similar organizations. These institutions had altered the proportions when it came to defining the place that the church now held in the life of the community.

Literal interpretations of the Bible no longer were accepted by men without question. Where once the quoting of a text served, now men wanted to know the background of the text, and to take it with its context, before accepting its authority. Similarly also the public's view of the Sabbath was less strict. Also, to ask a man why he was not at church was nowadays often taken as an impertinence.

A Living Institution

While these changes had taken place, Dr. Clark declared, the church, though its relations were altered, was not a dying or an effete institution, but a powerful and a living one. Not one of these new organizations stood for what the church stood for, the rule of an unseen divine power in life, and there was nothing that had such a force in making for decency and morality. It was not to be apologized for, but was to be justified as one of the grandest institutions in the land.

Never, however, must name, ritual, or form be put first. "If we put name, sign or form first, we will cease to be a living institution," declared the moderator.

Retracing Old Trails to Visit Nelson Said Eloquent Dr. Hindley

While the economic truths pungently hammered home by Dr. W. J. Hindley, director of education for the Washington state retailers, in his address before 100 business men of Nelson Tuesday night, made a great impression, and bore immediate fruit in the applications for membership received by the Nelson branch of the Retail Merchants Association of Canada, several of the minor features of his visit are also being appreciatively retailed.

Twenty-one years ago the man who was to be Spokane's mayor for four years, then a Chautauqua lecturer on economic subjects, and then for three years directing the Washington retailers' educational campaign, with also a chapliancy with the 190th Winnipeg Rifles during the war, was a Presbyterian minister, leaving Guelph, Ont., to look into settlement conditions in this province on behalf of his organization. Nelson was the first western town he visited, and the trip was his first introduction to the west.

Nelson Still Key City

"It is like retracing old trails, to come to Nelson," the eloquent economist told his banquet audience at the Strathcona.

"As the steamer came around the bend of the arm, your lights twinkled the same kind of friendly welcome that they do now—the only difference being that your lights are a little different.

"Then, as now, Nelson was the key city to the Kootenay country. Twenty-one years have not changed its leadership at all, in pacemaking in the various lines of progress."

"Eventually," said Dr. Hindley, "I settled down across the border opposite you, and always had a friendly eye on Nelson."

Now he hailed from the land of Klickitat soda and Rainier beer, and when the people of Seattle asked him the leading question if he liked Seattle as well as Spokane, or the coast as well as the interior, he was forced to use the story of the Scotchman in the other world, who when asked over the long dstance wire whether he liked heaven or hell better, admitted that while the one place was grand for scenery, the other was superior for friendship and old acquaintance sake. He left his hearers to make their own application of the morai.

It had been said of him, he said, that he was generally speaking. It was somewhat like the case of the two colored fighters who were engaging in repartee in the ring before the gong sounded. "Cullud Boy," said one, "do you realize I was born with boxing gloves on?" "No," boasted the other, "Ah knows no such thing, but Ah knows this, youse goin' to die with them on tonight."

"If I have got to die making a speech," said Dr. Hindley, "there is no place I would rather do it than here in the country where I was born, under the British flag."

Dr. Hindley left Nelson by the Great Northern Wednesday for Grand Forks, where he was bill'ed to speak that night.

Many Attend Funeral of Mrs. Albert Kirby

The funeral of Mrs. Albert Kirby was held from Trinity Methodist church yesterday afternoon. A large number of friends of Mrs. Kirby and the family were present at the service at the church, where she had been a worker for a large number of years. A short service was held at the house for members of the bereaved family. Rev. J. P. Westman conducted the services. About 16 automobiles followed the body to the cemetery.

The pallbearers were A. Bush, G. Wright, S. Jackson, A. D. Kennedy, D. D. McLean and A. B. Hall.

Many floral tributes marked the esteem at which Mrs. Kirby was held. Those sending flowers were:

Local Bowlers Make Another High Score

Nelson bowlers, on the Y.M.C.A. alleys last night, rolled their second telegraphic game of the season against the Revelstoke ten. Last night's score did not come up to the one which previously defeated Revelstoke, but it is thought that the score will take some beating. H. Hinitt, with 218, was high individual while high average went to H. Hinitt and E. L. Buchanan, who rolled 'em for a total of 538. Revelstoke's score will arrive this morning.

Here's the score:

Change of Letter Makes Difference

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Georges Clemenceau's speech in New York yesterday was not given great prominence in the Paris newspapers today. Press comment is confined entirely to remarks of his critics, particularly the bitter ones, who, by the substitution of the letter "D" for "E" changed his familiar title "Pere la Victoire" (father of victory), into "perd la victoire," (lose the victory).

Edmund du Mesnil, writing in the radical journal Rappel, declares that if M. Clemenceau has lost the sympathy of the French public, it was because the good sense of the people, who are wiser than several diplomats, clearly saw the crushing responsibility incurred by "perd la victoire."

You Do It, Doc.

Don't talk baby talk to your baby.

That's what Dr. James Sinnot Greene, founder and director of the United States National Hospital for Speech Disorders, says. It leads, he declares, to faulty enunciation in later years on the part of the young hopeful.

Aw, Doc, have a heart!

What would the women-folk do if they couldn't cuddle every new baby and say him was the ittsy tootsy ittle tweety weetums, ess his was, an' dess haffa love him to pieces, es would.

The scene: The happy parents, the baby, the relatives, and the neighbor who follows Dr. Greene's advice. The neighbor advances. She picks up the squirming babe.

"You are delightful, my dear. I find it causes me great enjoyment thus to hold you in proximity to my person."

Would she be unanimously voted looney? Would she or wouldn't she, Doc, we just ask you that. You reform the women and then the rest of the world will stop the baby talk.

Russia on the Pacific.

The Far Eastern republic has voted for reabsorption into the great mother from which it sprang, and is, or is soon to become, one of the republics federated with and under Soviet Russia. It was evident that this was going to happen sooner or later, for the citizens of this state thought of themselves as Russians all the time, and were pursuing a Russian national interest in the effort to recover their seacoast from the Japanese army of occupation. Whether it was prudent to fall back into the Russian federation just now is another matter. Rumors from Washington had it that the American state department was inclined to recognize the Chita government, which was apparently as much of a government de facto as, say, those of the Baltic states, and was certainly the most respectable government de jure that Siberia has known since the revolution.

But recognition of one of the component parts of the Soviet federation might involve recognition of the whole. The gentlemen in Moscow are de facto enough for anybody; but, quite aside from questions of the right by which they rule, their attitude toward foreign powers has so far not been such as to make formal recognition worth while for the recognizers. The Far Eastern republic avoided that stumbling block. It was not Communist in political or economic organization. It wanted foreign capital, like the Moscow government; but, unlike the latter, it was willing and able to offer capital some prospect of return and of security. Whether it will continue to offer as much now that it has joined the nominally Communist central government remains to be seen. If, as its representatives here asserted, its reluctance to go in for communism rested on the feeling of the people and the conditions of their economic life, the Russian far east will still attract capital from outside. If the non-Communist organization was merely a false front to get support abroad in the dispute with Japan, it was unnecessary; for the Far Eastern republic's case in that controversy was that which any Russian government must have upheld, and any Russian government would have deserved the sympathy of foreigners in the interest of the maintenance of peace in the Pacific.

Peace is much more likely to be maintained in the far east now that Admiral Kato's cabinet has turned its back on mistaken policies of past Japanese governments, and is carrying out not only the decisions of the Washington conference, but those aspirations which the delegates were compelled to leave unfulfilled. This record offers hope that a solution may still be found for the question of northern Sakhalin, still occupied by the Japanese, though the Russian mainland has been evacuated. It is perhaps a misfortune that now Japan will have to deal directly with Moscow, where doctrines dominate foreign policy, rather than with Chita, which was chiefly concerned in recovering occupied territory and getting a practical modus vivendi with Russia's neighbors.

SOME VALUABLE CAKE RECIPES FROM READERS

The following recipes were kindly sent in by column readers, for me to publish for other readers to use:

Mrs. F. J. L.—"Good Chocolate Cake: Cream together one cup of sugar and four tablespoons of melted lard. Add one cup of either sour milk or buttermilk in which one teaspoon of soda has been dissolved; also add one and one-half cups of flour sifted with one-half cup of dry cocoa and a little salt. Flavor with one teaspoon of vanilla and bake in a loaf-cake pan for 40 minutes in a medium oven."

A reader—"Date Cake: Dissolve one teaspon of soda in one cup of hot water, and let stand until cool. Cream together in the mixing bowl one cup of sugar and one scant tablespoon of butter; add the dissolved soda, one and one-half cups of flour, and, last, one cup of chopped and stoned dates. Turn into a buttered loaf-cake pan and bake 30 to 40 minutes in a medium oven."

Mrs. C.W.K.—"Sponge Cake: Separate three eggs. To the yolks add, slowly, one scant cup of granulated sugar, one-fourth teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of vanilla and three teaspoons of cold water; stir in one cup of flour which has been sifted three times with one-half teaspoon of soda. Beat the whites of the three eggs slightly, add to them one teaspoon of cream of tartar, then finish beating till they are a stiff froth. Fold the whites into the batter gently, and bake either in a sheet or in an angel food pan, in a moderate oven."

Mrs. R. W.—"Sour Milk Cake: Cream together one cup of granulated sugar and four tablespoons of lard; add one-half cup of molasses, one teaspoon of ground cinnamon, and one-fourth teaspoon each of ground cloves and nutmeg. Dissolve one teaspoon of soda in one cup of sour milk and add this to the batter alternately with three cups of flour. Bake in two layer-cake pans for 30 minutes in a hot oven; or in loaf form for 40 minutes in a moderate oven. Put layers together with the following:

Filling for Sour Milk Layer Cake—Cream together one heaping tablespoon of butter and two rounding tablespoons of occoa; add two tablespoons of hot water, stirring well, then a few drops of vanilla. Mix in one-half cup of confectioner's sugar (or more if not thick enough to spread)."

N. A. "Fudge Cake that is a good substitute for candy: Cream together one cup of granulated sugar and one-half cup of butter melted; add the yolks of two eggs well beaten, either two squares of unsweetened cake-chocolate melted or two tablespoons of dry cocoa, one-half cup of sifted flour, one teaspoon of vanilla and the whites of the two eggs well beaten. Last, fold in one cup of nuts. (This recipe contains no baking powder). Bake in a sheet for about 20 or 25 minutes in a hot oven. Cut into squares."

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and province.—The Editor.

Keep Your Ironing Board Clean

It will pay you to have a cover for your ironing board. Make a bag large enough to fit easily over the board. Use a dark colored denim or cretonne; sometimes that will not readily soil. Make it with a flap that can be snapped closed, so that you can easily pull out the board when the flap is opened, and all dust will be kept out when the flap is snapped shut.

An impression of slender length is achieved in this dress of caramel brown velour, with long narrow bands of self-material hanging gracefully from the waistline, the severity of the bodice broken by a hint of Persian blue, disclosed through slashes of the material. The full length sleeves and rounded neckline are in keeping with the nicest things shown this season, and the waistline is adjusted to a point just below the normal.

For a frock of this type, any of the materials in favor this season are suitable, and the design lends itself to agreeable combinations of color, such as dull orange, green or gold with brown; silver, gray or beige with blue; blue, green or red with black.

The city treasurer's report for the ten months ending October 31 was presented last night. Receipts amounted to $64,009.21, while disbursements totalled $80,647.00. Taking over the public and high schools cost the city $13,385.25, while the government grant was on $3,242.44. This, together with improvements to the fire hall and city hall together with new sidewalks has made the expenditure very great.

It is apparently impossible for the smartest Frenchwoman to give up black for daytime wear, for entering any Paris tearoom the eye meets two black costumes for every one in color, and while it is frequently furred in grey or brown and relieved by an amber hat, yet in its entirety it is black, and the brightest spots of color are given by occasional vivid bodices, for there seems to be rather a vogue this season of the contrasting bodice, Patou style, be it dress or separate blouses.

Three distinct models are foremost in new evening gowns—the medieval influence descended from Italian Renaissance, with girdle lines well over the hips, and panels that drop to the floor; the second is either hooped or cut with a circular skirt that admits of tucks or pleats; and the third is the Egyptian that calls for a scant foundation, glittering materials, and a girdle line molded to the figure.

LUX

will make light work of keeping the children nicely dressed. Linens, lawns, organdies and batistes can be made to last just as long as the dark, ugly ginghams.

It is so easy to wash the children's clothes in LUX. The thin, white, silky Lux flakes, specially made by our own exclusive process readily dissolve into a rich bubbling lather, as harmless to fine fabrics as pure water itself. Just squeeze the creamy suds through and through the little garments, rinse, squeeze out surplus water, and hang to dry. Do not wring or rub.

Lux stands supreme for washing fine clothes. It is sold only in sealed packets—dust-proof!

CAMP CHAPMAN FORGING AHEAD

Now a Hive of Industry; Buildings Increasing; Will Have Hockey Team

CAMP CHAPMAN, Kimberly, Nov. 22.—Camp Chapman is quite a hive of industry. With the weather being so mild the steel and concrete structures are being put up with great rapidity. All the huts are steam heated. Additional baths and lavatories have been installed. A new piano has arrived for the reading room and the camp can boast of a first-class orchestra. It is the intention of the camp to have a hockey team this winter second to none in the Kootenays.

Board of Trade of Creston Has a Busy Session

CRESTON, Nov. 22.—The best turnout of the year was in evidence at the November session of the board of trade on Tuesday night, with President Hayes occupying the chair.

In response to the request of the associated boards' request for resolutions to be submitted at the present session of the legislature, Messrs. Bennett, Bevan and Garland were named a committee to draft same, with instructions to memoralize particularly on the necessity of this year's public works grant containing supply to complete the transcontinental road improvements at Arrow creek and Kitchener, and another to urge immediate action in the matter of the Arrow creek irrigation project.

No resolution will be submitted as to Kootenay flats drainage, but the secretary will write the minister of lands asking Mr. Pattullo to fully advise the board as to the status of the project in view of the very considerable amount of engineering work done on it the past eighteen months.

Creston Disregarded

R. B. Staples brought up the question of Creston via the board of trade linking up with the Southern Alberta and British Columbia Tourist association, and this matter evoked a thorough discussion of the whole tourist proposition as it affects Creston. It was forcibly pointed out that in the issuing of the 1922 literature of the association Creston had been rather gratuitously discriminated against in the production of the road map that went along with the association folder, and the point was stressed that in view of the fact that no tourist camping ground is available here very little benefit was received from the tourist traffic and in view of this latter aspect of the situation little hope was held out of being able to raise the necessary $200 to get into the association by a canvass of the business men.

Annual Meeting January

By unanimous vote it was decided to have the dinner feature in connection with the annual meeting in January and the president announced that he would name the committee to handle the affair at the December meeting. On motion Messrs. Staples and Constable were asked to assist with the compilation of the expert trade statement, which is a prominent feature of the presidential valedictory at the annual session.

CRESTON NOTES

CRESTON, Nov. 22.—Mike McCarthy, who has been with C. P. R. work on the Wetaskiwin, Alta., branch all season, arrived home on Thursday for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Smith and family have moved to Yahk, where they will remain for the winter.

E. W. Payne, who has been at Sirdar for the last six weeks at carpenter construction work, is home again, having completed his contract on the new Whitesides store at that place.

Mrs. D. Macdonald and young son of Cranbrook are here at present on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cartwright.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Vance left on Monday for Spokane, where Mr. Vance is undergoing medical treatment in a hospital in that city. He still suffers acutely from the after effects of a sunstroke suffered while at work the past summer.

Bert Boffey, who has been working at Blairmore, Alta., for some months past is home for the winter.

S. Vance, who is employing eight men on a wood supply contract at the Continental mine at Klockmann, Idaho, spent a few days last week with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Doble and Miss Alice Taylor, who have been residents here for the last two years, have gone to Sand Point, Idaho, where they will reside for the present at least.

Mrs. Stace Smith, Miss Ruth and Ronald Smith left at the end of the week for Victoria, where they will remain for the winter. Mrs. Fred Taylor is also a visitor at Vancouver.

The Methodist ladies' aid are having their annual chicken and pumpkin pie supper in Speers' hall on Thursday evening, November 30.

Both the Christ church and Presbyterian ladies' aids have announced their bazaar dates. The Anglican ladies will have their sale of work, etc., on December 1, and the Presbyterians on the 12th.

Mrs. Bartiuff of Portland, Ore., is here at present on a visit to her sister, Mrs. H. Christie.

The outfits of baskets, balls, etc., have arrived and now that the exhibition main building is in shape the basketball talent is having regular workouts. A couple of fives have to been gotten together at the high school and are also working out regularly at the fall fair building.

Mrs. McLaren and children are visitors with friends in Spokane this week.

Rev. H. Varley was at Sirdar on Sunday, where he took English church service at the school house in the evening.

Minstrelsy is to be a feature of society entertainment this winter. A minstrel troupe has been organized at Canyon under the directorship of Principal Klothammer, with T. R. Lawson, secretary.

UCKET BRIGADE QUELLS FLAMES

SALMO, Nov. 21.—Fire starting from a heater while the family were absent partially destroyed the residence of W. Miller on Sunday morning.

A bucket brigade headed by A. Lawley quenched the flames before the place became a total loss. It was necessary to chop a hole in the side of the building to reach the flames that were licking their way along the rafters and bursting through the roof. Finally after a large volume of water had been poured into the house the fire was got under control.

CITY FATHERS HOLD MEETING

Consider Proposed Esplanade; Mayor Takes Up Matter at Coast

TRAIL, Nov. 22.—The city council held its regular meeting in the city hall on Monday, November 20. Alderman Dockrill was in the chair owing to the absence on business at the coast of Mayor Martin. Aldermen Bell, Johnson and Meachem were also present.

A communication was received from Waldie brothers in connection with the renewal of two insurance policies on city property for $1000 and $500, respectively. These were ordered to be renewed.

A letter was received from W. K. Esling, M. P. P., re the proposed esplanade along the waterfront. This communication was ordered filed. The question of the high water mark has some bearing on the matter, and it was stated that while at the coast the mayor would take up the question with the authorities.

A letter was received from the board of trade requesting that the council take up with the Dominion Express company certain questions relating to the delivery and pick up of goods. It was decided that the council would try to have definite hours set for the collection of packages, etc., which they will publish together with the free area of delivery and collection.

The report of the finance committee was accepted and the following accounts ordered paid: City treasurer, $75.47; school board (J. Buckna), $50; Clarke & Stewart, $3.33; C. J. Miles, $3.25; Quich Wood Yard, $40; payroll No. 38, $462; city relief, $26; Nelson Iron Works, $15.13; Imperial Oil company, $78.37.

The fire, water and light committees' recommendation that the water rate on the Columbus hall be allowed to remain as at present was accepted.

The city superintendent and city engineer advised that lots 1 to 10, block 56, originally procured for a school site, be offered for sale as a whole and not subdivided.

The city superintendent was instructed to supply T. Dawson with the necessary lumber for the flume by his property, provided that Mr. Dawson does the work under the supervision of the superintendent.

The city engineer was requested to survey lot 4, block 6, map 465.

The corporation of the city of Trail local improvement cement sidewalk construction debenture bylaw received its third reading and was adopted, with the attention that the wording in regard to payment of debentures in the United States of America be omitted.

Hear Address on Social Hygiene

CRESTON, Nov. 22.—There was quite a good turnout at the November meeting of Creston Valley Women's institute at the parish hall on Friday afternoon, at which the feature was the address on "Social Hygiene" by Rev. Mr. Archbold of Victoria, whose talk came early in the session in order to permit of his departure on the westbound train.

Resolutions in connection with the oriental question and also one on the proposed ferry at Harry were introduced and adopted by the meeting, whilst the treasurer reported that the Armistice eve whist drive and dance had netted the institute almost $35. The directors exposed for sale a number of hand-worked and embroidered shopping bags, several of which found ready sale.

MISSIONARY LEAVES SLOCAN FOR YMIR

SLOCAN CITY, Nov. 22.—D. S. Scott the Presbyterian missionary who has had charge of the mission here for the past two years, left on Friday to resume his new charge at Ymir. Mr. Scott, during his sojourn here made numerous friends both in and out of the church, and his many friends will always remember his untiring efforts both in church and Sunday school work. Mr. and Mrs. Scott both took a great interest in the younger people.

KASLO NOTES

KASLO, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Dr. Barclay and Mrs. E. Hasking were hostesses at the tea hour on Saturday afternoon.

THE COUGHS AND COLDS OF CHILDREN

Only the mother knows how hard it is to keep the children from taking cold, they will get overheated and cool off too suddenly, get their feet wet, kick off the clothes at night, and do a dozen and one things the mother can't prevent.

A great many mothers are now giving their children

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

It is pleasant and nice for them to take and relieves the cough or cold in a very short time.

Mrs. J. Wilson, Portage La Prairie, Man., Writes:—"I have used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for my five children. My little girl, two years old, had a very bad cold last Winter, which I thought was croup. I had some "Dr. Wood's" in the house so gave it to her and she was fine the next day; also my baby, three months old, had a bad cold and I gave it to him. It cuts and brings up the phlegm, and is the best cough medicine I ever used."

Price 35c and 60c a bottle; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

NOT SO PRIM AS PICTURED

National Heroes Normal; Washington Had Keen Eye for Pretty Girl

In families that possess skeletons it is customary and desirable that the children when they come to a certain age should be informed of their existence, so that they can join the rest of the domestic group in perpetuating a delusion or refuting a calumny. It is the same with nations. The United States is, relatively speaking, a young nation, but has now reached the age, in the opinion of some of its historians, at which it can safely be told certain truths about its founders. It is no longer necessary that George Washington should be represented as a sort of American Francis of Assisi. He can be viewed not as a demigod, but as a very human sort of chap who on one occasion, according to a contemporary historian, "swore like an angel from heaven," who had a fondness for race horses and game cocks and sound wine, and an appreciative eye for a pretty girl no matter whether she happened to be black, brown or white.

An Illusion Dispelled

There have been several historians recently who have been digging into the private lives of the Fathers of the American Constitution, and have presented the results of their research to the American public. Speaking generally, the effect has been much like that which a father and mother might contrive if on their daughter's twenty-first birthday they gently confided the fact to her that through some oversight they had neglected to get married, and that each of them had another mate living. Incredulity has been followed by horror and horror by rage and indignation that the beautiful illusions should be destroyed. Some Americans have steadfastly refused to believe what they have been told. Some have contended that it was propaganda, probably of British origin. Others have found some satisfaction in reflecting that, mediocrities though they are, they yet never committed some of the excesses attributed to men whom they had been taught to reverence.

Human Beings Only

A wiser view is expressed by Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, one of the kindliest and most tolerant of American historians. He thinks it is a good thing for the American, or any other people, to learn that their ancestors were not precisely steel engravings, that they were human beings like the rest of us, subject to the same weaknesses and temptations, but that what made them illustrious was their ability to resist, and if they fell to rise again, and despite many shortcomings accomplish something great and permanent in human history. It is not necessary, it is not indeed wise, for Americans to suppose that the men who were responsible for the independence of the American colonies were unanimously heroes. Some of them entered the campaign for independence from the basest motives. Some of the greatest of them, like Patrick Henry and Samuel Adams, resisted the Federal Constitution as long as they could. When the movement for independence began, the Tories were quite as good citizens as the republicans.

The War of Independence

In the War of Independence many prominent Americans were lukewarm, and at heart were rather hopeful that the revolution should become a rebellion. When they saw on whose banners victory was likely to perch, they rallied to that banner and so won much temporary benefit and post mortem fame. They played politics then as adroitly as their descendants play politics today, and perhaps nothing would astonish them more than the knowledge that the ward heelers and bosses of a hundred and fifty years ago have, in the course of time, been enshrined as holy statesmen and patriots. Nevetheless, Prof. Hart says that the view sometimes put forward that the American Constitution was made by a body of landowners, manufacturers, merchants, bond holders, ship builders, slave owning planters and so forth, who fixed the text so that they might be able to collect their bonds in full, falls to pieces of its own weight.

Constitution Lacking Originality

Nevertheless, the intelligent American should be told that the Declaration of Independenece and the Constitution of the United States are documents and exactly comparable to the tables of stone that Moses brought down from Mount Sinai. Some flatterer has spoken of the former as the greatest feat of the human intellect on record, a view which, we presume, is not now universally held. As for the Constitution, as Prof Hart explains, it was devoid of originality except in the matter of electing a president, for a direct precedent for every other part of it may be found, and even the machinery for electing the president has worked successfully because the people have disregarded the reasons for which it was created. The mob elects the presidents, whereas the purpose of the Constitution was to have the wisest men of the nation elect him. Probably the mob has made as good a job of the task as the elect would have made.

Novel Way to Gain Freedom

Hunger-striking as a means to escaping a sentence is not unusual, but for a man to eat himself out of jail is a novelty.

This, and other queer happenings, occurred in the administration of the law in such out-of-the-way corners at New Guinea, remarks a correspondent of the London Daily Mail.

The man who ate himself out of jail was charged before a resident magistrate in an outlying district with "blackbirding" (illegal recruiting of labor). The magistrate imposed a fine, in default of imprisonment, and was dismayed when the prisoner declined to pay, and announced his intention of serving the sentence.

Jails were far away and there was no means of transit.

"Look here," pleaded the R. M., "be a good chap and pay up. It'll be most awkward if you don't."

But the prisoner grinned and was obdurate.

The magistrate was on a tour of his territory and could not linger, so he was forced to transform his cutter into a temporary jail and take his prisoner with him. He soon discovered that his compulsory guest had an inordinate appetite, and as a result his meager stock of provisions was being depleted and in danger of extinction. Faced with the prospect of starvation himself, his justice became tempered with mercy.

At the end of a week, having taken stock of his provisions, he gave the prisoner back his freedom.

A prisoner convicted of selling liquor to the natives was fined £20, in default a month. He asserted his innocence and as a protest decided to go to jail, althought it was pointed out to him that the jail was "no place for a white man."

He found this was the case and complained fo his accommodation. A new hut was *built for him. He com*plained of his food. On giving his parole he was allowed to eat at the hotel.

One evening he discovered a number of officials within hearing of him as he ate, and proceeded to express his views of the administration generally. A message was sent to the jail and the warder who was then in charge sent a native dwon to bring him back. The prisoner was highly incensed at this slight and chased the Papuan home to bring his master.

The head warder duly arrived, and after a few friendly toasts at the bar the jailer and jailed rolled home together, arm in arm.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids.

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast; continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia water drink, which often quickly relieves bladder irritation.

SAYS RED PEPPER HEAT STOPS PAIN IN FEW MINUTES

Rheumatism, lumbago, neuritis, backache, stiff neck, sore muscles, strains, sprains, aching joints. When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into pain and congestion relief comes at once.

Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the sore spot is warmed through and through and the torture is gone.

Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, costs little at any drug store. Get a jar at once. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on every package.

Speaks Highly of This Home Made Cough Remedy

Says It Acts With Unusual Speed—Loosens the Mucus—Relieves the Irritation and Stops the Cough.

Costs Next to Nothing—for a Big Supply

Whenever anyone in my family catches cold and begins to cough and sneeze, and hawk and breathe heavily, I doesn't take me many minutes to fix up a remedy that will drive away all such troubles in double quick time.

It's no secret—anyone can make a half pint of the finest cough medicine in the world for a trifling sum.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint— that's all there is to it.

But now you've got a real medicine—mind you—the first spoonful you take acts directly on the membrane of the throat and nose, the tickling ceases almost instantly—the inflammation begins to disappear—up comes the stubborn mucus and often in 24 hours every trace of the cough that frightened you is gone.

It's really remarkable how this home made remedy acts on the mucus membrane and that is one reason it is so helpful to thousands of Catarrh sufferers.

REMARKABLE LETTER

Canadian Woman Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Manitoba.—"I can not speak too highly of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was a nervous wreck and I just had to force myself to do my work. Life was a misery and work was a burden. Even the sound of my own children playing made me feel as if I must scream if they did not get away from me. I could not even speak right to my husband. The doctor said that he could do nothing for me owing to my condition, but told me to expect another miscarriage. My husband's grandmother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I started it right away and everyone noticed what a different woman I was in a short time. I went and engaged my doctor and he did not know me, I was so well. I was able to do my work once more and it was a pleasure, not a burden. Now I have a 'fine bouncing baby' to use the doctor's own words. I am able to nurse her and enjoy doing my work. I can not help recommending such a medicine, and anyone seeing me before I took it and seeing me now, can see what it does or me. What it has done for me it can do for anyone in the same condition. I am only too pleased for you to use my testimonial."—MRS. EMILY DAVIS, 21 McGee St., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Simply Thinking of Capital Levy Costs Swiss Dear

GENEVA, Nov. 24.—(By Associated Press.)—Although the Swiss proposal to impose a levy on the capital of the republic has little chance of becoming a law, the mere thought of it has already cost the country $250,000,000, and has dealt a serious blow to its financial and industrial system, according to trustworthy information available here.

The scheme was proposed by the Radical Socialists in the national assembly, but it will be put to a vote of the people early in December. The levy proposed is:

Fortunes of $10,000, levy of 8 per cent; $120,000, 20 per cent; $660,000, 56 per cent; over $500,000, 60 per cent.

The national credit also has suffered from the news of the referendum. Following the armistice, and until a few weeks ago, Swiss securities were the highest on the European market. During the last three weeks their value has dropped from 20 to 40 per cent, and this is estimated to have cost the Swiss $250,000,000.

Capitalists are even now sending their money from the country at the rate of $20,000,000 a week, and already more than $400,000,000 has taken flight. The bulk of the money is going to the United States. All of the ready cash in the country is being hoarded. Trade is suffering, and merchants are adopting a conservative policy in the matter of buying.

Harding Nominates Pierce Butler as Associate Justice

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Pierce Butler of St. Paul, Minn., who two years ago acted as counsel for the Canadian government in the taking over of the Grand Trunk railway property, was nominated today by President Harding as associate justice of the supreme court.

Mr. Butler was recently retained by the city of Toronto to handle its case in fixing the valuation of its traction system.

Troops to Terminate Republican Military Control of Newport

LONDON, Nov. 23.—General Lalor and Brigadier-General Symons at the head of 500 Free State troops are expected to reach Newport, county Mayo, tonight, says the Dublin correspondent of the Star, for the purpose of terminating the Republican military rule of the town. The Free State column includes a large train of field guns, machine guns, armored cars and a company of cavalry.

GOING ONE BETTER THAN JULES VERNE

No trip around the world in history or fiction is more familiar than that of Jules Vernes hero, Phineas Fogg. By traveling at breakneck speed the circuit of the globe was made, as all the world knows, in just 80 days, and not so much as a second to spare. A pleasure cruise is to be made around the world soon which, by a curious chance, will require a trifle less than 80 days of actual sailing time. The distance covered will be considerably longer than that of the famous journey of Verne's hero.

Verne made several errors in the schedule he laid down for Phineas Fogg. With all the improvement in travel by train and steamer, it is still impossible to equal the time made by Fogg in several stages of his journey. Verne's conception of America, which doubtless reflected a common opinion in France at the time, today furnishes amusing reading.

Evidently Verne neglected to consult the time tables of his day. According to his schedule for the world trip, Fogg would have missed several connections and inevitably lost his bet. The steamer he took from Suez to Bombay, for instance, was supposed to have made the trip in 13 days, which was quite impossible, since even today it can done with good luck only in 14 days. The average is longer, certainly it was much longer in Verne's time.

Fogg's trip overland across India from Bombay to Calcutta could scarcely be equaled with the aid of the best modern trains, allowing for his stopover privileges. He made the trip in three days, and it is now done in 36 hours, but the railroad was not then completed, and part of the trip was made by elephant, with a stop-off for various thrilling adventures.

The heros steamer trip from Calcutta to Hongkong took but 13 days, and at present the fastest steamers require 16 days. He crossed from Hongkong to Yokohama in six days, but would have trouble doing that today.

Although Fogg covered some of the distance at an impossible speed, even for our own time, the journey may now be made much faster by the same route. Granting good luck in connections, the trip would be possible now in 70 days, although there would be no margin for wild animal hunts and other adventures.

It is interesting to compare Fogg's famous journey with the schedule of the first cruise to be made around the world through the Panama canal this year by the steamship Laconia. Although several days are lost between New York and San Francisco by taking the canal route, there is a gain of four days in actual sailing time across the Pacific ocean. In sailing to the west, a day is lost, whereas Fogg gained a day by sailing east.

It is amazing to find that Verne, who was doubtless well informed as to conditions in many countries, displayed such ignorance of America. When Fogg stepped from the steamer at San Francisco, his feet at once passed through the rotten planking of the wharf. The train across the continent was attacked by savage Indians. When a bridge was encountered which threatened to fall at any moment, the train was backed up for several miles to obtain a blind start, and the bridge was crossed at top speed, just as it fell into the ravine below. However absurd Verne's picture of an American election may be, his humor is still enjoyed. Fogg watched a mob in violent action with much shooting and stabbing and, on questioning a bystander, learned that an election was in progress. He concluded that some vital question must be at issue, and asked who was being elected.

"They are electing a justice of the peace," explained the American.

Honor Musician

DR. RICHARD RUNCIMAN TERRY

Famous in English musical world, who is one of the now knights on Lloyd George's honor list.

A Chicago man declares that practically all the troubles of married life may be traced to a lack of a saving sense of humor on the part of one or both, and that above all other requirements for matrimonial aspirants should be a fine sense of humor, for though this would perhaps reduce the number of marriages 90 per cent, it would ensure future generations three things: health, common sense and happiness.

Science Destroys Cherished Illusion Anent Gulf Stream

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(By Associated Press.)—Science has come forward recently to destroy another of man's long cherished illusions, but at the same time it has removed a source of constant anxiety to those who would attempt to understand the causes of climatic conditions.

M. Danois, the well-known hydrologist, who has made a special study of the waters of the Atlantic, has declared that the temperate climate of the British Isles and the northern coast of France does not depent on the gulf stream, and that its diversion would not therefore leave this section of the world in the grip of an arctic winter. M. Danois claims to have proved that the gulf stream, rising to the north of the Antilles, does not pass the Sargasso sea, and the notion must be discarded that it traverses the Atlantic to bathe the shores of England and France.

He expresses the view that the gulf stream is merely the backwash of the equatorial waters, which translate themselves into permeations of the more lightly salted arctic and continental waters. It is these permeations in the eastern Atlantic which have been mistaken for branches of the gulf stream. They are, however, purely local currents and vary according to the season.

Terrible Headaches And Dizziness

Miss S. Raphael, 237 Kenilworth Ave., N., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I used to suffer from terrible headaches and dizziness. Last Summer, while I was walking up a side street, I got a dizzy spell and fell in the middle of the road. An old gentleman helped me to get where I was going and told me to get a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. Well, I did, and they did wonders for me. I don't know how to thank you, as I don't get headaches or dizzy spells any more."

When your liver gets sluggish and inactive your whole health suffers, and the only way to keep well is to keep the liver active and performing its proper functions by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

Price 25c a vial at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

HOW WRONG SHAVING BRINGS THE LINES OF AGE TO MEN'S FACES

Only 38—yet looks every day of 50

When you feel a sensation in shaving—beware. It's a danger signal. It means the roots of your beard are being irritated by pulling, and that a rough skin is on the way.

The deep lines of age, furrows, and wrinkles closely follow. Any skin specialist will tell you so.

Not vanity—but good business

This is not an appeal to vanity, but to good business.

In this day, no man past 30 can afford to look older than he is. For commercially, youth, not age, is being sought.

Yet leading dermatologists tell us that three men in four, between 30 and 40, look years older than they are, because of wrong shaving methods.

Note the men you meet—anywhere. Some look old before their time. Others seem to hold the secret of youth.

Ninety per cent of it is in how they shave. Scores of wealthy men have private barbers for that reason.

2 years of wrong shaving will add 10 years to your looks. One month of correct shaving will take years away. These are scientific facts, vouched for by foremost authorities on the skin.

For youth—a keen blade

You should be able to shave clean—if your beard is average—by going over your face one time. Note this fact and mark it.

And you can't accomplish that with anything short of a super-keen blade. Ordinary sharpness won't do it.

For that reason many of the most noted skin specialists are advising men to turn to the Valet AutoStrop Razor. A barber's edge—the keenest cutting edge known—on a safety razor blade.

We talk about it in terms of time, "78 Seconds from Lather to Towel," because you can't shave quick with a dull blade.

Sharpens itself

We recommend your using our famous strop for the same reason a barber strops his razor. It keeps up the keenness. It works as a part of each razor—there if you care to use it, or, if you choose, you can just insert new blades as you feel the need. Self-stropping is a patented Valet AutoStrop feature. It helps to give you the world's fastest shave every day.

Try one. It will prove a revelation.

To shave right, you must shave quick. Once over the face, no oftener.

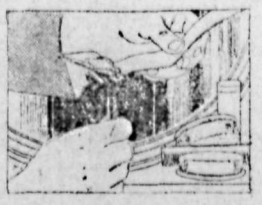
So we've processed a barber's edge blade—the keenest known—to help men do it.

The world's fastest shave!

78 seconds from lather to towel

$1.00 or $5.00

Valet AutoStrop Razor comes in two styles, $1 and $5. The difference in price is marked by the superlative finish, the better case and the greater number of blades. The 78-second shave, you find in either one you choose. Gold plated and sterling silver fitted sets—ideal for gifts—are priced up to $25.



"Strops its own blades"—Shaves, cleans, strops without removing the blade.

Railroad Shares Are Targets for Bear Operations

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Further liquidation of stocks took place in today's session of the stock market, short selling, especially in the railroad shares, accelerating the downward movement. Declines in active issues ranged from 1 to 3 points.

Public buying support was again lacking. Short coverings, influenced by the lower call money rate, largely accounted for the moderate rebound in the final dealings.

Strength of American Sugar, which rose 3½ points, was one of the bright spots in the industrial list, buying being favorably influenced by another increase in the price of the refined product, bringing it to the high level of the year. Studebaker, which got down below 122, led the afternoon recovery, closing at a net gain of ¾.

Call money opened at 5 per cent, eased off to 4½ during the noon and then to 5, where it closed.

Total sales, 952,000 shares.

Montreal List

MONTREAL, Nov. 23.—Trading in listed shares on the stock exchange today proved again dull with a softer tone prevailing. The papers showed increased activity and a firmer tendency. The textiles were once more the strong spot in the market. The greatest advance was by Ogilvie, which gained a further 9 points to a new high of 274. The greatest loss was in Lyall, which sagged 9 points to 40.

Abitibi led in activity and was up ¾ to 63. Brompton was down a point at 34. Howard Smith preferred was off a point to 39; Price Brothers was 1 up, to 44, and Spanish common was up ½, to 90½.

In the textiles Converters was off 1 to 92.

Montreal Cottons struck a new high with a 2½ point gain to 94, and Penman's advanced 1 to the new high of 132. British Empire Steel first preferred was off ¼, to 67½ and the second preferred was off 1, to 27. Steel of Canada fell off ½, to 59½. Other losses took in Asbestos, off ½; Brazilian, off ¼, and Canadian Car preferred, off 1½.

Bonds were light, with a fairly firm tone prevailing.

Wheat Market Closes Heavy

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Wheat had a general downward drift in price today, largely as a result of fine weather and slowness of export demand.

The close was heavy, ¼c to 1c net decline, with May $1.16¼ to $1.16⅜ and July $1.07⅝.

Corn finished unchanged to ½c lower; oats unchanged to ⅜c off, and provisions varied from a setback of 30c to 2c advance.

Close Voting on Ship Subsidy Bill; Opponents Hopeful

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Polls of the house made today by opponents of the ship subsidy bill today showed a close situation. Opponents of the administration said the administration did not have over 20 votes to spare and might lose that margin by absentees. The opposition said it had by no means given up hope of beating the bill in the house.

WILL NOT BE CHEATED OF ROMANCE

CANADIAN COUPLE ELOPE

James M. McDaugall and Kathlyn O'Connor were not to be cheated of their romance. He is the son of an Aylmer judge—she the daughter of "That Man" O'Connor, the eminent K. C. of Ottawa. They slipped away to Washington to be married because there was parental opposition to their marrying because of their youth. Mr. O'Connor heard of it and set out in hot pursuit—only to arrive in time to see the ceremony. Then he made the best of it, dined with the happy couple, and it is to be presumed, gave them his blessing. He went home and they remained on their honeymoon in Washington, from which city this photo came. The pair look happy.

Sporting Circles Talk Matching Carpentier Against Joe Beckett

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Georges Carpentier, still suffering from bad hands, is unable as yet to resume training, but there is much talk in sporting circles of a match between Carpentier and Joe Beckett of England, as well as a deal of speculation as to whether Georges will enter the competition officially opened by the boxing federation for the light heavyweight title made vacant by the disqualification of Siki, conqueror of Carpentier. Neither Carpentier nor his manager, Deschamps, however, are ready to say what their plans for the future are.

A curious effect of the announcement of the competition is an apparent reaction in favor of Siki.

Sports Writer Says Big Fast Argos Will Beat Smaller Queens

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—The Toronto Star sporting writer has the following in his paper.

Argos are confident of beating Queens Saturday and retaining their Dominion honors.

Argonauts have a big physical advantage on Queens. They outweigh the Presbyterians 14 pounds to the man and the average age is the same. They are big and fast and big fast men should defeat medium fast men. Queens average 156 pounds to the man; Argonauts average 170 pounds. Queens' heaviest man is McKeivy, 187 pounds. Argonauts have Stirrett, 193; Conach 198; Roper 201, Wilson 190 and Ogden 194 pounds, all over that eight. Queens haven't a faster man on their team than Conacher.

HOCKEY FOR LADIES; OUTLOOK PROMISING

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—The proposed Ontario ladies' hockey association seems more assured every day, as Secretary Smith of the Toronto Hockey league, who is looking after the organization work, is besieged with inquiries from teams from all parts of the province wishing to enter.

ANNUAL SUPPER OF BALL TEAMS IS A SUCCESS

Cup and Pennant Is Presented to Fairview Junior Ball Team; Elect Officers

Over 100 baseball players, both junior and senior, and fans, sat down to the annual baseball supper held last night in the Methodist church. Among the pleasing features of the evening was the presentation of the pennant given by Mrs. J. Ryan, and of the Spalding Cup donated by the Spalding people, through the Wood-Vallance Hardware Co., to the Fairview ball nine, winners of the junior league for this year.

C. M. Young, on behalf of the executive of the junior league teams, presented the pennant to Crawford Young, the Fairview team's captain. "I take great pleasure in presenting to the team, this pennant, for winning the junior baseball championship for 1922," said Mr. Young. "I am proud of the boys of that end of the town." Crawford Young, who replied for the Fairview team, thanked Mrs. Ryan and those who helped, for the pennant, and also thanked Mr. Ryan for the trouble, or pleasure, he had in coaching the teams which had come to a high standard. "I hope he will do the same next year," said the Fairview captain, "as he has been a great aid to baseball." The singing of "She's a jolly good fellow," and three cheers for Mr. Ryan followed. Mr. Young then presented the Spalding cup donated through the Wood-Vallance company.

Eat and Sing

Sharp at 6 o'clock the seats around the tables were all occupied and a hearty repast was indulged in, following which community singing was the order. "There's a Long, Long Trail," "Peggy O'Neil," and "Old Black Joe," were sung by the assembly, while Mayor C. F. McHardy, Alderman L. H. Choquette and George Ferguson lead the singing of "Allouette" and "Rotary Anne."

Rev. J. P. Westman, who occupied the chair in the absence of M. Pemberton, thanked the boys, men and women for turning out to the dinner. Representatives of the city, the board of trade, hospital board, The Daily News, baseball, lacrosse, football and hockey teams were also welcomed by the chairman.

Better Season Than Usual

J. H. Long, the secretary of the senior baseball team, took the floor and reported that the past season had been better than usual, the expenses had been cut down, and as good a standard of ball as was possible had been produced. Trail had won out in the home and home series by one game, Kaslo had won two games from the locals as had Creston one. In closing he attributed the success of the season to Jack Ryan the local booster.

Alderman Choquette, the treasurer of the team, in his financial report showed that in the past season the team had made money. At the beginning of the season a responsibility of $242.91 had been assumed. The receipts to the end of the season amounted to $612.10 while the expenses were $669.23. The equipment now in hand was stated to consist of a complete catcher's outfit, 12 baseballs, 9 bats, four bases and 11 uniforms.

Need a Governing Body

"It is necessary to have sport in order to have a live town," stated Mayor McHardy, "and clean sports need live men at the head of them. The older players should lead the boys," said the Mayor. "I hope sport is fostering Nelson on an up grade, and my greatest hope is that next year's mayor is an all around sport. The only proper way to run sports is by a central committee," he continued, "we tried it this year but fell down, but we must keep on trying, as did Westminster, the lacrosse champions of the world."

Wants Cleanup This Year

George Ferguson spoke of his love for the game of hockey. "I like it better than any game there is," he stated. "We are all Nelson now and their is no Fairview," he said, "and we must cooperate in all lines of sport. The Cubs carried off the championship of British Columbia last year, and I would like to see a cleanup this year."

Speaking on behalf of the Lacrosse club, W. A. Curran stated that the club was not free of debt. "We had a real good year, with lots of tights, but what we lack in the city," he stated, "is a central sports organization such as runs Trail's athletics. Nelson has the goods, and we should boost these things, and now is the time to start in on the hockey teams which should be boosted this winter."

"Football has been very popular this year," stated Harry Bolton, who spoke in the absence of A. Wallach, "the season both in the senior and junior leagues was a success financially. Next year we will have better teams, and hope to reverse the decision over Trail, as we can bring back the cup."

"Next year the old-timers will have a ball team at the start of the season," said F. J. Boles, when called upon in behalf of the old-timers. "We certainly derived a lot of sport from it this year," he said, "only we started a little late." E. L. Buchanan and Mrs. J. Ryan were called upon but did not respond.

Generalissimo of Junior League

In calling upon Jack Ryan, Rev. Westman stated that he was the generalissimo of the junior league, and had had a lot to do with carrying the green and white to victory. "It is gratifying to see so many taking an interest in the first annual baseball meeting held in the city," said Mr. Ryan. "We have much material in the city for all lines of sport. The junior ball teams when organized two years ago were a joke, they are no joke today, and will be no joke next year," he stated. A good brand of ball had been played in the junior league and in the whole 30 games played only one had been defaulted by failure of a team to turn up. Mr. Ryan, in closing, called upon Mr. Young to present the pennant and cup to the Fairview team, winners of this season's league.

Officers Elected

Officers elected for the coming year were: President, Roy Sharpe; vice-presidents, J. H. Long and J. A. Irving; secretary, J. P. Westman; treasurer, Alderman L. H. Choquette. An executive committee composed of E. C. Hunt, E. Kerby, J. Ryan, Mayor C. F. McHardy, W. Shackleton and George Ferguson, was chosen. Roy Sharpe, in taking the chair, stated that the juniors in the season to come should remember their school first, before baseball. He urged them to take Christy Matheson, the school boy ball player, for their idea. "What we want is more Mathesons and fewer Babe Ruths," he said. A vote of thanks was extended to the ladies for the dainty repast and was appropriately replied to by Mrs. F. Oakley.

Favor Professional Coaches to Instruct Athletic Amateurs

WINNIPEG, Nov. 23.—A resolution favoring professional coaches for amateur teams was adopted tonight at a meeting of the Manitoba branch of the Amateur Athletic union of Canada. It was felt that amateurs should receive the best coaching and information possible in order to make strides in various sports.

The meeting also went on record as urging that the hockey finals in the Olympic games be arranged so that Canadian teams may be able to participate, as the proposed month of January, 1924, was entirely unsuitable.

To Amend Constitution

Many delegates to the annual meeting of the Canadian body at Montreal next month will be instructed to support a proposed amendment to the constitution that the annual meeting of the A.A.U. elect officers instead of governors, and a clause proposing that officers of branches and their affiliated members must be amateurs. They will also support an amendment proposing that at least two weeks must elapse between branch and national championships in the same sport. The delegates will have an open mind on other proposed amendments.

Vancouver and Seattle Each Lose a Player

VANCOUVER, Nov. 23.—Seattle and Vancouver teams in the Pacific Coast Hockey league will each face their next two or three games without one of their stalwarts in the lineup. Art Duncan wrenched his shoulder in last night's game with Seattle and will be missing from Vancouver's forward line. Rickey, of Seattle, strained a ligament in his foot and has been ordered to rest for a week.

ST. PAUL'S MEN HEAR DR. CLARK

Moderator Tells of Pitfalls to Be Avoided and Things to Be Dwelt On

Seventy men, chiefly members of the men's association of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, attended the supper at St. Paul's church last evening, in honor of Rev. W. J. Clark, D. D., moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly. Rev. James Barr Stirling, pastor of St. Paul's, was in the chair, and other guests were Ven. Archdeacon Graham, Rev. N. Larmonth and Rev. J. E. Tyner.

During the disposal of the supper, which was provided by the ladies of Mrs. H. MacKenzies circle, the young people's orchestra of St. Paul's, composed of J. Laughton, W. M. MacIntosh, W. Blanchard, T. McDonald, Miss Charlotte Notman and Miss Maude Simons, played selections.

Dr. Clark gave a 15-minute talk of an inspirational nature, dealing with things to be avoided, and things to be emphasized, if the church's work was to be carried on successfully.

Among the weakneses to be avoided were the entertaining of vain regrets, and the taking of one's self too seriously. It was no one person's job to carry the world on his shoulders, Dr. Clark said. Among the things to be emphasized was having a firm faith in God's benevolent purpose.

LIBERALS HAVE RECONCILIATION SCHEMES AFOOT

Lloyd Georgians and Asquithians Contemplate Reconciliation and Reunion

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(By Associated Press).—A movement is afoot in both camps fo ra reunion of the Asquithian and Lloyd George Liberals, according to the parliamentary correspondent of the Times, who asserts that Lloyd George introduced the subject at a meeting of his supporters, giving them to understand that he was willing to take the first step toward such reunion if assured that his approach would not be rebuffed.

The subject was also mentioned in a meeting of the Asquithian Liberals where, however, the opinion seemed to be that a reunion was not yet a practicable policy.

Suggest Select Committee

As the first move toward reconciliation, according to the correspondent, the Lloyd George Liberals have decided upon an amendment to the address, urging the appointment of a select committee of both houses to investigate the administration of the Safeguarding of Industries act and make recommendations. This amendment will be moved by Sir Alfred Mond, who was minister of health in the Lloyd George cabinet, and points clearly in the direction of free trade and modification, if not the repeal of the act, which the Georgian Liberals themselves assisted to pass.

Marie Lohr is to open in London this week in Alfred Sutro's new play, "The Laughing Lady," and Godfrey Tearle will be her leading man.

TRAFFIC CHIEF IS TRANSFERRED

Telephone Staff and Friends Farewell Miss Mabey—Miss Simmons Successor

Miss Ella Mabey, who has been district traffic chief of the British Columbia Telephone company for the last six months, and who is to leave Sunday for Vancouver, where she has been transferred to the Seymour office, was the guest of honor at a farewell party last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. Gledhill Johnson, Park street. Miss Mabey is being succeeded by Miss Viola Simmons, who has been transferred here from the coast, and who has been shown over the district the past week.

Apart from the social aspect, the feature of the evening was the presentation to Miss Mabey by W. M. Skilling, commercial representative, on behalf of the commercial and traffic department, of a cut glass vase. Other tokens of remembrance were bon bon dishes and a calendar of entertainment, the latter from Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Bedford.

The jolly party broke up at a late hour. Among those present were R. B. Bennett of Vancouver, editor of Telephone Talk; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Durham, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Bedford, Mr. and Mrs. I. Allege Lurid Press Stories Have Origin From Downing Street

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(By Canadian Press Cable).—Although there has bee nsome attempt to criticize Premier Bonar Law for refusing a personal interview to the hikers now assembled in London, even the critics are forced to admit that the premier's action was strictly constitutional and well advised. One of the chief complaints against Lloyd George's method of conducting business was his frequent readiness to take things into his own hands.

Premier Bonar Law, however, while he is supported in his action of rejecting the late premier's methods, is criticized because he apparently is willing to maintain the system of communication to the press which likewise grew up under Lloyd eGorge. The system consists of summoning newspapermen to Downing street and giving them information which the government honestly believes the public should have, but which, nevertheless, is distributed with the express proviso that it must not be published as coming from a government quarter.

It is asserted that most intelligent readers divine the voice of Downing street, even if newspaper attempts are made to stifle its accent.
